Punjab Assembly rejects Centre's farm laws, clears own with MSP benchmark

If Governor does not give assent, will seek legal recourse, says Amarinder

CHANDIGARH, OCTOBER 20

STRIKING DOWN key provisions of the Centre's new farm laws, and barring the sale and purchase of wheat or paddy below the MSP, almost all political parties in the Punjab Assembly cut across party lines Tuesday to pass four new state farm Bills, including three amendment Bills, to counter the central laws cleared last month.

Except for the two BJP MLAs — Arun Sood from Fazilka and EXPLAINED What the Bills really mean

APART FROM the Governor, the Punjab government's new farm Bills need the assent of the President since they seek to amend laws passed by the central government. If not, they can at best serve as a symbolic political statement against the Centre's farm laws.

AS THE Punjab Assembly passed Bills to counter the central government's farm laws, Congress-ruled Chhattisgarh's plan to follow suit ran into rough weather with Governor Anusuiya Uikkey questioning the state government's proposal to convene a special House session in October-end.

A third Congress-ruled state, Rajasthan, is also planning to convene an Assembly session to pass a legislation to nullify the farm laws. "We will convene the Assembly soon," Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot told The Indian Express. Later, the Covid not gone, can't be careless, cautions PM as festival season begins

CAUTIONING THE nation that while the lockdown is over, the coronavirus is still there, Prime Minister Narendra Modi asked the people not to be careless and lower their guard during the festival season.

The battle against Covid-19 would not be over and successful until a vaccine was found, the Prime Minister said.

"In this festive season, the markets are bright again but we should not forget that the lockdown might have ended but Covid-19 still persists," Modi said in a 12-minute address to the nation on Tuesday evening.

"With the efforts of every Indian over the last 7-8 months, India is in a stable situation, and we must not let it deteriorate. We should improve it further," he said.

The Prime Minister spoke in the backdrop of repeated warnings by experts that with nearly all activities having returned to normal, the festival season may result in a surge of infections.

This was Modi's seventh address to the nation since the outbreak of the pandemic. Since June, India has gradually lifted the curbs that were imposed with the lockdown in March.

Every Indian has struggled during the pandemic, the Prime Minister said, but the economic situation has now begun to slowly improve.

SEVERAL IDs apart from the unique digital health ID under the National Digital Health Mission (NDHM) would be prescribed for the Covid-19 vaccination drive expected next year, the government said on Tuesday.

Dr Balram Bhargava, director general of the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), said that experimental convalescent plasma therapy was likely to be removed from the national clinical management protocol for the disease, based on evidence that has emerged from the world's largest clinical trial, which was conducted in India.

Twist in TRP case: UP Police file own FIR; case with CBI

Central agency enters picture as Republic tells HC to take case away from 'biased' Mumbai Police

DEEPTIMAN TIWARY & OMKAR GOKHALE
NEW DELHI, MUMBAI, OCT 20

EVEN AS the Bombay High Court is hearing a petition by Republic TV against Mumbai Police for lodging an FIR against the channel for allegedly fudging TRPs, police in Uttar Pradesh have registered a similar FIR against "unknown" channels and persons.

On Tuesday, the Centre transferred the UP case to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI), which promptly registered an FIR. Sources in the Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT), which has administrative control over CBI, said that after registration of the FIR by UP Police on October 17, the state government sent a request to the Centre for the case to be handed over to CBI. "The notification has been issued today by the Ministry for takeover of the case," a Ministry official said.

A CBI official said, "The FIR has been registered. It is against unknown people and is a reproduction of the FIR registered by UP Police."

UP Police registered the FIR at Lucknow's Hazratganj police station based on a complaint from one Kamal Sharma, who claims to run a media and advertising business called Golden Rabbit Communications.

In his complaint, which is part of the FIR, Sharma has alleged, "I have reliable information that certain unknown accused have in furtherance of a common intention, entered into a criminal conspiracy to cheat/attempt to cheat and also to commit the offence of criminal breach of trust, forgery and in the process gain wrongfully by manipulating Television Rating Points, commonly referred to as TRPs."

The FIR does not mention any accused, making it an "open" FIR, which means every TV channel

Rahul pulls up Nath for comment on minister, she says insulted all women

BHOPAL, NEW DELHI, OCT 20

SENIOR CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday disapproved of party colleague Kamal Nath's remarks against BJP leader Imarti Devi, saying he did not appreciate the use of such language and that it was "unfortunate".

Nath, however, stuck to his guns and, in fact, said Gandhi's remarks were "his views".

On Sunday, while campaigning for the Congress candidate in Dabra, one of the 28 Assembly seats in the state where bypolls will be held on November 3, Nath had referred to Devi, who is a Cabinet minister in the Shivraj Singh Chouhan govern-

ACROSS RALLIES, the images are much the same. Crowds packed in, with very few masks and no social distancing. But right from when RJD leader Tejashwi Yadav's helicopter begins to descend, they begin cheering wildly, and then follow him in a wave as he walks to the stage, and speaks.

With the first phase of polling for the Bihar Assembly elections a week away, the crowds that are turning up to hear Tejashwi, the Mahagathbandhan's chief ministerial candidate, at his rallies are becoming a talking point. While the RJD is reading this as a sign that people in the state are ready for change, the ruling JD(U) is at pains to explain that the turnout at rallies are no measure of vote transferability.

What seems to be enthralling the crowd most is Yadav's promise — one that he makes in each of his speeches — of 10 lakh government jobs in his first act as chief minister. In his last rally of the day in Paliganj on Tuesday, Yadav told the crowd to loud ‘Tried convincing my mother to get sterilised... gave her my example’

Death of a woman in MP village in her 16th pregnancy shows gaps in the system — and inside a home

IRAM SIDDIQUE
DAMOH, (MADHYA PRADESH), OCTOBER 20

REGRET IS all that now consumes 23-year-old Savitha who tries to calm her two-year-old brother as he yearns for the comfort of his mother. His cries engulf the Ahirwar family's two-room mud house that stands on the outskirts of Padhjari village in Batiyagarh tehsil of Damoh district. It has been a week since Sukhrani Ahirwar, Savitha's 45-year-old mother, bled to death on her way to a government hospital less than 5 km from their hut. Not many in the local health system were surprised — she had delivered a still-born and this was her 16th pregnancy.

"I tried convincing my mother to get sterilised but she and my father did not agree. I told her about how I myself had registered for sterilisation without informing my in-laws and got operated upon," says Savitha, recounting her last visit to her mother two years ago. Sukhrani was then pregnant for the 15th time and was severely ill.

Sukhrani's records with Kallo Bai Vishwakarma, Accredited Social Health Activist (ASHA) of Padhjari village, show that she delivered her first child (a girl) in 1997 and had four more daughters. In her sixth pregnancy in 2005, she delivered twins, a boy and a girl. Her pregnancies continued, and between 2009 and 2020, she delivered five more children and had three abortions. In all, she lost eight children.

Sukhrani Ahirwar's family in Padhjari village of Damoh district. Iram Siddique

Vishwakarma said she did take Sukhrani to a medical camp and tried to convince her to get sterilised but after the initial testing, Sukhrani slipped away, allegedly under pressure from her husband.

It was not only Savitha who worried about Sukhrani. Her records worried the district administration too. According to R R Bagri, Chief Medical Officer of Batiyagarh civic hospital, Sukhrani was counselled and advised sterilisation after her 15th pregnancy. "But she was hesitant and thought that she had already crossed 40 and would soon hit menopause. If her daughters had been with her, they could have convinced her," said Bagri. The administration could do little without her consent.

While Sukhrani believed she had hit menopause, in July this year it came to light that she was five months pregnant at the age of 45. She visited the hospital only in September when she was seven months pregnant.

Sukhrani's husband Dullah works as a farm labourer. He had to borrow money when his wife was identified as a "high-risk pregnancy" by the civic hospital in Hatta, an adjacent block, and advised consultation with a gynaecologist along with a sonography at the district hospital, about 40 km away.

"We got the sonography done. We spent about Rs 40,000 on tests and medicines," said Dullah, who had taken her to a private hospital in Damoh, since they did not have an Ayushman Bharat card which entitled BPL families for a medical cover of Rs 5 lakh.

Punjab House

Dinesh Singh from Sujampur, who were absent — representatives of all other parties, including Congress, Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD), Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) and Lok Insaaf Party (LIP) voted in favour of the state Bills and a resolution against the central laws. The move comes as a relief for the state government led by Capt Amarinder Singh after intense pressure from the Opposition SAD after it quit the NDA government at the Centre over the farm laws that triggered widespread protests in the state.

The state Bills will now have to gain the assent of Punjab Governor V P S Badore, and the President. Speaking to reporters after he had led all the MLAs to Raj Bhavan to submit the House resolution, the Chief Minister said that if the Governor does not give his assent to the Bills, his government would seek legal recourse. Asked about the possibility of the Centre imposing President's Rule in the state, Amarinder said: "Let's wait and see, we will move step by step. But if the situation comes to such a pass, the Centre won't have to dismiss me, I am carrying my resignation in my pocket and will give it willingly." Responding to Punjab's move, Union Minister of Agriculture and Farmers' Welfare Narendra Singh Tomar said the Bills would be examined once they come to the Centre.

"It has come to my knowledge that the Punjab Assembly has passed a law in relation to the Agricultural Reform Acts. When these laws come to the Centre, the Government of India will examine and take action in the interest of farmers," Tomar said in a statement.

Under Article 254(2) of the Constitution, a state can make changes to a central legislation on a subject on the concurrent list provided its law gets Presidential assent. In the Assembly, the BJP came in for sharp attack from the Congress over the absence of its two MLAs, with Minister for Jails Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa describing the BJP MLAs as "gaddar" (traitors).

(WITH HARIKISHAN SHARMA/DELHI)

Chhattisgarh

Rajasthan Cabinet said it has decided to call a special session of the Assembly "to protect the interests of the farmers".

The Congress does not expect President Ram Nath Kovind to clear any move to circumvent the new farm laws but its leadership believes that party-ruled states passing a counter Bill would be "a strong political statement".

On Tuesday, returning the proposal sent by the Chhattisgarh Cabinet to convene the Assembly on October 27 and 28, Governor Ukiye pointed out that the Monsoon Session had concluded only 58 days ago.

Chhattisgarh Legislative Affairs and Agriculture Minister Ravindra Choubey told The Indian Express that his government has sent a revised proposal to the Governor. "The Supreme Court has made it clear that the Governor cannot make any change in dates sought by a duly elected government, which enjoys the majority, for convening the Assembly," he said.

The Chhattisgarh Governor's comment on the file sent by the government is being seen as another point of contention between the state and the Governor.

Meanwhile, asked whether his government is planning to pass its own farm Bills, Rajasthan Chief Minister Gehlot said: "We are examining how to do it. We want to protect the interests of farmers. I had a meeting yesterday where I reviewed the issue. We have sought the opinion of the Advocate General. We have also sought the views of the Agriculture (department)... agricultural marketing. We will take a decision taking into consideration all their views," he said.

women... at all levels leaves a lot to be improved... whether it is in law and order, whether it is in just basic respect, whether it is in how much space they are accorded in business, in government, in other areas... I don't appreciate this type of language regardless of who is using it."

Asked about Gandhi's comments, Nath told reporters in Bhopal, "Ab wo Rahulji ki rai hai (That's his view). Aur unko jo samjhaya gaya ki kis sandarbh mein maine yeh kaha tha... I have already made it clear in what context I said that. There is nothing more to be said."

On whether he would tender an apology, the former CM and Madhya Pradesh Congress chief said, "Main kyun maafi magoonga (Why should I apologise)? I have said that my intention was not to insult anyone. If somebody feels insulted... I express my regret. That is what I said yesterday."

Devi, one of the 22 MLAs in the Jyotiraditya Scindia camp who resigned in March, bringing down the Congress government in Madhya Pradesh, told The Indian Express on Tuesday that Nath had ended up insulting "all the women of Madhya Pradesh and India".

Devi, 45, is a third-time MLA from Dabra, a seat reserved for SC candidates.

She said that in her 10 years in the Congress, no one had ever used "such language" for her.

When the Nath-led Congress government came to power in 2018, Imarti Devi, who dropped out after Class 12, was made Cabinet minister for Women and Child Development. She found herself at the receiving end of Internet memes after last year's Republic Day function in Gwalior, where she failed to read her speech and had to ask the Shivpuri collector for help.

During her tenure as minister in the Congress government, she tried to introduce eggs in anganwadis as part of the midday meals, a move that the opposition BJP vehemently opposed.

cheers: "Ek mauka milega, toh jis din peh mantrimandal ki baithak hogi, pehli baar mukhyamantri hote hue pen chalegi, toh desh ke itihaas mein pehli baar ek saath 10 lakh naujawaan ko ikatthe sarkari naukri milega." Loosely translated, it means that if given a chance, he will sign on his promise of 10 lakh government jobs on his first day in office.

Given Bihar's long history of caste and social justice politics, those gauging the Opposition's chances have largely stuck to seeing whether the RJD can expand beyond its core voter base of Yadavs and Muslims.

RJD leaders, however, believe that the rallies are proof that this conventional wisdom may not hold true for 2020, a year of deep economic distress.

RJD Rajya Sabha MP Manoj Jha told The Indian Express, "There is a rigid arithmetic some people in Delhi follow. But that rigidity of caste arithmetic is breaking. Whether it is breaking 35 per cent or 30 per cent, I can't tell you... What I can say for sure is that it is breaking."

In a sign that Tejashwi's rallies are having an effect on the rival JDU camp, party working president Ashok Choudhary recently posted photographs of a rally Nitish Kumar held in Bhoire in Gopalganj, where a sizeable crowd had turned up.

"Opponents should not be scared while looking at the crowd. Please see, so-called youth leader Tejashwi Yadav of the RJD and Tej Pratap Singh, the sons of Lalu Prasad. This is the love and respect Nitish Kumar gets," he tweeted.

And yet, the pictures tell the story. While Yadav's rallies are chaotic, with the crowds almost surging on to the stage, the CM's are more orderly. In the Gopalganj rally, as in many others, the crowds were at least 20 metres away from the stage, and while masks and social distancing were in short supply here, too, most participants sat on chairs under a shamiana.

Jha said the spontaneity at Yadav's rallies was because he had become the "face of Bihar versus Nitish Kumar". "We have seen huge crowds before, but what is interesting is that this is an interactive, active crowd. This crowd has not come to listen to the leader, it has come to engage with the leader," he said.

Senior JDU spokesperson Arvind Nishad, however, dismissed the numbers at Tejashwi's rallies. "Those who come to Nitish Kumar's rallies are the chuppa (silent) voters. He only knows how to come and show his support by voting," he said.

stated: "This is to inform you that as directed by the Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Tariq Mansoor via telephone on 20.10.2020 at 11:14 am, your appointment on the post of Medical Officer, Emergency & Trauma, JNMCH, is rejected with immediate effect. Therefore, you are requested not to perform any further duties."

The AMU administration, when contacted, said: "The administration has not suspended any doctor related to Hathras incident. Two months back, there were vacancies because existing CMOs took leave. Few of them were infected with Covid. There was an emergency and the two doctors — Dr Malik and Dr Haque — were only appointed to fill the 'leave vacancies'. Now that the CMOs are back, there are no leave vacancies, hence their services are not required."

Later, the AMU administration said: "It has come to our notice that the doctors aren't happy with the decision. We are looking into their grievances and they might be adjusted somewhere else in the hospital."

Shafey Kidwai, professor and member-in-charge of public relations at AMU, said: "The university has not suspended any doctor for giving interviews related to the Hathras incident to the media. The two doctors worked on leave vacancy and their terms expired on October 8, but they attended the hospital and signed on some medico-legal cases. Hence, if CMO recommends their extension, the university may consider it."

Dr Haque said: "I was last paid in August. I worked during the pandemic and risked my life and now they have terminated us because Dr Malik spoke to the media and they think that I leaked information... We still don't have a written statement from the Vice-Chancellor about this... This is sad, we didn't do anything wrong." The MLC attested by Dr Haque had, under "provisional opinion", referred to "signs of use of force".

Dr Malik, when contacted, also said he wasn't given last month's salary and was "scolded" by his seniors because he had given his "personal opinion" to the media.

"Earlier I was scolded but they didn't do anything. Late in September, I had filed my application for an extension, but they have rejected it a month later. We have been terminated and they have not given us any reason," he said.

V-C Tariq and chief medical superintendent Dr Shahid Ali Siddiqui did not respond to calls and messages seeking comment.

could be investigated. It has invoked Sections 120B (criminal conspiracy), 34 (common intention), 406, 408 and 409 (all dealing with criminal breach of trust), and 420 (cheating) of the IPC.

On October 6, Mumbai Police had registered an FIR alleging the fudging of TRPs by certain TV channels. It later said at a press conference that investigations had found that three channels, including Republic TV, were prima facie involved in manipulating TRPs.

The new development comes when counsel for Republic TV Harish Salve has asked the Bombay High Court to transfer the Mumbai Police case to the CBI.

The UP FIR describes how important TRPs are for advertisers and investors, and the way in which they are manipulated by certain channels. The complaint attached with the FIR also asked for an examination of the role of Broadcast Audience Research Council (BARC), the industry body that publishes the TRPs.

"If BARC functions partially by tweaking the data pertaining to TRP as a result of conspiracy to favour certain channels, not only can there be serious repercussions... it would also cause financial benefit (wrongful gain) to the channel in whose favour such manipulation... is done."

The writ petition filed by ARG Outlier Media Pvt Ltd, Republic TV's parent company, stated that the Mumbai Police were "determined to falsely implicate" the channel and "silence (its) news reporting", and asked for the case to be transferred to the CBI.

"It is important to entrust the investigation to centralised agency to repose faith of all stakeholders and any investigation to be carried out by Mumbai Police in a premeditated and pre-planned manner to implicate the petitioners will have ripple effect on the TV industry but also set a very wrong precedent for future investigations."

Teltumbde

and classes after approval in Central Committee Member meetings," it claims.

While denying such charges during the probe, Teltumbde had said that his visits abroad for academic conferences were through official invitations and well-documented.

The chargesheet, which was filed on October 9 before a special court in Mumbai, also includes a statement by a witness claiming that he recalled Teltumbde making a statement during a meeting to "reinvent Dalit militancy as well as revolutionary resurgence under Maoist leadership".

Citing statements of witnesses, the NIA has claimed that Milind visited various cities, including Pune, Chandrapur, Bhopal and Indore, and would meet Teltumbde "for taking guidance to advance the movement of CPI (Maoist) in jungle as well as urban areas".

In an open letter written before his arrest, 70-year old Teltumbde had said: "Never in my worst dreams could I imagine the things that began happening to me. Although I was aware that the police used to visit the organisers of my lectures — mostly universities — and scare them with enquiries about me, I thought they might be mistaking me for my brother who left the family years ago."

The NIA took over the probe in January from the Pune police. It filed a supplementary chargesheet running into 10,000 pages against eight persons, including Teltumbde, activist-journalist Gautam Navlakha, Delhi University associate professor Hany Babu, three members of the cultural group Kabir Kala Manch, Jharkhand-based Jesuit priest and tribal rights activist Stan Swamy, and Milind.

On Navlakha, the NIA has cited claims by a witness that he wrote books on Maoists and visited jungles along with a Swedish writer and met Maoist leaders. Navlakha wrote for a weekly magazine.

"Gautam Navlakha always speaks of Left-oriented politics and had done fact-finding to further the ideology of CPI (Maoist), so he was a sympathiser of Maoists," the NIA quoted a witness as saying. The witness also claimed that Navlakha is a "very good friend" of arrested accused Telugu activist and poet Varavara Rao.

On Swamy, the chargesheet claims: "Since from the maximum part of the country, party members (of CPI Maoist) were arrested and the party was not having any face, so it gave responsibility to Stan Swamy as he was against the government. Stan Swamy is having his own identity. Stan Swamy is having his own NGO at Jharkhand."

The NIA has also recorded statements of witnesses who submitted that Babu and another accused Rona Wilson were "instrumental in arranging meetings and funds in support of G N Saibaba" who has been convicted under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act.

The chargesheet claims that Wilson was involved in organising legal support for political prisoners. "Rona and Hany Babu have inculcated Maoist sympathies in the students in Delhi and more specifically Dalit and students coming from other oppressed backgrounds," a witness is quoted as telling the NIA. The chargesheet also includes a statement by a witness claiming that he "had heard about Umar Khalid" being an urban party member.

On the three Kabir Kala Manch members — Sagar Gorkhe, Ramesh Gaichor and Jyoti Jagtap — the chargesheet claims that Milind used to discuss with them about the Elgar Parishad event held at Shanivara Wada in Pune on December 31, 2017. It alleges that with the help of these members and others, including social workers, teachers, advocates, doctors, the event's platform was to be used for spreading Maoist ideology.

Bihar: What is at stake in India's first Covid election?

EXPRESS explained.Live with

Suhas Palshikar
Political Scientist

The Assembly election in Bihar will be the first big democratic exercise in India — and among the biggest in the world — since the outbreak of Covid-19. It will also be one of the most consequential.

Nitish Kumar, last of the Mandal men who have dominated Bihar for 30 years, seeks one last shot at power.

A new generation — Tejashwi Yadav and Chirag Paswan, political heirs of Lalu Prasad and Ram Vilas Paswan — believes its time has come.

The BJP wants to finally establish Hindutva as the state's dominant political narrative.

Which way will Bihar go? What role will caste, traditionally the key to voting in Bihar, play? Will this election predict the future of identity politics in North India?

Will the context of the pandemic matter in any way?

Listen to Prof Suhas Palshikar, one of India's most insightful political scientists, answer some of these questions at the next session of Explained.Live — on the evening before the first phase of polling.

ALMOST TWICE AS MANY MEN SUCCUMBED AS WOMEN Covid: Diabetes, hypertension combo proves especially deadly

YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW
AN EXPRESS RTI APPLICATION

MALLICA JOSHI
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

ONE IN five people, who died of Covid-19 between March and October, were suffering from both diabetes mellitus and hypertension. These two co-morbid conditions were the most common, followed by pneumonia, Delhi government's reply to a Right to Information (RTI) application filed by The Indian Express states.

Almost 45% of people did not have any co-morbid conditions. Data shows that between March 1 and September 30, 5,509 deaths were tagged as Covid deaths in the city. Complete age and gender data was available in 5,283 cases. Of these, 1,086 people were suffering from both diabetes mellitus and hypertension, following by 989 people who were suffering from pneumonia. 695 people had diabetes mellitus only and 678 had hypertension.

In Delhi, Covid deaths are categorised such by a Death Audit Committee set up in April. Not all those who died and tested positive for Covid are categorised as Covid deaths. The committee takes a call on how deaths are categorised. Several countries across the world have reported higher mortality among men as compared to women. This trend is visible in Delhi as well. Of the 5,283 deaths for which data is available, two thirds, or 66%, are male. The highest number of deaths – 2,697 – was seen in people between the ages of 51 and 70, data shows. ease, co-morbidities were present in a over half the people. The age group for which co-morbid conditions were the smallest fraction of the total deaths was 21 to 30. Of the 179 people belonging to this age group who died, only 36 per cent had any comorbidity. It was highest in the 71 and above age group, where 60% of those who died had co-morbid conditions.

"The data clearly show diabetes and hypertension are the two diseases, which are also very common in the population, forming the high-risk group. If you look at most common comorbid conditions, these are in the top four. This is why in our messaging, we have been clear about highlighting the role of these conditions, along with the risk that comes with age," said a senior government official involved with Covid strategy planning.

'Most unacceptable' if people don't get RT-PCR results within 24 hrs: HC

SOFI AHSAN
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE DELHI High Court Tuesday said there have been repeated instances where RT-PCR test results were not made available to people within 24 hours, and called it "most unacceptable" that the time taken for results was still extending upto even four days.

The court asked the Delhi government in its next status report to clarify how the system is being streamlined to ensure the turnaround time for testing is adhered to. There is obviously "some lag" which must be addressed at earliest, observed the court, while hearing a petition filed by advocate Rakesh Malhotra regarding Delhi's Covid testing strategy.

"The direction is considered necessary in light of the fact that on most occasions when the samples are collected and sent to the laboratories for testing, the person who is tested is not given any information about the results unless he/she tests positive. In other words, the person is completely in the dark about the results," the division bench of Justices Hima Kohli and Subramonium observed, adding there is no reason why results should not be communicated on the mobile phone to the persons. The court made the observations after taking note of recommendations made by an Expert Committee on the Testing Strategy, which said results should be available within 24 hours and suspected cases should ensure strict isolation till then.

"When the government has declared a complete unlockdown which requires all employed persons to report for duty regularly... nor can the self-employed persons/professionals be expected to remain in isolation unnecessarily, it is most unacceptable that turnaround for results is still far exceeding 24 hours and extending upto four days," said the court.

3 Covid cases in jails, time for inmates out on bail, parole to return: HC

SOFI AHSAN
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE DELHI High Court Tuesday said it was time for prisoners out on interim bail or parole on account of Covid-19 pandemic to return to jails, after it was informed that only three inmates now suffer from Covid-19. A total of 6,711 inmates would have to surrender if the court decides not to extend its blanket order extending the interim bail and parole of prisoners.

The full bench of Chief Justice D N Patel and Justice Siddharth Mirudal and Justice Siddharth Singh was hearing a suo-motu case regarding extension in interim bails and parole. Directions were passed by the court earlier to decongest the city's jails to contain the spread of Covid-19 there.

"We are not concerned with the capacity of jails and the nature of offence. The order was passed only due to Covid and only three persons are there... Hundred or two hundred or three hundred persons are not having Covid," Chief Justice Patel said.

However, the Delhi government's senior standing counsel (criminal) Rahul Mehra submitted the state has not brought anything before the court to show the decongestion has led to widespread crime in the city. Mehra also said Covid-19 by "no means is over in Delhi" and there are still a high number of cases.

Mehra also submitted it would be against the spirit of the Supreme Court judgement regarding decongestion of jails during the pandemic. However, CJ Patel observed the "Covid chapter" should close, adding that other avenues for bail and parole exist, and the power of the apex court's high-powered committee will still remain. "Let them surrender and get bail on merits... in a usual manner," he said.

52,000 WORKERS ENROLLED WITH BOARD Bribery allegations surface in board for construction workers

Sisodia carries out surprise inspection, warns of stern action

SOURAV ROY BARMAN
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

A MEMBER of Delhi's construction workers welfare board has levelled charges of bribery against a district secretary of the body, a development which has been conveyed to the Delhi High Court through an affidavit. "You are requested to look into the demands being made by the district secretary from the construction labourers during the Covid-19 pandemic, who has been ignoring the directions, which is also in direct contempt of the Hon'ble High Court," member Mohan Kumar wrote to the secretary of the board on October 7.

Kumar, who represents a union, also wrote that despite standing instructions to call workers to the board's offices only once for paperwork, they were being made to make multiple rounds by the district secretaries. One of the secretaries has been demanding bribes of up to Rs 2,000 from workers, he alleged.

On Tuesday, Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia, who recently took charge of the labour department, also expressed disappointment over the state of affairs in the board following an inspection of one of its district offices at South Delhi's Pushp Vihar.

Sisodia lashed out at officials in charge of the registration, renewal and verification process of applicants. When one of the officials claimed that the "server was down", thus stalling

Sisodia, who recently took charge of the labour dept, inspected one of its district offices at Pushp Vihar. Express their work, Sisodia asked them if they had raised the issue with their superiors.

"Have you seen the queue outside? People are standing since 3.30 am... There is a deep nexus between them and middlemen. I will send everyone to jail if they indulge in such acts. The workers are standing in line for hours. They are not lying," Sisodia said.

The issue of low capacity of the server has been repeatedly highlighted by the Delhi High Court in the recent past. The court has been asking the board to launch a dedicated portal, instead of depending on the e-districts portal which also handles many other services of the government. However, the board has so far maintained that launching a dedicated portal was beyond its expertise and that it has requested the National Informatics Centre (NIC) to handle the issue. The court's suggestion on verification of applications over video conferencing has also not made headway, with confusion over whether a government or private agency should bring the necessary technological changes. During his visit around 10.45 am, Sisodia also found that the district secretary was yet to turn up. "Why should he not be suspended? If he has no explanation (for the delay), then suspend him."

Currently, 52,000 workers, whose memberships are active, are enrolled with the board, which is down from over 1.28 lakh in 2015. Around 66,000 applications are pending for verification, which Sisodia said will be taken up on a priority basis.

The board runs a number of welfare schemes funded by the cess collected from building projects under the Building and Other Construction Workers Welfare Cess Act, 1996. The Delhi board has a corpus of over Rs 3,200 crore.

Ban on gensets in place, over 1,000 families in Gurgaon left without power through Tuesday

SAKSHI DAYAL
GURGAON, OCTOBER 20

AMIDST THE ban imposed on use of diesel generator sets in Gurgaon by the Environment Pollution (Prevention and Control) Authority (EPCA), over 1,000 families living in housing colonies in Sector 37D were left in the lurch when electricity supply in the area went off on Tuesday morning.

Residents of Ramprastha City, which has multiple housing societies, said electricity went off around 5 am. "More than 1,000 families were left without electricity all through Tuesday. This was a major problem... Children missed online classes; residents on work from home lost an entire working day," said Pradip Rahi, president of the Atrium Condominium Welfare Association.

"Our societies use generator sets for eight hours every day as the builder only has a temporary connection. Residents have also not procured inverters or made other provisions as we expected to have full power back up. How will we manage?" he said.

In a submission to the deputy commissioner Tuesday, Rahi stated, "Builders started giving possession in 2016 but as on date, source of supply is through construction line (temporary connection) which they obtained for construction purpose. Electricity supply is very irregular and is mostly from the generator..."

Officials from Dakshin Haryana Biji Vitran Nigam (DHBVN) confirmed that Ramprastha City has only a temporary electricity connection. Power was restored by 4.30 pm.

"There was a fault at a local substation because of which the entire area was impacted, not just Ramprastha City. There is otherwise no electricity issue in the area... The builder has taken an electricity connection under the temporary category to meet temporary requirements. Regarding the permanent connection, as per their commitment, the builder is working on infrastructure for the same. It will be provided once it is developed," said Manoj Yadav, superintendent engineer, DHBVN.

"If they want... to run DG sets, we have asked the builder to file an affidavit. They have sought an exemption of 3-4 months in the affidavit, which we will recommend to higher authorities," he said. Officials from Ramprastha Group did not respond to calls, messages seeking comment.

At 13.7°C, minimum temperature for October lowest in a decade

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

MINIMUM TEMPERATURE in Delhi dipped to 13.7 degrees Celsius on Tuesday, four degrees below normal, and also the lowest it has reached for the month of October in a decade.

Clear skies and calm winds were credited as causing the dip in night time temperature. The reading was recorded at the India Meteorological Department's (IMD) Safdarjung observatory, which is representative of the city.

Previously, the lowest night time temperature recorded in October was in 2009, with a reading of 13.5 degrees Celsius on October 26 and 28, as per IMD data. Kuldeep Srivastava, head of IMD's regional weather forecasting centre, said, "The sky is clear at night as there are no clouds and wind speed is calm. These two conditions help in increasing the earth's radiation — during day time, the earth heats up and in the absence of clouds and due to calm wind, there is fast cooling at night time."

Minimum temperature in the city has been steadily dipping since October 15, when it was 20.4 degrees Celsius. Between October 17 and October 19, night time temperature was in the range of 16.8 to 16 degrees.

Areas other than Safdarjung also recorded low minimum temperatures. Lodhi Road recorded 13.6 degrees Celsius, South Delhi's Aya Nagar recorded 16.4 degrees, and North Delhi's Mungeshpur 14.5 degrees. In NCR, night time temperature recorded at IMD's Gurgaon observatory was even lower, 11.4 degrees Celsius, while Noida recorded 16.1 degrees Celsius.

Maximum temperature also dipped in Delhi for the third consecutive day. On October 18, at the Safdarjung observatory, it was recorded at 35 degrees Celsius, and on Tuesday it was recorded as 33.8, one degree above normal for this period of the year.

Srivastava said conditions that are causing a dip in night temperature are expected to continue for the next three days. As per IMD's forecast, minimum temperature in Delhi on Wednesday is expected to be 15 degrees Celsius while maximum is expected to be 34.

Average air quality index of Delhi improved within the 'poor' category Tuesday with a reading of 223, lower than Monday's 244. A daily report from SAFAR Tuesday said, "Air quality is forecast to stay in 'poor' or lower end of 'very poor' category for the next two days."

For 20 kids living near Red Fort, cop dons teacher's hat

ANANYA TIWARI
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

INSIDE A temple courtyard at the Red Fort parking lot, constable Than Singh (32) takes time out from his duty hours to teach children living in the slums near the monument. Singh is posted at Kotwali police station in Chandni Chowk and is the area's beat constable. "Being in class stops them from getting into any kind of trouble outside," he said Tuesday before his 5 pm class.

On Tuesday, Delhi Police Commissioner S N Shrivastava met Singh and lauded his efforts.

At the class of 20 were students aged between 4 and 18 years, whose parents work as migrant labourers or at Lal Qila as labourers or gardeners. "We have disinfected the carpets and sanitised the hands of each child. We also ensure they wear masks," said Singh, adding that classes resumed a week ago.

When he first began taking classes in 2016, Singh had only a handful of students. "I had to persuade parents to send their children. But eventually, around 50 kids would come regularly — the number has gone down since the lockdown," he said.

At times, Class XII student Ankita Sharma (16), who lives

Constable Than Singh holds the class at a temple courtyard inside the Red Fort parking lot. Praveen Khanna nearby, helps with the class. "If I get a call and need to rush, Ankita takes over," he said. Her brother Ankit (18), also in Class XII, was present on Tuesday, helping children with their doubts.

At the class, Singh made the children recite the alphabet and multiplication tables, periodically checking their notebooks or making them recite in turn.

Students are enrolled in schools either at their villages or in Delhi. Due to the migratory nature of their families, their studies often get interrupted.

Mahesh (18), who is in Class IX and hails from MP's Damoh district, said: "I am enrolled in a school in the village, but there is hardly any learning there." He and his parents, who work as labourers, returned recently.

Right after the lockdown, Dharam Das (32), a gardener working at Lal Qila, left with his wife and three children aged below 9 years on foot to Tikamgarh in MP. They returned a few months ago. "I want my daughter Rashmi (8) to learn something, get some education," he said, as he watched her recite tables.

Singh said there are talks to tie up the classes with YUVA, a joint initiative of Delhi Police and Skill Development Ministry to provide training to marginalised youth.

On theft tail, cops ditch bikes for autos

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

TO CATCH auto lifters in South Delhi's Ambedkar Nagar, Delhi Police personnel are now conducting night patrolling in autorickshaws instead of on motorbikes. As part of the new plan, two teams comprising three policemen each pose as passengers to carry out patrolling.

In the last one month, the teams have arrested six men, all members of an interstate Haryana-based Mewati gang, on charges of auto-lifting. The teams go on patrol from 11 pm to 7 am DCP (South) Atul Kumar Thakur said the new strategy was devised after "conducting crime mapping of the area".

A senior officer said that despite increasing police vigil during night hours, it was noticed that incidents of motor vehicle theft didn't decrease and no arrests were being made. That's when they hit upon this idea.

"Before September, around 20 incidents of motor vehicle theft, especially of two-wheelers, were reported in Ambedkar Nagar area. Through the local intelligence network, it was found that criminals were alerted by police sirens during patrolling and managed to hide," said the officer.

The first breakthrough came on September 25 when the night patrolling team noticed suspicious movement of three men on a bike. They alerted picket staff, who stopped the men and carried out checking. "They recovered one mechanical knife and two master keys. On their instance, 10 stolen vehicles were recovered," Thakur said.

The DCP said another breakthrough came on October 13 when they found three men on a bike around 1.30 am and intercepted them. "They were selling stolen vehicles in Mewat for Rs 5,000 to Rs 10,000," he said.

Gymkhana Club's bar licence suspended

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE DELHI Excise Department has suspended the bar licence of Gymkhana Club, holding it guilty of selling liquor during the lockdown to individuals and entities, including the Delhi Police.

The suspension order, dated October 20, was issued by Deputy Commissioner (Excise) Ranjeet Singh. The club's management has been directed to appear before the department on October 27 for further proceedings. "Perusal of documents submitted with the written submission reveals that prima-facie various types and quantities of liquor was issued by the Club on different dates in April and May 2020 to different persons, including Delhi Police, in violation of directions issued by Excise Department and Delhi Disaster Management Authority wide various orders wherein activities related to bars were prohibited for all licensees of hotels/clubs/restaurants during lockdown," said the order.

It also said it is "reasonably clear" the club was involved in selling liquor during the lockdown. The action against the club was taken based on a site inspection on September 17.

As per the order, a staffer flagged that some liquor stock was found to be short from the bar sub-store as a former official had taken out liquor from it during the lockdown, without bringing it to the knowledge of the manager or members of the club's managing committee. The club management has informed the department that an FIR has been lodged against Col (ret'd) Ashish Khanna based on findings of a committee set up to probe the matter.

DCP New Delhi Dr Eish Singhal said, "We have received complaints from both sides, and are inquiring into the matter." A senior police officer said no FIR has been filed so far.

Plea claims riot probe flawed, HC seeks police response

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE DELHI High Court Tuesday ordered the Delhi Police to respond to allegations made in a petition seeking a court-monitored reinvestigation in a Delhi riots case and a probe into actions of police officers posted at Dayalpur police station, including its SHO.

The petition filed by Shadab Alam, accused in a case of rioting registered in February, alleges that police have suppressed relevant evidence and the investigation conducted by it is deeply flawed and "patently mala fide".

The petition also seeks transfer of investigation out of the Northeast district to another district or to an independent agency. Justice Yogesh Khanna gave police two weeks to file a reply.

Advocate Taru Narula earlier submitted before the court that Alam, who works at a medical store, and his co-worker were picked up from their workplace on February 24 without any case and were kept in unlawful detention for four days. They and others were allegedly subjected to "inhumane treatment including regular beatings".

The court was also told that a coordinate bench of the HC, while hearing Alam's bail application in April, has observed that there was "undoubtedly a mystery surrounding the arrest."

The petition states Alam's employer and others have given statements to the DCP that he is not involved in any offence. It alleges the statements have not been included in the chargesheet.

CCTV footage showing Alam's presence on February 24 at the medical shop and the medical report dated February 29 from Mandoli jail showing evidence of beating do not find mention in the chargesheet, it alleges.

67% GIRLS; KEJRIWAL PROMISES LOANS OF UP TO Rs 10 LAKH TO STUDY

569 from Delhi govt schools clear NEET, CM says talent, money not tied

ARANYA SHANKAR
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

CHIEF MINISTER Arvind Kejriwal Tuesday said 569 students from Delhi government schools had cleared the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET), of which 67% were girls.

Speaking at a digital press conference, Kejriwal said talent was not tied to money: "I want to promise every student that they need not worry about financial resources. All students who have cleared Class XII and lack resources for higher education, but have secured admission in colleges, Delhi government has scholarships to offer. Any student, rich or poor, can get a loan of up to Rs 10 lakh — without submitting any collateral — from Delhi government and can exercise their right to education," he said.

He said 48 students had scored more than 500 marks out of 720. Three schools had the largest concentration of NEET qualifiers — SKV Molar Band School where 32 of 118 qualified; SKV C-1 Yamuna Vihar, where 24 of 137 students cleared the exam; and SKV Noor Nagar where 23 of 81 qualified.

"We have always paid attention to our students and I expected they would do well... The overall stress levels were also managed because of the happiness curriculum," said principal Sujata Tamta of SKV Molar Band.

Head of school of SKV Noor Nagar, Mudassar Jahan, said, "Always told my students — mehnat itni khamoshi se karo ki kamyabi dhoom macha de (work hard in silence so that your success makes a splash). They have achieved that success today as they were preparing hard."

Many government school students who cleared the exams are from humble backgrounds.

Among them is Tamanna Goel (20), who scored Rank 11 in the EWS category and an AIR of 173. She studied at RPVV Rohini. Her parents divorced when she was four years old, leaving her mother to raise Tamanna and her brother. "My mother is a helper in a medical clinic and earns Rs 6,000 a month. We also get some money as rent from tenants who live below us," she said. Tamanna also sat for NEET in 2019. "This time, I spent 10 hours studying and took coaching. I got a scholarship for that; before that, my teachers helped financially. I want to become a gynaecologist," she said.

Khush Garg (19), who scored 680 out of 720, with AIR 709, couldn't afford coaching. His father has a small bookshop in Shahdara, which hasn't been doing well since the lockdown. "I taught myself by reading books, watching YouTube videos. I studied sometimes till 6 am," said Garg, a student of SPVV Gandhinagar, who wants to eventually specialise in neurology.

Amit Kumar (21) got 647 out of 720 marks with AIR 4444 and stays with his uncle who works as medical staff at a hospital. He said he left his village in MP's Morena 11 years ago and shifted to Delhi for his education. His father is a small farmer. "I completed my school from SBV Vikasपुरi in 2018. I prepared for JEE but didn't get a good rank. I didn't clear NEET last year; this time, I gave it my all and cleared it. I just took coaching from a small institute near home," he said.

QUAD MALABAR EXERCISE

US wants Quad to be 'more regularised', China 'notices' it

SHUBHAJIT ROY
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

A DAY after New Delhi said that the Quadrilateral grouping of US, Japan, India and Australia are sending their warships for the Malabar Exercise next month, US Deputy Secretary of State Stephen E Biegun on Tuesday said that Quad should be "more regularised", and at some point "formalised" with the passage of time.

China gave a measured response, stating that it has "noticed" the development and believes that military cooperation between countries "should be conducive to regional peace and stability", while Japan welcomed the development.

Biegun, who did a telephonic briefing with journalists from India and Bangladesh on Tuesday, said, "I will say that it is our view that in the passage of time, the Quad should become more regularized and at some point formalized as well as we really begin to understand what the parameters of this cooperation are and how we can regularize it."

In the discussions and practices in the security sphere, he called for a "continuation and regularisation of the Quad, with an eventual goal of how it can be best formalised." Biegun also welcomed cooperation with any country in the Indo-Pacific, which is committed to defend "free and open Indo Pacific that guarantees sovereignty and prosperity for its members".

Earlier in the day, Japan's Chief Cabinet Secretary Katsunobu Kato, responding to questions, said in Tokyo, "If this is to be realised, it would be welcomed by the Japanese government."

China's Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian said, "We noticed this development. China believes that military cooperation between countries should be conducive to regional peace and stability."

Welcoming the decision on Twitter, the US Navy's Chief of

E The next step

WITH QUAD countries going for a military exercise within a month of the Foreign Ministers' meeting, next steps are already being planned. So Washington has put the idea of formalising it on the table. All eyes will now be on other Quad countries, including India, on whether to give it some sort of a permanent structure. China's response will be watched on this front, as the group ponders on ways to regularise the grouping.

Information tweeted "Seapower x 4" with the flags of India, the US, Japan and Australia. The US Navy's Pacific Fleet, part of the US Indo-Pacific Command, tweeted, "Looking forward to exercise #Malabar in November."

Amid the Sino-Indian military standoff along the Line of Actual Control in Ladakh and rising tensions in the South China Sea, India on Monday announced that Australia will be part of the Malabar Exercise in November, making it the first military exercise between all countries that make the Quadrilateral grouping, better known as Quad.

The Defence Ministry had said: "As India seeks to increase cooperation with other countries in the maritime security domain and in the light of increased defence co-operation with Australia, Malabar 2020 will see the participation of the Australian Navy. This year, the exercise has been planned on a 'non-contact-at sea' format. The exercise will strengthen the coordination between the Navies of the participating countries."

"The participants...are engaging to enhance safety and security in the maritime domain. They collectively support free, open and inclusive Indo-Pacific and remain committed to a rules-based international order."

Responding to this announcement, Australian Foreign Minister Marise Payne said, "Following an invitation from India, Australia will participate in Exercise Malabar 2020. The exercise will bring together four key regional defence partners: India, the United States, Japan and Australia in November 2020."

Rajnath releases new manual for DRDO to procure from domestic industry

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE GOVERNMENT has launched a new version of the manual for the DRDO to follow during procurements from the domestic industry.

The Procurement Manual 2020 was released by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday. Singh said the "new DRDO Procurement Manual will facilitate the indigenous Defence Industry by simplifying the processes and ensure their participation in design and development activities".

The Defence Ministry said in a statement that the new manual has been released to "encourage more participation of Indian industry, including Start-ups and MSMEs in Defence Research & Development (R&D) for achieving 'Atmanirbhar Bharat'".

The manual, the ministry said, "will facilitate faster execution of R&D projects/programmes" and the "modified features (of) the Manual will go a long way to facilitate participation of industry in various R&D projects".

Mentioning some of the features, the ministry mentioned that the "bid security declaration option for earnest money deposit, increase of threshold limit for advance payment, placement of order on lowest bidder 2 (L2) in case L1 backs out are some of the salient features of the new manual, which will assist the industry for the speedy execution of projects".

In the manual, the liquidated damage rate for development contracts has been reduced, and the delivery period extension process has been simplified for faster decision making, the ministry said.

The last procurement manual for DRDO was adopted in 2016 and had seen some subsequent changes. Sources said that DRDO now has more budget to procure from industry, the manual will make the process easier and faster.

Medical Education at SGT University – Cut above the rest!

SGT University is a leading educational institution located in NCR Gurugram. Where students develop their educational, artistic and sports talents. The inspiring atmosphere here gives them new experiences which develop a curious mind in them. The University provides an attractive and intellectual environment for the all-round development of students. The university's central vision is to achieve excellence in training, teaching and research by promoting quality and inclusive education in line with global standards in the fields of education and academic sciences. The best part of the University is that all departments have their own specialized libraries, laboratories and practice areas / studios. The university focuses on PBL pedagogy, that is, problem-based learning where students are encouraged to have a focused approach to learning, which allows students to be self-directed, interdependent and independent.

SGT University is ranked amongst the top-most medical colleges in India and offers an extensive range of undergraduate, post-graduate and higher specialty courses in medicine, dental sciences, nursing, pharmacy, physiotherapy, allied health sciences, Indian medical system and related disciplines. SGT University's commitment to education is a 'hands-on' approach. Almost every clinical specialty is catered for, and departments are sub-divided into units each one has particular expertise in specific areas as well as providing services of a more general nature.

The University aims to bring high quality health care education. The central strategy in this vision is to develop, through education and training, compassionate, professionally excellent, ethically sound, caregivers in health care sector.

Recognizing the need for Simulation Based Education to be integrated into medical curriculum at the development stage, with careful attention paid to transfer of skills learnt to the real clinical environment, SGT University has setup

Asia's first National Reference Simulation Center in partnership with Laerdal of Norway & John Hopkins University etc., which is a true Center of Excellence.

It is expected of medical training programs to ensure that students have the necessary learning opportunities and assessed by the appropriate methods. Clinical skills competencies including communication skills, history-taking, professional attitudes, awareness of ethical basis of healthcare, physical examination, procedural skills, clinical laboratory skills, diagnostic skills, therapeutic skills, resuscitation skills, critical thinking, clinical reasoning, problem solving, teamwork, organization skills, management skills, and information technology skills should be part of the core undergraduate curriculum.

We at SGT University believe that one of the most important steps in curriculum development is the introduction of simulation-based medical teaching and learning. Although medical simulation is relatively new, simulation has been used for a long time in other high risk professions such as aviation. Medical simulation allows the acquisition of clinical skills through deliberate practice rather than an apprentice style of learning. Medical simulation has been found to enhance clinical competence at the undergraduate and postgraduate levels. It has also been found to have many advantages that can improve patient safety and reduce health care costs through the improvement of the medical provider's competencies.

The objective of this narrative review article is to highlight the importance of simulation as a new teaching method in undergraduate and postgraduate education.

BJP's friendly face, with right legacy, moves

State chief Sanjay Jaiswal has good equations at centre, Bihar — even Nitish can't disagree

LIZ MATHEW
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

IT'S BEEN a dizzying rise for Sanjay Jaiswal in the Bihar BJP. In February 2005, he contested from Bettiah Assembly constituency on an RJD ticket and lost miserably. By 2009, he had moved to the BJP, and would go on to win the Lok Sabha election from Paschim Champaran thrice. By September 2019, he was the president of the Bihar BJP unit.

At the same time, the BJP is Jaiswal's natural home. His father Madan Prasad Jaiswal was a Sangh Parivar activist and one of the founding members of the BJP. A three-term Lok Sabha MP, he represented Bettiah Lok Sabha constituency from 1996 to 2004.

When the BJP was selecting a state president, this worked in Jaiswal's favour. Along with the fact that, as a practising doctor, belonging to the Vaishya community, Jaiswal was the right man and right caste for the post.

Jaiswal, 55, had another qualification — he was not strongly disliked by any faction, though many saw his promotion as a bid to cut Deputy Chief Minister Sushil Kumar Modi to size, with a leader belonging to the same community. The BJP is hoping to register its best performance in Bihar in the coming Assembly elections, and Modi's proximity to JD(U) leader and Chief Minister Nitish Kumar — a fellow product of the JP Movement — doesn't gel with those plans.

Jaiswal is believed to enjoy the confidence of Bhupender Yadav, the BJP general secretary in charge of the state. Party insiders say his performance in the Lok Sabha too is appreciated by both Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah, earning him the position of chief whip of the party in the Lower House.

While seen as not much of a mass leader, Jaiswal appears to have filled that gap too since the coronavirus pandemic, with the BJP holding well-received programmes such as food packet distribution, call centre assistance for migrants and free medical camps, during and after the lockdown.

Party leaders say Jaiswal's father always intended him to inherit his political legacy, though his brother Deepak is also in politics. Jaiswal did his MBBS from Patna Medical College, followed by MD from Darbhanga Medical College. His wife is also a doctor.

In 2005, Jaiswal accepted an RJD ticket only after Jaiswal Senior's attempt to get him one from the BJP failed. In that election, he got just 7,000 votes and trailed at fourth spot, with BJP leader Renu Devi winning the seat.

Jaiswal finally managed to get a BJP ticket only after his father's death.

BJP leaders say Jaiswal's biggest strength remains his proximity to the leaders at the centre as well as his ability to take everyone along. "He is a hard worker and has got a clean and suave image that appeals to the BJP's support base," says a party leader. Even Nitish wouldn't disagree, the leader adds. "Although he belongs to the camp that does not appreciate the Chief Minister much, Nitish can't find much to crib against him."

In a Yadav seat, LJP scare makes NDA task harder

DIPANKAR GHOSE
PALIGANJ (PATNA), OCTOBER 20

ADORNING Sandeep Sourav's campaign vehicle in the Paliganj Assembly seat are both colours red and green. Red for the CPI (M-L), and green for the RJD, with the beaming face of Lalu Prasad.

The constituency could be a microcosm for the shifting sands of Bihar Election 2020. The RJD won this seat in 2015, but it has gone to ally CPI (M-L) in the Mahagathbandhan alliance that includes the Congress. Meanwhile, RJD sitting MLA Jai Vardhan Yadav is contesting on the JD(U) ticket, while Usha Vidyarthi, who won Paliganj as a BJP candidate in 2010, is in the race as LJP nominee.

As he walks through the by-lanes of Bella village, Sourav, who rose from student politics in JNU, says they are raising issues close to the people like education and employment. "There has been no maintenance of canals so farmers are facing problems... there is no rail connectivity either," says the 33-year-old.

The unsaid factor helping him is caste. The CPI (M-L) is not new to Paliganj, having won it in 2005 in a close contest. In the next two Assembly polls, 2010 and 2015, it had come third with above 16,000 votes. This time, Sourav is expected to also get the support of Yadavs, the predominant caste in the constituency and the RJD's vote bank. Sourav himself is a Yadav.

During his campaign stops, he is accompanied by RJD's Dinanath Yadav, who won the seat in 2000. Amid slogans seeking votes for "teen taara (the M-L symbol)", Dinanath urges everyone: "Nitish sarkar ko hataake Tejashwi Yadav ka sarkar banana hai (We have to remove Nitish and bring Tejashwi to power)."

The call is finding some support even in Harirampur, the village of Jai Vardhan Yadav, the former RJD leader standing on the JD(U) ticket. Jai Vardhan has a strong political legacy, being the grandson of former Union Minister Ram Lakhman Singh Yadav. Naresh Yadav of Harirampur says that while he will vote for Jai Vardhan given the "old loyalty", the latter would not have it easy. "In this seat, if the Yadavs unite, it is hard for anyone else. People from the community want to see Tejashwi as Chief Minister."

Jai Vardhan is also up against the fact that ex-BJP leader Usha Vidyarthi will take some NDA votes to the LJP camp. Vidyarthi, who won in 2010 and lost in 2005, is a known face in Paliganj and said to have the backing of the Bhumihars and upper castes. Many BJP cadre are with her despite her switch to the LJP just before the polls after Paliganj went to the JD(U).

Accompanying an autorickshaw canvassing for Vidyarthi, a BJP worker reasons, "She has always been with the BJP. Plus, there is no point backing a Yadav candidate (Jai Vardhan) when the Mahagathbandhan candidate is also a Yadav... The full BJP is with Vidyarthiji."

While the BJP has been underlining that it has no truck with the LJP, despite president Chirag Paswan avowing loyalty to Narendra Modi, the BJP leader says he sees no contradiction in what he is doing. "If Vidyarthiji wins, she will also back the BJP. So the way we see it, we are backing a candidate that has a chance to win."

While the social conflict in Paliganj essentially involves the Yadavs and SCs, the CPI (M-L)'s Sourav may also override that. The SCs have consistently stood by the Left party, ensuring it 13% of the votes even at its lowest in Paliganj.

A key CPI (M-L) functionary says they are making extra effort to reach out to the Extremely Backward Classes and poor. "The CPI (M-L) has never lost the confidence of these voters... There are other factors too in the mix, such as the economic distress, which has hit them the hardest... If they stand with the party, then, with the Yadav votes, we have a good chance."

'BJP runs the show... It says Nitish will be CM. He is at their mercy' ple's anger. He has failed his promise of delivering good governance.

SANTOSH SINGH
PATNA, OCTOBER 20

The BJP appears to have intensified its attack on the CPI (M-L).

In Bihar, the BJP is jittery for the first time in the recent past. It is rattled with the alliance we (the RJD, Congress and Left parties) have managed to stitch together.

The BJP has accused the CPI (M-L) of provoking caste wars in the past.

I don't know what they are referring to. We represent the working class. We talk about farmers' autonomy. Agriculture was the only sector that enjoyed autonomy. Now, even agriculture has corporate dominance.

Why has the CPI (M-L) joined hands with the RJD for the first time?

We are passing through an unprecedented phase in Indian democracy. The dominant feeling in the country is that non-BJP votes should not be divided... What is happening in Uttar Pradesh is a warning signal. Rape accused are being protected. There is a collapse of the rule of law. What if the same happens in Bihar? This is what made all of us think differently.

But doesn't your alliance partner, the RJD, face similar charges?

That is insignificant. If the RJD's tenure can be called 'jungle raj', what we are witnessing (in UP) is super-jungle raj... The BJP is not talking about livelihood and employment, but invoking the past and raising bogeys.

Why are you targeting the BJP more than the man in the saddle, Chief Minister Nitish Kumar?

Nitish Kumar is the person in the saddle but it is the BJP that is running the show. Nitish betrayed the 2015 mandate. It was the defection of a government... The CM has now become a part of the BJP's use-and-throw politics. His utility in the NDA seems to be over. (Union Home Minister) Amit Shah spoke about making him CM even if the BJP gets more seats than the JD(U). Nitish is at the mercy of the BJP... He is also facing peo-

The Grand Alliance manifesto promises 10 lakh jobs, loan waivers to farmers and pay parity for panchayat teachers. Is it not populist?

There are many job vacancies in the state. Aren't they meant to be filled? The government should also create jobs. There is talk of digital India. Shouldn't there be a computer teacher in every school? Giving 10 lakh jobs is not promising the moon. Teachers are not wrong in seeking pay parity (with government teachers). The CM could not get special status for Bihar. He could not even get central status for Patna University.

But where will the money come from? Bihar still receives 76% of its revenue from central taxes.

The Centre is talking about cooperative federalism. But this is coercive federalism. States are being denied their GST dues. If Bihar receives its dues from the Centre, money will come in... As for loan waiver to farmers, the Centre has been talking about it.

Some of your party candidates are not comfortable with Kanhaiya Kumar (former JNU students' union president and CPI leader) campaigning for them...

Kanhaiya is a good orator. He can surely campaign for us but there could be some issue of practical convenience. He could be concentrating on Begusarai (from where Kanhaiya fought the 2019 Lok Sabha polls). I do not know about the reservations of our candidates against him.

Does Tejashwi Yadav inspire confidence as CM nominee of the Grand Alliance?

Tejashwi is the leader of the RJD, the largest party in the Grand Alliance. So, he is naturally the leader of the Grand Alliance... It was Nitish who made him his deputy five years ago (Tejashwi served as Bihar Deputy CM from 2015 to 2017). If he was good enough to work as deputy CM five years ago, why cannot he be CM five years later? Nitish, who is about to turn 70, talks about youth representation... This is double standards.

TROLL TAX

IT HAS been a stressful month for National Commission for Women chairperson Rekha Sharma. Earlier this month, Sharma was trolled on social media after she called the manhandling of Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi by Noida police, while she was headed to Hathras to meet the victim's family members, ₹run-fortunate" and sought an explanation. She was trolled by both Congress supporters, who alleged that Sharma dragged her feet over the incident and didn't issue her orders soon enough, and BJP supporters, who accused her of selling out to the Congress by taking up a Gandhi cause. On Tuesday, Sharma says that her Twitter handle was hacked and a series of tweets against PM Narendra Modi and against the Gandhi family were posted from it. The tweets, often in foul language, had led to a clamour for her resignation. Sharma has pointed out that she was on a flight back from Mumbai when these were tweeted. Incidentally, in her meeting with the Maharashtra Governor while in Mumbai, Sharma discussed, among other issues, the rise in 'love jihad' in Maharashtra. For that, too, she was slammed on social media.

VOCAL ON LOCAL

IN HIS election rallies in Bihar, BJP president J P Nadda doesn't forget to give a personal touch — he reminds the crowd that he was born in Patna, how he had walked through some particular streets, his student days, etc. Nadda's speeches have one more element in common — the Narendra Modi government's schemes and programmes in the health sector. While referring to it, he brings in the point that when he was the Union Health minister, Modi had asked him to pay "special attention" to Patna, and that he himself took the initiative in improving health facilities in the state capital. He also doesn't forget to mention how cooperative CM Nitish Kumar has been in his attempts to build a super-specialty hospital in Patna. Not a single speech misses these points.

TRIBAL AFFAIRS Minister Arjun Munda has not forgotten life back home in Jharkhand even in a sprawling official bungalow in Lutyens' Delhi. Recently, he told officers, who were gathered for a meeting, the technique of extracting honey without destroying the honeycomb. He also narrated how he had extracted honey from the hive on the chickoo tree in the backyard of his Delhi residence. Offering those present a taste of fresh honey, Munda fondly recalled his days as a young boy, when he had mastered the art of licking honey directly from the beehive without getting stung.

Rajnath, Adityanath inaugurate Rs 1000-cr projects in Lucknow

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 20

DEFENCE MINISTER Rajnath Singh and Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Tuesday inaugurated projects worth Rs 1,000 crore in Lucknow, including the OPD complex of Super Speciality Cancer Institute and Hospital in Lucknow, which is being developed in collaboration with Tata Memorial Cancer Institute of Mumbai, and two flyovers.

Speaking at the event held online, Adityanath said 54 beds are being made operational at present at the cancer institute, but once fully completed, the hospital will have 1,250 beds, making it the "biggest dedicated facility for cancer treatment in the country". The CM said in the first phase of the Rs 800-crore project, 750 beds will be made operational. He also laid the foundation for a residential block of the hospital.

The newly inaugurated OPD block has radiation and daycare services, including one operation theatre, linear accelerator, CT scan and 54-bed facility, officials said.

Notably, the foundation stones of the project was laid by former CM Akhilesh Yadav in 2016. A temporary OPD was also started the same year with the help of King George's Medical University of Lucknow. In November 2018 after Adityanath became CM, an MoU was signed with Tata Memorial Center of Mumbai for setting up the cancer institute.

Karnataka bypolls a prestige battle for CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
BENGALURU, OCTOBER 20

THE UPCOMING bypolls to two Assembly seats in Karnataka may not have a bearing on party positions in the House — with the BJP holding a comfortable majority of 116 out of 224 seats — but they will be a matter of prestige for Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa.

The November 3 bypolls at Sira in Tumkur district and Raja Rajeshwari Nagar in Bengaluru come at a time when the Chief Minister faces allegations of corruption and interference in governance by members of his family. The bypolls are also going to be significant for state Congress chief D K Shivakumar. Shivakumar too is being investigated by the CBI on charges of corruption and was arrested last year in a money laundering case. He has called the bypolls a referendum on the BJP government headed by Yediyurappa.

The Sira seat fell vacant after JD(S) MLA B Satyanarayana died. The RR Nagar seat fell vacant in July 2019 after Congress MLA Munirathna Naidu crossed over to the BJP.

While the Congress and BJP are trying hard to clinch a victory, the JD(S) too is a contender with a strong support base in these regions.

Oppn alliance tukde-tukde gang, anti-national: Nadda

LIZ MATHEW
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

SHIFTING THE focus of his election speeches in Bihar from the RJD's "misgovernance", BJP president J P Nadda on Tuesday alleged that the Opposition Grand Alliance in the state is "dangerous" to the country and targeted Congress leaders for their "anti-national" statements.

Termining the Opposition alliance, comprising RJD, Congress and the Left parties, including CPI(ML), as the "tukde-tukde gang (people who want to break India into pieces)" and "urban Naxals" Nadda, in election rallies at Buxar and Arrah, cautioned the electorate that their votes should not cause "disturbances" in the state.

"The Opposition alliance is an unholy combination, it is an unnatural alliance. The three do not have any love for the society; they break the society and disturb peace. You should understand this," Nadda said in Arrah.

Recalling the killing of "Ram bhakts" by activists of CPI(ML), Nadda said: "This is that tukde-tukde gang. This is the gang that spread destruction in the society. The interesting fact is that Tejaswini Yadav (RJD leader and Opposition's CM candidate) does not even have an idea of what's happening. Nineteen seats have been taken by CPI(ML)... Where is RJD? You know the record of CPI(ML)... wherever there are moves against the nation, it stands with them — right from Shaheen Bagh. You know who are urban Naxals? You want people who create disturbance in Bihar?"

On RJD, he asked people not to forget the "lawlessness" when the party governed the state.

In Arrah as well as in Buxar, Nadda called the Congress party "anti-national". He said Congress leaders have been praising Pakistan since it had nothing worth talking about its past records.

"So what do they do? When election is on in Bihar, (they) talk about Pakistan. What has Bihar election got to do with Pakistan? But Congress leaders are praising Pakistan. And who is leading them in this praise? Rahul Gandhi," Nadda said.

The Congress leader had on Friday targeted the Centre over the IMF's projection that Indian economy is set to contract by a massive 10.3 per cent this year, sarcastically calling it another "solid achievement" of the government. "...Even Pakistan and Afghanistan handled Covid better than India," he tweeted.

Nadda alleged while the entire world, including the WHO director-general and the United Nations secretary-general, had lauded Prime Minister Narendra Modi for managing the Covid-19 crisis well in a country of 130 crore people, accused Rahul Gandhi was "humiliating" the country. "It is strange that Rahul Gandhi and other Congress leaders are speaking the language of Pakistan and separatists," he maintained.

UP CM Yogi Adityanath in Ramgarh, at one of his three rallies in central Bihar on Tuesday, the first in the campaign. With slogans of Vande Mataram and Jai Shri Ram, he said the BJP had kept its promises on Ayodhya, Kashmir and Pakistan, and that while the Narendra Modi government would "eliminate" the Maoist problem, the RJD had tied up with CPI (M-L). 23% candidates in 1st phase face serious criminal cases: ADR

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE SUPREME Court's order forcing political parties to publicise the criminal history of their candidates with reasons for fielding them has barely done anything to clean up electoral politics, shows an analysis of self-sworn affidavits of candidates contesting Bihar polls.

The Association of Democratic Reforms (ADR) scrutinised declarations made by 1,064 out of 1,066 candidates contesting in the first phase of Bihar elections to find that almost a quarter (23%) of them face serious criminal cases, including murder, attempt to murder and rape.

Among major parties, the RJD has fielded the largest number of candidates (22) with serious criminal cases, followed by LJP (20), BJP (13), JD(U) (10) and Congress (9).

To check criminalisation of politics, the Supreme Court made it mandatory for candidates to publicise their criminal antecedents aside from declaring it in poll affidavits. Last month, the Election Commission made it mandatory for candidates to publicise this thrice.

Political parties have been directed to offer cogent justification for fielding candidates with a criminal history. According to ADR, political parties have not followed the SC order in spirit.

"As per these mandatory guidelines, the reasons for such selection has to be with reference to qualifications, achievements and merit of the candidate concerned... unfounded and baseless reasons given by political parties like popularity of the person, does good social work, cases are politically motivated etc are not sound and cogent reasons for fielding candidates with tainted backgrounds. This data clearly shows that political parties have no interest in reforming the electoral system and our democracy will continue to suffer at the hands of lawbreakers who become lawmakers," states ADR's press release.

EXCEED 2015 FIGURES

Black money, inducements worth over Rs 35 cr seized

PRESSTrust OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

CASH AND suspected illegal inducements for voters such as liquor seized in poll-bound Bihar have been valued at over Rs 35 crore, a figure much more than what was impounded by surveillance teams during the last assembly polls in 2015, according to the latest EC data.

The items seized during the last Assembly elections in the state were worth Rs 23.81 crore.

As per data available till Monday, the Election Commission (EC) appointed expenditure monitoring teams have seized cash and other illegal inducements like liquor valued at Rs 35.26 crore. In addition, Rs 79.85 lakh Nepalese currency has been seized in the state till now, the data said.

Polls for the 243-member Bihar assembly will be held in three phases — October 28, November 3 and November 7 — and the counting of votes will be held on November 10.

The EC has deployed 67 expenditure observers in the state apart from deputing two high-ranking retired officers of the Income Tax Department who are deployed as special expenditure observers.

A total of 91 assembly seats have been declared as 'expenditure sensitive' and brought under "focussed monitoring" by the poll panel so that a level playing field is maintained and voters are not bribed.

The EC said "881 flying squads and 948 static surveillance teams have been formed for election expenditure monitoring work for the assembly elections of Bihar".

Distributing cash and gifts during the electoral process is not permitted under the law along with distribution of money, liquor, or any other item disbursed and given to the electors with the intent of influencing them.

UN rights chief slams FCRA 'used to stifle' NGOs, govt reacts sharply

SHUBHAJITROY
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

UN HIGH Commissioner for Human Rights Michelle Bachelet on Tuesday slammed the Indian government for the tightening of space for human rights NGOs through the recent FCRA amendments and indiscriminate use of UAPA against activists, including Stan Swamy.

Hours later, New Delhi reacted sharply, stating that "violations of law cannot be condoned under the pretext of human rights".

Ministry of External Affairs' official spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said, "We have seen some comments by the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights on an issue relating to the Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA). India is a democratic polity based on rule of law and an independent judiciary. Framing of laws is obviously a sovereign prerogative. Violations of law, however, cannot be condoned under the pretext of human rights. A more informed view of the matter was expected of a UN body."

UN High Commissioner for Human Rights Michelle Bachelet appealed to the government to safeguard the rights of human rights defenders and NGOs, and their ability to carry out their crucial work on behalf of the many groups they represent. She expressed regret at the tightening of space for human rights NGOs in particular, including by the application of "vaguely defined" laws that constrain NGOs' activities and restrict foreign funding.

"India has long had a strong civil society, which has been at the forefront of groundbreaking human rights advocacy within the country and globally," Bachelet said. "But I am concerned that vaguely defined laws are increasingly being used to stifle these voices."

Bachelet cited as worrying the use of FCRA, which many UN human rights agencies have said is vaguely worded and over-broad in its objective. The Act prohibits receipt of foreign funds "for any activities prejudicial to the public interest".

In a statement issued in Geneva, Bachelet said: "The Act, adopted in 2010 and amended last month, has had a detrimental impact on the right to freedom of association and expression of human rights NGOs, and as a result on their ability to serve as effective advocates to protect and promote human rights in India. It is expected that the new amendments will create even more administrative and practical hurdles for such advocacy-based NGOs. Most recently, Amnesty International was compelled to close its offices in India after its bank accounts were frozen over alleged violation of the FCRA.

"The FCRA has been invoked over the years to justify an array of highly intrusive measures, ranging from official raids on NGO offices and freezing of bank accounts, to suspension or cancellation of registration, including of civil society organizations that have engaged with UN human rights bodies," Bachelet said.

She stated: "I am concerned that such actions based on the grounds of vaguely defined 'public interest' leave this law open to abuse, and that it is indeed actually being used to deter or punish NGOs for human rights reporting and advocacy that the authorities perceive as critical in nature. Constructive criticism is the lifeblood of democracy. Even if the authorities find it uncomfortable, it should never be criminalized or outlawed in this way."

The statement also said that activists and human rights defenders have come under mounting pressure in recent months, particularly because of their engagement in recent protests against the Citizenship Amendment Act. More than 1,500 people have reportedly been arrested in relation to the protests, many charged under the stringent Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) — "a law which has also been widely criticized for its lack of conformity with international human rights standards", she stated, it said. Instant triple talaq petitioner appointed to Uttarakhand women panel

DEHRADUN, OCTOBER 20

SHAYARA BANO, the first petitioner in the case challenging instant triple talaq in Supreme Court, was on Tuesday appointed vice-chairperson in the Uttarakhand State Commission for Women and has been given a state minister's rank. The state government made the appointment 10 days after she joined the BJP in Dehradun.

The state government appointed two more BJP workers as vice-chairpersons with minister's rank in the state commission — Jyoti Shah of Almora district and Pushpa Paswan of Chamoli district. Both are full-time BJP workers who have been associated with the party for several years now. The state government projected the appointments as a step towards honouring women during the Navaratri.

The panel's chairperson Vijay Barthwal said, "There will be no difference. All three will hold the same powers. They will receive matters and forward them to me for hearing."

Shayara joined the BJP earlier this month. The party had then said she will publicise BJP's ideologies and play a "very important role".

BSY won't continue for long, people on top fed up: Karnataka BJP leader

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
BENGALURU, OCTOBER 20

IN THE first such remarks by a BJP leader following allegations — of corruption and interference in the functioning of the government — against Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's family members, senior party leader and former Union minister Basavaraj Patil Yataln Tuesday said Yediyurappa "will not continue for long" and "people on the top are fed up".

Speaking in Bijapur region, the BJP MLA alleged that development funds for the region were being diverted to the CM's home constituency in Shimoga district in central Karnataka.

While there has been speculation of the BJP high command intending to affect a change in the chief minister's post in Karnataka, and several leaders also acknowledge "off the record" such a possibility, the state BJP has until now maintained that no changes have been proposed.

Yataln, who has been engaged in a feud with Yediyurappa after he was not inducted into the state cabinet, said the next CM would be from northern Karnataka since the region gives the BJP the majority of its seats in the Assembly.

"People are now wondering if the present CM is chief minister of Shimoga (central Karnataka) or all of Karnataka. It is the voters of north Karnataka who decide on who should be the chief minister in the BJP," Yataln said. "Even the BJP leadership has realised that it is north Karnataka that contributes the maximum seats to the BJP and they want to make someone from north Karnataka the chief minister," he said.

Over to President on farm Bills, but Punjab ready to take legal course

KANCHAN VASDEV
CHANDIGARH, OCTOBER 20

THE FOUR amendment Bills passed by the Punjab Vidhan Sabha on Tuesday would require the assent of the President as the state has put the ball back in the Centre's court. If the President does not give his assent, the issue is likely to end up in the Supreme Court. Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh, who along with a delegation of all party MLAs met Governor V P Singh Badnore, indicated that they will not shy away from taking a legal recourse. He said that the Bills would have to first go to the Governor.

"Thereafter, they would also need to go to the President, who may approve or reject them... The state government will continue to fight the central laws legally. We will take the legal recourse, for which a team of lawyers and experts is on board," Amarinder said.

He said that he will lead a delegation of all party MLAs to President between November 2 and 5 and impress upon him to give his assent to the amendments for the sake of farmers.

For Punjab, history is repeating itself as during Amarinder's last tenure in 2004, the Vidhan Sabha had passed the Punjab Termination of Water Agreements Act and the legislation finally landed up in the apex court.

However, Punjab Advocate General Atul Nanda hopes that this time, the President would give his assent.

"If even a single MLA had voted against the Bills then it was a different story. Now, all members voted in its favour. When it was passed unanimously, that means it was the wish of the people. Everybody should yield to the wish of the people..." Nanda said.

He said that the Centre's farm laws were not only an attack on federalism but it is also intended at snatching livelihood from the farmers of the country.

As per the procedure, the Bills would be routed through the Governor to the President, who will send the legislations to the Union Ministry of Home Affairs for their comments. The legislations could be sent to the Council of Union Ministers also for their advice before finally signed by the President if he chooses to do so.

Sources said the government is hoping that the matter will end up in the SC and take years for a final decision.

Rajvinder Singh Bains, an activist lawyer, who has been helping the state's farmers organisations with his legal advice in their fight against Centre's Farm Laws said the amendments brought in by Punjab had no doubt about their legal tenability. "The ball is now in Delhi's court. If they do not care then a traditional narrative of antipathy against Centre will find more ground in the state," said Bains.

Meanwhile, Dr Pramod Kumar, Director of Institute of Development and Communication, Chandigarh, said, "Unanimous rejection of farm laws sends a political message but without any constitutional and legal implication. It does not answer the apprehensions of farmers that the procurement may not be undertaken and the MSP may be withdrawn. It does not answer any questions related to food security concerns."

Those not sowing paddy, wheat upset: Who will give us MSP?

ANJU AGNIHOTRI CHABA
JALANDHAR OCTOBER 20

NON-WHEAT, non-paddy farmers are not impressed with the Bill passed on Tuesday by the Punjab Assembly to negate the Centre's recently enacted farm laws.

The Bill does not allow any sale of paddy or wheat to take place within Punjab at below their official minimum support prices (MSP). Such sales would invite fine and imprisonment of up to three years, the proposed law says.

"How does this new law make a difference, when the entire wheat and paddy (non-basmati) of our state is anyway being bought by the government at MSP? What will happen to my maize? Who will pay MSP for it," asked Balkar Singh, who has grown maize on 15 out of his 24-acre holding at Bhanwal village of Pathankot tehsil and district.

Maize is currently quoting at Rs 1,300-1,350 per quintal at Kartarpur grain market near Jalandhar city. "The MSP, I am told, is Rs 1,850 per quintal this year. But I sold some quantity in Pathankot mandi at Rs 800 two weeks ago. Prices improved slightly to Rs 1,000 ten days ago and Rs 1,200 two days back, but MSP is a dream," he said.

"The Centre's law was anti-farmer. But this Bill of Punjab government is only a halfhearted response and is discriminatory," said Kaur Singh Brar, who grows cotton on 3.5 acres and paddy on another 13.5 acres in Lakh Jungle village of Bathinda.

Farmers gherao Jalandhar's Circuit House on Tuesday.

EXPLAINED 'Minimum support'

COTTON, MAIZE and basmati paddy have been planted on 5.01 lakh hectares (lh), 2.42 lh and 6.60 lh area in Punjab in the current kharif season. But there is no MSP protection - legal or otherwise - for farmers growing these crops even after the passage of the Punjab's "historic" Bills.

Brar sold his first picking of 12 quintals of nama/kapas (raw unginned cotton) at Bathinda mandi on October 4 for Rs 4,500 per quintal, as against the MSP of Rs 5,725 per quintal for long-staple varieties/hybrids.

The contrast between crops enjoying MSP support - now sought to be "legalised" through a state legislation - and those selling at virtually market-determined rates is also highlighted in data on government procurement and mandi arrivals.

In 2019-20 kharif marketing season, the FCI and state government agencies together procured 163.44 lakh tonnes (lt) out of total 164.27 lt of non-basmati paddy that arrived in Punjab's mandis. In case of wheat, government procurement accounted for 127.62 lt out of total arrivals of 131.70 lt during the recent rabi season.

However, there was no procurement of the total basmati paddy crop of 25.54 lt and 6 lt of maize that arrived in the state's mandis in the last kharif season. CCI bought around 35 per cent of 42.60 lakh quintals of kapas that came to markets in 2019-20, but there is no legal guarantee for these purchases in the Bill passed by Punjab Assembly on Tuesday.

Looking for body, 3.5 km stretch of Narmada canal dug up; more in pipeline

ADITIRAJA
VADDARA, OCTOBER 20

A 10-HOUR search by over 100 personnel from police, administration, fire and forensics, in the Narmada main canal passing through Vadodara, to recover the body of a migrant worker from Telangana who allegedly died in custody at the Fatehgunj police station, resulted in failure, with only a 3.5-km stretch of the canal being covered Tuesday.

The Gujarat CID, which is investigating the death of Babu Sheikh Nisar, 65, allegedly due to custodial torture in December 2019, suspects that his body was dumped in the canal by six accused policemen.

The CID, based on the mobile phone location of the accused on the day of the crime and the GPS location of the vehicle used to dispose the body, narrowed down on five spots in a 7-km stretch where the body was suspected to have been dumped.

NIA chargesheets slain Hizb militant, 9 others in narco-terror case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE NATIONAL Investigation Agency (NIA) on Tuesday filed a chargesheet against slain Hizbul Mujahideen militant Riyaz Naikoo and nine others in a case of narco-terrorism in which money allegedly earned through heroin smuggling was funnelled into terror activities.

Apart from Naikoo, killed in an operation by security forces in May in Kashmir, the other chargesheeted have been identified as Hilal Ahmed Shergoiji from Pulwama and Zafar Hussain Bhat from Anantnag—suspected to have fled to Pakistan. Bikram Singh, Maninder Singh, Ranjit Singh, Gagandeep Singh and Iqbal Singh from Amritsar, and Ranjit Singh and Jaswant Singh from Gurdaspur are also chargesheeted.

The case arose from Shergoiji's arrest by Punjab Police in April with Rs 29 lakh. The probe was later handed over to the NIA.

"During investigation... it emerged that accused Hilal, who had come to Amritsar to collect the amount of Rs 29 lakh, was a member of proscribed terrorist organization Hizbul Mujahideen (HM) and a close associate of Riyaz Ahmed Naikoo, the then HM commander of Kashmir Valley. This led to busting of a major narco-terror module involved in smuggling and selling of heroin in India and channelising of drug proceeds to Pakistan through hawala and to the HM terrorists based in J&K," the NIA said quoting its chargesheet.

The agency claimed its probe unearthed a conspiracy hatched by Pakistan-based HM commanders and their associates in Punjab to support the terror infrastructure of HM in India by raising money through drug smuggling.

"During investigation, it emerged that the accused had received at least six consignments of heroin through Attari Indo-Pakistan Border in the garb of importing rock salt granules from Pakistan. Of these, money proceeds of five consignments were partly sent back to Pakistan through hawala operators while a substantial portion was channelised to HM terrorists in Kashmir through a network of OGWs and other associates. In July 2019, 6th consignment of around 532 kg of heroin was seized at Attari border and a separate case was registered, which was investigated and chargesheeted by NIA," it said.

'If guilty, punish him; else those who caught him will have to be judged'

ATRIMITRA
MURSHIDABAD, OCTOBER 20

BEFORE THE crack of dawn on September 19, the National Investigation Agency (NIA), in a joint operation with BSF, arrested six men from small towns near the Bangladesh border in West Bengal's Murshidabad district: Abu Sufiyan, Najmus Sakib, Mainul Mondol, Leu Yean Ahmed, Al Mamun Kamal, and Atitir Rahman. In a simultaneous operation, the agency arrested three others in Ernakulam, Kerala, who hail from Murshidabad: Murshid Hassan, Mosaraf Hosen, Yakub Biswas.

The NIA said the nine are allegedly part of an "inter-state module of Al-Qaeda operatives at various locations in India, including West Bengal and Kerala", and the group was allegedly "planning to undertake terrorist attacks at vital installations in India".

Nearly a month on, when The Indian Express visited their villages last week, the families and local residents appeared still as clueless about their alleged terror activities.

Raninagar — areas that are between 10 and 20 km from the Bangladesh border. Most people, including family members and neighbours, The Indian Express spoke with recalled the men as religious, courteous, humble, with most of them quiet and generally keeping to themselves.

According to Sufiyan's elder son Wasim Akram (15), "they" came around 2.30am. "I first saw them. I informed abbu (father) — he tried to run away but they caught him near the gate. Then they beat him..." Sufiyan's wife

Nurunnisa said, "They forced me to sign on some papers. They ransacked all the rooms and snatched our mobile phones."

Barely 500 metres from Sufiyan's house in Madhyapara of Kalinagar is Murshid Hassan's house — a broken, rundown structure. His mother said, "We are very poor. Like me, Murshid also has psychiatric problem. We went to Berhampore to get him treated. After he got better, we sent him to Kerala for work."

His father Abdul Matin (55) and brothers Sohel Rana (17)

BENGAL MINISTER CALLS FOR RELEASE OF THOSE ARRESTED

Kolkata: West Bengal minister Siddiqullah Chowdhury on Tuesday demanded the immediate and unconditional release of 10 suspected al-Qaeda operatives from Murshidabad arrested by the NIA last month.

Chowdhury, who is the minister of mass education extension and library services, said, "We already talked with many people and after that I am demanding that immediately all who were arrested by NIA should be released unconditionally." ENS

Mahafuj Alam (12) work as farm labourers. "After lockdown, we are almost jobless. Now Murshid is also arrested. We do not know what to do," Matin said.

In Paschim Naodapara village of Jalangi, local residents said Forajali Mondol, 74, volunteered in the 1962 war with China and is well-respected in the locality, has nearly slipped into depression since the arrest of son Al-Mamun Kamal (35) — third of his four children. Mondol told The Indian Express: "If he is guilty, let him be finished. Otherwise, those who caught him in this way will have to be judged."

Forajali said: "In this village, many youths go to Kerala for better earnings... They (residents) gave donations to the village madrasa (Al-Mamun was secretary of the madrasa committee). Now many are saying the madrasa was funded by foreign money. Is Kerala abroad?"

Brothers Mosaraf Hosen and Atitir Rahman were arrested from Ernakulam and Jalangi simultaneously. Their father, Tajimuddin Mondol, 66, said Mosaraf went to Kerala nearly 15 years ago. He works at a garment shop there and got married in Ernakulam. He last came home three years ago. Atitir is studying English (Honours) at Ramna Basantapur College in Jalangi.

Mondol said, "Let the court judge. If they are found guilty, both my sons should be punished. I have nothing to say. But why are they being made militants before their trial?"

'Might be useful to provide money to mothers to buy vegetables... so that it helps expand local production'

LAST WEEK, the Norwegian Nobel Committee announced the 2020 Nobel Peace Prize to the UN agency World Food Programme (WFP) for its efforts to combat hunger. WFP has been working in India since 1963. WFP Representative and the Country Director in India BISHOW PARAJULI speaks to HARIKISHAN SHARMA on challenges in food and nutrition security in India in wake of the pandemic. Excerpts:

On the 2020 Global Hunger Index, India has been ranked 94th out of the 107 countries. What is the reason for such a dismal performance?

I think progress needs to be seen from the trend. India is a country with 1.3 billion people... If you see past trends, there has been good improvement. So, it is not fair to say that India has not progressed. There are lots of efforts being made...

Sadly, because of Covid... a lot of challenges... people lost jobs etc, but then they were all supported with these extra resources... What is more needed is also looking at the NITI Aayog Index on SDG. You go to their website and you see that there are states which are lagging behind in various areas... Jharkhand, Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, Chhattisgarh and parts of UP etc...

It has been 7 years since India enacted National Food Security Act, 2013, entitling 67 per cent of the population to subsidised foodgrains — wheat and rice. Do you think it is the right time to universalise PDS in wake of the pandemic?

Universalising is not a solution... It must be targeted. But probably what is important is there should be no one left behind. That's why I was saying that there should be an assessment to check if there is anyone missing and should include them...

Do you think such assessment should be conducted at national level?

... It should be done at state level, not at national level, where there is risk (of food insecurity)...

The focus of PDS has been on distribution of wheat and rice. Do you think it is time to focus more on nutrition?

It is practically difficult to include many food items... There is this staple food — rice and wheat or pulses — and then there is a programme like mid-day meal to provide hot cooked meals to children at schools. And there is this special intervention of ICDS. In principle, these three should cover the needs of the people, but what might be also useful to think going forward is to provide money to mothers so they can buy vegetables, fresh food. So that it also helps expand local production. If you provide cash then anyone can buy milk or fish etc.

Press Council advises against publishing poll predictions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 21

THE PRESS Council of India has advised newspapers and magazines to not publish election predictions in any format. With elections in Bihar just a week away, the Press Council has said that publishing predictions is not allowed during the prohibited period.

It said in an advisory issued on Tuesday that "while considering communication received from Election Commission of India", it advised the print media to "refrain from publishing article which in any way whatsoever predict the results of the elections during the prohibited period" as defined in Section 126A of the Representation of the People Act "to ensure free, fair and transparent election".

"The Council is of the view that prediction of results of elections in any form or manner by way of predictions etc. by Astrologers, Tarot Readers, Political Analysts or by any persons during the prohibited period is violation of the spirit of Section 126A which aims to prevent constituencies still going to polls from being influenced in their voting by such predictions about the prospects of the various political parties."

Mentioning the time period, the Council said that the media should not publish predictions in any format from morning of October 28, when the polling starts, till 6.30 pm on November 7, the last day of polling.

Puja organisers seek review of Calcutta HC order, say no time to redesign pandals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
KOLKATA, OCTOBER 20

A DAY after the Calcutta High Court ordered that Durga Puja marquees should be out of bounds for visitors "in public interest" amid the Covid-19 pandemic, the Forum for Durgotsab, an umbrella organisation of more than 400 community Durga Pujas, on Tuesday filed a review petition in the court. Five community puja committees in Kolkata, including Suruchi Sangha, Hindustan Club and Samaj Sebi Sangha, also filed separate review petitions.

The forum's review plea was filed before the Division Bench of Justices Sanjib Banerjee and Arijit Banerjee that delivered Monday's order. The petition is likely to be heard on Wednesday. "We have prayed before the court to modify its earlier order for practical purposes. We have mentioned several grounds in our petition. Most of the puja committees have followed the Centre and state government's guidelines in organising the Durga Puja. Several puja committees have the same entry and exit gates. If people are stopped at entry points then it can lead to more chaos and crowding. This will complicate the matter and create more confusion," advocate Proloy Kumar Roy said after filing the petition on behalf of the forum. "We have appealed before the honourable High Court to review its order on Durga Puja. We believe it will take into consideration the real problems that most of the puja organisers will face in adhering to its earlier order. We don't have the time to redesign our pandals. It is not possible for only 25 persons to look after a Durga Puja that continues for over five days.

Fifty to 100 persons from each puja committee must be allowed to conduct the puja," said Saswata Basu, general secretary of the forum. "From the beginning, we took measures to ensure the safety of visitors. No one would have been allowed inside the pandal without a face mask and without using sanitisers," he added.

A large number of committees, whose pandals are in narrow bylanes and congested areas, are looking forward to the review plea hearing.

Meanwhile, several organisers started preparing for a change in layout of their pandal.

"We had put up barricades before our pandal so that people are not allowed inside it. Now after the court's order, we have to shift the barricade further. Visitors will be inconvenienced after the change," said a member of Salt Lake's FD Block puja.

Manoj Shaw of the Mudiiali Durga Puja committee said his organisation had complied with the court order, but the idol was not visible because of the changes ordered by the judges. "People are coming to see the idol but they cannot view it following the changes. This is not the way to celebrate Durga Puja here," he said.

ELGAAR PARISHAD CHARGESHEET

CPI (Maoist) gets crores from Maharashtra, Chhattisgarh and MP zones: NIA quotes witness

SADAF MODAK
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

THE NATIONAL Investigation Agency's (NIA) 10,000-page chargesheet in the Elgaar Parishad case relies on witness statements to draw up details about the banned CPI (Maoist), including its means of funding, training and recruitment.

According to a witness, members of the organisation collect Rs 350 per bag of tendu leaves — containing 1,000 pouches — as tax. "The amount is collected as tax/levy from adivasi/contractors. Road contractors and adivasi villagers donate some amount yearly to CPI (Maoist). Altogether, Maharashtra, Madhya Pradesh and Chhattisgarh (MMC) zone of CPI (Maoist) gets around Rs 2.5 crore to 3 crore per year. The said funds are used for Maoist activities," a witness has claimed in a statement that is part of the chargesheet.

Another witness statement stated that the organisation collects "jungle tax" from tendu patta and bamboo contractors, as well as from road contractors. Shopkeepers in towns provide funds as "party help". The party members collect funds from voluntary villagers once a year, the witness added.

It is further alleged in the chargesheet that the weapons and ammunition used by the Maoists are looted from government forces and the gelatine used for explosives is sourced from "illegal mining businesses".

The chargesheet claimed that the organisation has an active presence in nine districts of Maharashtra including Mumbai, Pune, Ahmednagar and Gadchiroli, Surat in Gujarat and arreas of Chhattisgarh, Odisha, Andhra Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana, Telangana, Jharkhand, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh and West Bengal.

One witness statement is about how demonetisation had affected the party's finances. "After demonetisation, Milind Teltumbde had sent Rs 50 lakh in old currency from jungle to exchange with new currency... in 2017," the witness has said, alleging that it was received in Nagpur by a person who claimed that Teltumbde had directed it to be sent to the city to be exchanged. But the currency could not be exchanged as the time for exchange was over and the person was then told to burn the old currency.

The witnesses also claimed that training programmes are conducted for the cadre in July-August every year. These included training on weapons and surveillance.

Balwinder Singh kin accuse cops of ignoring terror angle in probe

KAMALDEEP SINGH BRAR
AMRITSAR, OCTOBER 20

Shaurya Chakra awardee was killed at home

DAYS AFTER a Shaurya Chakra awardee, Balwinder Singh Sandhu, was killed by two bike-borne assailants at his residence, his family has accused Punjab Police of ignoring the terror angle in its probe.

The police, meanwhile, said they are looking at all possibilities, including terror angle and personal rivalry. They said that they are taking help from sons of the deceased in the probe.

Jagdish Kaur, wife of Balwinder Singh, said: "My sons have been called to police station. Police is also coming to our home to investigate my sons. It is sheer harassment. My sons have nothing to do with the murder of their father. It was a terror attack. Police should investigate terror angle in this case instead of focusing on my sons."

There are three old FIRs against Balwinder Singh's younger son, Arshdeep Singh, and in one of these FIRs, the elder son, Gagandeep Singh, is also named.

Tarn Taran SSP Dhruvan H Nimbale, said, "We have taken assistance from Arshdeep in the murder case. We called him to the police station only once, that too to seek his assistance. You can confirm it from Arshdeep that we detained some persons after getting a lead from him. So we are not investigating Arshdeep. He is just assisting us."

However, Jagdish Kaur alleged, "Police have been planting all the stories to divert the attention from their failure to provide security to my husband. He was killed because there was no security... We fought against terrorism and it is the only reason behind the murder."

Sandhu (62) had received the Shaurya Chakra for fighting militancy in Punjab. He was gunned down at his home in Tarn Taran's Bhikhiwind on Friday. The attack took place months after his security cover was removed by the state government.

"We are close to cracking this case. It is also true that we have not found any terror angle in this murder so far," a senior police officer said.

Rlys allows women to board Mumbai local trains

NEERAJ TIWARI
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

IN A much needed relief to women commuters of Mumbai, the Railways finally allowed them to travel in suburban local trains from Wednesday.

The decision comes four days after the Maharashtra government, on October 16, issued a circular stating that women would be allowed to travel in local trains from Saturday — between 11 am and 3 pm and again from 7 pm till the end of services.

The Railways had, however, stalled the move stating that it would require clearance from the Railway Board. It had also suggested a joint meeting of rail and government officials to work out the modalities.

"I am happy to announce that Railways will allow women to travel on suburban trains from October 21 between 11 am to 3 pm and after 7 pm," Railways Minister Piyush Goyal tweeted on Tuesday.

The decision comes after much wrangling between the Uddhav Thackeray government and the Railways, which squared off over starting local train services amid the pandemic. Both had differed over starting special trains to facilitate movement of people to districts in Konkan for Ganesh Chaturthi in August. In May, a war of words had broken out between Goyal, rail officials and the Maharashtra government over the Shramik special trains with the ministry accusing the state of not getting passengers in time at stations to board these trains.

Earlier in the day, Maharashtra Chief Secretary

Sanjay Kumar wrote another letter to the general managers of Western Railway (WR) and Central Railway (CR), seeking action on the state's October 16 request. "The implementation of the joint decision is yet to be initiated. Thus, women commuters may kindly be allowed to avail of the local train service," he wrote.

Welcoming the decision, Congress spokesperson Sachin Sawant, who had been raising the issue with the Railways, termed as "political" the ministry taking four days to take a call on the matter.

Suburban train services were shut on March 23 amid the pandemic. Partial resumption of services was announced on June 15. However, only those deemed to be essential service providers were allowed to board these trains after being allotted special passes.

At present, both WR and CR are not operating trains to their full capacity. Currently, 700 services are plying on WR against 1,316 before the lockdown. On CR, 481 services are running against the 1,719 before March.

ADVERTORIAL

Gratefully remembering the Visionary

The lasting legacy of Rev. Pandurang Shastri Athvale

October 19, 2020 marks the 100th birthday of Pandurang Shastri Athvale (affectionately called Dada, "elder brother"). Dada is the founder of the Swadhyaya Movement which has transformed the lives of millions throughout all 6 continents. In a time when people said the only way to advance is through technological development and through economic, social and political reforms, he stood out and firmly believed that the only way forward is through a God centered, devotion based, spiritual solution. Dadaji was never reactionary, but he was truly revolutionary! He rediscovered the essence of the Bhakti of the ancient scriptures, he redefined it in a reason based and dynamic way to bring about individual and social change. Dadaji said Bhakti at its core is not in mechanical rituals, but in the understanding that God is with and within you. This understanding:

Inspires self-reverence, self-confidence and self-restraint in man. It makes man regain his self-worth and dignity.

Evokes a sense of love and gratitude for the Creator bringing man closer to God.

Creates an awareness of the shared divinity that makes another my brother and motivates devotional activism to make His world a better place by serving His divine family.

As a young boy, he witnessed firsthand how on the one hand, the haves were overfed and wasting food, and on the other hand, their leftovers were thrown on the ground as the have-nots desperately fought each other for scraps. This moment crystallized his life's mission to instill human dignity in the have nots, and to awaken brotherly love in the outlook of the haves. In 1954, at the World Religions Conference in Shimizu, Japan, he was asked, are there villages living by the ideals of Lord Krishna? He could not point to one, but he resolved to not rest until he created an alternative society that did. Over 6 decades, he tirelessly went from heart to heart, hut to hut, reaching thousands of villages. In stark contrast to others, Dadaji never preached, never used other platforms, never solicited funds, never used mass media to reach others. He inspired hundreds of thousands of people to leave their comfort zones in the city and go to villages to diverse sections of the society and practice selfless love and build divine relationships. In 1986, at Tirathra Milan on the banks of the Ganges, he proclaimed that God alone is the answer to all of man's problems. He showed the world that entire villages could be transformed by Bhakti. In 1997, after being awarded the Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, he invited world leaders to see how devotion-based experiments could be used to eradicate social injustice, bring man closer to God, and man closer to man. Dadaji demonstrated how "Bhakti is a social force" and how impersonal wealth can be generated, used to do cultural work, and rectify social injustices without compromising the dignity of man.

In a time when groups are being galvanized and polarized based on their identity that divides them (race, nationalism, religion, socioeconomic status), Dadaji unified millions on the basis of shared Indwelling Divinity (their inherent divinity as children of one God). Currently, the world is at a very critical juncture. There are crises due to religious fundamentalism, racial injustice, social inequality, self-centered materialism, moral degradation, and indifference to climate change.

In this turmoil, Dadaji's silent and singing revolution, with decades of quiet efforts and toil, is a model of how individual and social transformation is possible using Devotion as a basis for all issues faced by mankind.

Throughout all his achievements, he remained humble and always gave credit to the Rishis, God, and to the selfless workers who joined his efforts. Dadaji had an unwavering faith in God and God's promise to take care of His devotee. Above all else, to us Dadaji is a visionary who (through his unselfish love and faith) inspired us to feel the God within, to express gratitude to that God, and to change our life and our world out of devotion to that God. We gratefully pay our respects to Dadaji on his 100th birthday with heartfelt gratitude. Dadaji, before you came into our lives, God seemed so distant and difficult to attain, ideals seemed impossible to achieve, and spirituality seemed so otherworldly -- you made them accessible to common folk like us. Today we bow down to you and feel blessed that the Swadhyaya work and global family are guided by your beloved daughter Jayshree Talwalkar, following in your footsteps.

MALABAR SIGNAL

Australia's return shows Delhi is reconsidering deference to Beijing's interests, giving primacy to its own

IN A MAJOR move coming after years of deliberation, Delhi has invited Australia to participate in this year's Malabar naval exercises. The decision marks an important inflexion point not only in India's bilateral relations with Australia but also in the geopolitics of the Indo-Pacific, the new strategic geography stretching from the east coast of Africa to the waters of East Asia. The naval exercise, which is scheduled to take place next month in the Bay of Bengal and the Arabian Sea, imparts a military dimension to the so-called Quadrilateral Dialogue Framework, involving India, US, Japan and Australia. Despite the eagerness of Australia to join Malabar, Delhi held back and limited it to India, US and Japan. The main reason behind Delhi's hesitation was the concern that including Australia into the Quad might offend China's rather fragile political sensitivity. Something, then, has clearly changed India's calculus on China. As China's muscular unilateralism rises and undermines India's core interests across a broad range of issues — from territorial integrity to regional and multilateral interests — Delhi has had no option but to reconsider its strategic deference to Beijing. China's Ladakh aggression this spring was possibly the last straw. The reluctance to turn the Quad into a military coalition, Delhi could not but note, produced no Chinese consideration for India's concerns. The die is now cast.

The last time Australian naval ships joined Malabar was back in 2007, when it was a five-nation exercise involving India, US, Japan, Singapore and Australia. Until 2007, Malabar was an annual bilateral exercise with the US Navy that was launched in 1992. The Indian Navy's decision to convene the five-nation exercise was probably more administrative than geopolitical. Rather than have separate exercises with each of these partners, it was considered sensible to combine them into one. But the multilateral exercise in the Bay of Bengal produced vehement protests from China, which dubbed it as an "Asian NATO". The external Chinese opposition found an internal political echo. The CPI(M) and the Left parties, which formed a sizeable part of the UPA coalition, demanded an end to the exercise. A flustered UPA government ordered an end to multilateral Malabar. This policy endured until 2015, when the NDA government invited Japan to join the annual Malabar exercises. It has now taken the next step towards quadrilateral military engagement.

Although the decision to welcome Australia into Malabar has come in the middle of the continuing confrontation with China in Ladakh, the naval exercise is not about changing the military equation in the Himalayan theatre. Delhi has no interest in bringing its Quad partners into India's territorial battles against Beijing. It is about expanding India's bilateral security ties with Australia, whose potential is immense. The military Quad is, above all, an important part of building a sustainable Indo-Pacific coalition that is capable of addressing the massive strategic imbalance generated by the rise of an aggressive Chinese party-state.

THE SEXIST PLAYBOOK

It is used by all parties, with little or no consequences.
Kamal Nath brazening it out is only latest instance

THE UGLINESS OF the Indian male politician was on show again in Madhya Pradesh this week. In Gwalior to campaign for the coming bypolls, state Congress chief Kamal Nath sniggered before an audience at a woman leader from the BJP, who he wouldn't deign to name. "You know her better. What an item she is," he said, before breaking into derisive laughter. It's a trick as old as entitled masculinity: If you are up against a woman, run her down with innuendo and the cheap shot, and swagger in the illusion that you have won the debate. In Indian politics, unfortunately, this sexist playbook is used generously by all political parties, and comes with little or no consequences — the Congress initially brazened it out in Nath's defence, and even Rahul Gandhi's disapproval has not inspired the former Madhya Pradesh chief minister to budge from his non-apology. Sexist abuse is, of course, deployed more fearlessly against women from marginalised communities. The target of Nath's coarse attack was Imarti Devi, a woman from a Dalit family of labourers, who spent two decades in the Congress before she switched sides to the BJP in March this year, helping bring Nath's government crashing down.

The few Indian women who dare to enter public life are reminded almost daily that they have crossed over into a hostile, male world, where the rules are loaded against them. From Mamata Banerjee to Jayalalitha and Smriti Irani, women leaders are routinely subject to demeaning language, even when they are careful not to transgress patriarchal norms. For years now, BSP leader Mayawati has been at the receiving end of dehumanising abuse. The internet, too, has emerged as a vicious space for women politicians. Even so, a morphed video of a young tribal BJD leader that went viral in Odisha ahead of the Lok Sabha elections last year marked a new low. Chandrani Murmu was eventually elected from Keonjhar parliamentary constituency. Investigations into the slanderous video have led the MP to accuse a channel run by a BJP leader of harassment.

If Indian politics is a negotiation with entrenched power structures and multiple bogtrotters, both instances underline how and why women continue to be at a disadvantage; and how easy it is to turn on the tap of prejudice to discredit women in public life. But Imarti Devi's and Chandrani Murmu's dogged persistence in the face of men who snigger and slander from behind the shield of their feudal privileges is also a sign — women politicians may be few in number, but they are not backing away from a hard fight.

PUJO, QUARANTINED

COVID-19 has affected pandals in Bengal and beyond, changing the character of the celebration

IN WEST BENGAL, if not in the country as a whole, the gods are as earthly as they are sacred. And the pratimas (Durga idols), in pujo pandals across Kolkata, find the divine in the everyday. This year, for example, Mahishasur has been depicted as the COVID-19 virus, and Durga and her offspring as frontline workers slaying him. Then, there's Durga depicted as a migrant worker — a rendition which sees divinity in those who do the most and, in return, receive the least. In the upcoming festive season — the celebrations were to begin in full force on October 22, shoshti — the goddess must be isolated, and the jostling equality of the crowd, eager to worship and celebrate her conquest and its interpretations, must give way to the necessary precaution of isolation.

The Calcutta High Court's decision to bar visitors from pandals given the "uncontrollable" rise in COVID-19 cases certainly serves the public interest — only members of the puja committees and priests will be allowed into their respective pandals. It is likely that the rituals will be unaffected. And there will undoubtedly be live-streaming of aartis. Zoom calls where families and friends will eat together, in isolation, across distances, and the attempt at rescuing tradition in the face of the pandemic.

But the culture of Durga Puja is not just about religion. It is about community. Bhog is not about the food, but about communal eating — sharing a meal as much with acquaintances and strangers as with friends and family. It is a time when people across classes and backgrounds can enjoy a public space, and, for a period of time, come out from the mechanical oppression of modern life. In fact, even the inconvenience of the crowded pandals is part of their charm. The virus has certainly robbed people of something this year. Hopefully, it will be slayed in time for Pujo 2021.

BANKS DON'T MAKE loans; depositors do. India's Rs 144 lakh crore in bank deposits make our Rs 110 lakh crore in bank loans possible. The "common man" is more likely a depositor than a borrower; banks have 210 crore deposit accounts but only 27 crore loan accounts. I make the case that a court-ordered interest waiver and bad loan recognition ban is scope creep that hurts the common man, has nothing to do with economic justice defined as the greatest good for the greatest number, and is hardly what our Constitution imagined as the role of courts.

Banking seems simple — banks pay interest to depositors, charge higher interest to borrowers and use this "net interest margin" to meet expenses, write off bad loans, and generate profits for shareholders — but is complex because of bad behaviour. Sins include overpaying depositors or employees, undercharging borrowers and making bad loans. Stupidity is not illegal but banks are special because, unlike industrial firms, a liquidity crisis is practically indistinguishable from a solvency crisis. Protecting bank depositors needs ensuring reasonable expenses, collecting loans with interest, ensuring accurate financial statements and fighting political temptations to gift-wrap spending as lending. Tools include prudential norms and subjective judgments on leadership, growth rates and governance. Central banks have tough jobs in the best of times but the courts consistently choose borrowers over depositors; a court warned the RBI pursuing a loan defaulter to not twist arms so hard that they break. Courts taking depositors for granted combines with COVID-19, past banking sins and suspended bankruptcy to make financial stability harder when it is most important.

The average Indian enterprise is small for many reasons but one of them is the availability and cost of credit. Our embarrassing 50 per cent credit-to-GDP ratio — Bihar is 12 per cent and Arunachal is 1 per cent and MSME lending is stuck at Rs 20 lakh crore — needs to rise to 100 per cent. And despite lower inflation and fiscal discipline, most borrowers don't get globally competitive interest rates because our banking system has high bad loans (above Rs 10 lakh crore for the last decade) and financial statement uncertainty (investors know that breaking the thermometer does nothing for the fever so weak bad loan accounting has them imagining the worst). The availability of credit is more important than the cost of credit for entrepreneurs but availability will not rise and cost will not fall till our banking system has strong competition, consistent regulation, effective supervision and non-fiscal sustainability.

Waiving interest dues or banning bad loan recognition is economically ignorant because more than 20 per cent of Indians are depositors while less than 2 per cent are borrowers. It's commercially ignorant because any "annualised effective rate" is adjusted for interest payment frequency. It's spatially ignorant because a common man can't borrow Rs 2 crore. It sabotages economic justice because fiscally funding banking diverts money from education, health and skilling expenditure. Resources are finite (total central government expenditure is Rs 29 lakh crore), scarce (COVID creates a Rs 3 lakh crore GST shortfall) and fragile (our fiscal deficit may exceed 12 per cent).

Government money for bad loan write-offs or interest payments is dysfunctional; the Rs 2 lakh crore fresh equity in the last two years for nationalised banks is 40 times the Ministry of Skills' budget; Bhushan Steel defaulted on more nationalised bank loans than the central government allocation to primary education; and the first 12 defaulters forced into IBC by RBI had nationalised bank loans equal to four times the central government allocation to healthcare. Private banks are not saints but their problems are borne by shareholders (crushing dilution by Rs 1 lakh crore fresh capital raising), management (removal) and market capitalisation calibration (differential price-to-book ratios capture important information).

Our 299 remarkable Constitution writers made two visionary partitions. Their distinction between fundamental rights and directive principles was not a lack of ambition — if fiscal deficits could make countries rich, no country would be poor — but a measured assessment of state capacity, resources and se-quencing. The other was distinct driving lanes for the judiciary, executive and legislature to balance samaj (society), bazaar (markets) and sarkar (government). Courts have become less mindful of these two distinctions; the right to default on interest hardly qualifies as a fundamental right and banning NPA recognition is a violation of constitutional lanes. The most powerful case for lane driving by courts in a democracy comes from Bernard Crick's 1963 book, In Defence of Politics that suggests that the messy, slow and clunky process involving conciliation, compromise and squeezing collective decisions out of conflicting citizen demands is best left to people who fight elections.

Institutional immunity needs balancing of independence and accountability; rising citizen concern about mandates and appointments should trigger court introspection. Ashoka University Professor Madhav Khosla's new book India's Founding Moment wonderfully captures our constitutional imagination; the court's self-assumed mandate as protector of the Constitution's "basic structure" may contradict Ambedkar's view of the text as a living document whose easy amendment procedures protected it from "the faults of rigidity and legalism". And Michael Sandel's new book The Tyranny of Merit should catalyse an open debate on whether current rules for court appointments diminish cognitive diversity and are biased in favour of candidates born in legal households. Meritocracies can be incestuous and unfair.

A modern state is a welfare state but banks are lousy vehicles for "common man Diwali gifts". Gandhiji said "When you are in doubt, apply the following test. Recall the face of the poorest and the weakest man whom you may have seen, and ask yourself, if the step you contemplate is going to be of any use to him. Will it restore his control over his own life and destiny? In other words, will it lead to Swaraj for the hungry and starving millions?" A loan interest waiver and bad loan recognition ban fail this test.

CLOTHES THAT TELL A STORY

Bhanu Athaiya's art was not beholden to star system, spoke its own language

I MET BHANU Athaiya, the legendary costume designer who died on October 15, twice in my life. The first time was at the long-defunct Centaur Hotel in Juhu, where we talked briefly about costumes before she set off to do some work-related shopping. I wanted to interview her formally for my research project, but she demurred, politely but firmly. She wanted to tell her own story, she explained, not hand it over to someone else. The next time, a full eight years later, was at her workshop at Breach Candy, where we talked about her philosophy of film costume. Her book, The Art of Costume Design (2010), had recently been released. As a document of her long and illustrious career, it was, and remains, a must-have for anyone interested in film costume in India.

Like other costume designers, Athaiya had been called on to make costumes for select stars or for the female leads. But she also designed for the entire cast, a rarity — until recently — outside the parallel cinema. One advantage of designing for the whole film, she confessed, was that it liberated her from worrying about pleasing stars. But that wasn't the only reason, since her work for select stars and films afforded her opportunities to explore new styles and themes. The clue came from her reflections on discovering a shared sensibility with other Oscar-winning costume designers, a sensibility rooted in conceiving of costume as something not beholden to a star, not even a director. Costume simply isn't draping one outfit after another on the actor. All the costumes, in all the scenes, form a set with its own contours and rhythms. For Shah Rukh Khan's scenes in Nasa at the beginning of Ashutosh Gowariker's Swades (2004), Athaiya had his shirts tailored in her workshop, even though she could have picked them up ready-made. To her, every element of the design required close supervision. She was able to exercise this singularity of purpose because of her seniority in the industry and the sway that her Oscar commanded.

For this alone she would be remarkable. But she is remembered most fondly by film fans for the iconic costumes she crafted for some of the industry's biggest stars. Revisiting them in the last few days, I've been struck by how beautifully they punctuate the film's narrative. In the stunning ensembles worn by Nadira as Maya from Shree 420 (1955), Athaiya was able, in a series of compact images, to drive home the contrast between her and Nargis's virtuous, sari-wearing Vidya. For Waqt (1965), her designs for Sadhana as Meena and Sharmila Tagore as Renu — their sleeveless kurtas, form-fitting churidars, and gorgeous saris — didn't just introduce a jolt of fashion. In a film with a fair measure of loss and humiliation, they sounded the notes of youthful optimism that helped bring about a happy conclusion.

Within the industry, Athaiya was renowned as a designer of historical films and films that demanded a strong regional identity. She was typically given full rein to steer the costume as she wanted, guided by meticulous archival and visual research but also by talking to locals, observing their costumes, and integrating what she learned into her work. She is most famous for her work on 2001's Lagaan and her masterpiece, Gandhi (1982). Athaiya was responsible not just for outfitting the principal characters but all the secondary characters and junior artists too. There was no option in the early 1980s of adding crowds with computer special effects: Every figure in the crowd had to be dressed. All of this had to be done after only a few months of preparation and within the unbending constraints of the shooting schedule. The operational demands, on top of the creative ones, are staggering to imagine.

Athaiya's career began in the golden age of Hindi film, with Guru Dutt and Raj Kapoor; it drew to a close as costume design was undergoing significant change in the industry, with more filmmakers opting to hire one designer for the film instead of several. Where Athaiya led, others have followed. Costume even now rarely attracts the respect it is owed as a critical component of communication and feeling in films. But thanks to Athaiya's meticulous artistry, it has happily gained some of the spotlight.

CITY OF BLOOD
IRAQI MECHANISED INFANTRY, covered by steady artillery fire, edged closer to Abadan to tighten their stranglehold on the embattled city, supplier of two-thirds of Iran's fuel needs in peacetime. Iraqi sources say infantry and armoured personnel carriers were in position in palm groves on the eastern edge of Abadan, but reports from the front said Abadan's defenders were continuing to offer tenacious defence. In nearby Khorramshahr, Iran's chief trading port, Iraqi forces appear to have gained control over key areas. Iran announced it had renamed Khorramshahr, fertile city in Farsi, to Khuninshahr, the city of blood.

IRAN ON MEDIATION
IRAN'S LEADER, AYATOLLAH Khomeini, agreed to allow a mediation committee of Islamic Heads of State to come to Tehran but said that its task was confined to "investigating the criminal investigation" ordered by the Iraqi president.

VIOLENCE IN UP
TWO PERSONS WERE killed and 31 others were injured following a violent clash between members of two communities and subsequent police firing in Malipurpur village in Saharanpur district. The army was called out and police reinforcements were deployed in order to maintain law and order as communal tension arose following the clash. The trouble is said to have arisen when two persons of one community objected to a procession route of a Dussehra procession.

ID IN DELHI
ID-UL-ZUHA WAS celebrated with traditional amity with thousands of Muslims congregating at the Jama Masjid, Fatehpuri and other mosques to offer prayers. At the Idgah, Hindus and Muslims greeted each other. Amongst those present were Union Home Minister Giani Zail Singh, Khurshid Alam Khan, minister of state for commerce, and Delhi's Lt Governor Jagmohan.

A reform that cannot wait

Hathras incident and its aftermath shine a light on need to sensitise police to its role in society

JAIVEER SHERGILL

MARTIN LUTHER KING had said if as law enforcement officers, we side with justice, then we must recognise that "injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere". The Hathras incident that involved manhandling of Opposition leaders and media by the "protectors of law" has once again reminded us of the triad of malaises afflicting law enforcement in India — the lack of sensitisation of police personnel, absence of accountability under the garb of khaki and politicisation of the police.

In a well-ordered democracy, the police are supposed to be a disciplined force trained to uphold the law and enforce the functioning of democracy on constitutional lines. But, setting aside basic human values of dignity, the Uttar Pradesh police cremated the victim's body in the middle of the night, in the absence of family members. They denied her dignity even after death. Then, violating the basic principle of policing, male police officials manhandled female media persons and female politicians, including Priyanka Gandhi Vadra. Such behaviour by the police and the absence of any effective accountability mechanisms — other than expressing hollow remorse over Twitter and periodic review of performance of the police force — is causing the police to lose the public's confidence. The country must wake up to the crying need for police reform — this is one reform India cannot afford to delay.

Reform should start from the basic level, where it is badly required. The police need to be sensitised about their role in society. There has to be promptness of action and decency of behaviour. They need to be trained in body language and strictly advised to refrain from abusive behaviour. The sensitisation module should aim at bringing about attitudinal change — especially pertaining to gender and power relations and police behaviour. It is necessary to increase public confidence in the police by upgrading levels of police service delivery as well as by investigating and acting in cases of police misconduct.

The second important aspect is police accountability. Confidence in police, which is a prerequisite to effective policing, erodes significantly when the public perceives that police abuses are not investigated effectively. The Police Ombudsman of Northern Ireland, the Danish Independent Police Complaints Authority and the Independent Police Conduct Authority in New Zealand are classic examples of mechanisms for accountability of the police for acts of abuse of power. Enhancing accountability will improve police legitimacy and increase public confidence, which, in turn, will reinforce the integrity of the system. Linked to accountability is de-politicisation of the police force. This is a must for the effective functioning of the country's criminal justice system. The police, as the custodian of maintenance of law and order, must stay away from agenda-driven politics.

In order to achieve these objectives, structural issues within the force must be given priority. According to a report by Common Cause in 2019, the Indian police force is at only 77 per cent of its sanctioned strength. India has 144 police personnel for one lakh population and, in some states, the figure is less than 100. One in every five posts sanctioned in the Indian Police Service remains vacant. The situation is more worrying when it comes to vacancies in low and middle rank posts. In these positions, the vacancies of 5.28 lakh personnel account for nearly one-fourth of the total sanctioned strength of over 22 lakh. A fully staffed police force would only increase India's police-to-population ratio to 185 against the UN recommended ratio of 222. The police-to-people ratio should be improved by at least 50 per cent to meet the challenges faced by the force. Women are grossly underrepresented in our police force. They constitute less than 7 per cent of our total police strength. With the increase in the number of gender crimes, it has become a necessity to augment the strength of police by recruiting more and more women police personnel. The situation in Uttar Pradesh is the worst where police are at roughly 50 per cent of sanctioned strength. When the numbers are inadequate, police personnel are stretched, leading to shoddy policing. The existing police personnel are also not adequately trained. Less than 7 per cent police get in-service training. Gujarat scores the lowest, with less than one per cent having received any in-service training.

Since the National Police Commission in 1977, several committees were set up, including the Gore Committee, Padmanabhaiah Committee and Malimath Committee. These commissions and committees have made far-reaching recommendations. The recommendations of the Dharma Vira Commission have farsighted implications. One of its recommendations is that the top police leadership should be selected by apolitical representatives and an impartial body. It was a strong antidote to opportunistic appointments and transfers. Recommendations of the commission, if implemented, along with the Supreme Court directives of 2006 by Justice Sabharwal, in true letter and spirit, will go a long way in police reform. Reforms in the criminal justice system and separation of law and order from investigation and prosecution are the other areas that need the attention of the authorities. These aspects have been highlighted by many commissions and committees constituted by the Centre.

The challenge of India is to restore the culture of rule of law, and make police and justice accessible, effective and credible. A new role and new philosophy have to be defined for the police to not only make it a capable and effective body but also one accountable to the law of the land and to the people whom they serve. The government of the day should take keen interest in the matter. We have to address the fundamentals if we want better policing.

Every citizen a Covid warrior

Remaining within the 'lakshman rekha' is key as we embrace the festive season with responsibility and caution

SHASHANK R JOSHI

OFTEN, WE THINK of the "worst-case scenario" during pandemics. This fuels panic and fear and, at times, makes us take decisions that are not guided by prudence, logic and evidence. The COVID-19 pandemic has been no different. India rose to the occasion initially, screening airline passengers and then, suddenly, announcing a nationwide lockdown. In retrospect, we can say that the lockdown restricted movement, made Indians homebound but it also contained the pandemic and, most definitely, saved lives. The trapped migrant workers, however, struggled for livelihood and had to be gradually transported back to their homes — this created a strain for the establishment.

The lockdown gave India time to prepare. But we had to take an economic hit — a transient one, it seems — and ramp up our healthcare infrastructure. The healthcare sector responded proactively across the board; that clearly made a significant dent on the number of infections and helped keep the fatality rate in check. Unfortunately, the sign of a catastrophe often compels us to act impulsively — we tend to forget "balancing" between saving lives and hampering livelihoods. Plans and policies based on mathematical models are, unfortunately, not often valid in the biological world of lethal pathogens like the coronavirus. Systematic evidence-based research in public health can map the pandemic geographically and generate more informed decision-making. The Centre and state governments rose to the occasion, often relying on expert advice. However, the heterogeneity of India and the complexities in our systems made implementation of simple things tough.

So, what are the lessons we have learned from the pandemic? And are we in a position to deal with the health crisis better?

Indians showed enormous resilience. The data speaks for itself — the second-most populous country in the world has one of the best recovery rates and one of the lowest case fatality rates.

It is often said that we did not test enough. But a careful analysis of the Indian strategy shows that testing was scaled up from a near-absent base to one of the largest testing capacities, with the fastest turnaround time in the world. The COVID-19 antigen test has a response time of less than an hour and the RT-PCR test less than 24 hours — this is something that even large countries like the US and the UK struggle with. We will still need more innovations that produce rapid solutions — saliva tests, for example. The CRISPR-based tests are likely to provide a cutting-edge dimension to the battle against the virus. The need to validate the viral load cycle threshold values is the next research milestone that will help assess who needs extra care among the infected.

As we mindfully unlock the country, it is time to focus on protecting the most susceptible — those above 55 years of age with comorbidities. However, we can't be complacent about adults and youth, who can be the silent spreaders. They need to follow the COVID-19 kavach mantra of using masks, following social distance protocols and being scrupulous about hygiene. Self-care, self-protection and atmanirbharta (self-reliance) is the key to COVID-19 control. The virus is unpredictable and tricky. Localised transmission is well known in the community and a clear-cut containment strategy is mandatory. A strict and result-oriented containment plan driven by sound public health science is still needed in hot-spots. The transmission trajectory of the virus has moved from the poorer urban slums to middle-class localities and has seeped into the community. Indians have risen to this challenge, while also negotiating an infodemic that has often been full of myths.

Demystification and allaying fears are important, but we have often seen extreme posturing in the past few months. We now know that the coronavirus is an airborne droplet which thrives in moist environments, and is transmitted via saliva, nasal, throat secretions and cough droplets, apart from physical contact with contaminated surfaces. We need to minimise activities that require physical contact. Exhaust fans and air recirculation in public kitchens and toilets can impact the disease transmission.

Gatherings — small, medium or large — can be potential spreaders. Avoiding crowds and breathing fresh air in well-ventilated spaces is the way forward. Indian culture is full of feasts and festivals and these often involve travel, movement and interaction. The lockdown has impacted minds in a mixed way — people are trapped between fear and recklessness. Remaining within the Lakshman rekha is the key as we embrace the festive season with responsibility and caution. Indians have the highest tolerance threshold for centuries, which now needs to be channelled in COVID-appropriate behaviour and habits.

Simple habits enshrined in our traditional culture can be re-inducted in our daily lives. Eating healthy protein-rich food — but not in excess — avoiding fried and fast food, as well as not eating excessively will stand us in good stead. Eating slowly, eating on time and focusing on traditional foods that build immunity hold the key. Exercising is important — from a simple suryanamaskar and breathing exercises like pranayama to expanding and improving our lung capacity. Often chanting mantras generates positive energy, reduces anxiety and allows us to focus without fear. Sleeping well, sleeping on time and sleeping early is also important

A bogey for the BJP

In Bihar, the party is trying to spread fear about the CPI(ML). It won't work

THE BJP, WHICH hijacked power in Bihar in 2017 by colluding with Nitish Kumar against the emphatic anti-BJP 2015 mandate of the people of Bihar, had thought it could steal the Bihar elections again by using COVID-19 and the lockdown as shields for the BJP and the party is trying to scare the people against the RJD-Left-INC Mahagathbandhan and, especially, the presence of the CPI(ML) in the alliance.

What makes the BJP so desperate? The party clearly has no answer to the questions that are uppermost in people's minds in these elections. It needs bogeys to divert the attention of the people and it hopes it can invoke the CPI(ML) as a bogey to cover up the fear the BJP has spread throughout the country through its disastrous policies, hate-filled politics and cruel and repressive governance.

The people of Bihar have reasons to fear the BJP for all that it is doing in neighbouring UP, where Yogi Adityanath Raj is marked by a complete collapse of the rule of law.

What has been the track record of the CPI(ML) in the electoral arena? The CPI(ML) made its mark in Bihar in the late 1980s as the party which resisted booth-capturing and inspired and empowered the landless poor and disenfranchised Dalits to exercise their right to vote. Dalits had to face a massacre in Bhojpur after their first vote, but they succeeded in sending Rameshwar Prasad to Parliament as the first CPI(ML) MP in 1989. The other CPI(ML) leader to have been elected to the Lok Sabha in four consecutive elections was Jayanta Rongpi from the Autonomous District constituency in Assam.

Who have been the CPI(ML) MLAs in Bihar and Jharkhand?

Ram Naresh Ram, the iconic communist leader of Bhojpur who won three successive elections from Sahar; Yogeshwar Gope, legendary leader of state government employees' movement in Bihar; Mahendra Singh, the boldest voice of the people in Jharkhand who was assassinated during the 2005 elections just after nomination; peasant leaders such as Chandradeep Singh, Amarnath Yadav, Rajaram Singh, Arun Singh and Sudama Prasad; agricultural labour leader Satyadev Ram; popular communist leader of Seemanchal, Mahboob Alam; popular Jharkhand leaders like Vinod Singh and Rajkumar Yadav — such has been the team of CPI(ML) members in Bihar and Jharkhand assemblies.

Many BJP MLAs and MPs would mark an ignominious contrast to this illustrious list. Rape accused and convicted MLAs of the likes of Kuldeep Sengar, the likes of terror accused Pragna Thakur who glorifies Gandhi's assassin Godse, or ministers like Giriraj Singh celebrating notorious massacre mastermind Brahmeshwar Singh as Bihar's Gandhi, and chief minister Yogi Adityanath misusing his position to drop all criminal charges against himself — the BJP can boast of such shameful examples that will go down in history as a disgrace to India's democracy.

The BJP is afraid of the poor and the oppressed finding a voice. The BJP just cannot stomach the fact that the poor have managed to emerge as a fighting force energising Bihar's ongoing battle for change.

The Mahagathbandhan or the grand alliance in Bihar marks the coming together of communist, socialist, and Congress streams of India's glorious movement for freedom. The ideological and organisational predecessors of BJP betrayed the freedom movement then by collaborating with the British rulers.

Today they are trying to rule India like the bhure angrez (brown sahibs) Bhagat

Singh had warned us against — imposing a new company raj and silencing the voices of dissent and democracy with cruel draconian laws and repressive governance exactly as the colonial rulers did.

We have the inheritance of the freedom movement and democracy. We are the heirs of Bhagat Singh and Ambedkar, who blazed the trail for social equality and people's emancipation.

The RSS, which was inspired by Mussolini and Hitler, remains fiercely opposed to India's secular, democratic inheritance and the quest for justice, freedom, equality and fraternity cherished in the Preamble to the Constitution.

Let the BJP dread the assertion of the poor and the oppressed people for their rights, and the coming together of forces in defence of democracy and the Constitution. Bihar is determined to punish the betrayers of the 2015 mandate, the destroyers of India's economy and the cruel and sadist architects of the lockdown that caused limitless pain and humiliation to the people of Bihar. The decisive hour for change has arrived and Bihar is ready to fight and win this battle.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PRUDENT SILENCE

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Hope and caution' (IE, October 20). The pandemic has been a bottomless pit and countries across the globe are at sea in dealing with it. The Department of Science and Technology painting a rosy picture has to be taken with a pinch of salt, given that factors such as the approaching winter and festive season are conducive to the virus's spread. For a common man, such predictions have no relevance: Since the onset of COVID-19, predictions have gone haywire. It would be prudent of government agencies to refrain from the dissemination of good or bad news on pandemic behaviour.

POOR DECISION

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Numbers don't lie' (IE, October 19). Sidharth Nath Singh's article read as a distressing government PR job. It is shocking that it secured such a prominent space in a leading and respected newspaper. The Uttar Pradesh minister is not apologising for Hathras or the heinous crimes in his state but praising his chief minister for performing better than the 10 states languishing below UP. If a leading newspaper allows such an article, what chance do common people have of demanding political accountability?

INDIA IS READY

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Along way from 1962' (IE, October 20). While China has stolen the march on the economic front, India is not very far behind in the military dimension. Chinese armed forces have an advantage in terms of numbers and the backing of a huge indigenous arms industry but the Indian armed forces are battle-hardened, having successfully fought three wars after 1962. The PLA suffered reverses against Vietnam. The Indian army also has experience of fighting in high altitudes and is psychologically better prepared, having fought an asymmetric war in the Kashmir valley for the last 30 years.

UP: 400 cases against women, children on priority list

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 20

THREE DAYS into the launch of the Mission Shakti campaign by the Uttar Pradesh government for women security, the state's prosecution directorate has identified as many as 400 cases related to crimes against women and children for their earlier judicial remedy.

In most of the identified cases — 134 of the 400 being of "serious nature" — the trial has been completed, officials at the prosecution department said.

"With coordination from every level, we are working hard to conclude them at the earliest. We are monitoring the progress in these cases on a daily basis," Additional Director General (Prosecution) Ashutosh Pandey said. "With prompt prosecution, our efforts is to ensure that accused get punished," the official added.

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath had launched "Mission Shakti", a six-month drive to ensure safety and security of women and children, on

UP CM Yogi Adityanath

Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath launched Mission Shakti, a six-month drive to ensure safety and security of women and children, on October 17

October 17, coinciding with the beginning of Navratri.

Speaking to a group of women gram pradhans on Sunday, the Chief Minister had said that his government would soon launch a special drive to initiate "legal action against all those who are a threat to women security or those who are indulging in corruption in the welfare schemes for women".

"In the first phase of the Mission Shakti programme, we are going to spread awareness on women safety. In the second phase, legal action will be taken, and in the third phase, we will launch massive action against two kinds of people — one who are a threat to the security of women and those who are promoting widespread corruption in schemes meant for the welfare of women," the Chief Minister had said.

In the last three days, the government said that as 14 people received the death penalty in 11 cases related to crimes against women and children in the state. An official said life imprisonment was awarded to 28 convicts and 39 others were sentenced to jail terms of different durations. "The prosecution department also got bail cancelled of 398 accused in cases related to crimes against women and children," the official added.

Over 230 Dalits embrace Buddhism in NCR: 'Hathras crime tipping point'

SOMYA LAKHANI NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

WHEN SUNITA, 45, a household help, asked her employer for a glass of water, she was reluctantly handed a steel tumbler and asked to use only that. "It was kept in a corner of the kitchen, marked aside for me to use — for everyone entering the kitchen to know that I am a Valmiki... This incident repeated in most houses I worked in," said Sunita, seated outside her house in Ghaziabad's Karera village, near Hindon residential area.

In 2009, when her eldest son Pawan went to a luxury apartment complex in Ghaziabad to apply for the job of a peon, his surname — "Valmiki", a Scheduled Caste community — was enough for the employer to say he could only work in the cleaning department. "I didn't apply for a cleaning job (but) I took it because I needed the money. However, I recognised the discrimination. We are facing this for generations," Pawan said.

In a bid to ensure that his two children don't undergo the same discrimination, Pawan converted to Buddhism on October 14, along with his family members and several neighbours. He said 236 people from Karera embraced Buddhism in the presence of Rajratn Ambedkar, the great grand-nephew of Dr B R Ambedkar.

Among them is Inder Ram (65), who worked as a mechanic in east Delhi's Shahdara until a few years ago. "After what happened in Hathras with the 19-year-old Dalit woman, we decided to convert," he said. "There is no caste in Buddhism; no one is a Thakur or a Valmiki there. Everyone is a human being, everyone is just a Buddhist."

The Hathras victim was allegedly gangraped and assaulted, leading to her death, by four upper-caste men last month.

"We thought of converting in the past as well but this (Hathras) incident shook us up — the way state machinery is grilling the victim's family, the way she was cremated at 2.30 am without her family's permission," Pawan said.

He said people in Karera took out a candlelight march in the area a few days after she died. Soon after, Pawan said, he began pitching the idea to convert to Buddhism.

Kamlesh, 50, who used to collect scrap before the lockdown, said, "The Hathras incident was the tipping point for most of us. Converting to another religion is not an easy decision. It means leaving behind old rituals, but we are now tired... aaj se hum Valmiki nahi, Buddhist hai (from today, we are not Valmikis but Buddhists)."

Talking about rituals, Sunita said this is the first time in years that she isn't fasting on Navratri. Tara Chand, 70, who worked as a sweeper, said, "In Buddhism, there is no fasting, no idol worship. We have embraced it fully. My father was discriminated against, so was I, so are my children, and their children. When will this stop? When will we progress?"

Recalling a conversation with his children about their classmates, Kamal said: "Upper-caste children don't want to sit with our children; teachers want our children to be backbenchers. Why? Because of their surname: 'Valmiki'. So we will change it. This is for our future."

Unnao gangrape victim kin missing: Police get court's nod for polygraph test on accused

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 20

UNNAO POLICE have obtained a local court's permission to get a lie-detector test done on five accused, including three women, arrested for allegedly kidnapping the six-year-old nephew of a gangrape victim on October 2.

Those arrested for allegedly kidnapping him are relatives of the five booked in the gangrape case. The 23-year-old woman was raped and later set on fire while she was on her way to the court to attend the hearing in the gangrape case last December. She died of the burn injuries.

"Recently, we moved the court seeking permission to get the lie-detector test done on the five accused booked in the kidnapping case. Police moved the court only after obtaining consent from the accused. The court has given us permission," said SP, Unnao, Suresh A Kulkarni. Police have contacted officials of Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow to get the test lie-detector done.

78-yr-old doctor held for sexually harassing woman patient: Police

SAGAR RAJPUT MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

A 78-YEAR-OLD dermatologist has been arrested for allegedly sexually harassing a woman in his clinic on Friday. The police said the skin specialist had also been arrested in 2015 for allegedly molesting another woman.

According to the police, in the latest incident, a 48-year-old woman visited the doctor in his clinic on August 26 for treatment of an allergy on her forehead. The woman has alleged in her complaint that the doctor touched her inappropriately and asked her questions that made her uncomfortable. The doctor gave her medicines and asked her to return after 15 days. Accordingly, she visited his clinic on September 12. Again, he touched her inappropriately, the woman has alleged.

She visited his clinic again on Friday, as the doctor had given her another appointment. "This time I went with my two sons. Elder son remained in the car while I took the younger one along as he had some allergy on his forehead. The doctor called him first. After he came out, I went in at 5 pm," she told the police.

The woman alleged that the doctor locked the door from inside. "He then touched me inappropriately and kissed me. I tried raising an alarm, managed to push him and escaped," she has said in her police complaint.

The woman then called her husband, who asked her to lodge a complaint at the local police station. Police have registered a case under sections 354 (assault or criminal force to woman with intent to outrage her modesty), 354 (B) (assault or use of criminal force to woman with intent to disobey) and 509 (word, gesture or act intended to insult the modesty of a woman) of the IPC.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (zone II) Rajiv Jain confirmed the arrest. "The incident took place in the evening after which she came to the police station. Case was registered by night and the accused was arrested."

The police said the accused was remanded in police custody till Monday. He was again produced in court on Monday and sent to jail.

TRP 'scam': Mumbai Police arrests two more Hansa group ex-staffers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

THE MUMBAI Police on Tuesday arrested two more former employees of Hansa Research Group in connection with the 'TRP scam', taking the total number of arrests to eight.

Republic TV executive editor, its Chief Financial Officer and distribution chief have been summoned for questioning on Wednesday, the police said.

Those arrested on Tuesday are Ramji Verma (44) and Dinesh Vishwakarma (37). Verma was arrested from his residence in Worli while Vishwakarma was nabbed from Mumbai airport.

The police said initially they believed Vishwakarma was hiding in his hometown at Jaunpur in Uttar Pradesh and accordingly a team was sent. "But we could not locate him. Later, we learnt that he was coming to Mumbai by flight after which we laid a trap at the airport and caught him," a police officer said.

The police were after the two after the questioning of two other former Hansa employees, Vishal Bhandari and Umesh Mishra, arrested in the case earlier.

“Vishwakarma allegedly provided cash to Bhandari while Verma allegedly gave money to Mishra and had asked them to hand it to the owners of panel homes on behalf of a channel,” the officer said.

According to the police, from 2013 to 2015, Verma was employed as a relationship manager with Hansa Research Group.

The two will be produced in court on Wednesday. The crime branch on Tuesday also recorded the statement of Ebixcash Managing Director Milhan Ganatra. “Ebixcash is one of the advertisers of Republic TV and we wanted to understand on what basis did they give ads. Accordingly, he was called and his statement was recorded,” an officer said.

The Mumbai Police said they would continue to investigate the 'TRP scam' and said the move of the UP government would not impact their investigation. A senior IPS officer, who is overseeing the investigation in the 'TRP scam', said, "As far as I am aware our case is very much with the Mumbai Crime Branch and we will not transfer it until we get any directions from the Supreme Court, High Court or the Maharashtra government."

With southwest monsoon lingering, northeast monsoon delayed: IMD

ANJALI MARAR
PUNE, OCTOBER 20

WITH THE southwest monsoon still lingering, the onset of the northeast monsoon, which brings rain over the southern peninsula, will be delayed this year.

India receives rain from two monsoons—the southwest monsoon between June and September followed by the northeast monsoon, which is restricted over the southern peninsula between October and December. Tamil Nadu, parts of Andhra Pradesh and Puducherry receive their annual rain quota from the latter monsoon.

Under normal circumstances, the southwest monsoon would completely withdraw from over most parts of the country by October 15. "Though October 15 is the normal date for completion of withdrawal from the entire country, there is an accepted deviation of seven days. That is, if the withdrawal is completed from the entire country by October 22, it is still considered as normal. But this year, it is unlikely to occur by October 22," said IMD director general Mrutyunjay Mohapatra. "Unless the southwest monsoon withdraws completely, the northeast monsoon cannot commence."

The withdrawal of the southwest monsoon has remained stagnant since October 6. As on Tuesday, the Northern Limit of Monsoon (NLM) continued to pass along Faizabad, Fatehpur, Nowgong, Ratlam and Porbandar. The delay was mainly due to the formation of two low pressure systems over the Bay of Bengal. One system formed last week and had traversed across the southern peninsula, causing widespread rain and left behind a trail of destruction. Another low pressure system developed on October 19 and continues to remain in the Bay of Bengal.

Between October 1 and 20, the country recorded 8 per cent surplus rain — most of it recorded over the south and eastern states owing to this weather system. However on Tuesday, the IMD said conditions for the withdrawal to resume were likely to develop this week. "The southwest monsoon could further retreat from remaining parts of UP, Bihar, Sikkim, Jharkhand and rest of MP, Gujarat and north Maharashtra within the next two to three days," an official from the Regional Meteorological Centre, Mumbai said.

According to the IMD, the normal date for onset of winter monsoon is October 20.

Body of girl who went missing in Barabanki found; post-mortem says she drowned

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 20

TWO DAYS after an FIR was registered against a youth for allegedly kidnapping a 17-year-old girl, her body was found in a canal in Barabanki district on Monday.

Police claimed to have found no injury marks on the body, and a post-mortem report confirmed drowning as the cause of death. Police said they had arrested the accused based on a complaint by the girl's father.

The FIR was registered on Saturday under IPC sections 363 (kidnapping) and 366 (kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc), said Additional SP Ram Sewak Gautam, also the interim SP of the district.

In the FIR, the girl's father said she had left her house on October 15 but did not return

In the FIR, the girl's father alleged that she had left her house on October 15 to fill an online form from a Janseva Kendra, but did not return.

Her family accused a 19-year-old youth of kidnapping her.

IG of Ayodhya Range Sanjeev Gupta said the post-mortem report had confirmed ante-mortem drowning as the cause of death, and viscera of the girl had been preserved.

In a separate case, a decomposed body of an unidentified, middle-aged woman was found in the district. Gautam said the body appeared to be around 10-12 days old.

"The body is badly decomposed to its skeleton. We did not find any document or piece of evidence on the body to identify it. We will send the bones for testing, and this may give us some clues," he said.

PM Modi

He pointed out that India had done better in terms of mortality rate and recovery rate compared with countries like the United States and Brazil. "Our recovery rate is among the highest in the world, the fatality rate is low," Modi said.

"Out of every million, we have around 83 deaths. This, compared to other nations, which have seen around 600 deaths per million, is much better... India will soon cross the 10 crore mark in Covid testing. This has been our strength."

The Prime Minister also lauded health workers for their selfless service during the crisis.

But, Modi cautioned, "This is not the time to be careless, this is not the time to think that Corona is gone or that there is no danger from it. These days we see a lot of pictures and videos in which people are seen being careless... This is not at all right. If you are careless, walking out without a mask, then you are putting yourself, your family, children, the elderly at risk."

In Europe, America, and other countries, Modi said, the number of cases have spiked again after falling. "We should continue to be careful and not be callous until the vaccine for the virus is developed."

Modi quoted from Kabir that a farmer could not be overconfident, for until the crop reaches home, his work is not done. "Similarly, our battle will not be over until a vaccine is developed," he said, adding that scientists around the world have been working on it on a war footing.

Indian scientists too, have been working on the vaccine, and there is some good news on that front, the Prime Minister said. The government, he said, is working on ways to reach the vaccine to every Indian once it is developed.

The Prime Minister greeted people on the occasion of festivals such as Navratri, Dussehra, Eid, Deepawali, Chhath Puja and Guru Nanak Jayanti.

Multiple IDs

to receive the vaccine, Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan said at the weekly briefing on Covid-19 that in order to ensure no one was deprived of vaccination, multiple IDs would be used during the inoculation drive.

On Monday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had said the country was working on putting in place a well-established vaccine delivery system — and that this network, along with the digital health ID, would be used to ensure the immunisation of citizens.

"The National Digital Health Mission as it exists today does not make digital ID mandatory to receive service under the digital ecosystem that it is creating. Therefore, to say that it would become mandatory for vaccination and those who don't have health IDs would be deprived, is probably not the right interpretation," Bhushan said.

"Health ID would be utilised in those cases where the individual/recipient/beneficiary does not have (another) health ID; there are multiple other IDs which can be utilised as in the case of the present NDHM. It would be almost like the electoral scenario, where multiple IDs are prescribed (for voters) beforehand, so that no one is deprived of the benefits of vaccination," he said.

Dr Bhargava said discussions were under way on WHO's Solidarity Trial that has concluded that four experimental drugs — including the anti-malaria drug HCQ and remdesivir, which are part of India's treatment protocol — have no effect on hospitalised Covid-19 patients.

"India has done the largest trial on plasma therapy. This paper was accepted by the British Medical Journal and we have received the proofs of it. It will appear very soon with more than 10 pages of hardcore science talking about plasma therapy and Covid-19. We had a discussion with the national task force and we are further discussing with the joint monitoring group. This (plasma therapy) may be deleted from the national guidelines," Dr Bhargava said.

"WHO's solidarity trial, of which India has been a participant, has just put up their interim results. These have not yet been peer-reviewed. However, we find that these drugs are not performing as we expected," he said.

Meanwhile, the Centre said that 246 independent oxygen generation plants were being installed in hospitals in 18 states; 67 were at various stages of completion. In the second phase, 150 additional plants would be installed.

Damoh

Asked why he didn't support her sterilisation, Dullah claims she didn't have the "courage" to go through with it.

In the eight months of a high-risk pregnancy, Sukhrani was given two iron dosages on September 12 and September 16. However, a month later, a severely anaemic Sukhrani suddenly went into labour at 3 pm on October 11.

Dullah called for an ambulance, which arrived in an hour. By then, Sukhrani had already delivered a still born. Vishwakarma said Sukhrani had bled profusely after the delivery. "I asked her to change the clothes to get to the hospital, but all she could muster was 'Himmat nahii ho rahi hai'," she said.

Sukhrani's death serves as a test case to highlight glaring gaps in health infrastructure here. The Centre's ambitious Ayushman Bharat scheme has reached only 2.67 lakh people of Damoh while 9.10 lakh are still waitlisted. Only up to 3,000 people have been treated under the scheme in the district hospital of Damoh while only four in private hospitals. Incidentally, 70 per cent of the hospital's bill is due as per officials.

The Hatta civil hospital is the only one for a population of 1.75 lakh and caters to a few villages of the adjoining Chhatrapur and Panna districts too. It has five MBBS doctors, but no gynaecologist. Of the 3,000 pregnancies in a year, about 40 per cent are referred to the district hospital in Damoh. The remaining are facilitated by the hospital's 15 nurses in the absence of a gynaecologist.

When contacted, Chief Medical Block Officer for Hatta, P D Kargaiyan, said: "We have trained our nurses to carry out these deliveries since the hospital has not had a gynaecologist for about 15 years now. With no gynaecologist, it gets difficult to deal with a pregnant woman who is critically anaemic."

Back at the two-room house in Padajhir, Dullah has set out to immerse her mortal remains at the Ganga while Sukhrani's eight children sit huddled in the two-room house. Two of her eldest daughters Sangita and Savita who works as migrant labourers have returned to Padajhir. Savitha who has two children almost the same age as that of her youngest brother says, "My brother cried for our mother. If only she had the courage to get herself sterilised" she says. And the support of her husband.

Kaleshwaram

Hyderabad and Secunderabad.

The environmental clearance, granted to the project in Karimnagar district on December 22, 2017 by the Ministry of Environment, Forests and Climate Change, was cancelled by the NGT on October 12 — it was uploaded Tuesday — on a petition by a farmer from Siddipet district who said he was directly affected by the project.

The petition, filed on February 16, 2018, stated that while Kaleshwaram was a lift irrigation system, the state government wrongly claimed, until the grant of environmental clearance, that the project was only for drinking water supply.

"The application for EC (environmental clearance) was made in January 2017. EC was granted in December 2017, but before that substantial work had already been undertaken. Thus, according to the appellant, the impugned EC was ex post facto, in violation of EIA Notification, 2006," the NGT order stated.

The petitioner, in his plea, stated: "The lift irrigation scheme involves submergence of approximately 32,000 hectares (in Telangana and Maharashtra)."

The Tribunal, in its order, stated: "Apart from the allegation of EC being given after substantial work of the project was completed, further challenge by the appellant is on the ground that the EC was granted without application of mind, overlooking the procedural irregularities as well as environmental aspects."

The Tribunal had issued notices to the respondents on February 19, 2018. The Telangana government submitted that the project was conceived by the erstwhile State of Andhra Pradesh which also involved water supply to Hyderabad City and other places en route Hyderabad. Mission Bhagiratha was a part of the project to remedy drought conditions in the area.

FOR THE first time since July-end, India has recorded less than 50,000 new infections with novel coronavirus — 47,000 cases detected on Monday.

Sharp drops in daily numbers on Mondays are a familiar pattern now, because of low testing on Sunday. But even then, the fall in the detection of new cases this week is much larger than expected. This Sunday, 8.59 lakh tests were conducted, against the normal range of 10 to 11 lakh tests every day. When between eight and nine lakh tests per day was the norm, India was detecting well over 60,000 cases.

The continuous decline in the number of new cases has meant that, after two-and-a-half months, India has stopped reporting the highest number of cases in the world. For the last three days, the US has reported more new infections than India. There is resurgence in several countries of Europe too.

A government-appointed committee of scientists had said on Sunday the epidemic in India might have reached a peak, and the decline begun. It said if everything went well from here, the epidemic might be under control by February.

Prof Manindra Agrawal of IIT Kanpur, part of the committee, told The Indian Express it was not necessary that India would also undergo a second wave of infections as is currently happening in the US and Europe. But it was important for people to follow safety instructions.

In genetic code of coronavirus, a number of 'silent' mutations

BEFORE THE Covid-19 pandemic, the coronavirus SARS-CoV-2 lived harmlessly in bats and other animals. Now, researchers at Duke University have identified a number of "silent" mutations in the virus's genetic code that helped it thrive after it crossed over to humans. The study is published in PeerJ.

The researchers developed statistical methods to identify adaptive changes that arose in the SARS-CoV-2 genome in humans, but not in closely related coronaviruses found in bats and pangolins. The study flagged mutations that altered the spike proteins, suggesting that viral strains carrying these mutations were more likely to thrive. It also identified additional culprits in two other regions of the SARS-CoV-2 genome, dubbed Nsp4 and Nsp16. These appear to have given the virus a biological edge over previous strains without altering the proteins they encode. Instead of affecting proteins, the researchers said, the changes likely affected how the virus's genetic material folds up into 3-D shapes and functions inside human cells.

What's in India-US defence deals

SIMPLY PUT QUESTION & ANSWER

At 2+2 meeting next week, the two countries will look to push intelligence sharing pact BECA. With key deals LEMOA and COMCASA already signed, what does it mean for defence, particularly in light of LAC standoff?

SHUBHAJIT ROY
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

INDIA AND THE US are preparing for the third 2+2 ministerial meeting between External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, and US Secretary of State Michael Pompeo and Defense Secretary Mark T Esper in New Delhi on October 26-27. Deputy Secretary of State Stephen E Biegun visited India last week to lay the groundwork for the high-level visits.

One of the items on the agenda will be the Basic Exchange and Cooperation Agreement (BECA) — a pact with deep military implications. In the last two meetings, agreements known as LEMOA and COMCASA were signed; now, with BECA, these have been dubbed the trioka of foundational pacts — essentially laying the foundation for deeper military cooperation.

What is BECA?

The Basic Exchange and Cooperation Agreement largely pertains to geospatial intelligence, and sharing information on maps and satellite images for defence. According to officials, anyone who sails a ship, flies an aircraft, fights wars, locates targets, responds to natural disasters, or even navigates with a cellphone relies on geospatial intelligence.

Signing BECA will allow India to use the US's advanced geospatial intelligence and enhance the accuracy of automated systems and weapons like missiles and armed drones. It will give access to topographical and aeronautical data and products that will aid navigation and targeting.

To use an everyday example, just like an Uber cab needs a good GPS to reach its destination quickly and efficiently, BECA will provide Indian military systems with a high-quality GPS to navigate and missiles with real-time intelligence to precisely target the adversary.

This could be key for Air Force-to-Air Force cooperation. India and the US have stepped up efforts to sign the pact during the upcoming 2+2. This flows from the commitment in the joint statement during US President Donald Trump's visit in February this year, when the two sides had said they looked forward to an "early conclusion" of BECA.

What are the other two agreements about?

LEMOA: The Logistics Exchange Memorandum of Agreement was signed between India and the US in August 2016. It allows the military of each country to replenish from the other's bases: access supplies, spare parts and services from the other country's land facilities, air bases, and ports, which can then be reimbursed. This is extremely useful for Navy-to-Navy cooperation, since the US and India are cooperating closely in the Indo-Pacific.

Again, to put this simply, it is like going to a friend's garage and workshop to refuel one's car and getting repairs done. But, by doing this, one is also exposing one's car and technology to the friend, and that requires trust. In military terms, one's Naval ships are strategic assets and use of another country's base would expose one's military asset to the host.

If signing LEMOA needed trust, its application enhances the trust. It took almost a decade to negotiate LEMOA. This, in a sense, has bridged the trust deficit and paved the way for the remaining "foundational pacts".

Former diplomats say that while India had provided logistics support ad hoc in the past — refuelling of American aircraft in Bombay during the first Gulf War in 1991, visits by US ships to Indian ports during the war against terrorism after 9/11 — the signing of LEMOA has made it a smoother process.

COMCASA: The Communications Compatibility and Security Agreement was signed in September 2018, after the first 2+2 dialogue in which then External Affairs Minister Sushma Swaraj and Defence Minister Nirmala Sitharaman met visiting US Secretary of State Michael R Pompeo and then Secretary of Defence James Mattis. It allows the US to provide India with its encrypted communications equipment and systems so that Indian and US military commanders, aircraft and ships can communicate through secure networks in peace and war.

To explain in lay terms again, it is like WhatsApp or Telegram for the two militaries, which is safe and real-time communication is possible hassle-free.

COMCASA paved the way for transfer of communication security equipment from the US to India to facilitate "interoperability" between their forces — and potentially with other militaries that use US-origin systems for secure data links.

So, what do these three pacts put together mean?

While LEMOA means one partner trusts the other enough to expose its valuable assets, COMCASA means one is confident that it can rely on encrypted systems to connect the two militaries, and BECA means it can share highly classified information in real time without fear of being compromised. All this signals the level of trust that has developed between the two countries and their militaries, faced with an increasingly aggressive China.

So, what does this mean in the context of the ongoing border standoff?

Amid the longest stand-off on the India-China border in three decades, India and the US have intensified under-the-radar intelligence and military cooperation at an unprecedented level, especially since June.

After Pompeo called up Jaishankar in the third week of June, National Security Advisor Ajit Doval has been in touch with the US NSA, Robert O'Brien, while Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen Mark A Milley has been in touch with Chief of Defence Staff Gen Bipin Rawat. Also, Esper called up Rajnath Singh in July second week.

These conversations have facilitated information-sharing between security, military and intelligence branches of the two countries — almost reminiscent of the Indo-US cooperation of the 1960s, especially after the 1962 war. The cooperation includes sharing of high-end satellite images, telephone intercepts, and data sharing of Chinese troops and weapons deployment along the 3,488 km Line of Actual Control (LAC). Sources said New Delhi is watching the Chinese movements in "all sectors" of the LAC.

The Indian defence establishment also has enhanced capability with some American equipment. The armed forces have used at least five American platforms at the LAC — C-17 Globemaster III for military transport, Boeing's Chinook CH-47 as heavy-lift helicopters, Boeing's Apache as tank-killers, P-81 Poseidon for overland reconnaissance, and Lockheed Martin's C-130J for airlifting troops.

Now, with these key defence pacts in place, cooperation can happen in a more structured and efficient way, rather than episodic.

Is there a catch in all this?

The US wants India to move away from Russian equipment and platforms, as it feels this may expose its technology and information to Moscow. So far, India is going ahead with the purchase of the S-400 air defence missile system from Russia, and this has been a sticking point for American interlocutors. For its part, India is wary of Pakistan's deep-rooted ties with Pentagon, and Washington's dependence on Rawalpindi for access to Afghanistan as well as its exit strategy.

But, because of Chinese belligerence being the clear and present danger, New Delhi's strategic embrace of Washington is the obvious outcome.

It is important to note that while LEMOA was signed during the Barack Obama regime (August 2016), COMCASA was signed in the middle of Trump administration (September 2018) and efforts are under way to sign or conclude BECA before the US goes to polls on November 3.

As Biegun said on Tuesday, every administration in the last 20 years have left the Indo-US relationship in a better shape than how they inherited it.

How to grow heeng in Indian HimalayasANJALI MARAR
PUNE, OCTOBER 20

LAST WEEK, scientists planted India's first sapling of the spice asafoetida, or heeng, in Himachal Pradesh's Kwarling village in Lahaul valley. It is part of an effort by scientists from the CSIR-Institute of Himalayan Bioresource, Palampur (IHBT) to cultivate heeng in the Indian Himalayas. Although heeng is common in many Indian kitchens, it is not grown in India.

Where does heeng come from?

Ferula asafoetida is a herbaceous plant, endemic to Iran and Afghanistan, the main global suppliers. Government data shows that India imports about 1,200 tonnes of raw heeng worth Rs 600 crore from Iran, Afghanistan and Uzbekistan.

Some European countries, too, use heeng for its medicinal properties. Published studies describe how heeng provides relief for diges-ive, spasmodic and stomach disorders, asthma and bronchitis. The herb is commonly used to relieve menstrual pain, prevent excessive bleeding and premature labour, and as an anti-flatulent in new mothers.

The plant stores most of its nutrients inside its deep fleshy roots. It is a perennial plant whose oleo gum resin is extracted from its roots and rhizome.

How did India's cultivation plan take off?

Between 1963 and 1989, India once attempted to procure asafoetida seeds, according to Indian Council of Agriculture Research — National Bureau of Plant Genetic Resources (ICAR-NBPGR). However, there are no published results.

In 2017, IHBT approached ICAR-NBPGR with an experimental project idea. Seeds were imported from Iran and subjected to a number of tests, while being quarantined against infection at NBPGR.

After acquiring all regulatory approvals from ICAR, IHBT introduced six accessions of heeng, and has carried out further R&D since 2018. At the Palampur institute, the seeds were tested to see if they would germinate under a controlled laboratory set-up.

"Each of the six accessions imported showcased varying degrees of germination," said Ashok Kumar, senior scientist at IHBT and Principal Investigator of this project. The seeds were then given special chemical treatments. "After about 20 days, the seeds — all six accessions gathered from various regions of Iran — germinated under controlled laboratory conditions," Kumar said.

In June this year, IHBT signed a five-year MoU with the Agriculture Department of Himachal Pradesh.

Why Himachal Pradesh?

Asafoetida grows best in dry and cold conditions. Regions with sandy soil, very little moisture and annual rainfall of not more than 200mm are considered conducive. Beyond Himachal, the researchers plan to expand their experiments to Ladakh and Uttarakhand.

"We believe the geo-climatic conditions required for cultivation of certain heeng varieties are available in India. On a pilot basis, we have started cultivation in Lahaul-Spiti valley last week," said Shekhar Mande, Director General, CSIR.

Four locations in the valley have been identified and heeng seeds have been distributed among seven farmers.

"The plant can withstand a maximum temperature between 35°C and 40°C, whereas during winters, it can survive in temperatures up to -4°C. During extreme weather, the plant can get dormant," said Kumar.

How promising is the project?

Experts say it is too early to comment as the plant takes about five years to produce the extractable oleo gum resin.

Scientists will monitor the plants over the next five years. The target is to cover 1 hectare with heeng cultivation by the end of this year, and take it to 300 hectares during the next five years.

Thailand anti-govt protests: the issues, and what's different this timeMEHRGILL
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

FOR THE last several months, Thailand has been witnessing pro-democracy demonstrations with protesters demanding that the monarchy be reformed and that Prime Minister Prayuth Chan-ocha resign. The current wave of protests is among the biggest seen in recent times.

What kind of political system exists in Thailand?

A Buddhist-majority country of about 70 million, Thailand converted from an absolute monarchy to a constitutional monarchy in 1932. Following a coup in 1947, Thailand has been ruled by the military for the most part. Since around 2001, the country's politics has been marked by a divide between supporters and detractors of populist leader Thaksin Shinawatra, who was ousted as Prime Minister by the military in 2006 and has been in exile since.

Over the decades, the military has cracked down on dissidents many times. On October 6, 1976, a student-led democracy protest was crushed at Bangkok's Thammasat University when security forces killed 46 protesters and arrested nearly 3,000 people. In 2010, over 2,000 were arrested and 90 killed in clashes between security forces and anti-government protesters.

The current ruler, Maha Vajiralongkorn, became king in December 2016. Prime Minister Chan-ocha came to power through a coup in 2014, when he seized power from Shinawatra's sister, Chan-ocha, endorsed by the king, is alleged to have meddled with electoral laws during the 2019 elections, which has enabled him to remain in power.

What are current protests about?

Demonstrations started late last year following the disqualification of opposition politician Thanathorn Juangroongruangkit as a Member of Parliament and a ban on his party Future Forward. Pandemic restrictions led to a pause in protests, which resumed in mid-July when the Free Youth Group led 2,500 demonstrators in Bangkok.

In Bangkok on Tuesday, the three-finger salute has emerged as one of the symbols of protest. AP

There have been three demands: dissolution of Parliament and the PM's resignation, changes to the Constitution, and an end to harassment of critics. On August 3, human rights lawyer Arnon Nampa made a speech about reforming the monarchy. Nampa and another movement leader, Panupong Jadnok (also known as Mike Rayong), were arrested last week.

Other groups have joined the protests, with broader demands: expanding LGBT and women's rights, reforms in education and the military, and improvements in the economy.

At a demonstration at Thammasat University on August 10, a declaration listed ten demands. These included the king not endorsing further coups, abolition of the Royal Offices, a reduction in the national budget allocated to the king, and amnesty to those prosecuted for criticising the monarchy.

How are these demonstrations different from previous ones?

Traditionally, Thailand's political divide has been between the "red shirts" (populists and supporters of Shinawatra) and the "yellow shirts" (loyalists of the royalty). This time, the protesters are not using these traditional colour codes but have come up with their own symbols to express their ideas and dissent. These include the "anti-coup" three-finger salute from The Hunger Games series, and gestures such as the hands crossed over the chest, and hands pointing above the head. Some of these gestures are the same as those used by pro-democracy protesters in Hong Kong.

By criticising the monarchy, which is for-bidden under law, the protesters have opened new ground. Under Section 112 of the Criminal Code, whoever "defames, insults or threatens the King, the Queen, the Heir-apparent or the Regent, shall be punished with imprisonment of three to fifteen years".

How has the government responded?

The government has attempted to crack down on what have been peaceful protests so far. On Friday, water cannons were used to disperse protesters. On Thursday the authorities imposed a "severe" state of emergency, banning gatherings of five or more people in Bangkok, and also banning the publication of information that could be a threat to national security. The protesters have so far defied the ban and continue to protest in the capital.

Last week, the government blocked access to the website change.org following an online petition calling for the king to be declared persona non grata, the BBC reported. The government also arrested several rally and student leaders and some demonstrators.

US Justice Dept files landmark anti-trust lawsuit against Google

Internet giant accused of using its dominance in online search and advertising to stifle competition

MICHAEL BALSAMO & MARCY GORDON
WASHINGTON, OCTOBER 20

THE US Justice Department on Tuesday sued Google for antitrust violations, alleging that it abused its dominance in online search and advertising to stifle competition and harm consumers.

The lawsuit marks the government's most significant attempt to protect competition since its groundbreaking case against Microsoft more than 20 years ago. It could be an opening salvo ahead of other major government antitrust actions, given ongoing investigations of major tech companies including Apple, Amazon and Facebook at both the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission.

"Google is the gateway to the internet and a search advertising behemoth," US Deputy Attorney General Jeff Rosen told reporters. "It has maintained its monopoly power through exclusionary practices that are harmful to competition."

Antitrust cases in the technology industry have to move quickly, he said. Otherwise "we could lose the next wave of innovation."

The US federal government was joined by 11 states in its lawsuit against Google. NYT

Lawmakers and consumer advocates have long accused Google, whose corporate parent Alphabet Inc has a market value just over $1 trillion, of abusing its dominance in online search and advertising to stifle competition and boost its profits. Critics contend that multi-billion-dollar fines and mandated changes in Google's practices imposed by European regulators in recent years weren't severe enough and that structural changes are needed for Google to change its conduct.

The Justice Department isn't seeking specific changes in Google's structure or other remedies at this point, but isn't ruling out seeking additional relief, officials said.

Google responded immediately via tweet: "Today's lawsuit by the Department of Justice is deeply flawed. People use Google because they choose to — not because they're forced to or because they can't find alternatives."

The government's main allegation is that Google illegally maintains its monopoly over internet searches by having contracts with companies like Apple and other smartphone-makers to make Google the default search engine in their phones. Google has defended its practices at congressional hearings and other forums. It says it does not have a monopoly on search, pointing out that around 50% of shopping searches happen on Amazon. It also argues that its deals with phone manufacturers are not illegal because they do not actually prevent users from accessing other search engines if they wanted to.

engine on browsers. Eleven states, all with Republican attorneys general, joined the federal government in the lawsuit.

But several other states demurred. The attorneys general of New York, Colorado, Iowa, Nebraska, North Carolina, Tennessee and Utah released a statement Monday saying they have not concluded their investigation into Google and would want to consolidate their case with the DOJ's if they decided to file.

President Donald Trump's administration has long had Google in its sights. One of Trump's top economic advisers said two years ago that the White House was considering whether Google searches should be subject to government regulation. Trump has often criticised Google, recycling unfounded claims by that the search giant is biased against conservatives and suppresses their viewpoints, interferes with US elections and prefers working with the Chinese military over the Pentagon. But Rosen told reporters that allegations of anti-conservative bias are "a totally separate set of concerns" from the issue of competition. AP

GOP sees bright spot in voter registration push as Trump tries to rekindle '16 late surge

WASHINGTON, OCTOBER 20

US PRESIDENT Donald Trump heads to the battleground state of Pennsylvania on Tuesday with hopes of rekindling the 11th-hour surge of support that powered his surprise 2016 victory.

Trump's Republican Party has cut into Democrats' advantage in voter registration tallies across some critical presidential battleground states, a fact they point to as evidence of steady — and overlooked — enthusiasm for Trump's re-election.

Even though Trump trails in national polls and struggles with fundraising with just weeks before Election Day, Republicans see their progress signing up voters in Florida, Pennsylvania, Arizona and other states as a rare bright spot. Democrats appear to have been set back by their decision to curb in-person voter registration drives during much of the pandemic. And in something of a reversal, Republicans are crowing about their success bringing in new voters who could ramp up turnout and deliver the White House to their candidate.

"The best thing for voter registration is enthusiasm for a candidate and the infrastructure," said Nick Trainor, a strategist for Trump's re-election campaign.

In Florida, Republicans netted 146,644 voters over Democrats since March, leaving Democrats with their smallest overall ever lead in party registrations. In Pennsylvania, which Trump won with 44,000 votes in 2016, the GOP added 103,171 more voters since Nov than Democrats did. Even in Arizona, where Democrats have steadily been chipping away at the GOP's advantage, Republicans added 30,000 more voters than Democrats since mid-August.

FORMER PRIME minister Nawaz Sharif's daughter and Opposition Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz's vice-president Maryam Nawaz was on Tuesday booked along with over 2,000 party members for holding an anti-government rally in Lahore where she called Prime Minister Imran Khan a "coward, selected and puppet" who hides behind the Army.

The rally by the 11-member opposition alliance Pakistan Democratic Movement (PDM) was held here on October 16 before the Gujranwala public meeting.

Maryam had openly called Prime Minister Khan a "coward, selected and puppet" in the rally, saying he hid behind the Army to cover up his "Nalaaiki" (bad governance).

She dared the "selected" Prime Minister to arrest her as she is not afraid of going to jail.

UK set to infect healthy volunteers to speed up vaccine development

DANICA KIRKA
LONDON, OCTOBER 20

UK RESEARCHERS are preparing to infect healthy young volunteers with the virus that causes Covid-19, becoming the first to announce plans to use the controversial technique to study the disease and potentially speed up development of a vaccine that could help end the pandemic.

This type of research, known as a human challenge study, is used infrequently because some consider the risk involved in infecting otherwise healthy individuals to be unethical. But researchers racing to combat Covid-19 say that risk is warranted because such studies have the potential to quickly identify the most effective vaccines and help control a disease that has killed more than 1.1 million people worldwide.

"Deliberately infecting volunteers with a known human pathogen is never undertaken lightly," said Professor Peter Openshaw, co-investigator on the study. "However, such studies are enormously informative about a disease, even one so well studied as Covid-19."

Human challenge studies have been previously used to develop vaccines for diseases including typhoid, cholera and malaria. Imperial College London said Tuesday that the study, involving volunteers aged 18 to 30, would be conducted in partnership with the government's Department for Business, Energy and Industrial Strategy, the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust and hVIVO, a company that has experience conducting challenge studies. The government plans to invest 33.6 million pounds ($43.4 million) in the research.

Governments around the world are funding efforts to develop a vaccine in hopes of ending the pandemic that has pummelled the international economy, shutting businesses and putting millions of people out of work. Forty-six potential vaccines are already in human testing, with 11 of them in late-stage trials. AP

Heathrow Airport begins rapid Covid tests for those flying out of UK

LONDON, OCTOBER 20

HEATHROW AIRPORT in London, one of the world's largest aviation hubs, on Tuesday launched new pre-departure rapid Covid-19 testing facilities for travellers flying out of the UK.

The private test costs 80 pounds and aims to provide departing passengers with their results in around 60 minutes.

The airport said its new test-on-departure process is aimed at helping passengers leaving the UK to meet requirements of governments worldwide alongside reassuring travellers that everyone who has boarded their plane will have only been allowed to do so by showing a negative test result.

"Many countries are already using testing to keep borders safe while restarting trade and travel. These facilities will make it easier for passengers going to those countries to get a test and have the potential to provide a service for arriving passengers," said airport CEO John Holland-Kaye. PTI

China tells US to stop meddling after exiled Tibetan leader's visit

CHINA'S FOREIGN ministry said the United States should immediately stop interfering in its internal affairs, after the leader of the head of the Tibetan government-in-exile met a US State Department official in Washington.

Lobsang Sangay, the president of the Tibetan Central Administration (CTA), met the new US special coordinator on Tibet last week. Sangay said it was the first time that the head of the CTA had been received at the State Department.

"China will take all necessary measures to protect its interests," foreign ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said during a daily news conference in Beijing on Tuesday.

Describing Sangay as an anti-China separatist, Zhao said the United States should cease any official contact with him. The meeting "sent a seriously wrong signal to Tibetan independence forces," he said. "The US should immediately stop using the Tibet issue to interfere in China's internal affairs."

THE EPISODES, AFFECTING US DIPLOMATS & SPIES IN CHINA, CUBA AND RUSSIA, ARE RAISING SPECULATION OF A FOREIGN ATTACK

Odd noises, strange illnesses and two very different US responses

ANA SWANSON, EDWARD WONG & JULIAN E BARNES
WASHINGTON, OCTOBER 20

THE STRANGE sound came at night: a crack like a marble striking the floor of the apartment above them.

Mark Lenzi and his wife had lightheadedness, sleep issues and headaches, and their children were waking up with bloody noses — symptoms they thought might be from the smog in Guangzhou, China, where Lenzi worked for the State Department. But air pollution could not explain his sudden memory loss, including forgetting names of work tools.

What began as strange sounds and symptoms among more than a dozen US officials and their family members in China in 2018 has turned into a diplomatic mystery spanning multiple countries and involving speculation about secret high-tech weapons and foreign attacks.

One of the biggest questions centers on whether Trump administration officials believe that Lenzi and other diplomats in China experienced the same mysterious affliction as dozens of diplomats and spies at the US Embassy in Cuba in 2016 and 2017, which came to be known as Havana Syndrome. American employees in the two countries reported hearing strange sounds, followed by headaches, dizziness, blurred vision and memory loss.

But the government's treatment of the episodes has been radically different. The State Department, which oversaw the cases, has produced inconsistent assessments of patients and events, ignored outside medical diagnoses and withheld basic information from Congress, a New York Times investigation found.

In Cuba, the Trump administration withdrew most of its staff members from the embassy and issued a travel warning, saying US diplomats had experienced "targeted attacks." President

The US withdrew most staff from its Havana embassy. Reuters

Donald Trump expelled 15 Cuban diplomats from Washington and started an independent review, though Cuba denied any involvement.

The administration took a softer approach with China. In May 2018, Secretary of State Mike Pompeo, who was the CIA director during the Cuba events, told lawmakers that the medical details of one US official who had fallen ill in China were "very similar and entirely consistent" with the syndrome in Cuba. The administration evacuated more than a dozen federal employees and a dozen of their family members.

The State Department soon retreated, labelling what happened in China as "health incidents." While the officers in Cuba were placed on administrative leave for rehabilitation, those in China initially had to use sick days and unpaid leave, some officers and their lawyers say. And the State Department did not open an investigation into what happened in China.

The administration has said little about the events in China and played down the idea that a hostile power could be responsible. But similar episodes have been reported by senior CIA officers who visited the agency's stations overseas, according to three current and former officials and others familiar with the events.

That includes Moscow, where Marc Polymeropoulos, a CIA officer who helped run clandestine operations in Russia and Europe, experienced what he believes was an attack in December 2017. Polymeropoulos, who was 48 at the time, suffered severe vertigo in his hotel room in Moscow and later developed debilitating migraine headaches that forced him to retire.

The cases involving CIA officers, none of which have been publicly reported, are adding to suspicions that Russia carried out the attacks worldwide. Some senior Russia analysts in the CIA, officials at the State Department and outside scientists, as well as several of the victims, see Russia as the most likely culprit given its history with weapons that cause brain injuries and its interest in fracturing Washington's relations with Beijing and Havana. NYT

COMPENSATION DEFICIT UNDER GST REGIME

Some states seek no-strings attached borrowing, scrapping payout conditions

AANCHAL MAGAZINE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

THE CENTRE'S conciliatory measure to borrow to meet the compensation deficit under the Goods and Services Tax (GST) regime has still not found complete favour with states, with a new front getting opened up where they are insisting on further clarifications and a no-strings attached borrowing mechanism.

States such as Punjab, Chhattisgarh and Kerala have asked for delinking of their compensation share with the conditions such as payment of interest and principal before clearing the arrears along with asking to include the balance compensation deficit amount beyond the proposed borrowing of Rs 1.10 lakh crore also under the ambit of the back-to-back loan mechanism.

Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh is learnt to have written a letter to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman stating that there is no clarity on the ratio in which compensation

GST portal develops glitches

Mumbai: The GST portal developed technical glitches on Tuesday, the last day for filing GSTR-3B summary returns for September. This also comes ahead of the October 31 deadline for the annual GST return for 2018-19.

Many taxpayers took to Twitter to complain about borrowing mechanism.

States after June 2022 will be defrayed between repayment of principal borrowed by Centre (and passed over to states) and the arrears for which borrowings have to be made by states.

"Ideally, cess should be first used to pay arrears and then interest and last of all principal," the letter stated.

Singh said the suggestions of states such as payment of full compensation and dispute resolution mechanism were ignored and the manner of implementing the eventual solution has "left an impression that going forward states be left to beg for compensation and unable to seek legal remedy".

He also asked for delinking of the additional 0.5 per cent borrowing space (provided to those states which opt for Option 1) to allow it to all states irrespective of them choosing either option.

Chhattisgarh is also planning to respond to the letter sent by the Centre last week, proposing inclusion of the balance compensation deficit amount under the same back-to-back loan arrangement. Chhattisgarh Commercial Taxes Minister TS Singh Deo said if states are asked to borrow the rest of the compensation deficit beyond Rs 1.1 lakh crore, then the interest liability would fall on states, instead it should get included within the proposed borrowing mechanism.

"Rest of the compensation deficit amount beyond Rs 1.10 lakh crore will get paid eventually from the compensation cess pool. If they say the Centre will be taking the loan and it will be so adjusted, then we have no problem at all. But if they say the states will be given permission to take the loan, but the states will then have to pay interest. Back-to-back loan is the correct procedure, it provides for payment of principal and interest from the cess account. Balance amount should also be brought under this mechanism," he said, adding that estimates for the compensation deficit for this fiscal should now be made on actual revenues rather than ad-hoc estimates.

Kerala had last week stated that the whole compensation deficit should be borrowed this year and no amount should be deferred, while Jharkhand had rejected the Centre's proposal.

In a sharp retraction of its earlier position, the Finance Ministry had on Thursday said the Centre would borrow from the market and then act as an intermediary to arrange back-to-back loans to pay the GST compensation shortfall of Rs 1.1 lakh crore to state governments. This arrangement will not reflect in the fiscal deficit of the Centre and will appear as capital receipts for state governments.

The total GST revenue shortfall for the current fiscal was estimated to be Rs 3 lakh crore, of which compensation cess collection was estimated to be Rs 65,000 crore, leaving a compensation deficit of Rs 2.35 lakh crore. Of this Rs 2.35 lakh crore, Rs 1.1 lakh crore shortfall has been estimated on account of GST implementation, while the rest of the amount is being estimated as the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic.

In August, the Centre gave two options to the states — either borrow Rs 97,000 crore from a special window facilitated by the RBI or borrow Rs 2.35 lakh crore from the market.

WITH RISING concerns over the impact of Covid-19 pandemic on asset quality of banks following the end of the moratorium period, the banking sector has seen a sharp reduction in asset allocation by mutual funds over the last seven months.

While the banking sector's share in equity Assets Under Management (AUM) of MFs declined from 24.4 per cent in February to 17.9 per cent in September, sectors such as IT, pharmaceuticals and petroleum have seen an increase in their share.

Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) data shows that the equity AUM of mutual funds in September reached Rs 11.67 lakh crore, marginally down from 11.81 lakh crore seen in February 2020.

However, equity fund allocation in banks in September stood at its lowest over the last seven months at 17.91 per cent or Rs 2,09,069 crore. The value of allocation in banks in February stood at Rs 2,87,876 crore.

Besides the banking sector, even the finance segment saw its share of MF equity allocation decline from 10.29 per cent to 9.15 per cent in the same period.

By contrast, in the same period, the share of equity allocation from the IT sector jumped from 7.67 per cent in February to 11.76 per cent. Pharma, too, has been main concern during the pandemic, pharmaceuticals, as a sector, has done well.

The dip in share of banks is also because of the relatively weaker recovery of banking stocks over the last five months.

While the benchmark SENSEX at BSE was down only 0.6 per cent in September over its February closing of 38,297, the banking index at BSE was trailing its February closing by 27 per cent in September.

By comparison, while the IT index at BSE was up 33 per cent at the end of September over February closing, the healthcare index was up by 47 per cent. Even Auto and FMCG indices were up 14.8 per cent and 0.8 per cent in September over their February closing.

Given that banking sector is a market laggard, some experts see an opportunity.

"If you pick a good bank which has good quality assets, it will generate strong return over the next two to three years," he said.

On Monday, bank stocks witnessed a sharp jump with the banking index rising by 3.3 per cent. While ICI Bank jumped 5.3 per cent, SBI and Axis Bank rose 4.2 per cent and 4.4 per cent.

Wavelights, action, records

New pacing aid could be helping athletes go faster; pioneer from 70s says 'they still have to run'

Dutch athlete Jos Hermens used police beacon lights when he broke the one-hour record in 1976; Athletes compete as Wavelight is in operation. SPORT Technologies/Jos Hermens

NIHAL KOSHIE
NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 20

JOS HERMENS, a former Dutch distance runner and now athlete-agent, used police beacon lights to help him get the pace right when he broke the one-hour world record at the Papendal track in the Netherlands over four decades ago. Hermens placed lights along the track, synced to blink. If a light flashed before Hermens crossed it, he was behind the world-record time.

"I saw the light flashing a little bit in the beginning and then later on I didn't see them anymore, which meant I was ahead of schedule. I broke the record. I used police lamps, the ones that turn around at the top of the car. These were the first wavelights," Hermens told The Indian Express.

The Dutch runner's out-of-the-box thinking on race day — May 1, 1976 — was way ahead of his time. It took World Athletics another 45 years to officially allow wavelights in races, programmed using a software to flash one after another along the inside kerb of a track to indicate a pre-set pace.

The LED lights are being used as a tool to attract TV audiences with most events held behind closed doors because of the pandemic. However, multiple world records falling in a span of two months, at events where wavelights were switched on, has raised questions if this generation of athletes are benefitting from the pacing aid, which wasn't available to former greats.

Looking at the race clock, wrist watch, giant screen or depending on a coach to shout out split timings during a competition could become an outdated practice.

The 'Wavelight' technology was used this month when Uganda's Joshua Cheptegei broke the 10,000 metres world record in Valencia after Ethiopia's Letesenbet Gidey bettered the women's 5,000 metre mark on the same day. In August, Cheptegei broke the 5,000 metres world record at the Monaco Diamond League, an event in which the light system was used.

Great Britain's Mo Farah and The Netherlands' Sifan Hassan bettered the world one-hour records at the Brussels Diamond League in September. Wavelights were used in the Belgian capital as well.

SPORT Technologies, the Dutch stadium-lighting company which pioneered Wavelight technology, turned to Hermens when they wanted to improve upon the system first used at a local athletics club three years ago.

"Athletics is not the most popular sport, so we need innovations. Young and old people need to understand the sport. Now people watching a race can see if runners are ahead of a light or not. It is more for the crowds and television," Hermens, the CEO of Global Sports Communication, says.

The 70-year-old believes it is unfair to give too much weightage to the lighting system when athletes break records.

"The answer is very simple; they have to still run themselves, the track is not moving, you have to do all the hard training year after year to break a record. It needs a lot of hard training, without lights. They break it because of the talent and the hard work," Hermens says.

For years, he had been pushing for track and field to adopt a lighting system but previous letters written to former chief of the world body Lamine Diack didn't get a response. He had better luck with current president Sebastian Coe, a two-time Olympic gold medalist, who wrote back to Hermens saying innovation was the need of the hour.

"Track and field was very conservative. I am very thankful to Sebastian Coe, he really supported this. It was not in the rules, most officials were conservative when I had proposed it before. I proposed it in the days of Diack. I never got an answer. However, Seb Coe wrote a personal letter to me saying we need innovation in the sport, so please go ahead with the wavelight. Now there is a lot of support," Hermens says.

Wavelights, here to stay

World Athletics has regulated technology used in running shoes to prevent top athletes from getting an unfair advantage. Wavelights, however, are set to stay.

Last week Coe likened these pacing lights to human pace-makers who help the team leader maintain optimum speed in a middle- or long-distance race.

"We have had pacemakers for as long as I can remember. We had pacemakers in the 1950s and 60s helping athletes break records, in the 40s even. And the four-minute mile was a pace-made event. So, I will always embrace innovation. I think Wavelight allows people in the stadium, people on television, to understand a little bit more about the extraordinary talent," Coe was quoted as saying by inside-the-games.biz.

The publicity around the record-breaking achievements of athletes has resulted in SPORT Technologies receiving hundreds of enquiries from around the world. "The original Wavelight product was more focused towards individual athletes and trainers. The Wavelight at Diamond Leagues are more focused on the performance of athletes and television audiences. The lights are a lot more powerful and the software is more flexible now," Elfriede Keers, the owner of SPORT Technologies, says.

The wavelight system can cost between €25,000 to €50,000 to install at a stadium, depending on the infrastructure needed to fix them along the entire length of the track.

Experimenting with lights along the track began when a local club in Zeewolde asked Keers to come up with an idea to attract more trainees. "The local athletics club asked us the question, you do something with lamps and you do something with sports; how about we see if we can combine it to attract more people." The idea of the wavelight had nothing to do with high-performance sports. It had to do with attracting people to come to the athletics track for practice," Keers says about the first system installed three years ago.

Hermens says those at the grassroots level, like young runners at Zeewolde, will benefit as much as elite athletes.

"It can also be called a pacing tool, for athletics clubs, schools, universities because you can put in the programme for three to four different groups. Before this, the coach would stand with three or four stopwatch on his chest and push the buttons, and look at them all the time. Now the athletes know what to do and coaches can fully concentrate on the running style of the athletes."

Training in UK is Sindhu's decision: Father Ramana

SHIVANINAIK
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

WORLD CHAMPION PV Sindhu's father Ramana said it was 'her decision' to head to Leicester in the United Kingdom for 8 weeks to get a diet - nutrition assessment done at the Gatorade Sports Science Institute.

"She decided this was the best time to go there," Sindhu's management agency CEO Tuhin Mishra of Baseline Ventures said, adding "because there were no competitions scheduled." "She said she wanted to go," coach Pullela Gopichand informed, adding, "there's still lot of time for tournaments. She said she's going to be back by November."

Travelling for her sport alone for the first time without either of her parents accompanying her in seven-odd years and with none of the Indian support staff to aid her, PV Sindhu will be camped in UK for another 6 weeks. Most international shuttlers travel independently, but both Saina Nehwal and Sindhu have been accompanied by parents all these years for tournaments.

The decision to travel and its exact duration might well be the first career-related call taken on her own by the World Champion shuttler, who has tended to rely on her father or coach for all the minutiae of her professional commitments.

It is reliably learnt that Sindhu was in touch with BAI president Himanta Biswa Sarma who facilitated her training with the Badminton England squad and remains in touch with her daily. While a national daily said a "family rift" had led to Sindhu taking off to the UK, the World No 6 said in a statement: "I came to London a few days back to work on my nutrition and recovery needs with GSSI. In fact I have come here with the consent of my parents and absolutely there were no family rifts in this regard." "Why will I have problems/issues with my parents who have sacrificed (in) their lives for my sake. Mine is a very close knitted family and they will always support me. I am in touch with my family members everyday." "Also I do not have any issues with my coach Mr Gopichand or the training facilities at the academy," she added.

Scientific assessment

It was in March this year during the All England that Rebecca Randell of the Gatorade Sports Institute, also a visiting faculty at Loughborough sports university, carried out the first "sweat assessments" on Sindhu at Birmingham. "It happened the day she lost to Okuhara," Ramana informed. "This was planned after that."

While further tests and consults were planned for later at the elite institute, with the rejigged schedule, Sindhu decided she would travel in October after the sponsorship commitments that were lined up.

"Sindhu is Gatorade's brand ambassador.

PV Sindhu will be camped in Leicester for six weeks. Express

The decision to travel and its exact duration might well be the first career-related call taken on her own by Sindhu, who has tended to rely on her father or coach for all the minutiae of her professional commitments.

Just like some of the global names like Messi. So the institute were keen on her travelling to UK for further nutrition assessments that will help in performance enhancements," Misra who helped ink the deal in March 2017, said. "It was on the cards - a full diet, nutrition assessment. And because no active tournaments were on due to Covid, she chose this time."

Sindhu however was keen on aligning this with unbroken on-court training and sought BAI's help to find a training spot with Badminton England. "She told me she wanted to go, and it was entirely her decision and I was totally fine with it. She said she's going to be back in November and resume training as usual," Gopichand said.

While Sindhu has several friends in the Badminton England ranks including doubles couple Chris and Gaby Adcock owing to Premier Badminton League playing for Hyderabad Hunters, she was comfortable to train alongside the England squad. "She has tweeted what she wanted to say," father Ramana said, stubbing the controversy.

DAY TODAY

BY PETER VIDAL

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

Social engagements can help you forget your cares and woes, but you need to be sure in your own mind that you're not running away from anything. If you are intending to make a break, the next few days may force the issues. It could be good to clear the air.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)

Artistic types will find much to stimulate their imaginations this week — and that includes most of you. Work pressures will soon pass and there'll be opportunities to repay favours and complete non-essential tasks. Plus, a family member is about to apologise. What could be better?

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

You stand a reasonable chance of reaching an amicable conclusion to a number of personal disputes. There is still much to be said at work before you can be sure where you stand, and the rapidly approaching lunar drama will help you along: and about time, too.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

Don't make the mistake of equating emotional stability with financial security. The two are quite separate, and although it is often difficult to work out a plan of action in each, that is precisely what you must do now. Perhaps more experienced friends can help.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)

Just to look ahead, your mood is about to become quite self-sacrificing. It seems as if you may become involved in a charitable venture of some sort, and today there could be indications of what is to come. But then, at the moment, every day brings pointers to the future.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sep 23)

You should spend as much time as is necessary dealing with routine chores, and leave no stone unturned. You can rest assured that the more you accomplish today, the more time you'll have to deal with personal developments when the moment comes.

LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)

You have a great deal on your mind, but that's not the point. You also have many opportunities to get out and enjoy yourself. Please realise that there's nothing wrong with a touch of escapism now and then. Other people might expect you to stand and fight — but they might be wrong.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 23)

Domestic affairs certainly require some close attention today, and it will pay to be businesslike. There is little to be gained from being sentimental, or by allowing your heart to overrule your head. People you live with need their orders — and you might be the person to give them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24 - Dec 22)

You've done well, there's no doubt about that, even though your critics might not agree. You certainly have much to live up to, but don't be too hard on yourself. Other people will step in and lend a hand, but it's up to you to make the first move: if you don't ask, you won't get.

CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)

This is a good time to remember that sometimes life can be managed in line with timeless ethical and religious truths. Adopt the moral high ground, but don't insist that others share your beliefs. What pays, at the moment, is a little extra tolerance.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)

New investment possibilities are in the air, but there may be less of a sense of urgency than recently. There's no reason why you shouldn't cut down on work and have an easy day — unless you've commitments you can't avoid. It's all a question of finding the right balance.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)

Life might be simple — but it's never straightforward. You may feel like spending some of the day by yourself, but friends might have different ideas. You should try to divide your time between giving yourself the attention you deserve and giving others the affection they crave. I know you can do it.

Srikanth slams Dhoni, asks what 'spark' did he see in Kedar

Chennai: Kris Srikanth, the former India captain and selection committee chief, has slammed Mahendra Singh Dhoni's "ridiculous" calls for Chennai SuperKings in the ongoing IPL and asked what "spark" did he see in the under-performing Kedar Jadhav. Srikanth was referring to Dhoni's remark that the youngsters in the Chennai SuperKings squad did not show the spark needed to challenge the seniors and break into the playing XI. "I will never accept what Dhoni is saying about this process," Srikanth told Star Sports Tamil.

Delhi HC allows Anwar Ali to play until AIFF's final decision

New Delhi: The Delhi High Court on Tuesday allowed India U-17 World Cup footballer Anwar Ali, who has a congenital heart condition, to carry on playing until the national federation arrives at a final decision. The court overruled the All India Football Federation (AIFF) Medical Committee's recommendation to bar him from playing competitive football. Ali's counsel Amitabh Tewari told PTI that HC ruled in favour of the footballer who had challenged the AIFF's directive to Mohammedan Sporting not to allow him train with the club. AGENCIES

Kings continue late resurgence

Third straight win – this one against Capitals – revives Punjab's playoff hopes

SYNOPSIS
Majestic Pooran out-dares daring Dhawan.

SANDIP G
OCTOBER 20

STITCHING THEIR third victory on the bounce – beating table-toppers Delhi Capitals by five wickets – Kings XI Punjab continued their resurgence in the IPL. From rock bottom a fortnight ago, they leapt to the fifth spot. Nicholas Pooran's 28-ball 53 was a treatise on counter-attack and a glimpse of his sparkling future.

Majestic Pooran

Pooran hung his head apologetically after a mix-up with Mayank Agarwal ended in the latter's run-out. But by the end of the night, he was flashing a wide smile. He had just delivered a fabulous victory for Kings XI Punjab, and brightened their knockout prospects.

Agarwal's departure had withered their hopes, having already lost KL Rahul and Chris Gayle for 56 runs. But rather than getting cowed down, Pooran channelled the frustration into a brutal innings that announced the emergence of a genuine batting hero.

There is a striking simplicity about his batting, a minimalism of technique stamped with Caribbean flamboyance. Graceful on the off-side and powerful on the leg, the balance of his slender frame is impeccable. As is his ruthlessness.

He has twinkling feet too, as he glides deep into the crease when pulling the ball, and strides out to drive off-spinners through cover. And the masterly Ravichandran Ashwin of all. He had just seen Ashwin burst through Gayle's defence, but that did not deter him from cover-driving the first ball he faced.

Then to showcase his leg-side, short-ball mastery, Pooran struck three massive sixes, one each of Tushar Deshpande, Marcus Stoinis and Axar Patel.

He rode luck – Pant fluffed a run-out and an inside edge, while several edges fell short or eluded the fielders – but in between the left-hander played some splendid strokes. None better than the six off daunting chase against CSK - furnished Delhi Capitals a competitive total to defend. The next highest individual score was 14.

The sweep and slog-sweep were his staple strokes. All three of his sixes were slog-swept while the conventional sweep fetched him as many boundaries. Anything fractionally full, he would go down on one knee to find cow corner. The left-hander would stand outside leg-stump so he could swing his bat and shoulders freely. The bowlers would pull the length back, and Dhawan would feed on his cut shot. So raffish was he that he employed a cute paddle when Glenn Maxwell strayed on the leg-side.

Remarkable was Dhawan's assault on spinners – against the trio of Ravi Bishnoi, Murugan Ashwin and Maxwell, he smacked 61 off 32 deliveries. But his effort was still inadequate BRIEF SCORES: Kings XI Punjab 167/5 (Nicholas Pooran 53, Glenn Maxwell 32; Kagiso Rabada 2/27) beat Delhi Capitals 164/5 (Shikhar Dhawan 106*, Shreyas Iyer 14; Mohammed Shami 2/28) by 5 wickets.

Patel over midwicket, wherein he made a casual backward stride and just bludgeoned him over the ropes. The end was anti-climactic, edging when leaving a lifter from Kagiso Rabada, but by then he had decided the destiny of the match.

In his first 167 IPL games, Shikhar Dhawan had never scored a hundred. Not that it ever weighed on his mind, but in the next two, he has shot down the landmark twice. The latest - the first architected a

Kohli to travel with jumbo squad to Australia as selectors play safe during pandemic

DEVENDRA PANDEY
MUMBAI, OCTOBER 20

THIRTY-TWO cricketers, including India 'A' players, will fly to Australia from Dubai after the IPL when Virat Kohli leads the team for its first international assignment during the pandemic.

The selectors are being practical by picking the largest-ever contingent as it would be risky to fly in injury replacements in the middle of the tour as players will be in a bio-bubble after the first fortnight of quarantine. The two-month tour will comprise three T20 Internationals, three ODIs and four Test matches and the teams for the three formats will be picked at one go.

Travelling with a big squad will also ensure enough players on tour for practice games between Indian players before the Test matches, which are scheduled for mid-December.

The total number is set to cross 50 as the support staff and selectors will also travel.

However, the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) won't be allowing families to travel for the tour. For the IPL, the BCCI left it to the teams to take a decision on wives being allowed to travel to the UAE.

The tour is scheduled to begin with the T20 Internationals in the third week of November, but Cricket Australia has not yet finalised the itinerary. The IPL final will be held in Dubai on November 10. The senior selection committee, which could meet in coming days, has been informally informed by the BCCI to pick a large squad for the entire Australia tour.

"They (selection committee) have been told to pick as large a squad as they want. We want back-up players ready and in Australia right through the tour. If a player gets injured, there shouldn't be a situation where we have to call for a player from India. In normal times we could send a player from India as a replacement but during these times, with quarantine rules in place, we don't want to be in a situation where we are short of players," a BCCI official stated.

It is learnt that players who are not likely to play the Test series will be sent home after white-ball cricket is over, once selectors retain enough reserves, who will stay back in Australia.

The BCCI is expecting CA to release the dates of the matches later this week.

What Cricket Australia has confirmed is that the first Test match will be a day-night affair in Adelaide.

"Cricket Australia has sent us an itinerary. We will play three T20Is, three ODIs and four Tests there. The first Test will be a day-night game in Adelaide. The dates haven't been finalised yet," BCCI president Sourav Ganguly had told The Indian Express earlier this week after the BCCI's Apex Council meeting on Saturday. The BCCI has also asked Cricket Australia for changes in the 14-day quarantine policy for Indian players. The BCCI wants Indian players to undergo quarantine for seven days, after which they be allowed to use training facilities, while being in a bio-secure bubble facility.

The board is also planning to arrange a few practice games for Cheteshwar Pujara and Hanuma Vihari in Dubai, two Test match specialists who are not part of the IPL.

A BCCI official also said that chances are that the Indian team will have a short camp in Dubai before flying to Australia.
