CAG: Centre broke the law, used funds for GST compensation elsewhere

HARIKISHAN SHARMA NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

CITING THE opinion of the Attorney General of India, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told Parliament last week that there was no provision in the law to compensate states for loss of GST revenue out of the Consolidated Fund of India (CFI).

However, the Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) of India has found that the government itself violated the law by retaining Rs 47,272 crore of GST compensation cess in the CFI during 2017-18 and 2018-19, and used the money for other purposes, which "led to overstatement of revenue receipts and

Never before has this happened for more than a day number of active cases has started to show a declining trend and those occasions were more have come down from a high of 10.17 lakh on September 17, to 9.66 lakh now. For the spread of an epidemic, only the active cases matter, because they are the ones who transmit the disease to others. Also, only active cases require medical attention. so a reduction in active cases reduces the burden on the health apparatus.

In an epidemic such as this, a clear trend of recoveries exceeding new infections is keenly awaited, because it can be read as signalling a slowing spread. These are still very early days the trend has to hold for several weeks to convey something more meaningful – but the fact that it has begun brings hope. CONTINUED ON PAGE 2

Hero of tied Test dies in Mumbai: 'Show won't be same'

SRIRAM VEERA MUMBAI, SEPTEMBER 24

HOURS AFTER former Australian cricketer and commentator Dean Jones died of a cardiac arrest in a Mumbai hotel Thursday, Kiran More was in a state of shock. "We had met for breakfast and I later saw him running in the hotel hallway, something he always did in the bio-secure environment. I even threw a pillow at him in jest. He was then going up to his room as he had called a person to fix his laptop...that person later told me that lones had suddenly fallen on the floor," the former India player said.

Jones was 59, a swashbuckling batsman who had played 52 Tests and 164 ODIs before he became a popular commentator and a coach. For the past few weeks, he had been based in Mumbai and commentating on the IPL for Star Sports.

Brett Lee, former Australian bowler and fellow commentator, was reportedly by his side and tried CPR but couldn't revive him. Jones was rushed to the H N Reliance Hospital and was declared dead. Just a few days earlier, Lee had coaxed Jones into giving a demonstration of running between the wickets in the IPL show Dugout,

CHHATTISGARH Cops deployed in five villages

after 'vandalism'

GARGI VERMA RAIPUR. SEPTEMBER 24

ADDITIONAL POLICE personnel were deployed in five villages of Kondagaon district in Chhattisgarh following allegations that mobs attacked members of at least 14 families and ransacked their houses in Kakdabeda, Silati and Singanpur villages.

The alleged violence took place over Wednesday and Thursday, and several people on Thursday said they fear another round of attack on Friday. The attack, and vandalism, occurred allegedly after members of some families in these villages refused to join in a 'bhandara' organised on Wednesday, the Chhattisgarh Christian Forum has alleged. The organisation has demanded a high-level probe.

Collector Kondagaon Pushpendra Meena denied that the incident had a religious angle. However, according to Chhattisgarh Christian Forum director Arun Pannalal, Christian families were being threatened by some tribal residents of villages in Kakadabeda and other parts of Bastar. "Christians are being persecuted," he alleged.

"On September 22, a bhandara was organised and despite Covid-19, a gathering of around 2,000 people came to the house of one of Christian family and harassed them. We have informed the police about a possible attack on Friday, but no one is taking it seriously. We demand immediate registration of FIR and a highlevel inquiry by a retired judge of

Woman 'goes missing' from jumbo Covid facility in Pune

EXPRESS NEW SERVICE PUNE, SEPTEMBER 24

A 33-YEAR-OLD woman, who was admitted to the jumbo Covid facility in Pune in the last week of August, has "gone missing" from the facility. While authorities have claimed that she was discharged days ago, her family members say that they found out she was missing only on September 13, when they were asked to come pick her up from the centre. Police are currently probing a missing complaint registered by the family on September 14.

Family members of the woman and some social outfits held a protest outside the jumbo facility on CoEP Ground in Pune on Thursday, demanding action against authorities who, they allege, are responsible for the "disappearance" of the woman. Her family members have alleged that hospital authorities initially gave them various answers about her date of discharge, and have now said that she was discharged on September 5.

The woman, who is separated from her husband, has a five-year-old son. She has been living with her mother and father, who works at a roadside eatery at Hadapsar.

in the five states with the most coronavirus cases, R-values are less than 1 right now (see box) and this has happened for the first time in all these states.

Also, on several days over the last two weeks, these worst-hit states - Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, and Uttar Pradesh - have reported more recoveries than new cases. The active cases in each of these states has fallen in the past few days, most notably in Andhra Pradesh, where there has been a 10 per cent fall in the last two weeks.

What this means is that trends at the national level are closely related to the ground situation, and are not getting skewed by the disproportionate influence of any one or a few states, as had been happening until a few months ago, when Maharashtra accounted for close to 40 per cent of the national caseload. The trends seem to be more evenly spread out across several states now, including outside the big five.

However, it is not clear what is powering these trends.

The most optimistic surmise would be that the virus has already infected more than half the population. But we know from serological surveys in several cities that this has not happened yet – only some areas in Pune have shown a disease prevalence of more than 50 per cent; in most other cities, the infection rate is far less. These trends can also be the result of policy interventions such as lockdowns and restrictions on movement. A reduction in people-to-people interactions can lead to a fall in R-value. But since the lifting of the hard lockdown of March-April, the government has not intervened in ways that can be expected to produce such an outcome.

Strict physical distancing and universal adoption of masks and face coverings could theoretically be a reason - but again, anecdotal evidence suggests that in many parts of the country, physical distancing norms are hardly being make serious analysis seem like fun, constantly engaging in banter with other commentators.

Irfan Pathan, the former India player who is also a commentator, said the show, which was led and popularised by Jones, "won't be the same again". "Just yesterday, he had made me talk to his son on the phone. His game analysis was immense. He made that (Dugout) room special with his presence. Deano was a verv happy man, and always loved to crack a joke," Pathan said.

The fellow commentators inside the Mumbai-based IPL broadcasting bubble also recall Jones running in the hallways to keep fit. The network had booked the entire Trident hotel that overlooks the Arabian Sea for its staff and IPL commentators. Nearly 400 of them were stacked in six self-contained floors, segregated on the language of commentary.

Before the start of IPL, Scott Styris, the New Zealand allrounder whose non-stop banter with Jones was a consistent feature of Dugout, had said: "Watching Deano, who is in the next room, run up and down the hallway outside has been a funny experience. The noise he makes is quite something." Styris tweeted an emoji for sorrow after Jones' death.

In India, Jones will forever be remembered for his 210 in stifling conditions during the tied Test in 1986 in what was then Madras. Referring to the gruelling conditions later, he revealed that he had urinated in his pants at the crease, vomitted beside the pitch, and hallucinated in the shower during breaks. But he carried on "batting from memory", he had said, on the urging of his captain Allan Border and manager Bob Simpson.

A member of the 1987 World Cup-winning team, Jones was a great ODI batsman, known as Border's trusted No.3 and for his thunderous lofted shots over long-on and magnificent pulls. He was a great fielder near the boundary, too, often running in full-pelt and diving acrobatically

Compensation Cess collections

"The short-crediting was a violation of the GST Compensation Cess Act, 2017," the national auditor said in its report on the accounts of the Union government, which were tabled in Parliament on Wednesday, the last day of the Monsoon session. As per the provisions of the GST Compensation Cess Act. the entire cess collected during a year is required to be credited to a non-lapsable fund (GST compensation cess fund) which is part of the Public Account, and is meant to be used specifically to compensate states for loss of revenue.

However, the government, instead of transferring the entire GST cess amount to the GST compensation fund, retained it in the CFI, and used it for other purposes.

"The amount by which the cess was short credited was also retained in the CFI and became available for use for purposes other than what was provided in the act," CAG said. "Short crediting of cess collected during the year led to overstatement of revenue receipts and understatement of fiscal deficit for the year," it said.

"During 2018-19, there was budget provision of Rs 90,000 crore for transfer to the Fund and an equal amount was budgeted for release to States as compensation. However, though Rs 95.081 crore was collected during the year as GST compensation cess, Department of Revenue transferred only Rs 54,275 crore to the Fund.

"From the Fund it paid out Rs 69,275 crore (inclusive of an opening balance of Rs 15,000 crore in the Fund) as compensation to the States/ UT. This resulted in savings of Rs 35,725 crore on account of short transfer to the Fund and of Rs 20.725 crore on account of payment of compensation to the States/UTs as against BEs of Rs 90,000 crore each for transfer and payment of compensation," the CAG said. On September 18, replying to the debate on the first batch of Supplementary Demands for Grants for the current financial year in Lok Sabha, Sitharaman said. "Cess ke dwara iitna compensation collect hota hai, woh hota hai compensation jise state ko dena hota hai... agar cess col-

"Further, any transfer in the subsequent year would become an appropriation from the resources of that year and would require Parliamentary authorization," the report says.

The CAG has also highlighted the violation of accounting procedure in respect of the GST compensation cess.

As per the approved accounting procedure, GST compensation cess was to be transferred to the Public Account by debit to Major Head '2047-

"It is recommended that Ministry of Finance take immediate corrective action," the report says.

Apart from the GST compensation cess, the CAG has also mentioned instances of nontransfer of entire amounts of other cesses to their respective Reserve Funds, including the Road and Infrastructure Cess, Cess on Crude Oil, Universal Service Levy, and National Mineral Trust Levy.

> "Audit observed, however, that out of the Rs 2,74,592 crore received from 35 cesses, levies and other charges in 2018-19, only Rs 1,64,322 crore had been transferred to Reserve Funds/ Boards during the year and the rest was retained in the CFI," the CAG said.

"Consequently, not only was the revenue/ fiscal deficit understated due to the non-transfer of these amounts to Reserve Funds, failure of the Ministry of Finance to create/ operate essential Reserve Funds makes it difficult to ensure that the cesses etc., had been utilised for the specific purposes intended by the Parliament," it added.

Delhigovt challenges HC order on ICU beds

New Delhi: The Delhi government has challenged an order passed by a single bench of the Delhi High Court on Tuesday by which the state's order directing 33 major hospitals to reserve 80% of ICU beds for Covid-19 patients was stayed. The appeal is listed for hearing on Friday before a division bench of the High Court.

DU submits tentative schedule to release results

New Delhi: In a tentative schedule submitted before the Delhi High Court for results of undergraduate students who took the first phase of open-book exams, Delhi University said it may declare the results of BSc (Hons) - 17 courses in total – from October 20, and the results for UG students in vocational subjects are likely to be declared October 29 onwards. It has also told the court results may be delayed in other BA courses as a large volume of combination of papers are involved. The HC observed the dates ought to be advanced and has asked DU to work in this direction.

SEDITION CASE Chargesheet cites books Sharjeel read, his M.Phil thesis on Partition

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

IN ITS chargesheet in the sedition case filed against JNU student Sharjeel Imam, the Delhi Police has cited his M.Phil thesis on communal violence during Partition, accused him of using Congress MP Shashi Tharoor's book 'Why I am a Hindu' to put up a "secular" front, and said he not only "discriminates between Hindus and Muslims" but also tried to "draw a wedge between Hindu community by constantly referring to Brahminical conscience" Imam is accused in seven cases, including a UAPA case stemming from a Special Cell investigation into the Northeast Delhi riots. Arrested on January 28, he is currently in judicial custody. His lawyer refused to comment on the contents of the chargesheet saying they will file an application for bail in the sedi-

chargesheet filed before

"He through his speeches repeatedly incited the public to commit acts which would jeopardise public tranquillity, attempts to cause disaffection towards the lawfully elected government of the country in the garb of democratically opposing the CAA. His oration and acts are seditious in nature," claims the chargesheet. It adds that Imam is "a highly Sharjeel Imam is accused in seven cases, including a UAPA case hibits complete mistrust in it". It accuses him of calling the statute "a Facist document", adding, "He through his speeches not only discriminates between Hindus and Muslims but also tried to draw a wedge between Hindu community by constantly referring to Brahminical conscience and further labelling the Constitution as a document written by educated 'Pandits'." The chargesheet attributes some of Imam's "bigotry" to the books he had read. Talking about Imam's M.Phil thesis, 'Exodus before partition: The attack on Muslims in Bihar in 1946', police say one of the books he referred to was 'Forms of Collective violence, Riots, Pogroms, and Genocide in Modern India' by Paul R Brass. The chargesheet states that the book "catalogues the various forms of collective violence that has occurred in India during the past six decades, which include riots, pogroms, and genocide... It says that the various forms of violence must be understood not as spontaneous outbreaks of passion, but as an act of organised groups. By reading only such literature and not researching alternative sources, the accused (Imam) became highly radicalised and religiously bigoted."

The police state that Imam had come across similar books during his thesis, "which made (up) his mind that Muslims are oppressed since very long and affirmed his religious bigotry (that) lacks faith in democratic and constitutional values".

Police also accused Imam of distributing pamphlets with claims that "crores of people would be declared illegal residents", imprisoned and expelled under CAA. The chargesheet says Imam warned of detention centres like in Assam where people "live like animals", and claimed this was false "as there was no detention centre in Assam".

Calling the Shaheen Bagh protest site the "mother of all anti-CAA protests", the chargesheet says its real character was revealed in a WhatsApp chat that it cites: "Cool. Shashi Tharoor should come and go as he wishes. Uski kitab 'why I am a Hindu' ka bookstall bhi laga date hain phir pakka koi anti-Hindu nahi bolega. Sahi hai na (Let's display his book as well. Then no one will call the protest anti-Hindu).'

"It goes to establish the mentality that goes at length to cover the communal contours of the agitation," the chargesheet says.

Court sends Umar

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

A DELHI court has sent former JNU student Umar Khalid, arrested under UAPA charges in a case related to the February Northeast Delhi riots, to judicial custody till October 22. Khalid was produced before Additional Sessions Judge Amitabh Rawat through video conferencing after his 10-day police custody expired. Before being sent to Tihar Jail, Khalid asked ASJ Rawat if he could meet his parents, which was subsequently allowed following which they met him at the Special Cell office.

Khalid's father, Iliyas SQR tweeted, "Umar's mother, younger sister Sarah and I met him at Special Cell today for 40 minutes before his judicial custody. Umar was cheerful, healthy and comfortable. He conveyed his regards and greetings to all his well-wishers and supporters." Police had moved an application to send Khalid to 30 days judicial custody after they did not seek further custody.

Khalid's lawyer Trideep Pais asked the court to pass an order to provide Khalid with security inside the jail since there was a threat that he may be attacked. Pais told the court that back in 2016, when Umar was arrested in the JNU sedition case, he was produced through video conferencing from the police station because the "situation was that scary for the accused".

"Even in the jail there are televisions, people have seen the faces of these people... even within the jail, they can be attacked because they have opposing views on issues. They were put below high-security jail in a ward called Mother Teresa ward... they were not put in common cells," said Pais.

ASI Rawat directed the jail superintendent to "take all necessary steps, within the rules, to ensure the safety and security of accused Khalid in jail". The court also allowed Khalid to carry his spectacles inside the jail.

After the arguments were completed, Khalid spoke directly to ASJ Rawat, telling him that during his 10-day police custody, he did not sign on any papers and that he wanted to meet his parents before going to Tihar. The court recorded these submissions in the order sheet. Special Public Prosecutor Amit Prasad told the court that since Khalid had to be medically examined and other formalities had to be completed, his parents will have to make it in time to visit him. Following this submission, the court allowed Umar's father to see him – who, at the time, had joined video conferencing while travelling in a car to meet his son

DPS society challenges order to not collect fee

SUKRITA BARUAH NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

THE DELHI government's order that private schools not collect any charges other than tuition fees until they reopen physically is coming under legal challenge by the schools, which state that the condition is not financially viable for them. In a petition filed in the Delhi

High Court, the Delhi Public School Society has submitted that across six of its branches in the capital - Vasant Kunj, Dwarka, Rohini, Vasant Vihar, Mathura Road, and RK Puram there was a deficit of Rs 1,179.58 lakh between the schools' income from tuition fees and their expenses from April to July.

It submitted that while these schools collected tuition fee amounting to Rs 4,872.69 lakh in these months, their expenses incurred in the same period was Rs 6,052.27 lakh. It has stated in the petition that these expenses include "providing online education and learning material to all students without any discrimination, including students whose parents are unable to pay the school fee, paying full monthly salary and existing emoluments to their staff, paying additional internet charges to their staff, paying website charges to have uninterrupted online classes for students, maintaining school building and infrastructure, paying electricity bills, property tax". It also said "the tuition fee collected by the petitioner's schools is not even sufficient to meet

The Delhi govt order asks private schools to only collect tuition fees until they physically reopen even the salary of teachers".

The plea was heard on September 17 and the next hearing is on October 9.

In April, the Delhi government's education department had ordered that no fee other than tuition fee be charged by schools and that "annual and development charges can be charged from the parents on pro rata basis, only on monthly basis after completion of lockdown period".

Once phased unlockdown began in July, many schools began asking for annual and development charges on pro rata basis. However, last month the education department issued a fresh order stating that the April order be complied with "in its totality" and "no amount other than tuition fee... shall be charged by any private un-aided recognised school"

Citing financial difficulties and the need to perform all its functions, the DPS society has also challenged the basis of the order, stating, "The impugned order dated 18.4.2020 was passed in the wake of strict restrictions imposed upon movement due to lockdown, as a result of which some parents were unable to pay fee. However, the said restrictions have been relaxed subsequently by the central government and people are allowed to work and earn livelihood." However, defending the order, a government official said things have not necessarily changed for students and their parents. "From a child's point of view, nothing has changed and that will continue till schools reopen physically. The situation with online classes that children had since March remains the same, so what is the justification for changing the status quo?... As for parents earning, there are reports of job losses, it is not that the situation has completely resumed."

Following suit, other groups of schools are also preparing to challenge the order. Kamal Gupta, counsel for the Action Committee Unaided Recognised Private Schools - an umbrella body of over 400 private schools in the city – said he will also be submitting a petition in the Delhi HC along similar lines. "In April, the government had stated that schools can charge annual and development charges on a prorata basis after the end of the lockdown... Now that everything is up and about, there is no reason for this restriction to continue," he said.

23-year-old stops 5 men from beating up neighbour, killed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

FIVE MEN have been arrested on charges of rioting and allegedly killing a 23-year-old man after he tried to stop them from attacking a teenager in Rohini's Sawada village, police said on Thursday. The victim, Shaukat, was a photographer who tried to save his neighbour Reehan (18) from the group.

Police said the accused have been identified as Ankit, Vikas, Vishal, Harish and Ajay, aged 18-19 years. The incident took place on Tuesday night in Kanjhawala. The accused went to Reehan's house to find out the whereabouts of his friend. Saider (19). police said. They suspected Saider and Ankit were in a relationship with the same girl and wanted to beat up Saider, police said. They said the accused pelted stones outside Reehan's house and tried to barge in. They allegedly threatened locals with bricks and knives. Shaukat, who lives nearby, tried to stop them but was thrashed with bricks and attacked with knives. He sustained injuries to his head.

DCP(Rohini)PK Mishra said, "We received a call from a few locals in the village about stone pelting and violence. When we reached the spot, we found two men lying on the ground. They were rushed to a nearby hospital. Reehan was discharged after a while but Shaukat died during treatment at Safdarjung Hospital on Wednesday morning."

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

CHIEF MINISTER Arvind Kejriwal Thursday said that Delhi may have passed the second peak of Covid-19 and the spread of the virus would slowly reduce in the days ahead. On Thursday, the capital reported 3,834 fresh cases of Covid-19, taking the infection tally to 2,60,623. The death toll mounted to 5,123, with 36 more fatalities reported in the last 24 hours.

Speaking at an event in West Delhi's Pusa, Kejriwal said Delhi witnessed the first peak of Covid-19 in June and the second one between August 17 and September 16. "The number of positive cases were under control between July 1 and August 17, when there were about 1,100-1,200 cases every day. After August 17, we saw that cases were rising slowly, and then we increased testing from 20,000 to 60.000 per day." he said.

"Because of the increase in testing, positive cases were also rising. On September 16, there were 4,500 cases. After that, they started coming down and has reached 3,700 now. All experts believe this second wave of Covid-19 in Delhi may have also peaked," said the CM. The city performed 59,183 tests - 9,814 RT-PCR/CBNAAT/ True Nat and 49.369 rapid antigen - in the last 24 hours. The positivity rate in the last 24 hours has been recorded at 6.48%. A total of 2,24,375 people have recovered from the illness, taking the recovery rate to 86%. "It seems, fingers crossed, that the peak of the second wave has also come and now it would slowly reduce," Kejriwal added.

The city's containment zone policy was changed mid-June, when a decision was taken to focus on micro-containment rather than sealing entire neighbourhoods. Since then, district magistrates have been sealing clusters of houses in lanes and independent buildings instead of entire housing societies.

While the DDMA recently decided to review the policy once again, no concrete changes have been brought so far, district officials said, adding that the focus continues to remain on microcontainment. "As against the total active case load, barely a guarter fall in the containment zones. But that will be the situation as it is not practically possible to seal every area throwing up a new case. More than the number of cases in an area, a decision to seal is taken based on the possibility of an outbreak in the larger com-

Espionage case FIR sensitive yet sketchy, says court

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

HEARING AN application filed by freelance journalist Rajeev Sharma, arrested under the Official Secrets Act, to supply to him a copy of the FIR in the case against him, a Delhi court said the contents of the FIR in the espionage case were "sensitive in nature" yet "very sketchy" when compared to the press release issued by police, as it (the FIR) does not give the nature of investigation being done by police in detail. The court provided the FIR copy to Sharma and co-accused, Chinese national Qing Shi, arrested in the case. Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Pawan Singh Rajawat said the accused are entitled to be supplied a copy of the FIR for defending themselves. It, however, directed the advocates representing the accused not to disclose the FIR's contents in public and to use it for availing legal remedies only.

"I have gone through the contents of the FIR which was produced before me in a sealed cover. Even though nature of allegations against the accused persons pertains to offences under section 3/4/5 of Officials Secrets Act and offence U/S 120-B IPC, wherein the accused alleged to have been supplying strategic/sensitive in-

"However, after going through the press release which mentions in detail the background of the case as well as the outcome of the interrogation of the accused persons. If press release is compared with the contents of the FIR. the contents of the FIR are very sketchy as it does not give in detail the nature of investigation being done by police," said the court. The Special Cell said Sharma was arrested on September 14 and was "found to be in possession of some defence-related classified documents". His police custody ends on September 28. Shi and Nepalese national Sher Singh were arrested five days later for allegedly paying Sharma money routed through shell firms.

Police opposed the plea moved by Sharma's counsel Amish Aggarwala, saying it could affect the probe. Aggarwala, however, said the press release had "vivid detail" and the objections were "misplaced".

After Covid, Sisodia also diagnosed with dengue

New Delhi: Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia, who is undergoing treatment for Covid-19 at Lok Nayak hospital, has also been diagnosed with dengue, his office said in a statement on Thursday. Sisodia (48) tested positive for Covid-19 on September 14.

"He is being shifted to Max Hospital," the statement said. Sisodia was admitted to Lok Nayak hospital Wednesday. "His condition was stable in the afternoon and we had shifted him out of the ICU," said a senior doctor from Lok Nayak hospital on Thursday evening.

In a video released Thursday, Sisodia was seen praising doctors and staff of Lok Nayak hospital.

"For the last 24 hours, I have been observing how the entire staff of the hospital is working tirelessly towards the treatment and care of the Covid-19 patients. I hope there is never a situation to get hospitalised, but if the need arises, the team at Lok

WITH THE Monsoon Session coming to a close, several MPs have returned to their home states Flamaram Kareem and K K Ragesh-the CPI(M) MPs from Kerala who were among the eight members suspended for their "unruly" behaviour-have, however, proceeded to Haryana. They want to meet the farmers protesting against the farm Bills and gain first-hand understanding of the situation on the ground. Clearly, for the Opposition, the battle has just begun.

STRONGER TIES

IN A rather unusual gesture, both External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and NSA Ajit Doval went for Saudi National Day celebrations on Wednesday. Following the Covid-19 protocol, Saudi ambassador to India Saud bin Mohammed Al Sati hosted an in-person celebration at the embassy lawns. The presence of both the external affairs minister and NSA reflected India's growing ties with Saudi Arabia.

ISSUE OF ACCESS

IS THE Rajya Sabha website not accessible abroad? Well, Congress leader Jairam Ramesh says it is not. Ramesh, the party's chief whip in the Upper House, tweeted that he has been receiving emails from students abroad saying they are unable to access the Rajya Sabha website. "On checking I'm informed both LS & RS websites have been geofenced for a month, till mid-October, due to 'continuous suspicious attacks', and therefore can be accessed only from India," he says.

Pakistan playing SAARC spoiler with terror, trade hurdles: Jaishankar

SHUBHAJIT ROY NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

WITH PAKISTAN Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi listening, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar Thursday listed crossborder terrorism, blocking of connectivity and obstruction of trade as the key challenges confronting SAARC. Jaishankar's remarks at an informal meeting of SAARC foreign ministers targeted Pakistan for being a spoiler in regional cooperation.

Qureshi, who did not mention Kashmir, later said he highlighted the need to "condemn & oppose unilateral/illegal measures to change status of disputed territories in violation" of UNSC resolutions. "Such unilateral measures run counter to shared objective of #SAARC to create regional amity and cooperation & must be opposed resolutely," he tweeted. Sources said one of the agenda items in the SAARC ministerial meeting was the 19th SAARC Summit, which was to be hosted by Pakistan

Most countries felt it was not an "opportune time" for the event considering that member states are preoccupied in dealing with the Covid-19 situation. So the proposal fell through due to lack of consensus, sources said.

Through the day, Pakistan raised the issue of Kashmir at three different fora, and New Delhi objected to it.

Jaishankar, in his comments on the virtual meeting, said, "Cross-border terrorism, blocking connectivity and obstructing trade are three key challenges that SAARC must overcome. Only then will we see enduring peace, pros-

He urged SAARC member states to collectively resolve to defeat terrorism, including the forces that nurture, support and encourage an environment of terror and conflict, which impede the objective of SAARC to realise its full potential for collective collaboration and prosperity across South Asia, according to a statement from the Ministry of External Affairs.

The meeting, chaired by Nepal, was held in virtual mode and attended by all SAARC member states

At another forum of foreign ministers–Conference on Interaction and Confidence-Building Measures (CICA) in Asia hosted by Kazakhstan - Pakistan raked up the issue of Kashmir.

India hit back, saying that it is "typical of Pakistan" to use multilateral platforms of SAARC and CICA "to raise bilateral and contentious issues" spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said this is "inconsistent with the principles and charter of such organizations and their meetings' but "what else can be expected of a country that indulges in crossborder terrorism as a part of its state policy.'

Ministry of External Affairs

At CICA, the MEA in its right of reply said: "Pakistan has misused another forum by continuing its spurious narrative about India" and "The Union Territories of Jammu and Kashmir and Ladakh have been and will remain an integral part of India. Pakistan has no locus standi to comment on India's internal affairs.

Pakistan also raised the issue of Kashmir at the United Nations Human Rights Council, to which India reacted sharply

Vimarsh Aryan, First Secretary at the UN in Geneva, said: "In these... times when everyone is putting on a mask for the safety of fellow human beings, Pakistan is using another kind of pernicious mask to masquerade as a champion of human rights..."

Regional ties: PM, Rajapaksa to hold virtual bilateral meet tomorrow

SHUBHAJIT ROY NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi and Sri Lankan Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa will take part in a virtual bilateral summit on Saturday.

This will be Prime Minister Modi's first such virtual engagement with a neighbouring country. It will also be Sri Lanka PM Rajapaksa's first diplomatic engagement with a leader of a foreign nation after he was sworn in on August 9.

MEA spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said India- Sri Lanka relations are marked by regular high-level exchanges. Such exchanges have provided momentum to mutual cooperation and ties which are multi-dimensional in nature, he said.

Prime Minister Modi has held regular interactions with both the President and Prime Minister of Sri Lanka.

The virtual bilateral summit is preceded by the state visits of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa and Prime Minister Rajapaksa to India in November 2019 and February 2020 respectively.

Since then, leaders have kept in close touch and spoken to each other over the phone on several occasions-including in the context tackling the Covid-19 pandemic.

Srivastava said the summit will give an opportunity to the leaders to "comprehensively review the broad framework of the bilateral relationship in the context of the time-tested friendly ties between the two countries and give broad political direction for a strengthened and deepened collaborative partnership..'

AFTER LAC TALKS WITH CHINA Way ahead is to refrain from bid to unilaterally change status quo: MEA

SHUBHAJIT ROY NEW DELHI. SEPTEMBER 24

DAYS AFTER India and China agreed not to engage in escalatory behaviour along the Line of Actual Control, New Delhi said that the "way ahead" will be to refrain from making any attempts to unilaterally change the status quo while the two sides continue their discussions to achieve complete disengagement in all friction areas.

Pointing out that the Senior Commanders "met after a period of nearly 50 days", Ministry of External Affairs spokesperson Anurag Srivastava said that the two sides have also decided to have the next meeting of Senior Commanders at the earliest. In parallel, the next meeting of the WMCC is also likely to take place soon, he said.

The sixth meeting of the Senior Commanders of India and China took place on September 21 in Moldo.

Underlining that this was the first joint press release after any Senior Commanders' meeting. the MEA spokesperson said, "As such, it reflects the stated commitment of both sides to disengage along the LAC disengagement is a complex process that requires redeployment of troops by each side towards their regular posts on their respective sides of the LAC. This would require mutually agreed reciprocal actions. Even as two sides work towards complete disengagement in all friction areas, it is at the same time also necessary to ensure stability on the ground." In comments identical to the official statement, the MEA spokesperson said the sixth meeting gave the Senior Commanders an opportunity to have candid and in-depth exchanges of views on stabilising the situation along the LAC. The two sides have also decided to strengthen ground communication to avoid any further misunderstandings and misjudgements, stop sending more troops to the frontline, refrain from unilaterally changing the situation on the ground, and avoid taking any action that may complicate the situation. "The way ahead will be to refrain from making any attempts to unilaterally change the status and while the two sides continue their discussions to achieve complete disengagement in all friction areas and to ensure full restoration of peace and tranquility in the border areas," the MEA spokesperson said. This meeting took place in the backdrop of the meeting of the defence ministers of India and China in Moscow on September 4 and the meeting of the two foreign ministers on September 10. The foreign ministers had agreed that both sides should continue dialogue and quickly and comprehensively disengage in all friction areas. After the sixth meeting, sources had said that while there was no agreement on "disengagement" at friction points, the two sides have come to an understanding on not escalating the situation given that troops are within firing range of each other.

CRITICISING THE way the FCRA amendment Bill was "rushed through", and the way it "demonises" NGOs, several civil society organisations on Thursday urged President Ram Nath Kovind not to sign the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Amendment Bill, 2020.

The Voluntary Action Network India (VANI), an apex body of Indian NGOs, maintained that the Bill was passed "without proper deliberation and consultation", while Poonam Muttreja, executive director of the Population Foundation of India (PFI), said it creates a negative perception of the NGO sector, which fears that once it becomes law, no government, irrespective of party, is likely to repeal it. While the Bill "demonises NGOs", Muttreja said, "when the Covid-19 pandemic hit, NGOs were the first port of call for many, including the government".

The government has cited ostensible misuse of funds for activities such as terror funding. MP BYPOLLS Caste key factor in selection of first 15 Cong candidates

IRAM SIDDIQUI BHOPAL. SEPTEMBER 24

THE SELECTION of candidates for the upcoming bypolls to 28 seats in Madhya Pradesh suggests that the Congress is looking to strike the right caste combination.

Among the 15 candidates announced by the party so far are four former BSP leaders, including former BSP state president Phul Singh Baraiya.

Out of the 15 candidates, nine will contest elections in the Gwalior-Chambal region -- four are former BSP leaders and three were earlier with the BJP. The region is considered a stronghold of former Congress leader and now BJP Rajya Sabha MP Jyotiraditya Scindia.

Baraiya will contest from Bhander and Pragilal Jatav, Satyaprakash Shekarwar and Mevaram Jatav, earlier with the BSP, will now contest on a Congress ticket from Karera, Ambah and Gohad, respectively. All the four seats are reserved for SC candidates.

The 28 bypolls were necessitated by the resignations of 22 Congress MLAs that brought down the Kamal Nath government, subsequent resignation by three more Congress legislators and death of three sitting MLAs.

The BJP has 107 MLAs and the Congress has 88 MLAs. The Congress, party sources say, announced the names of 15 candidates after three rounds of surveys to gauge their popularity on the ground.

While the BJP is yet to announce its candidates, it is likely to field the 25 MLAs who switched from the Congress.

The three former BJP leaders, who have been fielded by the Congress in the Gwalior-Chambal region, include former minister Kanhaiyalal Agarwal.

Agarwal is likely to contest against state minister for Rural Development and Panchayati Raj Mahendra Singh Sisodiya and former BJP leader Suresh Raje may take on his relative and Women and Child Development Minister Imarti Devi in Dabra.

Premchand Guddu, former Ujjain MP who quit Congress to join BJP in 2018 and returned to Congress in March 2020, may be up against Tulsiram Silawat, state minister for water resources.

The Congress has fielded Ravindra Singh Tomar from Dimini -- the Tomar community accounts for 27 per cent of the electorate in the constituency. He may be up against Agriculture Minister Giriraj Dhandhotiya.

No running water in 72% of school toilets built by 7 CPSEs: CAG report

DIPANKAR GHOSE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

A CAG audit survey of toilets built for schools by seven Central Public Sector Enterprises has revealed that 30 per cent of them were not in use, 72 per cent did not have running water, 55 per cent did not have hand washing facilities, and 30 per cent had no soap or disinfectants. The report was tabled in Parliament on Wednesday. The survey, conducted in 2019 and sent to the Union government on January 2, 2020, assumes significance at a time when schools are inching towards reopening amid the Covid-19 pandemic, with hand washing being a big part of preventive medical advice against the spread of the infection.

The report states that the Prime Minister announced on August 15, 2014, that all schools "should have separate toilets for boys and girls within a year and called upon the corporate sector to give priority to this national endeavour as part of their Corporate Social Responsibility.'

"To achieve the objective of separate toilets for boys and girls within a year, Ministry of Human Development Resources launched (September 1, 2014) Swachh Vidyalaya Abhiyan and sought cooperation of other ministries to impress upon the Central

Punjab farmers launch 'rail roko' stir over farm Bills, train services hit

20 trains partially cancelled, five short-terminated as thousands of farmers block railway tracks across state

RAAKHI JAGGA AND ANJU AGNIHOTRI CHABA LUDHIANA, JALANDHAR, SEPTEMBER 24

FARMER UNIONS in Punjab started a three-day 'rail roko' protest against Centre's farm Bills at six different locations in the state with 1,000 to 1,500 farmers sitting on the tracks at each protest site. The Railways partially cancelled 20 trains and short-terminated five trains till September 26 as protesters blocked rail tracks at various places, including Amritsar, Ferozepur, Sangrur, Barnala, Mansa and Nabha.

The 'rail roko' started at about 1 pm on Thursday, will continue till 1 pm on Saturday, said Satnam Singh Pannu, president of Kisan Mazdoor Sangh Committee.

Farmers in Punjab and Haryana will go on a day-long strike Friday in protest against the farm Bills. As many as 31 farmer organisations have also announced an indefinite 'rail roko' agitation from October 1.

"The disruption of rail services at this time will have a serious impact on freight loading as well as passengers movement. It will affect movement of essential goods. Just as the economy is recovering, the agitation will severely hurt the freight movement that has gained some momentum since the Unlock began. Also, this is a time when people are travelling for emergency purposes and this will hurt them too as we have had to cancel/divert special trains," said General Manager, Northern and North Central Railway, Rajiv Chaudhry.

Among the trains that will remain suspended are the Golden Temple Mail (Amritsar-Mumbai Central), Jan Shatabdi Express (Haridwar-Amritsar), New Delhi-Iammu Tawi. Karambhoomi

STATING THAT he would "not accept the leadership of Tejashwi Yadav" in the RID-led Opposition Grand Alliance, Rashtriya Lok Samta Party (RLSP) chief Upendra Kushwaha on Thursday said his party is keeping all options open and has started preparing to contest all 243 seats in the upcoming Bihar Assembly elections

Kushwaha has also hinted that his options include a return to the BJP-led NDA, which he had left in December 2018, months before last summer's General Election.

The RJD maintained that there is no possibility of any rethink on Tejashwi as the alliance's leader.

spokesperson Party Mrityunjay Tewari told The Sahni and Ian Adhikar Party chief Rajesh Ranjan – better known as Pappu Yadav - to forge a possible third front in the state elections.

Sources said Kushwaha has been also in contact with the JD(U) and BJP. "A lot will depend on LJP's stand. If LJP walks out of NDA, RLSP will have a good space in NDA. Otherwise there could be an offer of a few seats. a BJP source said, adding that the D(U) has warmed up to Kushwaha.

Kushwaha, who had met Teiashwi. the Leader of Opposition, last week, was not given any assurance on the number of seats his party would get to contest. Although Congress's Bihar in-charge Shaktisinh Gohil said that no alliance partner is leaving the Grand Alliance, RLSP is said to be upset at being cornered in the alliance.

FIVE YEARS ago, retail prices of arhar/tur(pigeon pea)dal scaled to levels of Rs 180-200 per kg towards October, and was seen to have contributed significantly to the BJP's defeat in Bihar

This time round, the Narendra Modi government is taking no chances, especially with heavy rain in north belt-covering Bidar, Gulbarga, Yadgir, Bijapur and Raichur dis-mid-November. That, however, may now start coming in only by December.

"North Karnataka has had excess rain in August and this month. At least 10 per cent of the crop there has suffered damage. Even the crop that hasn't so far will see delayed harvesting," said Nitin Kalantri, a leading dal miller based in Latur, Maharashtra. Wholesale tur prices in Latur have risen from around Rs 5,800 to Rs 6,700 per quintal in the last one month, well above the government's minimum support price (MSP) of Rs 6,000 per quintal. Milled tur/arhar dal is currently retailing at Rs 95-105 per kg in various parts of the coun-

Given the situation, a highlevel meeting convened by the Cabinet Secretary last week is said to have reviewed the overall pulses availability situation.

On September 14, the government imposed a blanket ban on export of onion after retail prices of the bulb crossed Rs 40 per kg (along with potatoes and tomatoes also at over Rs 35 and Rs 55/kg, respectively).

"The infection is spreading due to that too. The battle against Covid-19 should not be seen as the victory of some people or the failure of others." he said.

While new recoveries have exceeded new cases for the last six days at the national level, Kerala has been witnessing more new cases than recoveries for the last several weeks consistently. On Thursday, the state reported only 3,168 recoveries, which is half the day's positive cases.

While nationally, the recovery rate is 81.55 per cent, the figure for Kerala has gone down to 69.83 per cent. Many states with caseloads higher than Kerala have fewer active cases. Tamil Nadu has only 8 per cent of its cases as active and Karnataka has 18 per cent. Only Chhattisgarh (total cases 93,351) and J&K (67,510) have a larger share of active cases at 38 per cent and 30 per cent, respectively.

Health economist and guest faculty at IIM Kozhikode Prof Rijo M John said Kerala isn't testing enough, leading to cases going undetected. "While cases have been growing, Kerala is not stepping up testing. Without more testing, we cannot even predict the peak for Covid-19 cases in the state." he said.

Dr Fazal Ghafoor, a member of the expert committee that advises the government on Covid-19 management, agreed on the need for more tests. He, however, said that unlike several other states which witnessed a spurt in cases, in Kerala, the growth in cases has been steady. "This shows that we are putting up a strong fight to delay the peak. Our health infrastructure is not still under stress. Though there are 45,919 active cases in Kerala as on Thursday, only 97 are on ventilator support and 371 in ICUs. That's a welcome relief," he said

The state government on Wednesday urged asymptomatic patients to isolate themselves at home under the guidance of health workers.

On Thursday, police registered a case against K M Abhijith, president of the Congress's student outfit Kerala Students' Union, on charges of getting a Covid test done under a fake name and ID. Abhijith, who tested positive on Wednesday, had actively participated in the recent protests.

AUTHOR KOTA Neelima, wife of Congress national spokesperson Pawan Khera, and Sangeeta Tyagi, wife of party former spokesperson, late Rajiv Tyagi, on Thursday moved the Supreme Court seeking permission to intervene in the Sudarshan TV case, alleging that some news anchors indulge in "hate speeches".

In their application, filed through advocate Sunil Fernandes, they said they can assist the court regarding the larger issue of "hate speech" by some news anchors.

The plea said the Sudarshan TV show "is emblematic of a larger, insidious malady", which is the "propensity of TV anchors to shamelessly indulge in 'hate speeches'." They contended that "for an impartial, dispassionate independent viewers, the TV debates/TV anchors are nothing but brazen Central Government propaganda machines, who lack objectivity, fairness and neutrality in their TV reporting". They sought directions from the court to control this until the legislature brings a law.

Before virus, officials in Maharashtra villages fight fear, stigma

TABASSUM BARNAGARWALA

RATNAGIRI, SEPTEMBER 24

IMRAN SOLKAR remembers when the first case of Covid-19 came to Rajiwada, a fishing village hugging the coastline in Ratnagiri district of Maharashtra, in March, through a Tablighi Jamaat contact. The communal allegations that followed, apart from social stigma and lack of faith in government health workers, drove people into their huts. They simply refused to disclose if they had any coronavirus symptoms. A few fishermen eventually converted a zilla parishad school into a fever clinic, pooled in three private doctors to provide treatment, and counsel those in need of hospitalisation.

However, horror stories of those who found themselves in government facilities still kept people from coming forward for testing. In August, Ali Pagarkar (72) of Rajiwada refused to give samples for Covid-19 despite fever, acute weakness and a chest CT scan showing pneumonia. When he finally agreed and was taken to the Civil Hospital after testing positive, Solkar says, he came back scarred. For 10 days that he spent in the ICU, Pagalkar would say, his clothes were not changed. no ward boy would feed or touch him, while the same helper who took care of dead bodies would bring his food and water without changing gloves. The fear isn't confined to villages where there are limited facilities. State epidemiologist Dr Pradeep Awate says that 40 per cent of the patients who succumbed to Covid-19 in Maharashtra died within 24 hours of hospitalisation, indicating they reached after turning critical. Awareness about coronavirus remains low, and patients do not take the disease seriously until severe symptoms emerge, he says. "District planning has not taken care of these issues. For us they are small problems, but they define a patient's behaviour.'

Ratnagiri district's case fatality rate stands at 3% (double the national average), with 100 new cases every day. It is still one of the few districts in Maharashtra with less than 10,000 cases, but corporator Suhail Mukadam fears that might be due to the unwillingness of villagers to get tested.

General physician Atish Khanvilkar, who has a private clinic in Ratnagiri town, says most every day have Covid symptoms but refuse to acknowledge the same. "We need religious and political leaders to help.' Dr Nazia Mirkar, a consultant at the Rajiwada school that is now a clinic, recounts villagers telling her they will be given some injection (of Tocilizumab) that will kill them. Rather than forcing a test on mild cases. Mirkar says, she starts counselling the moment a bad chest CT scan comes up. "Our aim is to prevent deaths.'

It isn't just the stigma or the fear of the unknown that keeps villagers away. There are also practical issues like who will look after their cattle if a whole family is quarantined.

At Ratnagiri Civil Hospital, where Pagarkar spent a traumatic 10 days, relatives continue to sleep outside the ICU, helping the patients eat, change and use the washroom for lack of staff. "If we of the 100-odd patients he sees don't go, nobody looks after them," says Dhanashree Kate, whose husband Vineet (33) is in the ICU.

Umesh Maruti, squatting next, nods. "Most patients in the ICU are drowsy. One night a ward boy asked two patients if they wanted dinner, both refused and he just left. None of the other patients were offered dinner." He buys warm water for his mother Rukmini showing fever and ending up in Dr Shashikant Ahankari, of guarantine. Langde started out by Halo Medical Foundation in counselling heads of families. "We have realised that it's about com-Osmanabad, 400 km away, says they distributed pamphlets in 70 munity participation."

(60) to drink from a hotel nearby. Ratnagiri Civil Surgeon Dr Ashok Bolde says their priority is to first appoint doctors, then look at "smaller issues". There are only 16 doctors out of the required 50 at the Civil Hospital. Dr Ashfaq Gaus, an Ayush doctor in the Ratnagiri Health Department, says "lack of management" is adding to the resistance against hospitalisation.

Laws stress mother

tongue as medium

of instruction: govt

New Delhi: The National Curriculum Framework

(NFC) of 2005, Right to Education (RTE) Act, 2009, and National Education Policy (NEP), 2020, lay stress on providing school education in home language/ mother tongue, the Centre has told the Supreme Court. The Union Ministry of Education said this in response to a notice issued by the top court on an appeal filed by the Andhra Pradesh government, which challenged the state High Court order striking down its decision making English medium mandatory for classes I to VI in government schools beginning 2020-

The Centre informed the apex court that Section

29(2)(f) of RTE Act says that "medium of instruction shall, as far as possible, be in child's mother tongue".

The NCF, it said in an affidavit, also states that "home language(s) of children...should be medium of instruction in schools". The RTE Act, the affidavit stated, also has this extract from NCF: "NEP 2005 defines home language or mother tongue as languages subsuming the languages of home, larger kinship groups, street and neighbourhood that a child acquires naturally from his/her home and societal environment.

If a school does not have provisions for teaching in the child home language(s) at the higher levels, primary school curriculum must still be covered

Bengaluru

through the home language(s)...'

violence: 1 held, NIA searches 30 locations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE BENGALURU, NEW DELHI SEPTEMBER 24

THE NIA, which recently took over the probe into two cases registered in connection with the violence in Bengaluru over a derogatory social media post, carried out searches at 30 locations in the city on Thursday and arrested a man. The agency claimed to have arrested "key conspirator" Sayed Sadiq Ali, 44, from Bengaluru. On August 11, a mob gathered outside the residence of Congress MLA R Akhanda Srinivas Murthy in Bengaluru and set ablaze vehicles over a social media post allegedly shared by the MLA's nephew P Naveen. The mob, which also attacked two police stations, alleged that the Facebook post hurt sentiments of Muslims. Three people were killed and 50 policemen injured in the violence. Bengaluru police registered seven FIRs of which two – with charges under Prevention of Damage to Public Property Act and Unlawful Activities Prevention Act - have been taken over by NIA.

"Sayed Saddiq Ali, 44, was arrested for his involvement in the attack on the KG Halli police station in east Bengaluru on August 11." the NIA said in a statement on Thursday. The accused works as a recovery agent with a bank and was absconding since August 11, it said. The searches at 30 locations "to unearth the conspiracy behind the attacks on DJ Halli and KG Halli police stations" resulted in seizures of an "airgun, pellets, sharp weapons, iron rods, digital devices, DVRs and many SDPI & PFI related documents", the NIA said. The NIA took over the probe on Monday following directions from the Home Ministry. "These cases pertain to mob violence post a derogatory social media remark by one Naveen, nephew of Sh. Srinivas Akhanda Murthy, a sitting Congress, MLA, (Pulakeshi Nagar, Bengaluru) insulting the religious sentiments of Muslims. The State Secretary, Social Democratic Party of India, Muzamil Pasha and other members of Social Democratic Party of India /Popular Front of India gathered a mob at the houses of Naveen, Sh. Akhanda Srinivas Murthy and at the premises of DJ Halli and KG Halli police stations, who vandalised the premises and resorted to arson, creating fear and panic among the masses," the NIA statement said.

The pledges, in specific and the public, in general, are hereby notified that public auction of the gold ornaments pledged in the below accounts is proposed to be conducted at the following branches on 16/10/2020 from 10.00 am onwards. AgustaWestland: Three SARs were raised by DBTCA and one by Standard Chartered Bank New York (SCB NY) between 2013 and 2016 against AgustaWestland, Finmeccanica (now Leonardo SpA) and other subsidiaries over 1,417 transactions ($889.6 million) during 2010-2015. They refer to the Rs 3.600-crore deal signed with India in 2010 for 12 helicopters to carry VVIPs.

In 2013, Giuseppe Orsi, Finmeccanica CEO, was arrested by Italian authorities on corruption and bribery charges related to the deal. The CBI and ED have filed chargesheets in the case, and two alleged middlemen, Christian Michel and Rajiv Saxena, were extradited from Dubai last year. The case is under investigation. Leonardo SpA said: "Leonardo strives to ... prevent, detect and respond to corruption, applying a zero-tolerance approach. (The India deal) charges on the company were dropped in Italy in 2014 and... executives were acquitted by Italy's Supreme Court of Justice in 2019."

■ State Trading Corporation (STC): DBTCA filed a SAR in November 2012 flagging 24 transactions ($29.61 million) during June-October 2012, saying the bank was "unable to confirm" their "commercial purpose". It states the transactions were red-flagged after Mumbai-based Rajat Pharmachem, now under liquidation following loan defaults, was booked by the Directorate of Revenue Intelligence in 2008 for alleged duty evasion of Rs 1,000 crore linked to an export agreement in 2004 with STC.

When contacted, STC said that it "has dealt with Rajat Pharmachem from 2004 to 2008" but did not provide any details. Airtel: Before the 2G scam case. in which the company was named, fell through in court in December 2017 --- a CBI appeal is pending before Delhi High Court-- seven SARs were filed by DBTCA and two by SCBNY during 2013-2016 red-flagging 8,343 transactions (over $1.416 billion). The company was also referred to as a "counterparty suspect" in DBTCA's SARs in 2014 on Kuwait's Zain Group and in 2013 on Qatar's Three Pillars Pte Ltd.

Said a Bharti Airtel spokesperson: "As a company, we have not received any communication whatsoever on the issue by law/ enforcement authorities from any jurisdictions...All transactions that would have happened from time to time, were undertaken in accordance with the applicable laws and regulations...regarding Kuwait's Zain Group and Qatar's Three Pillars Pte Ltd, these transactions were regular business transactions between two parties." Tata Communications: A SAR filed by SCB NY in July 2014 referred to a CBI case in 2013. accusing Tata Communications and Bharti Airtel of "allegedly causing a loss of nearly Rs 48 crore to the government since 2004 by illegally providing International Long Distance(ILD) services". Seven other transactions of the company worth $5,45,000 were flagged for payments during 2013-14 from FM Global Trading FZE.

Manish Kedia, Senior Vice President (Corporate Affairs), said: "All financial transactions made are executed after conducting necessary diligence and obtaining all required approvals, including regulatory approvals wherever applicable.

Aurobindo Pharma: Records show that 1,328 transactions ($370.9 million) were flagged in seven DBTCA SARs. One states the company is the subject of "an investigation involving bribery and laundering". In 2012, the CBI filed a chargesheet against Jagan Mohan Reddy and directors of Aurobindo Pharma, along with another company. In 2016, the ED filed a prosecution complaint. Both these agencies told the court that their investigation centred around 75 acres each allotted to Aurobindo and another company when Jagan's father, the late Y S Rajasekhara Reddy, was Chief Minister of Andhra Pradesh before the state was split. The chargesheet alleges that the two companies later invested in Jagan's firms. The cases are now pending for trial. An Aurobindo spokesperson said: "Some of our entities have been under scrutiny, which can happen to any business, but we have not faced any adverse action or order from any government authority. We have never been subiected to any anti-money laundering or bribery investigation ever so far." Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy's

Oct 10, CBSE tells SC

New Delhi: The CBSE on Thursday told the Supreme Court that it will declare results of the compartment exams for Class 12 students on or before October 10. The Board conveyed this to a bench of Justices A M Khanwilkar and Sanjiv Khanna, which was hearing petitions regarding the conduct of the exam.

The UGC also informed the Bench it will commence the academic calendar for undergraduate courses only from October 31 by which time the results will be out.

The petitioners – students of classes 10 and 12 represented by their natural guardians - had moved the court seeking cancellation of the compartment exam in view of the Covid situation. They also sought extension of admission deadline for 2020-21.

Taking note of the submission, the court disposed of the ENS plea.

Blasts trigger fire at ONGC plant in Surat

Surat: Three powerful explosions triggered a fire at at the gas terminal plant of the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC) in Surat's Hazira early on Thursday. No casualties were reported.

Surat District Collector Dhaval Patel said, "The fire broke out in the inlet gas terminal after three massive blasts at 3.05 am. The compressed gas was depressurised to bring the fire under control... no one was injured.'

In a statement, ONGC Hazira plant manager and Group General Manager, DM Roy, said, "Small to moderate fire broke out in the Gas Terminal (36-inch line coming from offshore), a part of Hazira plant of ONGC, at around 3 am... due to leakage of gas... EXPLAINED YOUR MONEY

Should you invest in fixed deposits with banks?

SANDEEP SINGH

AS CENTRAL banks around the world, including in India, look to rekindle economies ravaged by the pandemic through monetary policy measures, interest rates are expected to remain low for perhaps the next couple of years. Seeking to stabilise the financial markets and stimulate the United States economy, the Federal Reserve last week reaffirmed plans to leave its benchmark interest rates pinned near zero until at least 2023.

In a situation of high inflation and declining interest rates, fixed deposits (FDs) with banks will have to take the backseat in an investor's asset allocation, especially for those in the highest marginal tax bracket

How should you view FDs?

Back in 1995, State Bank of India offered an interest rate of 13% on deposits of more than three years. It was an attractive offer, and the fact that income levels were low and most individuals fell in the lower tax brackets, meant double-digit returns post-tax. FDs were a low-risk, high-interest investment then; things have changed dramatically since. Amar Pandit, founder of Happyness Factory, an online goal-based investing experience platform, said, "FDs are simply lowcost loans to banks, and should not be seen as an investment avenue.'

A quick calculation shows that FDs don't make much investment sense for those in the high tax brackets, other than the fact that some old investors still derive comfort from investing in bank FDs. However, over the last couple of years, that comfort too, has been shaken – depositors have seen their deposits getting stuck, first in PMC Bank and then in Yes Bank, as RBI imposed a moratorium/ cap on withdrawals. Investors were reminded also that in case of default in FD maturity payments, their deposit insurance would cover payment only up to Rs 5 lakh.

Indeed, FDs no longer serve the purpose they did 20-25 years ago. "The purpose of any investment is to grow the value of assets over a period of time, but with the interest rates in the current scenario, and the high inflation – and for someone who falls in the highest tax bracket, it does not make much sense," Pandit said. "For liquidity, individuals may keep some money in fixed deposits."

But yes, those who are not required to pay tax, or who fall in the lowest tax bracket, may definitely consider FDs, which will give them around 5 per cent post-tax return. Even high net worth individuals (HNIs) can park a part of their assets in FDs as a diversification strategy.

Do FDs provide cover against inflation?

Any financial instrument must serve the purpose of growing your money - so, the first thing one must see before putting money in an FD is whether it provides real growth to the investment (net of inflation).

While volatility is seen as a risk by many investing in mutual funds, inflation must be seen as a big risk for FD investments. If adjusted for inflation, fixed deposits actually generate negative returns. Consider this example:

For an investor falling in the highest tax bracket, a 10-year investment of Rs 10 lakh in a bank FD offering 5.4 per cent, will generate a post-tax return of close to Rs 4.4 lakh. This means the investment of Rs 10 lakh would grow to Rs 14.4 lakh after 10 years.

However, if inflation is 5% in the same period — which will be actually around 7% taking into account lifestyle and education inflation - the investor will actually lose money. This is because the investor's Rs 10 lakh needed to have grown to Rs 16.28 lakh in 10 years just to cover for the 5% inflation. Since the FD grows to only Rs 14.4 lakh, in real terms the investor would be poorer by close to Rs 1.9 lakh.

What is the outlook for interest rates? At 4%, the reporate (the rate at which RBI lends to commercial banks) is the lowest in at least 17 years. While the central bank has already cut the reportate by 250 basis points since February 2019, in its monetary policy statement in August, the RBI Governor said that the Monetary Policy Committee had decided to hold on policy rates, but it would keep a watch on durable reduction in inflation "to use the available space to support the revival of the economy".

This essentially means that once the inflation stabilises, RBI will go for a further cut in interest rates to support the economy and prop up demand.

A cut in interest rates would mean that banks would first reduce their borrowing cost before they cut the lending rates. So, fixed deposit investors will see a further reduction in interest rate offerings.

As of now, while SBI is offering a 5.4% interest on a 5-year term deposit, the post-tax returns for those falling in the highest tax bracket (without surcharge) would come to around 3.7%. Going forward, with a further cut in repo rates, banks may reduce their offering further, making it even more unattractive for investors.

So, should you go for fixed deposits?

For individuals in the middle-income category falling in the highest tax bracket and looking to build a retirement corpus or save for children's higher education etc., the answer is no. While CPI inflation may be around lifestyle inflation and education inflation are much higher at around 7-8%. It is therefore important to go for financial instruments that generate above-inflation returns. Financial planners say that while HNIs can keep some part of their assets in fixed deposits, middle-income individuals should

6% for now and RBI may have targeted it for around 4%, it is important to realise that not go for FDs except for keeping some money for liquidity purposes. Individuals whose income is non-taxable, or falls in the low marginal tax rate of 10%, can go for FDs as they will fetch a decent post-tax return.

As for existing FDs, experts say that it is not wise to roll them over beyond what may be required for liquidity, and they should be utilised to repay part of outstanding loans. "Any asset earning a lower interest than the outgo on loan should be utilised to repay and reduce the debt burden," said Surya Bhatia, founder, Asset Managers, a financial advisory firm.

What should FD investors then look at?

Even for debt investment, investors can look to split their portfolio. An investment corpus that may not be needed for 10-15 years and can be kept for children's higher education or wedding, can be invested in Public Provident Fund and Sukanya Samriddhi Yojana, which offer 7.1% and 7.6% respectively. Investors can invest up to Rs 1.5 lakh in each of these schemes in a year. In

SIMPLY PUT QUESTION & ANSWER

What is the basis of MSP?

The newly passed farm trade Bill has raised concerns that farmers may no longer be assured MSP for their crop. But MSP isn't even mentioned in the new law or in existing ones. How is it fixed, and how binding is it?

both cases, the interest income is tax-free. Senior citizens can go for the government's senior citizen savings scheme that offers 7.4% interest. Investors can put up to Rs 15 lakh in the scheme.

Some other options that fixed deposit investors can consider are Government of India bonds that are currently offering 7.1%; however, this is not fixed, but floating.

Vishal Dhawan, founder and CEO, Plan Ahead Wealth Advisors, said debt mutual funds too, are a good option for long-term investors, as they offer capital appreciation as well. "Over long periods both inflation and interest rates will trend downwards, and so typically, debt mutual funds will offer capital appreciation to those who can hold for longer periods. It also provides tax arbitrage as compared to fixed deposits. Debt mutual fund investors pay 20% with indexation benefits for investments over three years, and it is more efficient than taxation of fixed deposits for those falling in the 30% marginal tax rate," Dhawan said. However, investors should only go with debt funds having highquality AAA-rated papers, he said.

According to Dhawan, those in the highest tax bracket can also go for tax-free bonds, where the current yield is 4.5% – better than FDs.

Bhatia said that while investors can go for short-term debt funds with a quality portfolio, one must look to hold for three years for the best tax benefit.

But even the FRP – which, incidentally, was until 2008-09 called the 'statutory minimum price' or SMP - is payable not by the government. The responsibility to make FRP payment to farmers within 14 days of cane purchase lies solely with the sugar mills.

Has there been any move to give MSP legislative backing?

The CACP, in its price policy report for the 2018-19 kharif marketing season, had suggested enactment of a legislation conferring on farmers 'The Right to Sell at MSP'. This, it felt, was necessary "to instil confidence among farmers for procurement of their produce". That advice, predictably, wasn't accepted.

The ongoing farmer protests essentially reflect a loss of that very confidence. Is the dismantling of the monopoly of APMC mandis in wholesale trading of farm produce the first step at ending even the present MSP-based procurement programme, largely limited to wheat and paddy? If APMCs were to turn unviable due to the trades moving outside, how will government agencies undertake procurement that now takes place in mandis? These questions are playing in the minds of farmers, particularly in states such as Punjab, Haryana and MP that have well-established systems of governmental MSP purchases. For them, freedom to sell to anyone, anywhere and anytime has little value compared to the comfort of assured procurement at MSP.

Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Bill does not give any statutory backing to MSP. Forget making it a legal right, there isn't even a mention of either "MSP" or "procurement" in the Bill passed by both Houses of Parliament last week.

Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar has said the new legislation has "nothing to do with MSP". Instead, its objective is simply to grant farmers and traders the freedom of choice to sell and buy agricultural produce outside the premises of APMC mandis. MSP and procurement, according to him. are entirely separate issues: "MSP was not part of any law before. Nor is it part of any law today.

The minister isn't wrong.

The National Food Security Act, 2013 (NFSA), passed by the previous Congress-led UPA government, provides a legal basis for the public distribution system (PDS) that earlier operated only as a regular government scheme. The NFSA made access to the PDS a right, entitling every person belonging to a "priority household" to receive 5 kg of foodgrains per month at a subsidised price not exceeding Rs 2/kg for wheat and Rs 3/kg for rice. Priority households were further defined so as to cover up to 75% of the country's rural population and 50% in urban areas.

MSP, by contrast, is devoid of any legal backing. Access to it, unlike subsidised grains through the PDS, isn't an entitlement for farmers. They cannot demand it as a matter of right.

What is the basis of MSP then?

"It is only a government policy that is part of administrative decision-making. The government declares MSPs for crops, but there's no law mandating their implementation," explained Abhijit Sen, former Planning Commission member and chairman of the Commission for Agricultural Costs & Prices (CACP).

The Centre currently fixes MSPs for 23 farm commodities - 7 cereals (paddy, wheat, maize, bajra, jowar, ragi and barley), 5 pulses (chana, arhar/tur, urad, moong and masur), 7 oilseeds (rapeseed-mustard, groundnut. sovabean. sunflower. sesamum. safflower and nigerseed) and 4 commercial crops (cotton, sugarcane, copra and raw jute) based on the CACP's recommendations.

But the CACP itself is not any statutory body set up through an Act of Parliament. This, despite its coming to existence in 1965 and MSPs being announced since the time of the Green Revolution, starting with wheat in 1966-67. The CACP, as its website states, is just "an attached office of the Ministry of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare, Government of India". It can recommend MSPs, but the decision on fixing (or even not fixing) and enforcement rests finally with the government.

"The government can procure at the MSPs if it wants to. There is no legal compulsion. Nor can it force others (private traders, organised retailers, processors or exporters) to pay," Sen noted. The government does buy wheat and paddy at their MSPs. But that's more out of political compulsion and the need to supply the PDS's foodgrain requirements, more so post the NFSA.

The only crop where MSP payment has some statutory element is sugarcane. This is due to its pricing being governed by the Sugarcane (Control) Order, 1966 issued under the Essential Commodities Act. That order, in turn, provides for the fixation of a 'fair and remunerative price' (FRP) for cane during every sugar year (October-September).

What has the government done to address these questions?

Prime Minister Narendra Modi, on September 20, tweeted that the "system of MSP will remain" and "government procurement will continue". The Agriculture Minister, too, has pointed out that past governments never thought it necessary to introduce a law for MSP. So why even talk about MSP, leave alone incorporate guarantees relating to its continuance, in an apparently unrelated law?

It remains to be seen whether these finer points would go down well on the ground. By announcing the MSPs of rabi crops for the ensuing planting season on September 21 (this was last year done on October 23) and kickstarting kharif procurement from early next month, the government may hope to counter any major farmer backlash.

How CSIR will try to find out if coronavirus can spread while airborne

ANURADHA MASCARENHAS PUNE, SEPTEMBER 24

AMID CONTINUING scientific debate worldwide over whether airborne transmission of Covid-19 is possible, the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) has started air sampling studies to draw its own conclusions. Director general Dr Shekhar Mande has stressed that this is a sensitive public health issue and the CSIR does not want to falsely alert the public.

What do we know about airborne transmission?

While the virus that causes Covid-19. SARS-CoV-2, does spread through respiratory droplets from one person to another, it has remained up for debate whether droplets, including tiny aerosols, containing the virus remain suspended in the air for a long enough period of time to enable the virus to infect a new person.

Amid the debate, the World Health Organization (WHO) has updated its guidelines. While WHO had already acknowledged that airborne transmission can occur during medical procedures that generate aerosols, the updated guidelines state that "WHO, together with the scientific community, has been actively discussing and evaluating whether SARS-CoV-2 may also spread through aerosols in the absence of aerosol generating procedures, particularly in indoor settings with poor ventilation"

The US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), too, had issued a statement that the virus could spread through airborne particles that can remain suspended in the air and travel beyond 6 feet, but removed it recently saying it was updating the recommendations.

CSIR's Dr Mande told The Indian Express: "Neither CDC nor CSIR will go to the public announcing whether it can be airborne or not. See, this is a sensitive public health issue and we do not want to falsely alert the public or falsely make them secure, and hence we are very cautious in our approach. But our air sampling studies have taken off."

What will the CSIR study look at?

The aim is to collect air samples from intensive care units, hospital corridors, waiting rooms and places where healthcare workers are most at risk and then investigate and understand whether airborne transmission is a possible route contributing to the pandemic.

"We cannot say confirmatively but we do see a situation where the virus is likely to be detected from the air. Now we have to figure out how far this virus can travel and in what amounts so that we can rule out several concerns," said Dr Rakesh Mishra, Director, CSIR-Centre for Cellular and Molecular Biology.

CSIR-CCMB is in talks with hospitals across Hyderabad to involve them in the study. At CSIR-Institute of Microbial Technology, Chandigarh, Director Dr Sanjeev Khosla said they were in talks with the Punjab government to involve ICUs, swab collection centres and quarantine centres in the study.

What is the methodology?

Both institutes have got air samplers handheld machines in which the air passes through a filter so that virus particles get stuck on it. These filters are then analysed to estimate for virus quantity. Several filters will be required as each has to be replaced while collecting new samples.

Dr Khosla said researchers will have to collect air samples a few hours after a Covidpositive patient leaves a particular room. Samples will have to be collected multiple times with different patients at distances of 4 ft, 8 ft and 12 ft.

"We need hundreds of data points and only then can arrive at some conclusion,' Dr Mishra said.

Why was this felt necessary?

"People are still worried about going to public places. There have been contrary studies on the airborne transmission and we wanted to check for ourselves just how the aerosols could travel and where the highest concentration of virus is likely to be present," Dr Khosla said.

A droplet is a liquid secretion coming out of the nose/mouth and is a heavy large particle that travels a short distance, while an aerosol is a lighter particle that travels longer, explained Dr Sundeep Salvi, Director, Pulmocare Research and Education (PURE) Foundation. "More studies are required to understand the possibility of aerosol route of transmission as it could have larger economic and social implications," Dr Salvi said.

NCB weaponises law, TV channels play accomplice — all in the cause of justice

CTOR DEEPIKA PADUKONE has been summoned by the Narcotics Control Bureau in a case against Rhea Chakraborty and five others, based on purported WhatsApp chats that the Enforcement Directorate, investigating Chakraborty for illegal diversion of funds, passed on to the NCB. There are no seizures that could count as corroborative evidence in this case, no arrests so far - and the ED's exertions have also amounted to nothing. In a second case, the NCB has arrested 19 people, including Chakraborty, who was not named in it initially, and claims to have made seizures of commercial quantities of narcotics from one of the arrested accused. In this second case, the NCB says it is targeting a "drug citadel in Mumbai, especially Bollywood". It is not yet clear what either of the two cases - the one in which Padukone has been summoned but in which there are no arrests so far, and the one in which Chakraborty has been arrested even though she was not named initially - have to do with the death of Sushant Singh Rajput, which kickstarted the multiple investigations. The probe into the death of a young actor in Mumbai is taking turns, mostly on prime time TV, that appear to defy reason and the rule of law - it is looking more and more like a fishing expedition that has left Rajput far behind.

How did an investigation of an apparent suicide by a star morph into a hunt for all drug users in Bollywood, after taking a brief detour into a cloddish probe into nepotism in the Hindi film industry? A law, the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, is being weaponised and a premier federal agency tasked with fighting drug trafficking by mafias at all-India level appears to have become a leaky instrument out to smear individual reputations by innuendo, helpfully amplified by gutless TV channels willing to play accomplice. In this sordid mess, neither the fact that the NCB is led by Rakesh Asthana, nor that one of those summoned by the NCB on an apparently flimsy pretext is Deepika Padukone seems incidental. Asthana is the Gujarat-cadre officer who was the No 2 in the open and unseemly tug of war with the No 1 in the CBI vs CBI drama in late 2018 — which cast such unflattering light on the inner dysfunction of the country's premier investigative agency and invited accusations, yet again, of string-pulling by the political powers that be. And Padukone broke Big Bollywood's code of silence on all things political when she visited JNU to express solidarity with students who were attacked by an armed mob while Delhi Police watched earlier this year.

The highest court of the land had stepped into the Sushant Singh Rajput case, when it handed it over to the CBI, which has maintained a sober posture so far, in contrast to the headline-hunting NCB. As the case loses its way, and ahead of an assembly election in which its incredible twists and turns may well be manipulated for political gain, it is the court that must intervene again. It must do so to restore the primacy of law, and the possibility of justice.

PREPARE FOR THE SHOT

Before the first vial of COVID-19 vaccine is ready, mechanism to track its progress must be put in place

N TUESDAY, THE Drugs Controller General of India issued a set of guidelines for pharma companies developing the COVID-19 vaccine. A notable feature of this document is the seemingly low bar on the efficiency of the vaccine candidate in the third phase of the clinical trials: The vaccine should "achieve at least 50 per cent efficiency" to be widely deployed. Regulators usually demand zero incidence of infection - or close to 100 per cent efficiency - in the final phase of the trials. That is one reason it takes years to develop vaccines. But the unprecedented challenges posed by the pandemic have pushed scientists and regulators to expedite processes. Many experts also believe that while a 50 per cent efficiency may not seem an impressive infection prevention rate, it could mitigate the public health emergency substantially. That is why the WHO, the US Food and Drug Administration and the Chinese drug regulator have settled for 50 per cent efficiency in the final phase of the trials. There is no disputing their rationale. But medical authorities must also be prepared to deal with the challenges posed by the deployment of a first-generation vaccine on a mass scale. The low efficiency parameter means that public health authorities will have to closely track the vaccines from the laboratories to the centres where people receive the first jab. The high rate of asymptomatic carriers of the novel coronavirus complicates matters. They will have to monitor people receiving the initial shots, generate awareness materials for them and conduct frequent quality audits of the vaccine. The US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has, reportedly, begun working on a monitoring strategy. Americans administered the first lot of the vaccine will get daily text messages and e-mails. India's child immunisation experience shows that while the country has made appreciable strides in vaccine delivery, it has much to do when it comes to tracking the health of the inoculated. The country could perhaps begin by training a cadre of public health professionals who will counsel people receiving the initial lot of the vaccines and keep regular updates on their health. It's evident that the first lot of the vaccines will not mean the end of the battle against the novel coronavirus. Efforts are underway to develop multiple vaccines. But the country will also need robust data on the working of the initial lot of vaccines. It's imperative that a mechanism is put in place without delay.

You dare not speak That's the message from state and its foot-soldiers.

Chargesheet invents conspiracy and enemy, as per script

PRATAP BHANU MEHTA

DELHI'S POLICE'S INVESTIGATION against students and activists in connection with the Delhi riots is pushing the Indian state into a long dark night of tyranny. The riots are a serious matter. All perpetrators must be credibly identified and subject to the law. But instead, we are witnessing a project designed to crush civil society. If our freedom is to be saved, we need to understand what is at stake in what is happening in Delhi.

Normally, in a society constituted by the rule of law, we should let the investigation run its course before pronouncing judgment. But we are living in a world where the state, in partnership with the media, does not subscribe to this restraint. In case after case, it runs nightly media trials, destroying people's lives and reputations. The state uses investigations, leaked evidence, chargesheets as pretexts for establishing narrative dominance and to intimidate. It is not interested in guilt or innocence. It is interested in demonstrating that it can destroy your life with impunity.

It can declare you a terrorist, it can declare you a drug lord, and it can charge you under UAPA. In the Delhi chargesheets, dozens and dozens of students and distinguished academics are facing exactly this prospect. "The law will take its own course", the state wants to say. But, in the meanwhile, let us show you what we can do to you. How we can make an example of you so other intellectuals dare not speak. The law should take its own course when the state is interested in law. But when the state is using law as an instrument of ideological and physical intimidation, the phrase "let the law take its own course" becomes a cover to subvert our constitutional values.

What does the pattern of filing chargesheets suggest? It is following a script. The whole purpose is to argue that there is a liberal, left, Islamist conspiracy to embarrass and subvert the Indian state. The political class repeats this, the media parrots this and the police, as if on cue, frames the issues this way. The idea is not just to deflect attention from violence and discrimination, it is to declare any critic of the government a potential subversive. It is to invent an enemy of the people, in students and intellectuals. The state has diabolically shifted the emphasis away from inIf you read the alleged confessions of students and unidentified witnesses, it will remind you more of Mao's China than a democratic republic. There is pressure on students to name and denounce their supposed ideological inspiration so that it can be presented to the world that the violence was the product of an ideological cabal. It is to deflect attention from the direct incitement provided by several BJP politicians. Think of the appalling human costs. Dozens of young people, whose politics you may not agree with, but whose only crime was to believe that this country could be better and risk something for that belief, will now be charged as if they were terrorists.

vestigation of the riots to delegitimising the anti-CAA protest.

The Indian police has, in the past, a patchy record in riot investigations. Just think of 1984. But there is something distinctive about the current conjuncture. Usually, the police botch up investigations to protect powerful perpetrators. This was often the pattern during Congress times. Sometimes there is pressure to produce results. In the process, the police can sometimes round up some usual suspects. But what is happening in Delhi is of a different order. It is the use of police to round up or send signals to critics of the government. It is an ideological witch hunt. This is being done by erasing the distinction between ideological positions and conspirators. The general trend now seems to be that mere thought, or a speech advocating a position, can make you part of a conspiracy to incite. This modus operandi was perfected in the Bhima Koregaon cases. There also the focus became not on the event, but targeting alleged ideological foes like Anand

Teltumbde or Sudha Bharadwaj. The second is to erase the distinction between legitimate protest and conspiracy against the state. Any democratic society allows for peaceful protest. You can also, at the margins, disagree about particular tactics. But the act of organising and coordinating a protest does not amount to subversion of the state. In the Delhi case, democratic protest is being deliberately confused with riots and subversion of the state. Organising a protest is being confused with organising a riot. Third, there is a novel theory of instigation at work. If you strongly argue that a particular policy was a subversion of constitutional values, and some incident carried out by someone else follows, you are responsible. But if ministers and politicians instigate a chorus of "goli maaro saalon ko" it is some kind of allegorical defence of the rule of law. The definition of incitement is partisan beyond belief.

If you read the alleged confessions of students and unidentified witnesses, it will remind you more of Mao's China than a democratic republic. There is pressure on students to name and denounce their supposed ideological inspiration so that it can be presented to the world that the violence was the product of an ideological cabal. It is to deflect attention from the direct incitement provided by several BJP politicians. Think of the appalling human costs. Dozens of young people, whose politics you may not agree with, but whose only crime was to believe that this country could be better and risk something for that belief, will now be charged as if they were terrorists. It does not matter whether it is Sharjeel Islam or Umar Khalid or Devangana Kalita. It is a trap to think about the differences between them at this point, when the state has declared that thought is a crime, protest is subversion. The point is to send every young person a message: Choose between democratic protest, thinking or your life. The message is chilling.

I happened to be reading Professor Apoorvanand's incandescently brilliant forthcoming book on Prem Chand, a deep meditation on the meaning of being human, when I heard he has been named in the chargesheet. He is one of India's finest scholars of literature. He has been associated with the Left, but is a deeply Gandhian figure. His politics has been devoted to the pacification of violence. He also has a kind of absolute unconditional concern for others that Gandhi demonstrated. In a climate where even decent liberals run away from Muslim political figures, contortedly trying to find the right kind of Muslim to assuage their conscience, he openly embraced Umar Khalid as someone who was like his son. His concern for students is exemplary.

The idea that he can be interrogated by Delhi Police, named in a riots chargesheet and the shadow of UAPA hangs over him (like many others) should disconcert you. It should disconcert you that Kapil Mishra can tweet "In Delhi Umar Khalid, Tahir Hussain, Khalid Saifi, Safoora Zargar, Apoorvanand type people planned and murdered. They engaged in a 26/11 type terrorist attack. These terrorists, killers, should be hanged. Congratulations to Delhi Police." Whose script is being followed? And congratulations indeed, Delhi police. Those who really incite roam free. But all of us who saw the Constitution as a site of hope are potential terrorists now.

OLD EDUCATION POLICY

Like previous policies, NEP 2020 fails those trapped in vicious cycles of disadvantage

THE PEACOCK'S CALL

The past is what it is, but it is still possible to cross a border. Daphia Bai's story is a reminder

EVENTY-THREE YEARS AGO, during the savage insanity of the Partition of India, a Hindu girl had been forced to become Aisha Bi — like thousands of women, on either side, abducted by men from religions pitted against each other. She found herself with a Muslim man, bartered for an ox — and she ended up spending a lifetime with him. But Aisha kept Daphia Bai alive — through the memory of a land of peacocks, the fragments of a lost language; and the names of the siblings she had been separated from. The 86-year-old never stopped seeking the remnants of the life she had been partitioned from — a quest that has ended, with the help of Indians and Pakistanis, Hindus and Muslims, over a WhatsApp video call with the grandsons of her brother.

If Daphia Bai's life is a fable of our times, what does it say? That women inevitably bear the burden of a clash of identities, as they are turned into trophies of triumph or reminders of vengeance. That the might of nationalism and borders can turn familiar lands into hostile nation-states, so that it takes seven decades to travel the distance of 250 km between Daphia's home in Mailsi in Pakistan's Punjab to Morkhana town in Bikaner. But, more importantly, it reminds us that the intimate memory of home is an older, persistent force that can show up the irrationality of the reverence for arbitrary lines on a map.

In contemporary India, where historical injuries (and even minor scratches) are the new currency of political power, it might seem that many, like Daphia Bai, haven't travelled out of 1947. Politics continues to debate the ancient divisions between Hindus and Muslims as if it were a fresh wound. In this narrative, there are only enemies to single out and hate to persist with. But it needn't be so. In Daphia Bai's joy of finding her family, there are tears but not hate or blame. The past is what it is, but it is still possible to cross a border.

DISHA NAWANI

THE NEW NATIONAL Education Policy, 2020 (NEP) has sharply divided people into camps of supporters and critics. It's been charged with furthering inequalities through provisions such as choice, flexibility, vocational education, multiple exits, excessive glorification of ancient Indian culture, promoting privatisation, undermining the Right to Education Act and most importantly, replacing constitutional values with banal ideas such as seva, ahimsa, swacchta, sacrifice and courtesy. Added to this is the desperate hurry to implement the policy without meaningfully engaging with the concerns raised.

While much of the criticism is valid, it would be naïve to link all educational problems to NEP and claim that it marks a sharp break from the past/present. For years, India has had a layered education system, both public and private, in sync with our stratified social fabric. The Kothari Commission (1964-1966) talked of a common school system. which was hugely celebrated as an idea but never implemented. The National Policy of Education, 1986, introduced non-formal education for the disadvantaged child and was accused of promoting child labour. The creation of Kendriya Vidyalayas, Navodaya Vidyalayas, and Pratibha Bal Vikas Vidyalayas further layered the already fraught education system. Low-cost schools for the poor and international schools for the rich were established. Persistent testing became the norm, achieving learning outcomes the goal, micro-managing disempowered teachers

Most programmes, including this policy, mistake 'fun in learning' for 'fun of learning', thereby reducing the meaning of learning/pedagogic processes to song and dance and banal activities. 'Enjoyment' is prioritised at the cost of meaningful learning. Reducing the 'load of studies' on children is mistaken for a mechanical reduction of syllabus/textbook content. and managerial discourse became the new jargon — these deeply contentious issues predate NEP 2020.

The child labourer, the girl child who takes care of her siblings, the Dalit child living on the village periphery, the Muslim child who is a target of communal barbs and the tribal child often taunted with jokes did get periodic attention in policy documents but nothing radical was either suggested or done to enable them to break the vicious cycle of disadvantage.

Using a few examples from NEP's section on curriculum and pedagogy, I will briefly highlight the flaws in ideas which have been shaping the educational discourse for the poor in developing countries, such as India, for some time now. First, most programmes, including this policy, mistake "fun in learning" for "fun of learning", thereby reducing the meaning of learning/pedagogic processes to song and dance and banal activities. "Enjoyment" is prioritised at the cost of meaningful learning. Second, reducing the "load of studies" on children is mistaken for a mechanical reduction of syllabus/textbook content - despite the fact the report, "Learning without burden" (1993), had defined burden on students as "mental load of incomprehensibility, a situation where a lot is taught but little is learnt or understood". Third, the idea of an "integrated curriculum", challenges textbook developers/teachers who. in the absence of any deep knowledge of "what" needs to be integrated, resort to random addition/deletion of content.

Fourth, meaningful assessment is not only about formative assessment (FA). If most of the teachers' time is spent on collecting evidence, record keeping and saving their skin because they know that students' assessment will be used to assess their performance, then no amount of FA will improve students' learning. Fifth, confusing the notion of critical thinking with de-contextualised logical thinking whereby textbooks have no mention of conflicts/contradictions which children experience in their daily lives. It is possible that a child outside the school may have been a victim of a communal riot but in school they are taught – without situating it in any real context – "Hindu-Muslim Sikh, Isaai, aapas mein hain bhai-bhai".

It is important that NEP's fundamental flaws are acknowledged and addressed with immediacy. The underlying focus of any educational policy should be on bringing every child, particularly the marginalised, to the forefront of our concern by ensuring an enabling and dignified environment, respectful of their worlds, knowledge and experiences. Our aim should not be limited to imparting children with foundational skills of literacy, numeracy and competencies but removing structural disadvantages, thus enabling them to live a meaningful life, simultaneously strengthening our society as a secular, democratic space.

WAR INTENSIFIES

IRAQ CLAIMED ITS ground forces made "substantial thrusts" into western Iran along a 500-km invasion front, pushing 16 km beyond a northern city on a key road to Teheran. As the air, sea and land war between the two Persian Gulf oil giants intensified, threatening global petroleum lifelines, several countries advised their citizens to leave the war-torn areas of the two countries. Iraq and Iran hammered at each other's oil installations at the head of the Gulf while invading Iraqi forces pushed forward on three fronts. Also hit by an Iraqi airstrike was a petrochemical complex being built by a Japanese consortium at Bandar Khomeini, east of Abadan. Iraqi planes also set fire to part of Iran's main oil terminal at Kharg island and Iranian oil ministry officials said oil exports from it were being suspended for the present.

10 Indians Killed

AMIDST GROWING INDIAN worry about the future of its oil supplies, reports have reached New Delhi that 10 Indians have been killed and 25 injured in an Iranian air attack on Basra. The reports received by the Foreign Office from the Indian Embassy in Baghdad suggest that the Indians who have been killed or injured in yesterday's air raid were working as construction hands with an Iraqi firm, Al-Shirwai Contracting Company. The injured have been admitted in the Al-Jamuriah hospital in Basra.

CM ABUSES MEDIA

KARNATAKA CHIEF MINISTER Gundu Rao has described journalists as "curs" and accused them of taking bribes and playing mischief. Referring to reports in the press about hurling of chappals at him in Gadag, he told a public meeting in Mangalore that journalists must "drown themselves either in the Arabian Sea or in the Bay of Bengal instead of living such a contemptible life". The CM said that nobody could survive after attacking him with chappals.

THE INDIAN EXPRESS, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 2020

13 THE IDEAS PAGE Drawing a red line

To both preserve the independence of the media, whose role in a democracy is indispensable, as well as to regulate it, there are several possible indigenous models. Supreme Court must tread wisely

S Y Quraishi

THE SUPREME COURT last week came down heavily on a TV channel that was intent on broadcasting hate-filled programmes. The Court underlined the need for laying down clear guidelines, and their effective implementation, for the media against hate speech. This has brought to the centre-stage, once again, the debate about the need, scope and extent of media regulation.

The government has made several attempts in the past to regulate the media but all such attempts came crashing down in the wake of public outcry. The last such attempt was in April 2018 when the Information and Broadcasting Ministry issued a circular stipulating that the accreditation of a journalist found to have "created and/or propagated" fake news will be suspended or permanently cancelled. The next 15 hours witnessed a huge furore against the circular, culminating in the I&B ministry revoking the circular.

It is undeniable that television has become the most powerful media with unprecedented influence over the minds of the people. TV channels have the power to set the country afire with their hateful discourse, for which some of them have become notorious. Everyone can see freedom of speech being blatantly abused on a daily basis.

Unbridled power is always dangerous. Some checks and regulations are obviously required. What are the possible forms of such regulation? They are government regulation, self-regulation and independent regulation.

Government regulations are, of course, not desirable as these could interfere with the freedom of speech and expression enshrined in the Constitution (Article 19), though it is pertinent to remember that the same Article also provides for "reasonable restrictions" on this freedom

Currently, the government is not without its own regulation policies: Provisions within the Cable Television Network Rules of 1994, the Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Act of 1995, and the Policy Guidelines for Uplinking of Television Channels from India of 2000, give it the power to block the transmission and retransmission of any channel in the country. How effective or fair this is, is a matter for critical examination.

The second alternative - self-regulation though ideal, is easier said than done and continues to be a pipedream, at least in India.

That brings us to the third and most desirable option – independent regulation. Who will set it up? If the government does it, the whole world is ready to pounce on it. A great rea condition which the Association has always honoured. The NBSA consists of four representatives from among media editors and an equal number of independent members of eminence, besides the chairman. I was an independent member for nearly seven years and can vouch for the total non-interference of the parent body, despite several orders going against the members. It imposed heavy cash fines on recalcitrant channels and, more significantly, forced them to telecast a public apology at prime time, often for several days. The channels seemed more scared of this humiliation than the cash fines.

There was only one occasion when, upset with a series of hostile orders, the fuming Association came calling. It took just five minutes of tough speak from us for them to back off.

The NBA is a private association of news broadcasters (25 in number comprising 65 news and current affairs channels, when I left a year ago) formed with the object to "foster high standards, ethics and practices in news broadcasting" and take action against default-

In the first 10 years, the NBSA has considered and dealt with 2,669 complaints and issued 74 judgements/orders. Its role has already been acknowledged by the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting and the Election Commission - by the way, they have been referring complaints to them. However, I must admit we often felt exasperated that despite our best efforts, we could not discipline some of the channels spewing venom day in and day out.

The NBSA did suffer from some serious shortcomings. First, its writ extended only to its members, which was limited due to its volThe government has pointed out to the SC the disastrous role social media is playing in tearing the social fabric and

THE PRIDE we have in our country's secularism is giving way to a sense of shame. Can the consequences of majoritarianism be fully comprehended by the dominant faith? Who could imagine that a tattoo on one's hand, a symbol of devotion. can cause so much displeasure that the hand itself has to be sawed off from the body? Do concerns about a possible threat to life cross the mind of a woman from the majority community, as she packs her husband's office lunch? Yet minorities have paid with their lives for perceived "offences", including carrying non-vegetarian food on a train, transporting their own cattle, wearing a skull-cap, at times while being forced to chant "Jai Shri Ram".

The Azmi siblings' timely film, Mee Raqsam (I Dance), rekindles hope at a time of the dismantling of democratic values. Maryam, the teenage protagonist, is delighted by Bharatanatyam. However, society's expectations, ingrained into the vulnerable psyche of the oppressed, result in self-censorship and a denial of her passion. Bharatanatyam is director Baba Azmi's visual yet subtle metaphor, questioning the irrational mindset over the ownership of our living traditions within the Ganga-Jamuni tehzeeb. It is a sincere reiteration of the idea that ours is a pluralistic nation, where religion is personal, while culture the arts, festivals or clothes - belongs in the public space.

Maryam's sole surviving parent, Salim, a tailor, decides he will nurture her talent, despite the inevitable ruffling of feathers both within and between communities. Together, daughter and father fight society's manufactured rules that threaten to shatter a shared composite heritage. Their confidence is founded on the belief that it would surely take more than an ancient dance form to weaken bonds between peoples or break-up a neighbourhood, much less a nation.

The chosen theme of culturally-demarcated identities, elaborated upon by writer Ali Husain Mir, raises questions that are frighteningly real. In 2016, actor Nawazuddin Siddiqui was compelled to abandon his role in the Ramleela midway through ongoing performances in Bihar on charges of not being a Hindu. Will there come a time when laws and patents will determine who can recite Sanskrit shlokas, Sufi verses or Buddhist chants? How does one construct a dam that bifurcates the waters of the Ganga from Yamuna, an inter-mingled tehzeeb? Can we slice apart the rivers? Mee Raqsam's forthright story-telling retains its focus - the complexities of society's deeply-entrenched hierarchies, based on faith and class. The lines between feature and documentary genres blur: Rural landscapes in Kaifi Azmi's hometown of Mijwan, UP, Muslim bastis, characters primarily comprised of those who live the realities, not emote them, captured in a cinema verite style. There are no mandatory nods to Muslim stereotypes such as an obligatory Sufi song, qawwali, or azaan.

When isolated and excommunicated even by their own, the daughter-father duo displays human frailties. A local cleric blocks Salim's entry into a mosque, as he is now perceived to be a kaafir. The tailor's once busy sewing machine is compelled to sit idle beside him, even during Eid. His books must be sold by weight, though not of the words within them. When Salim visits his wife's grave, where he can recreate memories of better times and regain strength, no sher-oshayari is layered as a background score to accentuate his condition. The concept of qabristans and cemeteries as tangible physical sacred spaces to offer gratitude at, are acknowledged as healing spots, with minimal

Says Shabana Azmi, who presents the film in commemoration of progressive poet Kaifi Azmi's birth centenary: "Kaifi Azmi's values and principles quietly pervade and inspire us. It is time we redefine the toxic masculinity. Why can't men be portrayed as nurturers?"

An illustration is when Maryam sits crouched in an attempt to apply alta to her feet in preparation for her first performance. Her father extends a helping hand. It is a gesture so spontaneous and non-traditional for a male parent. On her withdrawal, he inquires, "Ammi ko mana karti?" (Would you not permit your mother?). This startlingly simple analogy and the actor's indulgent delivery is a refreshing tribute to single parenting. Screen mothers play dual-parenting roles; a father's contribution is generally limited to being the breadwinner. The gentle parental gesture is also a throwback to a time when Kaifi Azmi dressed his daughter for school, while her mother was away at work.

Permeating the film is the subtle presence of three personas. Three personalities blur, three art forms merge: The one who is paid tribute to through this film, Kaifi Azmi, the filmmaker Baba Azmi and his actor, Danish Husain. Each one communicates in his own chosen creative medium, reinforcing contemporary reality. The message remains the same. Kaifi Azmi uses verse as his language to bring dignity to the common citizen. Baba salutes the town's tailor who offers solitary resistance. A third reiteration of respect for the worker comes from Salim, who enacts his portrayal with an intrinsic tameez, a trait typical of UP.

Making the struggles worthwhile, this sense of self-worth of the working class is imbibed by the new generation, conveyed by young Maryam. Now an acknowledged dancer within the small community, she announces publicly, "Darzi hain, mere Abbu". There is a quiet pride in her tone, not shrill defiance. She follows this disclosure with a performance to a medley of musical genres; now meter and melody in praise of Shiva, now to the chants of Ali.

sponsibility has fallen on the Supreme Court, an opportunity that it must not miss.

Incidentally, a fourth model has accidentally evolved - self-cum-independent regulation.

The News Broadcasters Association (NBA), which was set up in 2008, in turn, set up the National Broadcasting Standards Authority (NBSA), with the legendary former Chief Justice of India, Justice J S Verma, as its chairman. He agreed to chair this body on the express condition that this will be an independent body and that he would brook no interference from the parent body – the NBA untary membership. Those who were unhappy with a verdict found it easy to walk out. I always thought that the government should step in to provide this unique model with statutory backing, extending its jurisdiction to nonmembers as well, besides empowering it to take punitive action like suspending and cancelling licences.

Here, the UK offers a good example in the form of OfCom (Office of Communications) the government-approved regulatory and competition authority for the broadcasting, telecommunications and postal industries. Like the NBA, OfCom functions through fees

The technology front

Ladakh face-off may be linked to India aligning with US against Chinese tech players

IT IS a strange phenomenon when two of Asia's largest economies decide that in the midst of one of the worst pandemics the world has ever seen, they want to raise the stakes in a decadeslong border dispute. What is really going on, one might ask. Is there a war brewing between India and China?

The skirmishes on the Ladakh border might suggest that long-standing territorial issues are at the core of the conflict. But there is another possible explanation. A larger conflict is brewing, almost eerily along the lines of the conflict between China and the US. And the dominance of global technology platforms and networks is likely at the centre of it.

Various policy measures announced by the government in recent months - all coinciding exactly with skirmishes on the Ladakh front have specifically targeted Chinese-origin technology players. Suddenly, China seems to have lost its mantle as the master of the Indian technology sector's destiny - as Chinese VC firms/strategic investors have lost favour. India seems to be pushing back hard against China. Why?

One narrative that we're hearing frequently is that India, under a stronger political leadership, has decided to take a tougher stance against China's incursions, both at the border and on the economic front. But the question why this tougher stance - remains unan-

One hypothesis, and this incidentally partly also explains the narrative above, is that India is demonstrating its commitment to and alignment with a broader US strategy against Chinese technology players. Earlier this year, the Donald Trump administration rolled out the Clean Network programme, "a comprehensive approach to guarding its citizens' privacy and its companies' most sensitive information from aggressive intrusions by malign actors, such as the Chinese Communist Party".

This programme is more significant than it seems. It is laying the seeds for a new kind of global alliance led by the US. This new alliance is centred not around military bases or economic ideology but on ensuring that the emerging global infrastructure of 5G technology - networks, carriers, storage, apps and cables -- is built "cleanly", that is, without Chinese companies.

Over 30 countries and many global telcos have signed up for this alliance already. From India, Reliance Jio has been named by the US as the trusted partner for 5G networks, ensconcing India and Jio firmly in the US camp. Not surprisingly, many of the recent global investors in Reliance Jio are prominent private and public players from the US and its allies.

Why is the 5G technology infrastructure so important? In the words of senior officials of the US State Department, "whoever builds a nation's 5G networks gains the key to that country's most sensitive personal, commercial, and governmental data". 5G networks will form the underlying infrastructure for everything from financial networks, telecommunications, transportation and energy networks, to key government services such as defence and intelligence. So, if a 5G network fails or its security is compromised or its primary ownership or control lies with a foreign entity, there would be significant ramifications for all parts of society. The loss of economic prowess that will come by ceding ownership of the new "roads and seaways that connect the world" will be significant in itself

Now, note this: In response to India's move to ban 118 Chinese apps in the interest of national security, privacy and data security, the Chinese spokesperson did not criticise India's move as much as she hit back at the US by citing US programmes such as Dirtbox, PRISM, and Irritant Horn, all of which according to the Chinese were aimed at similar objectives as the ones the Chinese companies are accused

In doing so, the Chinese have wittingly or unwittingly admitted to two things: One, that some of their technology players might be engaged in trying to do what the Chinese are claiming the US has allegedly long done, and two, that China and the US are engaged in this land-grab on the technology and 5G front, and India is placing itself within the US camp.

In a way, it does not matter whether the Ladakh skirmishes are being caused by India firmly placing itself within the US camp, or vice versa. What is important is that both are intricately linked. The Chinese spokesperson's statement suggests that China also views tensions on the Ladakh border as a manifestation of a broader strategy to encircle and exclude China from this Global Technology Alliance.

But the Chinese probably see the bigger picture. They definitely do not want to escalate the tensions to anything resembling a war right now with India or any other country that it has disputes with. China knows that its political capital with the rest of the world is at very low levels. That would explain why they have not hit back that hard.

It must also be noted that while the military conflict and tensions on the Ladakh border are dominating headlines in India, that is not the case in China. At the same time, while the aggressive Indian stance might, secretly at least, generate respect for India amongst Chinese policymakers, it would not be surprising if the Chinese also think creatively about how to show India down sooner than later.

China will most likely not let Ladakh escalate that much more now, and we'll probably see a rapprochement in the coming days and weeks. But rest assured, the Chinese will try to open up another front to hurt India, and the board may include the technology front. Indian policymakers need to be ready.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Friends and neighbours' (IE, September 24). In the past, India was confident about its capacity to be the net security provider for its neighbours. That appears to have changed. The US-Maldives pact signals the dramatic change not only in India's relations with the US but also in how India is looking to enhance its own security and other interests. India has been the dominant power in South Asia. To keep out China, India's allowing the US to play a larger role in the region, which is a welcome development.

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'The G in NGO' (IE, September 24). There is no doubt that there are many NGOs that divert funds for vested interests. But when our government is not able to provide much-needed relief to the poor and marginalised sections of the society, and moreover, in the absence of a social security structure, NGOs play a big role in the field of education, healthcare, sanitation etc. With the new FCRA Bill, this whole ecosystem would be challenged and suspicion will fall on all due to the wrong practices of a few. Painting the entire civil society with the same brush is not justified.

RESPONDS TO G4 CALL FOR LARGER SECURITY COUNCIL UNSC expansion: China points to divide, calls for 'package' remedy

Beijing has been blocking Delhi quest for a permanent seat at global high table

KJMVARMA BEIJING, SEPTEMBER 24

CHINA, WHICH has been stonewalling India's entry into the UN Security Council, on Thursday said there were "enormous divisions" on reforms to expand the premier body of the United Nations and expressed its willingness to work for a "package solution" that can accommodate interests and concerns of all parties. The G4 grouping comprising India, Japan, Germany and Brazil on Wednesday expressed their concern over lack of any "meaningful" forward movement on long-pending reform of the UN Security Council (UNSC) and demanded "urgency" on the issue.

The foreign ministers of the G4 countries, including External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar. held a virtual meeting coinciding with the 75th session of the UN General Assembly during which they held extensive discussion on the need for urgent reform of the UNSC.

Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Wang Wenbin

"Unanimous call for text based negotiations in a fixed time frame. Reformed Multilateralism guides India's approach to the United Nations," Jaishankar tweeted on Wednesday after the meeting.

Responding to the G4 ministers call for text-based negotiations with a fixed time to carry out reforms for the UN Security Council, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Wang Wenbin told a media briefing here that: "We believe the reform of the Security Council is an important issue which concerns the long-term development and all the immediate interests of its members.

"There have been enormous divisions on this issue and there lacks a widespread consensus on the arrangement for reform. China is willing to work with other UN members to seek a package solution that can accommodate all parties' interests and concerns through dialogue and negotiation," he said.

Wang said that the Security Council was the "core of the international collective security mechanism"

"It calls for reforms to better perform its duty enshrined in the UN charter. We believe the reforms should increase the representation and voice of developing countries and allow more small and medium size countries to enter the Security Council and participate in the decision making," he said.

A joint G4 press statement on Wednesday said the ministers highlighted the urgency of reforming the UN and updating its main decision-making bodies, in order to better reflect contemporary realities.

In the 75th year of the United Nations, India will begin its twoyear term as elected non-permanent member of the powerful Security Council from January 1 next vear.

India has been spearheading decades-long efforts to reform the Security Council, saying a structure set up in 1945 does not reflect contemporary realities of the 21st century and is illequipped to handle current challenges. There is widespread support, including by four of the five permanent members of the Security Council - the US, the UK,

France and Russia - for a permanent seat for India at the Council. China, part of the permanent five (P5) of the UNSC with veto power, has been stonewalling India's efforts to become a member of the UN's powerful body for years, pointing to lack of consensus even though the other four members have supported

Lukashenko inauguration will deepen crisis, says EU

ASSOCIATED PRESS BRUSSELS, SEPTEMBER 24

THE EUROPEAN Union said Thursday that the swearing in of Belarus President Alexander Lukashenko to a sixth term during a secretive ceremony lacks democratic legitimacy, defies the will of the Belarusian people and will only deepen the country's political crisis.

EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell reiterated that the 27-nation bloc did not recognise the result of the August 9 election that kept Lukashenko in power after 26 years and said that "on this basis, the so-called 'inauguration'...and the new mandate claimed by (him) lack any democratic legitimacy".

Thousands of Belarus citizens have taken part in more than six weeks of rallies against the authoritarian leader's reelection, which the opposition says was rigged.

"This 'inauguration' directly contradicts the will of large parts of the Belarusian population, as expressed in numerous, unprecedented and peaceful protests since the elections, and serves to only further deepen the political crisis in Belarus," Borrell said in a statement.

Lukashenko was sworn in Wednesday at an inaugural ceremony that was not announced in advance. Police and other security forces blocked off parts of the city and public transportation was suspended.

Borrell underlined the EU's belief that "Belarusian citizens deserve the right to be represented

CHRIS BUCKLEY & AUSTIN RAMZY NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 24

AS CHINA faced rising international censure last year over its mass internment of Muslim minorities, officials asserted that the indoctrination camps in the western region of Xinjiang had shrunk as former camp inmates rejoined society as reformed citizens.

Researchers at the Australian Strategic Policy Institute on Thursday challenged those claims with an investigation that found that the Xinjiang authorities had been expanding a variety of detention sites since last year.

Rather than being released, many detainees were likely being sent to prisons and perhaps other facilities, the investigation found, citing satellite images of new and expanded incarceration sites.

tute also called ASPL said the findings undercut Chinese officials' claims that inmates from the camps - which the government calls vocational training centers - had "graduated." "Evidence suggests that many extrajudicial detainees in Xinjiang's vast 're-education' network are now being formally charged and locked up in higher security facilities, including newly built or expanded prisons," Mr. Ruser wrote in the report.

The Chinese government has created formidable barriers to investigating conditions in Xinjiang. Officials tail and harass foreign journalists, making it impossible to safely conduct interviews. China has repeatedly refused to disclose the number of detention sites and detainees in Xinjiang and elsewhere. The ASPI researchers found and examined some 380 suspected detention sites in Xinjiang. At least 61 of them had expanded in area between July 2019 and July of this year, and of those, 14 were still growing, according to the latest-available satellite images.

The researchers divided the sites into four security levels, and they said that about half of the expanding sites were higher-security facilities.

The researchers found signs that some re-education camps were being rolled back, partially confirming government claims of a shift. At least 70 sites had seen the removal of security infrastructure such as internal fencing or perimeter walls, and eight camps appeared to be undergoing decommissioning, they wrote. The facilities apparently being scaled back were largely lower-security camps. they said. NYT camps, they said

Evans organized a campaign to take on the drug companies responsible for manufacturing the drug, an effort that eventually won compensation for the families after more than a decade.

"All I tried to do – all I hoped to do - was to shed a little light," Evans said in an interview with the Independent in 2014. "And if that light grew weeds, we'd have to try and pull them up."

A few years later, Evans moved to the United States with Brown, the journalist and editor to whom he was married for nearly 40 years. He continued his career as an author, publisher and university lecturer. He penned several books, including The American Century (1998) and its sequel They Made America (2004), as well as an ode to good writing called Do I Make Myself Clear? (2017).

He became the subject of books and documentaries, including Attacking The Devil: Harold Evans and the Last Nazi War Crime (2014), about the thalidomide campaign.Evans founded Conde Nast Traveler magazine and served as president and publisher of Random House from 1990 to 1997.

Under his leadership, Random House scored various publishing successes, including the best-selling Primary Colors, a satire about Bill Clinton by Anonymous, later revealed to be journalist Joe Klein, and Colin Powell's My American Journey.

Born to a family from what he called "the respectable working class," Evans received one of the highest honors of the British mor. "Editor-at-large means monarchy when he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth in 2004 for his services to British iournalism. Two years earlier, a poll by Britain's Press Gazette and the British Journalism

In his role as editor-at-large, Evans moderated conversations with global newsmakers in business and politics who included Tony Blair, Mark Cuban, Al Gore, John Kerry, Henry Kissinger, Jim Mattis and Satya Nadella.

In 1984, Evans and Brown moved to the United States, where he taught at Duke University in North Carolina and later held various positions with US News & World Report, the Atlantic Monthly and New York Daily News among others.

AANCHALMAGAZINE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

THE STRAIN of slowing revenues and pending compensation payments to states under the Goods and Services Tax(GST) is reflecting a worsening trend in the reliance on compensation payments as a share of the states' overall protected GST revenues. The dependence of states on compensation payments as a share of the protected revenues, or the amount they are entitled to get as per the GST(Compensation to States)Act, has shot up to nearly 58 per cent in April-July from 24.2 per cent seen in the previous financial year, government data showed, with states such as Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand and Chhattisgarh among worst affected.

In FY20, 24.2 per cent of protected GST revenues of states on an average was funded by compensation, while 75.8 per cent was Finance Ministry, presented in Parliament showed. States such as Andhra Pradesh and Telangana were less dependent on GST compensation in the previous financial year, constituting only 13 per cent and 11.3 per cent of its GST revenues, respectively, but for Puducherry and Punjab, compensation formed about 57.3 per cent and 47.8 percent of their protected GST revenues, respectively. Data on compensation deficit, when extrapolated for this fiscal, shows the share of dependence on compensation payments has now worsened, rising to over 50 per cent for 26 of the 31 states/UTs. States/UTs such as Puducherry and Punjab top the list with their reliance on compensation rising to 80.4 per cent and 71.9 per cent, respectively, but it has turned worse for even better-earning states like Andhra Pradesh and Telangana —

A lesser dependence on GST compensation implies that states' own GST revenues showed higher buoyancy, reducing the revenue gap to be compensated from the compensation cess collections. Now, a greater reliance on compensation is reflective of the sharp slowdown in states' own GST revenue collections. GST compensation to states has been pending for this financial year, amounting to Rs 1.5 lakh crore till July. Of this pending payment of Rs 1.5 lakh crore, the states with the biggest chunk of pending payments are: Maharashtra (Rs 22,485 crore), Karnataka (Rs 13,763 crore), Uttar Pradesh (Rs 11,742 crore), Gujarat (Rs 11,563 crore) and Tamil Nadu (Rs 11.269 crore)

Under the GST (Compensation to States) Act, states are assured compensation for the gap between revenues at a compounded growth rate of 14 per cent over the base year revenue of 2015-16 and the actual revenues from GST for five years ending June 2022 through levy of cess on demerit and sin goods. The Centre's estimates have pegged the GST compensation requirement to be around Rs 3 lakh crore this year, while the cess collection is expected to be around Rs 65.000 crore - an estimated compensation shortfall of Rs 2.35 lakh crore (assuming a 10 per cent revenue growth over last year).

MOTORCYCLE MAKER Harley-Davidson, which was at the centre of US President Donald Trump's repeated criticism of India's "high' tariffs and had come to symbolise some of the sticking points in trade relations between the two nations is officially shuttering operations here. The decision, following the firm's announcement in July that it would exit international markets with poor volumes and profitability, also comes at a time when India and the US are said to be close to inking a limited trade deal. There is a possibility this exit will be used by the US to push for a further revision in India's tariffs on goods such as top-end motorcycles, given that the tariff barrier did not sustain Harley-Davidson's Make in India efforts, said a trade ten cited the Narendra Modi-led government's tariffs on Harley-Davidson as an example of why India is a "tariff king". India did lower duties on the Milwaukee, Wisconsin-based motorcycle maker to 50 per cent in 2018 from around 100 per cent earlier, but the US President found the new tariff rate "still unacceptable".

"Harley-Davidson plans to close its manufacturing facility in Bawal and significantly reduce the size of its sales office in Gurgaon. The company is communicating with its customers in India and will keep them updated on future support," stated the firm in a release. Harley-Davidson is the second US auto major to close Indian operations in recent years due to poor sales. Some experts feel the firm's decision could be in anticipation of the mini trade deal between India and the US working out soon.

Duties on large-engine motorcycles had made Harleys "too expensive" for Indian consumers, a piece by foreign policy practitioner Alvssa Avres in think tank Counci on Foreign Relations stated. Yet, despite the company setting up an assembly plant here to make the bikes more affordable, it had sold fewer than 3,700 units in India in 2017 – that too, mostly cheaper models assembled in the country, she stated.

The firm reportedly sold a little over 2,600 motorcycles in the Asian football body cuts short young Anwar's dream

MIHIR VASAVDA NEW DELHI. SEPTEMBER 24

THE ASIAN Football Confederation (AFC) has recommended that junior India international Anwar Ali 'should be restricted from competitive sports activity' because of a congenital heart condition.

A senior All India Football Federation (AIFF) official said the chairman of AFC's medical commission, Dato Gurucharan Singh, has warned that Ali's illness could aggravate if he continued playing competitive football. The AIFF has called for a meeting of its Emergency Committee to take a final call on the issue. Mohammedan Sporting, Ali's club, has said they will not register the defender's name for the I-League qualifiers, which begin next month.

The AFC has warned that the condition Anwar is suffering can cause cardiac arrest and hence, they have recommended these players should be restricted from competitive sports activity. Anwar can, however, play the sport as a leisure activity as the level of exertion will be less," the AIFF official said. "This is the same observation the AIFF's medical commission and leading doctors in India made as well. We have now called a meeting of the Emergency Committee to take a decision.

Ali, the official said, has requested to be allowed to make a personal representation in front of the AIFF to plead his case. The federation is likely to accept his wish but it isn't confirmed if Ali will be allowed to be present during the Emergency Committee meeting or in front of its medical commission.

The 20-year-old, who was a part of the Indian team that played in the 2017 under-17 World Cup, made an emotional appeal to the AIFF in a letter earlier this month. "Your disqualification of me will be a death sentence for me and my family. I'll be forced to play in low-level tournaments ... " Ali wrote. "If I wish to take an informed risk and am ready to monitor my condition with the help of medical experts, then it is ultimately my choice whether I wish to take the risk of playing football professionally.'

Last October, Ali was diagnosed with hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, a condition where the heart muscles become abnormally thick and affect the pumping of blood. Consequently, he was advised by medical experts to stop playing football and the defender terminated his contract with Indian Super League side Mumbai City with mutual agreement.

He recently signed for Mohammedan Sporting and was a part of their squad for the I-League qualifiers, which begin in Kolkata and Kalyani on October 8. However, the club's technical director Dipendu Biswas said Ali's name will not be registered for the tournament following the AFC's recommendation.

Asian Football Confederation has said playing competitive football would be detrimental for Anwar Ali's health. File Biswas said they are now exploring the possibility of fielding Ali in the Calcutta Football League and other local tournaments. Simultaneously, Biswas said efforts are on to help Ali get a government job to ensure financial stability for him as well as help him get through coaching courses.

'As things stand, he will not be eligible to play in the tournaments conducted by the AFC and AIFF," Biswas said. "Anwar is training with the squad right now but his name will not be registered for the I-League qualifiers. We will check if he can play the Calcutta Football League since his contract with us is year-long. Ultimately, a coaching course or a government job will ensure he does not have any financial struggles so we will try to help him with that.'

The AIFF, too, is looking at ways to help Ali, who belongs to a modest family from a village near Jalandhar, earn a livelihood. The federation official said they are looking at ways to help the junior international coaching certificates, which would enable him to remain associated with the sport. "His quality as defender is unquestionable. We will assist him in getting a coaching or a management role in the sport," the official said

Rahul's unbeaten 132 off 69 balls sets up a comprehensive win for Kings XI

VISHAL MENON SEPTEMBER 24

Synopsis

KL Rahul farms, Kings XI Punjab bowlers harvest

AT THE toss, Kings XI Punjab captain KL Rahul said that his team was a little rusty coming into this game. One would tend to disagree, judging by the manner in which he bossed over Royal Challengers Bangalore's bowlers. It was a dream performance from Rahul, showcasing elegance, poise, premeditation with a bit of mayhem thrown in towards the end. His unbeaten 69-ball 132 - the highest score by an Indian in the IPL - put up 207 as the target in front of Virat Kohli's team, and they capitulated abysmally to lose by 97 runs.

To further make it a day to forget for Kohli, Rahul enjoyed two reprieves ---- both coming at the hands of his opposite number. But he rode his luck and the end of the day, his team was sitting pretty at the top of the points table at this early stage of the tournament.

It was the most one-sided contest in this edition so far. Chasing under lights with dew coming in later in the evening is supposed to make batting easier in the second innings, and captains winning the toss have chosen to field in every match. But there have already been five straight losses for the chasing teams.

Rahul shows his pedigree

It seems like there are two contrasting versions of KL Rahul on view with the bat. There's the diffident, anxious man in whites who is unsure of his abilities and perpetually tormented by the moving red ball. But in the shorter formats, and more specifically in the IPL, he is a different beast altogether: insouciant, confident, and never missing out on an opportunity to dominate bowlers into submission. Rahul's batting template is built on a sound, orthodox technique blending power with grace, and an overall aesthetic sense that gives his stroke-play a rare, ethereal quality.

All these attributes were on display in Dubai on Thursday as the 28-year-old put on a superlative exhibition of stroke-play that put the hapless RCB bowlers to the sword. Rahul hardly put a foot wrong. He had answers to almost everything thrown at him.

The RCB bowlers tried their best to catch him off guard. Dale Steyn and Umesh Yadav unleashed the slower off-cutters, Navdeep Saini tried to stifle him with pace, and Yuzvendra Chahal, Kohli's bowling lynchpin, tried to entice with his googly. Nothing worked for RCB. It was one of those nights where everything that Rahul hit – even the ones mistimed -- cleared the fence with ridiculous ease.

KL Rahul's knock included seven 6s and 14 4s. BCCI/IPL

Rahul brought up his halfcentury off 36 deliveries, before teeing off towards the end of the innings, galloping from 90 off 60 to finish unbeaten on 132 off 69 at the end of 20 overs

Another hallmark of Rahul's batting was the manner in which he paced his innings. He had made up his mind to bat through the innings. So, in between threading boundaries and smashing sixes, Rahul ran hard between the wickets and kept churning the scoreboard through singles and twos without displaying a semblance of fatigue.

In the previous two games, we saw how Rohit Sharma and Steve Smith had failed to bat through and convert a promising start into a three-figure score in the energy sapping heat of the UAE. Rahul, though, looked fresh even after such a physically demanding knock, and was back on the field keeping wickets in the second half of the game.

Rahul brought up his half-century off 36 deliveries, before teeing off towards the end of the innings, galloping from 90 off 60 to finish unbeaten on 132 off 69 at the end of 20 overs. In the process, Kings XI Punjab cantered past the 200-run mark, exposing RCB's bowling woes at the death as they conceded 49 runs in the final two overs.

KXIP bowlers show how it's done

Irrespective of the playing conditions and the nature of the pitch, chasing a score of 207 in an IPL game is always a difficult proposition. The task gets even more difficult if the batting team is up against a pace attack that consists of Sheldon Cottrell and Mohammad Shami. They have bowled well in tandem so far because of their attacking mindsets and the ability to get just that extra zip from these wickets. In a sense, they are quite similar in their approach to the Mumbai Indians opening pacers - Trent Boult and James Pattinson.

Consequently, scoreboard pressure backed up by the pace and precision of Cottrell and Shami was just too much to handle for the RCB. They accounted for Devdutt Padikkal, Josh Phillipe and captain Kohli in the first three overs that derailed their chase badly. From 5/3 in the third over, they meandered to 53/4 and when AB de Villiers departed for 28 in the ninth over, RCB had managed just 57 runs, with the result now a foregone conclusion. The spin duo of M Ashwin and Ravi Bishnoi devoured what was left.

BRIEF SCORES: Kings XI Punjab 206/3 in 20 overs (KL Rahul 132*, M Agarwal 26; S Dube 2/33) beat Royal Challengers Bangalore 109 all out in 17 overs (W Sundar 30, AB de Villiers 28; M Ashwin 3/21, R Bishnoi 3/32, S Cottrell 2/17) by 97 runs

Ankita bows out of Round 2 of qualifiers

Paris: Ankita Raina could not go past the second round at the French Open qualifiers, suffering a straight set defeat against Japan's Kurumi Nara, in Paris on Thursday. Ankita, India's top singles player, lost the second round contest 3-6 2-6 in one hour and 21 minutes. Ankita's defeat means that no Indian will compete in the singles main draw of the clay court Grand Slam. Rohan Bopanna and Divij Sharan will compete in the men's doubles with their respective partners.

Tough start for Indians at Irish Open

Ballymena: Indian golfer Shubhankar Sharma dropped four bogeys in seven holes on the back nine and ended with a modest 2-over 72 in the Irish Open in Ballymena on Thursday. With more than half the field yet to finish, Sharma was lying Tied-51 st. The other Indian in the field, Gaganjeet Bhullar, playing his first event in more than six months, finished 5-over and that included double bogeys on first and the 18th.

French Open aiming to get 5,000 fans

Paris: French Open tournament director Guy Forget is still waiting to know whether Roland Garros will be able to welcome 5,000 spectators a day despite new restrictions on gatherings in Paris amid the COVID-19 crisis. "We followed the minister's speech but we have not received any notification from the government or the prefect, we stick to 5,000 spectators (per day). We're waiting to know more in the coming hours," Forget said.

Ibrahimovic tests positive for Covid-19

Milan: Zlatan Ibrahimovic has the coronavirus, AC Milan confirmed on Thursday. Milan players underwent tests on Wednesday after defender Leo Duarte was found to be infected following tests the previous day. "Zlatan Ibrahimovic has tested positive for COVID-19 following a second round of swab tests ahead of Thursday's game against Bodo/Glimt," Milan said in a statement."The club has informed the relevant authorities and the player has been promptly placed in quarantine at home. All other team members and staff have tested negative.'

── DEAN JONES 1961-2020 ──

The man who made Australia great again

The significance of Jones's Madras double hundred goes beyond its quality and quantity, it went a long way in shaping the modern history of Australian cricket

SANDIP G NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

A picture speaks a thousand words. Sometimes it does more. One of them is a grainy, pixellated one of Dean Jones leaning onto his bat like a walking stick and vomiting on the ground, attended by a couple of Indian cricketers and his batting partner during his sweat-drenching double hundred in the exhausting Madras heat of 1986. This could arguably be the most historic and symbolic of photographs in the history of modern Australian cricket history, the picture that set in stone a world-beating Aussie dynasty for nearly two-and-a-half decades.

It made not just Jones, but his captain Allan Border. A rookie called Steve Waugh watched all this in awe. It's not an exaggeration to suggest that Jones's 210 was to Border what VVS Laxman's 281 was to Sourav Ganguly. A knock that was much more than a knock. Take that picture out, the rest might not even exist as it is now. It's the centre-spread that holds the album of Australia's conquests. Those were trying times for Australia.

Border's batch to the subcontinent in 1986 had won just three Tests over the preceding two years. It had been two decades since Australia tasted victory in the subcontinent. And Border was under immense criticism for blooding in youngsters that fitted the toughnosed, rugged-to-the-bones mould. There was no place for silk or softness.

Thus, over two days of skinning heat, stifling bowling - and as Jones would humorously interject that unbearable stench of the nearby Willingdon Canal – Jones became the poster boy of Border's concept of an Australian cricketer, or John Arlott's definition of Australianism, that "single-minded determination to win, to win within the laws, but if necessary, to the last limit within them".

Tough and tenacious, resolute and resilient, as that Chepauk masterpiece illustrated. Australianism had existed before Jones - Arlott eponymous essay was published as early as 1952 - but Jones breathed freshness into the expression. It's how the Australian cricketers designed themselves to be for generations. But to judge a cricketer – and a pedigreed one like Jones - on the dint of a single knock, how much ever grand that could be is a travesty of justice. The Chepauk effort was his defining effort, his ticket to immortality, but Jones was more that. He authored another magnificent double hundred against one of the most feared bowling consortiums of his era. Malcolm Marshall, Patrick Patterson, Curtly Ambrose and Courtney Walsh could transform the benignity of an Adelaide Oval featherbed into a hellish minefield.

It was as fine an exhibition of the horizontal batted strokes as any in that era. Anything remotely short, he would massacre with those fast hands and faster swish behind point. When it bounced more than he expected, he would literally leap off the ground to keep the cut, so that he was on top of the bounce. It's his alter-ego to the Chepauk knock. The latter would impose the stereotype of a gritty batsmen, prospering on sweat than style. But when bedevilled by inspiration, he was as stylish as he was aggressive.

The pull was his other favourite. There's one off Willie Watson in Sydney during a Benson and Hedges Match. Watson is not the quickest of bowlers, but it his lack of pace that made the stroke all the more staggering. It's back of length and outside the off-stump, but Jones hangs back, drags the ball and smears it over midwicket for a one-bounced four back in the day when boundary ropes were quite far back. The very next ball, he charged down the track and whipped Watson through the exact space. Same spots, different strokes. A stamp of a genius.

There were others too - like the butchering of England in Sydney or the demolition of Pakistan in Hobart. Those were all reels of pulls and hooks.

In the county circuit, there is an even more famous pull of his. During a county game, he tried to hook a bouncer from Sussex's Tony Pigott, but missed it and fractured his cheek bone. But much to his teammates surprise, he resumed batting later in the innings and pulled the first ball he faced, invariably a fast bouncer, for a six. He credited this to his grip – both hands clutched at the bottom of the handle.

The enterprise and derring-do made him a one-day pioneer. He was one of the few Australian batsmen of his era who would instinctively jump down the ground and hit over cover. Later in his commentary days, he would laughingly begrudge how near the boundary ropes are to batsmen these days. He ran equally hard between the wickets, much to the chagrin of his favourite batting partner David Boon.

In that sense, he would have fitted automatically into any of the new-age batting firms, perhaps his wide-ranging skills would have won more admiration. Nonetheless, his OD average (44.61) is still gold standard in this day and age. He was a man well ahead of times, but a man who also made a great sense of his time as a cricketer.

He retired prematurely from cricket, and he was bitter about it back then. Like in his life, he left too soon from international cricket. But without his picture that spoke more than a thousand words, without that knock in the enervating Madras heat, the history of Australian cricket would have been different.

If Deano was here he would have...

GAURAV BHATT NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 24

THOUSANDS OF miles away from the IPL game, there was another contest ongoing on Thursday: between uber professionals trying to get on with their job, and friends visibly shaken by a dear loss. Hours after Dean Jones' passing, his Dugout co-commentators Scott Styris, Brett Lee and others remembered the professor and the player.

There was no banter or dance moves. It didn't feel right without the man who brought the party together.

"You'll see the calling chair, for the captain of the Dugout and that's the great Dean Jones," Styris mourned his cheeky nemesis through tears and a scrunched up face. "That's the red book that he used to get all these stats in... some quick work notes, the jacket he wore last night and we will remain to keep that spot open for him tonight."

Red book, barmy theories

The red book, used as a jotting pad by Jones, became a running gag over the years, inspiring contests, In addition to notes and stats, the red book carried some bizarre theories according to his colleagues. They recounted a few, including one where lones proposed a third umpire stationed next to the non-striker and facing the bowler, exclusively to call no balls.

There was another from Wednesday. "Just yesterday, this, quite frankly barmy theory that if a batsman gets tired he should be allowed to just walk off to let someone else have a go," grinned Swann. "Even on the bus, we were laughing about it." "We actually thought we would try and make a suggestion of a 'Wall of Stupidity', Styris said. "He was known as the professor and it's because he had so many theories. He wanted to be an innovator."

Later on, Styris glanced at the red book and thought out loud. "The first year, I tried everything to pinch that red book off him, to see what was written in there. It wouldn't feel right to take it from him now. It'll be a bit... too easy," a sobbing Styris pushed the last two words out.

During the first week of IPL, nothing seemed to annoy Jones more than ordinary running between the wickets. Batsmen running off the pitch and slipping while turning. Batsmen changing lines and taking longer to reach the other end. Jones left his chair to demonstrate how to run as the co-commentators called: "Don't pull a hammy.'

That night, with Jones on a break, the himself, Styris batted for his frenemy and called it unfair. "He was one of the best runners and is still very fit.'

Bangar put through wringer

On his first night in the dugout, Sanjay Bangar was put through the wringer. With Ambati Rayudu going hammers and tongs against Mumbai Indians, Jones asked Bangar: "After a knock like this, do you think he can be in contention for the T20 World Cup next year?"

Bangar, who was India assistant coach when Rayudu failed to make the cut for last year's 50 over World Cup, took his time.

"Well, the team has moved on. There are young players coming in with Shreyas Iyer, Manish Pandey..." he began before Jones cut him off: "Based on the performance tonight, does he make the team?'

"Just say 'everybody has a chance'," Swann came to the rescue.

Bangar repeated, laughing and Jones let him off the hook.
