VACCINATION AGAINST COVID-19 TO BEGIN

First shot at recovery today

PM to launch rollout, 3,006 vaccination sites for 3 crore priority groups

KAUNAIN SHERIFF M
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

ON SATURDAY, India begins the world's largest immunisation exercise against Covid-19, which has so far infected more than a crore people and killed more than 1.5 lakh in the country. On Day 1, at 3,006 session sites, around 100 beneficiaries each from the 3 crore priority group comprising healthcare and front-line workers will be given the first shots of Covid-19 vaccines, after the rollout is launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

Detailed backend preparations up to the block level have gone into the immunisation drive, taking into account both the experience from India's Universal Immunisation Programme and the booth strategy during elections.

A technical support team based in Delhi will operate 24x7 to address any issues related to the flagship Co-WIN platform, which will hold real-time information on the vaccination drive, including stocks, storage temperature, and individualised tracking of beneficiaries. Experts will be at hand on the platform to address everything from technical glitches reported from vaccination sites to any adverse events following immunisation. There is a designated Adverse Event Following Immunisation Management Centre, to which every session site in the country has been linked.

Aise hi Covid khatam hoga: Over 8,000 to get vaccine in capital today

ASTHA SAXENA
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

FROM NURSING orderlies to top doctors, a total 8,100 healthcare workers who have for months fought the Covid-19 pandemic from the front in Delhi, will receive doses of the vaccine on Saturday, the first day of India's mass inoculation drive. "Public ko dikhana hai, aise hi Covid khatam hoga (We have to show the public, this is how Covid-19 will end)," said 28-year-old Pavitra Chaturvedi, a nursing orderly at the capital's Rajiv Gandhi Super Speciality Hospital. Chaturvedi, who has been posted in the Covid ward of the Delhi government-run hospital since the beginning of the pandemic, was elated and emotional to be among those who will receive the first shots of the vaccine. "Last year was a critical time for all of us. Bhagwan se maangte hain ki aisa time fir kabhi na aaye. (We pray to God, may we never have to see such a time again),"

Form own group to discuss laws: Govt to farmer unions

No point, only a few speak for us, say unions; object to FIRs, raids, notices

FAILING TO make any headway in talks with farmer unions demanding the repeal of the new agriculture laws, the Centre suggested Friday that the unions constitute their own informal group which could list expectations and make a proposal that could be discussed.

The unions, spearheading the protests at the gates of Delhi since November 26, said there was no point in forming an informal group when even now, only a few among them speak on behalf of the farmers during the talks.

Leaders of the unions said they told the ministers —

On farmers, SC flagged no consultation, let it hear us on J&K: Omar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

FORMER CHIEF Minister of the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir and vice-president of J&K National Conference Omar Abdullah Friday said the Supreme Court needs to immediately step in to hear and decide the petitions challenging the abrogation of Article 370 and 35A on the lines of its recent intervention on the farm laws.

"It is not like the Supreme Court is not working at all. We have seen the Supreme Court take cognizance of what is happening with the farmer protests and step into those. If the farmer protests can invite the attention of the Supreme Court and their observations can include words that 'this did not seem to include any consultation'... then there were no consultations with J&K before what happened on 5th of August, 2019. The President's office did not issue an official statement in this regard. VHP sources said the President made the donation in his personal capacity.

The delegation that visited Kovind included former Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister and head of the committee for the construction of the Ram Temple, Nripendra Mishra, member of the Trust Swami Govinddev Giri, VHP International Working President Alok Kumar, and RSS leader Kulbhushan Ahuja.

VHP sources said the first day of the donation drive had seen an enthusiastic response not only from several dignitaries but also from common people. A delegation is supposed to meet Prime Minister Narendra Modi

SUPPLEMENTARY CHARGESHEET IN TRP SCAM CASE

Mumbai Police cite WhatsApp chats between Arnab and ex-BARC chief

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
MUMBAI, NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

A SUPPLEMENTARY chargesheet filed by the Mumbai Police on January 11 in the TRP scam case contains over 200 pages of purported WhatsApp conversations between Republic TV editor Arnab Goswami and then CEO of BARC (Broadcast Audience Research Council) Partho Dasgupta, who is now in custody, showing their alleged proximity, with Goswami more than once offering to mediate on Dasgupta's behalf with the political leadership, including the Prime Minister's Office (PMO), and claiming at one point, "All ministers are with us".

In one of the chats, which go back to July 2017, 'Dasgupta' sends 'Goswami' exclusive TRP (Television Ratings Point) data. The police have alleged that Goswami paid Dasgupta money so as to show the highest TRPs in the news segment for the two Republic channels. While they claim evidence to prove this, it is not part of the chats attached to the supplementary chargesheet. The BARC calculates TRPs, on the basis of which advertisement rates for TV channels are decided.

THE NATIONAL Investigation Agency (NIA) has summoned Baldev Singh Sirsa, the president of Lok Bhalai Insaaf Welfare Society (LBIWS) which is one of the unions participating in talks with the Government over the new farm laws, in connection with a case registered against a leader of the outlawed outfit, Sikhs for Justice (SFJ).

Sirsa has been asked to appear at the NIA headquarters in New Delhi on January 17 for

Comedian stays in jail, co-accused include brother, friend, organiser

IRAM SIDDIQUE & BENITA FERNANDO
BHOPAL, MUMBAI, JANUARY 15

THE INDORE police says it has no evidence regarding the allegations against Munawar Faruqui, and on Friday failed to produce a case diary before the Indore Bench of the Madhya Pradesh High Court at his bail hearing. Still, the case against the comedian, held for alleged objectionable remarks against Hindu deities, now has six youngsters behind bars for more than a fortnight. Of the six, one is the brother of the show's organiser who was in the audience, another a friend of Faruqui's who had nothing to do with the event, and a third whose only family is a minor brother running around for him now.

An Indore Sessions Court has rejected all the bail petitions it has heard so far. After the adjournment Friday due to "non-availability" of police case diary, the High Court will take up Faruqui's bail plea earliest by next week.

Faruqui, 28, was arrested along with Nalin Yadav, Prakhar Vyas, Priyam Vyas and Edwin Anthony on January 1 for the alleged objectionable remarks and for "hurting religious sentiments" at a show in Indore, on a complaint by Eklavya Gaud, the son of BJP MLA Malini Gaud. The next day, Faruqui's friend Sadakat Khan was held when he went to meet him in court.

Faruqui was booked under IPC Sections 295A (outraging religious feelings) and 269 (unlawful or negligent act likely to spread the infection of any disease dangerous to life) among other charges.

At the bail hearing Friday, Faruqui and Yadav's lawyer Anshuman Shrivastav appealed to the High Court to reschedule the hearing for later in the day.

"Since the Tukoganj Police Station (where the case is registered) is across the road from the High Court premises, we argued that the police should be asked to get the diary... however it (the hearing) was adjourned," he said, calling it a tactic by the police to harass his client.

On January 13, a Judicial Magistrate First Class had extended the judicial custody of all the accused except Sadakat for another two weeks.

Shrivastav had earlier questioned the grounds on which bail had been rejected by the Sessions Court. "The criminal law does not work on assumptions but their bail has been denied on an assumption that it will lead to law and order problems and not on any technical or legal grounds."

An Indore-based producer and upcoming comedian, Prakhar, 24, had contacted Faruqui for the show. Faruqui's was to be the main act, of about 75 minutes, with Prakhar and Yadav, 24, another small-time comedian, doing five-seven minute gigs each. Priyam, Prakhar's younger brother, was attending the show. Faruqui came down from Mumbai, while Yadav travelled from Dhar in Madhya Pradesh.

In its application to the Sessions Court on January 6 objecting to Prakhar and Priyam's bail pleas, the Tukoganj Police Station said Faruqui had made all the arrangements, and accused him of making objectionable remarks against Hindu deities in his opening act. It argued that bail be denied as there were law and order issues in Ujjain and Indore after the remarks.

Prakhar and Priyam's family could not be contacted despite repeated attempts.

Nalin's younger brother, who is 17 and a second-year commerce student, said Nalin was

The importance of a verdict on India's inter-faith marriage law

In today's episode, we're looking at a Allahabad High Court verdict and its impact on India's law for inter-faith marriages.

Omar Abdullah

consultation, then the Supreme Court needs to step in with what happened in J&K and start hearing us out and let the weight of our arguments make up their minds," said Abdullah during the Idea Exchange programme at The Indian Express (detailed transcript to be published Monday).

A bench headed by then Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi had issued notices on August 29, 2019, on the petitions relating to J&K and referred it to a five-judge bench chaired by Justice NV Ramana. The five-judge bench took up the matters on October 1, 2019, but some raised the point that these should be referred to a seven-judge bench. This prayer was rejected on March 2, 2020. But due to Covid-19 and the subsequent national lockdown, hearing of almost every major case involving constitutional questions has remained pending.

Omar Abdullah, however, said he will have to trust the Supreme Court when it made the observation that it can turn back the clock when it comes to changes made to the law pertaining to J&K, but said he feels that it will reach a point where it will be impossible to undo some of the changes.

"The time will end up being of the essence. You cannot have indefinite period of domicile being changed or land laws having been affected or cadre of J&K administrative services and police officers being changed or forest services officers being changed and similar changes being put into place and then turn around and say all this can be undone... because somebody will say so much water has flown in the Jhelum that we will now have to accept this as the new reality... which is not what we are willing to accept," said Abdullah.

While commenting on the lack of 4G connectivity in majority of J&K's districts, the detentions of political leaders like PDP leader Naem Akhtar and travel restrictions on the mainstream leaders, Abdullah said, "Which fundamental rights do we have today? None. You do not enjoy the right to free speech. You do not enjoy the right to free movement... and for the BJP, this is normal. I guess this is the Jammu and Kashmir that was carved out and they are telling us it is normal and learn to live with it... which, I am sorry, I am not willing to do."

as well for his "blessings and good wishes", sources said.

The sources said the Chief Ministers of Madhya Pradesh and Uttarakhand, Shivraj Singh Chouhan and Trivendra Singh Rawat respectively; the Governors of Maharashtra, Himachal Pradesh, Jharkhand, and Uttarakhand, Bhagat Singh Koshiyari, Bandaru Dattatreya, Draupadi Murmu, and Baby Rani Maurya respectively; and Gujarat Deputy Chief Minister Nitin Patel made donations on Friday.

Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath had donated last year. On Friday, the state Information Department said Adityanath had contributed another cheque of Rs 2 lakh, PTI reported.

According to the VHP, Chief Minister Rawat gave a cheque of Rs 1.51 lakh, and Governor Maurya a cheque of Rs 1.21 lakh. Koshiyari donated a cheque of Rs 1.11 lakh at an event in Nagpur.

NCP chief Sharad Pawar was quoted by PTI as saying it was "strange" if Governors were taking part in a campaign to collect money for the temple.

On a query on the mass contact programme to seek funds to build the Ram temple, Pawar said it was the right of any organisation to seek funds, PTI reported.

The city has received 2.64 lakh doses of Covishield, the Indian variant of Oxford-AstraZeneca's AZD1222 vaccine, and 20,000 doses of Bharat Biotech's Covaxin, for the immunisation programme.

and 300 solar refrigerators become operational.

Health Ministry officials said that Rs 480 crore was being disbursed to states for the operational cost of vaccinating the 3 crore priority group, with the share of the shares to be decided as per their beneficiary load.

In the run-up to the rollout, the Centre held over a dozen meetings with states. On Tuesday, the states were told to "exercise caution" against "proxies", by making sure that beneficiaries seeded their mobile numbers with Aadhaar. At the January 11 meeting, PM Modi told states, "It is my request that the real-time data generated during the vaccination should be uploaded on the Co-WIN platform. The states have to ensure this. Even a small glitch can cause damage to this mission." Jammu and Kashmir and Chhattisgarh, which have reported issues related to connectivity, have been provided with an offline data upload mechanism.

As early as December 1, the first dry run of Co-WIN was conducted in Rajasthan and Telangana. The feedback was incorporated in the platform.

Calling it the "way forward", Dr Ravi Bansal (46), a senior consultant with the department of nephrology at PSRI Hospital, said: "The role of vaccines is to decrease the number of people who are susceptible to the virus. So, either you get the infection or get the vaccine. The virus should be eliminated from society once the number of people susceptible to the virus is reduced. It is the duty of everyone to get vaccinated."

Police Station Kamlesh Sharma had earlier told The Indian Express they had no evidence against Faruqi directly and that he had been booked as an organiser. "There's no evidence against him for insulting Hindu deities or Amit Shah," he said. He said the two videos submitted by the complainant were of another comedian with him allegedly cracking jokes on Lord Ganesh.

Form own group

The unions also objected to the filing of FIRs against farmers participating in the protests, Income Tax raids on arhityas (commission agents) backing the farmers, and NIA notices to three transporters sending buses to Delhi and a journalist.

During the meeting, Tomar asked the unions if they would end the agitation if the government were to firm up a discussion on an Act guaranteeing MSP. To this, the unions said they would continue to protest until the three farm laws are repealed.

Emerging from the meeting, Tomar told reporters that "the discussion could not reach a decisive turn" and the two sides had decided to meet again at noon on January 19.

"I am hopeful that the unions will make efforts to take forward today's discussion. We event told them that if they so wish, they can form their own informal group, of those who can discuss laws properly, their expectations of the government, what is in the laws that is against the farmers. If they discuss and make a proposal, the government is ready to discuss it with an open mind," he said.

The government's suggestion that the unions constitute an informal group to list grievances comes after the unions rejected a four-member expert committee appointed by the Supreme Court, saying the members were in favour of the farm laws.

On Thursday, Bhupinder Singh Mann, president of BKU (Mann) and chairman of All India Kisan Coordination Committee, recused himself from the court-appointed panel and said "I will always stand with my farmers and Punjab".

Defending the government's approach to the negotiations, Tomar told reporters that "the government, during several rounds of discussion with farmer unions, identified many of their apprehensions, and agreed to dispel these apprehensions. Unions were also sent a written proposal on behalf of the government. But that proposal was not acceptable to them and, therefore, the dialogue is on."

Asked about the need to have a parallel discussion when a committee has been formed by the Supreme Court, Tomar said: "We are all committed to the Supreme Court and will remain so in future. No one should have any doubt on that. The Government of India welcomes the Supreme Court decision. Whenever the committee... calls the Government of India, we will present our views... Since the farmers were already in talks with the government, and the date fixed, we asked the unions if they wanted to come for the talks, then they should."

To a query on the Attorney General's statement that separatists were entering the farmer protests, he said: "As per our information, farmers from two-three states are agitating and sitting on dharna. Some of the farmers, as representatives of these farmers, are negotiating with the government. The government is holding talks with them by considering them as representatives of farmers. We have not thought beyond that."

Shiv Kumar Kakka, president of Rashtriya Kisan Mazdoor Mahasangh, said: "We raised the issue of Income Tax raids on arhityas in Punjab. Cases were filed against 900 Haryana farmers under (IPC section) 307 (attempt to murder). Then, the NIA raids transporters and calls them for interrogation. You are taking vindictive action against those who are helping us. This is not constitutional. He (minister) said we will look into it and see why this is happening."

"I raised the issue of MSP and asked why does the government escape from a discussion on MSP in every meeting? The demand for repeal of the three Acts is equal to the legal guarantee for MSP," he said, adding that one of the ministers said there had never been a law on MSP. "I said if there was no law earlier, then shouldn't a law be enacted?"

Kulwant Singh, president of Jambhori Kisan Sabha, said: "We took up the matter of NIA notices to four persons in Punjab. Three are transporters and the fourth a journalist. The ministers told us that they will ask the NIA to have a re-look. We asked them to stop all political programmes of the BJP in favour of the farm laws in Punjab, on the lines of Haryana. They said instructions will be issued to the Punjab BJP unit too."

"When they suggested that how far it is true, that Governors of states are also taking part in it. If that news is true, then it is strange," Pawar said, without taking any names, according to PTI.

The donation drive for the temple has been spearheaded by the RSS and VHP. Sources said RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat had visited Valmiki Temple on Delhi's Mandir Marg, where chief priest Krishnashah Vidyarthi made a donation after a ceremonial prayer to kickstart the campaign.

Swami Awadheshanand Giri "went begging" for the temple to Dalit settlements in Nagpur, while Sadhvi Rithambara led a similar drive among members of the Scheduled Castes in Mumbai, the VHP said.

RSS leaders Suresh Joshi and Manmohan Vaidya too led drives in different states. Trust chief and VHP leader Champat Rai visited Tejgaon village in Rae Bareilly, Uttar Pradesh, where at a function organised by former BJP MLA Surendra Bahadur Singh, a cheque of Rs 1,11,111 was given to Rai. Following this, Rai met UP Governor Anandiben Patel, who donated as well.

"Programmes have been held in all state capitals. The movement is catching momentum, and there is a lot of enthusiasm. We haven't yet started collections in seven states, which include Tamil Nadu, Kerala, Manipur, Haryana, and Delhi," VHP spokesperson Bansal said.

Although the drive to collect donations in Delhi will begin only on February 1, several businessmen and politicians from Delhi had donated on January 14 during the inauguration of the Trust's camp office in Kailash Colony.

Among those who donated were industrialists Punit Dalmiya, Subhash Goyal, and S K Jindal, and MPs Gautam Gambhir and Parvesh Verma.

The Trust had announced in December 2019 that it would launch the donation drive in January. It had said that nearly 4 lakh volunteers would cover 55 crore people (11 crore families) in 5 lakh villages in a whirlwind 44-day campaign ending February 27, the first day of the holy dip at the Kumbh Mela.

The push by Hindutva groups to collect donations have also seen some incidents of violence and clashes between communities.

In December, clashes erupted in a Muslim-dominated village in Indore district after members of right-wing Hindu groups participating in a rally to collect donations for the Ram temple, stopped in front of a mosque and allegedly raised slogans.

A few days before this incident, there were clashes in Ujjain's Muslim-dominated Begum Bagh neighbourhood after slogans were raised in a Bharatiya Janata Yuva Morcha rally, leading to stone-pelting.

yet to present his act at the Indore show when he was arrested. "When I went to visit Nalin in jail, he was worried about my safety as there is just the two of us. He kept repeating that he did not crack any jokes on religion," he said. The brothers lost their mother two months ago.

Among those arrested, Sada-kat was in no way involved with the show, uncle Yunus Khan pointed out. He was in Indore to meet his grandmother, and went to meet his friend Faruqi. "He was arrested for no mistake of his. He is a clean-hearted person, always willing to help," Yunus said.

Not much is known about Anthony, apart from the fact that he is an Indore resident and was the "event coordinator". No bail application has been moved on his behalf.

Faruqi's tour manager and stand-up producer Vishesh Arora said Faruqi had been doing this particular comic routine since November, had done 25 shows already and was to do 20 more across different cities after Indore. Prior to the Hyderabad show on December 31 too, there had been some trouble, with Faruqi getting threats online, Arora said. So they had arranged bouncers.

According to Arora, they had bouncers in Indore as well. "But when the mob came, the bouncers disappeared," the manager who was in Delhi at the time said. He added that Faruqi had never faced trouble from the audience during a show earlier.

Arora, who claims to have also represented Kunal Kamra among others, said he advises clients to cancel shows if threats escalate. "But Munawar decided that he would do these shows (as we didn't see a problem)."

Faruqi's lawyer Shrivastav said the FIR filed by Gaud, the convener of Hindu Rakshak Sanghatan, did not specify the comments allegedly made by Faruqi. "The police should have verified the allegations and then arrested the accused," he said.

The lawyer added that alleged remarks by Faruqi against Home Minister Amit Shah and on Godhra riots were based on a video shot about four years ago.

In the chats, the former BARC CEO appears to be trying to fend off complaints against the organisation by talking of favours done to the BJP, and Goswami apparently offers to help by mediating with the PMO, ministers and other personalities, including one 'AS'. Among those named in the chats are former Minister of State Rajyavardhan Rathore.

Despite repeated attempts, Rathore was not available for comment. There was no response from PMO's Information Officer Dheeraj Singh till the time of going to press.

The supplementary chargesheet was filed against three persons, including Dasgupta. An earlier chargesheet on November 25 had named 12 persons and six channels for alleged rigging of TRPs. Dasgupta and two others, Republic Media Network CEO Vikas Khanchandani and former BARC Chief Operating Officer Romil Ramgarhia, are under arrest.

Dasgupta's association with Goswami goes back to the time when both worked at Times Now.

Dasgupta's advocate Arjun Singh Thakur said, "There are motivated interests in leaking the chats between two private persons who are known to each other. There is nothing incriminating in the chats, that is of a professional nature." A member from the legal team representing Goswami refused to comment. Police have said that investigation is ongoing, and a second supplementary chargesheet will be filed.

■ April 17, 2017

"Dasgupta" tells 'Goswami' that other channels, envious of "the success of his channel", were quoting ministers. 'Goswami' replies: "All ministers with us." He goes on to add, "... not even a secretary meets India Today, NDTV and Times is boycotted by govt."

■ July 7, 2017

When 'Dasgupta' talks about the Ministry of Information and Broadcasting getting a complaint against Republic, 'Goswami' writes, "about the dish FTA (free-to-air) thing, rathore told me and said he is keeping it aside." Rathore, apparently, is a reference to then I&B MoS Rajyavardhan Rathore.

■ April 4, 2019

"Dasgupta" speaks about complaints by some news channels to the Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) against BARC, telling 'Goswami': "Can you help by telling AS to tell TRAI to pipe down on barc?"

'Goswami' says he can send a message, adding whether 'Dasgupta' could point out three aspects where 'TRAI' action would "hurt AS... politically".

On April 6, 'Goswami' tells 'Dasgupta': "PMO has been told by me personally about BARC."

■ April 21, 2019

'Dasgupta' tells 'Goswami': "Best is if AS asks him to stay off BARC", in a reference to 'Rajat' (Rajat Sharma of India TV, who was heading the National Broadcasters' Association then).

'Goswami' replies: "Don't get BARC directly in AS gaze. Politicians have a way of seeking entry."

In a press conference on December 26, the Mumbai Police also claimed to have retrieved emails between then BARC employees that indicated numbers were being fudged to help Republic. The contents stated, "Please find below numbers on English news. As required Times Now numbers were changed while Republic kept the same." Another excerpt read, "...Times Now, CNN News 18 will be changed... impressions of Times Now have been decreased drastically across the universe... the impressions of Republic TV remained unchanged."

According to the FIR, the 'SFJ' leadership has planned large scale disruptive activities intended to damage government and private property and also disrupt supplies and services...

INCOMING: 1,000 LOW-FLOOR CNG BUSES

Metro city's lifeline but buses still carry bulk of Delhiites

SOURAV ROY BARMAN
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THE DELHI Metro network, which grew from 8 km to 380 km between 2002 and 2021, is used by 6.18 per cent people in the city for commute, with over 60 per cent public still dependent on buses, the Delhi government's socio-economic survey has found.

The Metro is popularly known as Delhi's lifeline and is credited with radically transforming the city's public transport system. On the other hand, the fleet of public buses, especially under the Delhi Transport Corporation, has steadily shrunk over the last decade.

On Friday, the DTC placed orders for 1,000 low-floor CNG buses, a decade after buses were last inducted in the corporation. There are approximately 6,693 public buses — 3,760 DTC and 2,933 cluster buses — in the capital as of now, as against the Supreme Court-mandated requirement of 11,000 buses.

"Congratulations Delhi! After 12 years of wait, orders have been placed by DTC to induct 1,000 low-floor AC CNG buses. All these buses will be on road by September 2021. Delhi government is committed to a pollution-free Delhi by building a world-class public transport system," Chief Minister Arvind Kejriwal tweeted.

According to the findings of the survey, accessed by The Indian Express, the preferred mode of 63.62 per cent of the people is "public bus/school bus/chartered bus" and 6.18 per cent take the Metro. Metro usage is highest among residents of the New Delhi district (10.89 per cent) and least in case of northeast district (3.16), which joined the Metro network with the introduction of the Pink

Line in 2018 and remains highly dependent on shared autos and cabs.

The survey, the biggest of its kind, covered 1.02 crore people and was conducted between November 2018 and November 2019.

While the Metro tickets range between Rs 10 to Rs 60 depending on the distance travelled, bus fares are relatively low, with the minimum and maximum fares being Rs 5 and Rs 15 in case of non-AC buses and Rs 10-Rs 25 in case of AC buses.

Residents of the north district use buses the most (75.18 per cent), while Shahdara sees the least use (50.25 per cent). In case of Shahdara, 21.51 per cent people use personal two-wheelers for commuting — above the city average of 15.44 per cent.

The survey found that despite the acute shortage of buses in the city, it remained the most preferred mode of commute to the workplace, educational institutes or other places. Only 0.32 per cent of the people use personal four-wheelers.

The preferred mode of commute is along the lines of ownership of private vehicles, as detailed in part one of the survey, findings of which were published by The Indian Express last September.

DELHI SURVEY
COMMUTING

It had revealed that of the 20.05 lakh households surveyed, 51.78 per cent of the households declared to be owners of personal vehicles, out of which 40.35 per cent possess only two-wheelers, 4.34 per cent households only four-wheelers and 6.59% households possess both two- and four-wheelers.

The survey also found that 11.15 per cent people use shared autos, e-rickshaws and shared taxis to commute.

Only 0.19 per cent of those surveyed use hired autos and cabs, 1.02 per cent commute on bicycles, and 2.08 per cent on cycle rickshaws.

Fellowship to boost street theatre, artists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

DEPUTY Chief Minister Manish Sisodia Friday launched the Delhi government's Street Theatre and Performing Arts Fellowship to support artists.

The fellowship is aimed at promoting street art in Delhi and has been extended to 500 artists from diverse backgrounds including theatre, music, dance and fine arts.

During the launch at the Delhi Secretariat, Sisodia said, "This will create a taste for art and culture among the people of Delhi. There will be live art performances on the streets as we have created this fellowship to give an opportunity to artists to express their art."

He added, "Artists from Delhi, over the past few years, have been asking me to promote street art. They pointed out that though there are concentrated cultural hubs like Mandi House, we need to expand culture to all parts of the city to give a platform to street artists to showcase their art."

The fellowship comes under Delhi government's department of art, culture and languages and offers a monthly stipend of Rs 5,000 to those who are selected for it.

The artists will perform in a team of 10 every week at various public places February onwards. Each team has been trained by "eminent theatre experts" and would include artists of different art forms.

MCD workers unpaid, High Court warns that its councillors could be given a 'haircut'

Pulls up civic bodies, seeks details of their expenditure; tells Delhi govt: Their employees are your voters too

SOFIAHSAN
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THE DELHI High Court Friday said the right to receive salary and pension is a fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution, and warned that it will stop perks of councillors as well as senior officers of civic bodies to utilise funds for payment of salaries of MCD workers. It also sought details of the expenditure incurred on them.

The court made the observations during the hearing of a matter regarding non-payment of salaries and pensions of employees of North and East Delhi Municipal Corporations and the health institutions run by them. "We all get a lot of perks. We as judges get a lot of perks. If some of those perks are taken away because of some problem, we are not going to suffer that much. We are all living like lords, people at the top. I have no difficulty in saying this, I am also a beneficiary of that. We can and we should take the haircut as a responsible citizen. Why should the poor man suffer, the class IV employee?" observed Justice Vipin Sanghi.

The division bench of Justices Sanghi and Rekha Palli said the stated reason of paucity of funds cannot be accepted as an excuse for such non-payment.

The court said payment of salaries to employees of corporations, including doctors, paramedic staff and healthcare workers, is an absolute necessity and

Sanitation workers have protested against salary delay. Archive the same has to be prioritised over other discretionary expenditure that the corporations are incurring.

"If anyone has to take a haircut during these times due to financial constraints of the corporations, it has to be the people at the top," it said, ordering civic bodies to place before court the different heads of expenditure in relation to their councillors and Class I and II officers.

During the hearing, the court was told that the civic bodies had earlier taken loans from the Delhi government and the same was readjusted against their basic tax assignment (BTA), which already stood reduced on account of fall in revenues during the pandemic.

The bench observed that the RBI had last year imposed a moratorium on enforcement of claims by banks and financial institutions during the pandemic as the businesses were hit. The court told the Delhi government that the recovery could have waited and that the same was uncalled for as the tax collection in every sector was low. The court has now asked the government counsel to seek instructions on the aspect of release of loan amounts which were deducted earlier from the BTA.

The court also said the Delhi government should be conscious of the fact that the employees of these corporations are also voters in Delhi. "If you are in power, you are in power because of them also. Don't treat them as if they are not your voters," it said.

It also observed that the municipal corporations may be ruled by a different political party but the councillors were not the ones suffering. "They are sitting pretty; that is why we are saying that we have to give them a haircut. They will all be roaming around in their cars, using municipal facilities, perks and petrol and everything. They are not suffering. It is the poor man who is suffering and people who are actually working and risking their lives," observed the court.

Construction of new Parliament building begins

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THE CONSTRUCTION of the new Parliament building commenced Thursday, with labourers beginning excavation work, said officials.

The new building is being constructed by Tata Projects Ltd and is estimated to cost Rs 971 crore. The construction is expected to be completed by 2022, in time for the 75th Independence Day.

Earlier this week, a 14-member heritage panel gave its approval to the new Parliament building while also giving the go-ahead to the Central Vista redevelopment project. The Supreme Court had asked the Centre to seek prior approval from the panel and other relevant authorities before starting construction of the new building.

A senior official from Tata Projects said that despite the delay in starting, they will complete the project on time. "A plan of action is already in place to accelerate the schedule by augmenting resources like skilled manpower and formwork, etc.. The reinforcement required to be placed in the raft and walls are ready. Other off-site activities like procurement of stone for external cladding, MEP LLEs, carpets, etc happened during these 35 days. We are more than confident that we will be able to deliver this building to the nation on or before time," said Sandeep Navlakhe, vice-president and business unit head of Tata Projects Ltd.

Laying the foundation stone for the new Parliament on December 10, Prime Minister Narendra Modi had said that the new building will fulfill the country's aspirations of the 21st Century while symbolising the "co-existence of the new and the old". "The (existing) building is now looking to retire. It is incumbent upon all of us to give 21st Century India a new Parliament building," he had said.

The new Parliament building will house larger Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha halls with capacities of 888 seats and 384 seats to accommodate an expanded Parliament. The Lok Sabha hall will also have an additional capacity, up to 1,272 seats, to host joint sessions.

According to the design plan, the architecture of the new Parliament shall complement or harmonise with that of the present Parliament and other buildings of the Central Vista.

8-yr-old, man who tried to rescue him dead in market fire

ANANYA TIWARI
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THREE PEOPLE, including an eight-year-old and a bystander who tried to rescue him, died in a fire that broke out in a building at the furniture market in Kirti Nagar Thursday night.

Delhi Fire Services chief Atul Garg said, "We got a call around 11 pm that a fire had broken out at a godown at the Kamala Nehru camp, where fires usually spread very quickly. Above the shop was a cluster of rooms with many tenants. The building had collapsed completely. Search operations for survivors went on till morning." He said that the cause of the fire has not been determined so far.

The victims were identified as Rohit (20), Sanjay (32) and Rajesh (8).

Two of them were among the families which lived in the eight rooms above the shop at the furniture market.

Rajesh's mother Manorama (25), who works as a domestic help, said, "We were sleeping and woke up due to a feeling of immense heat... As we were running out, I grabbed my younger son, who is two years old. Rajesh could not make it as he fell unconscious. There was so much smoke, we could hardly see."

First to arrive at the spot and raise an alarm was Rohit (20), a resident of the nearby JJ colony,

Kamal (20), who works at one of the factories in the area and is an acquaintance of Rohit, said, "Rohit drives a van and used to park it right near this shop. He was the first one to notice the smoke coming out of the building. He raised the alarm, and managed to save many people."

Rina Devi (35), Rohit's aunt, said, "We kept calling his mobile till 2 am but we never got a response. He lost his life saving others." She said they also lost a ration/grocery shop in the fire.

Rohit's cousin Gautam (14) said, "A few of us searched for his body in the morning and found it around 8 am. It was in the drain running behind the building and was buried under the debris... I couldn't recognise him but he had a tattoo of a star on his arm and used to wear white sneakers... that's how I knew it was him."

Meanwhile, police are on the lookout for the owner of the building.

Vijay Kumar Singh, SHO of the Kirti Nagar police station, said, "We got a PCR call at 10.55 pm, and reached the spot in a few minutes. The landlord of the building, Tony, has fled. A case has been lodged against him under IPC sections 285 and 304, and investigation is on."

Contractor arrested for 'abducting' DGCA staff

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

DELHI POLICE arrested a 24-year-old man and a taxi driver for allegedly abducting an official from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation office and snatching his phone and ID card.

Police said the accused, Vaibhav Chaturvedi, a contractor, was allegedly angry after staffers of a plane did not allow him to use the washroom when the plane was landing. The taxi driver, Kuwar Singh (37), has told police that he simply followed Chaturvedi's instructions as he thought the latter was a senior officer.

On January 8, Chaturvedi went to the DGCA office to file a complaint. A senior police officer said, "He (Chaturvedi) told us that he found two-three officials in an inebriated state and had an altercation with them. He posed as a senior police officer and abducted a Junior Secretariat Attendant named Surender Prasad from the office."

The accused told Surender to Safdarjung Hospital for a medical examination but the doctors refused to do the test as he didn't have a police application. While another DGCA employee reached the hospital, Chaturvedi allegedly snatched his phone and took off with Surender in his car.

He allegedly snatched Surender's phone and ID card later and left him at BP Marg. The accused also gave him his personal number.

DCP (South) Atul Kumar Thakur said, "We received a complaint from Surender on January 8. During the investigation, we traced the vehicle number from CCTV's near Safdarjung and the DGCA hospital. Chaturvedi had already given his personal number to Surender. We contacted him and told him to appear for a statement but he didn't come. He was then apprehended from his house in Rohini. With his help, the driver was also arrested."

Chaturvedi told police that he found "3-4 men drunk in a room" when he went to file his complaint at the DGCA office. In an attempt to take action against them, he allegedly abducted Surender to get him medically examined.

To avoid jams, Haryana farmers say will start for Delhi on Jan 20

SUKHBIR SIWACH
CHANDIGARH, JANUARY 15

TO AVOID long jams on roads, a large number of farmers plan to move to Delhi borders as early as January 20 to participate in the "tractor parade" planned for Republic Day.

Farm outfit leaders estimate the participation of almost one lakh tractors from Haryana alone, with as many as 7,000 villages despatching several vehicles. The number of protesters at Delhi borders has been increasing over the past few days, with more tractors from Punjab and Haryana joining every day.

"The number of those moving to Delhi borders daily has doubled now, ahead of the 'tractor parade'," said Suresh Koth, a farmer leader from Hisar, who has been camping at Singhu border for 50 days.

"The big movement of tractors to Delhi borders from Haryana villages will start from January 23. We hope at least 20 tractors from each village with 200 persons in each tractor trolley moves to Delhi borders. From big villages, 150-200 tractor trolleys will move to Delhi," said Koth.

Farmers say that every day, 300 tractor trolleys with at least 20 farmers in each move to Singhu border from Punjab and Haryana. "As many as 50-100 tractor trolleys return to their villages to perform their duties in their fields," said a farm leader.

On Friday, farmers in nearly 500 vehicles from Sirsa and Fatehabad districts of Haryana moved to Delhi's Tikri border. By evening, the cavalcade had crossed Hisar hoping to reach by Saturday night. "Farmers equate the current agitation with a 'freedom struggle' -- a fight to save their land from corporates," said Mandeep Nathwan, a farm leader from Fatehabad, who led the cavalcade.

"This protest will change the political atmosphere of the country with farmers, labourers and working classes joining hands," said Nathwan, who is president of the Kisan Sangharsh Samiti, Haryana.

"From many villages, vehicles go to Delhi for a day, carrying food items for protesters. Villagers who wish to donate ration or milk inform village committees in the evening so their items can be taken to Delhi in the morning. A large number of farmers now don't sell their milk, and instead prefer to give it to protesters," said Nathwan.

Nathwan said farm leaders have also started a campaign to make villages aware about "anti-farmer forces who may try to incite people to harm the ongoing protest". "In the past few days, we have heard different types of provocative calls regarding the 'tractor parade' from some people who want to see violence in the stir to defame the agitators. But we have initiated a campaign to make farmers aware that they should follow the call of only the Sanyukt Kisan Mocha regarding the next steps. Our agitation will remain peaceful," said Nathwan.

Meanwhile, a senior Haryana Police officer said the crowd is growing by the day: "We are keeping an eye on the developments and will take an appropriate decision if and when needed."

Along the 15-km stretch at Singhu, 50 horsemen trot 'in R-Day preparation'

JIGNASA SINHA
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

AHEAD OF Republic Day, when farmers plan to bring thousands of tractors into the national capital, members of the Nihang community Friday held a march around Singhu border.

Around 50 horse riders, all from the community of armed Sikh warriors, took out their horses and marched from the main stage at the protest site till the end, spanning over 15 km. Farmers called this a preparation and rehearsal for Republic Day, when they will hold a march from Singhu to Tikri and other borders of Delhi.

At the march. Prem Nath Pandey

Kashmir Singh (19), one of the youngest in the group, decorated his horse with flowers and colourful fabric. He said that while farmers will march with their tractors, Nihangs will use their horses in solidarity.

"I have been here for almost one month. We will support farmers because we know these laws will kill their livelihood. My uncle is also a farmer and he tells me that he isn't able to sell his vegetables at a good price. We want the government to wake up and help us," he said.

Balancing two drums on his horse, Sikander (27) said, "We need to practise because we will have to cover a longer distance on Republic Day and also play the drums and raise slogans. We want the government to repeal the laws or we will enter Delhi and march on the roads."

So far, over 300 Nihang Sikhs have joined from Punjab.

Chandkaur (58) said he joined the protest with farmers on November 28 and added that he doesn't want the farmers to stay at the borders. "We have been suffering here. I see the meetings and other news, the government is not ready to listen to us. We will go to Rajghat or Jantar Mantar, where the Centre can see us."

$680 million project afoot to redevelop New Delhi station, Railways woos global investors

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THE WORK for the redevelopment of New Delhi railway station is in full swing with the Railway Land Development Authority organising virtual roadshows for global stakeholders to engage them in various aspects of the project.

Infrastructure majors such as Adani, GMR, JKB Infra, France's SNCF, Arabian Construction Company and Anchorage had taken part in the project's pre-bid meeting held in September 2020.

An artist's impression of the new railway station

As per the estimate by Railways, the project is going to involve a $680 million investment and is slated to be completed in four years after the work is awarded.

The roadshows are being held between January 14 and 19 and prospective investors and developers from various countries and cities such as Singapore, Australia, Dubai and Spain will be engaged in discussions about the project concept and the proposed transaction structure with potential bidders.

"RLDA has also developed a walkthrough of the project that will be showcased during the roadshow for an in-depth understanding," said Ved Parkash Dudgea, vice chairman, RLDA.

The New Delhi railway station is planned to be developed on a Design-Build Finance Operate Transfer (DBFOT) model, wherein the private party will get the lease of the station building for 60 years.

The project is currently at the Request for Qualification (RFQ) stage, with the due date on February 2, 2021. The Master Plan area is approximately 120 hectares, out of which 88 hectares is being planned in phase 1.

3 civil volunteers held for issuing fake Covid challans, pocketing cash

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

THREE CIVIL defence volunteers have been arrested from North Avenue for allegedly issuing fake Covid-19 challans and obtaining penalty amounts in their Paytm accounts.

DCP (New Delhi) Dr Eish Singhal said the accused -- Sunny (19), Yashwant Rathi (21) and Lucky (20) -- are posted in the office of SDM (New Delhi), Jamnagar House. "They used to issue fake Covid-19 challans to people visiting Talkatora Garden. The matter came to notice on December 31, when a Shakarpur resident was issued a fake challan by the accused," he said.

In his complaint, the victim said he was sitting in Talkatora Garden with a friend, when three civil defence volunteers allegedly fined them Rs 2,000 each for not wearing masks.

As the complainant did not have Rs 4,000 cash, he paid them via Paytm, police said. He, however, got suspicious over the authenticity of the challan and later approached police.

Singhal said, "We conducted a detailed inquiry and sought details of the alleged Paytm beneficiary. We got to know that the alleged mobile number was registered in the SDM office in Sunny's name."

During the course of inquiry, it was revealed that the challan was not issued from SDM office and was found to be fake.

"All the three Civil Defence volunteers posted in SDM Office, Jamnagar House, were identified and arrested with the help of technical surveillance as well as local information," he added.

During questioning, they confessed to having issued four such fake Covid-19 challans, police said.

Asked about law and order, Nitish tells media not to demoralise police

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE PATNA, JANUARY 15

FACING CRITICISM over the state's law and order situation, Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar on Friday urged the media not to "demoralise the police" and added that Bihar is still at the 23rd position in the country in terms of crime.

Referring to the murder of IndiGo airlines station manager Rupesh Kumar Singh two days ago, he said the police were thoroughly investigating the case and the state DGP was personally monitoring the probe.

Kumar was speaking to reporters after the opening of a 6.3-km, six-lane road named after former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee.

Atal Path connects Nehru Path — commonly known as Bailey Road — and JP setu. The road project cost Rs 380 crore.

Responding to questions on the investigation into the IndiGo executive's murder in the heart of the state capital, Kumar said, "There are reasons for murder and there are people behind it. The police are investigating the matter with all earnestness."

Asked if the state police was losing its credibility, he shot back, "Has the media forgotten the law and order situation before 2005? Do not demoralise the police. Bihar is still placed on the 23rd position in the country in terms of crime." When asked further questions, the Chief Minister suggested mediapersons to provide a lead into the investigation.

JD(U) may get 50% share in cabinet berths

SANTOSH SINGH PATNA, JANUARY 15

DESPITE BEING the junior partner in the ruling coalition in Bihar, with 43 MLAs as compared to the BJP's 74, JD (U) might succeed in getting a 50 per cent share in cabinet berths, sources from both parties have told The Indian Express.

The much-awaited cabinet expansion is likely any time now.

The JD(U) had sent out a message of displeasure to its ally after six out of seven party MLAs in Arunachal Pradesh switched to BJP. Ever since, BJP has been trying to placate the JD(U). Bihar BJP in-charge Bhupendra Yadav and state BJP chief Dr Sanjay Jaiswal recently called on newly-appointed JD (U) president RCP Singh.

Sources in BJP and JD (U) hinted that top leaders had "almost agreed on a 50:50 cabinet berth sharing formula on the lines of seat-sharing before 2020 Assembly and 2019 Lok Sabha polls". A BJP leader said, "Amid posturing by the RJD in its bid to create political instability, the BJP is showing magnanimity in the sharing of cabinet berths with the JD(U)."

India, Nepal commit to early completion of boundary works

SHUBHAJIT ROY NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

EIGHT MONTHS after the boundary row erupted between India and Nepal, foreign ministers of the two countries discussed the issue and expressed the commitment to early completion of the boundary works in the disputed areas.

Visiting Nepal Foreign minister Pradeep Kumar Gyawali said the two sides are mindful that they should not let any outstanding issue "become irritant in an otherwise friendly relationship".

Asked about China's influence, he said Nepal has always ensured their soil is not misused against any of its neighbours.

After the bilateral meeting with External Affairs minister S Jaishankar, Gyawali said, "Yes, we discussed the boundary matters. We both are committed to finalise it at the earliest." He was responding to a question at an interaction organised by Indian Council of World Affairs. "Needless to say that the relationship between neighbours has its own characters. Mutual trust, understanding and respect for each other's sensitivities and concerns contribute to strengthen the foundation of such relationships."

"In this spirit, we desire to start the conversation with a view to resolving the question of boundary alignment in the remaining segments. Many of you may be aware that Nepal and India share over 1,800 km long international boundary most of which is jointly mapped. Only in the stretches of some kilometers, the work remains to be completed," he said.

"We pursue an independent foreign policy and our conduct of external relations is based on a balanced outlook. We do not harbour ill-will against anyone. Amity with all and enmity with none is our motto. Guided by the same principles, we seek to foster relations with neighbours and all friendly countries around the world," he said, in a thinly-veiled reference to the battle for influence between India and China.

Jaishankar tweeted, "Co-chaired the 6th India-Nepal Joint Commission Meeting with FM @PradeepgyawaliK. Detailed review of our broad ongoing cooperation. Confident that our multifaceted partnership will continue to strengthen."

MASTER PLAN

TOP LEADERS of the BJP had a three-hour meeting in Delhi on Friday to discuss the campaign strategy for the West Bengal elections. In the meeting, attended by Home Minister Amit Shah, BJP president JP Nadda, BJP general secretary in charge of West Bengal Kailash Vijayvargiya, among others, it was decided that Shah and Nadda will visit the state at least twice a month to address rallies. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, who is going to be the star campaigner, is likely to hold rallies only after elections are announced, sources said.

NEW ROLE

MEMBER OF Parliament and former Chief Justice of India Ranjan Gogoi has taken on the role of an arbitrator in a private dispute. Earlier this week, noting the consent of both parties, a two-judge bench of the Supreme Court appointed him as a sole arbitrator in a dispute involving a Thailand-based company.

OLD VACANCY

YET ANOTHER session of Parliament will begin in a fortnight, but there is no word on filling up the post of the Deputy Speaker of Lok Sabha. The forthcoming session will be the fifth of the 17th Lok Sabha. And it is unusual that the government has let the Constitutionally mandated post lie vacant one-and-a-half years after constitution of the 17th Lok Sabha. The Congress had raised the issue in the last session, with party's floor leader Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury writing to the Speaker. Some Congress leaders argue that the party should be given the post as by convention the post is given to a non-ruling party, but they wonder whether the BJP would extend such a courtesy, given that relations between the government and the main opposition party have hit the nadir.

EC moves to protect honest state poll officials from 'victimisation'

New Delhi: Taking note of incidents of "victimisation" of state chief electoral officers and other officials in the post-election period on flimsy grounds, the Election Commission has directed all states to seek its prior approval before initiating any disciplinary action against such officers during their tenure, as also up to one year after completion of their stint with the poll panel. In a letter to the cabinet secretary and chief secretaries of all states and Union Territories Thursday, the EC said it has noted some incidents of "victimisation" of CEOs and additional, joint, deputy and assistant CEOs in the post-election period. It said in such a scenario, these officers are not only "demotivated but also their morale is greatly reduced". The EC said "the state/UT governments shall invariably obtain prior approval of the Commission before initiating any disciplinary action against the Chief Electoral Officers and other officers up to Joint Chief Electoral Officer during their tenure and also up to one year from its expiry". TEMPLE VANDALISM

Andhra govt releases police reports, blames TDP, BJP workers for spreading fake news

REENIVAS JANYALA
HYDERABAD, JANUARY 15

FACING POLITICAL heat over incidents of vandalism at temples across the state, the YSRC government in Andhra Pradesh on Friday released investigation reports in nine cases in which opposition TDP and BJP workers and sympathisers have been accused of spreading false news and instigating the attacks. The reports, however, do not say who targeted the temples.

The government claimed that 17 TDP members and four BJP members were involved in cases related to vandalism at temples. Thirteen from TDP and two from BJP have been arrested in this connection, it said.

Both the TDP and BJP said the government was trying to blame the opposition parties instead of going after the culprits who indulged in vandalism.

TDP general secretary Nara Lokesh said, "Instead of arresting the persons who actually desecrated the idols and attacked the temples, they are arresting people for their posts on social media and for writing reports in newspapers, highlighting the issue."

The TDP has claimed that there have been over 145 incidents of vandalism at temples during the YSRC regime. However, the government has listed only nine cases, blaming TDP or BJP workers for false information.

BJP state president Somu Veeraju said the government was making a desperate attempt to blame other political parties. "There is no effort to catch the real culprits. This is an attempt to put blame on other parties," he said.

In one of the cases, TDP sympathiser C Madhusudan Reddy, who posted a message on Telegram about miscreants damaging an idol of Goddess Saraswati at Sringeri Shankar Math in Guntur district, was arrested for spreading false information. The police report said Reddy forwarded the news about an incident that occurred two years ago.

In a separate case, two TDP workers and two BJP workers were arrested in Rajahmundry Urban on September 12 last year for alleged false propaganda that a Lord Ganesha idol had been desecrated.

In a December 5 case, the police arrested B Subbaredy, 44, a TDP sympathiser, for putting a garland of slippers on an idol of Lord Hanuman.

In another case, on December 28, the Kurnool Police arrested four TDP workers - Syed Fakrudin, B Jayaramudu, G Ramanjaneyulu and G Peddaiah - for allegedly demolishing an idol at a temple in Maddikerla. The FIR, however, still states that unknown offenders demolished the idol.

In a December 30 case, police in Kurnool arrested an alleged TDP sympathiser, who was a temple committee management member of Lord Anjaneya Swamy at Marlamanda village, after he reported that legs of one of the idols in the temple had been chopped. Two journalists who reported his claim in local media were also arrested. The police report claimed that an electrician, while working inside the temple, slipped and fell causing damage to the idol.

In a separate case, six local reporters who were alleged TDP sympathisers were arrested on charges of reporting "false" news that idols of Lord Lakshmi Narasimha and Goddess Chenchu Lakshmi were damaged at a temple in Prakasam district. The police said the six knew the idols were damaged due to wear and tear.

In three other cases, police arrested two alleged TDP activists in Visakhapatnam, a BJP mandal secretary in Srikakulam and an alleged BJP worker in the third case over similar allegations.

BSP to go it alone in UP, Uttarakhand: Mayawati

BSP president Mayawati on Friday announced that her party would contest the state elections in Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand next year on its own.

"The BSP in both these states, unlike Bihar (2020 Assembly elections) and Lok Sabha polls (2019), will not have any understanding with any other party," Mayawati told the media on Friday. She appealed to BSP workers not to celebrate her 65th birthday due to the pandemic and instead help those in need. She also released her book, titled A Travelogue of My Struggle Ridden Life and BSP Movement.

"On the occasion of my birth-

Hailing the vaccination drive, she said "our party requests the Central government to provide the vaccine to common people in the entire country for free". She said if the Centre does not, then the state governments should provide vaccination free of cost.

KOLKATA, JANUARY 15

ADAY after voicing her discontent with her party, Trinamool Congress (TMC) MP Satabdi Roy on Friday did an about-turn and said she was "with Trinamool".

Following a meeting with Diamond Harbour MP Abhishek Banerjee, who is Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee's nephew, Roy said, "I am with Trinamool. I am staying with the party because of Mamata Banerjee. This is the time to stay together and put up a united front. I have apprised Abhishek Banerjee of my complaints with the party. He has given assurances to address the issues. I am not going to Delhi tomorrow."

There were reports that Roy might meet Union Home Minister

PM thinks he can tire out farmers, says Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, CHANDIGARH, LUCKNOW, JANUARY 15

CONGRESS LEADER Rahul Gandhi on Friday said Prime Minister Narendra Modi does not respect farmers and accused him of trying to tire them out as they protest against the three new farm laws.

Leading a protest in the capital as part of a nationwide campaign by his party, he said the farm laws will finish farmers and is intended to help a handful of industrialists. He said farmers have understood that their freedom and rights are in peril and added that if their rights are allowed to be snatched away today, the middle class will be the next in line. "If we don't stop this here, this will go on," he said.

"Look at the media, IT, retail, power, look at entire India... you will see only 4-5 people. There are 4-5 big businessmen and Modi... and no one else. No farmers, no workers, no other businessmen... Airport, court, everything is being run by these five people and who is allowing them to run these - Narendra Modi," he said. Rahul said the Prime Minister thinks "he can tire out the farmers". "...he thinks in 10 days, 15 days or 20 days... they will all go back... because he does not have the basic respect for the farmers. He thinks the farmers will run away if they are forced to sit for 10, 15, 20, 30 days... Modiji... you cannot scare the farmers of India."

He said the government's talks with farmer unions are delaying tactics.

In Haryana, several Congress leaders were detained as they approached the Raj Bhavan as part of the party's nationwide protests against the new laws.

"The arrest of Congressmen who took to the streets to support the annadata on Kisan Adhikar Diwas shows the dictatorial mindset of the BJP-JP government," former CM Bhupinder Singh Hooda said.

In Lucknow, Congress workers led by state party chief Ajay Kumar Lallu were allegedly taken into custody while they were trying to march towards the Raj Bhawan.

A senior police officer denied this, saying they were only shifted to a place earmarked for the agitation to maintain law and order.

Rahul's Jallikattu visit: Cong course correction ahead of TN elections

MANOJ CG
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

WHILE WATCHING the Jallikattu event from an elevated podium at an arena in Avaniyapuram near Madurai on Thursday, Rahul Gandhi stood up at one point to see the bull taming more closely, prompting one of the commentators to say: "Look Rahul Gandhi has stood up to see... He didn't know otherwise Jallikattu would not have been banned... He has promised not to ban it again. Congratulations, the bull has won."

The stray comment, not in jest but in enthusiasm, perhaps summarised the Congress's new-found politics in Tamil Nadu. It was a course correction and an emphatic one at that. The timing is a no-brainer since Assembly elections are just months away and the party in alliance with the DMK is trying hard to upset the AIADMK-BJP combine.

The commentator then said had Rahul been invited to Tamil Nadu, the ban on Jallikattu would not have happened in 2006. He was referring to the ban imposed by the Madras High Court in 2006 on the bull-taming sport after a spectator's death.

The court ruling aside, it was the Congress-led UPA government which had in July 2011 included bulls in a list of animals that "shall not be exhibited or trained as performing animal", effectively banning the local sport, which the then Environment

Minister Jairam Ramesh felt was a "barbaric practice".

The decision came in for huge criticism in Tamil Nadu. The Congress's state leadership was not amused. And much to their chagrin, the Supreme Court upheld the Environment Ministry's order in May 2014.

So when Rahul went to Tamil Nadu to watch the Jallikattu event on Thursday, it marked the emphatic conclusion of a course correction by the Congress which began in 2014 itself.

The first flip-flop by the Congress came in April 2014. In the middle of the Lok Sabha elections, the central government submitted an affidavit in the Supreme Court reversing its earlier decision. It told the court it had removed the bull from the list of animals not to be exhibited or trained as performing animals.

From 2011 to 2014, the UPA government had three Environment Ministers - Jairam Ramesh, Jayanti Natarajan and M Veerappa Moily. The first notification came in 2011 when Ramesh was the minister. Natarajan did not do anything as the matter had reached the Supreme Court by then. In 2014, the Centre - which was under immense pressure - reversed the stance. Moily was then the minister.

"In order to strike a balance and to safeguard the interest of all stakeholders, including the animals, while keeping in mind the

BSY delays portfolio allocation as anger grows in party over cabinet picks

JOHNSONTA
BENGALURU, JANUARY 15

A CABINET expansion carried out by Karnataka Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on January 13 to take his team strength to 33 - one less than its full capacity of 34 - has exposed deep divisions and a lack of unity in the state BJP unit.

Contrary to expectations that the cabinet expansion will momentarily strengthen the political position of Yediyurappa, the move appears to have exposed multiple loyalties and differences in the party - despite the Chief Minister trying to tone down his own wishes in the choice of new ministers. With more dissidence likely to emerge in the party and within the cabinet when portfolios are allotted Yediyurappa has decided to hold back on portfolio allotments until the conclusion of a two-day visit to the state by Union Home Minister and senior party leader Amit Shah.

"Home Minister Amit Shah will be arriving on Saturday and will leave the next day. Portfolios will be allotted after that," Yediyurappa said on Friday when asked about the date the portfolios will be allotted to the seven new ministers.

The cabinet expansion which saw Yediyurappa accommodating three members of the legislative council - two of them new entrants to the party from the Congress and third a leader who lost the 2018 state polls - has resulted in dissent among core BJP workers and nearly 10-12 MLAs who are among the 105 who won the 2018 polls on BJP tickets.

BS Yediyurappa

The fact that Yediyurappa has given 12 of the available 34 ministerial posts to new entrants to the BJP from the Congress and JDS - who were among 17 MLAs who helped the BJP overthrow the Congress-JDS coalition and muster the majority of 113 seats for forming the government - is a source of anger among party MLAs as well as the fact that five MLAs have been included.

The most virulent statements against the CM's choices has come from Vijayapura MLA Basavaraj Patil Yatnal, who has repeatedly attacked Yediyurappa and said that he will not last long as CM - without attracting any censure from the party high command.

"Hard work and honesty have not been recognised in the cabinet expansion. The Chief Minister has given prominence to people who blackmailed him to make them ministers. One of them is now a political secretary and two are ministers," Yatnal said in Vijayapura after the expansion. "Yediyurappa has blackmailed the party by using the Veerashaiva Lingayat community. Even though PM Modi and Amit Shah were not keen, the cabinet expansion has been done."

"Yediyurappa and Vijayendra [the CM's son] have bought out Congress leaders as well. Is the Congress alive as an opposition anymore?... Those who insult Hindu Gods are becoming ministers," Yatnal said.

Other MLAs who have been vocal in their dissent are Sathish Reddy, who lamented that he would not have been ignored if his political mentor H N Ananth Kumar was alive; Arvind Bellad, who said even his father was ignored in the past for cabinet positions in the BJP; Raju Gouda, who said only MLAs from Bangalore and Belagavi have got prominence. Some other core BJP MLAs who have expressed unhappiness include Sunil Kumar, SA Ramadas, Thippareddy, M P Renukacharya, Abhay Patil, Shankargouda Patil and Somashekhar Reddy.

"Some 10-12 MLAs are unhappy. If they have any complaints, let them approach the party leadership in Delhi. They should not bring the party into disrepute by making public comments," Yediyurappa said while attempting to deflect the blame.

Kerala Budget lists pension hike, digital platform for jobs

SHAJUPHILIP
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, JANUARY 15

FROM A hike in pensions that will benefit 48 lakh people to laptop schemes for disadvantaged sections and a digital platform that aims to provide 20 lakh jobs, the Left government in Kerala Friday rolled out a series of social welfare measures in the last Budget of its term with three months to go for the Assembly polls.

According to the Budget presented by Finance Minister Thomas Isaac, the monthly social welfare pension has been increased by Rs 100 to Rs 1,600. Laptops will be provided at half-cost to children from the families of fishermen, SCs and Antyodaya households, and at 25 per cent cost for those in the BPL category "to attain the goal of a laptop in all households".

The big-ticket announcement, however, is the move to set up a digital jobs platform. "We aim to utilise all the possibilities created by work near home and work from home. Opportunities will be created for companies to recruit employees for centralised or decentralised jobs. Details of those professionals and trained persons will be made available on a digital platform," Isaac said while presenting the Budget.

The government will also provide benefits to candidates selected by companies through this platform, he said. These include loans for equipment purchased by state-run financial institutions with government guarantees and work station facility on concessional rent.

PM to flag off 8 trains to boost connectivity to Statue of Unity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi will flag off eight trains connecting different regions of the country to Kevadiya, the area which has the Statue of Unity, on January 17.

Modi will also inaugurate several other projects related to the railways sector in Gujarat during

Kerala Finance Minister Thomas Isaac on his way to present the Budget. Express

The state government will also shoulder the social security liability of those being recruited through the platform, including the employer's contribution to the Provident Fund. "If PF is not preferred, insurance premium for termination benefit payable on retirement will be paid by the Government. Health insurance will be provided," Isaac said.

For this, the Minister said, the Kerala Development Innovation Strategy Council (K-DISC) will be restructured as a nodal agency for maintaining contact with firms providing jobs, imparting training to job-seekers depending on requirement, maintaining a platform for providing information, and encouraging innovation.

Around 500 post-doctoral fellowships with a monthly stipend of Rs 1 lakh will also be introduced, Isaac said.

The Budget has proposed a welfare fund for workers under the National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme. Another highlight of the Budget is the proposed mapping of atrocities against women in all local bodies.

Ex-Union minister Kamal Morarka dies at 74

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
JAIPUR, JANUARY 15

FORMER UNION minister and businessman Kamal Mahavirprasad Morarka died in Mumbai on Friday evening following a heart attack.

He was 74. "He was fine till around 5 pm today, but passed away shortly afterwards owing to a heart attack," said Rajendra Sharma, one of Morarka's aides.

Rajkumar Sharma, MLA from Nawalgarh in Rajasthan, tweeted, "Shocked at the demise of former Union Minister and famous industrialist of Nawalgarh, Shri Kamal Morarka ji. This is irreparable damage to all of us."

Morarka was incumbent president of Samajwadi Janata Party (Chandra Shekhar). He was elected to Rajya Sabha in 1988. In

KAMAL MAHAVIRPRASAD MORARKA 1946-2021

November 1990, he was appointed a Minister of State in the Prime Minister's office during the tenure of Chandra Shekhar - his mentor - as PM. His uncle RR Morarka was also an MP in the third Lok Sabha (1962) from Jhunjhunu.

Born and brought up in Mumbai, Morarka was always connected to Nawalgarh, the land of his ancestors, in Jhunjhunu district. In the early 1990s, Morarka set up the M R Morarka - GDC Rural Research Foundation in Nawalgarh, in memory of his father MR Morarka. The Foundation focuses on research and development to help farmers, including recycling of farm waste "through traditional and modern methods." Over the years, it has had a special focus on organic farming, and the development and promotion of Vermiculture Technology.

Morarka also served as Vice President of Rajasthan Cricket Association as well as the Vice President of Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

Morarka was also known for Left of Centre, a collection of his speeches in Parliament, on the significant events of the 1990s, including the Bofors scam, the liberalisation of the economy, the Babri Masjid demolition, the Harshad Mehta scam and more, while his wildlife photography was presented in a coffee table book Roar: A Walk Through The Wild With Kamal Morarka.

A man of many talents, Morarka was also the proprietor of Hindi daily Chauthi Duniya, among others.

He had last contested an election in 2016. In May 2016, Morarka had thrown his hat in the ring, as an independent candidate, on the last day of nominations for Rajya Sabha by-elections from Rajasthan. He was backed by Congress MLAs and other Opposition legislators. However, BJP candidate M Venkaiah Naidu, then a Union minister, as well as party leaders Om Prakash Mathur, Harshvardhan Singh of Durgapur royal family and retired RBI officer Ram Kumar Verma, had managed to win.

Morarka is survived by his wife and two daughters.

Army commander: Revocation of J&K special status helped restore faith in govt

ARUN SHARMA

UDHAMPUR, JANUARY 15

GENERAL OFFICER Commanding-in-Chief, Northern Command, Lieutenant General Y K Joshi on Friday said the government's move to revoke the special status of the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir had helped restore faith of the people in government institutions.

Speaking on the occasion of Army Day at an event in Udhampur, Lt Gen Joshi said, "The abrogation of Article 370 and improvement in governance thereof, has been a major game-changer and helped restore faith of the common people in the institutions of government." He added that the recently-held District Development Council elections in the UT of J&K "conveyed the resolve of the awaan (populace) to shun separatism and embrace democracy".

On August 5, 2019, the BJP-led Central government revoked the special status granted to the state of J&K under Article 370 of the Constitution and bifurcated the state into two Union Territories — J&K and Ladakh.

The government then moved to establish a three-tier Panchayati Raj system in J&K by holding DDC polls in the last quarter of 2020.

In his address, Lt Gen Joshi said the Army too had played a role in "creating an ecosystem and normalcy in which people can resume and live their lives normally" despite the Covid-19 pandemic. Pointing out that Operation Sadbhavana had been pivotal in providing job opportunities and education to the youth, he said, "We are making a lot of efforts to win over the youth by giving them better opportunities in education and employment."

Speaking of the challenges faced by troops of the Northern Command, Joshi said, "First, we have the Western adversary that is Pakistan and which has not yet relented from producing terror as an instrument of State policy. Second, we have Northern borders where we have seen Chinese belligerents along the LAC where they tried to alter the status quo and which has been contested with resolve and courage by the Indian Army; and third, the internal situation in J&K, which is stable now, but can flare up anytime."

On the situation at the LAC in Ladakh, he said, "I am extremely satisfied with all the actions the Northern Command has taken towards the end of August 29-30." He said the command is at a position of operational advantage, negotiating with China's PLA from a position of equivalence.

Army chief: No one should make mistake of testing India's patience

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

INA tough message to China amid the Ladakh standoff, Army chief General M M Naravane on Friday said no one should make any mistake of testing India's patience even as he asserted that a befitting response was given to the "conspiracy" of unilaterally changing the status quo along the northern frontier.

Gen Naravane, at the same time, said India is committed to resolve the over eight-month-long military standoff with China through talks.

In his address at the Army Day parade in Delhi Cantonment, Gen Naravane said the sacrifice of the "Galwan heroes" in eastern Ladakh in June last year will not go waste and that the Indian Army will not allow any harm to the country's sovereignty and security. "We are committed to resolve disputes through talks and political efforts but no one should make any mistake of testing our patience," he said in the presence of the country's top military brass including Chief of Defence Staff Gen Bipin Rawat, Navy Chief Admiral Karambir Singh and IAF Chief Air Chief Marshal RK S Bhaduria.

Referring to the situation along the Line of Control (LoC), Gen Naravane said Pakistan continues to shelter terrorists and 300 to 400 of them are waiting in training camps on the Pakistani side to infiltrate into India.

Gen Naravane also noted that eight rounds of military talks were held between India and China. "Our efforts will continue to find a solution to the current situation on the basis of mutual and equal security," he said.

13 dead after minibus collides with truck

DARSHAN DEVAIAH BP
DHARWAD, JANUARY 15

AT LEAST 13 people were killed and eight were injured after a minibus collided head-on with a truck on the Hubballi-Dharwad bypass road in north Karnataka on Friday morning, police said.

According to police, a group of 17 women — all of whom had studied at St Paul's Convent in Davangere — were travelling to Goa for a trip in the minibus.

"The tempo (minibus) had left Davangere at around 3 am. When it reached near Ittigatti cross, located about 8 km from Dharwad city, at around 7 am, it collided with a truck coming from the opposite direction," said an officer from Dharwad Rural Police.

"According to a preliminary investigation, all 17 women are classmates. They go for a trip every year. This year, they had planned to go to Goa and one among them was a doctor," police said later in the evening.

The drivers of both vehicles have also died, police said. The injured were shifted to a local hospital in Hubballi. Later in the evening, one of the injured passengers — a 47-year-old woman — was airlifted to Bengaluru. Speaking to The Indian Express, Dr Shalini Nalawad, founder-director of ICATT Air Ambulances said, the patient was admitted to Manipal Hospital in Bengaluru for further treatment. "The patient sustained head injuries, we were giving her constant care... Her condition is stable," she added.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa and Prime Minister Narendra took to Twitter to express grief over the incident.

In a tweet in Kannada, Yediyurappa expressed shock and grief over the tragedy and said officials had been asked to investigate the cause of the accident and submit a report soon.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi took to Twitter saying: "Saddened by the loss of lives due to a road accident in Karnataka's Dharwad district. In this sad hour, my thoughts are with the bereaved families. I pray for a quick recovery of those injured."

A case has been registered and further investigation is underway, police officials said.

Punjab announces aid after death of Special Olympian

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
LUDHIANA, CHANDIGARH, JAN 15

TWO DAYS after a double-gold medalist at the Special Olympics died of an illness waiting for a Rs 30 lakh cash reward promised by the then SAD-BJP government in 2015, the Congress dispensation on Friday announced Rs 5 lakh financial assistance for his family.

The announcement by Punjab Sports Minister Rana Gurmit Sodhi came on a day The Indian Express highlighted the plight of Rajvir Singh.

The 21-year-old Ludhiana youth had won two gold medals in cycling at Special Olympics in 2015 held at Los Angeles. He died due to a brain-related ailment at the Christian Medical College and Hospital (CMCH) Wednesday after being on ventilator support for nearly a month.

Rajvir Singh

In a statement, minister Sodhi said senior officials of the department have been asked to hand over the financial assistance to Rajvir's family.

In July 2020, Chief Minister Amarinder Singh, in a video message, had said that his government will help Rajvir and other Special Olympians waiting for their cash rewards. Sports officials revealed that so far, the government has not notified any policy to release pending cash rewards to Special Olympics medal-winners.

Rajvir's father Balbir Singh, who works as a labourer, said, "This money is now just paper for us. My son is dead. Had they given this money earlier, I might have saved my son".

Chit fund case: Wife of Rose Valley chief held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
KOLKATA, JANUARY 15

THE CBI's Economic Offences Wing arrested Subhra Kundu, wife of Rose Valley Group chairman Gautam Kundu, in Kolkata on Friday in connection with its probe into the multi-crore chit fund scam. The Enforcement Directorate, which had arrested Gautam in 2015, is also investigating the Rs 17,000-crore scam, said to be the biggest in Bengal.

According to sources, the CBI will take Subhra to a Bhubaneswar court on Saturday for transit remand. The case was registered in Odisha. The CBI arrested Subhra, who was wanted by the CBI and ED and did not reply to notices, after getting information that she was in her South Kolkata house.

The Rose Valley Group allegedly cheated thousands of depositors, promising abnormally high returns on investments in its illegal schemes. As per sources, Subhra is the director of two companies of Rose Valley Group. CBI officers said she could not give any satisfactory answer to bank transactions by these two companies. She is alleged to have siphoned crores, which were said to be proceeds of crime, and managed the Rose Valley Group companies after Gautam's arrest.

Several TMC leaders have been interrogated, arrested and jailed in connection with the case.

TMC leader Saugata Roy said about Subhra's arrest, "I don't want to give it much importance. Why did it take them so long to arrest her when Gautam Kundu was arrested long back?"

Sewage action plan: Himachal walks different path, despite Centre's push

KARISHMA MEHROTRA
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

IN WHAT appears to be a counter-intuitive outlier, Himachal Pradesh has proposed a sewage management action plan that contrasts models suggested by the central government and international consultancies. Despite a concerted four-year push from the Centre towards individual septic tank solutions, even in urban areas, the hill state plans to dig up more ground to enlarge its piped underground networks.

Himachal submitted its action plan this month to the Central Monitoring Committee (CMC), which is overseeing compliance to a set of National Green Tribunal orders to make sewage 100 per cent treated by March 2021.

Over the past four years, states have been nudged towards Faecal Sludge and Septage Management (FSSM) — on-site, decentralised solutions such as septic tanks — following a major push from the Centre which came out with a FSSM policy in 2017. In July last year, a National Mission for Clean Ganga webinar was also held for "mainstreaming" FSSM.

While states such as Odisha, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh,

EXPLAINED International agencies back FSSM

THE CENTRE'S push for FSSM follows arguments from major international agencies, such as the Asian Development Bank (ADB) and the Gates Foundation, which provide significant funding for these projects. They say centralised, large-scale sewerage systems are time-consuming, expensive, and environmentally-disruptive. A February 2020 ADB report pushes strongly for a decentralised solution for sewage and fecal sludge management.

Maharashtra and Andhra Pradesh have begun to lean towards FSSM in medium and small urban settings, others like Gujarat, West Bengal and Himachal have shown less inclination. Currently, the country has only 25 Faecal Sludge Treatment Plants (FSTPs), which treat sewage from septic tanks, but cities are building 400 more, according to a CMC report of September last year.

As the states begin to chart out their directions, Himachal is experiencing an acute urgency. In 2016, Shimla's insufficiently treated sewage in the Ashwani Khud river system led to a Hepatitis E outbreak, which causes jaundice. It affected more than half of the total families in the city in three months. "There is huge urgency. They have seen the implication of not doing this well," PwC urban infrastructure consultant Shivanshu Chauhan told The Indian Express.

Roughly 70 per cent of Himachal's 57 cities are connected to underground pipes and, to connect the remaining, the state plans to build 23 more sewage treatment plants and convert septic tank services into networks, said Naveen Puri, Himachal's Engineer-in-chief in Jal Shakti Abhiyan.

When asked about the decision, AMRUT Joint Secretary D Thara said: "In a hilly state... FSTP is good enough to immediately deal with the problem. Septage is a good idea." He said ultimately the decision is the state's and the Centre plays a "supportive" role.

Along with Atal Mission for Rejuvenation and Urban Transformation or AMRUT, after a declared-achievement of open-defecation free (ODF), government sources said decentralised sewage management in ODF++ will be of high priority in the next phase of the Swachh Bharat Mission-Urban. In the 2020 Swachh Survekshan ranking, an FSSM action plan gives an urban local body 40 marks and over 95 per cent on-site sanitation coverage gives 80 marks.

While Himachal may seem like an obvious site for decentralised sewage systems, engineers in the state cited major difficulties in convincing private actors to traverse the hills for de-sludging septic tanks. "Along with the Centre, Niti Aayog also said carry sewage from septic tanks to the plant. But in Himachal, we studied it, it is not possible here," Puri said. Another chief engineer, Sushel Justa, said mismanaged septic tanks have continuously leaked, contaminating the water table.

Abhishek Akhilesh, a KPMG executive who works with Urban Affairs Ministry, said: "Himachal is a bit of a unique case... Given the gradient, getting these low-powered trucks to de-sludge when they are filled with two tons of waste is difficult." However, underground is not a "panacea" either, he said, for the same gradient concerns will require more costly, pressurised sewer lines.

UP: BJP fields ex-IAS officer AK Sharma in MLC polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
LUCKNOW, JANUARY 15

THE BJP on Friday nominated former Gujarat cadre IAS officer Arvind Kumar Sharma as a candidate for the Uttar Pradesh Legislative Council polls, a day after he joined the party.

Sharma recently took voluntary retirement as the secretary of the Union Ministry of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises. He has worked closely with Prime Minister Narendra Modi for about 20 years.

Besides Sharma, the saffron party also declared the candidatures of Deputy Chief Minister Dinesh Sharma, state unit president Swatantra Dev Singh and state BJP vice-president Laxman Acharya.

The elections for the 12 MLC seats will be held on January 28. The nomination process has already started. The 12 outgoing MLCs include Dinesh Sharma, Swatantra Dev Singh and Laxman Prasad Acharya. The seat of former Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) leader Nasimuddin Siddiqui is vacant due to his disqualification after he switched to the Congress.

UN representative: India doesn't properly protect human rights defenders

ARANYA SHANKAR
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

UNITED NATIONS Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights defenders Mary Lawlor Friday said India does not "properly protect human rights defenders".

She also said she had written to the government in November, "raising concerns" over Jesuit priest Stan Swamy's arrest in connection with the Bhima Koregaon case, but had not yet received a response. Lawlor was speaking at an online event marking 100 days of Swamy's incarceration.

"India is a state which doesn't properly protect human rights defenders. I am appalled by the treatment of human rights defenders such as Father Stan Swamy who embodies solidarity," she said.

"It's clear that there are severe challenges to promoting and protecting human rights in the country. Make no mistake, the state is responsible for protection of human rights defenders," she added.

Lawlor criticised the UAPA, saying its "definition of a terrorist act is not precise or clear, and fails to provide legal certainty". She also said the law has led to a "highly concerning conflation of human rights advocacy with terrorism". "In November 2020, I sent a letter to Indian government raising concerns about arrest. Governments are given a 60-day period during which they are expected to reply... But I am still to receive a response from the Indian authorities," she said.

Advocacy rights activist Xavier Dias, who worked closely with Swamy, said what happened was "very unfortunate, unfair and unjust".

Delhi University professor Apoorvanand moderated the discussion.

Dancer and activist Mallika Sarabhai performed to Maya Angelou's poem Still I Rise and said Swamy was "a person who has done extraordinary work for the poorest and the most marginalised".

A sipper bearing the photo of Swamy along with the hashtag "releasefrstan" was released on the occasion — Swamy was prohibited from accessing his sipper for a long time by jail authorities.

CBI says 4 of its officials got Rs 50 lakh in bribes for leaking info to 2 firms

DEEPTIMAN TIWARY
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

FOUR CBI officials, who had been raided by the agency on Thursday for alleged corruption, had allegedly received more than Rs 50 lakh from two companies under probe for bank loan fraud for allegedly leaking crucial case information to office-bearers of the two firms.

The four officials — Dy SPs R K Sangwan and R K Rishi, Inspector Kapil Dhankand and steno Sameer Kumar Singh — have been booked under various sections of the Prevention of Corruption Act (PC Act) and the IPC.

According to CBI, these officials were sharing information about cases against Shree Shyam Pulp & Board Mills Pvt Ltd and Frost International in exchange for bribes.

The agency has also booked office-bearers of these companies, including Sujay and Uday Desai, both directors in Frost International, and Mandeep Kaur Dhillion, additional director in Shree Shyam Pulp. Apart from this, two lawyers, Arvind Kumar Gupta and Manohar Malik, have also been booked for allegedly bribing the officials.

According to CBI, in the case of Shree Shyam Pulp, Dy SP R K Sangwan, who was once the investigating officer of the case, "paid a bribe of Rs 10 lakh in cash on behalf of Ms Mandeep Kaur Dhillion to (inspector) Kapil Dhankand". In return, CBI has alleged, Dhankand conveyed confidential information relating to the investigation to Sangwan "with an intention to favour the accused". CBI has alleged that Dhankand also received a bribe of Rs Rs 10 lakh from Dy SP Rishi who made this payment on behalf of Desais of Frost International.

"Further, it is reliably learnt that Shri R K Rishi, DSP received Rs 15 lakhs twice through two advocates namely Shri Manohar Malik and Shri Arvind Gupta (having office in Defence Colony) to extend favors to a Chandigarh based company against which a corruption case was being investigated by CBI. In this matter, Shri Kapil Dhankand twice received Rs 2.5 lakhs from Shri Arvind Gupta for having brokered the deal through Shri R K Rishi," the CBI FIR said.

"It has also been reliably learnt that the details of the investigation of many other cases including confidential notes and directions have been communicated by Shri Sameer Kumar Singh, Steno, to Shri R K Sangwan and Shri R K Rishi on pecuniary considerations to protect the interests of the accused," the FIR added.

The agency had on Thursday raided its own headquarters apart from 14 other locations across the country in connection with the case.

East Coast Rly withdraws order to hire bungalow peons on contract

AVISHEK G DASTIDAR
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

A ZONAL railway has withdrawn a recent policy order, which sought to deploy bungalow peons for officers through contractual manpower, after the Railway Ministry intervened and clarified that zones cannot do so.

The Odisha-based East Coast Railway had issued a policy order earlier this month that said if options of appointing bungalow peons from available staff strength does not work out, the railway can outsource the job by hiring manpower on contract to work at the homes of officers.

This came a month after the Railway Ministry issued the new central policy governing engagement of Telephone Attendant cum Dak Khalasi (TADK) or bungalow peons. It said that bungalow peons are to be appointed from available railway staff in Level 1 category and officers could no longer recruit fresh candidates. This effectively put a stop on the 100-year-old policy of bungalow peons, officers said, citing the fact that it is not feasible to take Level-1 (Group D) staff from existing departments and deploy them at homes, considering there is hardly any manpower to spare.

In the earlier system, officers could choose to engage anyone to work as TADK and after three years, the TADK was formally absorbed as a Railway employee following due processes.

However, TADK continues to be an entitlement and, according to officials, at least 30 officers in East Coast Railways are currently waiting for a policy clarity to deploy bungalow peons at their homes. Several such cases are across all zonal railways. The now-withdrawn order, issued with the approval of the zonal General Manager, came in that context.

ED questions Khadse over 2016 land deal

Mumbai: NCP leader Eknath Khadse was questioned for more than six hours by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) at its office in Mumbai's Ballard Pier on Friday in connection with a 2016 land deal in Pune. Khadse, who arrived at the ED office around 11 am and left at 5.30 pm, told mediapersons: "They asked questions and I tried to give answers. Whatever documents or information they need, I will provide, and will appear before them again whenever they ask." Khadse (68), who quit the BJP and joined the NCP last October, was summoned by the ED on December 30, 2020, in connection to the case. But he skipped appearance on the ground that he was quarantined due to Covid-19, and was given more time. Khadse had resigned from then Devendra Fadnis-led Cabinet in 2016 after facing allegations that he misused his official powers to facilitate the purchase of government land in Bhosari near Pune by his family. BECAUSE THE TRUTH INVOLVES US ALL

WITH HOPE

Vaccination Day marks a nation's gratitude to its Covid warriors—and opens a new chapter of hope with caution

A NEW CHAPTER in the country's battle against the novel coronavirus will open today when Prime Minister Narendra Modi launches the anti-COVID vaccination drive across more than 3,000 sites. If things go according to plan, by July-end, 30 crore people will have received shots against the contagion that has taken more than 1.5 lakh lives in the country. For a pandemic weary population, for an economy desperate for green shoots of revival and for a healthcare system stretched to its limits, this drive offers hope. The speed at which the vaccines were developed and rolled out is a remarkable achievement for the country's scientific, regulatory and administrative establishment. More so when it comes as the COVID curve bends reassuringly. It is also appropriate that the first ones in the vaccine line are the brave women and men—doctors, health workers, paramedics—who fought the pandemic at the frontlines and many of them watched their colleagues die. January 16, therefore, is also a day for the nation to express its gratitude.

At the beginning of the pandemic early last year, the most optimistic projections were of a vaccine by the middle of 2021. The rolling out of the preventives in record time was facilitated by compressed schedules and regulatory procedures tailored for an emergency. Though the safety of the vaccines seems assured, more will be known about their efficacy in the time to come. Even as the first vials are being rolled out, scientists are trying to understand how long do these confer immunity. Work is on in laboratories to ascertain the efficacy of the shots in preventing infection amongst the elderly and studies are being conducted about the percentage of the population that needs to be inoculated for developing herd immunity. The Bharat Biotech vaccine will be used in clinical trial mode so extra care and caution will be needed. At the same time, the fact that more vaccines are up for regulatory approval means that a stronger shield against the virus is not far away.

Vaccines are work in progress—the first shots mark the beginning of the end of the scourge but the recovery is likely to be long-drawn. The COVID curve has a nasty trend of turning again, juries are out on the new strains and supplies are still way below the numbers needed for herd immunity. Vaccinators will educate the recipients about the working of the vaccines and their possible side-effects. A monitoring system is in place to report adverse effects. These should be the first steps in building public trust in the vaccines. There are likely to be more challenges on this front as public discourse on the inoculation drive takes off. The coming months could pose public communication challenges for the government and health authorities—as much they will place demands on the logistical and scientific fronts. All involved must follow the science—staying masked and socially distanced.

AFTER IMPEACHMENT

Trumpism remains. America needs a deeper reckoning with the weaknesses and cleavages that Trump exploited

OUTGOING US PRESIDENT Donald Trump must take a large share of the responsibility and blame for the violence unleashed by the mob at the Capitol in Washington DC on January 6. He continues to deny that he has lost the presidential election and directly incited his supporters on the day Joe Biden's victory was to be officially confirmed by Congress. As such, the US Congress's decision to serve him with Articles of Impeachment—for an unprecedented second time in as many years—is an important moment. At least 10 Republicans in Congress broke ranks and voted for impeachment. While his trial in the Senate may not conclude before he demits office on January 20—the Republican-majority upper house meets for a full session only from January 19—the impeachment carries great symbolic value. However, the focus on Trump and the impeachment must not distract the world's oldest democracy from a reckoning with the deeper, systemic issues that led up to the Capitol siege.

The complications and failures of political parties, institutions of state and American civil society in the face of the Trump disruption cannot be brushed under the carpet once he demits office. The Republicans supported a leader who lied repeatedly, often ruled by executive fiat, undermined institutions at home and did his best to dismantle the US's role and commitments in the international arena. The role of law enforcement agencies in the attack on the Capitol stands in sharp contrast to the way they dealt with the Black Lives Matter protests—some policemen were seen taking selfies with those who stormed the legislature on January 6. The role of social media, which amplified Trump's voice and where algorithms reward controversy and encourage polarisation, must also be examined.

The charge against Trump is "inciting an insurrection", but the conditions that made that incitement possible will not disappear without serious work and dialogue, in society and politics. The US, which has often sought to "export" democracy and lectured others on the merits of a liberal order, must realise now that democracy is not just hard won but also hard maintained. And it must face the fact that the divisiveness that Trump exploited is embedded deeply in American society and politics. In 2008, when Barack Obama was elected, there was a feeling in the US that America had turned the corner on racism. That, as the White supremacist crowd at the Capitol showed, was not the case. It would be a mistake to think that Trump's loss—or even his impeachment—alone can address Trumpism, that toxic mix of populism, executive high-handedness, and bigotry.

HAPPILY UNMARRIED

Seoul advisory to pregnant women illustrates why South Korean women have been walking away from motherhood

IT'S A TRUTH not acknowledged enough that a woman—single, married or pregnant—is always in possession of a surfeit of useless advice. Seoul city authorities, however, have come up with a category of counsel that can only be described as: How not to inconvenience your husband as you struggle with the minor matter of childbirth. The advisory aimed at pregnant women asks them, among other things, not to look dishevelled as they cook meals for their husbands, clean out the fridge, make sure there is enough toilet paper in the house, and arrange for childcare if they have other children—all this, before they admit themselves to the hospital.

This remarkable piece of condescension was crafted in 2019, but its rediscovery on social media has led to an uproar, followed by demands for an apology. It comes at a time when South Korea is grappling with a declining population and falling birth rates—in 2020, for the first time, the number of deaths in the country outstripped births. For the fourth-largest economy in Asia, this is a crisis—and it hopes to prod women into having more children through public campaigns and generous parental leave policies. The women have other battles to fight. South Korea's gender pay gap is one of the largest among 37 countries of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development. Professional mobility is difficult given the entrenched sexism in corporate life. A growing feminist movement has led to a sharp questioning of the inequalities of marriage in a deeply patriarchal society. As a result, motherhood and the "second shift" it entails is not high on women's agenda: The number of South Korean women who believe they need to marry fell to 44 per cent in 2018 from 62 per cent in 2008.

In a world not run by patriarchal values, motherhood and marriage could arguably be hard to sell to women, given the cost on their lives and bodies. The Seoul city authorities' vision of domestic slavery in the service of entitled men illustrates precisely why South Korean women are running away from its tyranny.

K SRINATH REDDY

HOW LONG WILL the immunity conferred by the COVID-19 vaccine last? Will the immune response be strong in all persons who receive it? These are frequently asked questions, as vaccines are set to roll out in India. The answers provided, be they six months or two years, assume that the strength and duration of the vaccine response are entirely dependent on the vaccine, without taking into account the age, nutritional status or pre-existing health conditions in the person receiving the vaccine.

Ignoring nutrition as an important influencer of both natural or innate immunity and acquired or adaptive immunity developed in response to infection or a vaccine, has consequences. It does not usually influence the decision to immunise but ignoring this aspect leads to neglect of nutrition in both public health policy and clinical practice.

A vaccine only provides the antigenic stimulus for the body to react. How capably the body reacts is considerably influenced by the nutritional status and will vary among individuals. Different facets of nutrition influence this response. The diet may be deficient in vital nutrients needed for a robust immune response. It may have elements that stoke high levels of inflammation in the body, consuming the building blocks of immunity which could be better utilised for the adaptive response to the vaccine. These effects are very likely if the diet has a high content of ultra-processed foods. The diet may also adversely affect the composition of our gut microbiome which, with its trillions of bacteria, is turning out to be an important influencer of our immunity. The healthy microbiome thrives on plant sourced soluble fibre in the diet and is destabilised by excessive sugar, trans fats, red and processed meats, alcohol and tobacco.

Studies on the immune response to several vaccines, ranging from polio and cholera to rotavirus, have revealed that deficiencies of several key nutrients adversely affect the strength of the immune response. Dietary protein deficiency is an obvious culprit, as antibodies are proteins too. Zinc and selenium are important minerals that have been shown to potentiate vaccine efficacy, apart from enhancing natural (innate) immunity. Vitamin E, too, has been proposed as a nutrient that enhances the immune response to a vaccine.

Vaccine plus

Nutrition is an important influencer of immunity. Vaccine efficacy needs a nutrition booster too

It is not just the antibody levels that are influenced by nutrition. The more durable component of the body's immune response, cellular immunity, is affected by nutrition. In 2006, Japanese researchers reported that mice fed a diet with 5 per cent casein (milk protein) had lower T cell counts than mice fed 20 per cent milk protein. Production of interleukin-2, an important component of the chemical ammunition in the body's response, was lower among the CD4+ T cells in the low protein diet group. The researchers concluded that "in addition to development of an effective DNA vaccine, the management of the nutritional state is important for the prevention of infectious disease by DNA vaccination."

A double blind, placebo controlled clinical trial in France revealed that elderly persons living in a care home developed more antibodies and fewer respiratory infections, when compared to a similar group that did not receive these supplements. The immune system needs these two minerals for a strong response against viral infections. That is true for both natural immunity and for the immune response to an administered vaccine.

It is not necessary to supplement these nutrients along with the administration of the vaccine. That would not be possible in a mass immunisation programme, though nutrition counselling may be provided along with the vaccination during the post-injection observation period. What is needed is a reconsideration of policies that influence our agricultural priorities and shape our food systems. Enabling people to consume healthy diets will boost natural immunity that can fight off microbial infection and also to build a robust immune response when stimulated by a vaccine.

Are our agriculture and food systems presently configured to do that? Sadly not. We are presently offering cereals stripped of fibre and ultra-processed foods without adequate and affordable supply of pulses, millets, fruit, vegetables, nuts and fish which can provide us much needed proteins, vitamins, minerals and fibre. Even eggs are being removed from school mid-day meal menus in some states, despite their being power packed with the nutrients needed for immunity.

The impact of climate change also needs to be considered as we examine the future of food systems and nutrition in our country. A study from Columbia University (Data Science Institute, 2018) estimates the impact that climate change would have on India, by 2050. The nutrient quality of staples would decrease, according to the study. It projects that global warming would result in 49.6 million new zinc deficient persons, 38.2 million new protein deficient persons, apart from 106.1 million children and 396 million women who would be iron deficient. It concludes that diversifying crop production, replacing some part of rice cultivation with millets and sorghum, would make India's food supply more nutritious, while reducing irrigation demand, energy use and greenhouse gas emission. "Such diversification of crops would also enhance India's climate resilience without reducing calorie production or requiring more land", the study concludes.

Even as we prepare to immunise our many millions, the big challenge of public health nutrition remains the production of easily available and affordable food sources which enable people to consume balanced diets which are physiologically suited to growth and good health across a long life course. These diets should also be predominantly plant-based, making them both nutritionally appropriate and ecologically sustainable. Ultra-processed foods should be regulated and taxed to decrease their production, promotion and consumption. These steps are not only good for human nutrition but also for reducing the risk of zoonotic infections by maintaining an ecological balance. The bonus is a benefit in slowing down climate change. Our protection does not lie only at the tip of a needle that injects the vaccine but even more so in the policies that determine what fills our plate when we eat.

IN AN unprecedented step, India will not print the annual budget documents as has been the case since the first budget was presented on November 26, 1947. This considered decision was taken in the light of COVID-19 constraints, since printing such documents entails keeping 100 officials in isolation in cramped conditions in North Block for almost a fortnight. This is a prudent and commendable decision. Bravo.

Extrapolating from this departure from traditional practice, there is a compelling case to review the Republic Day parade (January 26) and consider deferring this grand annual spectacle for reasons that could be clustered as "COVID plus". The parade has already been trimmed and will now terminate at India Gate instead of the Red Fort. Further, the number of personnel in a marching contingent has been reduced from 144 to 96 and to ensure appropriate social distancing, only 25,000 visitors will be permitted. Anxiety about COVID-19 and the increased footprint due to the new variant has already led to UK Prime Minister Boris Johnson cancelling his own participation as the chief guest. Hence, the 2021 parade will be further trimmed.

Given these developments, it is opportune to review the Republic Day parade and its symbolism. Public health regulations and COVID-19 precautions indicate that preparation for the parade and the conduct of this grand event will increase the probability of the virus spreading. This is an empirical reality.

REVIEW THE PARADE

Covid, financial considerations call for reconsideration of this year's R-Day spectacle

The day is special for both the country and its citizens, as are all national days the world over. But should the world's largest democracy continue to 'celebrate' its sovereignty and commitment to the letter and spirit of the Constitution by this marked emphasis on its military capability? This is an issue that merits informed and objective debate both within Parliament and among citizens for there will be many views on this subject.

who arrived in Delhi for the parade tested positive for the virus and were swiftly quarantined. Luckily, no further cases have been reported. However, bringing the marching contingents, state tableaux and 25,000 invitees together for a four-hour public, open-air event (even if they are all masked) may not be as prudent, for the likelihood of exposure leading to COVID-19 infections is certain. Is this desirable?

The 2021 parade is standalone but there are two other elements about continuing with the parade that warrant a wider debate. The first is the symbolism of the parade and what it represents. There is little doubt that for pageantry, colour and spectacle, the Republic Day parade is distinctive and has earned high praise globally for how it is conducted. India adopted its Constitution on this day in January 1950 and became a sovereign republic, thereby shedding the last formal colonial links.

The day is special for both the country and its citizens, as are all national days the world over. But should the world's largest democracy continue to "celebrate" its sovereignty and commitment to the letter and spirit of the Constitution by this marked emphasis on its military capability? This is an issue that merits informed and objective debate both within Parliament and among citizens for there will be many views on this subject.

The parade is an expensive event and some numbers are instructive. Preparation for the parade begins months in advance and entails expenditure by the Centre and state governments. It is a complex budgetary exercise to arrive at a consolidated figure but some strands provide a ballpark figure. An RTI query elicited the following expenditure incurred by the central government on the parade: It increased from Rs 145 crore in 2001 to Rs 320 crore in 2014 and this does not include components such as VIP security arrangements, traffic diversions, etc. One may conjecture that the corresponding figure for the 2020 parade may be closer to Rs 500 crore.

At a time when the government coffers are severely strained due to COVID-19 and the defence ministry is seeking innovative ways to "tighten the belt" of the "fauj", any fiscal saving ought to be given due consideration and Rs 500 crore is not insignificant. To place this in context, India has 33 Sainik Schools that train young boys for the military and the first schools began in 1960-61. Thousands of these children became officers and did the nation proud. Alas, some of these schools are now likely to shut down (for example, Kazhakkootam, Kerala) since funds as modest as Rs 6 crore are not available.

The limited suggestion is to defer the parade this year and deliberate on its continuation in the course of the year. Perhaps, a parade every 10 years? The next one when the republic is 80? And in the interim, use the funds saved to school the next generation to defend the country and the flag.

STRONG HAND IN ASSAM THE GOVERNMENT MAY reach for more repressive measures to counter the agitation in Assam because of the impression that the use of force has begun to pay. Home Minister Zail Singh has confided in many people that the agitation is petering out. The Congress (I) pamphlet on the one year rule of Mrs Gandhi has also indicated that the methods used have contained the movement. There is an increasing feeling among the government that the agitation would not have continued this long had the protesters been dealt with a firm hand. The government is quite convinced that a strong hand against the protesters will bring the student leaders to the negotiating table.

JANATA MERGER STALLED THE JANATA (S) merger with the Janata Party is not likely to come about. The proposed merger is doubtful because of the attitude of Raj Narain, the head of Janata (S) who was a strong votary of the move in the first place and had worked hard for the purpose. According to Janata Party sources, he has broken his understanding with the Janata Party President Chandrashekar. The Janata Party President had persuaded Raj Narain to retire from politics and let his party men join the Janata Party where the senior members would be given due position. Narain now refuses to retire.

UK CITIZENSHIP ROW THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT'S new nationality bill has created dissatisfaction amongst immigrant communities, especially Asians despite the Home Office's assurance that it would stand by those who are entitled to British citizenship. The Home Office has said there is no question of going back on the assurances to those who have been allowed to stay according to the voucher scheme. However, representatives of people originally from the Subcontinent say that they do not know where they stand with respect to citizenship.

Is India nearing herd immunity?

Only India stands out with a flattening curve among those that had earlier experienced an explosion of infections

SURJIT S BHALLA AND KARAN BHASIN

IT IS ALMOST a year since the virus first appeared outside of China. There have been several false alarms about the end of the virus; it is still ongoing, and in most parts of the world, the second leg of the virus (post July 2020), has been worse than the first. There is relief on the way — vaccines have been developed and are being distributed, and maybe the world returns to normalcy in mid-2021.

Economists (and policymakers) like natural experiments and plenty have been on offer. For the first time in world history, countries went into lockdowns as a deliberate strategy to counter the virus. The strategy emerged from the very place from where the virus first appeared — Wuhan, China. As many countries closed shop, the spread of the virus was arrested, but only temporarily, as it now appears.

A study of the evolution of the virus suggests the following sets of conclusions. First, like Joan Robinson said in another context, for everything that can be said about the virus, the opposite is also true. Lockdowns work — and they don't. If they worked was the conventional conclusion (and there are many who still believe that lockdowns are "efficient" in controlling infections) then how does one explain the intensity and magnitude of the spread post the lockdown? What ex-ante theory of lockdowns expected/stated/believed that post the lockdown, there would be many cases, let alone that the cases would be far higher than during lockdowns?

But what one can explain is the answer of the faithful. The answer is simple and straightforward — the lockdowns were lifted too early, the infection had not died out, and hence the explosion in cases (and deaths). There will be time to analyse this proposition in some detail — but, for the moment, this defence is as close to circular reasoning as you can get. By this "logic", if the virus did not re-emerge (as in New Zealand, Taiwan, or Thailand), the timing of lockdown-lift was perfect. If it did re-emerge (as in most of Western Europe and the US — see table), then "obviously" it is the case that the lockdown-lift came too early.

The data does yield (ex-post) some non-nihilist conclusions. There is a common pattern to the success stories. Some of them employed a lockdown — but all the success stories involved a version of the 3-T policy. Testing, Tracing and Treatment. The 3-Ts policy is based on governments ramping up testing capabilities to identify those that are COVID-19 positive and isolating them to prevent the spread of the disease; next, tracing everyone who came in contact with those who had tested positive; testing the contacts; and then treating those that tested positive using different clinical protocols.

That lockdown is not a necessary condition for victory is emphatically supported by the fact that more than a 100 countries practised lockdowns at one time or another, and less than a dozen succeeded. But all countries that did succeed also practised ancient wisdom as embedded in the 3-T policy. This fact deserves emphasis. The world has endured many viruses, many contagions. Check your history books — no region/country practised a lockdown prior to 2020. Should one believe, therefore, that all other viruses were less contagious? The US strategy of confronting the 1957-58 flu is discussed in Lockdowns and Closures vs COVID-19: COVID Wins (available at <http://ssbhalla.org/wp-content/uploads/2020/10/Lockdowns-Closures-vs.-COVID19-Covid-Wins-Nov-4.pdf>) and should be required reading for lockdown and other experts. The US had a version of the common flu much worse than any experienced before, or since. Yet the US authorities, under the able leadership of D A Henderson, faced the flu without lockdowns. What was the strategy employed? The same as that practised with all infectious diseases for centuries — attempt to isolate, and social distance from the patient. In the 1957-58 flu, some schools were closed, others remained open; ditto with workplaces; but emphatically no lockdown. The 3-T is a modern version of the same.

The table reports the data on COVID infections and deaths for several regions of the world (and selected countries). The data are presented for three dates — end-June, end-September, and January 11, 2021. The reader can peruse the comparisons at leisure, but we will discuss the India pattern in September and now. End September was the time when there was great worry; experts and the media were obsessed with India's bad virus "performance", and theories were developed as to how India could not do much right. No one (or very few) were predicting what actually transpired. End September, the Indian average (cases per million) was 4,712 — almost identical to the world average (4,486) and the average of Middle East and North Africa (MENA). As of January 11, MENA and the world are close together (12,398 and 12,526), but India is one-third lower.

The deaths per million evolution is like cases, but there is a noticeable difference. Deaths are considerably lower in India — only 113 per million versus 271 per million for the world and 274 for MENA. Note the very low value of deaths in sub-Saharan Africa and in East Asia. Two broad conclusions follow, but also need a follow-up. First, poorer countries seem to have been affected less adversely than the richer, more advanced economies. One suggested explanation (possibility) is that poorer countries have had to live longer with diseases (and bad sanitation) and, therefore, have developed some immunity which make them less prone to infections, ceteris paribus. Second, East Asia has a very low incidence of COVID-19, even after excluding China. One possible explanation is that this region has had greater experience with flu (for example, the avian flu).

One additional note about the continuing march towards herd immunity in India. In a paper presented at IRADE in December, we made a forecast of the "end" of COVID in India — we had said 12 million infections and the end sometime in April. Our forecast for India as of today — 10.5 million infections and the end sometime in May-June. Based on the available state-level data, some states in India have already achieved herd immunity while other states are catching up. States like Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Jammu and Kashmir, Jharkhand and Goa have seen flattening; others like Karnataka, Maharashtra, are catching up.

One final note: Can we infer from these data that India might be approaching herd immunity, and doing so before vaccines are widely available? The many East Asian economies that have succeeded (for example, Vietnam, Taiwan, Cambodia, Laos, China etc.) did so by controlling infections at an early stage, that is, infections were never large enough to warrant a relationship with herd immunity. Ditto the case with regions in sub-Saharan Africa. Only India stands out with a flattening curve among those that had earlier experienced an explosion of infections. The extraordinary decline of COVID-19 cases (and deaths) in India is an issue, like lockdowns, deserving of a more detailed study.

Legal action against Scihub and Libgen frames problem of control and governance of knowledge in a globalised world

ARINDAM BANERJEE AND TANUJA KOTHIYAL

THE RECENT LITIGATIONS against Scihub and Libgen by Elsevier, Wiley and ACS bring us to a moment of many realisations about control and governance of knowledge in academia. In the latter half of the 20th century, globalisation led to the imperative of applying "global" standards to higher education. As global standards have been unofficially understood as the prevailing practices in American and European institutions, this has posed a serious dilemma for institutions in the global south.

Such parameters are often not compatible with the educational systems that have historically evolved in countries like India, with a colonial past and a persisting "non-industrial" present. Precise point-based measurements currently applied to measure knowledge production appear to be misplaced in knowledge ecosystems of the global south. Moreover, the larger question, whether such precise measurements, akin to parameters measuring industrial productivity, help in assessing the relevance of knowledge created and disseminated in any societal context, including those with an industrial culture like in Europe and America, remains unanswered.

In India, UGC has been the regulatory body responsible for maintaining standards in higher education, while addressing challenges of globalisation. Processes of UGC mandated "standardisation" have in particular impacted social sciences and humanities research in Indian universities. Over the years, UGC has linked institutional funding to ranking and accreditation systems like NAAC and NIRF. In order to evaluate institutions, these bodies have evolved "objective" criteria, which rank universities based on faculty research measured by citations in global journal databases like SCOPUS. Even for faculty promotions and eligibility for research supervision, it is articles published in such databases that are considered valid. In comparison, importance granted to research outputs like books or other forms is declining.

The insistence of publication in journals fails to distinguish between the varied trajectory of disciplines. It is more of an imposition of STEM (science, technology, engineering and management) criteria on social sciences and humanities. While in STEM disciplines, research is often highly objective and quantified, and conclusions can be published more easily as reports, short studies or articles, in social sciences and humanities research is subjective, analytical and argumentative. Within social sciences, too, there are some disciplines like economics where research methods can possibly be more empirical and quantitative. On the other hand, in disciplines like history, sociology, politics, philosophy, psychology and literature, researchers spend years writing books that engage with ideas in complex ways. The same is always not possible in a series of articles published over years. In devaluing books as authentic forms of research, UGC does major disservice to doyens of social sciences and humanities whose globally acclaimed books have contributed significantly to knowledge building. Tyranny of "peer review" is another phenomenon that haunts scholars. Since continuous production and publication has become necessary for professional growth, teachers spend most of their productive time writing articles and getting them published, thereby missing out on quality engagement with pedagogy and research. This has led to a surfeit of articles on any possible subject competing with each other for citations. Moreover, with long review processes associated with journal articles, it is not really as efficient a measure of research output as is claimed.

While professional growth in universities bases itself on quantified indices, the process of peer review itself is subjective, and depends upon the knowledge, inclination and availability of time of the particular reviewer. It is not unheard of getting two opposite reviews for the same article, sometimes even expecting an author to revise the entire argument that she may be making. Researchers in interdisciplinary areas face even greater challenges as their reviewers might come from conventional fields.

It is often quite challenging for scholars to meet peer-review standards of A-listed journals. This has actually required the UGC to expand its own list, ending up including and subsequently deleting a large number of locally published journals. Further, the ghettoisation of research in paywalled journal databases makes research inaccessible for students as universities continue to cut down library budgets. Students and teachers, access articles through pirated sites like Libgen and Scihub, prone to be shut down at any point of time as evident from the litigations. Clearly, access to knowledge is structurally made inequitable in favour of the elite and/or moneyed institutions and their constituents.

To be sure, when we ideate about the outcome of research, it is not simply a case of books versus articles. The above arguments maintain for the possible multiplicity that can emerge as the end-result of research. There are those seminal journal articles that are profusely cited for decades and there are exceptional books that have survived centuries of ideation. In addition, interdisciplinary and practice-based research can throw up social and ecological experiments, artworks and performances, and numerous new outcomes yet to be conceived as research outputs. Any straight-jacketed emphasis on particular forms of research outcomes misses out on the very essence of research, particularly in social sciences and humanities, that is a rich and complex engagement of the human mind with the world around.

There is no doubt that Indian higher education requires reforms, but the latter need to be cognisant of the reality of higher education in India. While the UGC hopes to raise the standards to global levels, precarity of employment, longer teaching hours, a dismal student-teacher ratio, lack of sabbaticals, research and travel grants, access to research facilities and office space, adversely impact the research potential of teachers. "Regulating" research needs to be replaced with "facilitating" research, allowing minds to think and gestate. Unfortunately, in the era of the hegemony of finance capital, governments globally are under pressure to cut back on expenditure on public institutions, including educational. Regulations without facilitation will merely bureaucratise the governance of knowledge without generating any pathbreaking insights.

A way out for the bank

Budget must take steps towards privatising ownership of public sector banks

RECENT REPORTS SUGGEST that the upcoming budget may include proposals for a Bank Investment Company (BIC), anchoring the government's shareholding in its banks. With a predominantly bank-led growth strategy, banks face the daunting task of managing the pandemic's impact on their balance sheets while spearheading the country's economic recovery. A bulk of the responsibility will fall on public sector banks (PSBs) which dominate the banking sector.

A fiscally constrained government, therefore, appears to be looking at alternatives to reduce its burden as the spectre of another capital infusion looms — the gross non-performing assets (GNPAs) of PSBs are projected to increase to 16.2 per cent in the July-September quarter, in a baseline scenario, up from 9.7 per cent in the same period last year, with likely implications for capital adequacy. Moreover, the efficacy of recapitalisation of banks by the government is also under scrutiny. Despite capital infusion of nearly Rs 3.1 lakh crore from 2015-16 to 2019-20, PSBs have continued to underperform. The Comptroller and Auditor General (CAG) has sought details on bank recapitalisation since 2016-17, including the basis for distribution of capital among banks and the impact on their performance.

The BIC was proposed by the P J Nayak Committee constituted by the RBI in 2014 to examine governance at public and private sector banks. The committee observed that if the PSBs continue to be governed badly, recapitalisation would only impose significant fiscal costs without the corresponding benefits to its principal shareholder — the government. It offered two options — privatisation or a complete overhaul of bank governance. The latter is envisaged in the form of a gradual disassociation of the government from the operations, management and governance of PSBs. This would unfold over a three-stage process to ensure that the boards of public sector banks are independently and professionally managed so as to generate returns to reduce claims on the exchequer. Once the boards of public sector banks are reconstituted on professional lines, in later stages, the committee envisaged that the BIC owner would transform from an owner to an investor whose primary responsibility would be to protect the government's financial investment in the banks by raising the returns to the government. The BIC is, therefore, a welcome step in as much as it signals the government's intent to pursue reforms to improve the governance and performance of PSBs.

However, the details will matter. The ownership and governance of the BIC itself will be crucial — it will need to be allowed to garner the requisite talent and expertise, and operate with freedom. In the absence of this, it would merely add another layer while preserving the status quo. The less than encouraging experience of the Banks Board Bureau (BBB) that was to precede the BIC is instructive. The BBB was set up in 2016 to advise on the selection and appointment of senior board members and management, avoid vacancies by helping with the planning of appointments ahead as also advice the PSBs on strategies for business and raising capital. However, in practice, the BBB's advice has not always been heeded to, and appointments have not always been made on time. The BBB, as originally conceived, was to consist of three senior bankers. However, it was expanded to include representatives from the RBI and the government.

The government would need to ensure the necessary freedom for the BIC to operate while circumscribing its own role. The ultimate success of these reforms will depend on how the government disassociates itself and empowers the BIC, the boards and the banks to function independently — from selection of talent to strategic decision making. The Nayak committee had suggested a shareholders' agreement between the BIC and the government that would detail out and formalise this freedom.

The BBB was also originally envisaged by the committee as a temporary arrangement for advising on board appointments before it would be subsumed by the BIC. However, no further steps have been forthcoming after its establishment. A clear time-bound roadmap would, therefore, send an encouraging signal.

The objectives of the BIC would have to be clearly defined too. If capital raising is one of the goals, the structure of a holding company — with a portfolio of comparatively better performing and non-performing banks — to attract investments must be assessed. In this regard, the RBI has reportedly, in the past, expressed reservations on the BIC structure being a potential challenge for investors to assess the relative risks, returns and performance of the banks. This raises the question of whether privatisation would not be a better alternative, particularly as the transition of the government from an owner to a pure financial investor in its banks is likely to take time.

It would be imperative to carefully address such concerns and questions to ensure the success of restructuring the government's ownership and influence in PSBs envisaged through the BIC. Given these concerns, privatisation may be a better alternative. The budget could signal this intent by announcing the first step — the repeal of the Bank Nationalisation Acts and the State Bank of India Act.

PLATFORM DANGERS

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'After blocking Trump' (IE, January 15). As the massive assault on the Capitol illustrated, social media platforms like Parler, Facebook and Twitter have grown hugely popular and have turned into opinion influencers instead of being platforms for the harmless haring of information. This puts greater onus on the platform owners to ensure that their technology is not misused in the name of freedom of speech. This is more necessary for India, where social media is becoming a means to spread misleading rumours about the efficacy of COVID-19 vaccines.

Fake US leg band gets pigeon a reprieve

A PIGEON that Australia declared a biosecurity risk has received a reprieve after a US bird organisation declared its identifying leg band was fake. The band suggested the bird found in a Melbourne backyard on Dec 26 was a racing pigeon that had left the US state of Oregon, 13,000 km away, two months earlier. On that basis, Australian authorities had said they considered the bird a disease risk and planned to kill it. But the news from the US that the band was fake, which was confirmed by Australia's Agriculture Department, means that the bird is likely from Australia itself and so will not be killed.

Nepal gives emergency nod for India-made Covishield vaccine

SHIRISH B PRADHAN
KATHMANDU, JANUARY 15

NEPAL HAS granted emergency approval for AstraZeneca's India-made Covishield vaccine against the novel coronavirus that has claimed nearly 1,950 lives in the country.

The decision to grant the approval for the vaccine was taken on Friday, Nepal's Department of Drug Administration (DDA) said in a statement.

"Conditional permission has been granted for emergency use authorisation of Covishield vaccine against Covid-19 in Nepal," the statement said.

Drug major AstraZeneca has partnered with the Pune-based Serum Institute of India (SII), the world's largest vaccine manufacturer, for the supply of the vaccine to the Indian government and also to a number of low and middle-income countries.

The vaccine was developed in collaboration with the University of Oxford.

Nepal on Friday detected 270 new coronavirus cases, taking the national Covid-19 tally to 266,816. Of the total cases reported so far, 260,567 people have recovered, whereas 1,948 have died, according to the Ministry of Health.

In the past 24 hours, 390 people have been discharged from isolation centres after their recovery, while five new deaths have been reported. As of now, Nepal has 4,301 Covid-19 active cases, it said. PTI

China honours 'Bat Woman' of Wuhan-based lab

KJM VARMA
BEIJING, JANUARY 15

CHINA HAS honoured a virologist from a Wuhan-based bio-lab, which was at the centre of a Covid-19 storm, as a WHO team arrived at the Chinese city to probe the origins of the coronavirus.

Shi Zhengli of the Wuhan Institute of Virology (WIV), who has earned the moniker of "Bat Woman" for her passionate research into bats and viruses, was honoured as an "advanced worker of the Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS)", the state-run Global Times reported, citing a WIV announcement on Friday.

US President Donald Trump had alleged that the novel coronavirus emanated from WIV before it spread across the world. After she was linked with Trump's allegation in local and foreign media early last year, Shi conspicuously disappeared for months amid rumours that she had defected. But she later resurfaced and criticised Trump, saying his claim "jeopardises and affects our academic work and personal lives". PTI

Dutch govt resigns over 'colossal stain' of tax subsidy scandal

STEPHANIE VAN DEN BERG
THE HAGUE, JANUARY 15

PRIME MINISTER Mark Rutte's government resigned on Friday, accepting responsibility for wrongful accusations of fraud by the tax authorities that drove thousands of families to financial ruin, often on the basis of ethnicity.

The cabinet would remain in place for now in a caretaker capacity to manage the coronavirus crisis, Rutte said. He then rode his bike to King Willem-Alexander's 17th century baroque Huis Ten Bosch palace in The Hague to discuss his resignation.

An election has already been scheduled for March 17 at the end of Rutte's third term. "This is about tens of thousands of parents who were crushed under the wheels of the state," Rutte told journalists. "There can be no doubt, this is a colossal stain." A parliamentary inquiry found last month that officials at the tax service had wrongly accused families of fraud over childcare subsidies, causing an "unprecedented injustice". Around 10,000 families had been forced to repay tens of thousands of euros each, in some cases leading to unemployment, bankruptcies and divorces. Many of the families were targeted based on their ethnic origin or dual nationalities, the tax office said last year. This "is absolutely unacceptable in a law-based state", Rutte said. REUTERS

Cops, ex-military personnel among those at Capitol riot

WASHINGTON, JANUARY 15

AS US President Donald Trump's supporters massed outside the Capitol last week, a line of men wearing helmets and body armour trudged purposefully up the marble stairs in a single-file line, each man holding the jacket collar of the one ahead.

The formation is standard operating procedure for a combat team that is "stacking up" to breach a building. It was a chilling sign that many at the vanguard of the mob that stormed the seat of American democracy either had military training or were trained by those who did.

An Associated Press review of public records, social media posts and videos shows at least 21 current or former members of the US military or law enforcement have been identified as being at or near the Capitol riot, with more than a dozen others under investigation but not yet named.

Among the most prominent to emerge is a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel who was arrested after he was photographed wearing a helmet and body armour on the floor of the Senate, holding a pair of zip-tie handcuffs.

A retired Navy SEAL posted a Facebook video about travelling from his Ohio home to the rally and seemingly approving of the invasion of "our building, our house."

Biden picks FDA ex-chief Kessler to lead vaccine science

Washington: US President-elect Joe Biden has picked a former Food and Drug commissioner to lead vaccine science in his drive to put 100 million shots into the arms of Americans in his administration's first 100 days and stem the Covid-19 pandemic.

Dr David Kessler, who will have the title of chief science officer of Covid response, headed the FDA in the 1990s. He has been acting as an adviser to Biden, and his appointment was announced Friday by the Biden transition office.

Kessler will assume responsibility for the scientific side of Operation Warp Speed, an effort launched under the Trump administration to rapidly develop vaccines and treatments. AP

US prosecutors say rioters meant to capture, kill elected officials

REUTERS
WASHINGTON, JANUARY 15

FEDERAL PROSECUTORS offered an ominous new assessment of last week's siege of the US Capitol by President Donald Trump's supporters on Thursday, saying in a court filing that rioters intended "to capture and assassinate elected officials".

Prosecutors offered that view in a filing asking a judge to detain Jacob Chansley, the Arizona man and QAnon conspiracy theorist who was famously photographed wearing horns as he stood at the desk of Vice President Mike Pence in the chamber of the US Senate.

The detention memo, written by Justice Department lawyers in Arizona, goes into greater detail about the FBI's investigation into Chansley, revealing that he left a note for Pence warning that "it's only a matter of time, justice is coming."

"Strong evidence, including Chansley's own words and actions at the Capitol, supports that the intent of the Capitol rioters was to capture and assassinate elected officials in the United States government," prosecutors wrote.

believe we have a moral obligation," Biden said in a nationwide address Thursday. At the same time, he acknowledged that his plan "does not come cheaply."

Biden proposed $1,400 cheques for most Americans, which on top of $600 provided in the most recent Covid-19 Bill would bring the total to the $2,000 that Biden has called for. It would also extend a temporary boost in unemployment benefits and a moratorium on evictions and foreclosures through September.

And it shoehorns in long-term Democratic policy aims such as increasing the minimum wage to $15 an hour and expanding paid leave for workers. AP

US executes Virginia gang killer despite Covid infection

ASSOCIATED PRESS
TERRE HAUTE, JANUARY 15

THE US government executed a drug trafficker Thursday for slaying seven people in a burst of violence in Virginia's capital in 1992, with some witnesses in the death-chamber building applauding as the 52-year-old was pronounced dead.

Corey Johnson's execution went ahead after his lawyers scrambled to stop it on grounds that the lethal injection of pentobarbital would cause him excruciating pain due to lung damage from his coronavirus infection.

He was the 12th inmate executed at the prison in Terre Haute, Indiana, since the Trump administration restarted federal executions following a 17-year hiatus. The last during the presidency of ardent death-penalty advocate Donald Trump was set for Friday.

Johnson, who his lawyers said was severely mentally disabled, was pronounced dead at 11.34 pm. When asked if he had any last words, Johnson focused on a room to his left designated for members of his family. "No, I'm OK," he said. Seconds later, he said softly while gazing intently at same room, "Love you."

After the execution, his lawyers released Johnson's last statement. In it, he said the pizza and strawberry shake he ate and drank before the execution "were wonderful" but he didn't get the jelly-filled doughnuts he wanted. He added: "This should be fixed."

2020 among the three warmest years: WMO

ANJALI MARAR
PUNE, JANUARY 15

THE YEAR 2020 was among the three warmest years on record, said a statement by the World Meteorological Organisation.

Last year, the average global temperature recorded was 14.9 degrees Celsius, which was 1.2 degrees above pre-industrial levels (1850 - 1900). The warmest ever years recorded are 2016, 2019 and 2020, the WMO said.

In India, 2020 was the eighth warmest recorded since 1901, when the India Meteorological Department started maintaining temperature records.

"The exceptional heat of 2020 is despite a La Nina event, which is a temporary cooling effect," said Prof Petterri Taalas, Secretary-General, WMO.

La Nina is an oceanic phenomenon when cooler than normal sea surface temperatures are recorded along the central and equatorial Pacific Ocean. It affects the global average temperatures. The current cycle of La Nina is expected to continue till the middle of 2021.

Under the Paris Climate Agreement, world leaders agreed to try to keep warming well below 2 degrees above pre-industrial levels in order to avoid the most extreme effects of climate change. However, the WMO's Global Annual to Decadal Climate Update says there is a one-in-five chance that by 2024, warming would have already exceeded 1.5 degrees.

Depression could reduce vaccine efficacy; psychologists suggest exercise and rest

Covid-19 vaccine being administered in the UK. Reuters

HEALTH BEHAVIOURS and depression, stress, or loneliness have been known to alter the body's ability to develop an immune response to vaccines. This could potentially include the new Covid-19 vaccines, the international organisation Association for Psychological Science (APS) has cautioned. Simple interventions, however, may maximise the vaccine's initial effectiveness, the APS has said in a new report, which recommends exercising and getting a good night's sleep in the 24 hours before vaccination. The report has been accepted for publication in the journal Perspectives on Psychological Science, the APS said.

The key to a vaccine's success is ensuring that a critical percentage of the population is effectively vaccinated to achieve so-called herd immunity. While vaccination programmes are being rolled out in various countries, not everyone will gain the full benefit immediately. Environmental factors, as well as an individual's genetics and physical and mental health, can weaken the body's immune system, slowing the response to a vaccine, the APS said in a media release on the new report.

It flags the concern that the novel coronavirus has triggered a concurrent mental health crisis as people deal with isolation, economic stressors, and uncertainty about the future. These challenges are the same factors that have been previously shown to weaken vaccine efficacy.

"Our new study sheds light on vaccine efficacy and how health behav-ours and emotional stressors can alter the body's ability to develop an immune response. The trouble is that the pandemic in and of itself could be amplifying these risk factors," Annelise Madison of Ohio State University, lead author on the paper, said in a statement issued by the APS.

Vaccines work by challenging the immune system. Within hours of a vaccination, there is an innate, general immune response on the cellular level as the body begins to recognise a potential biological threat. This frontline response by the immune system is eventually aided by the production of antibodies, which target specific pathogens. It is the continued production of antibodies that helps to determine how effective a vaccine is at conferring long-term protection.

"In our research, we focus most heavily on the antibody response, though it is just one facet of the adaptive immune system's response," Janice Kiecolt-Glaser of the Ohio State University, senior author on the paper, was quoted as saying.

Although the Covid-19 vaccines already in circulation are highly effective according to trial results, these psychological and behavioural factors can lengthen the amount of time it takes to develop immunity and can shorten the duration of immunity, the authors said. But Kiecolt-Glaser said: "The thing that excites me is that some of these factors are modifiable. It's possible to do some simple things to maximise the vaccine's initial effectiveness."

Jallikattu: pride & politics

Ahead of Assembly polls, Jallikattu has become the subject of politics between Congress and BJP. A look at what it means for Tamil culture, and the controversies leading to an ongoing legal battle

ARUN JANARDHANAN

CHENNAI, JANUARY 15

WITH ASSEMBLY polls round the corner in Tamil Nadu, the Pongal festival and Jallikattu, the traditional bull-taming sport, have caught the attention of the BJP and Congress. While the BJP organised Pongal celebrations led by national and state leaders in several districts, Congress leader Rahul Gandhi was in Madurai on Thursday to witness a Jallikattu event.

In the past, both the BJP and the Congress have faced public anger for their stands on Jallikattu, a controversial sport which has faced long legal battles over cruelty to animals, and which at the same time is a symbol of Tamil culture. In their present efforts to celebrate these cultural symbols ahead of elections, the two national parties have attacked each other over their past stands.

What is Jallikattu?

The bull-taming sport is popular in Madurai, Tiruchirappalli, Theni, Pudukkottai and Dindigul districts — known as the Jallikattu belt. Jallikattu is celebrated in the second week of January, during the Tamil harvest festival, Pongal.

A tradition over 2,000 years old, Jallikattu is a competitive sport as well as an event to honour bull owners who rear them for mating. It is a violent sport in which contestants try to tame a bull for a prize; if they fail, the bull owner wins the prize.

In an age when the farm sector is largely mechanised, there are no major monetary benefits for bull owners in breeding Jallikattu bulls other than the prizes they get during the Jallikattu events. Traditionally, these used to be a dhoti, a towel, betel leaves, bananas and a cash prize of Rs 101. Over the last two decades, the prizes have included grinders, a fridge and small furniture.

Why is it important in Tamil culture?

Jallikattu is considered a traditional way for the peasant community to preserve their pure-breed native bulls. At a time when cattle breeding is often an artificial process, conservationists and peasants argue that Jallikattu is a way to protect these male animals which are otherwise used only for meat if not for ploughing.

Jallikattu contest at Avaniyapuram, Madurai on Thursday. PTI

Kangayam, Pulikulam, Umbalachery, Barugur and Malai Maadu are among the popular native cattle breeds used for Jallikattu. The owners of these premium breeds command respect locally.

Why has it been the subject of legal battles?

In India, legal battles surrounding animal rights issues emerged in the early 1990s. A notification from the Environment Ministry in 1991 banned the training and exhibition of bears, monkeys, tigers, panthers and dogs, which was challenged by the Indian Circus Organisation in the Delhi High Court. In 1998, dogs were excluded from the notification.

Jallikattu first came under legal scrutiny in 2007 when the Animal Welfare Board of India and the animal rights group PETA moved petitions in the Supreme Court against Jallikattu as well as bullock cart races.

The Tamil Nadu government, however, worked its way out of the ban by passing a law in 2009, which was signed by the Governor.

In 2011, the UPA regime at the Centre added bulls to the list of animals whose training and exhibition is prohibited. In May 2014, days before the BJP was elected to power, the Supreme Court banned the bull-taming sport, ruling on a petition that cited the 2011 notification.

So, is it legal or banned now?

That is the subject of a case pending in the Supreme Court. The state government has legalised these events, which has been challenged in the court.

In January 2017, months after the death of Chief Minister Jayalalithaa, massive protests erupted across Tamil Nadu against the ban, with Chennai city witnessing a 15-day-long Jallikattu uprising.

The same year, the Tamil Nadu government released an ordinance amending the central Act and allowing Jallikattu in the state; this was later ratified by the President.

PETA challenged the state move, arguing it was unconstitutional.

In 2018, the Supreme Court referred the Jallikattu case to a Constitution Bench, where it is pending now. The main question to be resolved is whether the Jallikattu tradition can be protected as a cultural right of the people of Tamil Nadu which is a fundamental right. Article 29 (1) mandates that "any section of the citizens residing in the territory of India or any part thereof having a distinct language, script or culture of its own shall have the right to conserve the same".

Like Tamil Nadu, Karnataka too passed a law to save a similar sport, called Kambala. A similar attempt by Maharashtra, too, was challenged in court, before it was passed as a law.

Except in Tamil Nadu and Karnataka, where bull-taming and racing continue to be organised, these sports remain banned in all other states including Andhra Pradesh, Punjab and Maharashtra due to the 2014 ban order from the Supreme Court.

What is the politics playing out?

After the DMK regime in 2009 had issued a notification in favour of Jallikattu, it was the 2011 amendment by the Union Environment Ministry that led to the ban on Jallikattu in 2014. While the UPA regime was blamed for the ban, the BJP at the Centre too had shown an indifferent approach to the controversy until the 2017 uprising in Chennai, attended by thousands of people whose slogans often targeted the Narendra Modi regime.

Now, the two parties are competing with each other to assert their support to the Jallikattu event. Rahul Gandhi said at Madurai on Thursday that he had witnessed Jallikattu and that it was safer for both bulls and bull tamers. He also charged BJP with making efforts to suppress Tamil culture and language. For the BJP, national general secretary in charge of Tamil Nadu in-charge C T Ravi has accused Rahul of hypocrisy, reminding him of the UPA government's stand that Jallikattu is "cruel and barbaric".

The BJP is in alliance with the ruling AIADMK in Tamil Nadu, while the Congress is an ally of the main opposition DMK.

The houbara: hunted by UAE royals at Pak invite

RAHEL PHILIPSE

NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

ELEVEN MEMBERS of the UAE's royal family arrived in Panjur district in Balochistan recently to hunt the internationally protected and vulnerable houbara bustard under a licence issued by the Pakistan Foreign Ministry. Earlier this week, Pakistan also issued special permits to Dubai ruler Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al-Maktoum, the crown prince and five other members of their family to hunt the bird during the 2020-21 hunting season, Pakistan daily The Dawn reported.

This is not the first time royals from the Gulf and their wealthy friends have reached the deserts of Pakistan to hunt the rare bird. These controversial private hunting expeditions date back over four decades and have continued even after Pakistan's Supreme Court imposed a blanket ban on the killing of the houbara bustard in 2015, which was later reversed.

What is the houbara bustard?

It is a large terrestrial bird found in parts of Asia, the Middle East and Africa. The North African houbara (Chlamydotis undulata) and the Asian houbara (Chlamydotis macqueenii) are separate species. The Asian houbara is related to the critically endangered great Indian bustard native to India.

The Asian houbara (Chlamydotis macqueenii), IFHC

After breeding in Central Asia during the spring, Asian houbara bustards migrate south to spend the winter in Pakistan, the Arabian peninsula and nearby Southwest Asia. Some Asian houbara bustards live and breed in parts of Iran, Pakistan and Turkmenistan.

According to the International Fund for Houbara Conservation (IFHC), roughly 42,000 Asian houbara bustards and over 22,000 of the North African houbara bustards remain today. The main reasons for the decline in the species' population are poaching, unregulated hunting and the degradation of its natural habitat, the IFHC website states.

Why is the houbara hunted in Pakistan?

Vast swathes of land in Pakistan are allocated in blocks to wealthy dignitaries from the UAE, Saudi Arabia and other Gulf countries, who arrive in the country to hunt the birds every year using hunting gear and falcons. They kill the bird for sport and also because its meat is supposed to have aphrodisiac qualities.

Media coverage is not permitted, but the scale of each hunt is believed to be considerable. Each party has a convoy of over a dozen SUVs and often the dignitaries come with their own staff, locals told the BBC.

Why does Pakistan allow Arab royalty to hunt the houbara bustard?

For over four decades, the Pakistan Foreign Ministry has been extending yearly invitations to wealthy and powerful Arabs for hunting houbara bustards in the deserts of Balochistan and Punjab, to strengthen the country's relations with Gulf nations. Arab hunters first started coming to Pakistan to hunt in the 1960s after the houbara bustard population in the Arabian peninsula began to dwindle. Similar expeditions took place across the border in Rajasthan, where Arab royalty hunted the great Indian bustard until the practice was banned in 1972.

In Pakistan, too, the Supreme Court imposed a ban on hunting the houbara bustard in 2015. Challenging the ban, the government argued that wealthy Arabs brought prosperity to underdeveloped areas around the hunting fields and the ban would have a negative impact on Pakistan's relations with Middle East countries. The ban on hunting was lifted in 2016.

How many bustards do they hunt?

Each permit allows the individual to hunt a total of 100 bustards in a designated area during a 10-day safari. But the Arab VIPs are known to violate the terms of the permit and kill far more bustards than agreed upon. In 2014, a Saudi Arabian prince and his entourage allegedly shot down 2,100 houbara bustards during a three-week hunting safari, sparking nationwide outrage from conservationists. It was this backlash that culminated in the Supreme Court ban, later revoked.

Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan, who had opposed hunting the bird while he was in opposition, personally approved the special passes to Dubai ruler Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid Al-Maktoum and his family members.

How zombie films may have prepared fans for Covid-19 pandemic

KABIR FIRAQUE

NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

IN THE horror subgenre we know as 'zombie movies', you might find a ring of the ongoing pandemic. From the pioneering Night of the Living Dead (1968) to the recent South Korean production Train to Busan (2016), these films show zombies infecting ordinary people and turning them into zombies, and, just like it is happening in Covid-19, the uninfected around them living in panic as they try to stay safe.

It turns out that the connection may be deeper than just a resemblance between fiction and fact. If you like horror, particularly zombie films, watching them may have prepared you better for the Covid-19 pandemic. That's the conclusion drawn by researchers who have published their findings in the journal Personality and Individual Differences.

Why zombies?

The study covered horror fans in general, as well as morbidly curious individuals. The conclusion is based on responses from horror fans who watched any kind of apocalyptic films — 'zombie movies', 'post-apocalyptic movies', and 'alien-invasion movies'.

"However, I think zombie movies in particular bear resemblance — literally and symbolically — to the pandemic," said Coltan Scrivner, a University of Chicago PhD student who led the new study.

"Zombie outbreaks almost by definition are pandemics," Scrivner told The Indian Express, by email. "The cause is almost always some sort of infection. Characters in zombie films learn how to avoid getting infected and often try to find a cure for the infection. In addition, they learn what the world looks like when society begins to break down or no longer functions as normal. Although exaggerated in the films, this resembles a real-world pandemic in some ways."

Night of the Living Dead (1968). Zombie outbreaks are pandemics, says researcher.

But how does watching such films help?

The information we obtain from an imagined zombie apocalypse, the study suggests, may serve us in analogous situations in the real world. "They [zombie film fans] reported feeling like they knew what to buy for the pandemic and that the consequences of the pandemic did not take them by surprise," Scrivner said.

Fans of horror films were found to show less psychological distress during Covid-19.

"Presumably, frequent users of horror media often employ emotion regulation strategies, which may lead to improved emotional coping skills," the study says.

How were these conclusions drawn?

The researchers asked 310 participants a variety of questions. One scale measured their resilience or psychological distress; another assessed them on morbid curiosity. A third scale was the 'Big 5' (neuroticism, agreeable-ness, extraversion, openness to experience, conscientiousness). Participants also rated how much of a fan they were of different genres (horror, romance, zombie films etc).

"We were about to find that, controlling for the Big 5 personality traits, horror fans and morbidly curious people were more psychologically resilient during the early months of the Covid-19 pandemic in the US. We also found that fans of... zombie, apocalyptic, and alien-invasion films reported being more prepared for the pandemic," Scrivner said.

If I am not a horror fan, should I start watching zombie films now?

For resilience against Covid-19, it may be too late. But according to study co-author John Johnson, a Pennsylvania State University psychologist, it is never too late to make ready for the next hurdle in life. "I'm not sure that watching such movies now would be helpful for our current situation. However, my understanding of pandemics and other life-challenging events is that similar future challenges are absolutely inevitable," Johnson said in comments published on the Pennsylvania State University website.

Both Johnson and Scrivner believe fiction is a way to imagine simulated realities that prepare us for future challenges. Scrivner told The Indian Express: "Horror in particular offers a way to safely experience dangerous environments and dangerous social interactions. This lets people do two things:

"People can practise being afraid or being anxious and learning how to overcome that feeling. This likely can lead to better emotion regulation skills and, ultimately, better psychological resilience.

"People can also learn some specific information. For example, people who watched pandemic-themed movies like Contagion may have learned what a real pandemic could look like. This could allow people to be better prepared for when a real pandemic like Covid-19 occurs."

CoC TO CLEAR PLAN IN COMING DAYS & FORWARD IT TO NCLT

Piramal group likely to bag DHFL as lenders back ₹37,250-cr bid

GEORGE MATHEW
MUMBAI, JANUARY 15

THE PIRAMAL group is all set to bag the troubled Dewan Housing Finance Corporation (DHFL), with lenders led by public sector banks backing its ₹37,250-crore bid for the takeover of the mortgage firm.

According to banking sources, banks were not in favour of clearing the bid by the US' Oaktree Capital, which has been in a fierce battle with the Piramals for the housing finance firm. The Piramal bid got 94 per cent voting from the lenders, while the required majority is 66 per cent. However, Oaktree's bid got only 45 per cent backing. The Piramals are likely to merge DHFL with their financial services business once the bid is cleared by the bankruptcy court.

The Committee of Creditors (CoC) is expected to officially clear the proposal in the coming days and forward it to the National Company Law Tribunal.

After Piramal revised its bid, Oaktree had increased the bid by another ₹1,700 crore after the deadline. Oaktree, in a letter to the creditors, had claimed a ₹2,700-crore undervaluation by the CoC. Oaktree had also proposed it would offer ₹1,000 crore from the sale of DHFL's life insurance business to the lenders.

Last Friday, Piramal Capital & Housing Finance said its bid for DHFL offers the highest upfront cash recovery and has the highest score according to the evaluation matrix. Piramal said it formally submitted a final bid within the deadline, while Oaktree sent an additional offer after the deadline,

EXPLAINED
Resolution vital

THE DHFL resolution is important for the financial sector, which was hit by the collapse of IL&FS and the DHFL crisis. While DHFL owes around ₹80,000 crore to banks and other creditors, full recovery may not happen as bondholders are not sure about getting their money back.

offering ₹1,700 crore more. Realising that its bid falls severely short, Oaktree sent an email on December 24 — two days after the deadline — offering an additional ₹1,700 crore, Piramal said. "Reserving the right in a bidding framework is blatantly illegal and mischievous — if this were to be allowed; everyone will bid Re 1 for all assets, 'reserve' the right to increase, look at other bids and increase to slightly more than the highest bid," Piramal said.

Oaktree's bid had reportedly claimed that DHFL's NCDs would be assigned an 'AAA' rating if their resolution plan is accepted. However, rating agencies are not allowed by law to provide any 'credit opinion' or have 'indicative credit rating discussions', Piramal said. Piramal had said the proposed takeover of DHFL's insurance business by Oaktree may invite regulatory challenges as it is a foreign entity. Currently, 49 per cent of DHFL Pramerica Life Insurance is owned as foreign investment by Prudential International Insurance Holdings.

On November 29, 2019, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) filed an application for initiation of insolvency against DHFL, making it the first non-banking financial company (NBFC) to undergo the process.

In the first bidding round, Piramal Enterprises offered ₹15,000 crore for DHFL's retail arm, while Oaktree offered ₹27,800 crore for the entire firm. SC Lowy, meanwhile, offered ₹2,300 crore for its non-slim redevelopment authority loan book. After the lenders expressed unhappiness over the low bids, all the companies revised their bids significantly.

Lenders and creditors are looking to recover ₹83,000 crore of unpaid loans of DHFL.

Markets shrug off US stimulus plan; Covid, lockdowns weigh

US indices drop as Biden's $1.9 trillion proposal sparks fears of rise in taxes

ENSE ECONOMIC BUREAU
MUMBAI, JANUARY 15

DOMESTIC STOCK markets came under selling pressure as overseas markets remained subdued amid rising Covid cases in China, more restrictions in many countries and grim prospects about a faster global economic recovery. The $19 trillion US stimulus plan also failed to boost the markets. The Sensex declined 549 points, or 1.1 per cent, to 49,034.67 and the Nifty50 fell 161.90 points, or 1.1 per cent, to 14,433.70 on selling pressure.

The broader markets also remained under pressure as both mid- and small-caps ended with losses of 1 per cent each. On the sector front, except telecom, all the

Bond yields rise in absence of OMO announcement

Mumbai: The benchmark bond yield rose on Friday to a three-week high as a lack of an open market operation announcement disappointed investors ahead of a debt sale and variable rate reverse repo auction later in the day.

"It has been decided to restore normal liquidity management operations in a phased manner," the RBI said.

Markets read the release as an indication that the RBI was looking to roll back the massive cash surplus in banking system. The 10-year yield was trading at 5.95 per cent versus 5.93 per cent Thursday and off the day's high of 5.96 per cent — its highest since December 24. REUTERS other indices ended with losses.

The rupee snapped its three-session winning streak and settled for the day 3 paise lower at 73.07 against the US dollar on Friday.

UK's Office for National Statistics reported that the economy shrank 2.6 per cent in November.

Meanwhile, Wall Street's main indices dropped Friday, weighed down by losses in major US lenders after their earnings reports, while incoming President Joe Biden's stimulus plan sparked fears of a rise in corporate taxes.

At 11:39 am ET, the Dow Jones Industrial Average fell 135.21 points, or 0.44 per cent, to 30,856.31 and the S&P 500 lost 18.40 points, or 0.48 per cent, to 3,777.14.

First time in 10 mths, imports in positive zone; exports inch up

ENSE ECONOMIC BUREAU
NEW DELHI, JANUARY 15

MERCHANDISE EXPORTS inched up in December, for a second time since February 2020, while imports advanced for the first time in 10 months, suggesting a gradual return towards normalcy.

The quick estimate released by the Commerce Ministry on Friday shows exports rose 0.1 per cent on year to $27.15 billion in December, better than a 0.8 per cent contraction announced earlier.

Imports rose at a much faster pace of 7.6 per cent last December to $42.59 billion, inflating trade deficit to a 25-month high of $15.44 billion.

The rise in imports reflects a nascent revival of domestic demand, following the Covid-induced compression since March last year, as businesses go through a "reset" phase, taking advantage of the lifting of lockdown curbs.

However, as pointed out by analysts, some amount of pent-up demand for raw materials may also have contributed to the rise in imports, although it's still an encouraging sign.

If inbound shipments continue to rise, import-sensitive exports, too, will get a boost but it will also mark a return to the usual high trade deficit trend.

The outbound shipment of core products (goods excluding petroleum and gems & jewellery), which reflects the economy's competitiveness, grew 5.5 per cent in December, against a 0.4 per cent fall in the previous month. Similarly, core imports rose 8 per cent last month, compared with a 1.7 per cent fall in November.

Overall, merchandise exports are still down by 15.7 per cent up to December this fiscal, while imports shrunk by 29 per cent. FE

'Revenue of IT companies to grow up to 9% in FY22'

Demand for digital technologies and resumption of normal economic activities will drive sales for IT firms, pushing their revenue growth up to 9% in FY22, an IcrA report said

Xi asks ex-CEO of Starbucks to help fix US-China ties

JOE MCDONALD
BEIJING, JANUARY 15

CHINESE PRESIDENT Xi Jinping is asking former CEO Howard Schultz of Starbucks to help repair US-China relations that have plunged to their lowest level in decades amid a tariff war and tension over technology and security.

A letter from Xi to Schultz reported Friday by the official Xinhua News Agency was a rare direct communication from China's paramount leader to a foreign business figure. Schultz opened Starbucks' first China outlet in 1999 and is a frequent visitor.

Xi wrote to Schultz to encourage him and Starbucks to continue to play an active role in promoting Chinese-US economic and trade cooperation and the development of bilateral relations. Xinhua reported. No text of the letter was released. Xinhua gave no indication whether the letter reflected an initiative to ask American corporate leaders to help change policy after President-elect Joe Biden takes office next week.

Economists and political analysts say Biden is likely to try to revive cooperation with Beijing over North Korea and other political issues. But few changes on trade are expected due to widespread frustration in Washington over China's human rights record and accusations of technology theft.

The Cabinet press office didn't immediately respond to questions about what Xi wanted Schultz to do and whether he contacted other American business leaders.

Schultz, who was Starbucks CEO until 2017 and chairman until 2018, led an aggressive expansion that made China its biggest market outside the United States.

Schultz said in 2019 that he was considering running for president as an independent but later dropped that. Xinhua said Xi was responding to a letter from Schultz that congratulated the Chinese leader on the completion of a well-off society under his leadership, Xinhua said. AP

Snapdeal, 4 shopping complexes in US Notorious Markets List

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
WASHINGTON, JANUARY 15

SNAPDEAL, ALONG with four shopping complexes, two of them in New Delhi alone, have figured in the 2020 Review of Notorious Markets for Counterfeiting and Piracy issued by the Office of the US Trade Representative.

The four Indian markets that have found mention in the list are Heera Panna in Mumbai, Kidderpore in Kolkata and Palika Bazaar and Tank Road in Delhi.

"Holding intellectual property rights violators accountable and ensuring that American innovators and creators have a full and fair opportunity to use and profit from their work is critical for both physical and online markets," US Trade Representative Robert Lighthizer said.

DAY TODAY

BY PETER VIDAL

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr 20)

Passionate Arians should aim for family gatherings and home entertainments. Those of you planning decorations or even dreaming of a move of home should be able to take your plans one very major step forward. The message of the moment is to be businesslike.

TAURUS (Apr 21 - May 21)

Still, there's no let-up from planetary pressures. However, if you talk about personal feelings you may find that the old adage, a problem shared is a problem halved, is more true now than it ever was before. Next, you'll have to deal with all the financial implications.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Chance encounters will lead to a much more fulfilling lifestyle for you and your loved ones. Yet I can't pretend that everything will be easy, and some of the people you encounter over the next few days may try your patience to the limit — and beyond.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

Shopping trips are bound to involve higher costs. Indeed, almost every area of life is going to work out more expensive than you hoped. You must talk about your problems, otherwise you'll have to accept the sole blame for any mistakes. Get expert help whenever you need it.

LEO (July 24 - Aug 23)

A brilliant aspect between the Sun and a series of other planets, places hurdles in your path. Life is like an obstacle-course featuring traps for the unwary but big prizes for the winners. Long-distance journeys are strongly signified by the Moon.

VIRGO (Aug 24 - Sep 23)

You may be misunderstood. However, your strength at the moment lies in repairing the damage left by people who have no control over their feelings. If your confidence should dip, then remember that you're playing a long game and you need a reliable strategy.

LIBRA (Sep 24 - Oct 23)

This is bound to be one of those times when you don't see eye to eye with partners and loved ones, especially if money is involved. Spending or saving plans could provide the catalyst for a lively exchange of views. But, then, if you get financial concerns sorted out, emotional strains will be eased.

SCORPIO (Oct 24 - Nov 23)

What a dull old world it would be if everyone agreed all the time. A frank exchange of views is inevitable, but do try not to fly off the handle or take everything too personally. You're a little bit accident-prone, so please use care with the priceless heirlooms.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24 - Dec 23)

You have waited too long for the rewards you deserve, but you may have realised that you won't get anything you haven't worked for. By next week, you'll be able to figure out how to get round a recent delay. One word of advice: take steps to get into tip-top physical form.

CAPRICORN (Dec 23 - Jan 20)

Lunar alignments anchor you to reality, but those of you pursuing romantic adventures may be swept off your feet. In spite of a general argumentative atmosphere, the chances of a very pleasurable windfall are much higher than average. Take your chances.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 - Feb 19)

You seem to have the edge at home and you can, if you wish, get your own way. Remember that, as far as family members are concerned, causes of discontent are still very much alive. If you put your mind to it, this is a time when one major financial or personal obstacle can be surmounted.

PISCES (Feb 20 - Mar 20)

Window-shopping and casual spending is one option for today. But devoting some of your resources to charity is another. Indeed, it's probably the best if you want to avoid continued personal turmoil. You don't know yet what sort of changes you'll set in train once emotional issues are raised.

Experts on injuries: No proper pre-season, sand-based outfield, load management

MIHIR VASAVDA & SRIRAM VEERA
NEW DELHI/MUMBAI, JANUARY 15

WHEN FAST bowler Navdeep Saini hobbled off the field at The Gabba on Friday, after suffering a groin injury, he completed India's 'Injured 11' line-up from the tour to Australia.

The unprecedented number of walking wounded in just one tour is the highest-ever toll for Team India, be it an away series or home. Sports science experts have reason to believe that in a season after a pandemic-forced break, more squad rotation and effective workload management of the players could have helped prevent injuries.

"Muscle injury doesn't happen overnight. It starts with a niggle and then it gets bigger. It can be a result of load and also from certain actions," Ramji Srinivasan, India's strength and conditioning coach during the 2011 World Cup, told The Indian Express.

"Forget the impact injuries that Ravindra Jadeja or Mohammad Shami suffered. That can happen to anybody, anywhere but load-management injuries are different."

Consider this: Bumrah, who has not played a lot of cricket since suffering a stress fracture on his back after the 2019 World Cup, bowled 60 overs in the IPL, 27.3 overs in the 3 ODIs against Australia and 117.4 overs in the three Test matches he played.

After not stepping out of his house for almost four months due to the lockdown, the leader of India's bowling attack has bowled 205.1 overs in the last four months. This is besides the hours he would have bowled in the nets, ran on the field and, occasionally,

EXPLAINED Why Australian players were better prepared

Australia's lockdown wasn't as harsh as India's and nearly all their players began training in June and local leagues began later that month. This meant they were prepared for the season in terms of match-fitness. Additionally, several Australian players who are in the Test squad were not a part of the IPL, which reduced their workload. Some of their players have had a comparatively lesser workout in the middle as well, as illustrated by Bumrah's stats vis-à-vis Cummins. Mitchell Starc skipped the last two seasons of the IPL to focus on ICC tournaments.

wielded the bat.

In contrast, his Australian counterpart Pat Cummins has bowled 42 less than him (163.1 overs) during the same period.

While the cricketers are used to a hectic schedule, what makes this season different is they began playing competitive matches without proper pre-season because of the lockdown rules that were in force back then. A pre-season allows the body to get used to the rigours of playing day-in and day-out.

Lockdown woes

"During the lockdown, even if you were training, it's not at a competitive level. When it's a competition, the pressures are way more. And no matter how much you train, the body forgets the rigours of a tournament," physiotherapist Nikhil Latey, who has worked with leading Indian sports persons, said.

Srinivasan said there is a tendency to plateau in the lockdown, which also affected the aerobic fitness of the bowlers. Without good running mechanics, he added, there is a 'potential risk for an injury because of the demands of bowling – the foot landing, the way you transfer weight, release and follow-through all matter.'

"Suddenly after bowling four overs in IPL, you find yourself in Australian conditions," Srinivasan said. "Cricket is a running game. Under lockdown, running fitness has been hit. That's why bowlers are getting more injured."

Michael Harding, who was the physio of English Premier League side Newcastle United for 14 years before joining East Bengal in the Indian Super League last October, said cricket's 'explosive' nature makes the players more prone to injuries.

"Cricket can be a bit more explosive compared to a few other sports. In that, if you are a fielder, you are standing in one place or are inactive for short periods and then have to explode into a sprint from a standing start (an upright position). That might predispose them to more injuries," Harding told this paper.

More so in Australia, where the outfields are softer and most grounds have a slightly uphill run-up area, Srinivasan added. He further explained: "The combination of the two puts great pressure on posterior-chain of the body. The calf and glutes are always under stress. To put it simply it's like running on a sandy beach and on hard ground. Indian grounds are harder, the ones in Australia are sand-based outfields, and hence softer. The strain is manifold, especially for India's bowlers, who aren't born and brought up there."

An arduous task

Latey said even though Indian team physio Nitin Patel would have known these factors, there is little he could have done about it because of the scheduling of the matches. What could have prevented this, instead, is managing the players' workload.

Sports physiotherapist Heath Matthews said the most crucial factor to minimise the risk of an injury is to go slowly. "It's all about what we call load management. How much load are you putting your body under? And are you giving your body enough time for recovery and developing strength over a period of time?" Matthews, who is the head of sports science and medicine at HN Reliance Foundation Hospital in Mumbai, said.

Srinivasan wondered if the load monitoring of Indian players has been done properly. "There is some missing link somewhere that I can't answer without data. Was load monitoring done properly? What were the IPL trainers doing?" he questioned.

He added that repetitive injuries to players like Bhuvaneshwar Kumar and Ishant Sharma are also a 'worry'.

"Forget IPL, go back in time and see the data. Data can't just be for one-and-half months. Is the load monitoring deciphered properly? Why are the same injuries happening to the same guy over a period of time? Repetitive injuries are a worry, be it Bhuvaneshwar Kumar or Ishant Sharma."

Not a memorable senior debut for Arjun

Mumbai: Left-arm pacer Arjun Tendulkar made his Mumbai senior team debut on Friday in a Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy match against Haryana, which the hosts lost by eight wickets. In the Elite E League group clash played at the suburban BKC ground, Mumbai made 143 after opting to bat first, a target which Haryana overhauled in 174 overs. Arjun had an off day with the ball as he returned with rather unimpressive figures of 1/34 in the three overs that he bowled. He dismissed Haryana opener Chaitanya Bishnoi (4) cheaply after he edged a delivery to wicket-keeper Aditya Tare to claim his maiden wicket for the Mumbai senior team. Incidentally, Tendulkar's last Ranji Trophy game was against Haryana back in 2013.

BRIEF SCORES: Haryana 144 for 2 (Rana 75*, Chauhan 43*) beat Mumbai 143 (Ankolekar 37, Jaiswal 35, Jayant Yadav 4-22, Chhapra 3-22) by eight wickets

Saurabh smashes world record

New Delhi: India ace Saurabh Chaudhary smashed the finals world record with a stunning 246.9 to win the 10m air pistol T1 men's trials at the ongoing national shooting trials on Friday. Haryana's Manu Bhaker also emerged victorious in the T1 women's 10m air pistol trials at the Dr Karni Singh Shooting range. Both world number 4 Saurabh and 2 Manu topped their qualification rounds before going on to win the finals. Saurabh shot a sizzling 590 in the 60-shot qualification round, before producing a record score of 246.9 in the final to annihilate his opposition. N Korea's Kim Song Guk holds the finals world record with a score of 246.5. Manu, on the other hand, shot 580 in qualifying which was enough to give her the top spot.

Destiny's children

On the culmination of their scarcely-believable journey to Test debuts, Natarajan & Sundar show they belong at that level

SANDIP G
JANUARY 15

IN SEPTEMBER last year, January 2021 seemed far away. T Natarajan left home in Chinnappampatti, near Salem, for the Indian Premier League already thinking of his return flight in mid-November, the month he would become a father for the first time.

He had already decided on the temples he should visit and the rituals he should perform after returning home, besides growing a beard till the child was born.

Some 360 kilometres south of Chinnappampatti, in Chennai, Washington Sundar was restlessly awaiting the day he would leave for the UAE. Bereft of competitive cricket, his life, he said in a Royal Challengers Bangalore video, felt lifeless. "I wish I could just keep on playing cricket non-stop," he said.

Not overawed

Four months later, beyond their wildest dreams or fantasies, necessitated by a chain of unusual incidents and unprecedented circumstances, both found themselves as Test cricketers, playing a pre-eminent role on the opening day of the decisive fourth Test at the Gabba.

Sundar heckled the wicket of the most prolific batsman in contemporary Test cricket, Steve Smith, before Natarajan's twin strikes, of centurion Marnus Labuschagne and Matthew Wade, limited the damage Australia would have inflicted on India. But for their timely strikes, the day's final score (274/5) would have assumed monstrous proportions.

Natarajan was vying with Kuldeep Yadav for the fifth bowler's slot. Sundar's batting, bowling control and potential plans of leg-trap against Smith and Labuschagne made him a sure shot to replace Ravichandran Ashwin.

The team management felt that it would be wiser to go with Natarajan for his control, left-arm's angle, and ability to reverse from round the stumps.

On the most overwhelming day of their careers, neither debutant underwhelmed. At no point did it weigh on them that one was replacing arguably the finest fast bowler in India's history, and the other the finest off-spinner of this generation. They exuded an unreal composure.

Truth stranger than fiction

Neither would have nurtured even faint hopes of making their Test debuts on this tour. Washington was part of just the T20I squad, Natarajan was chosen among the reserves before Varun Chakravarty picked up an injury and he was named as the replacement. He was picked for the third ODI, and then the T20Is. Washington featured in all three T20Is.

Both were supposed to leave after the white-ball leg, but were asked to stay back as net bowlers. Both were thrilled, though Natarajan was longing to see his daughter. But his childhood coach A Jayaprakash called him to say "not to worry about things back home." "I told him just to keep his focus on his game. It was the best chance in his life. I told him to take every net session as a Test match," says Jayaprakash.

Natarajan's rise is a remarkable, class-transcending moment in Indian cricket too — the son of a porter and tea-shack vendor playing Test cricket. There have been several famed-to-famous stories in the IPL, but few in international cricket.

Washington's is a more straightforward tale; he progressed through the conventional route, playing the U-19 World Cup, making his First-Class debut at 17, IPL debut a year later and putting on the India jersey at the end of 2017.

Different styles

Unlike Natarajan, who exudes a rustic charm, Washington is a metro-boy with oodles of confidence and a hint of swagger. The big stage hardly frazzles him. Like in 2017, after Rising Pune Supergiant's chief spinner Ravichandran Ashwin was injured, he was called for trials.

Unfazed by bowling to Smith, MS Dhoni and Ben Stokes in the nets, Washington swiftly earned a contract. He was thrown straightaway into the deep end, and didn't look back. He featured in all their remaining games and ended up with the second-best economy rate in the league.

"I know how important it is to latch onto every single chance you get at any level of the game. You can take nothing for granted," he had told this newspaper once.

Breaking stereotypes

However, both had one big myth to bust on their debuts. That they can be more than useful with the red ball. Both have modest First-Class experience — Washington has grabbed 30 wickets from 12 games while Natarajan has 64 from 20.

There was always a rider that hung to their necks: Are they good with the red ball? Can they bowl long spells? Do they have Test-match temperament?

On Friday, they ticked all those boxes. They bowled with self-awareness, craft and cunning. They were barely frazzled when bowling to the likes of Smith and Labuschagne.

It has been a feature of India's debutants in this series. They are not overawed by the stage or the reputation of the opponents. Mohammed Siraj, in fact, is doing a mini-Stuart Broad on David Warner, knocking him out twice in three bouts.

In the company of Shardul Thakur and Natarajan, he compensated for the injured Navdeep Saini on Friday.

Together against adversity

It reflects the team ethos. There is a sense of togetherness. Even though Jasprit Bumrah was not fit to play, he was lurking near the boundary rope, offering advice to Siraj, Saini and Natarajan. Ashwin would be seen alongside Washington.

Nobody is detached, everyone is involved. It's the hallmark of great teams. From this cohesiveness emerges a sense of courage that one could ride the roughest of waves and repel the fiercest of storms, a conviction that no setback could set them back.

How catching standards in the series have dropped

SHAMIK CHAKRABARTY
JANUARY 15

The first day of the Brisbane Test ended with Australia having their nose slightly in front. Without three dropped catches, the hosts, however, would have finished the day losing at least seven wickets instead of five. Dropped catches have become routine in this series, with both sides benefitting from fielding errors. Australia's Marnus Labuschagne has ridden his luck more than anyone else.

How many catches have India dropped so far?

Going by statistical data from different sources, India have dropped 31 catches during their ongoing Australian tour so far, starting from the ODI series. In the three ODIs, India dropped seven catches followed by 12 in the three-match T20I series. In the Adelaide Test, the visitors put down four catches followed by one in Melbourne, four in Sydney and three more in Brisbane on Friday.

How many catches have the Aussies dropped in the Tests?

So far in three Tests, Australia have grassed 13 catches — one in Adelaide, seven in Melbourne and five in Sydney.

How have Australians benefitted from India's errors?

There are examples aplenty. To point out a few: In the first Test, in the 18th over of Ajinkya Rahane dropped Marcus Labuschagne when he was on 37. AP

Australia's first innings, Labuschagne survived a sitter, as Jasprit Bumrah dropped him off Mohammed Shami. The batsman was on 12 then. In the 23rd over, Prithvi Shaw dropped Labuschagne off Bumrah when he was on 47. In the 55th over, Mayank Agarwal dropped Tim Paine off Bumrah on 26. The Australian skipper ended up on 73 not out.

Cut to Brisbane on Friday, when Ajinkya Rahane dropped Labuschagne off Navdeep Saini's bowling when he was on 37 and Australia under pressure at 93/3. Ten overs hence, Cheteshwar Pujara dropped him at first slip off T Natarajan on 48. Labuschagne rode his luck to score his fifth Test century.

In the 80th over, Shardul Thakur let go a simple caught-and-bowled opportunity to allow Cameron Green a reprieve on 19. That was just before India took the second new ball and a dismissal would have had Australia six down. Green stayed till the end of the day to tilt the balance in the hosts' favour.

How have the Indians benefitted from dropped catches?

In the 81st over during India's first innings in Melbourne, Steve Smith dropped Rahane when he was on 73. The India captain scored 112 to take the game away from Australia.

In the third Test, Rishabh Pant survived on three during India's second innings, when Paine dropped him off Nathan Lyon. Pant was new to the crease after Rahane had been dismissed in the second over on Day Five. The left-hander went on to score 97, which raised the prospect of an improbable Indian victory-push. Eventually, his innings set the platform for a memorable draw.

In the 101st over of India's second innings in Sydney, substitute Sean Abbott floored Ravichandran Ashwin when he was on 15, and with nine overs remaining, Paine dropped Hanuma Vihari off Mitchell Starc. Ashwin and Vihari remained unseparated till the end to secure a great escape.

Why Labuschagne is one of the luckiest?

A CricViz Analyst tweet mentions that he has been dropped 10 times in his Test career, which is currently 18-Test-old. In 29 innings before Friday's match, Australia's No. 3 had scored 1,752 runs at an average north of 60. Another tweet from the same handle points out: "Since the start of the 2019 Ashes, only Ben Stokes has been dropped more often in Test cricket".

Who should be held responsible for India's catching glitches?

Rahane's drop on Friday was a one-off, for he is one of the safest catchers in the team. But India's overall fielding/catching standards during the ongoing tour have been way below par, to put it mildly. Some sitters have gone down and while the errors have been made by Test cricketers who are supposed to take those catches, fielding coach R Sridhar has a lot to answer for. Two years ago, the erstwhile MSK Prasad-led selection committee had re-appointed Sridhar, ignoring South African Jonty Rhodes's candidature. It would be interesting to see if the current selection committee, headed by Chetan Sharma, or the BCCI hierarchy call for an explanation from Sridhar after the tour.

Any fixed template to improve catching?

Former India captain Mohammad Azharuddin, arguably the country's greatest-ever all-round fielder, had one during his playing days. "It's imperative to take at least 150-200 catches during practice every day. As a fielder, you should always want the ball coming at you and the more you take those catches (in practice), the more you feel comfortable. You are always game-ready," Azhar told this paper during a conversation last year.
