EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

IN THE backdrop of a series of civilian killings in the Valley, Home Minister Amit Shah will be in Jammu and Kashmir on a three-day visit beginning Saturday. He is likely to hold a security review meeting in Srinagar and visit some troubletorn districts in the Valley.

Shah is likely to visit Jammu

This will be Shah's first visit to Jammu and Kashmir after its special status was scrapped and the erstwhile state was bifurcated into two Union Territories on August 5, 2019.

Shah had visited Jammu and Kashmir immediately after taking charge as home minister in 2019. On that occasion, he reviewed security for the Amarnath Yatra and took stock of progress on central schemes.

Sources said Shah is likely to arrive in Srinagar around 11 am, after which he will chair a unified command meeting at Raj Bhawan on security. The meeting

Karnataka tribal youth is freed in Naxal case: 'Having book on Bhagat Singh not unlawful'

JOHNSON TA BENGALURU, OCTOBER 22

A TRIBAL youth from a remote village bordering the Kudremukh national park in Dakshina Kannada district, who was arrested in 2012 when he was a 23year-old journalism student, along with his father, by an anti-Naxal unit of Karnataka Police has been acquitted by a district court — after police failed to show any Naxal links of the duo.

Vittala Malekudiya, 32, now a journalist with a leading Kannada daily, and his father Lingappa Malekudiya, 60, who still lives in their village of Kuthloor, were acquitted with the court observing that most of the material seized to prove their Naxal links were articles "required for day-to-day livelihood".

The material also included a book on Bhagat Singh seized from Vittala's hostel room, a letter seeking boycott of Parliament polls until his village gets basic amenities, and clippings of newspaper articles. "Possessing books of Bhagat Singh is not harred under law...the reading of such newspapers is not barred under law," the court said. The Malekudiyas were arrested on March 3, 2012, from their home on the basis of "information" obtained by the unit's senior officer that they were assisting five Naxals for whom the force was combing the Kudremukh forest region. The father and son were charged with criminal conspiracy and sedition under the IPC and terrorism under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act.

The five alleged Naxals -Vikram Gowda, Pradeepa, John, Prabha and Sundari – were named in an FIR along with the Malekudiyas but were never arrested. Ahead of the trial, the case against the five, who are alleged to be underground in a neighbouring state, was separated from that of the Malekudiyas by a magistrate's court.

"I am very happy to be acquitted in this case. We struggled for nine years and fought hard to get this acquittal. We were framed as Naxal extremists but there were no points in the chargesheet to indicate these charges. Our innocence has been proven," Vittala said.

will be attended by the four Corps Commanders, J&K Police top brass, and the chiefs of the Intelligence Bureau (IB) and Central Armed Police Forces among other senior officials.

Thereafter, Shah has some "political engagements" at Sher-International e-Kashmir Convention Centre (SKICC), the sources said.

Shah will also use the visit to pay homage to members of the security forces and civilians killed recently. "He is likely to visit the families of Makhan Lal Bindroo, a Sikh teacher, and a Muslim civilian, all killed by militants recently," a Jammu and Kashmir administration source said.

More importantly, Shah is likely to visit Lethpora in Pulwama district of South Kashmir, and pay homage to the CRPF personnel who were killed in the terrorist attack of February 14, 2019.

On Sunday, Shah will fly to Jammu, where he is likely to address an IIT convocation, followed by a public rally in the afternoon. He is also likely to meet a delegation of Kashmiri Pandits before flying back to Srinagar.

On Monday, the home minister is likely to meet with civil society delegates at SKICC. While Shah's visit had been in the works for over a month, sources said the spate of civilian killings in the Valley have made it more important from the security

"Police and the IB are likely to brief him on the steps taken to prevent such attacks, and on the plans to dismantle the network targeting migrant workers and non-Muslim Kashmiris," a security establishment officer said.

Over the past two weeks, the Valley has seen 11 civilians being killed by militants

Top IB and CAPF officials have been camping in Srinagar for almost a week to ensure Shah's visit passes smoothly. Security has been beefed up across the Union Territory, and roads leading to SKICC will be off-limits for the three days of the minister's visit, PTI reported from Srinagar, quoting officials. According to the report, mobile Internet services on a dozen towers, mostly in areas where migrants were killed, were snapped three days ago as part of security measures. Barricades have been erected on roads across the Valley, and especially in Srinagar, and frisking and checking of people has been intensified, PTI reported.

Meanwhile, the body of an unidentified migrant was found with head injuries in South Kashmir's Anantnag district on Friday morning. Police have, however, ruled out any militancy-related angle to the death.

heard in the area on Friday morning was "speculative" fire by the search teams that got no response. There is a curfew in the area, and people have been asked to stay in-

Nearly two weeks into the operation that began on October 11, the Army has made no official statement. Five soldiers were killed in the Chamrer forest in the Surankote tehsil of Poonch that day; another four soldiers were killed on October 14.

But concern that this should have happened in an area that has been largely free of militancy for most of the last two decades since the Hilkaka episode of April-May 2003, was evident from the visit of Army chief General M M Naravane to Poonch and Rajouri earlier this week.

Lt Gen Deependra Singh Hooda (retd), who served as Northern Army Commander from 2014-16, said the presence of militants in the area was "really worrying". He said one of the reasons why the recent militancy in the Valley has not spread to former hotbeds in Jammu is the absence of local support. "If it is true that this group has been there for over two months, that is the real worry. The question then is, is there a change in the attitude of the local people?" Lt Gen Hooda said.

That the militants managed to evade detection for so long has also raised red flags.

Meanwhile, two videos surfaced, in one of which a man speaking in Kashmiri describes how he and a fellow militant had killed soldiers on October 11. The other has a long text message -in perfect English and with mood music playing in the background -- challenging the Army to find

In the Valley, the police are yet to zero-in on anyone directly linked to the spate of killings of civilians in Srinagar and in South Kashmir.

The killings were claimed by a shadowy group called The Resistance Front. Over the past few days, police have detained over 700 youths -- and while the investigations have drawn a blank, the detentions have triggered angry reactions in the Valley. PDP leader Mehbooba Mufti has called it "collective punishment".

The coming together of these incidents has changed the security atmospherics in J&K from the apparently sanguine to crisis mode. There were no cross-border infiltrations from the beginnig of the year until July.

Security officials said this was largely due to the February 24 renewal of the India-Pakistan ceasefire understanding, as cross-border firing has often provided cover for infiltrators. But there have been several infiltration attempts since July, Army sources said. Security officials said between July and the end of September, 10-15 militants have crossed over.

Several security officials The Indian Express spoke to said it was "not a coincidence" that the spurt in violence has followed the Taliban takeover in Afghanistan two months ago.

Recruitment into militant groups has been continuing apace through the year. Security officials estimate that around 100 young Kashmiri men have been recruited this year. Many of them are "hybrid" or part-time militants, officials said.

PM on jabs had expressed apprehensions over India's ability to fight the virus. The Prime Minister, however, cautioned that people should remain careful and not lower their guard, especially during the coming weeks, till the battle against the pandemic is

"You recall last Diwali, when there was a tension in everyone's mind. But this Diwali, there is a sense of confidence due to 100 crore vaccine doses. If my country's vaccines can give me protection, then my country's products can make my Diwali grand. Diwali sales are different. The sales during Diwali and the festive season shoot up. This figure of 100 crore vaccine doses has come as a ray of hope for all, including our small shopkeepers, entrepreneurs and street vendors," he said.

The key to this recovery, he suggested, was the policy of Atmanirbhar Bharat.

"There was a time when 'Made in' of this and that country was a craze. But today, every countryman is realising that the power of 'Made in India' is huge. And, therefore, I urge you again that we should insist on buying every little thing, which is Made in India, and behind its making is the sweat of an Indian, And this will be possible only with the efforts of everyone," he said.

But the Prime Minister urged people to be "always careful" and continue wearing masks.

"No matter how good the cover is, no matter how modern the armour is, even if armour gives a complete guarantee of protection, weapons are not given up while the battle is on. This is my request that we have to celebrate our festivals with utmost caution... Those who have not been vaccinated should give it top priority. Those who have been vaccinated should inspire others," he said.

Speaking about the initial phase of the vaccination campaign, he said doubts were expressed about whether "India and the people of India" had the "restraint and discipline needed" for a campaign of this magnitude. "When the biggest pandemic of 100 years came, questions started arising. Will India be able to fight this pandemic? From where will India get the money to buy so many vaccines from other countries? When will India get the vaccine? Will the people of India get the vaccine or not? Will India be able to vaccinate enough people to stop the pandemic from spreading? There were various questions, but today the 100-crore vaccine doses are answering every question," he said.

"Taking everyone along, the country started the campaign of 'Vaccine for all', 'Free Vaccine'. Whether poor or rich, village or city, the country had only one mantra that if the disease does not discriminate, then there cannot be any discrimination in the vaccination. Therefore, it was ensured that the VIP culture did not dominate the vaccination campaign," he

minerals as they are found along the coastal regions of peninsular India -- are refined and used in stages of the country's nuclear power programme and hi-tech defence electronics applications. A note issued by the Department of Atomic Energy (DAE) as recently as July 2021 on measures for "restricting illegal mining" specifically flags that the mining of beach sand minerals by private parties has "been terminated" as part of the efforts to curb unlawful mining.

The Indian Express reported Tuesday that the Centre has prepared a comprehensive 60-point action plan following Prime Minister Narendra Modi's meeting with secretaries of all departments and ministries on September 18.

"Two Sectors are currently restricted - Beach sand minerals (only Department of Atomic Energy can do mining) and Offshore mining (currently only through PSUs). A High level Committee may be set up for opening up these two sectors for exploration and production by private sector," the action plan said.

The NDA government had issued a detailed notification in July 2019 for reserving the prospecting and mining rights of offshore minerals under Offshore Areas Mineral (Development and Regulation) Act, 2002, exclusively to government-owned companies and entities, after specifically citing the need to "safeguard" strategic interest of the country and curbing illegal mining of atomic minerals. The restrictions on the private sector were also extended to mineral concessions in offshore areas, and the rules were brought at par with the regulations governing mining of these minerals in onshore areas. Among these beach sand minerals is monazite, the mineral from which thorium is extracted. Thorium is a key ingredient of India's three-stage nuclear programme that can be turned into nuclear fuel after being combined with a fissile material such as plutonium. Since the other beach sand minerals and monazite generally occur together, companies handling beach sand minerals were earlier required to get a license from the atomic sector regulator AERB (Atomic Energy Regulatory Board), with the licensing conditions requiring the licensee to, after separating the beach sand minerals, dispose of the tailings, which contain monazite, within its company premises or as backfill. Inspectors from AERB then surveyed these areas to ensure the licensing conditions

These rules were tightened progressively by the NDA Government from 2015, all the way up to the July 2019 notification, to effectively restrict the activities of the private sector in the mining of practically all these min-

Many of the hearings during the Covid period were attended via Whatsapp video calls by the Malekudiyas with the help of their advocate Dinesh Hegde Ullepady. The Malekudiya tribal community lives in the forests around the national park, and subsists by selling forest produce and engaging in small agriculture.

When he was arrested, Vittala was in the second semester of a journalism masters programme at Mangalore University. He was in prison between March to June and had to run between courts in Puttur and Belthangady to obtain special permission to write his semester exams in 2012. "I was taken in handcuffs to the exam and this created a controversy at the time." Vittala said.

The father and son were granted technical bail in June 2012 after police failed to file a chargesheet at the end of 90 days of judicial custody. Vittala completed his course in 2016 and got a job in a vernacular newspaper in trict court for an honorable acquittal and not just an acquittal. Honorable acquittals are given when police have filed a false case and the honour of the arrested person has to be restored. The district court has given only an acquittal and we will approach the High Court for an honorable acquittal," he said. One of the key factors that the third additional district judge for Dakshina Kannada, B B Jakati, pointed out while acquitting them is that the police failed to provide any evidence of alleged Naxal links from three mobile phones that were among the seized material. "The CDR of these mobiles

Yogesh, Arun's colleague, says, We rescued three people from the flat where the fire broke out. Arun then went to check the balcony. But suddenly, the fire flared up and spread, and he got stuck there. We tried to reach him but couldn't.'

In videos of the incident, Arun can be seen hanging from the balcony and trying to reach a window ledge on the floor below but loses his grip and falls to the ground, his body hitting a terrace extension on one of the floors during the fall. He was rushed to King Edward Memorial Hospital, Parel, where he was declared brought dead. At their home in Hathigani village, in Prayagraj district, Vinay, 40, says he spoke to his brother around 11.30 am, less than an hour before the fire broke out in the Mumbai building.

Recalling his last conversation with his younger sibling, Vinay says, "He told us that he has sent Rs 2,000 for the family and that half of it should be set aside for our mother's medicines. And then, sometime later, I got this video... I couldn't bear to watch him fall off... it was frightening." "Every time he called, he ould talk to everyone in the house, including my three children," says Vinay, a daily wager who has been without work since last Diwali, when he injured his hand in a cracker burst. Vinay's family and their mother Kamla Devi, 51, an asthma patient, had been dependent on Arun's earnings. Arun's father Lalita Prasad died around 10 years ago.

Vinay says Arun, who left for Mumbai in search of a job around 18 months ago, last came home around a year ago for their sister Shilpa's wedding. "He helped out a lot with the wedding. He never spent anything on himself. All his money was for us." says Vinay. Arun's uncle Mukesh Pandey.

However, Special Judge Parveen Singh discharged the accused and said "there is no evidence on record on the basis of which such meaning can be given to these words" and that since there are many interpretations, the NIA's interpretation cannot be accepted.

On the word "ghee" in the messages, the court said Salman is "definitively using certain code where the word 'ghee' stands for something which is not the literal meaning of this word. However, on what basis the prosecution states that the word 'ghee' is a code for explosives has not been speci-

"The cipher on the basis of which this code has been deciphered has also not been disclosed before the court. Even the Special Public Prosecutor in his own submissions has stated that it could mean explosives or other substances. Therefore, the word 'ghee', even according to the prosecution, could not be taken to only mean explosives....thus, on the basis of this message, no grave sus-activities," the court said. Similarly on the word "khidmat", the court said the agency has deciphered the word to mean "in the service of persons who have undergone terrorist training".

This could be one meaning which could be assigned to this word but the literal meaning of this word is service and it could be any service." the court said.

The NIA had relied on two prosecution witnesses who alleged that they overheard the accused Mohd Salman talking to someone from abroad over the phone, where he allegedly said that he "raised these funds for some special purpose", that "the donor had different plans which would be revealed at right time" and that "sympathisers should be identified who could be connected with Salman for doing any kind of work".

Besides the phone messages, the NIA relied on the three terms used by the prosecution witnesses -- 'special purpose', 'different plans' and 'any kind of work' -- to allege that the accused was looking for sympathisers to carry out terror activities.

On this, the court said, "There is no evidence on record on the basis of which such meaning can be given to these words..."

Randhawa connection of Aroosa Alam with

Pakistani spy agency ISI have been question from the media on whether Aroosa was an ISI agent. Randhawa had said in Ialandhar that he would ask the Director General of Police to look into 'what relations Bibi ji (Aroosa) has [with ISI]". Randhawa added that he would also ask the DGP to probe reports of drones coming from Pakistan during Amarinder's time as chief minister.

Amarinder hit back on Friday, saving that as his cabinet colleague, he had never heard Randhawa complain about Aroosa, In tweets posted on his behalf by his media adviser Raveen Thukral, Amarinder said Aroosa had been "coming for 16 years with due GoI clearances", and asked "Or are you alleging that both NDA and @INCIndia led UPA govts in this period connived with Pak ISI?"

"Instead of focusing on maintaining law & order at a time when terror threat is high and festivals are around the corner, you've put @DGPPunjabPolice on a baseless investigation at the cost of Punjab's safety," Amarinder said to Randhawa, whom he accused of "resorting to personal attacks".

Randhawa, who was in Delhi on Friday for a meeting with the senior leadership of the party, told reporters late in the evening, "No one has said [that an] inquiry [will be conducted]." Asserting that he was responding to a "general" query [in Jalandhar], Randhawa added that it was "fear of his (Captain's) mind", and that as a former CM, Amarinder should know that it was the R&AW and not the state government that conducted inquiries involving foreign nationals.

However, soon after, Randhawa put out four tweets, one of which read, "By the way, sir@capt_amarinder why are you so perturbed over probe on Aroosa and ISI links? Who sponsored her visa and everything concerning her will be thoroughly probed. I do hope everyone concerned will cooperate with police in probe. FULL REPORTS ON

Good news for now: Pollution low, winter starting on cleaner note

Monsoon season was the 'cleanest' since 2018. Praveen Khanna

ABHINAYA HARIGOVIND NEW DELHI OCTOBER 22

METEOROLOGICAL CONDI-TIONS causing an extended period of rainfall this year have meant that the 2021 winter is beginning with a "cleaner threshold" compared to previous years, according to an analysis by the Centre for Science and Environment (CSE).

The analysis assesses PM 2.5 levels from January 1, 2018, to October 15, 2021. PM 2.5 levels begin to breach the 24-hour standard resulting in bad air days when the monsoon retreats. This began in September in 2018 and 2020, while it was delayed to October in 2019 and 2021.

The period from September 1 to October 15 is considered to be 'pre-winter' in the analysis. According to figures provided by CSE, the average PM 2.5 level for the pre-winter season this year was $42 \mu g/m3$, lower than 62μg/m3 in 2020, 51 μg/m3 in 2019, and 59 μg/m3 in 2018.

Anumita Roychowdhury, executive director, research and advocacy at CSE, said, "The intense monsoon and delayed rains this year contributed to a relatively cleaner pre-winter season this year. What we are seeing now is the effect of the weather. The fire count is lower, but that could also be because of the rains delaying the fires. We cannot predict to what extent the pollution is going to bounce back this winter. We cannot take it for granted that a cleaner pre-winter period will assure a cleaner winter."

CSE's analysis of fire count ata from the NASA satellites indicates that fire count in the prewinter season this year is less than half of what was recorded last year. This is attributed to the rain spells witnessed this year or cloud cover which may have hampered satellite imagery. The fire count (aggregate for Punjab and Haryana) for the pre-winter season last year was 5,078, as opposed to 2,351 this year. In 2019, it stood at 2,299, up from 1,765 in 2018. The total count for the winter season in 2020 was 75,600, a rise from 48,155 in 2019, and 63,979 in 2018.

Average PM2.5 for Sept 1 to Oct 15 (in µg/m3)

The contribution of farm stubble burning to air quality began around October 10, 2021, same as in 2018 and 2020, the analysis noted. This contribution peaked on October 16 this year when 14% of PM 2.5 levels in Delhi were attributed to stubble burning by the SAFAR monitoring system. The contribution of stubble burning to PM 2.5 levels can go up to 40%. The average contribution per day last year was 12.2%, higher than 8.9% per day in 2019, and 10.9% per day in 2018. Last winter, PM 2.5 levels were in the severe category for 23 days, down from 25 in 2019-20, and 34 days in the winter of 2018-19. The winter seasonal average PM 2.5 level was 194µg/m3 in 2020, 180µg/m3 in 2019, and 200 μg/m3 in 2018.

Delhi saw a cleaner monsoon this year, but a more polluted summer. The analysis indicates that this year, the monsoon season was the 'cleanest' for Delhi since 2018. The average PM 2.5 levels over the monsoon season this year was 41 µg/m3, compared to 44 µg/m3 in 2020, 46 $\mu g/m3$ in 2019 and 49 $\mu g/m3$ in 2018. The summer this year showed higher PM 2.5 levels than 2020. Summer in 2020 saw an average PM 2.5 level of 57 µg/m3, while this year recorded a higher average of $79 \mu g/m3$.

New Delhi: The government has signed an MoU with IIT Kanpur for a source apportionment and forecasting study on air pollutants in Delhi.

The Delhi Cabinet had earlier approved the project called 'Real-time source apportionment and forecasting for advance air pollution management in Delhi.' The study costs Rs 12 crore, according to a senior DPCC official. Air quality will be analysed and interpreted on a weekly, monthly and seasonal basis, with secondary organic and inorganic aerosols, molecular markers and polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbons. The source apportionment project is expected to help identify sources of pollution and can help assess the impact of different sources like vehicular emissions, industries, dust, and biomass burning. Anti-cracker drives in city ahead of Diwali The government has tasked sub-divisional magistrates (SDMs) with organising anticracker campaigns across the city ahead of Diwali. SDMs have also been empowered to take action against the illegal sale of firecrackers and seize them, along with police, according to Environment Minister Gopal Rai.

The government has also directed SDMs of 33 zones to hold meetings on air pollution with RWAs, market associations and NGOs on October 28 and 29. ENS

Court warns of cost if riot probe officers keep seeking adjournments

New Delhi: A Delhi court has told the Delhi Police Commissioner and DCP (Northeast) that they shall be "held personally responsible for the imposition of cost" if IO in Delhi riot cases seek adjournment for compliance of orders on the ground that they were not aware of the directions. Chief Metropolitan Magistrate Arun Kumar Garg had over a month ago imposed a cost of Rs 5,000 on police after the IO sought an adjournment to supply a copy of the chargesheet to an accused. The court had also asked the police commissioner to conduct an enquiry and deduct the cost from the officer responsible. However, on Thursday, no report was filed by the police commissioner, though the DCP had requested an extension of time to conduct the enquiry. The court has now asked the commissioner to explain why appropriate action as per law should not be taken against him.

Teacher says being forced to take vaccine, moves HC

New Delhi: The HC Friday asked the government to respond to a petition challenging the decision to not permit teachers and school staff in public schools in case they fail to get themselves vaccinated against Covid-19 by October 15. A petition has been filed before the court by a teacher working in a private-aided school against the decision, contending that he is suffering from a number of medical ailments and has not been taking any allopathic treatment for many years. He has thus sought exemption from taking the vaccine on medical grounds. ENS

IN LETTER TO POLICE, TALK OF 'OUTSIDERS, ROHINGYA, BANGLADESHIS'

Namaz row continues in Gurgaon: Protesters zero in on new prayer site

PAVNEET SINGH CHADHA GURGAON, OCTOBER 22

WHILE NAMAZ at Gurgaon's Sector 47 site, which has faced protests over the past month from residents, went off peacefully, another site saw a flare up Friday after at least 30 protesters, including those affiliated with Bajrang Dal and Vishwa Hindu Parishad, disrupted Friday prayers at Sector 12 A chowk.

Police said protesters raised 'Jai Shri Ram' and 'Bharat Mata ki Jai' slogans amid deployment of security personnel. Protesters alleged namaz was being offered "illegally" by "outsiders".

The protesters also told police that if namaz is offered at the same site next Friday and an "untoward incident" were to occur, it would be the responsibility of the administration.

Police sources and district administration officials said that the Sector 12 site had been chosen for prayers "with the consent of residents" after namaz was disrupted at another location. It is among 37 sites finalised on May 18,2018, by the administration for Friday prayers after discussions with members of both communities. Police said prayers have been offered here for more than a year now without disruptions.

Friday prayers were disrupted at Sector 12 A chowk. PTI

Protesters, however, alleged the 'permission' granted by the administration was only for one day and conditional on the ground that there would be no objection from local residents.

In a written complaint submitted to the police Friday, a resident of Rajiv Nagar claimed that for some time, people who are not from nearby areas — Rajiv Nagar, Mianwali colony and Gurgaon village — had been offering namaz at Sector 12 A chowk.

In the letter, signed by protesters, she claimed: "I have a suspicion that these people are Rohingyas or from Bangladesh. Their IDs should be checked and a written list should be prepared.

The residents of the area are outraged about this issue and it could escalate into violence.'

Kulbhushan Bhardwaj, who was leading the protests on Friday, said, "We don't object to local residents from Muslim community who are offering prayers. But, there has to be an enquiry to check who are these 'outsiders' who are coming here illegally and disturbing harmony. We don't know who they are. This will not be tolerated. Residents in Sector 47 are also protesting. Namaz have given a complaint in writing to the police.'

Yash Garg, deputy commissioner (DC), Gurgaon, said, "We have taken cognizance of the matter. There were protests today during namaz in Sector 12. We are examining it from all angles and a decision shall be taken keeping in mind everyone's sentiments."

Last week, after consultations with the DC, residents of Sector 47 had decided to defer the protests for at least two weeks.

Addressing the issue after chairing a meeting of the grievance redressal committee in Gurgaon last week, Haryana Chief Minister Manohar Lal Khattar had said, "Everyone has a right to pray. No one should hurt the sentiments of others, nor should anyone disrupt the prayers. Prayers should be offered at the designated sites as suggested by the administration. At the same time, it should not lead to any hindrance related to any task or traffic. The administration is handling the situation and I have asked them to resolve the issue amicably with agreement of all parties."

Rahees Khan, who had come to pray at Sector 12 A, said, "At 12.45 pm, a group of people raising slogans gathered at the site and tried to disrupt namaz. The

for an hour and asked them to shift the location. I have been coming to this site to pray for more than a year."

Satender Singh, SHO, Sector 14 police station, said, "A group of 30-35 protesters including from Bajrang Dal had objected to namaz at Sector 12 chowk. They resorted to sloganeering. We asked them to submit their complaint and issues in writing. They have submitted one. The protesters also said that they would not allow the namaz to be held at the site from next week. The police and district administration are working to resolve the issue."

Haji Shehzad Khan, chairman of the Muslim Ekta Manch, said, "It is the responsibility of the administration to ensure protection for people praying at the designated sites."

Anurag Kulshrestha, coordinator of media cell, VHP, Gurgaon, said: "Representatives from Bajrang Dal, Durga Vahini and VHP, along with residents of the area, had protested. The property where the namaz is being offered is private land. This is a tactic to encroach; it is happening in other sectors too. Earlier, only a few people used to offer namaz here, but now the number is increasing each week."

At Ganga Ram, 375 procedures in five years for disease of food pipe

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

SIR GANGA Ram Hospital (SGRH) claimed it has completed 375 special procedures in the last five years to treat a rare and debilitating disease of the food pipe called Achalasia Cardia.

The procedure, called Per Oral Endoscopic Myotomy (POEM), was performed on patients in the age group of 14-90 years, with a mean age of 47 years, of which there were 43% females and 57% males, Professor Anil Arora, Chairman of the Institute of Liver, Gastroenterology and Pancreaticobiliary Sciences (IL-GPS) at SGRH said Friday. He explained that in Achalasia Cardia, the lower esophageal sphincter (LES), which is present between the esophagus and the stomach, "fails to relax during swallowing and, hence, food cannot enter the stomach and gets stuck in the food pipe". The symptoms include difficulty in swallowing, chest pain followed by vomiting. Patients can suffer from loss of weight and poor quality of life. It is a rare disease that occurs in one in 1 lakh individuals and is often misdiagnosed as the much more common Gastroesophageal reflux disease which has similar symptoms, said Arora.

He said POEM had become the "preferred treatment option" due to its "minimally invasive non-surgical nature and rapid and almost complete symptom relief with excellent outcomes".

In POEM, the non-relaxing LES is cut from within the cavity of the esophagus using endoscopy. "The procedure takes around 1-1.5 hours and is performed under general anaesthesia and, hence, is painless...," said Arora.

to SKM on visit to BJP worker's home: Yogendra Yadav ARANYA SHANKAR NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

SWARAJ INDIA leader Yogendra Yadav, who was Thursday suspended for a month from the Samyukta Kisan Morcha (SKM), Friday said he regretted his "procedural flaw" in not speaking to SKM leaders before meeting the family of the deceased BJP worker in Lakhimpur Kheri, and said it was "naïve" of him to think the gesture would be understood "in the sense in which it was meant".

"There is a question of principle, there's a question of policy and there is a question of procedure. What I did was procedurally flawed. Actually, I went in my personal capacity, with colleagues of the Jai Kisan Andolan, and didn't even name SKM, but when you're in the midst of a struggle like this, whatever you do reflects on everyone else. In that sense, I should have recognised it and spoken to them,"

Yadav told The Indian Express. Asked what he would have done if the SKM didn't agree at the point, he said, "I would have argued with them, persuaded them, maybe fought with them or postponed my plan by a day or two. I don't know. But not talking to them, and them discovering all this through media, was something which was not correct."

Yadav said in terms of academic philosophy there was the question of substantive ethics and procedural ethics: "In substantive terms, I've made my position clear but procedurally there was a flaw and I admit that." Yadav said he hoped his suspension could start a dialogue about "issues of humanitarian gestures, of recognising the humanity of your adversary and questions of moral complexity". The space for anything decent has shrunk so much in our public life irrespective of ideologies and parties... It was naïve of me to expect that a gesture like this would be understood in the sense in which it was meant," he said.

"These are things which have kind of almost disappeared from our public life. I say disappeared as this was very much part of our freedom struggle, Gandhi would worry about workers of Lancashire whose jobs were being taken away because of the Swadeshi movement. Gandhi did not say they are foreigners... We need to bring back some of these questions. A big and historic movement like this Kisan movement should take the responsibility of re-rescuing some of these questions that have disappeared from our public life," said Yadav.

He said the decision by SKM was taken in his presence and he got the chance to state his viewpoint, but he didn't have any idea beforehand that his suspension was on the cards.

In a statement Friday, Yadav said he visited BJP worker Shubham Mishra's home "not to glorify him" but to pay his condolences. "To me, sharing grief of everyone, including our adversaries, is a principle that draws upon humanitarianism as well as Indian culture. As a policy, I have believed that expressing such sentiments do not weaken but actually strengthen any mass movement. Naturally, not everyone in the movement shares this understanding," he said.

"In any public movement like this one, collective wisdom must prevail above individual understanding. I regret not consulting my colleagues in SKM before taking this decision. I also regret that this has hurt many of my colleagues involved in the farmers' movement. I respect the collective decision-making process of the SKM and gladly submit myself to the punishment awarded to me," he said.

Asked by The Indian Express if he will continue to participate at protest sites as he's not allowed to speak on stage, Yadav said, "Of course. I enjoy those meetings most where I don't have to speak, and I hope to contribute more than I did earlier.'

Man assaults chicken seller at Singhu, held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE GURGAON, OCTOBER 22

A MAN was arrested at Singhu border Thursday for allegedly assaulting a chicken seller and breaking his leg with a stick after the latter refused to give him a chicken for free, said police. The accused has been identified as Naveen Kumar, a Nihang ikh from Karnal.

The incident took place on Thursday afternoon when one Manoj Paswan, a native of Darbhanga, who is a poultry farm worker, was carrying some chickens on a cart for a delivery. Police said the accused asked Paswan to give him a chicken, and when he refused, an argument broke out. Ravi Kumar, SHO, Kundli police station, said, "The accused hit the victim with a stick and broke his leg. The victim was admitted to a hospital for treatment. The accused, a Nihang, was arrested and an FIR was lodged. He will be produced in court today."

In a video, Paswan can purportedly be heard narrating the incident: "He asked me to give him a chicken. I told him I cannot as there is a count of chickens that are given to us and we have to deliver them. If there is any missing, I would be accused of theft. I took out a slip from my pocket to show him the count. While taking out the slip, the accused saw a beediin my pocket. He accused me of smoking beedi at the protest site. I told him that I had not... But he started assaulting me with a stick."

A police officer said, "The accused had come to the protest site at Singhu earlier and joined the Nihang sect in April this year." An FIR was registered under IPC sections 323 (voluntarily causing hurt) and 506 (criminal intimidation) at Kundli police station, said police.

Court junks Sharjeel bail plea in 2019 Jamia violence case

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

A DELHI court in its order dismissing the bail plea of INU student Sharjeel Imam, arrested for allegedly making inflammatory speeches and inciting violence in Jamia Nagar in 2019, observed that the evidence that rioters were incited by his speech and indulged in acts of rioting "is scanty and sketchy". It said the prosecution version can't be built on "imaginative thinking", and once this is removed, it "appears to be crumbling like a house of cards".

On December 15, 2019, a mob comprising over 3,000 people attacked police and torched several vehicles in Iamia Nagar during a demonstration against the Citizenship Amendment Bill. The prosecution had claimed the mob was instigated by Imam's speeches against CAA-NRC outside Jamia Millia Islamia.

Additional Sessions Judge Anuj Aggarwal, in his order, also stated a "cursory and plain reading of the speech dated 13.12.2019 reveals that the same is clearly on communal/divisive lines". "In my view, the tone and tenor of the incendiary speech tends to have a debilitating effect upon public tranquility, peace and harmony of society," the court said.

It further said the theory of rioters being incited by his speech as propounded by the investigating agency "leaves gaping holes..."

'Neither any eyewitness has been cited by prosecution nor there is any other evidence on record to suggest that co-accused got instigated and committed the alleged act of rioting etc, upon hearing the speech of applicant/ accused Sharjeel Imam. Further, there is no evidence corroborating version of prosecution that alleged rioters/co-accused were a part of the audience addressed by applicant/accused Sharjeel Imam on 13.12.2019," the order read.

SWAMPED

"In either case, it is not legally permissible to build the edifice of the prosecution version upon the foundation of imagination or upon inadmissible confession before a police officer. Once the legally impermissible foundation of imaginative thinking and disclosure statement of accused/coaccused is removed, the prosecution version on this count appears to be crumbling like a house of cards." the court said.

ASJ Aggarwal quoted English poet John Milton – give me the liberty to know, to argue freely, and to utter according to conscience, above all liberties and harmony of the society" — to make the point that the "fundamental right of 'freedom of speech and expression' as enshrined under Article 19 has been placed upon a very high pedestal in the Constitution of this country".

The court, however, held that the fundamental right of "freedom of speech and expression" cannot be exercised at the cost of communal peace and harmony of the society.

The judge also quoted Swami Vivekananda in the bail order: "We are what our thoughts have made us; so take care about what you think; Words are secondary; Thoughts live; they travel far".

In a first, women police personnel will be on beat duty

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

IN A first, women police personnel have been appointed to beats and sub-divisions in Delhi's Central district, giving them more responsibility in controlling street crimes as well as offences against women and children, Until now, only male staff have been deployed in beats and sub-divisions across the city's 15 districts.

DCP (Central) Shweta Chauhan told The Indian Express 'We have now started a pathbreaking initiative by deploying all-women staff in earmarked beats and divisions at every police station in the Central district for traditional policing to curb crime and ensure safety and security of citizens." The DCP added that they will be referred to as 'Prashakti Beat Staff' "We have also formed a 'Veera

PICKING CANDIDATES

IN A departure from practice, Congress is set to begin discussions on selection of candidates for the forthcoming Assembly elections much in advance. And the focus is Uttar Pradesh. A meeting of the Central Election Committee – the panel headed by Sonia Gandhi that finalises the candidates – will take place on Saturday to discuss candidate selection for the state. Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, the AICC general secretary in charge of Uttar Pradesh, earlier this week announced that 40 per cent of the party's candidates will be women. The party could send a message showing its seriousness by announcing the first list of candidates, with many women in it, soon.

HINDI BOOST

A REVIEW has found that the use of Hindi has seen a marked jump in the Rajya Sabha Secretariat between 2019 and 2020. According to the review by Rajya Sabha Secretary General PPK Ramacharyulu on Thursday, replies in Hindi to applications and representations by the secretariat increased three times while replies in Hindi to communications received in Hindi has doubled. Issue of tender notices in Hindi went up by over a third as well. Sources said a secretariat veteran observed that this increased use of Hindi is significant, given that both Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu and the Ioint Secretary responsible for promotion of Hindi, are from non-Hindi speaking states. Naidu has been emphasising on use of Indian languages by MPs in the proceedings of the House and of Hindi in official work.

SHASTRI BHAWAN, which houses several ministries and departments, is perpetually being redone, with the building facing a severe space crunch. Every time there is an expansion or reshuffle of ministerial portfolios, the pace of renovation picks up. Currently, work is underway to carve out an office space for newly inducted Minister of State for Education Rajkumar Ranjan Singh. On Friday, around 8 pm, there was a flutter as a wall mounted fan caught fire on the third floor of the building. The Delhi Fire Services brought the situation under control within minutes.

AISHWARYA MOHANTY BHUBANESWAR, OCTOBER 22

ODISHA CONGRESS working president Pradeep Maihi on Friday resigned from primary membership of the party, saying that the Congress lacked the desire to serve people.

"I beg to state with extreme sadness and pain that I have decided to resign from the primary membership of Indian National Congress," Majhi, a former MP and an influential tribal leader, wrote in his resignation letter to Congress president Sonia Gandhi

The resignation is yet to be formally accepted by the party. Majhi's decision is a setback for the Congress ahead of panchayat polls, scheduled for February next year. The party finished third in the 2017 rural polls, after the BJD and the BJP.

It is not known what Majhi's next step will be, but there is speculation that the former MP may join the BJD.

Gujarat Cong leaders push for 'experienced' state unit chief

In meet with Rahul, signal resistance to Hardik Patel's bid to be PCC president

VAIBHAV JHA & MANOJ CG AHMEDABAD. NEW DELHI. OCTOBER 22

SEVERAL SENIOR leaders of the Gujarat Congress are learnt to have told Rahul Gandhi on Friday that they are in favour of an "experienced" leader being appointed as the next state party president to lead the party into Assembly elections next year, signalling that there is resistance to Hardik Patel's bid to become the GPCC president.

Rahul met 23 Gujarat Congress leaders, his first such interaction with them in a long time. He and Raghu Sharma, newly appointed AICC leader in charge of Gujarat, first met the leaders together and then individually. Sources said that among the names suggested for the post of PCC president were former state Congress presidents Shaktisinh Gohil, Bharatsinh Solanki and for $mer Lok Sabha \, MP Jag dish \, Thakor.$ According to sources, many leaders proposed the names of legislators Virji Thummar and Punjabhai Vansh for the post of Leader of Opposition.

The indication from the party high command was that the leadership change in the state could be announced around Diwali. Sources said the leaders insisted on individual meetings with Rahul when he asked whether they would like to have an open discussion. Earlier this year, GPCC president Amit Chavda and Leader of Opposition in the Gujarat Assembly Paresh Dhanani submitted their resignations following the party's poor performance in the state's local body elections. Sources said most of the senior leaders felt the party should be led by an "experienced" leader at this juncture, who can take everyone along and cobble together an alliance with some local parties. The indication was that the senior leaders have joined hands to block Patel, who is now a working president of the Gujarat Congress, from becoming the GPCC president. Patel, on the other hand, reportedly enjoys the confidence of the central leadership.

The Gujarat Congress has seen a downward spiral since the 2017 Assembly elections with several MLAs switching to the BJP. It suffered a rout in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections and performed badly in the subsequent Rajya Sabha polls, Assembly bypolls and local body polls.

The Congress had appointed Chavda (45) as GPCC president in early 2018, replacing veteran leader Bharatsinh Solanki.

However, the Congress could not win a single seat in Gujarat in the Lok Sabha elections. In July 2020, Hardik Patel was made the working president, while Chavda remained state party president. Cracks, however, emerged during the 2021 local polls when Patel claimed that he was not given any rally to address by the party.

UPSC candidates have no right to cadre of choice: SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

SUCCESSFUL IAS aspirants have no right to be allocated to a cadre of their choice, the Supreme Court ruled on Friday

A bench of Justices Hemant Gupta and V Ramasubramanian said this while setting aside a Kerala High Court order, which asked the Centre to grant Kerala cadre to IAS officer A Shainamol. She had been allotted Himachal Pradesh cadre.

The top court pointed out that in the 1995 case of Union of India and Ors v. Rajiv Yadav, IAS and Ors, a three-judge bench had laid down that allotment of cadre is not a matter of right. The court had said that "a selected candidate had a right to consider the appointment of the IAS but he had no such right to be allocated to cadre of his choice or to his home state. Allocation of cadre was an incidence of service."

Allowing the Centre's appeal challenging the HC decision of February 29, 2017, the bench said Shainamol "as a candidate for All-India Service...has opted to serve anywhere in the country". It said that "once an applicant gets selected to service, the scramble for home cadre starts".

Rejecting arguments that her home state — Kerala — was not consulted before allocating her

Himachal cadre, the court said the State has "no discretion of allocation of a cadre at its whims and fancies", and "therefore, the Tribunal or the High Court should have refrained from interfering with allocation of cadre on the argument of alleged violation of the allocation circular".

The verdict dealt with the question whether consultation in respect of allocation of cadre is required to be done with the State from which the candidate belongs or with the State to which the candidate is being allocated.

It pointed out that the "entire basis" of Shainamol's "claim is that there was no consultation with the State of Kerala" and that the "argument is however untenable"

The court said, "The applicant was allocated to the State of Himachal Pradesh and there was a consent duly given by the Himachal Pradesh for her allocation to that State. In fact, no consultation was required to be carried out in respect of the applicant with Kerala. Therefore, mandate...of the Cadre Rules is satisfied when consultation was made with the State to which allocation was made", it said.

The SC said that the reasoning given by HC that there was cadre deficiency, therefore, the applicant was entitled to be allocated is "strange", and "bereft of any merit".

THE SUPREME Court Friday sought former Twitter India MD Manish Maheshwari's reply on an appeal filed by Uttar Pradesh government, challenging a Karnataka High Court order quashing the notice issued to him earlier by UP Police.

In its notice, UP Police had sought Maheshwari's presence in connection with its probe into a communally sensitive video uploaded on the microblogging site earlier this year.

A bench headed by Chief Justice of India N V Ramana issued notice to Maheshwari, after Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, who appeared for UP, contended that the matter involved questions of territorial jurisdiction.

But police said it later emerged there was no communal angle to the incident, and it took place as the assailants were allegedly unhappy with amulets distributed by Saifi, who had claimed they had certain supernatural powers.

The police said although they had issued a clarification, Twitter failed to take down the video. An FIR was subsequently reg-

The victim's son, Kripal, said: "Today, he was waiting for his turn but fell unconscious and was taken to a hospital... he was declared brought dead."

Dhanbad judge death: Iharkhand HC summons CBI director

PRESSTRUST OF INDIA RANCHI. OCTOBER 22

THE JHARKHAND High Court on Friday hauled up the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) for filing a "stereotype" chargesheet in the murder case related to the death of Dhanbad additional district judge Uttam Anand.

The court, while summoning the CBI director to appear in the case, also remarked that the agency seems to have worked like "babus" (clerks) while completing the probe and filing the chargesheet.

A division bench of Chief Justice Ravi Ranjan and Justice Suiit Naravan Prasad, while hearing the petition monitoring the investigation of judge Anand's death, referred to CBI's investigation as akin to "babudom" as the chargesheet – filed under IPC section 302 which is used on charges of murder could not substantiate the charges against the accused. The bench ordered the CBI director to appear via videconference in the case. The judges said that the chargesheet seems to have been filed merely to complete a formality.

MUZAFFARNAGAR RIOTS CASE

BJP MLA Saini,

11 others let off:

MANISH SAHU LUCKNOW, OCTOBER 22

A COURT on Friday acquitted BJP MLA Vikram Saini and 11 others in a case related to the 2013 Muzaffarnagar communal riots.

Saini and the others were accused of involvement in violence that broke out after the killing of cousins Sachin and Gaurav at Kawaal village on August 2013. Saini, the MLA from Khatauli, was the village pradhan when the incident occurred.

'Special Judge Gopal Upadhyay acquitted Vikram Saini and 11 others over benefit of doubt due to lack of evidence," said Narendra Sharma, government counsel, after the Muzaffarnagar court's verdict. The five prosecution witnesses were declared hostile after they did not support prosecution story, he said.

Saini and the other accused, who were out on bail, were present in court on Friday.

The case dates back to August 27, 2013, when Sachin and Gaurav were lynched to death soon after they allegedly killed a youth,

During the protest over the killing of Sachin and Gaurav, violence broke out in the village. The protesters pelted stones and set a car belonging to a Muslim on fire, said defence counsel Bharatveer Ahlawat.

The situation was brought under control after the arrival of a police team.

Next day, an FIR was lodged against 12 people, including Saini, under various charges, including rioting and criminal intimidation, said Ahlawat.

The three deaths are believed to have triggered the communal riots in Muzaffarnagar and adjoining districts, in which 65 people were killed and around 60,000 were displaced.

Two more cases relating to the riots are pending against Saini, in which is he accused of making hate speeches, said

Kerala eatery owner dies by suicide, blames lockdown on FB

SHAJU PHILIP THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, OCTOBER 22

A TAKEAWAY restaurant owner allegedly died by suicide by jumping in front of a speeding train in Kurichi village in Kottayam, Kerala. Before walking to the railway track early Tuesday morning, 42year-old Sarin Mohan took to Facebook, holding the government responsible for his death.

"When everything collapsed, lockdown decisions were changed. Now I am facing the threat of money lenders. I am an example for how the life of an ortrapping him in debt. Goodhearted people can help my family. I have a wife and two children. My autistic son also has the right to live," he said on Facebook.

Mohan started his takeaway restaurant last year. His wife Radhu Mohan said money lenders were harassing her husband, "He expected a Mudra loan (the Central government loan scheme for micro enterprises) of Rs 10 lakh, but that did not materialise," she said. Local police said they are yet to get details of Mohan's financial liability.

TMC MP's Convoy Attacked

KERALA GOVERNMENT on Friday ordered a probe into the incident relating to a child being forcibly taken from his mother, a SFI leader, by her parents and handed over to a state-run shelter for adoption.

The issue has come as an embarrassment for the ruling CPI(M) as the parents of the SFI leader, Anupama S Chandran, are local party leaders. It has also emerged that party leaders had been privy to the matter.

State Health and Family Welfare Minister Veena George said a departmental inquiry has been ordered into the incident. "The shelter of the child welfare A probe would be held into what happened to the child after that,"

State Council for Child Welfare general secretary Shiju Khan refused to comment. Police sources said the child

ELGAAR PARISHAD CASE

NIA opposes plea seeking probe into 'restrictions' on letters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE MUMBAI. OCTOBER 22

ARGUING THAT Anand Teltumbde was writing "objectionable content" in his letters which were turned into a magazine article, compelling the jail authorities to withhold some of them, the National Investigation Agency (NIA) sought dismissal of the plea by the wife of the Elgaar Parishad case accused, lodged in Taloja Central Jail in Navi Mumbai, seeking an inquiry into alleged restrictions on two activists on writing to their spouses and lawyers.

The NIA said prisoners can send and receive letters to their family members, subject to scrutiny of content of the letters.

The NIA, through its Mumbai branch Additional Superintendent of Police Anil Kumar Nair, gave an affidavit in reply to Teltumbde's plea, which was listed before a division bench of Justice Nitin M Jamdar and Justice Sarang V Kotwal, on Friday.

The court has been hearing a plea by Rama Anand Teltumbde, along with Susan Abraham Gonsalves, wife of co-accused Vernon Gonsalves, alleging that letters from their respective spouses were being either withheld or posted belatedly by jail authorities.

Stating that such restrictions were against the rights of the prisoners, the plea said the alleged act by the jail authority was "deliberate and malicious".

stir, govt clears Parsa coal block EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE RAIPUR. OCTOBER 22

A WEEK after Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel met tribals who had marched over 300 km to Raipur to protest against coal mining in Hasdeo Aranya, the Centre has given stage II clearance for mining in Parsa coal block in Chhattisgarh.

Parsa is one of the six coal blocks allocated in the region despite their agitation, according to Hasdeo Aranya Bachao Sangharsh Samiti, a joint platform of protesters from Sarguja and Korba districts.

Ministry The Environment, Forest and Climate Change letter issued on Thursday states that clearances were based on the state government's recommendation. The protesters claim that when they met the CM, they were told the Centre was pushing for coal mining in the region. "The state government has furnished compliance report in respect of the conditions stipulated in the in-principle approval and has requested the Government to grant final approval," the letter stated.

According to Chhattisgarh Bachao Andolan, one of the groups fighting for the Hasdeo Aranya forest, this will lead to the destruction of at least 1 lakh trees in 841 hectare area.

"We have been fighting against the fake gram sabhas that were allegedly conducted in 2017-2018 in Hariharpur village, Salhi village and Fatehpur village..." Alok Shukla, convenor of Chhattisgarh Bachao Andolan,

To check edible oil prices, Centre suggests limit to states: no stocking beyond 2 months

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

The government has also asked states to ensure that stakeholders do not hold stock beyond two months of their capacity.

Food and Public Distribution said. "Demand and consumption of edible oil is different for different States/UTs.... However, for finalising stock limit quantity of edible oils and oilseeds, the State/UTs commodity prices being high, inmay consider/explore previous stock limit imposed for edible oils and oilseeds by the State/UTs. It may be considered that any stakeholder (refiner, miller, wholesaler, etc.) should not hold stock in excess [of] two months of capacity."

On October 8, the department had imposed stock limits on edible oils and oilseed up to March 31,2022. The department had left it to states to decide the stock limit of edible oil and oilseed "on the basis of available stock and consumption pattern of State/Union Territory", with a few exceptions.

Addressing the media on Friday, Food Secretary Sudhanshu Pandey said despite international terventions taken by the Centre and state governments' proactive involvement have led to the cooling down of prices in India much more than the international market. Asked whether any state has imposed stock limits on edible oil or oilseed, he said, "States are discussing with edible oil processors and traders, and we are hopeful stock limits will be imposed from next week onwards.'

On October 22, all-India average retail price of groundnut oil was Rs 182.86/kg, mustard oil Rs 185.55/kg, vanaspati Rs 138.31/kg soya oil Rs 154.91/kg, sunflower oil Rs 168.21/kg, and palm oil Rs 132.64/kg.

ON OCTOBER 14, government cut import duty on crude palm oil to 0%, with agri-cess of 7.5% till March 2022. Import duty on crude sunflower oil and crude soyabean oil was reduced to 0%, with agri-cess of 5% until next March. Import duty on refined palm oil, refined sunflower oil and refined soyabean oil was cut to 17.5% until March 2022.

will start producing 240 million At IE Thinc session, experts discuss post-Covid education

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

HOWTHE implementation of the National Education Policy 2020 should be contextualised in a post-Covid world and how school education needs to be adapted to achieve the aims of the policy were central to the IE Thinc session on 'NEP 2020: India's Foundation to Become a Knowledge-Based Economy'.

At the session on Thursday, a panel of educators and experts said prioritising and emphasising certain reforms in the road to recovery will be essential, and use of technology cannot be seen as a salve even while using it to perpetuate the same learning system. The panelists at the session were Madhav Chavan, co-founder Pratham; Dr Dhir Jhingran, founder director of Language and Learning Foundation; Merlia Shaukath, founder and CEO of Madhi Foundation; and Asyia Kazmi, global education policy lead at Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. The session was moderated by Ritika Chopra, National Education Editor. The Indian Express.

The session began with a keynote address by Union

Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan, who said children will "need more than a conventional school space to learn". "NEP 2020 has highlighted the need for hybrid and innovative modes of learning. Our government has launched the PM eVidya, which includes digital content portal Diksha for one nation, one digital platform... the National Education Policy will be successful if all the initiatives — be it Nipun Bharat, PM Poshan or Vidyanjali— become mass movements," he said.

On whether the road ahead will involve choosing between prioritising deep learning reforms as envisaged by the NEP and recovery from the losses of the pandemic, Dr Jhingran said a dichotomy between the two does not exist. "Mitigating the learning losses of the pandemic require a two-orthree-year academic plan for bridging, and where key skills and competencies of previous grades have to be taught, this kind of work cannot be done unless there are certain reforms... Recovery is not two months of re $medial\, teaching \hbox{\tt ...}"\, he\, said.$ Shaukath said there has to be a balance between a radical and conservative approach to recovery and reform, and said that going back to rigidly grade-specific textbooks will not be sensible, given that students will not be at gradelevel when they return to school. On role of scaling up innovations adapted during Covid, Kazmi said. "We know what works... The focus is now innovating for implantation: how do we do it at $scale\, and\, how\, do\, we\, do\, it\, for\, those$ where are most under-served? ... There's also the role of technology in innovation but technology alone is unlikely to be the solution." Speaking on limitations of changes accelerated by the pandemic, Chavan said, "We are making technology subservient to curriculum, syllabus... Our attitudes to examination and assessment have not changed yet, and that will take some reform...'

EXPLAINED POLITICS

Behind Cong's continuous struggle in Gujarat

Some 25 state unit leaders have called on Rahul Gandhi to discuss leadership issues. Why is the party in such a state despite improving its vote share over the years?

LEENA MISRA

AHMEDABAD, OCTOBER 22

ON FRIDAY, some 25 leaders of the Gujarat Pradesh Congress Committee (GPCC) met Rahul Gandhi in Delhi. They included four former PCC chiefs, one woman (the Rajya Sabha MP Amee Yagnik), and one Muslim (the MLA Gyasuddin Shaikh). This was the first such representation from Gujarat to discuss leadership issues. Gujarat votes in Assembly elec-

The party, which has seen its vote share improving over the years, is struggling with organisational issues. The posts of GPCC president and Leader of Opposition have been vacant since March when Amit Chavda and Paresh Dhanani respectively resigned, following the party's rout in local body elections. The current number of Congress MLAs is 65, down from 77 in 2017, with several having defected ahead of Rajya Sabha elections in 2020.

Top-heaviness

In the over 26 years that the Congress has been out of power, the party has retained a dedicated set of voters, but has not been able to swing any new voters its way, nor has is it been open to any new ideas or faces. For instance, in spite of winning 77 of the 182 seats in 2017. largely credited to the disaffection among Patidars on account of the state-wide quota agitation led by Hardik Patel, the 28year old has not been welcome in the PCC since he joined the party in 2019.

Gujarat has been ruled by the BJP since 1995, except for a break in 1997-98 when Shankersinh Vaghela rebelled to launch his party and form a government with the backing of the Congress. But the elections that followed in 1998 indicated no room for a third force with Vaghela's party winning just four seats. BIP won 117 seats and the Congress 53, polling 35.2 per cent in the seats it contested. This was the pre-Narendra Modi era.

Election trends

Over the years, in the Modi era, after the BJP won its highest number of seats at 127 in 2002, in elections that followed the communal riots post the Godhra train burning, its seat share has fallen from 69.78 per cent in 2002, to 54.4 per cent in 2017, while the Congress's went up from 28.2 per cent to 42.31 per cent. This, coupled with a higher turnout, clearly suggests anti-incumbency.

The 2017 election was held at a difficult time for the Congress. With four months to go, Leader of Opposition Vaghela walked out of the party, with six other MLAs following him, some joining the BJP days ahead of a crucial Rajya Sabha election.

Yet the Congress did well, owing largely to the churning building up in the state itself. There was disaffection in the BJP's main constituency – the Patidars – manifested in the state-wide agitation for quota led by Hardik Patel. In 2016, the public flogging of Dalits in Una saw ripples across the country and gave rise to Dalit leader Jignesh Mevani who went on to win as independent MLA with the backing of the Congress in 2017. In addition to there was distress among farmers because of erratic rains and failed crops, coupled with nationwide anger among certain sections of traders caused by demonetisation and the teething issues in the GST regime.

BJP's maverick moves

Notwithstanding the pandemic and the criticism about its mishandling, the migrant crisis and the economic losses due to the lockdown, the BJP quickly covered lost ground to post a resounding victory in the local self-government bodies' elections in February this year. The Congress was largely clueless after Sonia Gandhi's political adviser Ahmed Patel, a Rajya Sabha MP and the man seen as the party's trouble-shooter and strategist, died of Covid 19 some four months before the elections.

The BJP, on the other hand, conducted a few experiments with the electorate using the local elections as a dry run. It appointed C R Paatil, a Surat-based MP with roots in Maharashtra, as the state unit chief who announced a target of winning all 182 seats in 2022. The BJP parliamentary board then decided not to give any tickets to candidates who had done three terms, and who were over age 60, in the local body polls, and not to appoint more members from a family in posts in the party organisation. The formula worked, and the party, braver with its victory, went ahead and replaced the entire Vijay Rupani government last month, bringing in a dark horse Bhupendra Patel as Chief Minister and a team of fresh faces. Although the move came as a shock to some sections of the BIP, sources said the party had been working on it for three months before the announcement. Rebellion had preceded the move, with some ministers unwilling to let go of their positions and their supporters holding protests, but all that was contained.

In contrast, in Puniab which goes to polls soon, the tensions continue after the Congress replaced Amarinder Singh as CM. The situation in Congress-ruled Chhattisgarh, too, continues to be fluid.

Congress's nagging issues

In 1985, the Congress won 149 of the 182 seats under the leadership of the late CM Madhavsinh Solanki. The BJP has targeted breaking this record in 2022, and begun working on an electorate that is young and has never seen a Congress government in Gujarat. Solanki was known to have used the grouping of the KHAM (Kshatriya-Harijan-Adivasi-Muslim) to win elections, isolating the upper castes like the Patels (Patidars). The BJP became a welcome option for the Patidars, and Gujarat became a successful laboratory for its Hindutva politics. The Congress, which largely relied on its traditional vote banks, lost ground as it had nothing new to offer. Modi's taking charge as Chief Minister in 2001 only made the BJP stronger as it was seen as a party willing to take risks and experiment, mirroring the enterprising nature of its electorate.

Congress leaders say the party's biggest dilemma today is "Who is the Congress party for? Is it for Dalits, for Muslims, for the youth? For tribals?" And they have no answers as all these core constituencies have got fragmented. The induction of Hardik into the Congress may, in a way, be compared to when Vaghela merged his new party with the Congress in 1999; he was the first with roots in the RSS to be appointed GPCC chief. While the party did badly in the Assembly elections, under his leadership, Congress did well in the Lok Sabha elections of 2004 and 2009, when the UPA was in power at the Centre. But in $2014\,and\,2019, the\,party\,did\,not\,win\,a\,single$ seat in Lok Sabha from Gujarat.

But Vaghela remained unacceptable to the local leadership in Gujarat, as ĥas Hardik. Rahul's bringing in Mevani and Kanhaiya Kumar may be a sound move, but the local party unit has to back it to succeed. The voting pattern in the local elections, where AAP and Asaduddin Owaisi's AIMIM won seats in Patidar- and Muslim-dominated constituencies, also indicates space being made for a third force, by nudging out the Congress.

On the set: death of Bruce Lee's son and child actors, injuries to Bachchan, others

A cinematographer has died after actor Alec Baldwin misfired a prop gun while shooting a film. A look at some of the serious accidents that have happened on set over the years, causing death and injury.

EKTAA MALIK

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

IN A freak accident, Golden Globe winning actor Alec Baldwin misfired a prop gun during the shooting of the Western film Rust, fatally wounding the cinematographer Halyna Hutchins, and injuring the director Joel Souza. Baldwin, who is also the producer of the film, being shot in New Mexico, is currently being questioned by police.

Over the years, there have been many serious accidents on the sets of films, both in India and abroad. Some of the major ones:

Hollywood

TWILIGHT ZONE: THE MOVIE (1982): The film during whose shooting the actor Vic Morrow died, along with two child actors. They were shooting a scene at Indian Dunes, California, in which a low-flying helicopter was chasing Morrow and the two children. The helicopter spun out of control and landed on the three actors, killing them instantly. The accident led to litigation against the filmmakers for nearly a decade and brought about new safety guidelines for ROCKY IV (1985): While shooting for the climactic fight between Rocky Balboa (Sylvester Stallone) and Ivan Drago (Dolph Lundgren), the latter punched Stallone so hard that he landed in an ICU for nine days. In an effort "to keep it real", Stallone had asked Lundgren to "really connect" and "just go out there and try to clock me". Lundgren threw an uppercut that pushed Stallone's heart to his ribcage. Stallone also got hurt in an accident on the shoot of the The Expendables (2010).

TOP GUN (1986): Art Scholl, an ace stunt pilot, died while shooting for this early Tom Cruise film. He was flying a Pitts S-2 camera plane, which failed to maintain altitude and crashed into the Pacific Ocean. Scholl was attempting a spin. The aircraft is yet to be recovered. Scholl's work includes The Right Stuff, The Great Waldo Pepper, Blue Thunder and Iron Eagle. Top Gun's end credits close with the line, "The film is dedicated to the memory of Art Scholl."

THE CROW (1993): Bruce Lee's son Brandon Lee died during this shooting. The scene required him to be shot by bullets as he entered a room, but the dummy rounds were improperly made. A .44 calibre bullet hit Brandon Lee in the abdomen and lodged in his spine. He died in hospital after six hours of surgery. A month-long investigation concluded that the death was caused by negligence of the film crew.

THE DARK KNIGHT (2008): Stunt artiste Conway Wickliffe died during the test run of a scene. Wickliffe, who had earlier worked on Batman Begins, Casino Royale and Die Another Day, was leaning out of a car, holding a camera, to rehearse an action sequence where the Joker, played by Heath Ledger, blasts the Batmobile with a rocket launcher. Indian films

COOLIE (1983): Amitabh Bachchan was grievously injured during the shooting in 1982. During a fight sequence with the actor Puneet Issar, Bachchan mistimed a jump and was seriously wounded in the abdomen. He was flown to a Mumbai hospital from the Bangalore University campus, where the shooting was taking place. Bachchan received blood from 200 donors, and prayers from thousands more, and recovered. The film became a huge success; the director, Manmohan Desai, even changed parts of it to accommodate Bachchan's accident.

SWORD OF TIPU SULTAN (1989): Actor Sanjay Khan suffered massive burns

when a huge fire broke out on the sets of the TV show at Premier Studios in Mysuru. The fire was later found to have been caused by the lack of safety measures and loose wiring, and the absence of fireproof materials contributed to the fire getting out of control. The fire killed 62 people. Khan had to undergo 72 surgeries and spend more than a year in hospital.

KHAKHEE (2004): Actor Aishwarya Rai was injured during the shoot of this cop drama, directed by Rajkumar Santoshi. A ieep went out of control, hit Rai and threw her into a bush. The jeep was supposed to have halted 20 feet away. Rai fractured her

INDIAN 2: The shoot of the Kamal Haasan film, currently in the post-production stage, witnessed a freak accident that led to the death of three technicians on set and injuries nine others. Lead actors Kamal Haasan and Kajal Aggarwal, and director Shankar, narrowly escaped injury as a massive crane fell on the set. Metaverse: The post-Internet future — with Facebook and others

SHRUTI DHAPOLA

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

FACEBOOK PLANS to rename itself -- and the change could be announced at the company;s annual Connect Conference on October 28 or earlier, according to a report by the multimedia technology blog The Verge.

For Facebook, the rebranding will be a statement of its growing ambitions and focus on a new area: 'metaverse', short for metauniverse. The company has said it will invest $50 million to create a "responsible" metaverse. It announced plans this week to hire 10,000 people in the European Union over the next five years to build it.

Why is Facebook so invested in the metaverse? What's with the renaming?

We could see a new parent company under which Facebook, WhatsApp, Instagram, and others will operate — the same way as Alphabet is now the parent company of Google, CEO Mark Zuckerberg sees the metaverse as becoming a reality soon. Facebook, which also owns the Oculus VR gaming platform, wants to take the lead in building it.

This is a signal that Facebook wants to be known for more than just social media. The timing would seem right also considering the negative publicity it is facing with the latest whistleblower revelations. The company is already under regulatory scrutiny in a large number of countries, including in the US.

How did the idea of metaverse originate?

The expression first appeared in American author Neal Stephenson's Snow Crash (1992). The novel is set in a dystopian world where governments have ceded power to private corporations, and describes many aspects of the modern world such as virtual reality and digital currency.

The idea of the metaverse later appeared in works such as Ernest Cline's 2011 science fiction novel Ready Player One, which Steven Spielberg made into a film in 2018.

Before that, there was The Matrix (1999) — and there has been a significant volume of writing since. In 2020, VC investor Matthew Ball wrote an essay, 'The Metaverse: What It Is, Where to Find it, Who Will Build It, and Fortnite' on his blog, and in June this year he released a nine-part update called 'The

So, what exactly is the metaverse?

Metaverse Primer'.

Simply put, the metaverse is a parallel, virtual world where users can have different identities, possessions, and characters. It is supposed to be the post-Internet world, a decentralised computing platform of sorts, which is continuous and live. It is an entirely digital economy, and the way most Silicon Valley intellectuals see it, the metaverse exists in both the digital and physical realms.

Ball's essay cites interoperability as key to the success of the metaverse. Virtual reality would be an element of the metaverse, but the idea goes beyond just donning a VR headset and starting to play a game. According to

Ball, the metaverse does not reset or pause or end, it just "continues indefinitelv". Metaverse is not something just one company can build. Nor is Facebook the only one working on it. Epic Games, creator of Fortnite, has big plans for the metaverse using its unreal engine. In fact, Fortnite already has many elements that would conform to the idea -such as live events, its own currency, etc.

How will the metaverse work?

Fortnite recently held a 'music experience' where upcoming artists were able to have interactive experiences with their musical sets inside the game, which allows other brands and creators to showcase their products.

The metaverse is being envisioned as a new world order, where services could be offered virtually in exchange for other virtual assets, or cryptocurrencies. Your existence will be enmeshed with the digital world in a much deeper, complex way.

Because everything and everyone is supposed to be a part of this, interoperability will be crucial. To ensure that the metaverse functions smoothly, it would require a rewriting of the current rules for most Internet services and functions, according to Ball.

What is Facebook's plan?

Facebook has said the metaverse will let users hang out with people who are not in the same physical space. It is not difficult to imagine why the company would want a digital world where we spend most of our time interacting with friends, where virtual assets have higher importance, and where the rules are different. Oculus VR could be a gateway.

Facebook says the metaverse won't be "built overnight", it needs to work on several questions, and that many of the products will "only be fully realised in the next 10-15 years". In September it announced the XR Programs and Research Fund, which is a two-year, $50 million "investment in programs and external research" where it will partner with the "industry civil rights groups, governments, nonprofits, and academic institutions to determine how to build these technologies responsibly".

BECAUSE THE TRUTH INVOLVES US ALL

LOWERING THE BAR

Special court order in Aryan Khan case is another instance of lower courts choosing jail over bail, despite SC guidelines

EPRIVATION OF LIBERTY even for a single day is one day too many." Nearly a year ago, reproaching the Bombay High Court for denying bail to TV anchor Arnab Goswami, Supreme Court Justice DY Chandrachud had unambiguously stated the principle which courts must uphold in order to remain the "first line of defence" of the liberty of citizens. He was also reaffirming what the highest court of the land had said earlier: That "bail, not jail" must be the judiciary's reflex; that the process must not descend into punishment. That the accused — innocent till proven guilty — must not be consigned to long stints in prison when they pose no danger of influencing the investigation, or escape. But the refusal of a special court to grant bail to Aryan Khan, son of actor Shah Rukh Khan, raises the question: Why is it that, despite such clear guidelines, the lower courts, more often than not, give the benefit of the doubt to the prosecution and the state? Of course, Khan's innocence or lack of it must be established through due process. The 23-year-old was detained by the Narcotics Control Bureau in a drug bust on a cruise ship even though no drugs were found in his possession, he has no previous history of crime or drug abuse, and no blood test was carried out. The NDPS Act distinguishes between a drug consumer and peddler, and forbids treating the former as hardened criminals. The NCB, however, seems not to have made crucial distinctions, and has charged all those arrested in this case of "conspiracy" under a harsher provision of the law (Section 29).

If there was any lesson from the public ordeal of actor Rhea Chakraborty last year, similarly accused by the NCB on the basis of WhatsApp chats, eventually amounting to little, it was this: There is a line between the pursuit of justice and headline-hunting through high-profile cases — and the NCB appears to not know the difference. In Chakraborty's case, which spun off from a web of conspiracy theories surrounding the suicide of actor Sushant Singh Rajput and which set off a toxic media coverage, the NCB had brought a grave charge against the actor. She was charged under Section 27 A of the NDPS Act, which accused her of being involved in "financing" drugs. The Bombay High Court, while granting her bail last year, rejected the NCB's charges as "highly disproportionate" and "extremely unreasonable". The court also rejected the prosecution's argument that "celebrities" be treated harshly and made an example of, saying that no actor must "incur any special liability" in the eyes of the law.

At a time when a powerful executive does not shrink from using investigative agencies or harsh laws as weapons, the judiciary's reluctance to stand up for personal liberty has costs — for an Aryan Khan or a Rhea Chakraborty, or the legions of less privileged languishing in prisons or in the many habeas corpus cases that have seen unconscionable delay. "The writ of liberty runs through the fabric of the Constitution," Justice Chandrachud had said. If only the spirit behind his words runs down the judiciary as well.

VACCINE OPTIMISM

Lowering of risk aversion, festive season, could prompt greater spending by households, even as need for vigilance remains DMINISTERING OF 100 crore vaccines is a major milestone in India's fight against the Covid-19 pandemic — it is also consequential for the economy. With more than 70 per cent of the adult population in the country now having received at least a single jab, and around 30 per cent of those eligible having received both jabs, fear is slowly abating, reviving spirits, triggering a change in outlook. As Prime Minister Narendra Modi put it in his address to the nation on Friday, a sense of optimism is coming back. Vaccinations, after all, not only reduce demands on the health system, they also impart a positive impulse through both demand and supply side channels.

With infections subsiding — new case additions have touched a seven-month low — and easing of restrictions on activities, there has been an improvement in most high frequency economic indicators over the past several weeks. The Nomura India Business Resumption Index has risen to an all-time high of 108.8 for the week ending October 17 — the pre-pandemic level equals 100. However, there is a visible divergence, with contact-intensive services lagging behind the rest of the economy. But this is also slowly changing. With the spread of vaccinations reducing the threat of the disease, household consumption of these services is likely to pick up. The easing of restrictions on contact-intensive services will aid the recovery — the government has recently removed the constraints imposed on domestic flights capacity. This will provide a boost to mobility, and improve the business prospects of sectors such as tourism which has been badly hit by the pandemic. This lowering of risk aversion, which coincides with the festive season, could prompt greater spending by households.

However, considering that the RBI's latest consumer confidence survey signals continued pessimism among urban households — perhaps reflecting the outlook of those more engaged with the contact-intensive and unorganised/informal sectors — how quickly this lingering distress dissipates remains to be seen. Unless demand picks up materially, capacity utilisation is unlikely to perk up — as per the central bank's latest survey, it stood at 60 in the first quarter of the current financial year, down from 69.4 per cent in the previous quarter. This will act as a constraint on private investment. There is also the threat of another wave of infections. As the PM also cautioned in his address, there is still a need to remain vigilant.

CRICKET'S PLAN B

The UAE, no cricketing superpower, has become an important and trusted address for the game

TTHE PEAK of the Gulf Boom in the '70s and '80s, the UAE was an oasis for millions of migrant labourers from the subcontinent. Now, the desert nation with neither a cricketing heritage nor a thriving fascination for the game, is home to its cricketing powerhouses. Whenever a crisis, natural or man-made, comes, they simply shift base to the welcoming "Gulf". It has been Pakistan's home for 12 years, since the Lahore terror strikes on Sri Lanka's team bus in 2009; it could resume being their home, now that there is a new frisson of fear in travelling to Pakistan. It has housed the PSL, and the IPL too, in 2014 due to the general polls and in 2020 and 2021 because of the pandemic. From Saturday, it will host the T20 World Cup, embellishing its reputation as cricket's trusted Plan B.

Nearly half of those living in the Gulf states are of Pakistani, Indian or Bangladeshi origin, so the audience is there. So are the pitches, stadiums and facilities, most notably at Dubai's billion-dollar Sports City complex and Abu Dhabi's state-of-the-art cricket centre. The climate is favourable, with play possible for seven months of the year. The concrete theatres of sport might not wield the raw romance of the Sharjah Cups of the last century, but in today's cricketing world, they are indispensable. The UAE might not be a cricketing superpower, but the country is an important cricketing destination.

The T20 World Cup will be Virat Kohli's swan-song as T20 captain. Besides, India's quest for a title, since winning the inaugural edition, has been fraught with frustration. It will launch its campaign against Pakistan, who will seek to harness its experience playing in the Emirates. Then there is the West Indies, defending champion and T20 master, a ragged Australia, still hunting for its maiden title, an understated New Zealand, World Test champion, fearless England, the World 50-over champion, and South Africa under its first black captain. The stage is set, in cricket's home away from home.

Wisdom after Covid

Pandemic has set the stage for a decade of churn. Central banks across the world are facing a great challenge

Soumya Kanti Ghosh and V Anantha Nageswaran

THE GLOBAL FINANCIAL crisis and the current pandemic are likely to reorient our thinking on conventional macroeconomics. As real world developments force intellectual re-evaluation, it also opens the space for policy innovation and experimentation. Policy becomes a function of context rather than ideology. That can only be a good thing. For example, there are now serious doubts on the long-standing wisdom that the economy functions best with an "invisible hand" and it should not be jeopardised through government "intervention". In many countries, including in the US, industrial policy is back on the table.

Perhaps the greatest scholastic challenge is currently being faced by central banks across the world. They must deal with rising inflation. In fact, since the global financial crisis of 2008, they have been striving valiantly to push it up, and now they are struggling to bring it down. More importantly, there is now a perceptible difference in what is driving inflation: It is neither wage increases nor fiscal expansion. It is global supply shocks.

Within a span of a year, the global energy market has gone from a massive glut to a massive shortage. In theory, for central banks, bringing inflation down is easier than pushing it up since there is no ceiling on interest rates. But, two problems confront them. One, they cannot raise interest rates because they have got everyone addicted to low or no rates. And, two, inflation caused by supply disruption is not amenable to monetary treatment. Of course, a slowdown caused by supply disruption last year did not need the monetary stimulus meant for addressing demand shortfall.

It is an irony that in the last decade, due to very minimal investments in commodities exploration due to ESG constraints, supply chains are significantly unprepared to meet the demand which is now almost equal to pre-Covid times. Regarding the much talked about semiconductor shortage, there are no closed plants to reopen. Annual inflation is running at 5.2 per cent in the US, 3.2 per cent in the UK and 3.3 per cent in the EU. These supply side issues are largely structural in nature, hence it's correct to assume elevated inflation expectations will likely fuel a global inflation cycle. Independent research by the Federal Reserve Bank of St Louis has concluded that higher inflation in the US is a broader, not a transient phenomenon. But that is left unsaid.

So, what is new in explaining the current so, what is new in explaining the current inflation upswing that the standard text-books do not say? One of the important tools for understanding inflation behaviour through standard economics textbooks is the Phillips curve, which presumes that inflation is partly driven by gap variables measuring how much economic activity deviates from its potential. Gap variables can include the per cent deviation of real GDP from potential GDP, also known as the output gap/domestic slack. Any central bank monetary policy statement, including that of the RBI, always identifies the gap variable as a significant determinant of inflation.

In the modern version of the Phillips curve, inflation depends not only on gap variables but also on expected inflation. However, recent research indicates that with improved anchoring, the expected inflation term in the Phillips curve becomes more stable. Consequently, movements in the level of inflation are driven less by expected inflation and more by the output gap. Herein lies the missing link, with reference to India.

To find out what drives inflation in India, we endeavoured to conduct a similar exercise. Our results indicate that in India the link between inflation change and output gap was never strong — the gap coefficient was under plus/minus 0.40, and it has been declining overtime. Interestingly, the link is completely lost with the emergence of Covid-19.

Thus, the concept of output gap is grossly inadequate to explain the inflation behaviour in India. If the output gap is not the cause, is it inflation expectations? Well, the record of "inflation expectations" in explaining current inflation globally, including in India, is not stellar, to put it mildly.

Perhaps, it is possible to hypothesise that inflation in India reflects an economy that is supply-constrained with productivity of enterprises held back by a license-compliance-inspection (LIC) system. The good news is that it is being addressed. The not-so-good news is that much remains to be dismantled and results will take time.

There is another aspect. Developing countries are always judged differently. Take the example of the dividend transfer from the RBI to the central government. In the US, government debt held by the Federal Reserve banks increased by $3 trillion from the end of 2019 till the second quarter of 2021. As a result, the Federal Reserve earns interest on this debt which it dutifully remits to the US treasury. Of course, the privilege for America is excessive whereas the burden is exorbitant for developing countries if they seek to emulate such a fiscal transfer from the central bank to the government. Not surprisingly, in India, there has been a hue and cry after the Jalan committee recommendations on dividend transfer from the RBI.

Five decades ago, real world developments challenged the then prevailing orthodoxy. What emerged at the end of it shaped the global economy through the next four decades with more markets, greater financialisation, less government and freer trade culminating in wider inequality and higher debt burdens. The stage is set for another decade of churn. But what emerges at the end of it may be less intellectually tractable than at the end of the Seventies.

Furore against Fabindia ad is dispiriting. This Diwali let light fall on darkened minds

Mina Anand

THE CURRENT ATMOSPHERE is vitriolic in its divisiveness. Reactionary and sectarian forces keep raising their ugly heads. A recent example is of the furore over the Fabindia advertisement; and its speedy removal. Let's check this out, as the issue goes to the core of Indian culture and secularism. Fabindia. an all-India clothing and furnishing brand known for its ethnic products, posted a promotional tweet advancing its 2021 Diwali Collection. The "contentious" caption read as follows: "As we welcome the festival of love and light, Jashn-e-Riwaaz by Fabindia is a collection that beautifully pays homage to Indian culture." Fabindia's "crime" was using an "Urdu" phrase to promote a "Hindu" festival, of "de-Hinduising" Diwali. ("Jashn-e-Riwaaz" means a celebration of traditions).

Social media imploded. Tweets poured in accusing Fabindia of "hurting Hindu sentiments", "Abrahamisation of Hindu festivals", and the like. Following the uproar, Fabindia withdrew its "controversial" tweet. Were Hindu sentiments appeased? Fabindia has caved in to an outrageous outcry; to voices that are caveman-like in their ignorance and backwardness.

However, the matter cannot end here. We must speak out against bigotry and small-mindedness. Hindu customs are in no danger. They have survived, grown, and flourished through the centuries. What is actually being attacked are the famed Indian principles of tolerance and inclusivity.

Inciples of tolerance and inclusivity.
Incidentally, I am a Hindu, and take pride

It is pertinent to note that the Constitution speaks of cherishing and protecting our 'composite' culture — a legacy of the blending of great minds, traditions and beliefs. The Constitution does not talk of 'Hindu' culture. Nor did Fabindia, in its impugned caption. The company rightly spoke of 'Indian' culture.

in Hinduism. But, more importantly, I am a proud Indian, with great admiration for our cultural ethos and dynamic Constitution, which reflects the unique Indian philosophy.

Article 51-A(f) of the Constitution states that it is the fundamental duty of every citizen, and particularly the duty of the state "to value and preserve the rich heritage of our composite culture".

It is pertinent to note that the Constitution speaks of cherishing and protecting our "composite" culture—a legacy of the blending of great minds, traditions and beliefs. The Constitution does not talk of "Hindu" culture. Nor did Fabindia, in its impugned caption. The company rightly spoke of "Indian" culture.

In this context, it's apposite to quote Jawaharlal Nehru. In The Discovery of India, he wrote: "It is, therefore, entirely misleading to refer to Indian culture as Hindu culture."

Referring to the special characteristics of Indian Culture, the Supreme Court, in the Kerala Education Bill case, highlighted India's distinctive cultural values, paraphrasing from Tagore's A Hymn to India: "Throughout the ages, endless inundations of men of diverse creeds, cultures and races — Aryans and non-Aryans, Dravidians and Chinese, Scythians, Huns, Pathans and Mughals — have come to this ancient land from distant regions and climes. India has welcomed them all. They have met and gathered, given and taken and got mingled, merged and lost in one body. India's tradition has thus been epitomised in the following noble lines: 'None shall be turned away from the shore of this vast sea of humanity that is India."

The Supreme Court affirmed: "It is thus that the genius of India has been able to find unity in diversity by assimilating the best of all creeds and cultures."

To come back to the Fabindia matter and the "Urdu" phrase that caused a hue and cry, it is significant to record that Urdu is an official language of the Indian state, listed in the Eighth Schedule of the Constitution. Urdu is an inherent element of the Indian "composite culture"; a "rich heritage" that the Constitution exhorts us to "value and preserve".

It is relevant to recall here the words of Venkaiah Naidu, Vice President of India: "Urdu language is a cultural heritage of all Indians. It does not belong to one religion, but to the entire country." "Urdu is one of the most beautiful languages spoken around the world". (January 2017)

Festivals in India are celebrated in a spirit of oneness. Diwali, Eid, Christmas, Holi, are some examples of festive togetherness. People of all faiths join in these festivities, visit each other's homes, feast, make merry. Children, especially, know no boundaries.

Diwali is a festival of lights. Let light fall on darkened minds and let's rejoice, intermingling with faiths and traditions of all kinds.

Jabs against cynicism, for hope

As India crosses a Covid vaccination milestone, it's time to stop undermining government's efforts

JAGAT PRAKASH NADDA

INDIA BEGANTHE world's largest vaccination drive on January 16, 2021, to inoculate its citizens against the Covid-19 virus. In just nine months, we have administered 100 crore doses. Over 74 per cent of the country's eligible population has received at least one dose of the life-saving vaccine.

India has managed to administer twice the number of vaccine doses as the US, which has administered just over 40.7 crore vaccine doses. This is despite our vaccine drive having started almost a month after the US.

While the world has administered close to 7 billion doses, India alone has administered 1 billion or 100 crore doses — this means that 14 per cent of the doses given were by India, even though our share of the world GDP is only about 3.2 per cent. Clearly, despite the many challenges before us, India managed to punch far above its weight. We have administered more vaccines than the entire European Union put together. Himachal Pradesh, Goa, Sikkim, Dadra and Nagar Haveli, Daman and Diu, Ladakh and Lakshadweep have managed to administer at least one dose to 100 per cent of their eligible adult population. States like Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh and Andhra Pradesh have more people who are fully vaccinated than the entire population of nations including Saudi Arabia, Iran, Australia, Peru and the UAE.

In the last few weeks, India managed to cross the one crore daily vaccination mark at least five times. On Prime Minister Narendra Modi's birthday on September 17, in a massive Jan Abhiyan, India set a new record by vaccinating 2.5 crore Indians on a single day. The pace of vaccinations has increased dramatically since the Centre took the drive into its own hands after observing that the decentralisation policy wasn't yielding the results it should have.

While the Covid battle so far has been primarily fought with the two made-in-India vaccines - Serum Institute of India's Covishield and the indigenously-developed Covaxin by Bharat Biotech - India has also developed the world's first DNA vaccine, ZyCov-D. But we need to also think about the gargantuan task undertaken by the country in the vaccination process. Imagine a vial of vaccine coming out of a plant in Pune or Hyderabad, going to the Central Drugs Laboratory in Kasauli for testing and then reaching a remote part of the country — all this while ensuring its temperature is in the desired range and being monitored centrally. Imagine the number of truck journeys and flights involved in the transportation process and the number of cold storage facilities required to store 100 crore vaccine doses. Imagine the number of syringes and needles transported to every part of the

Unlike in the past, this was a fast, time-bound and well-planned campaign. India developed what is perhaps the world's best technological tool to ensure an equitable process. PM Modi led from the front in ensuring that there is no VIP culture in vaccination and that the rich and powerful do not jump the queue. The CoWin platform ensured that one could take the two doses at different places without worrying. It also sent timely reminders for the second dose. India not only implemented the world's largest vaccination programme but also innovated at scale.

Unfortunately, even as India's priority was and continues to remain "corona virodh", some in the Opposition continue to prefer Modi virodh. Right from labelling the vaccines as "BJP vaccines" and spreading canards about their safety, which led to initial vaccine hesitancy, to the opportunistic flip flop by some state governments on the procurement of vaccines, and attempts to shift the blame for their own Covid mismanagement on to the central government, this brand of combative politics — as opposed to a much-desired consensual politics — could have been avoided.

An entirely sponsored campaign of calumny and propaganda was unleashed with the intention of tarnishing the efforts of the Modi government even if it harmed India's international reputation. The opposition parties' hypocrisy is unparalleled. To undermine India's historic milestones, they conveniently chose one parameter - measuring the number of vaccines administered relative to the population instead of the absolute number of vaccines. But when it was suggested that while comparing India's Covid management to the rest of the world, the same metric should be used — India's Covid fatalities relative to the population they conveniently chose to measure absolute figures of fatality to once again paint a doomsday scenario.

Take the example of UP. A state with a population of almost 24 crore has managed to contain the number of daily new Covid cases to under 50 for several weeks now and the total active cases are just around 100-odd. The number of fatalities in UP due to Covid is around 23,000. So, a state with 17-18 per cent of India's population has contributed just about 5 per cent of the total Covid fatalities. UP has managed to administer over 12 crore vaccine doses — the highest number by any

We need to also think about the gargantuan task undertaken by the country in the vaccination process. Imagine a vial of vaccine coming out of a plant in Pune or Hyderabad, going to the Central Drugs Laboratory in Kasauli for testing and then reaching a remote part of the country — all this while ensuring its temperature is in the desired range and being monitored centrally. Imagine the number of truck journeys and flights involved in the transportation process and the number of cold storage facilities required to store state in the country — and has conducted the maximum number of tests at around 8 crore.

On the other hand, models that were much celebrated have been contributing almost 50-60 per cent of the Covid cases and fatalities for the last several weeks, despite representing just 11-12 per cent of India's population. Kerala, with a population of 3.5 crore — virtually one-seventh of UP's population - has unfortunately registered over 27,000 fatalities, despite its legacy of having better healthcare infrastructure. Yet, we see a fake narrative being painted against the Centre and BJP-governed states while there is an eloquent silence on the state of affairs in the non-BJP states, like Kerala. There is a concerted effort to target the Kumbh Mela and Kanwar Yatra but silence on the relaxations given during Eid in Kerala, which came under criticism from the Supreme Court as well.

Sadly, there is no vaccine for the pandemic of political cynicism, hypocrisy and intellectual dishonesty that tries to undermine the historic milestones of India by peddling half-truths and biased narratives. These milestones don't belong to one party or one government, but the entire nation. Disliking the person under whose leadership India is soaring to new heights shouldn't be reason enough to undermine the scientists, healthcare workers and people of India. Eventually, the contagion of lies and propaganda will be defeated by the vaccine of truth and facts.

One of the most effective tools against Covid-19 is social distancing. But in the battle against a pandemic, we must not distance socially and politically, we must unite. National interest is always better served by "sabka saath" and that should be the only driver of our public service during these times. So let us unite and celebrate India's achievement of giving 100 crore jabs of hope and let us continue to work together to defeat this pandemic

The good fight at DU

New vice-chancellor needs to restore autonomy of the university, create and protect spaces of freedom

Apoorvanand

THE UNIVERSITY OF Delhi is lucky that it did not have to wait for a vice-chancellor, like JNU. Yogesh Singh was recently appointed the new VC. The university is not familiar with him nor does he know the university. It is strange that in the selection process of the most important person of the university, the university community is not involved in any meaningful way. This is not how the leadership question is dealt with in the best universities of the world but obviously, we have other aspirations — like being a good "nationalist" university.

The first utterances of the new VC, however, raise hope. He assures us that he would be the VC of all members of the university community. Our previous VCs, unfortunately, patronised particular teacher factions depending upon their own leanings or convenience or allowed themselves to be patronised by them. How can one forget the shameful episode of the suspension of the previous VC, who was trapped in the fight between factional interests?

The academic community of the university is deeply divided. Factions take pride in their political — rather than professional — identities. DUTA elections are fought on this basis and clients are cultivated. It has resulted in a loss of collegiality at the university. It makes the task of a VC easy and difficult at the same time. The new VC, if we trust his words, would hopefully bring the university community together.

The second assurance is even more significant. Singh says recruitment has to be a continuous process and not an episodic event. He has also said that one of the most important tasks of a VC is to make good recruitments. After all, it is the teacher who gives the university its identity. Unfortunately, in DU, recruitment has been hostage to political factionalism. Appointment to nearly 4,500 vacant teaching posts must start forthwith. The culture of ad hoc appointments, again promoted by the factional teacher politics and a lethargic administration, is ruining the university and the lives of young aspiring teachers. The VC needs to break this logjam but it has to be done if the university is to survive as an aca-

My colleague Prem Singh pointed out that when we discuss recruitment, the non-teaching section of the university is forgotten. It is hugely overloaded with work as there is an acute shortage of staff due to lack of recruitment for a long time. For a university to run efficiently, you need to have a self-assured supporting staff. The VC should pay attention to this aspect.

Yogesh Singh said in an interview that the VC would be guided by the deans and department heads. He also said he would abide by the ACT, its rules, regulations and statutes. This is reassuring.

It is urgent to restore autonomy to the heads and deans, which means activating the basic academic, administrative units. The faculty bodies and the academic councils need to revitalise themselves and do their job. The heads and deans mostly act as the rubber stamp of the VC whereas they have a duty to give him honest academic advice. They seldom do this. To be in his good books, they only nod their heads in agreement or hound the critics.

The episode of the imposition of the Four-Year Undergraduate Programme (FYUP) in 2013 and its rollback is only one example. The most recent decision of changing the structure of the undergraduate programme and implementing FYUP with multiple entry-exit points was done keeping in abeyance all processes of academic decision-making. It was shocking that nearly all the deans and heads together robbed their faculty of the right to have, and express, academic opinion. The promise of the VC can be realised only if the deans and heads find their moral spines.

The VC, hopefully, will strive to restore academic credibility to the syllabus and curriculum processes, make them stable, not vulnerable to experiments like CBCS, learning outcome-based curriculum, etc. He also needs to assert and protect the right of the university to make its own academic decisions, not follow diktats from above.

The most encouraging remark of Singh was that every institution has its own atma or soul. So, the leaders need to approach the institution with humility and not kill this atma. You can even call it the individuality or personality of the institution. We have seen this atma being butchered in JNU where a VC, insensitive to its unique character, created engineering, medical, management schools, destroying its character as a social science university.

Delhi University lives in its colleges. Their glory needs to be brought back. It is not only the classes but theatre, seminars, discussions that make undergraduate life vibrant and exciting. Unfortunately, the aggression and violence displayed regularly by the studentwing of the ruling party has made colleges nervous and slowly, life has ebbed out of them. We have seen invitations to speakers revoked, programmes cancelled in the last seven years. Teacher orientation and refreshment programmes are run on the ideological lines of the ruling party and do not serve any academic purpose.

Apart from this, another huge responsibility of the VC is to keep the university afloat in the face of severe cuts in fund allocation. He will have to persuade the UGC and government to give adequate funds to the university to keep its library, laboratories functional, commensurate with international standards.

The governance of a university is challenging, as it is to create and ensure safe spaces for free and autonomous minds to grow. The leader, in doing so, has to fight with pressures from society and political power. It is, however, a good fight.

Instead of internal party polls, scrapping anti-defection law might be the answer

RUCHI GUPTA

THE CASE FOR internal democracy in political parties does not need to be made afresh. It is obvious that institutional intermediaries in a representative democracy must themselves be democratic. However, beyond the rhetoric, internal democracy in a political party is less straightforward. Democratic accountability in a political party is qualitatively different from that in a country. A political party is a collaborative platform to capture state power to achieve a certain vision for society. It follows that some ideas and ideals are core to a political party and its members. This commonality does not exist in a country since citizenship is not an elective choice. In a country, there are sharp differences between citizens on the vision and values themselves and the role of democracy is not just to create a framework to negotiate conflict but to ensure that the state is representative of the largest section of the electorate through periodic elections. Thus, while democracy at the level of the country is a bottom-up opportunity to change direction altogether, democratic accountability in a political party exists within an ideological framework. Any suggestion to achieve internal democracy in a political party must be evaluated within this context.

The most common suggestion to achieve internal democracy is through internal elections for leadership positions within the party. The logic is two-fold: Elected representatives will not just be grounded themselves but will also hold the leadership accountable for its shortcomings. This suggestion has merit but some issues bear discussion. First, proponents underestimate the ability of existing repositories of power to subvert internal institutional processes to consolidate power and maintain the status quo. Second, the assumption that the lower levels would be independent and hold the higher levels of leadership to account glosses over the many ways power asserts itself. The likely outcome instead is alignment at all levels to allow for vertical consolidation of factional power. Third, the outcome of internal elections is contingent on the independence and quality of the electorate. In indirect elections (through delegates), the electorate would likely mirror the existing balance of power. In direct elections, there is concern of ideological dilution and/or capture through opportunistic membership. Donald Trump hijacking the Republican Party through primaries is a recent example. Democratic states constrain the pure will of "the people" through constitutional checks and it is reasonable to apply guardrails for ideological platforms. It is evident that internal elections may

It is evident that internal elections may factionalise power but cannot establish normative accountability, which extends to all members of the party along three interconnected axes of ideology, organisation and competence. Normative accountability is thus rooted in a dynamic context and is necessarily a deliberative process. However, this too is not straightforward. Political parties are repositories of hard power and draw a mix of individuals driven by ideology and personal interest. Over time, this balance has tilted towards the latter leading to irreconcilable internal conflicts of interests, which cannot be resolved through deliberation in open meetings. The consequent bad faith renders such meetings useless with much substantive discussion and decision-making happening in the background.

Ultimately, internal institutional processes

Ultimately, internal institutional processes replicate the balance of power instead of substantially altering it. Political power exists both in the formal and informal sphere and any institutional process which tries to run counter to aggregate power is likely to run aground. Therefore, whether a political party follows a democratic approach in internal decisionmaking is a function of the personal proclivities of the leadership and/or the balance of power within the organisation. This isn't necessarily controversial: Unlike for the state, democracy is not an end in itself for a political party. The highest possible attainment of individual well-being and individual self-will through a democratic state is an end in itself. The purpose of a political party is the acquisition of state power. Democratic functioning may be an ideological imperative, operational choice, or legitimising tactic but it is not an end in itself for a political party. If this conclusion seems dissatisfying, the problem is not the underlying principle of discretion but its operation due to the wholesale degradation of ideology and public purpose within political Epilogue: Instead of looking at internal party processes, one way to decentralise power is by getting rid of the anti-defection law. The need to canvass votes in the legislature will create room for negotiation in the party organisation too. Moreover, the electoral process will be independent of the party machinery and internal coalitions will evolve in a more measured manner than in one-time organisational elections. Most importantly, this reform will impose a similar burden on all political parties and may create space to change the overall political culture. However, this is an imperfect solution: The party organisation is more expansive than elected representatives alone; second, the candidate often has marginal electoral value over the party platform and this may lead to a selection of rubber stamp candidates; and this amendment may further undermine Opposition in the face of a heavyhanded executive.

AFGHAN INSTABILITY

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'A waiting game' (IE, October 22). The political and economic instability in Afghanistan could turn the war-ravaged country into a breeding ground for terrorism. The indifferent attitude of the international community towards Afghanistan could push the country towards a major humanitarian crisis. Terrorism proliferates by tapping disgruntled and misguided populations, the countries of the region that are busy cutting a favorable deal with the Taliban regime must expedite the process of extending humanitarian relief at the earliest. Political recognition to the Taliban regime should be accorded based on tangible indices like their performance in redistributing foreign aid, their commitment to an inclusive government, and their record safeguarding human rights.

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Not a zero-sum affair' (IE, October 22). the vote Thursday was 229-202 with all but nine GOP lawmakers who voted saving "no." The House vote sends the matter to the US attorney's office in Washington, where it will now be up to prosecutors in that office to decide whether to present the case to a grand jury for possible criminal charges. It's still uncertain whether they will pursue the case — Attorney General Merrick Garland would only say at a House hearing on Thursday that they plan to "make a decision consistent with the principles of prosecution.'

The partisan split over Bannon's subpoena — and over the committee's investigation in general — is emblematic of the raw tensions that grip Congress nine months after the Capitol attack. Democrats have vowed to

MORGAN LEE & WALTER BERRY SANTA FE, OCTOBER 22

ACTOR ALEC Baldwin fired a prop gun on the set of a Western and killed the cinematographer, officials said. The director of the movie was wounded, and authorities are investigating what happened. Halyna Hutchins, cinematographer on Rust, and director Joel Souza were shot at on Thursday in the desert on the southern

It was not clear if Baldwin was performing at the time of the shooting or how many rounds were fired and little was known about the weapon. On Friday, Baldwin tweeted, expressing his condolences to Hutchins' family and calling the shooting an accident.

"There are no words to convey my shock and sadness regarding the tragic accident that took the life of Halvna Hutchins. a wife, mother and deeply admired colleague of ours. ENSECONOMIC BUREAU MUMBAI, OCTOBER 22

WHILE THE Reserve Bank's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) retained the accommodative stance and kept the main policy rates unchanged in the review earlier this month, Jayanth R Varma, a member of the MPC, has strongly argued for tightening the policy stating that inflation and growth risks are "well beyond the control" of the MPC.

ENSECONOMIC BUREAU MUMBAI, OCTOBER 22

ONE97 COMMUNICATIONS, the parent entity of Paytm, has received approval of the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) to launch the $2.2 billion (around Rs 16,600 crore) initial public offering (IPO), the largest in India's corporate history.

The firm, founded by Vijay Shekhar Sharma in 2000, is planning to raise Rs 8,300 crore by issuing fresh stock and the same amount in an offer for sale that will result in some pre-IPO investors offload shares According to sources, the company is likely to list its shares on the BSE and the NSE by mid-November. The company is looking at a valuation of Rs 150,00 crore to Rs 165,000 crore from the IPO. The company was valued at around Rs 120,000 crore when it last raised funds two years ago.

As of FY21, its total revenue from operations stood at Rs 3,186 crore from 114 million annual transacting users and had facilitated 7.4 billion transactions.

The largest IPO, so far, was from Coal India, which raised Rs 15,000 crore over a decade ago

The company is looking at a valuation of Rs 1,50,00 crore to Rs 1.65.000 crore from the IPO

In July this year, the company announced that all Chinese nationals on the board of Paytm had been replaced by US and Indian citizens, while there is no change in the existing shareholding, Alipay representative Jing Xiandong, Ant Financial's Guoming Cheng, and Alibaba representatives Michael Yuen Jen Yao (US citizen) and Ting Hong Kenny Ho have ceased to be directors of the company.

The primary market witnessed a host of unicorn listings in 2021, Zomato listed on the BSE and National Stock Exchange in July. Nykaa will launch its IPO later this month while IPOs of PolicyBazaar, MobiKwik, Pine Labs and Delhivery are in the pipeline.

Meanwhile, as per a PTI report, FSN E-Commerce Ventures Ltd, which runs Nykaa, has fixed a price of Rs 1,085-1,125 a share for its Rs 5,352-crore initial public offering, which will open on October 28.

Global oil boils: How does govt call for lower prices help?

KARUNJITSINGH NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 22

AS THE global recovery gains strength, the price of crude is nearing its highest level since 2018. The surge in prices has led to record high costs of petrol and diesel in India and the Petroleum Ministry has repeatedly said it is speaking to key oil exporting nations to raise the supply of crude and lowering the official selling price for Asia.

Rising fuel prices

Brent breached the $85 per barrel-mark earlier this week, reaching its highest level since 2018 on the back of a sharp increase in global demand. Its price has nearly doubled, compared to $42.5 per barrel a year ago.

EXPLAINED

What is the price impact of increased taxes on fuels?

Elevated tax levels are also playing a major role in the current record high prices in India. The Central government had last year increased levies on petrol by Rs 13 per litre and on diesel by Rs 16 per litre to shore up revenues.

Sources in the Finance Ministry have, however, indicated that the government isn't currently considering lowering levies to pre-Covid levels as it has to fund various schemes. The rising crude prices and the higher taxation impact have contributed to petrol and diesel regularly setting record highs in 2021. Petrol in the Capital is Rs 106.9 per litre, up Rs 5.7 per litre in the past month, while diesel

Elevated tax levels in the country are also playing a maior role in current record high prices is at Rs 95.6, up Rs 7 per litre over the same period.

Does India's pitch with oil exporters to lower prices really make a difference?

The government says it has been reaching out to key oil producing countries, asking them to boost production of crude oil. Petroleum Minister Hardeep Singh Puri has said the key reason for high international crude oil prices is that "the supply of crude was being kept below demand". India has long pushed for Middle Eastern countries to remove the "Asian premium" that Asian countries have to pay for crude oil as key oil producers set higher prices for India than for the US and European countries. Despite a 40 cent per barrel cut in the official selling price of light crude to Asia. Saudi Arabia is still charging a $1.30 premium on the benchmark price for light Experts have said nations like India do not have much bargaining power in current market scenario where supply is lower than demand. In March, the then Petroleum Minister Dharmendra Pradhan said India would source crude from whichever country provides the best price. Full report on www.indianexpress.com

Sindhu's return cut short by An Seyoung in straight games

This was PV Sindhu's first tournament since she won her bronze medal at the Tokyo Games. File Odense: Returning to action after a break, India's double Olympic medallist PV Sindhu on Friday bowed out of the Denmark open badminton tournament after losing in straight games to world no 8 Korean An Seyoung in the women's singles quarterfinals here. Playing her first tournament since winning the bronze medal at the Tokyo Olympics in August, Sindhu couldn't match her fifth seeded young Korean rival, going down 11-21 12-21 in 36 minutes.

Sindhu had also lost to An Seyoung in straight games the last time they clashed here two years ago in their only career meeting. The reigning world champion, who had taken a break to rejuvenate after a hectic Olympics campaign, just couldn't find a way across the attacking game of the Korean, who was always a step ahead during the contest. An Seyoung made a superb start and took

Pooja Rani, youth world champ Arundhati enter Rd 2 of nationals

Hisar: Asian champion Pooja Rani (81kg) and the fast-rising Jaismine (60 kg) were among the boxers who advanced to the second round with convincing wins in the Women's National Championships here on Friday. Representing Haryana, Asian bronze-winner Jaismine comfortably beat Chhattisgarh's Rajbala by the unanimous 5-0 verdict in her opening round, while defending champion Pwilao Basumatary of Assam out-punched Karnataka's Theertha Lakshmi at the St Joseph's International School here. Also moving ahead was youth world champion Arundhati Chaudhary (70kg) after outclassing her Haryana rival Kiran in her bout. Chaudhary is representing Rajasthan. Rani, whose Tokyo Olympics campaign ended in the quarterfinals, too entered the second round, beating All India Police's Pinki 5-0. Rani is representing Haryana in the event. Forty nine bouts were contested on day two which features more than 320 pugilists from 36

just six minutes to grab a massive sevenpoint lead at the break with Sindhu unable to find a crack in the Korean's game. The Indian tried to control the net but committed few unforced errors with the Korean showing great athleticism to return everything thrown at her. The Korean dominated the forecourt and played some exceptional shots, including a few diving forehand returns, to lead 16-8

In the end, Sindhu netted to give 10 game points to the Korean, who sealed the opening game when the Indian erred again. Sindhu tried to change her tactics by playing high lifts but she was not disciplined enough and after trailing 7-8 at one stage, she slipped to 8-11 at the break.It was a one-way traffic after the interval as An Seyoung jumped to 20-10 in a jiffy. Sindhu saved two match points before committing another error.

Top European leagues want change in UCL's new format

Europe's top soccer leagues want to re-visit the changes to the Champions League format, agreed by UEFA in April under the threat of a breakaway Super League. Jacco Swart, Managing Director of the European Leagues organisation, told a news conference on Friday that there would be a second phase of negotiations with UEFA and they would look to secure several changes. The new format from the 2024/25 season will see the Champions League group stage expand from 32 to 36 teams, who will play in a single league format. Instead of the current six matches, each team will play a minimum of 10 games against 10 different opponents."We do think that changes will be made... topics we are addressing are related to the number of matches and the match days, to the access list and the financial distribution model for the entire competitions," said

Germany, Brazil, Thailand: T20 the vehicle to drive cricket to ever newer horizons

MIHIR VASAVDA OCTOBER 23

IF CRICKET is a religion in many parts of the world, then T20 is its missionary spreading the gospel to newer lands.

Starting Saturday, the big boys of world cricket will get the main event underway after an opening act that, by and large, went unnoticed. Many purists might be tempted to describe the T20 World Cup as the lesser World Cup. But a realist would know this, inevitably, is the future.

For all barbs flung at it, T20 is turning out to be cricket's best vehicle, perhaps the only one, to shatter the image of being a mere Commonwealth legacy. From America to Afghanistan to Brazil, Thailand and even Germany, T20 has taken cricket to previously unexplored countries, to a point that the sport is now able to make a genuine claim to be at the Olympics.

On Thursday, around the time when Scotland, for the first time, made it into the main rounds of the T20 World Cup, football powerhouses like Italy, Germany and Brazil were taking small, yet significant, steps in the cricketing arena.

While Brazil continued their unfettered march in the women's game by defeating Canada, Germany, despite losing to Italy, entered the global qualifying round of the T20 World Cup for the very first time. "One of our players even took a hat-trick," German cricket's general manager Brian Mantle says. "Imagine, the first player to take a hat-trick in T20 Internationals was Brett Lee. And the 21st is a German player."

Democratising the sport

And therein lies a story. Cricket's T20 version is faster, requires unique skill-sets and provides wholesome, all-round entertainment. But at the same time, it also has democratised the sport. Just like the way 7s has done for rugby, 3x3 for basketball and the indoor variant, possibly 5s in the future, for hockey.

A lower financial commitment and shorter duration - also the fact the shorter versions of rugby, hockey and basketball require half the number of players to be good - have given teams with little to no history a chance to rub shoulders with the best and, on occasions, even beat them; like Scotland did to Bangladesh in the first round of the T20 World Cup.

In hockey, countries that aren't even a blip on its landscape in the traditional 11-a-side game are up there among the best in the indoor format. At the top of the indoor hockey chart is Austria, with Iran ranked third in the world, followed by Russia and the Czech Republic – Germany is the only traditional hockey power in the top five. And at the Tokyo Olympics, Mongolia fielded a team in 3x3 basketball, which was the first time ever the country competed in a team sport at the Games.

Cricket, rugby crossover

The crossovers between cricket and rugby, however, are particularly intriguing. The traditional formats of both these games are enshrined in traditions; a lot of emphasis is laid on quality and, by extension, they have remained closed sports. Their shorter versions, however, are breaking into uncharted territories.

In rugby's case, the inclusion of 7s in the Olympics aided its unshackled growth. "A country like Germany is very good in 7s rugby, one of the best teams in Europe, because that is the Olympic sport. And so, the Olympic federation will invest in Rugby 7s," Mantle says.

Not just Germany, but teams such as Samoa and Kenya, too, barged onto the scene while the likes of Kazakhstan and South Korea started winning regional tournaments. Of course, the most heart-warming story of the last decade as far as 7s is concerned has been Fiji. A decent 15s outfit, Fiji has come of age in the shorter format to dethrone the All Blacks and become the undisputable kings of 7s, having won backto-back Olympic titles.

As more and more teams got better at 7s, the sport has also matured. Initially seen as a development tool wherein players looked to improve their running and passing, 7s has now divorced from its original format and, as former Wales international John Taylor once noted in his ESPN column, the players are forced to make a choice whether they want to concentrate on 7s or 15-a-side rugby. T20 is, in some ways, following a similar trajectory. T20 specialists, once a rare breed, are the norm. And a glance at ICC's ranking table tells the story of how far the game has reached: 10 teams are ranked in Tests, 20 in ODIs but T20Is have 86 nations; in women's cricket, 10 teams are ranked in ODIs and 56 in T20Is.

As one sifts through the usual suspects, the T20I chart throws up some fascinating names: Thailand, made mostly of indigenous talent, are knocking on the door of the top-10 of women's ranking; Brazil, also with homegrown players, are marching up the ladder so fast that they now have annual contracts for their women players; and on the men's side, 15th-ranked Papua New Guinea has 3,00,000 kids playing cricket at school level.

One wonders if the impending inclusion of cricket in the Olympics will have the same impact on the sport as 7s had on rugby. At the moment, however, the simple reason why there are more countries playing T20 cricket is that it is the only format ICC allows them to play.

"A country like Germany is not allowed to play official ODI cricket, and definitely not Test cricket. So, the only thing that's left is to play T20I," he says. "The other thing is, we don't have money. If you play ODI or Test match cricket, it takes a lot of time. And if we are going to become exciting for German people, who don't know cricket, they are not going to watch a Test match for five days. They need a short, fast, inter-

Afghanistan, the role models

Perhaps, nothing better illustrates the launchpad that T20 cricket is than the rise of Afghanistan, who could be for T20 what Fiji are for 7s. "We are good at T20 because that's the format in which we get maximum exposure, apart from the fact that it is financially viable," says former Afghanistan Cricket Association chief executive Shafiq Stanikzai.

Despite their troubled build-up, owing to the recent situation at home, Afghanistan are expected to notch up a surprise or two at the T20 World Cup. The impact of Afghan players. however, goes beyond the country's borders. Cricketers from Afghanistan have played a critical role in German cricket's recent surge as well. "In the last five years, a lot of refugees have come from Afghanistan to Germany, about 2,00,000, and every second one is a cricket fanatic. A lot of them played cricket and a couple are in the national team," Mantle says.

Even though it is unlikely that anyone other than the traditional powerhouses will win the T20 World Cup, teams like Afghanistan and Scotland, who defeated Bangladesh in the first round of the ICC event, have shown that with each passing edition, it could get harder and harder to beat them.

And that is inspiration enough for other associate nations. "These guys are our role models. Scotland's target is to get on the field against England, India, Pakistan... to play them and sometimes beat them. In the same way, it's our target to get on the field with Afghanistan, Scotland, Ireland or the Netherlands; to play them, see how good we are compared to them and maybe one day to actually beat them,' Mantle says. "If one day, we could do what they have done, it would be great. It's a long way to

SHAMIK CHAKRABARTY DUBAI, OCTOBER 22

THE T20 World Cup is here finally, after pandemic-induced postponement that had it tagged on the back end of IPL. If there was any worry about IPL triggering fatigue in viewers, it was stubbed out by the schedule, which threw up the assured boxoffice hit - India vs Pakistan - on

The qualifying phase of the world cup is over and the real deal starts on Saturday with Australia taking on South Africa but for many in Dubai, and elsewhere, the mouthwatering Sunday clash is the real McCoy. For the locals, it feels like the T20 World Cup is a one-game tournament, with people happily forking out AED 2,400 (Rs 49,000 approx) for a ticket.

At the world-famous Dubai Expo, India and Pakistan live not quite cheek by jowl, but at close quarters. India's neighbour is Italy, while Pakistan's pavilion overlooks Indonesia's. There's absolutely no conflict. Pakistanis are lining up to see India's art, culture and science. A Keralite was seen asking a security guard about the direction of Pakistan's pavilion. Cricket, though, is a diferent ball game.

At the Dubai airport on Friday morning, a person overseeing the passengers' Covid tests was eager to know if the India-Pakistan T20 World Cup game would be happening at all. "Maybe, the government will take a decision tomorrow," he said, referring to speculations about the match.

A Dubai Sports City (DSC) functionary, helping the International Cricket Council in organising the T20 World Cup, rubbished the rumour, talking at length about how he has been struggling to fend off requests for tickets for Sunday's game. That the DSC officials are overexcited speaks volumes for the game's magnitude. They are used to watching the likes of Lionel Messi, Cristiano Ronaldo, Lewis Hamilton and Roger Federer year in, year out. Of late, Dubai and the United Arab Emirates for that matter, has become the epicentre of world sport. It is the Indian Premier

When this year's T20 World Cup had to make a Covid-forced switch, UAE became an automatic choice as a replacement. In a few months' time, as the Fifa president Gianni Infantino said, UAE would be hosting the Club World Cup.

Cricket came to this part of the world in the early 1980s, through a business magnate Abdul Rahman Bukhatir, with former Pakistan captain Asif Iqbal in tow. But Sharjah, the carnival notwithstanding, remained the desert's tenuous link to the sport until the turn of the century. Now there has been an ex-

From hosting one of the richest ATP tour events to Formula One in Abu Dhabi, Badminton Super Series finals, the Dubai Rugby Sevens and the Dubai Desert Classic golf, this region has opened its heart to world-class sporting events. "I think, this is because of the world-class infrastructure here and the marketing drive. Weather is also a factor, former head of marketing and sponsorship at DSC, Sarah-Jane Carter told The Indian Express.

Sounds similar to what Harmeek Singh, strategic director of the UAE Athletics Federation told this paper about a month ago. "The infrastructure that we have here is state-of-theart, something that makes the developed countries want to look at us. Dubai and UAE have always been known for being the leaders, rather than following, so we bring the biggest and the best."

This year is the 50th anniversary of the formation of the United Arab Emirates and the T20 World Cup is another global sporting event it can revel in.

But leaving aside the marquee game, it's been a slow burn in terms of fanfare. Only a couple of cardboard cut-outs greet the visitors near the Dubai International Stadium. As of now, the Expo clearly trumps the World Cup and there's a school of thought that the ICC has failed to hard-sell cricket's power-hitting showpiece. UAE's absence in the tournament can't be a factor, for the country has become a global sports hub without boasting any world-class sportsper-

This is a young country and out of its 9.89 million population, 88.52 per cent are expats (Global Media Insight data). This is the reason why an India versus Pakistan game will always be the biggest sporting attraction here, especially for the fact that the arch-rivals have been meeting again after a gap of two years.

The locals have been analysing the team combinations and there is also much interest in MS Dhoni donning the role of mentor for India. Much would depend on the two matches in the weekend, especially the India-Pakistan game, for the world cup to sustain interest in the desert.

Namibia stun Ireland to enter Super 12 stage

Sharjah: Gerhard Erasmus led from the front with a well-crafted unbeaten fifty to guide debutants Namibia to a historic eight-wicket win over Ireland in the first round Group B match and qualification spot in Super 12s of the ICC T20 World Cup here on Friday. Erasmus (53 not out off 49 balls) guided Namibia's chase of 126 in the company of David Wiese, who made an unbeaten 28. Needing 77 off the last 10 overs, Erasmus and Zane Green (24) shared 48 runs for the second wicket to keep Namibia in the contest. "We run a tight ship. Small country, small number of people play cricket. We should be proud of ourselves," Erasmus said in the post match presentation.

Brief Scores: Ireland: 125 for 8 in 20 overs (Paul Stirling 38, Kevin O'Brien 25; Jan Frylinck 3/21) lost to Namibia 126 for 2 in 18.3 overs (Gerhard Erasmus 53 not out, David Wiese 28 not out; Curtis Campher 2/14)

In dead rubber, Lanka thrash Netherlands

Sharjah: Already qualified for the Super 12s, Sri Lanka thrashed Netherlands by eight wickets in their final T20 World Cup first round match with the spin duo of Wanindu Hasaranga and Maheesh Theekshana bamboozling the opposition batters here on Friday. The inconsequential match ended inside two hours, as Sri Lanka first bundled out the opposition for a paltry 44, the sixth lowest total in T20 history, and then cantered to the target in just 7.1 overs. The chase was a walk in the park, as opener Kusal Perera, blazed his way to an unbeaten 33 off 24 balls, as he tore apart the Netherlands attack. It was Sri Lanka's third win in as many matches and they topped Group A with six points. The day surely belonged to the young Sri Lankan spinners, Hasaranga (3/9) and Theekshana (2/3), who spun their web around the Netherlands to bowl them out in 10 overs.

Brief Scores: Netherlands 44 all out in 10 overs (Colin Ackermaan 11; Lahiru Kumara 3/7, Wanindu Hasaranga 3/9, Maheesh Theekshana 2/3) lost to Sri Lanka: 45 in 7.1 overs (Kusal Perera 33 not out; Brandon Glover 1/12).

SPECTACULAR ONE day, chaotic the next. Like yesteryear Pakistan, West Indies veer between the extremes.

The T20 champions of the world, trailblazers, trendsetters, they could crash out in the first round, or blast through to the title and fill the humid Emirates air with a re-rendition of the Champions track.

Twice they have been champions, but twice they have exited in the preliminary stages of the six-edition-old tournament as well. Two-time champions they might be, but they have lost more T20 games than they have won (win percentage 47.03). Only Ireland, Zimbabwe and Bangladesh, among Test-playing nations, have a worse win percentage. In World Cups, though, they tend to fare better, their win percentage of 58 the third-best after India and Sri Lanka.

Suffice is to call them the unpredictables of the T20 galaxy, where their stars sparkle the brightest. Few teams could imagine, let alone, boast of the vaunted T20 firepower than that at the disposal of the West Indies. As if the format was designed with Chris Gayles, Kieron Pollards and Dwayne Bravos in mind. In them, they have the top two run-getters in this format; the top three six-hitters, and the most prolific wicket-taker too. The second-highest wicketmost cities, bowlers and conditions in the world, and have doubtlessly won franchise T20 titles in every country.

To call them favourites is irresistible, though it should be resisted as there are fragile layers to what appears as the Iron Man's Guardian of the Galaxy suit. The form of some of their luminaries is indeed concerning. Gavle was scratchy in his few games for Punjab Kings before he left the team citing bio-bubble fatigue; his franchise teammate Nicholas Pooran looked awfully out of depth; Shimron Hetmyer was inconsistent, and in a way embodies the mercurial nature of his team; six-savvy Evin Lewis's form tapered off as the UAE instalment of the Indian Premier League progressed, struggling to cope with the sluggishness of the pitches. Andre Russell is returning from an iniury that kept him out of the final stretch of the league, while Fabian Allen has sustained an injury and flown home.

Ouestions to answer

Most of them looked either rusty or knackered in the warmups against Afghanistan and Pakistan, mustering totals in the early 130s in both games. Unsurprisingly, they lost convincingly, giving head coach Phil Simmons some selection and structural headaches. What suits Gayle the most —opening or one drop? Is Hetmyer under-utilised Where should Roston Chase bat? Or should they keep it all flexible, which they rarely do?

The constitution of their bowling frame doesn't look sturdy either. There is a raft of medium pace all-sorts, but they lack a genuine quick. Oshane Thomas is the fastest, but wildly erratic, as his T20 economy rate of 9.06 indicates. Fellow seamer Obed McCoy is a slight upgrade, but prone to waywardness. It's perhaps the reason they recalled They could out-six most the forgotten Ravi Rampaul, who last played an international match in 2015. He is not an epitome of thrift either — in his last Caribbean Premier League game the 37-year-old was the league's highest wicket-taker.

More worrying is the lack of depth in the spin bowling department. Apart from Chase's loopy off-breaks, Hayden Walsh Jr's googly-leg-break assortment and the untested left-arm spinner Akeal Hosein, there is little else, which makes the omission of Narine baffling. In effect, they would be over-reliant on the change-of-pace expertise of Russell, Bravo, and at times Pollard.

The influence Pollard and Bravo would wield is central to where they end up. If they could recreate their IPL exploits, West Indies would likely reach the semifinals or go deeper.

At the core of the team selection, and their philosophy is the sheer belief that whatever the opponents could score, they could outscore. In their ravenous mood, they take conditions and dimensions of the ground out of the equation, breaking windows and shattering morales.

teams in the world like they did to win the title in 2016. Should they settle into six-hitting gear, they would be a fun team to watch. And of course, a formidable team to beat too, when the mood seizes and stars align.

Australia: No aura, no fear

TUSHAR BHADURI OCTOBER 22

IT SAYS a lot about Australia's prospects and aspirations for the T20 World Cup that the players in the squad most talked up are Mitchell Marsh and, after his stellar stint with Royal Challengers Bangalore in the Indian Premier League, Glenn Maxwell.

They are ranked seventh in the ICC T20I charts, below Bangladesh, and come into the tournament having lost their last five bilateral T20 series. But even if one disregards recent track record, it's the complete lack of fear factor and aura that defines the Aussies who will take the field in the Arabian desert. Not since Allan Border brought a little-known bunch of cricketers keen to make their name to the 1987 World Cup in the subcontinent has a team from Down Under been so unheralded going into an ICC showpiece event. The likes of David Boon, Geoff Marsh, Steve Waugh, Dean Jones, Tom Moody and Craig McDermott were yet to become household names, while the likes of Simon O'Donnell and Mike Veletta played key cameos in the campaign.

It all ended in a glorious climax at Eden Gardens. Something similar happening in the UAE a few weeks from now is not beyond the realms of possibility, but the smart money will not be on Australia adding its first T20 world title to the five it has in the 50-over version.

With the ICC event starting immediately after the IPL – at the same venues – the franchise tournament offers vital pointers

Australian captain Aaron Finch, returning after a knee injury, will lead a team which has lost its last five bilateral series to where teams stand in terms of their key personnel. Australia's batting mainstay either can't buy a run of late (David Warner), can't get into the playing XI of their IPL side (Steve Smith) or are coming back from injury (skipper Aaron Finch). Marcus Stoinis was a first-choice player for Delhi Capitals when the league resumed in the UAE, but the allrounder got injured and couldn't get back in even after regaining fitness. Dan Christian did feature frequently for RCB in the latter half of the competition, but can be termed as an honest trier, a T20 journeyman, rather than a match-winner in his own right at the highest level.

Marsh has been hyped up after a few decent innings on the illfated twin trips to the Caribbean and Bangladesh, but he has been in and around the set-up for a decade now without quite cracking the code in international cricket. Maxwell's talent and Xfactor make him an irresistible option, but he is not known for consistency and game awareness in big international tournaments.

All on the bowlers The pace trio of Mitchell Starc, Josh Hazlewood and Pat Cummins are much talked about. But they are more potent over five days than 20 overs, and even in their best format they featured in back-to-back home series losses to India. Hazlewood was part of the

IPL-winning Chennai Super Kings team, but Cummins hasn't played a T20 since late April and Starc hasn't been consistent of late. Ashton Agar and Adam Zampa have had some good results in tandem and will be expected to deliver if the pitches favour tweakers, especially later in the tournament. But spin has rarely been an Australian strength in the T20 format. To be effective, they need their batsmen to put reasonable scores on the board, which wasn't often the case in the West Indies and Bangladesh. The squad for the T20 World Cup includes names like Nathan Ellis, Josh Inglish, Kane Richardson, Daniel Sams and Mitchell Swepson. Not exactly names that will instill fear in any opposition. The paucity of batting talent often necessitated Matthew Wade, a wicketkeeper by trade, to play as a specialist batsman in various formats. He finds himself in the T20 World Cup squad as well.

Warner was a pale shadow of his dominant self during the few short and miserable stints he had in the second half of the IPL. The left-hander seemed rushed by the quicks and struggled for timings against the others as his feet and mindset were all over the place. But skipper Aaron Finch, who himself is returning after knee surgery, has maintained that the two will be opening the innings during the World Cup.

Smith made only two appearances for Delhi Capitals in the UAE, once as an opener and once at No.3. He is not the type of player who comes out all guns blazing from the start. But the Australian squad is not blessed with riches as far as batting against quality spin is concerned, so it would be foolhardy to leave Smith out. Maxwell comes in on the strength of his recent IPL form, to be followed by either Stoinis or Marsh. This batting line-up is hardly likely to put the fear of God into any opposition. The Aussie fans would hope that their out-of-form players regain it overnight, those returning from injury find their rhythm straightaway, and those short of match practice have excellent muscle memory.
