श्री नरेन्द्र मोदी, प्रधानमंत्री

ननीय श्री नरेंद्र मोदी जी का गुजरात के मुख्यमंत्री से लेकर भारत के प्रधानमंत्री तक का 20 वर्ष का कार्यकाल जनकल्याण व सुराज की दृष्टि से मील का पत्थर साबित हुआ है। उन्होंने 7 अक्टूबर 2001 को गुजरात के मुख्यमंत्री के रूप में शासन संभालते ही शासन व्यवस्था में आमूलचूल परिवर्तन कर उसे जनोन्मुखी और ज़िम्मेदार बनाकर पूरे देश को गवर्नेंस का नया रास्ता दिखाया। उन्हीं से प्रेरणा लेकर मध्यप्रदेश सरकार ने गरीबों, महिलाओं, बच्चों, किसानों, मजदूरों, पिछड़ों, अनुसूचित जाति और जनजाति के कल्याण के लिए 'जनकल्याण और सुराज का अभियान' आरंभ करने का निर्णय लिया है।

मध्यप्रदेश सरकार द्वारा माननीय प्रधानमंत्री जी के जन्मदिवस, 17 सितम्बर से 7 अक्टूबर 2021 के मध्य विभिन्न विभागों द्वारा चलाए जा रहे कल्याणकारी कार्यक्रमों के अंतर्गत नागरिकों को अधिक से अधिक सहायता पहुँचाने के लिए कार्यक्रम आयोजित किए जा रहे हैं। ये कल्याणकारी कदम प्रदेश की जनता के जीवन को सुखी, समृद्ध और खुशहाल बनाने के साथ ही साथ युवाओं के लिए बेहतर भविष्य और रोज़गार के अवसरों का निर्माण करेंगे।

Madras HC stays key clause: 'May rob media of its independence'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

UNDERLINING THE right to freedom of speech and expression as critical in a democracy, the Madras High Court on Thursday stayed the operation of a key provision of the Information Technology Rules, 2021, enacted in May, that set up an oversight mechanism by the Central government to regulate social media and digital media platforms. "Prima facie, there is substance to the petitioner's grievance that the oversight mechanism to control the media by the Government may rob the media of its independence and the fourth pillar of democracy may not at all be there," a bench of Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice P D Audikesavulu observed while staying the operation of Rule 9(1) and 9(3) of the CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

CALLING IT a "democratic experiment", the BJP Thursday ushered in an entirely new ministry in Gujarat, replacing all the existing names, just over a year ahead of the Assembly elections in the state. Only three in the government of Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel, a first-time MLA who took oath on September 13, have held ministerial posts earlier.

In the shake-up involving balancing of caste and regional representation, and induction of younger leaders, those dropped included powerful Deputy CM Nitin Patel. Asked if leaders were aggrieved over the changes the BJP put off the swearing-in scheduled for Wednesday amid the anger - Nitin Patel said, "If some community, an individual or district gets disgruntled, then CONTINUED ON PAGE 4

Information Technology (Guidelines for Intermediaries and Digital Media Ethics Code) Rules, 2021.

Rule 9 of the IT Rules prescribe a grievance redressal mechanism and sub-Section 1 establishes a portal to be set up by the Ministry of Information and Technology for receiving complaints against media platforms while under sub-Section 3, an acknowledgment of every complaint is generated within 24 hours of receiving the complaint, which is then referred to the media platform concerned and the IT ministry for

This is the second instance of a High Court citing the right to freedom of speech while staying the same provision in the IT Rules. On August 14, the Bombay High Court had stayed Rule 9(1) and 9(3), saying they are "manifestly unreasonable and go beyond the IT Act, its aims and provisions."

"The indeterminate and wide terms of the Rules bring about a chilling effect qua (regarding) the right of freedom of speech and expression of writers/editors/publishers as they can be hauled up for anything if the authorities so wish," the Bombay HC had then

The provision was challenged in the Madras High Court by the Digital News Publishers Association, a grouping of 13 leading media companies in the country - ABP Network Private Limited, Amar Uiala Limited, DB Corp Limited, Express Network Pvt Ltd, HT Digital Streams Ltd, IE Online Media Services Pvt Ltd, Jagran Prakashan Limited, Lokmat Media Private Limited, NDTV Convergence Limited, TV Today Network Limited, The Malayala Manorama Co (P) Ltd, Times Internet Limited and the Ushodava Enterprises Private Limited.

"For understandable reasons, the petitioners are wary of the oversight mechanism of the Central Government as indicated in the final tier of the process of regulation," the Madras High Court observed on Thursday.

The High Court also examined Rule 3(1)(c), which terminates the access or usage rights of users for non-compliance by media platforms with the provisions of grievance redressal.

"Though the petitions have been brought by hosts of website platforms, social media platforms on the website are used by one and sundry and there is a genuine apprehension, as the petitioners' suggest, that a wink or a nod from appropriate quarters may result in the platform being inaccessible to a citizen," the order stated. The Rules enacted under Section 69 of the IT Act requires all social media platforms to set up grievance redress and compliance mechanisms, which include appointing a resident grievance officer, chief compliance officer and nodal contact person.

The Centre has defended the Rules in court, arguing that it merely extends the norms applicable for traditional media to digital media platforms without extending the entire Press Council Act and the Cable Television Networks (Regulation) Act to publishers of news and current affairs content on digital media.

Though it agreed that the Bombay HC stay order would apply across the country, it has also filed a petition before the Supreme Court seeking a transfer of all cases from various High Courts, including the Delhi High Court to the Supreme Court. The plea is likely to be heard in October.

at premises associated with Mander, but did not give details of the probe against him. The searches, sources said, were conducted at Adchini, Mehrauli and Vasant Kunj in South Delhi.

"Searches are going on. Our case is based on the Delhi Police FIR in the matter." an ED official

Mander had left for Germany around 3.30 am on Thursday on a fellowship at the Robert Bosch Academy in Berlin. The board of the CES, in a statement, said they were committed to cooperating with the ongoing searches, and would provide all necessary information to the ED.

Delhi Police had registered two cases against CES — one under the Juvenile Justice (JJ) Act and another over alleged financial irregularities – following a raid conducted by the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) last October at two children's homes run by the centre. NCPCR had alleged various irregularities, including financial, in the running of the two homes at the time.

In July this year, in response to a petition in the Delhi High Court by CES, the NCPCR had said it had recommended action against the up growth capital for them to support economic activity. ...this will result in banks' balance sheets and books being cleaner, transparent, they will now be able to stand on their own and do business. They have proved it because banks are going out and raising resources (from the market)," she said.

NARCL, which is 51 per cent owned by public sector banks, will have an operational entity, India Debt Resolution Company Ltd, to manage these assets and find potential buyers for them. Banks that transfer their stressed assets will get 15 per cent of the value in cash and 85 per cent as tradable security receipts. The government guarantee will cover the gap between the face value of the security receipts and realised value of the assets when eventually sold to the prospective buyers.

A guarantee helps in improving the value of security receipts, their liquidity and tradability. "For the SRs (security receipts) to hold on and have their value intact, there is a need for the government to backstop...that's why Cabinet has given clearance to provide guarantee (in its meeting on Wednesday)," the minister said.

The guarantee is in the form of the "contingent liability" and does not involve any immediate cash outgo for the Central government, Department of Financial Services Secretary Debasish Panda clarified. He said conditions have been built in the structure to ensure a speedy and time-bound resolution. The guarantee is valid for five years and the guarantee fee that NARCL pays to the government will keep on rising with each passing year. The guarantee can be invoked only in case of resolution of liquidation of the assets.

"This will ensure that a secondary market gets developed for such Securitized Receipts and banks will be able to trade the same. Second, there is an inbuilt incentive structure within the overall framework that will drive both banks and NARCL to ensure resolution of the bad loans within a period of 5 years. Such elements have been missing in the functioning of the existing ARCs and hence we feel that large assets that have hitherto been left unaddressed will see resolution going ahead," FICCI President Uday Shankar said.

In anticipation of the announcement, NIFTY PSU Bank index rose 5.43 per cent Thursday, with PSU banks' shares jumping up to 13.86 per cent at the National Stock

Since 2015, Sitharaman said, the government has worked on four Rs -Recognition, Resolution. Recapitalisation and Reforms — to resurrect the public sector banks, and this process has now come full circle. Resolution, recovery of NPAs, healthy capital infusion has been down alongside a series of reforms.

"In the last six financial years...banks have recovered Rs 5,01,479 crore, of which Rs 3.1 lakh crore have been recovered since March 2018. In 2018-19 alone, a record of Rs 1.2 lakh crore were recovered. Recovery also includes from the so called written off accounts," she said.

The government has infused Rs 3.06 lakh crore in stateowned banks in five years between 2017-18 and 2021-22, and taken a series of reforms to strengthen banks, improve debt resolution and recovery and taken steps towards fraud detection and prevention, she added.

Agovernment-backed ARC was proposed in this year's Budget to take over the stressed debt of banks and manage these in a market-led way. Banks are putting in equity of around Rs 6,000 crore in the NARCL, which will also have private sector banks, NBFCs and financial institutions as shareholders. Public sector banks will own 49 per cent equity in Debt Resolution Company Ltd, the operating entity comprising professionals that will manage and eventually sell the underlying assets.

Panda exuded confidence this market-led resolution mechanism, supported by the government, will help to speedily resolve stressed assets. Unlike in the past where resolutions were held up due to differences among banks, "now it's actually the banks who are more interested and raring to go," he said. The assets can eventually be sold to Alternate Investment Funds and other potential investors to realise their full value.

NARCL was registered with the Registrar of Companies (RoC) in Mumbai on July 7 and the Reserve Bank of India licence is expected soon for the company. Most of the existing private asset reconstruction companies are thinly capitalised and could not deal with the scope of NPA problem, therefore, NARCL has been set up to deal with stressed assets in a market-led way but supported by the government.

NARCL, also known as a bad bank, has eight public sector banks as its shareholders. The company currently has four directors on its board Sunil Mehta, Padmakumar Madhavan Nair, Salee Sukumaran Nair, Ajit Krishnan Nair.

According to the Articles of Association of the company filed with the RoC, while SBI, Union Bank of India, Bank of Baroda and Indian Bank own 99 lakh shares each, Canara Bank owns 1.2 crore shares. Other shareholders include - Punjab National Bank (90 lakh shares), Bank of India (90 lakh shares) and Bank of Maharashtra (50 lakh shares). The authorised share capital of the company is Rs 100 crore divided into 10 crore shares of Rs 10 each.

"The sovereign guarantee will support the regulatory provisioning requirement of the RBI and allow the banks to free up that capital without the burden of additional provisioning. effectively allowing more participation from the banks to resolve their NPAs through the bad bank. The success of the bad bank, however, will depend on the implementation and management of the transferred NPAs," said Anish Mashruwala, Partner, J Sagar Associates.

CM change

it is not my responsibility now to look into it."

The new No. 2 in the 25member Cabinet is Rajendra Trivedi, who resigned as Assembly Speaker ahead of Thursday's oath-taking. A lawyer by profession, the MLA from Raopura in Vadodara had defended several accused in the 2002 Best Bakery massacre case.

While Bhupendra Patel continues to mostly hold the same portfolios as his predecessor Vijay Rupani – including Home, Ports, Mines and Minerals, and the General Administration Department - Trivedi got Revenue apart from Law and Justice. Finance went to Kanu Desai.

Congratulating the new ministers, Prime Minister Narendra Modi tweeted, "These are outstanding Karyakartas who have devoted their lives to public service and spreading our Party's development agenda."

Gujarat BJP in-charge and Union minister Bhupender Yadav, who oversaw the revamp, said the appointment of an entirely new Council of Ministers was a "democratic experiment" for the development of the party and for nursing a new leadership. He denied any discontent, saying the move had "the complete consent of all the leaders".

Seven of the new ministers are OBCs, while an equal number are Patidars. There are four tribals, and two each from the Brahmin, Kshatriva and Dalit communities, apart from one Jain (Rupani was the first Jain CM of Gujarat). Two are women — a Dalit and a tribal.

While the average age of the outgoing Vijay Rupani Cabinet was 60.5, for the new ministry it is 53.4 years.

Three of the new ministers had won on Congress tickets in the 2017 elections before crossing over to the BIP - Raghavii Patel. Jitu Chaudhary and Brijesh Merja. The Rupani ministry too had three Congress turncoats.

There are 10 Cabinet-rank, five ministers of state (MoS) with Independent charge and nine MoS in the new ministry, apart from Bhupendra Patel, 59, himself. Along with Trivedi, 67, just Raghavji Patel and Kiritsinh Rana have previously served as ministers. An MLA from Jamnagar (Rural), Raghavji was one of the Congress MLAs who is believed to have 'cross voted' in favour of BJP candidates during the high-voltage Gujarat Rajya Sabha elections of August 2017, which the late Ahmed Patel narrowly won.

The 10 Cabinet ministers include Trivedi; Jitu Vaghani; Rushikesh Patel; Purnesh Modi; Raghavii Patel: Kanu Desai: Kiritsinh Rana; Naresh Patel; Pradip Parmar; and Arjunsinh Chauhan.

The new Health Minister is Rushikesh, while Majura legislator Harsh Sanghavi has been named MoS. Home.

The OBC ministers are Purnesh Modi, who had filed a defamation case against Rahul Gandhi; Arjunsinh Chauhan; Jagdish Panchal: Mukesh Patel: Gajendra Parmar; Raghavji Makwana; Devabhai Malam.

Apart from the CM himself, the Patidars in the ministry include former BJP president Jitu Vaghani (Bhavnagar West); Rushikesh (Visnagar); Brijesh Merja (Morbi); Arvind Raiyani (Rajkot East); Raghavji Patel (Jamnagar Rural); and Vinod Moradiya (Katargam). It was from Visnagar in Mehsana that the Patidar reservation agitation led by Hardik Patel had first come into

The tribal ministers include Naresh Patel (Gandevi); Jitu Chaudhary (Kaprada); Nimisha Suthar (Morva Hadaf); and Kuber Dindor (Santrampur). The Dalit community is represented by Pradip Parmar (Asarva) and Manisha Vakil (Vadodara City).

France —which was not notified of the alliance between the three countries — expressed its unhappiness over the deal, calling it a "stab in the back".

France is irked that the AUKUS pact effectively puts the curtains on the 90-billion Australian dollar (about 65 billion USD) submarine deal that Australia had signed with it in French Foreign Minister lean Yves Le Drian said, "We had established a trusting relationship with Australia, and this trust was betrayed...I am today very angry and very bitter about this breakup. This is not acceptable between allies '

"What concerns me as well is the American behaviour. This brutal, unilateral, unpredictable decision looks very much like what Mr Trump used to do. Allies don't do this to each other [especially when] they want to have coherent Indo-Pacific approaches. It's rather insufferable," he said.

In New Delhi, the official spokesperson of the Ministry of External Affairs, Arindam Bagchi, did not comment on the new AUKUS partnership, which comes just days before the first in-person Quad leaders' summit in Washington DC next week.

US President Biden will host the summit, which will be attended by Modi, Morrison and Japanese PM Yoshihide Suga.

"I do not have anything to share on this at this moment,' Bagchi said, in response to questions on the AUKUS deal.

Sources said Australian Foreign Minister Marise Payne and Defence Minister Peter Dutton had also called up their Indian counterparts S Jaishankar and Rajnath Singh on Wednesday to apprise them about the AUKUS deal. As part of the joint statement announcing AUKUS, Biden said, "We are taking another historic step to deepen and formalise cooperation among all three of our nations because we all recognise the imperative of ensuring peace and stability in the Indo-Pacific over the long term."

"AUKUS will enhance our contribution to our growing network of partnerships in the Indo-Pacific region. ...our ASEAN friends, bilateral strategic partners, the Quad, Five Eyes countries, and of course our dear Pacific family. The first major initiative of AUKUS will be to deliver a nuclear-powered submarine fleet for Australia," Morrison said.

The Chinese Foreign Ministry sharply criticised the trilateral military partnership, saying it would closely monitor the pact that will gravely undermine regional stability and aggravate the arms race and hurt international non-proliferation efforts.

"During the inspection, prima facie many violations of Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, and its Model Rules, 2016, and various other irregularities came to the notice of NCPCR, including financial irregularities as the institution was reluctant in disclosing their sources of funding and other relevant document to the inspection team," NCPCR said in the reply.

CES has cooperated with every government agency by providing all organisational details requested... including balance sheets and other financial and programmatic documents... divert money to battling the Covid

In June, the Supreme Court had refused to interfere with a Delhi High Court order that dismissed a petition seeking a stay on the Central Vista Project construction in the midst of the pandemic. Holding the Central Vista Project to be of "national importance", the High Court had called the plea "motivated".

The Prime Minister also launched a new website for the Central Vista project. The website, Centralvista.gov.in, has details of the projects that are part of the redevelopment, besides a dashboard for "jobs generated", active and upcoming projects and a section about "myths and realities". It also has information about the new Parliament building under construction, the Central Vista Avenue, the Common Central Secretariat, the National Museum, National Archives and the IGNCA.

During his speech at the inauguration of the defence complexes, the PM invoked security forces and said that when he first came to power in 2014, he decided to make the National War Memorial for "those brave soldiers who protect the dignity and pride of the country, who live and struggle for the country, those who martyred for the nation", adding that what should have had been done immediately after Independence was started only after 2014

"After we completed work on the memorial, we started with the Central Vista project to improve the offices. We first remembered our brave soldiers and martyrs.' he said.

Of late, the 32-year-old Kohli has not been at his peak as a batsman in Tests, a format that he adores. He has not scored a longform century for close to two years now, and has made 563 runs in 12 Tests at 26.80 during this period. Still, calling time on his T20I captaincy was a tough decision, he said.

"Of course, arriving at this decision took a lot of time. #### PIL CHALLENGES HIS APPOINTMENT AS POLICE CHIEF

Asthana picked as Delhi's top cop for effective policing: Centre to HC

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

THE CENTRE Thursday defended IPS officer Rakesh Asthana's appointment as Delhi Police Commissioner, saving he has been brought in to provide "effective policing" on recent law and order situations in the national capital. The government also said it needs to be given a leeway in the appointment of Delhi Police Commissioner as any "paediatric approach" would not be in the national interest.

The submission has been made in a written reply filed in response to a PIL seeking quashing of Asthana's appointment, inter-cadre deputation, and extension of service. The court is expected to hear the case next

The Centre said that since AGMUT cadre comprises Union states, the requisite experience -"of working and supervising the central investigating agency, para-military force and police force of a large state having diproblem" - was found lacking in the present pool of available officers. Senior officers in the Delhi Police are usually picked from the AGMUT cadre.

"Hence, in public interest, a decision was made by the central government to have an officer who had experience in all the above fields to supervise Delhi Police force and to provide effective policing on the recent law and order situation which arose in the National Capital Territory of Delhi," the Centre said.

It further said that Delhi has been witnessing diverse and extremely challenging situations "of public order/law and order situation/policing issues" which not only have "national security implications" but also "international/cross border implica-

The plea against Asthana's appointment before the High Court has been filed by Sadre Alam, a lawyer. The court has also allowed an intervention application by the Centre for Public Interest Litigation (CPIL) in the case. CPIL has accused Alam of copying contents of its petition pending before the apex court.

The Centre in the reply has called Alam's petition "an abuse of process of law" and said the case is "manifestly an outcome of some personal vendetta' against the officer by Alam and the CPIL since appointment of eight IPS officers done earlier since 2006 "in the same manner" was never challenged.

A 1984 Gujarat-cadre officer and former DG BSF, Asthana was on July 27 deputed to the AG-MUT cadre and granted an extension of service for a period of one year beyond his date of reJuly 27 up to July 31, 2022. Alam, in the petition filed through advocate B S Bagga, argued that the MHA's decision was in violation of the directions issued by Supreme Court in the Prakash Singh case and of the policy regarding inter-cadre deputation of All India Service Officers. Submitting that the post of Delhi CP is akin to the post of DGP of a state, Alam has argued that Asthana was not empaneled by the UPSC as directed in the Prakash Singh case and he did not have a residual tenure of six months of service at the time of his appointment since he was to retire within four days.

The Centre, in its reply, said the Prakash Singh case was not applicable to Delhi as it is a Union Territory. Delhi, being the capital of the country, has its own characteristic factors which do not exist in any other commissionerate, it said. "Apart from being the capital of the country, any incident happening here has farreaching impacts and implications not only throughout the country but beyond borders. In submitted that any statutory provision or any other regime deserves to be read in such a way that a leeway is given to the central government in appointment the Delhi Police Commissioner. Any straitjacket or paediatric approach would not be in national interest," the Centre submitted in court. Asthana in a separate reply to Alam's petition said that as a part of a "selective campaign" against him, proceedings are being consistently filed against him by these Common Cause and Centre for Public Interest Litigations. He added that "outside court, the people having control of the said organisation spearhead a malicious campaign against me". Asthana also said that there was a sustained social media campaign against him "which corroborates and iustifies" his apprehension that the challenge to his appointment "is the result of either some vendetta which is unknown to me or is being conducted at the behest of some undisclosed individual / rival / interest".

Blended learning here to stay, says Miranda House principal

SUKRITA BARUAH

NEW DELHI. SEPTEMBER 16

IN LAST week's NIRF college rankings, Miranda House went on to retain the top position for a fifth year in a row. Principal Dr Bijayalaxmi Nanda told The Indian Express that the college hopes to have its students back on campus soon but that blended learning is here to stay, and that students have to be prepared for this as well as the multidisciplinary approach of the National Education Policy. She also spoke of how the college, with its rich legacy of having contributed to women's education in India, has a wide number of courses including Humanities, Social Sciences, B.El.Ed, Sciences, and modern Indian languages.

What can students expect in terms of cut-off marks for admissions this year?

The cut-offs will be higher this time as compared to the last academic year. However, students with an interest in Sanskrit, Bengali, Tamil and Punjabi may find a window in the BA programme combination courses at Miranda House.

What has the experience of teaching-learning during

DR BIJAYALAXMI NANDA PRINCIPAL, MIRANDA HOUSE

Covid been like? How has the college adapted to the change?

The Covid restrictions have changed the face of education globally, and the challenges of the times have brought in a focus on online learning. We do strive to improve accessibility and inclusion as much as we can. Delhi University brought in online admissions and examinations. We are functioning on a principle of "anti-fragility", which means learning and growing from crisis and disruptions. We have widened our ining to connect with each student by enhancing our support through providing them digital devices. We have also emphasised on blended learning in every way and have been able to connect nationally and globally with academics and experts. However there is no substitute for being in the physical environment of a vibrant campus. We hope that with complete vaccination and SOPs, we will be able to have our students back in college. But blended mode of learning is here to stay; education does benefit by it. Also our student volunteers did an excellent job of running a Covid helpdesk during the second wave which supported many in the city.

Do you have any words on what this new batch of students hoping to enter DU can expect in a university changed by the pandemic?

The young people are resilient and products of this learning system changed by the pandemic. In a sense, they are already prepared. My primary message to them is to, first and foremost, protect themselves by full vaccination. The second thing is to be prepared to learn new skills and develop their potential for cut-

Delhi riots: Court frames murder charges against 5 for killing man

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

A DELHI court Thursday framed charges of murder against five men accused of killing a man and burning his body during the Northeast Delhi riots, taking note of his brother's blow-byblow account.

Additional Sessions Judge Vinod Yadav framed charges against the accused - Lakhpat Rajora, Lalit, Yogesh, and two more men, both named Kuldeep under IPC sections including murder, rioting, mischief by fire or explosive substance with intent to destroy house and dacoity and sections of the Arms Act.

Mohd Anwar was shot and set on fire by a mob at Ramlila ground on February 25 last year and only a piece of his leg was found by police. His brother Saleem Kassar had told police that "a riotous mob looted his house and set it on fire after breaking open the doors... with sarias and dandas". He further alleged that the "riotous mob had also committed murder of his elder brother, Mohd Anwar, with gunshot injury and thereafter burnt his body." The mob also took away 17 goats from his brother's house

The court in its order said the complainant in this case, Saleem Kassar, had "seen his elder brother being shot dead and his house burnt by riotous mob, so it was natural for him to get shattered and shocked". "However, by passage of time, after gaining some composure and confidence, he has not only given a blow-by-blow account of the incident but has also categorically identified accused Lakhpat Rajora," the court said.

Mohd Anwar was killed during the riots last yr. Archive

It said Kassar's statement also corroborated with that of his son stage, their aforesaid statements cannot be brushed aside/discarded merely because there has been some delay in recording thereof or that the complainant did not specifically name/identify the accused persons in his initial written complaint made to police," the court said.

It acknowledged that "though there is some delay in recording statements of public witnesses in the matter, at this stage, this court cannot lose sight of the fact that on account of prevailing communal tension in the area, it was very difficult for the investigating agency to trace eye/public witnesses promptly because people were so shocked and traumatised that it took several days for them to muster the courage to come out and report the matter..."

The court said, "At the time of framing of charges, the FIR and material collected by investigating agency cannot be sieved through cullender of the finest gauzes to test its veracity." It also took note of the fact that one country-made pistol was recovered from accused Yogesh and "ballistic report confirmed it was in working condition".

Jeweller's wife attacked, held hostage in robbery bid; 4 held

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI SEPTEMBER 16

A 55-YEAR-OLD woman was attacked and held hostage allegedly by her house help and cook at her home, who then made off with cash and jewellery worth lakhs. Police said the incident took place in Northwest Delhi's Maurya Enclave on Tuesday and the accused, along with their two associates, were arrested within sixseven hours of the incident.

Police sources said the four men were planning to leave Delhi and go to Nepal. Jewellery and cash worth Rs 50.5 lakh was recovered from their possession. The victim, Parmila Singhal, is wife of Chandni Chowk Jewellery Association Head Yogesh Singhal. According to police, the woman was lying on her bed when her cook Aman Roy (19) and domestic help Sanjeev

Kumar (18) came to her room and threw chilli powder on her face and eyes, tied her up, and snatched her iPhone and gold jewellery. They then pushed her into a bathroom, opened the almirah and picked up an electronic safe that had diamond jewellery and cash before fleeing, said police. CCTV footage from the house shows the two men leaving. The case was transferred to the Crime Branch and police started scanning CCTVs from the house and outside. "We checked routes taken by suspects and deploved a team to conduct an enquiry in the area. A raiding team was sent to Mandiwala Park in Shakurpur where all four men were apprehended," said DCP (Crime Branch) Joy Tirkey.

The main accused - Roy, Kumar and their associates Ram Pukar Yadav (26) and Sunil Ram (21) - were arrested on Wednesday, Kumar and Roy were hired a week ago by the family after their help and cook went home. During questioning, police found that Yadav had been planning to rob Yogesh's family for a long time. When Roy and Kumar started working at Yogesh's place, he "suggested" they should rob jewellery and cash from there. He and his friend Ram received jewellery from the two men and were planning to flee to Nepal, said police. The four men hail from different villages in Bihar.

On Thursday, the victim's family said she is undergoing treatment after being injured during the assault.

Her husband said, "My daughter was at a shop and Parmila was alone at home. The men tried strangling her, one of them put his leg on her chest and she couldn't breathe... She somehow managed to untie the bedsheet and washed her face immediately. She locked the bathroom from inside. After they left, she went to the bedroom and locked the door. She checked the CCTV to make sure they were gone and then rushed to a neighbour's house to call police.'

5 cases of gangrene in gallbladder post Covid, 'first in India', say doctors

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

DOCTORS AT Sir Ganga Ram Hospital have seen five patients who developed gallbladder gangrene after recovering from Covid-19. Medical experts at the hospital believe this is the first report of such cases in India.

The five patients — four men and a woman aged between 37 and 75 years — were successfully treated at the hospital between June and August. They complained of fever, pain in the right upper quadrant of abdomen, and vomiting.

Two of them had diabetes and one suffered from heart disease. Three patients had received steroids for the management of symptoms of Covid-19.

Dr Anil Arora, Chairman of the Institute of Liver, Gastroenterology Pancreaticobiliary Sciences at the hospital, said, "We recently successfully treated five patients for gallbladder gangrene between June to August 2021, who had recovered from Covid-19 infection and presented with severe inflammation of gallbladder without gallstones (acalculous cholecystitis) resulting in gangrene of the gallbladder requiring urgent surgery. To the best of our knowledge, this is the first report of a series of five cases from India in which the gallbladder gangrene had occurred in patients after recovery from Covid-19 infection."

The median duration between the symptoms of Covid-19 and the diagnosis of "acalculous cholecystitis" was two months, and the diagnosis was confirmed through an ultrasound and CT scan of the abdomen.

Gallbladder stone disease is a very common problem in North India (affecting 8 per cent of the general population) and is responsible for 90 per cent cases of acute inflammation called cholecystitis.

Only 10 per cent of the patients have "acalculous cholecystitis", which is inflammation of gallbladder without evidence of gallstones or cystic duct obstruction.

cessfully underwent the laparoscopic removal of necrotic perforated gall bladders, Dr Arora said.

He added that "acalculous cholecystitis" with gangrenous gallbladder is a serious condition associated with high morbidity (up to 30 per cent to 60 per cent ) and much higher mortality than the "calculous cholecystitis".

It is usually seen in patients suffering from diabetes, HIV, vascular disease, total parenteral nutrition, those on prolonged fasting, in ICUs, and those with underlying history of trauma, burns and sepsis.

According to doctors, all five patients had recovered from Covid-19 and did not have the common and conventional predisposing factors mentioned above.

Praveen Sharma, Consultant of the Senior Gastroenterology Department, said: "Timely diagnosis and early intervention with broad spectrum antibiotics may prevent the development of onerous complication of gangrene and perforation of the gallbladder."

'Prosecution involved in diversionary tactics'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

STUDENT ACTIVIST Gulfisha Fatima's lawver told a Delhi court, which was hearing her bail application in a UAPA case in connection with the Northeast Delhi riots, that the prosecution was involved in diversionary tactics by challenging the maintainability of the bail applications of riot accused.

This development comes in the backdrop of the prosecution raising the issue of maintainability of the bail application filed by former councillor Ishrat Jahan before ASJ Amitabh

The prosecution had argued that Jahan's bail plea was filed under CrPC section 439 and it could not be entertained by a special court.

Today, the court informed Gulfisha's lawyer Mehmood Pracha about the prosecution's challenge to her bail application. FOR CHILDREN in 30 Child Care Institutions (CCIs) in Delhi, every afternoon is now devoted to words and numbers through games and activities as part of a reading campaign to build their foundational literacy and numerical abilities.

CCIs house 'children in need of care and protection' between the ages of 6 and 18, referred to them by Child Welfare Committees and Juvenile Justice Boards. A baseline assessment conducted across all the CCIs in July found that only 52% of children were able to read words in Hindi and 55% were able to identify two-digit numbers.

The campaign was launched by the Delhi Commission for Protection of Child Rights, along the lines of the Delhi government's Mission Buniyaad. Instructors have been trained by NGO Pratham. At Khushi Rainbow Home for Girls, 41 of the 58 girls were found to be at the beginner level. Within this, they have been divided into three levels each for Hindi and Maths - those who cannot identify letters, cannot build words, cannot read a paragraph or story; and those who cannot identify numbers, who cannot add and subtract numbers, and cannot multiply and divide them.

Games to stories: Campaign helps kids in care centres learn

The reading campaign is underway at 30 CCIs. Sukrita Baruah

Through a 40-day intervention, instructors are to create weekly plans and work on weekly goals.

Last week, the goal for those who cannot build words was to help them differentiate between similar-looking and sounding letters. In the colourful resource room, on the day The Indian Express visited, the teacher was teaching the girls to differentiate between 'sh' and 's' letters. In the next room, one of the dormitories, the teacher had drawn out a detailed storyboard for five students, to help them with basic addition through storytelling. These five students are children with special needs, who are a separate group of their own for this campaign.

"In the beginning, there was no separate group for special needs children. But in the first few days of implementing the campaign, we found that if the point is to work with children at different learning levels and address different learning abilities, the five children's needs will also have to be addressed separately," said Shalu Sharma, support person for the campaign at the centre. According to centre superviing there include those rescued from life on the street, orphans, children of a single parent who could not support them, and victims of child sexual abuse. A 14-year-old girl was found sor Arti Sharma, children residto be of beginner level, having difficulty in forming words. "I do my school online classes on the computers in the morning. But I like these afternoon classes, I like playing the games," she said, adding that she really wants to work on her English. "The campaign is currently being run in South and Southeast districts with over 500 children. It will be scaled up to other districts too," said Sanskriti Shree, a fellow with the DCPCR.

EXPERT PANEL

POLITICIANS, AN industrialist, a cricketer and academics among others have been made part of an expert committee, which will look into possible changes in the National Cadet Corps (NCC) to make it more relevant for the modern times. The 15-member committee, constituted by the Defence Ministry, is headed by BJP vice-president Baijayant Panda and includes former Indian cricket captain MS Dhoni and industrialist Anand Mahindra. Other members include BJP MPs Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore and Vinay Sahasrabuddhe; Principal Economic Adviser Sanjeev Sanyal; Jamia Millia Islamia's Vice-Chancellor Najma Akhtar; and Mukul Kanitkar of Bhartiya Shikshan Mandal, which has links with the RSS. The panel will "suggest measures to empower NCC cadets to contribute more effectively towards nation building" and recommend best practices of similar international youth organisations for inclusion in the NCC curriculum.

NO SPITTING anywhere, cover mouth and nose while sneezing/coughing, wash hands even when they're not "visibly dirty" and download Arogya Setu app. These are some of the dos and don'ts officials participating in All India Civil Services Athletics Meet have been asked to follow. The shadow of Covid-19 looms so large on the event, to be held in Delhi from September 28 to September 30, that players and officials have been asked to keep six-feet distance from each other and not share each others' sports equipment. Sports equipment which must be shared should be used after all precautions. And, of course, all need to produce negative RT-PCR reports in order to participate.

Sasikala looming, raids on, ADMK fears more blows, further cracks

ARUN JANARDHANAN CHENNAL SEPTEMBER 16

THEDIRECTORATE of Vigilance and Anti-Corruption(DVAC) searches at over 20 premises and locations related to former AIADMK Minister KCVeeramani on Thursday are being seen by the party as part of pressure tactics on it, as it struggles to contain dissension since it lost power earlier this year.

The raids coincided with the wedding of AIADMK rebelturned-AMMK leader T T V Dhinakaran's daughter. The function passed without an event, with party luminaries keeping away. Leaders had been waiting with bated breath to see who turned up — as a sign on which side Dhinakaran's aunt and late Iavalalithaa confidante V K Sasikala would lean.

Several AIADMK MLAs, including in both the E Palaniswami and O Paneerselvam camps, are reportedly in talks with Sasikala. "The general feeling is she is the only leader who can bring together the AIADMK. There are fears that Palaniswami (the former chief minister) may be summoned soon for questioning in the Kodanadu estate robbery case and murders, as he has been named by the accused. At least 20 AIADMK MLAs are in talks with the Sasikala camp, including former ministers... Some have serious issues with Dhinakaran but not Sasikala," a former AIADMK leader said.

The Kodanadu estate was owned by Jayalalithaa. While Chief Minister MK Stalin, who has tried to break a Tamil Nadu trend by maintaining cordial ties with Opposition parties, is expected to tread carefully on the matter, AIADMK leaders say that mere questioning of Palaniswami would cause enough damage to the party.

A senior officer told The Indian Express that they expected things to move in the Kodanadu case in a

A source close to Sasikala said she sees Panneerselvam, who had lost out in the CM race to Palaniswami, as weaker among the two and hence more pliable. On the other hand, Sasikala blames Palaniswami for preventing her reentry into the AIADMK after her release from prison.

Since 2017, Paneerselvam has held several meetings with her and Dhinakaran amidst the party power tussle, a source said.

her release added to her credibility. The AIADMK believes the DVACaction Thursday proves the ruling DMK government will try to fish in its troubled waters. AHMEDABAD, SEPTEMBER 16

WHILE IT might seem that the BIP has taken a huge risk by bringing in a completely new Council of Ministers in Gujarat, 14 months ahead of the Assembly elections, party insiders pointed to the fact that the protests within, which ostensibly caused the postponement of the oath-taking ceremony Wednesday, had already calmed down.

Senior BJP leaders cited this to hail Prime Minister Narendra Modi's "bold experiment" in his home state, and another example of him as a "strong leader".

Sources told The Indian Express that the original plan was to drop a EXPLAINED few ministers, but the party then decided to go the whole hog, thus preempting any rebellion from those dropped. "Sookhe ke saath geela bhijal

services: Gadkari on tolls

Although the BJP had its worst performance since 1995 in the 2017 Assembly elections (winning 99 of 182 seats), after replacing Anandiben Patel with Vijav Rupani as Chief Minister in a similar move, party leaders say the circumstances have changed.

A senior BIP leader said, "Look at the Congress. It has been five months since they lost the local body elections, when their leaders took responsibility and stepped down. They have not even been able to find new state leaders. That is the difference between us and the Congress."

Besides, Rupani fought the 2017 elections in the wake of the Patidar quota agitation and the anger over the flogging of Dalits in Una. Those factors are not in play now.

One of the first things new CM Bhupendra Patel did after taking over was to reach out to those hit by the flood-like situation in BJP leaders said they were not worried about Patel's handling of a possible third wave of Covid-19 either. The Rupani government had come under severe criticism during the second wave.

While then Deputy CM Nitin Patel held the Health portfolio at the time, it is now with three-time Visnagar MLA Rushikesh Patel. But the source of the BIP's confidence is the new person at the helm of the Health Ministry at the Centre. "We have Mansukhbhai Mandaviya (a Rajya Sabha MP from Gujarat) already. Besides our government at the Centre and state has put systems in place to handle the third wave," a leader said.

Among those who backed the changes was Bhupendrasinh Chudasama, now out as education minister. "Our party does as it says. Those in the organisation get to work in the government and those in the government should work in the organisation."

BIP worker's murder case: CBI questions Mamata polling agent

Kolkata: TMC leader Sheikh Sufiyan — a polling agent of Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee Nandigram during the recent Assembly elections — was on Thursday questioned by the CBI for more than four hours at its Haldia camp in connection with its ongoing probe into post-poll violence.

Meanwhile, the CBI on Wednesday registered one more case as part of its investigation into post-poll violence, taking the total to 35. The case was earlier registered by West Bengal Police against 12 people on a complaint at Sitalkuchi police station in Cooch Behar.

"I have answered every queson of the CRI — with spine. I am ready to co-operate with them in future too," Sufiyan told the media. "We are Mamata Banerjee's soldiers and have the courage to fight."

The CBI on Thursday carried out raids in different parts of Bengal in an ongoing probe into the coal pilferage case. Raids were conducted in Farakka. Kolkata and Asansol as well as other locations of Eastern Coalfield Limited.

'verification' puts new burden on govt employees

J&K order on

NAVEEDIOBAL

SRINAGAR, SEPTEMBER 16

IN AN ORDER issued Thursday, the Jammu and Kashmir administration set wide-ranging parameters for "discrete verification" of government employees, which in effect puts an increasing burden on them.

The major concerns set out by the administration during periodic verification of character and antecedents of government employees include serious offences such as involvement in any act of sabotage, espionage, treason, terrorism, subversion, sedition/ secession, facilitating foreign interference, incitement to violence "or any other unconstitutional act".

But what has triggered concerns in the Union Territory is the broad and vague nature of the new parameters to verify an employee's character – the order states that "association or sympathy" with persons who are attempting to commit such offences or are involved in "aiding or abetting or advocating" these activities, can put the employee at the risk of losing verification and even his or her job.

A list of "adversely reported employees" prepared from time to time will be taken into cognisance by administrative departments and reported to the General Âdministration Department. If such employees are due for promotion, their cases shall be put on hold immediately.

Further, these cases will be submitted to a UT-level Screening Committee chaired by the Principal Home Secretary. This committee can act upon it, including terminating an employment from service. A Review Committee chaired by the Chief Secretary can review the decision if it is referred to by the Screening Committee or on the representation of the aggrieved employee.

The order - issued in continuation to the Jammu and Kashmir Civil Services (Character & Antecedents) Instructions, 1997 – provides "instructions" to be kept in mind by the administration during verification. The latest order follows a recent circular that mandates J&K government employees to secure a vigilance clearance to obtain a passport. It has been passed under provisions of Article 311(2)(C) of the Constitution that gives the administration power to terminate an employee without constituting an inquiry against him or her on grounds of security. In the verification process, the order instructs departments to keen in mind the "involvement of an individual's immediate family, persons sharing residential space with the employee to whom he or she may be bound by affection, influence.or obligation or involved in any of the acts, directly or indirectly. having potential of subjecting the individual to duress, thereby pos-ng a grave security risk. Putting the onus of reporting on family members of the employees, the order also notes that "failure to report relatives, persons sharing residential space or associates who are connected with any foreign government, associations, foreign nationals known to be directly or indirectly hostile to India's national and security interests" would also make them liable to lose verification.

Failure to "report contacts with citizens of other countries or financial interests in other countries which make an individual potentially vulnerable to coercion, exploitation, or pressure by a foreign government" will also call an employee's antecedents into question, the order states

Religion is for everyone: Mamata targets BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE KOLKATA, SEPTEMBER 16

REACHING OUT to non-Bengali voters ahead of the crucial Bhabanipur bypoll, Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Thursday promised to safeguard the community and work for the development of all, and not just those from a particular religion.

Reminding the Hindi-speaking voters how she visited Burrabazar, the trading hub for local Gujaratis and Marwaris, and checked on distressed traders post demonetisation, the Trinamool supremo said, "You saw what happened after notebandi (demonetisation). I used to go to Burrabazar every day and talk to traders.'

"I am not biased towards any community. Be it a Gujarati or a Marwari, or mosque or the Laxminarayan temple or a gurdwara, religion is for everyone. The BIP taunted me for going to a mosque. But I visited a gurdwara and a mandir as well," she said. "The BJP is selling off the country's assets...They had said Nandigram is Pakistan and are now saying the same for Bhabanipur.'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

THE GOVERNMENT on Thursday said it is in touch with concerned authorities in Afghanistan following reports that an Indian national has been kidnapped from Kabul.

According to reports, Indian national Bansri Lal Arendeh was reported to have been kidnapped in Kabul.

"We are in touch with all concerned. We have seen reports about local authorities undertaking investigations into this matter. We will continue to monitor the situation," Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) Spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said at a media briefing on Thursday.

When asked whether Arendeh is an Indian national, Bagchi said, "I am given to understand that he is an Indian citizen but we are also checking that part."

Replying to another question, Bagchi said it is difficult to say about bringing back remaining Indians and some other Afghan nationals till flight services are resumed in the Kabul airport.

'Till operations at Kabul airport are not resumed, it is difficult to say how to bring them back. Our focus is that operations at Kabul airport resume. Then, it will be easier..." Bagchi said.

MUMBAI, SEPTEMBER 16

DISMISSED MUMBAI police assistant inspector Sachin Waze has been named as an accused by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) in its prosecution complaint filed in connection with alleged money laundering of bribes collected from bars, restaurants and other establishments in Mumbai. The ED has not named former state home minister Anil Deshmukh so far, stating that it has been difficult to probe the case as despite multiple summons, he had not appeared before the agency for questioning. It has named 14 accused in all, including Waze, a trust and other companies linked to Deshmukh and his family and two of his staffers, Kundan Shinde and Sanjeev Palande, who were arrested in June. The ED complaint states that Waze, arrested in the Ambani terror scare case, had collected Rs 4.7 crore as bribe from bars and other establishments from December 2020 to February 2021 on the directions of Deshmukh. The ED claimed that bar and restaurant owners were being harassed and pressured to pay money for their smooth functioning "in diffucult times of Covid-19 pandemic when the government had put time and occupancy restrictions". The agency claimed that Deshmukh and Waze "were together involved in the whole racket of extortion of collection of Rs 100 crore a month".

"Shri Anil Deshmukh used to call and instruct Sachin Waze time to time regarding handing over the money collected from various orchestra bar owners/managers to Kundan Shinde. On first instance, in the month of January 2021, Waze met Kundan Shinde outside Sahyadri Guest House where Shinde came in a white Mercedes car of the Home Minister and handed over 5 bags carrying collected money approx Rs 1.60 crore in denomination of Rs 500 which Kundan Shinde kept in the white Mercedes car of the Minister," the ED chargesheet states, based on Waze's statement. It adds that in February, Waze again met Shinde and handed over 11 bags carrying Rs 3 crore.

Shinde has denied this in his statement to the ED, claiming that he had not met Waze during this time and that he was not allowed to use the white Mercedes car belonging to the Deshmukh family.

The ED also questioned Waze on a statement given by a bar owner. The bar owner had claimed that Waze had told them that the money collected from them will go to "No 1", crime branch and social service branch of Mumbai Police. When asked to clarify who Waze was referred to, he told ED, "I state that No. 1 as referred to is Shri Anil Deshmukh."

The ED has named Waze, Palande, Shinde, brothers Surendra Jain and Virendra Jain, who are named as owners of some of the companies, trust Sai Shikshan Sanstha, and alleged shell companies Reliable Finance Corporation Pvt Ltd, VA Realcon Pvt Ltd. Utsav Securities Pvt Ltd. SITAL Leasing and Finance Pvt Ltd, Kishore Diwani, Premium Port Link, along with chartered accountants Vinod Hassani and Vishal Khatwani.

Govt notifies tribunal rules

New Delhi: The central government Thursday notified the Tribunal (Conditions of Service) Rules, 2021 amidst a standoff with Supreme Court over the legality of the rules. The Tribunal Reforms Act, 2021, passed in Lok Sabha on August 2 and in Rajya Sabha on August 9, apart from abolishing at least seven appellate tribunals under various statutes, has provisions relating to the tenure, age criteria, and search-cum-selection committee for tribunal appointments. These provisions, which alter the process of appointment of tribunal members, were earlier brought in through the Tribunals Reforms (Rationalisation and Conditions of Service) Ordinance, 2021. A bench led by CJI N V Ramana has questioned the government over the enactment of a new law dealing with the tenure and criteria for selection of members of tribunals despite the court striking down some provisions dealing with the same in an earlier ordinance.

opal, had already been appointed, it would be awkward if Justice Cheema too were to return to office. But the bench did not seem to agree. "You (government) are responsible for the situation," the CJI said, adding "I read somewhere that he (Justice Cheema) has reserved some judgments. If you suddenly retire him, there will be a problem in re-hearing those cases. The way in which this order (has been) passed is awkward. How fair is it?".

The AG replied the fresh appointment was made on the basis of his legal opinion in the light of the Tribunals Reform Act, 2021.

"Then we will have to suo motu stay your legislation," the CJI said. The AG said in that case, he was ready to argue the matter on the question of stay.

Intervening, Justice Surya Kant asked whether it was possible for the new appointee to go on leave for a few days so that Justice Cheema could complete his term and finish pending work.

The AG said he will have to take instructions. Returning later, Venugopal informed the bench the government had agreed to allow Justice Cheema to continue until September 20 and the new appointee would go on leave unil then. "I have taken instructions. Petitioner said he took leave from August 31st to 10th September to write judgments and pronounce them before 20th. So he may be reinstated for the purpose of pronouncing judgments and existing gentleman will be asked to go on leave," the AG told the bench which welcomed it and said the "Attorney General solved the problem. We thank you for this".

Disposing the petition, the bench, however, clarified that "the instant order has been passed taking into consideration the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present facts and this shall not be treated as a precedent".

Rajasthan govt schools see jump of 10 lakh students in 2 yrs of Covid

SHIVNARAYAN RAJPUROHIT

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

ENROLMENT IN Rajasthan government schools across Classes 1-12 has increased by almost 10 lakh in the past two academic years by Covid-19. Officials in the state's Directorate of Secondary Education said they expect the numbers to increase by another 1.5 to 2 lakh in the next 15-20 days, as the numbers are added up.

The jump is in line with the nation-wide trend of private school children, mostly from rural and poor urban areas, shifting to gov-

Udaipur reported the highest increase, at 24,754 students, followed by Alwar's 26,702 and Bhilwara's 20,993. Of the 33 districts, only Ihunihunu has seen its government enrolment come down – by 11 students. After keeping them shut for almost a year in compliance with Covid protocols, government reopened Classes 9 to 12 this month. Apart from financial constraints faced by parents on account of Covid, experts and officials attributed the increase to government programmes.

Secondary Education Director Saurabh Swami said, "First, SMILE and 'Aao Ghar Se Sikhen (let's learn from home)' schemes had a huge impact. Through these programmes, we have ensured that education was not disrupted. We had online content created by our teachers. Second, we have been promoted to Grade 1+category in a recent nationwide survey (Performance Grading Index). Third, our model schools and premier Mahatma Gandhi English Medium Schools have received great response from parents."

The SMILE programme, launched after the first wave of Covid last year, comprises a mix of online and offline education. For children without Internet connectivity and digital devices, teachers are directed to give worksheets twice a week.

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

WITH SEVERAL high-income countries deciding to start administering Covid-19 vaccine boosters, the Union Health Ministry Thursday underlined that India's priority will continue to be full vaccination of two doses and that booster dose is not a central theme at the moment in the scientific discussions.

On Thursday, DG ICMR Dr Balram Bhargava said that while there have been scientific studies showing a decrease in antibody levels after a certain period of administration of two doses, there are other forms of immunity against the infection that could persist. He said increasing the two-dose vaccination coverage in the country will remain the top public health priority.

Bhargava's statement comes at a time when the country's first dose vaccination coverage has touched 62 per cent and 20 per cent of the eligible adult population is fully vaccinated.

'We have to remember one thing very clearly, that booster dose is not a central theme at the moment in the scientific discussion. Getting a full vaccination of two doses remains a major priority. Several agencies have recommended that antibody levels should not be measured because you can have cellular immunity, antibody immunity, or mucosal immunity that persists...full vaccination of both doses are absolutely essential, and there should be no breakage in that

Union Health Secretary Rajesh Bhushan said that out of the 1,595 PSA plants that have been commissioned in the country, 731 have been set up from central government resources and are providing 1,024 MT of medical oxygen in hospitals. The remaining 864 PSA plants that have been commissioned using state government and other resources are providing 1,065 MT of medical oxygen, Bhushan said.

On Thursday, Dr V K Paul, the head of India's Covid-19 task force, reiterated that the next two or three months will be crucial due to the upcoming festive season that could trigger a surge in cases.

"In the next 2-3 months we have to be cautious and ensure that there is no upsurge; and if we see an early rise in cases, it should be brought under control," he said

"There have been estimations that in the next three months, the country will become more vulnerable: the estimations are that it could be in the month of October or November. That should worry us. It is also the month of festivities. It is also the period when cases of flu increase. We have to be extra careful in the next quarter, in the context of festivities. We have to push our vaccination programme. That is our shield,"

In shorts to exam hall, 19-yr-old made to wrap curtain around her legs

TORA AGARWALA NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

A 19-YEAR-OLD student, who turned up in shorts for an entrance test, was made to wrap a curtain around her legs in order to sit for the exam in Assam's Tezpur town.

The incident took place Wednesday when Jublee Tamuli appeared for the entrance exam of Jorhat's Assam Agricultural University (AAU)

She along with her father travelled from hometown Biswanath Chariali to Tezpur, 70 km away, in the morning to be on time for the test. According to Jublee, there was no hitch as she entered the venue - Giriiananda Chowdhury Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences (GIPS). Trouble started in the exam hall.

"While the security guards let me enter the premises. I was stopped by the invigilator at the exam hall. He said I would not be allowed to enter wearing shorts," she told The Indian Express from her hometown over the phone.

According to Jublee, the admit card did not mention any dress code. "A few days ago, I appeared for the NEET exam in the same town, wearing the exact same attire - nothing happened. Neither does the AAU have any rules about shorts, nor was there anything mentioned in the admit card. How was I to know?" Her protests fell on deaf ears, as she was told she cannot sit for the exam. "I went crying to my father who was waiting outside. Finally, the Controller of Exams said I could take the exam, if a pair of pants could be arranged. So my father rushed to the market to buy a pair," she said.

All the while, Jublee said she was losing precious time and feeling extremely harassed. Her father Babul Tamuli sourced a trouser from a market about 8 km away only to be told that the problem had been resolved: Jublee had been given a curtain to cover her legs

"They said that if I lacked basic common sense, how would I succeed in life," said Jublee, adding that it was "completely unfair". "They did not check for Covid protocols, masks or even temperature...but they checked for shorts," she said.

Calling it the "most humiliating experience of my life", Jublee said she plans to write to Assam Education Minister Ranoj Pegu about the episode.

Dr Abdul Baquee Ahmed, principal, GIPS, said he was not present in college but "aware that such an incident had happened."

"We do not have anything to do with the exam - our college was just hired as a venue for the exam. Even the invigilator in question was from outside. There is no rule about shorts, but during an exam, it is important that decorum be maintained. Parents should also know bet-

AFTER SITTING Congress MLA from Purola, Rajkumar, joined the BJP, the Uttarakhand Pradesh Congress Committee has decided to fan out 'observers and co-observers' across its district and city units to conduct reviews into organisational affairs and submit confidential reports within 15 days, party functionaries said.

Assembly polls are scheduled to be held in the state in 2022. However, the biggest challenge facing Thakur is party infighting. JPCC was hit by internal bickering after the 2019 Lok Sabha debacle with many leaders openly criticising former IPCC chief Ajoy Kumar.

In February a confrontation erupted in the Congress Office in Ranchi between two factions sparking a fresh debate on unity among workers. Speaking on these chal-

A Visionary Leader

NE may agree to disagree with his brand of politics but there is no dispute that the muscularity of his leadership and his transformative, can-do spirit have stood him in good stead among world leaders. Prime Minister Narendra Modi's journey has been inspirational simply because he has been unafraid of challenges and taken them head on. As Chief Minister of Gujarat during the Bhuj earthquake, he decided not just to rehabilitate people but rebuild a new city from the rubble, restoring their faith in governance. It took him years of hard work and patience to create brands such as the Gujarat model of development and Vibrant Gujarat.

It has been more than seven years since the BJP-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) came to power at the Centre with Modi as its supreme leader. Yet his popularity rating continues to be on the higher side despite the nation facing unprecedented crises. Nobody can overlook his solidity as he led his coalition to a landslide victory in the 2019 General Elections. This happened due to his Government's sheer commitment to transform India from the grassroots level and prioritise rural development as part of mainstream economic policy. During the first term, Modi government had some solid achievements to its credit, pushing through major policy changes, which saw his party garner solid support in Uttar Pradesh, other North Indian States and even in eastern India. The Government's initiatives and schemes are geared towards making India self-sufficient, self-reliant and placing it in a negotiating position of strength at the global high table.

As the nation celebrates the 71st birthday of Modi today, it is worth noting that our Prime Minister has completed 20 years in public service with utmost dedication to the nation.

- Eradication of open defecation by sanctioning toilets as part of the Swachh Bharat
- The Ujjwala Scheme, under which eight crore households were provided free gas connections from 2016 to 2019, has won the hearts of rural women.
- The Ayushman Bharat scheme covers 50 crore people under one of the largest Government-sponsored health programmes in the world. The Government has sanctioned 15 more AIIMS across the country and opened 157 Medical Colleges, increasing medical seats by 35,000. The Government also started the National Digital Health Mission for telemedicine.
- The Government had promised housing to two crore slum dwellers and so far 48 lakh houses have been constructed and over a crore are under construction.
- It launched the Mudra scheme to promote young entrepreneurs and help them start their own ventures. As of May 31, it has sanctioned loans worth Rs 29 crore and disbursed Rs 15 lakh under the Mudra Yojana, thus seeding an entrepreneurial revolution in the country. - The Government is providing free COVID-19 vaccines to people at government healthcare facilities.
- Infrastructure creation has gathered pace under the Modi Government, with several highways, expressways, high-speed freight corridors, bridges over the sea, coastal freeways, metro lines, airports, reimagined railway stations and new deep-sea ports. These have all been built to empower the nation through connectivity.
- The Government initiated the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, which came into effect on May 1, 2016. This has codified operational rules and put in place an institutional infrastructure to protect consumer interests and promote the growth of the realty sector in India. Since its institution, RERA has not only created a positive sentiment in the market but has also restored home buyers' confidence.

To restructure the education sector, the Ministry of Human Resource Development (MHRD) introduced the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 last year. With an aim to promote entrepreneurship over jobs, the prime focus of NEP is on providing skill education right from pre-school to class 12 so that each student acquires at least one vocational skill. The NEP also aims to internationalise higher education in India by making the country a knowledge hub to attract foreign students, promote research collaboration and increase student exchange programmes. Overall, NEP 2020 is a promising step towards the future of education in the country.

Moreover, the Modi government's initiatives like Skill India Mission, Start-up India, Make in India. Vocal for Local and Atmanirbhar Bharat initiatives are aimed at empowering the country's youth, giving the much-needed boost to indigenous industries and making India self reliant. The Government is currently working on the roadmap for making India a five-trillion- dollar economy by 2024-25. And with the people's trust and Modi's determination to push though policy changes, that goal doesn't seem unattainable.

Man held for 'transporting UTTARAKHAND HC LIFTS STAY ORDER cow meat' dies in Godhra lock-up, police say suicide

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A 32-YEAR-OLD man, who was arrested by the Godhra B Division police station on Wednesday for allegedly transporting cow meat died by suicide inside the lock-up early on Thursday, as captured in the CCTV footage, Panchmahals district police said.

The deceased, Qasim Abdullah Hayat, was arrested on Wednesday while he was on way to deliver meat to his local customers, and died by suicide before he could be produced before a magistrate, police said.

Panchmahal district Superintendent of Police, Leena Patil told The Indian Express, "The FIR was filed on Wednesday at 7.45 pm and the accused died inside the lock-up at around 3.20 am this morning. We have the CCTV footage, in which he is seen tear-

DEHRADUN, SEPTEMBER 16

UTTARAKHAND HIGH Court on Thursday vacated its stay order on the state Cabinet's decision to allow Char Dham Yatra but directed the state government to ensure adequate availability of Covid testing and medical facilities during the vatra.

Hours later, the state government announced that the yatra will begin on September 18. "Uttarakhand government welcomes the devotees and pilgrims in Char Dham and Hemkund Sahib ji yatra starting in Devbhoomi Uttarakhand from September 18," tweeted Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami.

The stay order was vacated by a bench of Chief Justice Raghvendra Singh Chauhan and Justice Alok Kumar Verma while hearing an application moved by the state government. The government had earlier filed a special leave petition (SLP) in Supreme Court challenging the High Court's June 28 stay order on the decision to allow the yatra for local population of the three districts concerned from July 1. Earlier this month, the govern-

"It is, indeed, disconcerting that the people in the age group of 18-44 years, the majority of them have yet to be inoculated with the second doze. For according to the data available, in district Chamoli the percentage of population [those with both doses] is as low as 16.9%, in district Rudraprayagit is 22.6%, and in district Uttarkashi

der. "Therefore, the second dozes have to be increased in these three districts in order to ensure that the local population is completely fortified against the Coronavirus."

In its SOP, the government had proposed to permit 1,200 pilgrims to visit the Badrinath temple, 800 pilgrims to Kedarnath temple, 600 pilgrims to Gangotri, and 400 pilgrims to Yamunotri on a daily basis. The court in its Thursday order said it was "essential to reduce the number of pilgrims visiting Badrinath temple from 1,200 to 1,000 per day" while the rest can remain the same.

Will take strict action include works of Savarkar, against those behind 'toxic campaign': Pinarayi

SHAJU PHILIP

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, SEPTEMBER 16

KERALA CHIEF Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Thursday warned of strict action against anyone trying to create unrest and hatred

"Those who indulge in a toxic campaign would be dealt with ruthlessly, "the Chief Minister said after a high-level meeting convened in the wake of the controversy over bishop Joseph Kallarangatt's claim that narcotic iihad in Kerala targets people from non-Muslim communities.

The statement had triggered protests and has led to polarisation of opinion in Kerala.

At the meeting, Vijayan directed police to take action against forces trying to create fissure in the society. He said Kerala has a strong secular tradition and a history of religious bonhomie. "Certain quarters are making deliberate attempts to shatter that tradition and the nature of the state. Strong action would be taken against such attempts," he said. Vijayan said there are forces engaged in toxic campaigns on social media, aimed at communal division in society. He said the government will take steps to curb such campaigns.

Meanwhile, Opposition Congress leaders on Thursday started visiting Muslim and Christian religious leaders to ease tension between the communities. The move of state Congress president K Sudhakaran and Leader of Opposition in the Assembly VD Satheesan came after the state government did not respond to the party's demand to convene a meeting of religious leaders. The Congress leaders visbishops, including Kallarangatt, and Kottayam imam Shamsudeen Mannani Illavupalam. Earlier, CSI bishop Malayil Sabu Koshi Cheriyan and the imam had addressed a joint

'Mental poverty'

JHARKHAND

RANCHI, SEPTEMBER 16

IT SHOWS "mental poverty" when only development work is carried out around forests without thinking of "connecting those forests" for easy movement of animals, Jharkhand High Court observed on Thursday.

The court made the observation when the issue of steps taken to reclaim fauna in Jharkhand's forests came up while it was hearing a suo motu case on the death of two elephant calves in forests of Latehar district. The bench of Chief Justice of HC Ravi Ranjan and Justice Sujit Narayan Prasad emphasised that there must be a serious effort to "bring back" the fauna, which the CJ said was in abundance earlier.

The court was informed that Jharkhand has 29 per cent forest cover, translating into 23,615 sq km.

PKVerma, principal chief conservator of forest and head of forest forces told the court that all forest areas, barring one each in Palamu and Saranda, are not continuous and are only in patches. At this, the court responded: "Doesn't this show our mental poverty? When we talk about development we should also talk about development of connecting two jungles... We should have made elevated roads, so that animals have a connection to the jungle. We did not think about that. but now we need to act...'

Kannur University won't

KANNUR UNIVERSITY has decided not to teach the works of V D Savarkar and M S Golwalkar, which were included in the syllabus of the post-graduate course in Governance and Politics.

SEPTEMBER 16

The decision followed the recommendation of a two-member committee appointed by the university to review the syllabus.

The inclusion of extracts from Savarkar's "Hindutva: who is a Hindu", and from Golwalkar's "Bunch of Thoughts" and "We or Our Nationhood Defined", Deendayal Upadhyaya's "Integral Humanism" and Balraj Madhok's "Indianisation: What, Why and How" had led to a controversy with opposition parties and Left academicians alleging that the ruling CPI(M) was facilitating saffronisation of education in the state.

"It is surprising that the CPI(M) decides to withdraw the portions about national leaders from the syllabus when Congress demands so. The pressure from jihadis would have also prompted Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan to withdraw the text," said Kerala BJP president K Surendran.

The pandemic has been hard on everyone. COVID-19 has rendered people jobless, children have become orphans and families have been left without any financial support. The Government of Assam promises to support each such citizen of Assam who has suffered during the pandemic.

Chief Minister's Sishu Seva Scheme

- Under this scheme, children who have lost both parents to COVID-19 are provided Rs. 7.81 lakh fixed deposit with commensurate monthly income scheme of Rs. 3500/- per month. They have also been provided with a laptop each.
- Orphan girls of marriageable age will be given the benefit of 'Arundhati Gold Scheme' at the time of marriage.
- Skill based education is to be provided to the children under this scheme.

Chief Minister's COVID Widow Support Scheme

A one time financial support of Rs. 2.50 lakhs to women who have lost their husbands due to COVID-19 pandemic. So far, 1478 beneficiaries have received financial assistance under this scheme.

Prarthana Scheme

The Government of Assam is providing a one time financial assistance of Rs. 1 lakh to the next of kin of all deceased COVID positive patients under this scheme.

New course on telecom, aviation, auto suggests government's intent to provide policy clarity, push investment

HE SERIES OF policy announcements over the past few weeks seems to suggest a concerted effort by the government to usher in a more investment-friendly policy environment in the country. Beginning with the move to bury the much reviled retrospective tax once and for all, to now announcing measures aimed at alleviating the distress in the telecom sector, the policies signal an attempt by the government to rectify administrative and judicial decisions that were seen as obstacles by the corporate sector. Equally significant, when seen through this lens, was the tweaking of the Air India bid conditions to signal the government's firm commitment to privatisation. As is Thursday's announcement of a government guarantee for the bad bank, and the recent announcements of sector-wise production-linked incentive schemes (PLIs) meant to encourage fresh investments in the country as the economy recovers from the fallout of the Covid pandemic.

With retrospective taxation now a closed chapter, Cairn Energy expects a resolution in the "near term". The Union cabinet, on Wednesday, approved a slew of measures aimed to provide relief to the beleaguered telecom sector, to prevent it from sliding into a duopoly. Foremost among them were measures to address the financial stress stemming from the contentious AGR (adjusted gross revenue) issue. The measures announced follow a twopronged approach. First, the government has changed its stance on what constitutes AGR. It has taken out non-telecom revenues from its ambit, thus accepting that the expanded interpretation was indeed tricky. Second, as this does not in any way alter the liability of the telcos arising out of the Supreme Court ruling, the government has provided a four-year moratorium on payment of existing AGR dues. To the extent that deferment of payment will provide a breather to cash strapped telcos in the short-term, this is a welcome move. Other notable measures, which include raising the tenure for which the spectrum can be held to 30 years, doing away with the spectrum usage charge for future auctions, and outlining the spectrum auction schedule to allow telcos to plan their auction strategies accordingly, are steps in the right direction for the long-term health of the sector. Alongside, the cabinet has also announced a PLI scheme for automobiles, auto-component and drone manufacturers with a budgetary outlay of Rs 26,058 crore — in line with the broader push of the government to boost domestic manufacturing, and encourage exports.

The intent behind each of these policy measures is straightforward — clear the hurdles/obstacles for the corporate sector, and provide greater policy clarity and certainty. When seen together, these seemingly disparate policy measures, also indicate a more determined push by the government to facilitate private sector investments in the country. With the pace of vaccination gathering steam, and as large parts of the economy open up, moves such as these could help lift corporate sentiments.

Tamil Nadu must support its students in NEET transition, rather than let subnationalism dictate its choices

HE TAMIL NADU government's efforts to exit the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) system for admission to undergraduate medical colleges make for unsound policy. The state assembly this week passed a bill restoring the system of admission on the basis of Class XII marks — an electoral promise of the DMK government — which now awaits the President's approval. The state has pointed to the data gathered by a nine-member government committee as the rationale for such a legislation. Indeed, the panel has highlighted a worrying trend: The proportion of students from rural areas, economically weaker backgrounds, Tamil-medium schools. and state board schools has decreased significantly in Tamil Nadu's medical colleges since the state moved to NEET in 2017-18. Switching back to the older system, which the state claims has served its robust public health system well, will correct the skew in favour of the privileged, the government reasons. A spate of suicides by students appearing for the entrance test also makes for an emotive issue, especially in a state with an enviably high percentage of students enrolled in higher education. However, it appears that a politics of Tamil subnationalism is also stopping the DMK government from acknowledging gaps in the state curriculum and forcing it into unnecessary hard positions.

NEET came up as a solution to the problem of a profusion of entrance examinations to medical colleges across states, the lack of st1 and ardised assessments and allegations of corruption in admissions. The Supreme Court has upheld its validity. Instead of breaking away from a national test and trying to cushion its students, the Tamil Nadu government must support them in the transition to a new system. This can be done by upgrading its curriculum and training medical college aspirants in problem-solving for competitive examinations, which were not held in the state for a decade between 2006, when the state scrapped a common entrance examination to medical colleges, and 2017.

For NEET, too, the findings of the TN panel must be a prod to acknowledge and spot its gaps. The exclusions of class, caste and gender privilege built into the entrance test must be found and addressed. But one blind spot remains. The irrationally high social value placed on medical and engineering college education across India and the mismatch between available seats fuel the hyper-competitiveness around admissions, resulting in high-stakes elimination tests such as NEET. A conversation that looks at education outside those two options must also be broached to take the pressure off students and colleges.

BRING ON THE CACAO

Chocolate has ruled global taste buds for centuries, but attributing subversive powers to it is a step too far

VER FIVE HUNDRED years ago, Mesoamericans considered chocolate valuable enough to use it as currency. Goods were exchanged for a hot chocolate drink and dried cacao beans could be used to pay tributes (taxes). In 21st century Hong Kong's prisons, though, chocolate is seen as being able to purchase something far more potent — support for pro-democracy activists. According to security officials, dissenters who were arrested after a controversial security law was imposed in 2020 by Beijing won't be allowed chocolates, for fear that they could be used to "solicit followers" and undermine the government of the special administrative zone.

Does chocolate really have such power over people? In the 16th century, Spanish explorer Hernando Cortes described it as "a bitter drink for pigs", but once sweetened, chocolate quickly conquered European taste buds. With the creation of solid bars in the 19th century, it became the world's favourite indulgence. There have been critics, of course, including nutritionists and parents worried about childhood obesity and poor dental health, but those concerns have more to do with the sugar content in modern chocolate products. Recent studies have in fact indicated that dark chocolate, especially when unsweetened, may have great physical and mental health benefits.

While chocolate does have its dark side — notably the use of child labour and slavery in the industry — influencing the minds of people is not among its qualities. Because if it were that easy to exercise mind control, governments around the world wouldn't scramble about pinning the blame for discontent on the oddest of things, from skinny jeans (North Korea) to critical race theory (certain US states) and depiction of time travel in films (China). Hong Kong's attempt to scapegoat chocolate only highlights the absurdity of its own action.

Bitter past experiences reveal yawning gap between promises and practices of RSS

JAVED ANAND

RESPECTED SHRI MOHAN Bhagwatji,

I am encouraged to address this missive to you because, taken at face value, some of your recent statements on the Hindu-Muslim paradigm sound like soothing music to some Muslim ears. Among other things, you have proclaimed that the DNA of all Indians is the same; that Hindutva is inconceivable without Muslims; that if any Hindu says Muslims should not remain in India, he is not a Hindu; and that those who do lynching are going against Hindutva. You even say that India is a democracy where there can be no question of Hindu supremacy.

Perhaps, such sweet sentiments coming from none less than you, the current high priest of Hindutva, did bring tears to some Muslim eyes. But with due respect, bitter past experience reveals the yawning gulf between the utterances and promises of the RSS and its affiliates on the one hand, and their performances on the other.

In January 1993, BJP stalwart LK Advani promised Muslims that his party "will protect their lives and they will enjoy equal justice." In March 1995, the then chief minister of Guiarat, Keshubhai Patel, stated that "Muslims have nothing to fear under BJP rule... You will see how well we treat Muslims and other minorities under our rule." On the eve of the 1996 general elections, BJP president Advani extended a "guarantee" to every Muslim, "security, justice, equality and full freedom of faith and worship.... no BJP government will tolerate any dilution of this guarantee." And, in June 1997, Advani promised "a riot-free, violence-free, discrimination-free India" once the BJP comes to power

"Muslims are flesh of our flesh, blood of our blood," the then BJP president, Bangaru Laxman, had declared in 2001. A year later, gruesome violence was inflicted on Muslims in Gujarat under the watch of the then chief minister, Narendra Modi, and Union home minister, LK Advani. Modi was hailed by the Sangh Parivar for having established the "first successful laboratory of Hindutva".

Would you not sound a bit more credible, perhaps, were you to claim that the RSS of 2021 is not the same as the RSS of Hedgewar and Golwalkar? Next, please drop the pretence that the RSS is not interested in politics, that the continuing targeting of Muslims with hate speech and violence by sections of the BJP, VHP and Bajrang Dal have nothing to do with the RSS. Anyone can see this charade of the Sangh Parivar for what it is — a convenient,

division of labour.

And what should one say about more recent times? The Prime Minister of India, a proud former pracharak of the Sangh Parivar, promises "sabka saath, sabka vikas, sabka vishwas". However, in the last seven years, Muslims have been repeatedly taunted, humiliated, hurt, incarcerated on bogus charges and lynched under the watch of the RSS-blessed, BJP-led governments at the Centre and in several states. You say that Muslims have nothing to fear in India. The reality is that very many Muslims (and Christians) today feel increasingly alienated, insecure and afraid.

In the decades prior to BJP rule, commission after judicial commission of inquiry appointed by governments to probe into riots in their states indicted the RSS and its affiliate bodies for stoking communal conflict and violence. To cite just one example, the report of the Justice Venugopal Commission on the 1982 Kanyakumari riots involving Hindus and Christians observed: "The RSS adopts a militant and aggressive attitude and sets itself up as the champion of what it considers to be the rights of Hindus against minorities. It has taken upon itself to teach the minorities their place and if they are not willing to learn their place, to teach them a lesson".

You say that your recent remarks are nothing new, that this is what the RSS has stood for in over 90 years of its existence. Is that so? The RSS and its affiliates proclaim Hindutva as their ideological bedrock, a term coined by VD Savarkar in 1923. According to Savarkar, India rightfully belongs only to Hindus whose fatherland (pitrubhoomi) and holy land (punyabhoomi) are located within its geographical boundary. Simply stated, like Jinnah, Savarkar subscribed to the "two-nation" theory and so did the RSS. According to "Guru" Golwalkar, the second and till date the most revered sarsanghchalak of the RSS, India's freedom from colonial rule in 1947 was not real freedom because it was founded on a "perverted concept of (territorial) nationalism" where citizenship was not religion- or culture-based.

On the face of it, your recent statements sound like good news, Bhagwatji. But when you claim that this is exactly what the RSS has stood for since its birth, the claim defies both reason and lived experience. You maintain that the solution to the problem of Hindu-Muslim conflict lies in dialogue, not discord. Agreed. You also rightly maintain that polite conversation will not do, what is needed is honest talk. Well said, Bhagwatji. Allow me then the right to some khari khari baat.

The claim that what you say now is what the RSS has always stood for is no honest talk. Would you not sound a bit more credible, perhaps, were you to claim that the RSS of 2021 is not the same as the RSS of Hedgewar and Golwalkar? Next, please drop the pretence that the RSS is not interested in politics, that the continuing targeting of Muslims with hate speech and violence by sections of the BJP, VHP and Bajrang Dal have nothing to do with the RSS. Anyone can see this charade of the Sangh Parivar for what it is — a convenient, opportunistic, cynical division of labour.

Forget all else, here's an idea that I guarantee will win you Muslim hearts and minds. Deeds, you will agree, speak louder than words. The RSS, with its vast network, rightly claims to have its swayamsevaks in every nook and corner of the country. The RSS maintains that its workers never indulge in violence. In which case here is the simple idea: Direct your swayamsevaks, Bhagwatji, that the next time there is any violence against any Muslim anywhere because of his/her religion, your footsoldiers should be the first to stand by the victim, ensure that he gets justice and the culprits get booked. Do this honestly and consistently for a year or two Bhagwatji and I am sure you will no longer need to pow-wow with select 'Muslim intelligentsia" in five-star hotels. The grateful Muslim masses will come running to you of their own accord.

Yours hopefully

Voice Of Panjshir

Fahim Dashty represented the Afghan national resistance that fought Taliban

ASHOK K MEHTA

ON JULY 30, during a webinar on the perilous future of Afghanistan, Fahim Dashty, one of the two Afghans on the show, insisted that Kabul will never fall. When asked why districts were falling to the Taliban like ninepins, he blamed mismanagement by NSA Hamdullah Mohib. According to him, the Herat strongman Ismail Khan had called the collapse of districts "a conspiracy". Dashty was precise and concise. He was smoking and smiling, which provoked someone from the audience to object. I did not have the heart to stop him. Dashty was fearless, frank and frills-free, wearing his Tajik headgear at a rakish angle with the Kabuli scarf flung around his neck. I got to know him on the Track II circuit covering Afghanistan, for nearly 20 years

Dashty was killed either on September 5 or 6 in Panjshir. It is believed he was taken out by a Pakistani drone that picked up his coordinates from his satellite phone through which, as a spokesperson for the National Resistance Forces (NRF), he was triumphantly announcing the pushback of the Taliban who had surrounded Panjshir Valley. The Valley had never before capitulated to either the Russians or Taliban. The Taiiks then had control not only over Panishir but also Badakhshan province. which shares borders with China and Tajikistan. This land corridor ensured the Tajiks were connected with their kin in Tajikistan. But this time, the Taliban's first conquest was the area surrounding Panishir. The isolated valley could not hold on indefinitely.

Former vice-president Amrullah Saleh and Ahmad Massoud, the two Tajik leaders, Dashty was confident the NRF would hold and had hoped help would come from Iran and India. Iran condemned Pakistan for its intervention, but could do nothing more. The embryo of the resistance is alive in the vicinity and has the potential to revive as a live to fight another day, probably in Tajikistan. Massoud Jr is the son of the legendary "lion of Panjshir", Ahmad Shah Massoud, who was the leader of the Northern Alliance. He was assassinated on September 7, two days before 9/11, in his hideout by a Taliban/Al Qaeda human bomb. Dashty, a cousin of the Massouds, described how the assassin came disguised as a journalist to interview Massoud. A hidden explosive device in the camera took his life. Dashty was badly wounded. Last month, in a symbolic gesture, the President of Tajikistan awarded his country's highest award to Massoud Sr.

It was not easy taking Panjshir and required intervention by Pakistan's Special Forces and Air Force at a time when it became imperative to show that the Taliban had full territorial control and that there was no leadership divide. Dashty was confident the NRF would hold and had hoped help would come from Iran and India. Iran condemned Pakistan for its intervention, but could do nothing more. The embryo of the resistance is alive in the vicinity and has the potential to revive as a full-blown armed opposition. Dashty was not a trained fighter and he used to ask me about India's wars of 1965 and 1971 in which I had fought, and wondered why India never managed to cross the Indus or Durand Line to join hands with Afghan friends squeezing Pakistan. While he blamed Pakistan for its political and military meddling in Afghanistan, he was equally critical of India using Afghanistan soil for anti-Pakistan activities.

It was delightfully refreshing to listen to Dashty. Despite his plain speaking, he was much sought out by the media. The journalist in Dashty (he was the president of Afghanistan Journalists Association, Kabul) stood out. On one rare occasion, he got embroiled in an argument with a Pakistani general not known for sobriety and prone to using Punjabi invective. Although the German convenor could not comprehend the root cause of conflict or the general's ire, he decided to declare a break to restore order. Dashty rushed out of the room to have a cigarette. In the evening, I asked him what happened. He said: "General, I wanted to smoke!" The Tajik, Uzbek and Kazakh members of the regional group simply loved Dashty. After six years of work in several countries and a visit to NSC in the White House, two of the group's recommendations were: One, making Afghanistan a neutral country, and; two, strict non-interference by neighbours to be monitored by the UN/SCO/SAARC. A grand bargain between Afghanistan and Pakistan was also considered. Unfettered access to Karachi for Kabul, in return for its recognition of the Durand Line.

Dashty's legacy will live on due to his proximity to the Massoud clan. Before Dashty departed, he told the BBC: "If we die in resistance, it is a win for us. History will write about us as people who stood for their country till the end of time." As a friend and admirer, I hope the resistance lives and thrives to break the shackles of Taliban tyranny. Afghans yearn for peace, but, as Dashty might have said. never under Taliban rule.

MAJOR OPPOSITION PARTIES in the Lok Sabha have decided to bring a no-confidence motion against the Indira Gandhi government. Opposition members gave notice for a one-line motion. It is expected to be taken up on September 17. Through the censure motion, the Opposition members hope to achieve what has eluded them so far — a discussion on the Antulay affair. An Opposition member said that they were driven to this course following the Speaker's firm refusal to allow Opposition members to make their submissions on the privilege issue relating to the Antulay affair before rejecting the notice. Under rules of business, a no-confidence motion gets top priority after question hour. If 50 Opposition members rise in support of it, the motion is admitted for discussion.

BANI-SADR'S APPEAL

ABOLHASSAN BANI-SADR, THE former Iranian president, has appealed to all democratic countries in the world to apply pressure on Ayatollah Khomeini to stop the indiscriminate killings of those who are even slightly suspected to be opposed to his regime. There is a danger of an entire country being Balkanised. He also made a special appeal to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and the Indian people to inject some sense into the Ayatollah.

Rajya Sabha Conflict

THE CONFRONTATION BETWEEN some Opposition leaders and the Rajya Sabha chairman, M Hidayatullah, snowballed on September 16 when the former boycotted a meeting called by the latter. The differences have their origin in Hidayatullah's rulings on some privilege notices on September 14. There was a verbal clash between Piloo Mody (Janata) and the Rajya Sabha chairman on September 15.

Back to school

Strategies to cope with learning loss need to be devised as children return to classrooms. They must be given time to settle back into routines, reconnect with the process of schooling

NIMRAT KHANDPUR AND RISHIKESH B S

WHILE THE PANDEMIC and associated school closure has affected us in many ways, loss of learning among children is emerging among the most explicit and worrying aspects. This learning loss comprises two dimensions — one is the learning that has not happened due to school closures. To this loss of curricular learning is added the "forgetting" of what they already knew. This forgetting is not unusual — it is clearly seen after long holidays, and is generally made up during the first few weeks of schooling. However, when this loss is of foundational abilities like reading, writing and basic arithmetic, it deeply hinders further learning.

Loss of learning due to school closure during the pandemic has been seen the world over. Quantified in terms of months that children are "behind" their class, it varies from less than a month after 11 weeks of school closure to four years after 57 weeks of school closure. According to the report, "What's next? Lessons on Education Recovery" by UNICEF, UNESCO, World Bank and OECD, among measures taken to alleviate this loss, 41 per cent of countries reported extending the academic year while 42 per cent reported prioritising certain curriculum areas or skills. Over two-thirds of countries reported implementing remedial measures to address learning gaps for primary and secondary school students when schools reopened.

Our primary schools have been closed for about 500 days, which translates to over 70 weeks of schooling. Given the amount of time schools have been closed, as we reopen now, we cannot start with the regular curriculum as if it is the beginning of a regular academic year. We need to think deeply about what should be done. This question is particularly moot for primary schools, where the foundations of later learning are established. To answer this question, it is necessary to examine how children learn in primary schools. Children learn not only through interaction in the classroom but also through observation, dialogue and exploration through unstructured experiences. Thus, given that we have to make up for over 70 weeks of school closure, we must not hurry children into the learning process. Not only the learning associated with the current class but relearning from the previous classes must be in focus. The next question is — what is important to learn? The learning outcomes for each class have been clearly indicated by the National Council of Educational Research and Training (NCERT), which is the nodal academic institution for school education at the national level. These learning outcomes focus on the abilities children have to acquire as opposed to the content of textbooks. Thus, reading a poem is important, memorising the content of the poem is not important. Being able to add is important, not adding all the problems at the end of the chapter in the textbook. And language and mathematics are most important, since they enable the learning of other subjects. Thus, learning outcomes of specific subjects must be prioritised, and the curriculum reset for at least a couple of years.

When schools reopen, differences in the learning levels of children will be starker than before. A solution that is deceptively simple is that of placing children in groups according to their current learning levels. Termed ability grouping, it seems like the perfect solution, with children starting with similar sets of abilities and proceeding thereon. However, the approach of grouping students based on their abilities often results in "labelling", adversely impacting their self-esteem and worth; research studies have found students in "low" ability groups have significantly lower self-esteem than low achievers in mixed ability classes, and are also likely to have behavioural problems. This approach also neglects to take into account the fact that children learn from each other. It is not unusual to have children at different levels in the same classroom. Some schools use this difference as a resource, using sets of teaching-learning materials that children use in groups under the guidance of teachers. As children attain pre-set learning milestones, they move onto the next level. This approach using peer learning benefits all.

When we examine the available data from various studies on the learning levels that our children are at, it is clear that at the primary level, the focus ought to be on foundational abilities. For instance, Azim Premji Foundation's field study in January 2021 across 44 districts covering five states indicated that nearly three-fourths of the children in Class II have lost the ability to identify a word in print; in Class IV, for instance, a majority of them have lost the ability to express the gist of a poem while in Class VI more than half the children lost the ability to write their views on various events happening around them. The recently released SCHOOL survey carried out across 15 states shows that overall 42 per cent of children in urban areas and 48 per cent in rural areas are unable to read more than a few words. These studies indicate that most children across the primary grades have lost the basic abilities required to continue their learning journeys.

The curricular priorities will have to be set specific to the stages of schooling. If the priority at primary level is on recovery of foundational abilities in language and mathematics, the focus in middle school should be an integrated approach to achieving learning outcomes across subjects, while at the secondary and senior secondary level, core learning outcomes must be identified and mapped to textbooks; and for this level additional material could be developed, given that students at this stage are capable of some independent study.

As persons closest to learners, teachers must be given the autonomy and support to determine what children learn and when, within the broad contours of the curriculum. Changes in curriculum and the approach to teaching-learning would require orientation of teachers, and materials to support their work with children. This material must be attractive and meaningful, related to children's context, while encouraging them to speak about visuals, read small pieces of text, respond to interesting questions, and perform simple exercises. This material must cover a range of abilities so the teacher can use similar resources for the entire class.

To track recovery from learning loss, periodic assessment would be necessary — this must be done in a non-threatening way, by the teacher through observation and interaction with her students. The stress of regular testing must not demotivate children from learning.

Finally, it is important to acknowledge that school closure has resulted in more than learning loss. It has led to a disconnect from the processes of schooling. Children have experienced loss; some have entered the workforce while others have been given responsibilities within the household. The most important thing that must be done when schools reopen is to welcome them back — to listen to their stories, to give them time to settle back into routines, to involve them in activities that allow them to express themselves. Time and patience may help us find ways to compensate not only the learning loss but also to change our schools for the better.

How not to deal with a downturn

Cutting funds to states, monetising assets will not help Centre tide over economic depression. It could aggravate the crisis

K N BALAGOPAL

UNION FINANCE MINISTER Nirmala Sitharaman, while announcing the National Monetisation Pipeline (NMP), said that asset monetisation is based on the philosophy of creation through monetisation and is aimed at "tapping private sector investment for new infrastructure creation". If one looks at the two volumes of details provided by the NITI Aayog — and the economic policy of this government — it will be clear that NMP has nothing to do with infrastructure development. It is, instead, a cover-up of the massive resource crunch the country is staring at.

The Centre is facing a serious financial crisis because of the exigencies created by the pandemic and its own policies that are tuned to help big corporations. The lakhs of crores of cess and surcharges it has collected haven't helped the government tide over the crisis. NMP will aggravate this crisis. Disinvestment of profitable Navratna companies will result in a loss of dividend, a major source of income for the Centre. Tax exemptions to the so-called investors will take away another major share of income. Central funds will be squeezed and this, in turn, will have a bearing on state finances.

The Centre is now advising panchayats to find ways to monetise their properties. Panchayats are being asked to sell their capital assets and use the money for revenue expenditure.

NMP will seriously hurt the interests of the country. The government must rethink this policy in the interest of the people, the country's political and economic sovereignty and the federal character of the polity. These policies reflect poorly on the government's economic management and speak of the lack of planning at a time when the economy is undergoing a depression.

In Kerala's case, the Centre's policies will lead to a sharp fall in revenues. From next July, the compensation grant for the deficit in GST from the stipulated 14 per cent will be stopped. This year, Kerala got around Rs 13,000 crore as GST compensation.

Kerala has also suffered a huge fall in the revenue it was getting from the divisible pool. The state was getting about 3.92 per cent from the divisible pool in the 1970s and 1980s. It came down to 2.66 per cent and 2.34 per cent in the awards of the 12th and 13th Finance Commissions. The 14th Finance Commission award increased it to 2.45 (2.50) per cent. Now, the 15th Finance Commission has reduced it to 1.92 per cent. This arbitrary cut is a result of the adoption of certain new yardsticks by the commission without considering the state government's views.

In 2019-20, the state got around Rs 17,000 crore from the divisible pool as per the 14th Finance Commission's recommendation. We lost about Rs 6.400 crore in 2020-

21 after the new yardsticks given by the 15th Finance Commission were put in place. The 15th Finance Commission's special grant (RD grant) of Rs 19,800 crore for this year will no longer be available in the coming years. Karnataka and many other states have also suffered because of the policy to reduce the divisible pool share.

Kerala's annual expenses are about Rs 1,10,000 crore. The state will face a shortfall of Rs 32,000 crore in its revenues. This decrease is a result of reducing the state's share in the divisible pool by Rs 7,000 crore, stopping the GST compensation of Rs 13,000 crore due to the state and the discontinuation of grants amounting to Rs 12,000 crore. Many other states are facing a similar resource crunch due to the Centre's policies.

The huge tax exemptions to big corporate houses has aggravated the situation. Exemptions amounting to Rs 99,842.06 crore were extended to corporate houses in 2019-20. Many taxes on goods were reduced because of electoral compulsions. This reduced central revenues. Along with such tax exemptions, the increased use of cesses and surcharges is responsible for the shrinking of the shareable pool. The shareable resources with the Centre was around Rs 6.8 lakh crore in 2019-20 which has come down to Rs 5.5 lakh crore in 2020-21.

During the discussion on the GST Bill at the Select Committee of the Rajya Sabha, of which I was a member, the Left parties had given a dissent note which pointed out that such a tax will put an end to fiscal federalism. In fact, BR Ambedkar, while justifying the Constituent Assembly's decision to leave the Sales Tax with the states, had said that this tax would be the only source of revenue for the states. Now, that has been taken away.

States begging for resources does not augur well for cooperative federalism. Instead of helping states to face this economic depression, the Centre is busy cutting its resources. All the cesses and surcharges that are not shared with states come to about 20 per cent of the total revenues of the Centre. States have been demanding that this money should be shared with them, particularly while fighting a pandemic. Kerala, for example, is spending a huge amount to help people face this crisis.

Developing basic infrastructure and the production sector is the only way to face an economic crisis. The Centre has the responsibility to help states in this respect. That should not be done by selling or handing over public assets to private individuals and corporations.

This is not the way the world faced the past two depressions. We need massive public investment that will help people to form cooperatives and collectives in agriculture and industrial production. Parliament, the National Development Council and the GST Council should discuss this unprecedented situation. We need to find a way out collectively. Handing over the rights on public properties to private individuals will take the country back to the colonial era. This must not be allowed.

Narendra Modi's 20 uninterrupted years in office are a reflection of public faith

Prakash Javadekar

TODAY, SEPTEMBER 17, is Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 71st birthday. In a few days from today, he will be creating a record. On October 6, he will complete 20 years of continuous captainship of an elected government. He was chief minister of Gujarat for 13 years and has been the PM of the world's largest democracy, India, for seven years. This feat of being the head of a government, as chief minister and prime minister, for 20 uninterrupted years has not happened by a stroke of luck but is a reflection of the public's faith in a visionary leader who thinks differently and acts differently.

People repose this kind of power in the hands of a leader who they think can solve the problems of the country. Indians have seen governments run by "family parties". Here is a PM who considers the whole country his family and works tirelessly to take it forward. People have experienced how self-interest prevailed in earlier regimes. For Modi, it is always nation first. His honesty and integrity is full and final. He led a corruption-free government and brought transparency through technology. Indian citizens have preferred him over others because of this quality.

Public perception is what matters the most to any democratic leader. All the popularity polls and surveys of world leaders have always placed him in the highest rankings. I have firsthand experience in different states of how people perceive Modi. One youth in Barmer district of Rajasthan told me, "We have seen the dead bodies of our soldiers sent by Pakistan. For the first time, we are seeing a PM who ensured the safe return of a captured pilot within 48 hours." A women farm labourer told me that people like her prefer Modi as he has come from a humble background and understands poverty. Manipur voters were happy because he expanded the food security programme and provided rice at Rs 3 per kg.

His vision is to empower the poor, the farmers and the middle class and ensure speedy progress of the country. More than 2 crore PM Awas houses, 12 crore toilets, 4 crore power connections, 4 crore water tap connections, the implementation of the unique health scheme Ayushman Bharat which gives free treatment up to Rs 5 lakh to 50 crore people, 24 crore Mudra loans, and other job-oriented schemes have changed the fate and face of the poor sections of society.

The middle class always wants peace and prosperity. During the UPA regime, there used to be bomb blasts by terrorists in various cities like Delhi, Mumbai, Varanasi, Ahmedabad, etc. In the last seven years, there has been a sea change on the security front. Tough action against terrorism and Naxalism has brought peace. His decision to allow a surgical strike after the Uri attack and the airstrike at the Balakot terrorist camp after the Pulwama attack changed the perception of India. He showed the world that he can take tough decisions in the interest of the country. He took the historical decision to abrogate Article 370 and 35A in Jammu and Kashmir, and he also ensured a peaceful solution to the Ram Mandir issue. Muslim women welcomed his decision to do away with triple talaq.

The middle class wants infrastructure development and growing business opportunities. National highways, railways, inland waterways, rural roads, schemes like UDAN, mobile penetration, cheaper data, immediate IT refunds, GST, IBC and many other business reforms have brought ease of doing business as well as ease of living as well as ease of living.

His vision is that of nation-building. Swachh Bharat, Beti Bachao Beti Padhao, Digital India, National Irrigation Policy, Skill India, Smart India Hackathon, Atal Innovation Mission and Toycathon are a few examples. His vision of Atmanirbhar Bharat, Startup India, Standup India and Make in India is very ambitious and forward-looking. His efforts to build attractive and good memorials of Mahatma Gandhi, Sardar Patel, B R Ambedkar, Subhas Chandra Bose and all the former prime ministers reflect his efforts to inspire the nation.

His persona can be understood from how he bowed before the Constitution and declared it to be the supreme guide for governing the country. Many times he has expressed his gratitude for the good work done by earlier governments and prime ministers. Two of his small decisions show the way that he thinks. In one, he decided to do away with VIP culture and the red beacon. In another initiative, he granted permission for self-attestation of documents. This practice of "believing in the people" was neither followed by the British nor after independence.

We have been lucky to see him in action. In every cabinet meeting, he would ask the opinion of the ministers and if there was a genuine point which made a rethink necessary, he would defer the subject and after the necessary amendments would bring it before the cabinet.

He is very active on world forums, too. In Paris, I have seen the leadership role he played to bring out a solution and successfully insisted on including the concepts of "climate justice" and "lifestyle" in the Paris Agreement.

A recent tweet on Paryushan Parv — "Forgiveness signifies large-heartedness. It is a part of our culture not to keep ill feelings towards each other" — signifies the persona of our prime minister, Narendra Modi.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A NEW CLASSROOM

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Children locked out' (IE, September 16). The writer rightly points out that children have been locked out of classrooms for a year and a half year due to the pandemic. The reach of online education is limited in India. The country's educators will have to find alternative ways such as radio, television and weekly offline classes to guarantee the right of education, a fundamental right under Article 21A of the Constitution. There is a need to reform the syllabi and teaching methods to ease the burden on both the students and the teachers in the post-pandemic era.

Suchak D Patel, Ahmedabad

ONUS ON SOCIETY

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Hathras, a year on' (IE, September 16). Laws and punitive measures can only do so much in ending crime against women. Society needs to ask itself questions on matters that should be very basic to modern times.

Rajwant Kaur, Chandigarh

Basics first

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Ease of democracy' (IE, September 15). There is no pointing in being called the largest democracy if the country ranks low in the basic yardsticks of democracy. Efforts to dismiss the global democratic index should be criticised. It would be better if such efforts are directed towards improving the country's score on such indices.

Melvin Thomas, Bhopal

LOOK WITHIN

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'History lessons for Taliban' (IE, September 16). The writer, a senior BJP functionary, is right in stating that with the country's pluralistic past and the new realities arising from its brief brush with democracy, Afghanistan's government should be more accommodating towards freedom of choice and religion. The irony, however, is that in India, where his party rules, we seem to be slipping badly on these counts. One must remember that the lessons of history apply to everyone.

Hemant Contractor, Pune

REJECT BIGOTS

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'JAM & Abba Jaan' (IE, September 15). The responsibility of any democratically elected government is to do good to all the people, without fear or favour, affection or ill-will. Perhaps, it would be to the benefit of all if we were to, as an electorate, elect representatives who are in favour of issue-based politics rather than continuously trying to apply a communal tinge.

Vinay Saroha, Delhi

NCPCR seeks removal of Zubair tweet, approaches Delhi HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

FOLLOWING TWITTER'S refusal to take down a post by AltNews co-founder Mohammed Zubair, the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights (NCPCR) has approached the Delhi High Court, alleging that the tweet was in violation of various laws and seeking its removal. Delhi Police had registered a case against Zubair in August 2020 on a complaint made by NCPCR chairperson Priyank Kanoongo. The complaint had referred to a tweet by Zubair on August 6, 2020, which had the photo of a minor girl, with her face blurred out, during an online spat he was having with her father, the Twitter user in question.

The HC had last year restrained police from taking any coercive action against Zubair.

NCPRC has filed an affidavit in the case, stating that the commission had written to Twitter and Delhi Police in July this year regarding Zubair's tweet and asked them about follow-up action. Delhi Police, the NCPCR said, told the commission that it filed a Kalandra under IPC Section 175 before the Patiala House Court on February 17 against Twitter for not providing the sought information despite repeated reminders.

Police had particularly sought action against Twitter CEO Jack Dorsey and its then managing director (India operation) Manish Maheshwari.

The affidavit also states that Twitter in August this year informed the commission that the image of the child in the post is pixelated or blurred. The microblogging site has declined to take down the post after the review, as per the affidavit.

"Twitter is not cooperating with the law enforcement agencies and is not following the law of the land by not taking action against the said impugned post," NCPCR said, while seeking Twitter's impleadment in the case and a direction to remove the post in question.

ASSAM TO DESTROY RHINO HORNS KEPT IN STATE TREASURIES

Guwahati: The Assam council of ministers on Thursday decided to destroy 2,479 rhino horns, stockpiled in the treasuries of different districts of the state, by burning them in public to bust myths associated with it and prevent poaching of the animal.

The meeting of the ministers, which was chaired by Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, also gave its nod for a natural history museum at Kaziranga National Park where 94 rhino horns, extracted from animals that had died due to natural reasons, will be kept and preserved as heritage pieces for academic purposes and public viewing.

Assam ministers also decided to waive the licence fee for rickshaws, handcarts and others in the capital

UP Assembly polls: AAP promises free, 24-hour electricity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE LUCKNOW, SEPTEMBER 16

THE AAM Aadmi Party (AAP), which rode to power in Delhi promising free electricity and water, has made a similar promise in Uttar Pradesh where Assembly elections are due early next year.

In a series of announcements made in Lucknow on Thursday, Delhi Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia said that if voted to power, the AAP will provide 300 units of free electricity to domestic consumers, waive pending "inflated" bills and ensure a 24-hour power supply in Uttar Pradesh.

The AAP has made similar promises in Punjab, Uttarakhand and Goa where Assembly polls are due early next year.

'Vote AAP to power and within 24 hours, all residential consumers will get free electricity up to 300 units. All farmers... will get free electricity," Sisodia said.

Scientists attempt to turn edible plants into vaccines

UNIVERSITY OF California, Riverside scientists are studying whether they can turn edible plants like lettuce into mRNA vaccine factories.

Messenger RNA or mRNA technology, used in Covid-19 vaccines, works by teaching our cells to recognize and protect us against infectious diseases. One of the challenges with this new technology is that it must be kept cold to maintain stability during transport and storage.

If this new project is successful, plant-based mRNA vaccines — which can be eaten — could overcome this challenge with the ability to be stored at room temperature, the University said in a press release.

The project, backed by a US $500,000 grant from the US National Science Foundation, has three goals: showing that DNA containing the mRNA vaccines can be successfully delivered into the part of plant cells where it will replicate, demonstrating the plants can produce enough mRNA to rival a traditional shot, and finally, determining the right dosage.

"Ideally, a single plant would produce enough mRNA to vaccinate a single person," a release from the university quoted lead Juan Pablo Giraldo as saying. "We are testing this approach with spinach and lettuce and have long-term goals of people growing it in their own gardens. Farmers could also eventually grow entire fields of it."

Key to making this work are chloroplasts — small organs in plant cells that convert sunlight into energy the plant can use. "They're tiny, solar-powered factories that produce sugar and other molecules which allow the plant to grow. They're also an untapped source for making desirable molecules," Giraldo was quoted as saying.

Giraldo teamed up with Nicole Steinmetz, a UC San Diego professor of nanoengineering, to utilise nanotechnologies engineered by her team that will deliver genetic material to the chloroplasts, the release said.

SIMPLY PUT QUESTION & ANSWER

What's good about a 'bad bank'

The government has set up two new entities to acquire stressed assets from banks and then sell them in the market. Why was the need felt, how will the two entities work, and to what extent does it help?

DITMISRA

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

FOLLOWING THROUGH with one of her key announcements in the Budget, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman has announced the formation of India's first-ever "Bad Bank". She said the "National Asset Reconstruction Company Limited" (NARCL) has already been incorporated under the Companies Act. It will acquire stressed assets worth about Rs 2 lakh crore from various commercial banks in different phases. Another entity — India Debt Resolution Company Ltd (IDRCL), which has also been set up - will then try to sell the stressed assets in the market. The NARCL-IDRCL structure is the new bad bank. To make it work, the government has okaved the use of Rs 30,600 crore to be used as a guarantee.

What is a bad bank? Why was it needed?

In every country, commercial banks accept deposits and extend loans. The deposits are a bank's "liability" because that is the money it has taken from a common man, and it will have to return that money when the depositor asks for it. Moreover, in the interim, it has to pay the depositor an interest rate on those deposits.

In contrast, the loans that banks give out are their "assets" because this is where the banks earn interest and this is money that the borrower has to return to the bank.

The whole business model is premised on the idea that a bank will earn more money from extending loans to borrowers than what it would have to pay back to the depositors, Imagine, then, a scenario where a bank finds a huge loan not being repaid because, say, the firm that took the loan has failed in its business and is not a position to pay back either the interest or the principal amount. < Every bank can take a few such knocks. But what if such "bad loans" (or the loans that will not be paid back) rise alarmingly? In such a case, the bank could sink. Now imagine a scenario where several banks in an economy face high levels of bad loans and all at the same time. That will threaten the stability of the whole economy.

In normal functioning, as the proportion of bad loans — they are typically calculated as a percentage of the total advances (loans) — rise, two things happen. One, the concerned bank becomes less profitable because it has to use some of its profits from other loans to make up for the loss on the bad loans. Two, it becomes more risk-averse. In other words, its officials hesitate from extending loans to business ventures that may remotely appear risky for the fear of aggravating an already high level of nonperforming assets (or NPAs).

In India, as can be seen from Charts 1 and 2, the level of NPAs rose alarmingly since 2016. In a big way, this was a result of the RBI requiring banks to clearly recognise the bad loans on their books. The fact is several banks had witnessed progressive souring of their loans portfolio since the global financial crisis of 2008-09.

From the taxpayer's perspective, the most worrisome fact was that an overwhelming proportion of NPAs was with the public sector banks, which were owned by the government and hence by the Indian public. To keep such PSBs in business, the government was forced to recapitalise them — that is, use taxpayers' money to improve the financial health of PSBs so that they could carry on with the business of lending and funding economic activity.

But with each passing year, NPAs continued to mount — not helped by the fact that the economy itself started to lose its growth momentum since the start of 2017.

It was argued by many that the government needs to create a bad bank — that is, an entity where all the bad loans from all the banks can be parked — thus, relieving the commercial banks of their "stressed assets" and allowing them to focus on resuming normal banking operations, especially lending.

While commercial banks resume lending, the so-called bad bank, or a bank of bad loans, would try to sell these "assets" in the market.

How will the NARCL-IDRCL work?

The NARCL will first purchase bad loans from banks. It will pay 15% of the agreed price in cash and the remaining 85% will be in the form of "Security Receipts". When the assets are sold, with the help of IDRCL, the commercial banks will be paid back the rest.

If the bad bank is unable to sell the bad loan, or has to sell it at a loss, then the government guarantee will be invoked and the difference between what the commercial bank was supposed to get and what the bad bank was able to raise will be paid from the Rs 30,600 crore that has been provided by the government.

Will a bad bank resolve matters?

From the perspective of a commercial bank saddled with high NPA levels, it will help. That's because such a bank will get rid of all its toxic assets, which were eating up its profits, in one quick move. When the recovery money is paid back, it will further improve the bank's position. Meanwhile, it can start lending again.

From the perspective of the government and the taxpayer, the situation is a little more muddled. After all, whether it is recapitalising PSBs laden with bad loans or giving guarantees for security receipts, the money is coming from the taxpayers' pocket. While recapitalisation and such guarantees are often designated as "reforms", they are band aids at best. The only sustainable solution is to improve the lending operation in PSBs.

Lastly, the plan of bailing out commercial banks will collapse if the bad bank is unable to sell such impaired assets in the market. If that happens, guess who will have to bail out the bad bank itself? Indeed, the taxpayer.

In equity wave, don't forget the basics erage, 4 lakh new demat accounts were sets(fixed deposits, debt MFs, provident fund, mentally sound and has a stable business.

SANDEEP SINGH

ON A day when the benchmark Sensex and Nifty closed at fresh highs (above 59,000 and above 17,600 respectively), Ajay Tyagi, chairman, Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) cautioned investors against market risks and called for due diligence before investing.

"It is extremely important for the investors in securities market to be consciously aware of the fact that such investments are subject to market risks. Before making any investment decision, they need to do their due diligence and not be carried away by unsolicited advice which may not be reliable," Tyagi said at the Financial Markets Summit of CII.

The rise has seen a big surge in retail participation in equity markets. In 2019-20, on an average, 4 lakh new demat accounts were opened every month, which has risen to an average 26 lakh per month in the current financial year. Even individuals' average share in the daily cash market turnover has jumped from 39% in 2019-20 to around 45% in 2020-21 and 2021-22. Holdings of individuals in listed companies have increased from 8.3% at the end of Q1 2019-20 to 9.3% at the end of Q1 2021-22.

While investors have been benefiting, the high levels of the market and the expensive valuations definitely call for a cautious approach. Investors should not only go for fundamentally strong and better run companies, but should also follow the basics of investment at all times, which include: asset allocation (mix of debt, equity, gold and other assets), due diligence before investing in the primary and secondary markets, avoiding leveraged investment and going for professional advice. Most importantly, as the SEBI chairman said, investors should not be carried away by unsolicited advice which may not be reliable.

Maintain asset allocation At such a time, it is possible that investors

may get tempted to divert funds from other as-gold etc) into equities. It is important to keep in mind that different asset classes perform at different times and a mix provides a balance to the portfolio and helps the investors absorb the shock of an adverse equity market movement. Even within equities, investors must not pull out money from mutual funds to invest in direct equities for higher return. It is better to let a professional fund manager take the call on investments in the stock market. Experts say it is also important to have a sizeable amount of cash flow in an asset class that preserves the capital.

Surya Bhatia, founder, Asset Managers, said, "Considering that the pandemic is not over, individuals must keep at least three years of cash flow in safe asset class. Also, given the market rally, it is important to move the funds from mid- and small-caps to large-caps."

Due diligence

Whether it is investing in IPOs or listed stocks, investors must do a basic check on the company, besides ignoring unsolicited investment tips through messages on the phone. A basic check will show if the company is funda-

Some basic details include: business of the company, revenue and profit of the last three years and growth of these; debt in the books of the company; and investment by FPI or domestic institutions in the company.

Avoid leveraged investment In times of low interest rates and a bullish

stock market, it is very natural for investors to think about borrowing at low rates and investing in the equity market for high returns. Retail investors should never fall for such an idea. There are enough risks in the market and if it were to fall after the borrowed investment, it could be a messy situation. While the pandemic risk is not overyet, there could be volatility in the market once central banks announce the withdrawal of liquidity infusion and decide to increase interest rates. Besides, valuations are in the expensive zone.

"The related issue is as to how excess liquidity in the system would be managed by the central banks including the timing and pace of unwinding. The level of inflation is another factor to watch. Given the uncertainty, it is difficult to predict the inflection point," said Tyagi.

Politics, khaps, social media: how Haryana became farmer protest epicentre

MANRAJ GREWAL SHARMA CHANDIGARH, SEPTEMBER 16

• Lectures by Vajiram & Ravi's

• Printed study Materials called

renowned teachers

OVER THE last few months, Haryana has become the epicentre of the farmers' agitation against three agriculture laws, originally spearheaded by farmers from Punjabi. The Haryana police have cracked down on farmers, who have announced a blanket boycott of leaders of the BJP-JJP coalition.

Chief Minister M L Khattar and Home Minister Anil Vij claim the protests are the handiwork of leaders in Congress-ruled Punjab. A range of factors have contributed to Haryana becoming the epicentre?

The politics

With panchayat polls in Haryana round the corner, it's a pressure tactic by the farmers to break the government's indifference.

The state government has been proactively confronting the protesting farmers, and booking them on charges as grave as attempt to murder, and even sedition. So far, the police have lodged over 150 FIRs against thousands of farmers in 18 of the 22 districts.

"This confrontation suits the Khattar government, which came to power riding on non-Jat votes. The government may have perhaps calculated that this standoff would lead to a further polarisation of Jats and non-Jat voters," political observer Dr Pramod Kumar said.

As for the farmers, the police action is only galvanising them. The massive turnout at the mahapanchayat a day after the lathicharge in Karnal is a case in point.

Also, the farmer leaders helming the Samyukt Kisan Morcha understand that the Centre and BJP cannot communalise the agitation in Haryana. As Dr Ashutosh Kumar of the Department of Political Science at Panjab University said, "How can you paint people who greet each other with 'Ram, Ram' as Khalistanis?"

Power of khaps

The agitation is backed by the powerful khaps that encapsulate the caste identity in Haryana.

"It was the khap leaders who first said that the farmer is in danger. They pressed the trigger points when they said this government will give your land to corporates, and no one will marry your children," Dr Kumar said.

This message found resonance in the state, which has already seen the rapid takeover of agricultural land around the National Capital Region.

Proximity to Punjab

In the beginning, the agitation in Haryana was limited to Kurukshetra and a few other areas. This changed when the Punjab union leaders shifted their movement to Delhi in November 2020. When Punjab farmers braved water cannons and navigated roadblocks erected by the police, villagers in Haryana rose in their support.

Many in Haryana played host to complete strangers who took shelter in their villages while trying to escape the police crackdown. As the Punjab farmers dug in at Delhi's borders, neighbouring villages in Haryana began to provide them with logistic support.

Social media

The message of unity of farmers from the two states, historically divided by a watersharing dispute over the sharing of river waters through the SYL canal, was amplified on social media.

"At present, every village is organised into committees, and a single message in one of the WhatsApp groups can mobilise people and resources," said Prof Vinod K Choudhary of the Department of Sociology at Panjab University. "Every rally, every move is reported on social media. The plight of a farmer in distress is presented so vividly with such evocative jingles that it is difficult to remain unmoved," said Choudhary, who hails from a village near Hisar.

Schemes such as online registration for procurement and crop insurance, although progressive in spirit, are also adding to the collective angst, as most farmers are unable to process them.

Giving vent to grievances

Historian Prof Raghuvendra Tanwar of Kurukshetra University said the agitation has become a rallying point for farmers in distress due to wider issues of fragmentation of landholdings, diminishing returns from agriculture, rising debt, and the culture of rampant consumerism.

"I fully support the three farm laws, but 90% of the protesters don't understand their merits. There is a lot of pent-up anger and frustration which is finding a vent in this agitation," said Prof Tanwar, who is himself a prosperous farmer with a large landholding.

Leadership at grassroots

Unlike in the past when farmer leaders such as Sir Chhotu Ram and Chaudhary Devi Lal were from wealthy families, the present farmer leadership in the state is from the grassroots.

They visit the villages regularly, and give direction to the movement. The boycott of the BJP-JJP leaders is a case in point.

Besides Gurnam Singh Chaduni, the most prominent Bharatiya Kisan Union leader who has been working for farmers since 1992, there are many local leaders such as Subhash Gurjar from Yamunanagar, Rakesh Bains from Kurukshetra, and young women such as Reeman Nain, 25, who is mobilising women from 58 villages of Hisar.

Australia to build eight nuclear-powered submarines; France slams move

REUTERS

WASHINGTON, CANBERRA, SEPTEMBER 16

AUSTRALIA WILL build eight nuclear-powered submarines under an Indo-Pacific security partnership with the United States and Britain, a move denounced by China, who said such partnerships should not target third countries and warned of an intensified arms race in the region.

Under the arrangement, dubbed AUKUS, the United States and Britain will provide Australia with the technology and capability to deploy nuclearpowered submarines.

France, which loses its own submarine deal with Australia. called the plans brutal and unpredictable.

The US and its allies are looking for ways to push back against China's growing power and influence, particularly its military buildup, pressure on Taiwan and deployments in the contested South China Sea.

US President Joe Biden, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson and Australian Prime Minister Scott Morrison did not mention China by name in the ioint announcement and senior Riden administration officials, who briefed reporters ahead of time, said the partnership was not aimed at countering Beijing.

But Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian said the three countries were "severely damaging regional peace and stability, intensifying an arms race, and damaging international nuclear non-proliferation efforts".

The three leaders stressed Australia would not be fielding nuclear weapons but using nuclear propulsion systems for the vessels to guard against threats.

Friction among Taliban pragmatists, hard-liners intensifies

Baradar appears on Afghan national TV to deny rumours that he was killed

KATHY GANNON KABUL, SEPTEMBER 16

FRICTION BETWEEN pragmatists and ideologues in the Taliban leadership has intensified since the group formed a hard-line Cabinet last week that is more in line with their harsh rule in the 1990s than their recent promises of inclusiveness, said two Afghans familiar with the power struggle.

The wrangling has taken place behind the scenes, but rumours began circulating about a recent violent confrontation between the two camps at the presidential palace, including claims the leader of the pragmatic faction, Abdul Ghani Baradar, was killed.

The rumours reached such intensity that an audio recording and handwritten statement, both purportedly by Baradar himself, denied that he had been killed. Then on Wednesday, Baradar appeared in an interview with the country's national TV.

"I was travelling from Kabul so had no access to media in order to reject this news" Baradar said of the rumour.

Baradar served as the chief negotiator during talks between the Taliban and the US that paved the way for the troop withdrawal from Afghanistan, which was completed in late August, two weeks after the Taliban overran the capital of Kabul.

Shortly after the Kabul takeover, Baradar had been the first senior Taliban official to hold out the possibility of an inclusive government, but such hopes were disappointed with the formation of an all-male, all-Taliban lineup last week.

In a further sign that the hard-liners had prevailed, the white Taliban flag was raised over the presidential palace, replacing the Afghan national flag.

A Taliban official said the leadership still hasn't made a final decision on the flag, with many leaning toward eventually flying both banners side by side.

The two Afghans familiar with the power struggle said one Cabinet minister toved with refusing his post, angered by the all-Taliban government that shunned the country's ethnic and religious minorities.

Taliban spokesman Zabihullah Mujahid has denied rifts in the leadership. On Tuesday, the Taliban foreign minister, Amir Khan Mutaqi, dismissed such reports as "propaganda".

Analysts say the friction may not amount to a serious threat to the Taliban - for now.

"We've seen over the years that despite disputes, the Taliban largely remains a cohesive institution and that major decisions don't get serious pushback after the fact," said Michael Kugelman, Asia program deputy director at the Washingtonbased Wilson Center.

'He is a busy man': Imran on not getting a call from Biden

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA ISLAMABAD, SEPTEMBER 16

"HE IS a busy man," Pakistan Prime Minister Imran Khan said curtly about Joe Biden, expressing his disappointment over the US President's reluctance to contact him since coming into office in January this year.

During an interview to CNN on Wednesday from his private Bani Gala residence in Islamabad, Khan said he had not spoken to Biden since the collapse of the Afghan government.

When asked why Biden hadn't called him since coming into office, the premier said, "He is a busy man", and later said Biden should be asked "why he is too busy to call".

Khan's remarks came days after US Secretary of State Antony Blinken, during a Congressional hearing, indicated that Pakistan was involved in harbouring members of the Taliban, including the militants of the Haggani Network. During his interview with CNN, Khan said Pakistan's relationship with the US is not just dependent on a phone call, and that it needed to be a multidimensional one.

"We (Pakistan) were like a hired gun," Khan said. "We were supposed to make them (the US) win the war in Afghanistan, which we never could.'

CHINA SAID on Thursday that it had fully inoculated 1 billion people, a milestone for the world's most populous country that brings it closer to its goal of vaccinating 80 per cent of its population by the end of the year.

It was a significant accomplishment, representing 71 per cent of China's population of 1.4 billion. China has administered 2.16 billion doses, nearly triple that of India, which is ranked second for shots given and has doled out 752.7 million doses, according to Our World in Data, which tracks vaccination figures.

More than 200 million people ages 60 and older have been inoculated, while about 95 million children ages 12 to 17 have received a senior official with China's National Health Commission.

'The total number of doses and the number of people covered by vaccination in our country rank first in the world." Lei said at a news briefing on Thursday.

Spooked by multiple Delta outbreaks, China expanded access to vaccines. Officials sent health care workers door to door to administer doses and dispatched "vaccination buses" to public spaces. In the countryside, nurses could be seen injecting farmers as they worked in the fields.

The Chinese government has no qualms about pushing a more forceful stance on vaccines. It changed its messaging in July, telling officials to shift their approach to targeting all those who "should be vaccinated" from those "willing to be vaccinated." NYT

Court finds Indonesian leader negligent in pollution lawsuit

REUTERS JAKARTA SEPTEMBER 16

AN INDONESIAN court on Thursday ordered President Joko Widodo and other government officials to improve the hazardous air quality of Jakarta after finding themguilty of environmental negligence in a civil lawsuit.

The citizen lawsuit was filed in 2019 against the president, the ministers of health, environment and home affairs, as well as other prominent local leaders. The 32 plaintiffs said the lawsuit was a last-ditch attempt to compel authorities to take action against severe air pollution in the bustling metropolis of Jakarta and its surrounds, an area home to more than 30 million people.

In its verdict, judges at the Central Jakarta District Court said the actions of the defendants had contravened the law.

The ruling obliges the president to establish national air quality standards to protect human health, and the health minister and lakarta governor to devise strategies to control air pollution.

GOVT MAY THEORETICALLY END UP WITH CHUNK OF SHARE IN A COMPANY: ANALYSTS

Dues via equity, defining non-telecom revenues: Guidelines likely in 2 weeks

& PRANAV MUKUL NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

THE DEPARTMENT of Telecommunications (DoT) is expected to come out with guidelines over the next2weeks for payment of statutory dues by telecom companies using equity, for which the department is expected to have discussions with the Finance Ministry soon, government officials said. On Wednesday, the Union Cabinet approved a series of measures for the telecom sector, including an option for companies to pay their statutory dues such as licence fee, spectrum usage charge and the interest and penalties accrued on those with equity of their firms. This will be applicable after the four-year moratorium period given by the government to repay their dues concludes.

This was one of the measures unveiled on Wednesday where the industry is awaiting for the fineprint. These guidelines will include the modalities and finer details of how the government plans to convert the due amount of operators, torium, to equity. "The DoT will issue guidelines. In any case, these measures are applicable from October 1. Even if guidelines come later, it will not matter, since the applicability will be from October 1,

According to analyst estimates, the government could theoretically end up with a major chunk of share in a company like Vodafone Idea should it choose to avail the moratorium and is unable to repay its dues in the four-year period.

"While four-year moratorium would ease immediate cash flow constraints for Vodafone Idea (VIL), t will need to also raise around $1bn over next 6-9 months ... Further, if VII, were to opt to convert Rs 67,000 crore of interest accrued during the moratorium period, it would entail a dilution of approximately 70 per cent for existing VIL shareholders with government owning around 70 per cent of VIL (on proforma basis assuming conversion at current market price of Rs 9 per share)," Credit Suisse noted in a research report.

The DoT is also learnt to be working on tweaking the defini-

Telcos opting for moratorium to see bank guarantee fall to 20%'

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

TELECOM SERVICE providers which opt for the moratorium being offered by the Department of Telecommunications(DoT)will see their bank guarantee requirements come down to only 20 per cent of what they are required to pay currently, thereby freeing them of non-funded debt, sources in the know of the development said.

"So, say Vodafone Idea (Vi) opts for the moratorium. For spectrum they will have to furnish no bank guarantees for the next 2 years and eleven months. So that means, out of Rs 23,000 crore, their bank guarantees are worth Rs 15,000 crore for spectrum. This means it will comedown to roughly Rs 200-300 crore, which is for the 2021 spectrum auctions," a senior government official said.

Bharti Airtel, which has already

The DoT had announced rationalisation of bank guarantee requirements. File said that it would take up the DoT's offer of four year moratorium on adjusted gross revenue (AGR) and deferred spectrum payments, will also see a similar reduction in their bank guarantee requirements, the official said. As part of the reforms, the DoT had announced rationalisation of bank guarantee requirements against License fee and other similar levies. The DoT had also said telecom service providers would not be required to submit a separate bank guarantee for each licenced service area, and instead only one guarantee would be required of them in future.

Further, no bank guarantees will be required to secure payments of instalment of dues for auctions held in the future.

Currently, telecom services providers are, as per the Unified Access Services License agreement, required to submit financial bank guarantees to the DoT for various purposes, such as payment of licence fee, spectrum usage charges, deferment of these charges, and for adjusted gross revenue payments.

With the new changes, these requirements will be a thing of the past, the official said, thereby also cutting down on the future exposure of banks and financial institutions to the telecom companies.

City-wise assets under management (AUM) data of mutual funds show a sharp jump in MF investment from smaller towns.

market rally in the last 12 months.

The latest Association of Mutual Funds in India data shows that over the last one year, towns outside the country's top 110 cities saw their share in industry AUM jump from 10.21 per cent in June 2020 to 15.44 per cent in June 2021 -a 50 per cent surge. In June 2018, the share of these locations bracketed as 'other cities' in Amfi data that cumulatively account for towns and hamlets outside its list of 110 top cities — in industry AUM stood at just 8.7 per cent. This indicates that the fresh net inflow of funds from small cities is growing at a much faster pace in comparison to the large cities. While the industry AUM rose 32 per cent from 25.48 lakh crore in June 2020 to Rs 33.66 lakh crore in EXPERTS ARE pointing to falling interest rates on fixed deposits, rising equity markets and ease of investment as likely reasons for people from small towns investing heavily in mutual funds.

June 2021, the aggregate AUM of 'other cities' doubled from Rs 2,60,237 crore to Rs 5,19,845 crore in the same period. Industry insiders say there has been growing investment participation from places such as Jhumri Telaiya, Tezpur, Gangtok, Vellore, Srinagar and more investments are coming in from semi-urban and rural areas.

Experts say falling interest rates on fixed deposits, rising equity markets and ease of investment are playing a big role in pulling investors from smaller towns towards mutual fund investment. Also, the hinterland was largely unaffected in the aftermath of the first Covid-19 wave and agri of transaction. "While 'Mutual output had remained buoyant to a large extent when urban centres were being impacted by the locktricts, while the share of Mumbai (the single biggest AUM contributor) has declined from 36.5 per cent in June 2020 to 31.16 per cent in June 2021, that of New Delhi has dropped from 13.69 per cent to 12.55 per cent. Nagpur is on top in terms of maximum gain in AUM share – from 0.46 per cent in June 2020 to 1.02 per cent in June 2021, Patna. Jamshedpur, Asansol, Aurangabad and many more have seen a jump in their share of industry AUM. "The equity story has caught up. The availability of number of online investment platforms, rise in equity markets and lack of other attractive investment avenues are leading to this kind of participation even from semi-urban areas," CI George, MD, Geojit Financial Services, said.

Industry leaders give credit to regulators for regulation, industry association for creating awareness, distributors for explaining it to the investors, and digitisation for ease

Fund Sahi Hai' campaign has worked well for the industry, the positive experience sharing a lot of good," said Nilesh Shah, MD, Kotak Mahindra AMC. He said if the bad experience with Ponzi schemes dissuaded people from such investment options, the distributor's effort to reach out to investors has worked well. While it is tough to explain equity investment to many investors in semi-urban areas. Shah said. "Many distributors carry their MF statement to show how SIP investment has grown and in several cases they also started SIPs of their drivers and maids. And when they share their investment return experience, it creates a lot of impact.'

Aniruddha Chaudhuri, head, retail sales, ICICI Prudential AMC, said that along with regulation, awareness campaign and investor experience, digitisation has also played a big role. "There is a lot of money in Bharat. Earlier, people were not aware that it is so easy to invest. Over the years, trust has been built and convenience to invest has played a big role," he said.

Economy achieving escape velocity from Covid: RBI report

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU MUMBAI, SEPTEMBER 16

THE RESERVE Bank of India (RBI) has said prospects are brightening for the economy, "achieving escape velocity from the pandemic as the second wave wanes and preparedness for future remains on war-alert status."

"Aggregate demand is gaining firmer ground, while on the supply side, index for industrial production and core industries mirror improvement in industrial activity and services sector indicators point towards sustained recovery," the RBI said in its monthly 'State of the economy' report.

"As pandemic scars heal and supply conditions are restored with productivity gains, a sustained easing of core inflation can be expected, which will reinforce the growth-supportive stance of monetary policy," it said.

Standalone legislation needed: NFRA Chairperson

ENSECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

CHAIRPERSON OF the National

Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA) R Sridharan on Thursday called for a "standalone legislation" for the regulator in the interest of its functional, financial and administrative autonomy. The NFRA currently operates under the administrative control of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs under Section 132 of Companies Act, 2013. Sridharan said, while speaking at a CII event discussing the role of regulators and the future of audit, that the government could consider exempting small companies from mandatory audits as those currently being conducted on these firms are of low quality.

INDIA'S ODI TOUR OF NZ POSTPONED

India will not be touring New Zealand later in the year due to a packed calendar and COVID-19 related restrictions. India would have had to quarantine for 14 days to play three ODIs as part of the World Cup Super League. A New Zealand Cricket (NZC) spokesperson confirmed to Stuff that the India games will be played after the T20 World Cup in Australia next year. PTI

Boxing nat'l: Deepak into second round

Bellary: International-medallist Deepak Kumar (51kg) led the show as Services Sports Control Board (SSCB) boxers produced an impressive allwin performance on the second day of the men's National Championships at the Inspire Institute of Sports on Thursday. Deepak, who had upstaged the world and Olympic Games champion Shakhobidin Zoirov of Uzbekistan during his silver medal show at the Strandja Memorial earlier this year, started the domination for SSCB with a 5-0 win against Bihar's Aman Kumar in the 51kg opening round match. Barun Singh (48kg) and  $Akash (54kg) further \, extended \, SSCB's$ winning momentum as they managed unanimous victories against Telangana's Donald Janumala and Rocky of All India Police respectively. Dalveer Singh Tomar (64kg) and Naveen Boora (71) were the other two boxers to progress into the second round as all five SSCB boxers won on the second day of the event.

Stricter rules for long toilet breaks: Report

London: Inordinately long toilets breaks or medical timeouts at critical moments could soon be a thing of the past in men's tennis with the ATP Tour planning to impose stricter rules, a source at the men's governing body told Reuters. The practice has long been a bugbear of players, most recently at the US Open where Stefanos Tsitsipas was accused of gamesmanship by Andy Murray for taking a lengthy trip to the bathroom at a critical point in their first-round match. The Greek world number three, who won the match, denied the charge and said he had broken no rules as there were no time limits on bathroom breaks. "There will be a change to the rules for bathroom breaks and oncourt medical timeouts as well," an ATP source told Reuters. "I hope that before the next season begins in January, we will have a stricter rule when it comes to toilet breaks and medical timeouts."

Fans back more frequent World Cups, shows Fifa's survey

Paris: FIFA says it has fan backing for the much-criticised plan to shift to a biennial World Cup after releasing a summary of the results of an opinion survey of supporters. The proposals, which have been outlined by FIFA's head of Global Football Development, former Arsenal manager Arsene Wenger, have been met with widespread opposition from within the game. FIFA's congress in May voted by a large majority to conduct a feasibility study into the potential of holding the World Cup every two years instead of every four years. FIFA said it used polling company YouGov and that the 15,000 respondents "were identified as expressing an interest in football and the FIFA World Cup, from a broader market research survey involving 23,000 people in 23 countries, across the organisation's six confederations.

One and a half captain

Kohli to step down as T20I skipper after the T20 World Cup 'to be fully ready to lead in Tests, ODIs'

SRIRAM VEERA SEPTEMBER 16

IT'S INTERESTING how Virat Kohli has blamed work-load management as the reason to step down from T20 captaincy. It's not surprising that he didn't make any harsh self-assessment on his captaincy but it has thrown up a few questions. Post-pandemic break since December 2020, India has played just 8 T20s. Besides, it is a no-brainer that the most intense T20 captaincy job isn't the international games but the IPL. So will Kohli step down as the RCB captain? By still playing all the three formats, and resigning from the least-played format, the work-load question is still not resolved.

More questions swirl. Is this decision sustainable? What if Rohit Sharma led India to consistently winning T20s, how easy it would be to resist the temptation to give him the white-ball role in ODIs as well. Especially, as the personnel in white-ball cricket is largely the same across the two formats for India.

The 2023 ODI World Cup at home might have been an understandably irresistible carrot to resist for Kohli. No one can blame him for ambition, it's what took him to these dizzying heights, but it's a job for the board and selectors to decide. In some ways, Kohli has thrown the gauntlet to the BCCI – if you want, remove me from ODIs; the ball is in your court. Which is perfectly understandable of course. As in case of retirement, the decision about the captaincy shouldn't be left to the players. It should be the call of the selectors. Perhaps, the board will take that call sometime next year after watching how Rohit Sharma leads.

The perception

Another interesting angle is how the recent times Kohli has moved in the perception scales as the man to lead in Tests. In it, Kohli is the Anti-Dhoni, of our times. With MS Dhoni, Test match captaincy seemed to stretch and test his instinctive capabilities. By the end, it appeared he was more at home landing up on the field and taking punts with the clock ticking down. A T20 and ODI allowed him to do that. Tests, with its open nature and which requires a lot of systematic pre-game preparation and extensive man-to-man work off the field, didn't quite sit well with him. He would often let things drift. The white-ball icy-coolness seemed like a shrug of resignation to an event unfolding across five days.

Somehow, Kohli has managed to find himself on the opposite spectrum. Nowhere close to Dhoni's tactical acumen, but seemingly more devoted to the Test format, and equipped with the free-flowing tactical help from the head and bowling coaches, he has flowered. His tactical nous was much better in the recent Test series in England.

Incredibly, counter-intuitively, he manages to sustain his intensity over sessions across five days. By remaining open to the tactical calls from the coaches Ravi Shastri and Bharat Arun, he continues to shine in the Tests. When he started his captaincy, it did seem that his fiery nature would suit the short formats where he can sustain and carry the team with his intensity levels but as IPL history has proved in T20. it often comes to that instinctive tactical decision taken in the middle. Plus the choice of personnel and balance of the team – Kohli hasn't cracked that code yet.

The IPL chapter hasn't been the shining light on his CV but this year India, under Kohli, hasn't lost a T20 series. They have got the better of England (3-2), Australia (2-1), Sri Lanka (2-0), and New Zealand (4-0). As with his ODI role, the criticism isn't about lack of consistent wins but the empty cabinet. India has compet-

Understanding workload is a very important thing and considering my immense workload over the last 8-9 years playing all 3 formats and captaining regularly for last 5-6 years, I feel I need to give myself space to be fully ready to lead the Indian team in Test and ODI cricket. Of course, arriving at itively advanced so much that the heat is on due to lack of big-ticket ICC trophies.

Judicious push

In that, Kohli can be satisfied that he isn't handing a leaky boat to Rohit Sharma but one needs a more judicious push near the finish line in big tournaments. Sharma doesn't have the turn around this team, he just needs to polish it as he has done for Mumbai Indians. The board played the Dhoni card rather smartly for this T20 World Cup. A triumph won't just be seen as Kohli's and there won't be any closure achieved on his captaincy.

In the long run, say in a year or so, India might find itself with a decision to make not just with ODI captaincy but also with Tests. A split captaincy of the type seen in England is easier to sustain. Eoin Morgan isn't in the Test team and Joe Root isn't in the T20s. The Indian experiment with stars of equal stature present in all formats would need maturity not just from the two but also from the rest of the team.

In that regard, the choice of the next coach of the Indian team after the T20 World Cup would be very crucial. In some sense, more than Kohli and Sharma, the man who would replace Shastri could find himself with the most difficult job of them all.

With 65-60 win-loss record in IPL, quitting RCB captaincy could have lightened burden

SANDIPG SEPTEMBER16

THE FIRST sign of Virat Kohli feeling the age or a genuine reason for reviving his batting form in Tests? A case of captaincy burden creaking his shoulders or the beginning of a gradual self phasing out? He relinquished T20 captaincy with a lot of questions hanging in the air. The reason, he wrote on his Instagram-post, was the immense workload he had to bear since he became a cross-format captain. A reality check through numbers.

How has his workload been lately?

Starting from the T20 series against Sri Lanka at the beginning of 2020, he has featured in 12 Tests and ODIs each, 15 T20Is, and 22 IPL games. That means a game day in every six days. Since his international debut in 2010, as many as 1024 days, close to three-and-ahalf years, were international or IPL matchdays. Add travel and practice days, he hardly had a breather, even if you discount that he missed part of the Test series against Australia for the birth of his daughter. Not to discount the year before (2019), when India played Test series against Australia, South Africa, Bangladesh and West Indies, besides the 50over World Cup and the IPL.

Before the series in New Zealand last year, he had admitted that the schedule was indeed knackering him. "It is around eight years now that I have been playing 300 days a year, which includes travelling and practice sessions. And intensity is right up there all the time. It does taincy and not the format in itself, which, more so given the infrequency of T20Is games. Was T20 captaincy taking a toll on him?

take a toll on you." Hence, it was not surprising that he decided to unburden a bit. What was indeed surprising was that he quit only cap-

Only Kohli would know whether captaincy was affecting him or if it was impeding his batting. Numbers reveal that he was a happy T20I captain, having won series in South Africa, Australia, England, New Zealand, West Indies and Sri Lanka, a feat no captain has ever managed. Though he would stop short of recording most wins as skipper, a record that belongs to MS Dhoni, he could brag about a better win percentage (65.11 to 59.28). Among captains in the World Cup, only Babar Azam (a decimally better 65.22) and Afghanistan's Ashgar Afghan (81) have better win percentages. Besides, only Australia's Aaron Finch has scored more runs than Kohli while leading the team (1589 to 1502). Hence, in this format, his batting and captaincy had little correlation, apart from a marginal plunge of average from 52 to 48, if you could call that a plunge at all at this level. His last six T20I innings read: 85,0,73*,77*,1,and 80*. It could have been less bizarre if he had forsaken the captaincy of Royal Challengers Bangalore, for whom he had lost more than he had won (65-60), and for whom he averages under 40(37.97).

Was the frequency of international T20 cricket affecting him?

Less likely, as T20 games come few and fore the World Cups. For example, in the last couple of years, he has featured in just 15 T20Is, roughly the number of games he would play in two months in the IPL. Moreover, given the comparative insignificance of international T20 fixtures, there was hardly any pressure attached to a T20I series, barring the World Cup, or a series in the build-up to one.

far between, bursting into relevance only be-

It's difficult to correlate the relationship between T20I captaincy and his lack of runs in the longest format as well. It is not so much a case of him looking out of touch as he is out of runs. There have been times in the series against England that he had looked in divine form, but would suddenly get out. But only Kohli knows best the rhyme and reason behind the decision.

Will he do the same in ODIs?

Not in the near future, not until the next World Cup the year after at home, unless his batting form nosedives dramatically. An ambitious cricketer and captain that he is, it's unlikely that he would splurge a chance to win a World Cup at home, to banish all doubts about his leadership skills, the dearth of an ICC trophy in his CV, to be as legendary a captain as he is a batsman. His Sachin Tendulkar moment, so to speak. But keep an eye on his batting too. If he rekindles his bruising touch, there would be no reason he would harbour second thoughts of stepping down as captain from the 50-over cricket

TO BUSAN AND BEYOND

Harmilan bolts out of parents' shadow to better Sunita Rani's mark

NIHALKOSHIE

NEW DELHI, SEPTEMBER 16

HARMILAN KAUR Bains felt like a weight had lifted off her shoulders when she broke the two-decade old national record in the 1.500 metres at the 60th National Open Athletics Championships in Warangal. "I can run freely now," the 23-year-old said just after clocking 4:05.39 to erase Sunita Rani's Busan Asian Games mark from 2002. Parental pressure has been a constant shadow for the daughter of two former athletes, one an Asian Games medal winner.

Father Amandeep Singh specialized in the 1,500 metres and mother Madhuri Singh is an Asian Games silver medalist in the 800 - incidentally from Busan. They would micro-manage her career. She ran both events and the constant advice and expectations had proven detrimental for the athlete earlier.

This time Harmilan travelled on her own to Warangal, Her father reached the city a couple of days later and watched the race from the stands like a spectator.

"They are very involved and put not just me but my coach also under pressure. They would want to know every little detail. They would give advice like 'If you train so much your time will be this' or ask questions to the coach like

'why is endurance not happening? How will you run with this workout? I needed to travel on my own," Harmilan says.

Her coach Suresh Saini convinced her parents to stop the constant monitoring. "His theory was I needed a free mind," Harmilan says. On Thursday, after the race Amandeep clicked a selfie with his daughter who posed with the gold medal. But she didn't listen to any unsolicited advice. Running without expectations is only part of the reason why Harmilan could become a national champion. From a personal best of 4:14.68 at the start of last year, Harmilan has improved by nearly 10 seconds. Shedding weight, focusing on intense speed workouts and improving biomechanics has helped, coach Saini says.

Improving efficiency

"Last year her body fat percentage was 26. Now it is 15 per cent. She had disturbed running mechanics. We also worked on improving bio-mechanical movements which makes her a more efficient runner. Also because of lower muscle mass her speed was not the best. That is why I made her do a lot of uphill running like 60 metres, 80 metres in Dharamshala where we trained," Saini, a sprint coach who had been in charge of national relay teams, says. Even in training, the coach keeps Harmilan on her toes. She trains with boys who

Tokyo berth but in her next competition, the national inter-state she struggled to 4:15.52. Her menstrual cycle upset her rhythm, she recalls. "Just before the race I got my periods. I ran to the washroom as I had back pain. I have run with periods earlier but this time it happened too close to the race. I had lots of cramps because of periods. Also it was very hot," she says.

Harmilan clocked 4:08.27 to raise hopes of a

In Warangal the conditions were near-perfect. "I think it was about 26 degrees. Weather was too good.'

There was a minor hiccup before the Open nationals. She had participated in the 400 metres at a state meet and felt her hamstring tightening up. Her coach stopped track workouts.

"I didn't touch my spikes for a week, I was little worried about the Open national. My target was the national record. But the coach was confident that I would pull it off."

Harmilan is on an eight-race streak since the start of last year. She hopes to go from strength to strength to make up for the lost years. In 2017, she injured her knee because of excessive workouts and it took her nearly a year to come back. She got the opinion of doctors in Delhi and Bengaluru but the diagnosis was not good. "They told me my career was over. I had to wear a knee cap which cost Rs

A cook, a saviour

Help came from the most unlikely source, a cook at the training centre in Dharamshala. 'He had helped hockey players recover from injuries by giving massage. He is a miracle worker. There is some sort of magic in his hands. I can say that cook uncle cured by knee injury."

The first setback was in 2013, when as a 13-year-old she failed a dope test. The local doctor in Mahilpur had prescribed her medicines for tonsillitis and then went AWOL when he was called to testify before a National Anti-Doping Agency panel. "I was participating in the Under-14 category. I was very sick back then. I had no coach. Can someone knowingly take steroids at that age? When the time came for the doctor to give his version, he panicked and left. He didn't even produce his degree. It came as a shock to me. I lost two years.

Having a national record in her name has now eased the pain of a difficult past. A burning ambition to be the best has been fulfilled. "My first-ever race was a zonal meet when I was in Class 3. I was a class topper in academics but finished second in the race. I wanted to guit sports because of the second-place finish. In the next race I won, my photo was published in the paper. From then onwards it has been only sport for me.'

Davis Cup: India expect Prajnesh to give lead

SHAHIDJUDGE MUMBAI, SEPTEMBER 16

IF INDIA's upcoming Davis Cup tie against Finland is to be a tough task, the draw on Thursday came out in favour of the visitors. This is the first time India will play in the World Group 1, after the format was changed in 2020. In the previous structure, India would play in the Asia/Oceania Group, where they've bossed for the past seven years. But in their first ever tie against Finland, the Indians come up against a team that will field higher ranked players.

There is the 22-year-old Emil Ruusuvuori who has beaten the likes of Dominic Thiem and Alexander Zverev - who is the highest ranked singles player in the tie, 74. Their doubles team consists of World No 76 (in doubles) Harri Heliovaara and former No 1 Henri Kontinen (currently 46). Their weakest link on paper is 20-year-old Otto Virtanen, ranked 419.

Crucially for the Indians, the opening rubber will see its No 1 player Prajnesh Gunneswaran (165) come up against Virtanen.

"We are happy that (Prjanesh) plays first. If he plays to potential and performs, then we should go up 1-0, and the pressure will be on (Ruusuvuori) to beat Ramkumar (Ramanathan)," says India team captain Rohit Ramkumar, India's third highest ranked singles player at 187, will play the second rubber on Friday against the Finnish spearhead.

On Saturday, the tie will resume with the sole doubles rubber. India No 1 and 2 Rohan Bopanna (44) and Divij Sharan (86) respectively will play Kontinen and Heliovaara, followed by the reverse singles matches -Ruusuvuori-Prajnesh and Ramkumar as the final match.

Furthermore, should the tie be levelled at 2-2 and go into the deciding rubber, it'll be the unfancied Virtanen who will come up against the 26-year-old Ramkumar, who travelled to Espoo fresh after reaching the quarterfinals of a Challenger in France, beating former World No 10 Ernests Gulbis en route.

FBI turned 'blind eye' to reports of abuse: Biles

Four gymnasts, past and present, give testimony at US Congress on the crimes committed by Larry Nassar

ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON. SEPTEMBER 16

OLYMPIC GOLD medalist Simone Biles told Congress in forceful testimony Wednesday that federal law enforcement and gymnastics officials turned a "blind eye" to USA Gymnastics team doctor Larry Nassar's sexual abuse of her and hundreds of other women.

Biles told the Senate Judiciary Committee that "enough is enough" as she and three other U.S. gymnasts spoke in stark emotional terms about the lasting toll Nassar's crimes have taken on their lives. In response, FBI Director Christopher Wray said he was "deeply and profoundly sorry" for delays in Nassar's prosecution and the pain it caused.

The four-time Olympic gold medalist and five-time world champion - widely considered to be the greatest gymnast of all time said she "can imagine no place that I would be less comfortable right now than sitting here in front of you." She declared herself a survivor of sexual abuse.

"I blame Larry Nassar and I also blame an entire system that enabled and perpetrated his abuse," Biles said through tears. In addition to failures of the FBI, she said USA Gymnastics and the United States Olympic and Paralympic Committee "knew that I was abused by their official team doctor long before I was ever made aware of their knowledge.

Biles said a message needs to be sent: "If you allow a predator to harm children, the consequences will be swift and severe. Enough is

The hearing is part of a congressional effort to hold the FBI accountable after multiple missteps in investigating the case, including the delays that allowed the now-imprisoned Nassarto abuse other young gymnasts. All four witnesses said they knew girls or women who were molested by Nassar after the FBI had been made aware of allegations against him in 2015.

An internal investigation by the Justice Department released in July said the FBI made fundamental errors in the probe and did not treat the case with the "utmost seriousness" after USA Gymnastics first reported the allegations to the FBI's field office in Indianapolis in 2015. The FBI has acknowledged its own conduct was inexcusable. Wray blasted his own agents who failed to appropriately respond to the complaints and made a promise to the victims that he was committed to "make damn sure everybody at the FBI remembers what happened here" and that it never happens again. A supervisory FBI agent who had failed to properly investigate the Nassar case, and later lied about it, has been fired by the agency, Wray said.

McKayla Maroney, a member of the goldmedal winning U.S. Olympic gymnastics team in 2012, recounted to senators a night when, at age 15, she found the doctor on top of her while she was naked — one of many times she was abused. She said she thought she was going to die that evening. But she said that when she recalled those memories in a call with FBI agents, crying, there was "dead silence."

Maroney said the FBI "minimized and disregarded" her and the other gymnasts as they delayed the probe

"I think for so long all of us questioned, just because someone else wasn't fully validating us, that we doubted what happened to us," Maroney said. "And I think that makes the healing process take longer.'

Looking for answers

Biles and Maroney were joined by Aly Raisman, who won gold medals alongside them on the 2012 and 2016 Olympic teams, and gymnast Maggie Nichols. Raisman told the senators that it "disgusts" her that they are still looking for answers six years after the original allegations against Nassar were reported.

Raisman noted the traumatic effect the abuse has had on all of them. "Being here today is taking everything I have," she said. "My main concern is I hope I have the energy to just walk out of here. I don't think people realize how much it affects us." Speaking alongside senators after the hearing, Raisman called for more investigations of USA Gymnastics, Olympic officials and the FBI The probes should be independent and go back decades, she said, because there might still be people in positions of power who should be held accountable.

Biles acknowledged in January 2018 that she was among the hundreds of athletes who were abused by Nassar. She is the only one of the witnesses who competed in the 2020 Tokyo Olympics — held this year after a oneyear delay due to the coronavirus pandemic – where she removed herself from the team finals to focus on her mental health.

She returned to earn a bronze medal on beam but told the committee the lingering trauma from her abuse at the hands of Nassar played a factor in her decision to opt out of several competitions. At the hearing, she said she had wanted her presence in Tokyo "to help maintain a connection" between the failures of officials and the Olympic competition, but that "has proven to be an exceptionally difficult burden for me to carry."

Democratic and Republican senators expressed disgust over the case and said they would continue to investigate. Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Richard Durbin, D-Ill. said it was among the most compelling and heartbreaking testimony he had ever heard.

'We have a job to do and we know it,' Durbin said. Sen. Jerry Moran, R-Kansas, called Nassar a "monster" and wondered how many other abusers have escaped justice, considering that even world-class athletes were ig-

LIONEL MESSI, Kylian Mbappe and Neymar lined up together in the near-perfect attack for Paris Saint-Germain on Wednesday and still could not score or deliver a win in the Champions League. Instead, it was low-key midfielder Ander Herrera who got PSG's goal in a 1-1 draw at underrated Belgian champion Club Brugge. Though Messi saw a first-half shot strike the crossbar, he was later shown a yellow card for a foul and Mbappe went off because of an injured left ankle.

Christopher Nkunku netted all of Leipzig's goals in a 6-3 loss to Manchester City.

The English clubs in action combined for two wins in matches involving 14 goals as Liverpool beat AC Milan 3-2 in the Italians' return to the competition after a seven-season gap. There was just one goal in the games involving the Madrid clubs, and Rodrygo's 89thminute strike won it for Real Madrid at Inter Milan, Atletico Madrid was held 0-0 at home to Porto. Debutant Sheriff Tiraspol from the Moldovan league won 2-0 against Shakhtar Donetsk from neighboring Ukraine.

City leads Group A with six different scorers including record signing Jack Grealish. Leipzig defender Angelino was sent off on his return to his former club. PSG hosts City on Sept. 28 in a rematch of last season's semifinals. The English champion advanced after winning the first leg 2-1 in Paris.

Liverpool's early surge yielded only a Trent Alexander Arnold-inspired opening goal and a penalty for Mohamed Salah saved by Milan goalkeeper Mike Maignan. Milan stunned its hosts with two quick goals just before halftime, but the lead lasted just a few minutes into the second half before Salah leveled. Liverpool captain Jordan Henderson clinched a 3-2 win with a sharp half-volley shot in the 69th minute.

Madrid came away from San Siro with three points from Rodrygo's late goal superbly assisted by teenage substitute Eduardo Camavinga, for a 1-0 win.
