PM floats idea to states: One nation, one police uniform

'Defeat every form of Naxalism, be it of the gun or the pen misleading youth'

MAHENDER SINGH MANRAL

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi Friday floated the idea of 'one nation, one police uniform', urging states to consider a single uniform for police across the country with states at liberty to have their own number or insignia.

Addressing the Chintan Shivir of state Home Ministers and police chiefs in Surajkund near Delhi via videoconference. Modi said, "The 'one nation, one uniform for police' is just an idea. I am not trying to impose it on you. Just give it a thought. It may happen, it may happen in 5, 50 or 100 years. All states should just think it over."

He said this will ensure that the identity of police across the country is identical. "Currently in our country, there is one nation-one ration card, one nationone mobility card, one nationone grid, one nation-one sign language. Just like these, all states should think about having a one nation-one uniform policy... It will give a common identity to law enforcement as citizens will recognise police personnel anywhere in the country. Like a post box that has a distinct identity, police uniform should be identifiable across the country," he said.

Pointing to social media, Modi said one should not limit it to being a source of information because a single fake news has the potential to snowball into a matter of national concern.

Karnataka govt orders Arabic schools' survey: 'Not following syllabus'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE BENGALURU, OCTOBER 28

KARNATAKA SCHOOL Education Minister B C Nagesh on Friday announced that the department has ordered a survey of Arabic schools as they were allegedly not following the prescribed syllabus.

The step was taken after the parents of some students studying in the Arabic schools complained that their children's learning was not on par with other students, "Recently, we got complaints (from parents) that their children (students in Arabic schools) are not capable of competing with other children because the standard of education in Arabic schools is not up to the mark. So, we decided to get a survey done," Nagesh told reporters in Madikeri on Friday. "We have come to know that they (Arabic schools) are not running the schools according to the syllabus prescribed by the education department," he added.

According to him, there are around 200 Arabic schools in Karnataka, of which 106 are aided by the government and all are registered under the Karnataka Education Act, bound to follow government rules and Director of Urdu and Other

'Auction' of girls: NCW forms fact-finding team, Gehlot says will act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

JAIPUR, OCTOBER 28

THE NATIONAL Commission for Women (NCW) and Rajasthan State Commission for Women (RSCW) Friday took cognizance of media reports, which claimed that in some districts girls are sold on stamp paper and if not, their mothers are subjected to rape on the diktat of caste panchayats for the settlement of disputes.

The NCW also formed a twomember fact-finding team to look into the allegations.

Meanwhile, Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, who is in Gujarat, said: "We have deployed a team to find out the reality. We will not spare anyone if such an incident has happened.'

The NCW said it was "taking up the matter" with its Chairperson, Rekha Sharma, saying that the fact-finding team. headed by an undersecretarylevel rank officer, will reach Bhilwara to probe the case. The RSCW said it has taken the issue "seriously", with its

saying that the RSCW has asked the Bhilwara District Magistrate and Superintendent of Police to submit a report in seven days.

On Thursday, following a Dainik Bhaskar report, the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) had said: "Reportedly, whenever there is a dispute between the two parties particularly involving financial transactions and loans etc., the girls aged between 8-18 are auctioned to recover money. These girls are being sent to UP. MP. Mumbai, Delhi and even foreign countries and subjected to physical abuse, torture and sexual assault in slavery." A second notice was issued to the Raiasthan Director General of Police "to submit a detailed report mentioning the initiation of criminal prosecution against the perpetrators of such crime and their abettors/sympathisers".

The NHRC said the response from both the Chief Secretary and the DGP is expected within four weeks. NHRC has also asked its Special Rapporteur, Umesh Kumar Sharma, to visit Bhilwara.

India & US seek listing of terrorists the current 15 UNSC members and 5 incoming members, senior officials of the Home Ministry played the audio clip of Sajid Mir, one of the attack planners. In the audio clip, he can be heard directing terrorists to shoot at Nariman House.

Sajid Mir's listing as a global terrorist, an initiative of India and the US, was blocked by China at the UN in September this year.

Photographs of all major accused in different terror attacks on India, including Lashkar-e-Taiba's Hafiz Saeed and Zaki-ur-Rehman Lakhvi, were shown on the screen to all the members present. The delegates sat at a replica of the iconic horse-shoe table at the UNSC chamber in New York. UAE Minister of State for International Cooperation, Reem Ebrahim Al Hashimy, talked about the Nariman House incident where Israelis were targeted and said, "We all saw and heard what happened in Nariman House and we are all too familiar with how radical thoughts lead to radical practices."

Several survivors of the Mumbai terror attacks, including Vaishali Ombale (wife of slain policeman Tukaram Ombale), Moshe Holtzberg (the Israeli boy whose parents were killed), Devika (who was a 10-year-old girl then) and Taj hotel employee Karambir Kang, also spoke on the occasion. While one of the terrorists was captured alive, prosecuted and convicted by the highest court in India, the key conspirators and planners of the 26/11 attacks continue to remain protected and unpunished. When it comes to proscribing some of these terrorists, the Security Council has regrettably been unable to act in some cases because of political considerations. This undermines our collective credibility and our collective interests."

"We need to ensure the effective and transparent functioning of the Security Council sanctions regime and make sure that they are not rendered ineffective for political reasons. Objective and evidence based proposals for listing of terrorist groups, especially those that curb their access to financial resources, must be seen through," he said.

Blinken, in a video statement, said, "Our accountability efforts are more effective when we act together. The US Secretary of State also said, "...as we reflect on the immeasurable loss of 26/11, let it be a reminder to all of us of our unfinished work and holding accountable the perpetrators... and averting future terrorist attacks on any of our people, anywhere." "But we must do more than

That's why the United States has been working together with India and other partners for the last 14 years. Because when we allow the architects of these attacks go unpunished, we send the messages to terrorists everywhere that their heinous crimes will be tolerated," Blinken said.

Jaishankar said, "We all know that money is the lifeblood of terrorism. Terrorist organisations require funds and resources to maintain their organisational functions and undertake activities. The reality that terrorism continues to exist and expand points to an underlying truth: that terrorism continues to get the necessary financial resources to thrive."

"During the reservation issue, we saw the kind of fake news that was spread and the subsequent violence. Although things got cleared after 5-6 hours, we had to face losses. There is a need to educate people about analysing and verifying any piece of information from 10 sources before forwarding it to people. We have to come up with technological advancement to prevent the spread of fake news," he said.

Reiterating the need to obliterate the ground network of terrorism, the Prime Minister said every government, in its own capacity and understanding, is trying to do its part.

"It is the need of the hour to come together as one and handle the situation. Every form of Naxalism, be it of the gun or the pen, has to be defeated to prevent them from misleading the youth of the country," he said. Warning that such forces are increasing their intellectual sphere to mislead the minds of the coming generations, he said, "For the sake of the unity and integrity of the nation, and with the inspiration of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, we cannot allow such forces to flourish in our country. Such forces get significant help internationally."

He said in the last eight years, the number of Naxalite-affected districts in the country has come down significantly. "Be it Jammu & Kashmir or the North East, today we are moving fast towards permanent peace. Now we have to focus on rapid development in all these sectors including infrastructure," he said. Calling for close cooperation among states, he said crime is no longer localised and instances of inter-state, international crimes are going up and that is why mutual cooperation between state agencies and between Central and state agencies is crucial. Modi said that in the laws enacted by the Central government, the will to deal strongly with corruption, terrorism and hawala is clear. "Laws like the UAPA have given strength to the system in a decisive battle against terrorism," he said.

Gadkari made Nagpur pitch

Vedanta-Foxconn on September 13, and now, Tata-Airbus.

On Thursday, Defence Secretary Ajay Kumar had announced that Tata Advanced Systems and Airbus Defence and Space will manufacture C- 295 transport aircraft for the Indian Air Force in Vadodara in Gujarat.

Earlier, on September 15, Maharashtra Industries Minister Uday Samant had told a television channel that the state would try to get the Tata-Airbus project at MIHAN. His statement came just two days after Vedanta-Foxconn had signed a Memorandum of Understanding with Gujarat to set up a Rs 1,50,000 crore semiconductor facility, drawing flak from the Maha Vikas Aghadi alliance.

The Eknath Shinde-led Maharashtra government was blamed for letting the Vedanta-Foxconn move out of Maharashtra to Gujarat. The Vedanta-Foxconn MoU with Gujarat was signed within 75 days of the newlysworn-in government in Maharashtra. Stating that Tata FMCG companies with strong brands can open warehousing, logistics and distribution hub at MIHAN. Gadkari wrote, "All Tata group companies like Tata Steel, Tata Motors, Tata Consumer Products Ltd, Voltas etc. Tata Industries, Big Basket may enjoy the strengths of Nagpur like overnight connectivity with 350 districts of 6 states, lower rates of land, manpower and warehousing etc.

While suggesting that Air India, Vistara and Air Asia also may cut costs by making Nagpur airport a hub for operations and night parking, he said the Tata Group can plan large warehousing for aviation spares for its own use as well as for other airlines using Tata MRO facilities. He also suggested that the Tata group can consider other investments including in the IT & ITES and hospitality sectors.

Herbicide-tolerant cotton

Department of Biotechnology (DBT) scientist Sanjay Kumar Mishra to conduct a detailed review of the application by Mahyo Pvt. Ltd, Mumbai, the licensee for the BG-II RRF technology in India.

The Indian Express has learnt that the panel has given its approval for said genetically modified (GM) crop event. "The review was completed last week and the sub-committee's report will be taken up at the next meeting of the GEAC," said an ICAR official. who requested anonymity. GEAC is a body under the Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change that appraises GM products for their testing and commercialisation (environmental release) The expert sub-committee's members also included the director of the Indian Agricultural Research Institute (IARI) A K Singh, Assistant Director General (Seeds) of the Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) D K Yadava, former head of IARI's Division of Microbiology K Annapurna, Head of the All-India Coordinated Research Project on Cotton A H Prakash. DBT scientist Nitin K Jain and Environment Ministry scientist Abhilasha Singh Mathuriya.

Incidentally, the same panel had submitted a report on October 8, based on which the GEAC had recommended the environmental release of the GM hybrid mustard DMH-11 along with its parental lines for seed production, commercial cultivation and breeding of new hybrids. The GEAC meeting took nlace on October 18, 10 days after the expert sub-committee's report was submitted.

BG-II RRF cotton had already undergone biosafety research and field trials by 2012-13. The dossier containing the results of these trials were submitted by its original developer, Monsanto, to the GEAC in March 2013. Amid the regulatory uncertainty and no decision being taken, the American company withdrew its application seeking environmental release of the herbicidetolerant GM cotton product.

In 2018, Monsanto was acquired by Bayer, following which the latter, through Mahyco, resubmitted its application early this year.

The atmosphere has changed considerably in the last 7-8 months. There is more appreciation of the need to create an atmosphere to promote agricultural research and allow new products to boost crop yields," said the official quoted above.

The real push in this direction, according to him, has come from Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Independence Day speech where he made a strong pitch for "anusandhan" (research). Iai Anusandhan was added to the slogan given by previous prime ministers that extolled the "jawan" (soldier), "kisan" (farmer) and "vigyan" (science).

Zimbabwe vs Pak Part 2: Heads of State talk Mr Bean

Zimbabwe's win, my motive of making the world laugh is fulfilled. There was some lighthearted banter after Pakistan's loss because of me. What more can I ask for?" Muhammad told The Indian Express.

He got dragged into the match between Pakistan and Zimbabwe when on the match eve, a Zimbabwe fan Ngugi Chasura tweeted: "As Zimbabweans, we won't forgive you. You once gave us that Fraud Pak Bean instead of Mr Bean Rowan. We will settle the matter tomorrow. Just pray that rain doesn't save you."

This Twitter user was referring to a previous visit by Muhammad to Zimbabwe.

When he had made a name for himself as Mr Bean's doppelganger, Muhammad was invited to an agricultural exhibition in Zimbabwe by two Indian businessmen in 2016. His brief was to attract crowds and his trip is still remembered, as the viral tweets show. "When the businessmen Muhammad Arif and Muhammad Anees discussed the idea of having me as the brand

A textile businessman turned property dealer, Muhammad grew up watching Pakistani comedy dramas and movies of Indian comics Johnny Walker and Kadar Khan on video cassettes. In 2010, Muhammad's second life as a comic began when he was approached by a Pakistani TV channel for a show on doppelgangers of actors "My wife Nazia and friends would tell me that I resemble Mr

Bean. It was only in 2010 that I prepared for the role while making clips to send to the channel. I would watch the episodes at night. I ordered a teddy bear from China, a toy associated with the character, and got my blazer from England. Since the character does not speak, I improvised with some English dialogues. As people liked it, it became my style," said

Muhammad, who is in his 40s. He said his children, daughters Mahin and Annabia and son Ahmed Raza, would burst into laughter when he first started imitating Mr Bean. "Whenever I visit schools in Pakistan, a lot of kids feel happy. Some laugh, some cry and want to touch the teddy bear," said Muhammad, who uploaded a YouTube video of him meeting kindergarten children at Karachi's Menon School. A Javed Miandad and Shahid

Afridi fan, Muhammad also likes to watch Virat Kohli bat. He said he almost came to India. "Pakistani comic artists like Shakeel Siddigui and Rauf Lala worked in Indian TV shows and told us about the love they got in India. I once had talks with the organisers of the Kapil Sharma show and also for a movie with Raipal Yaday. But the situation between India and Pakistan worsened. I wish to perform for an Indian audience in India, and students in Indian schools one day."

He has also portrayed Atkinson's character in an advertisement with cricketer Shahid Afridi. "It was done after seeking permission from Rowen Atkinson. Later they told me that Atkinson was happy seeing me enacting his role. That was the biggest compliment for me," Muhammad said. "One day, when Pakistan play England in a World Cup final, I would like to watch it at the venue with the Real Mr Bean!"

NEW FARES TO BE NOTIFIED SOON

Auto, taxi fares set to increase in capital

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

AUTO AND taxi fares in the national capital will soon go up as the Delhi government has approved revised fares in its recent cabinet meeting. This comes against the backdrop of rising CNG prices, which had prompted auto and taxi unions to hold several protests to press for higher fares. The new fares will be notified soon, said officials.

Currently, for autos, the meter-down fare for the initial 1.5 km is Rs 25 and per kilometre fare (after meter down) is Rs 9.5. This is set to become Rs 30 for the first 1.5 km and Rs 11 per km after that. The charge for extra luggage has also been increased from Rs 7.5 to Rs 10. Night charges will be the same, that is 25% of the day charge. There is no change in the waiting charge as well.

For taxis, the first 1 km charge was Rs 25 for both AC and non-AC vehicles. The per kilometre after meter-down fare was Rs 14 for non-AC taxis and Rs 16 for AC taxis. After the revised fare, the initial 1 km fare will rise to Rs 40 for both AC and non-AC taxis and the meter-down charge will become Rs 17 for non-AC and Rs 20 for AC taxis. The 25% night charges will remain the same. The waiting charge, which is currently Rs 30, will be charged at Rs 1 per minute after 15 minutes of stay, and the extra luggage fare has been increased from Rs 10 to Rs 15.

The auto-rickshaw fare was last revised in 2020, while the taxi fare was revised nine years ago in 2013. The taxis include black and yellow taxis and economy taxis.

Following several protests by auto and taxi drivers amid the CNG price hike, and receiving representations demanding to increase the auto fare, Transport Minister Kailash Gahlot formed a 13-member committee in May 2022 to review and recommend the fare. As of October 2022, the cost of CNG in Delhi is 78.61 per kg. The committee had recommended revising the fare for black and yellow taxis and economy taxis, which was then reviewed and approved by the Delhi government. The committee had also recommended not to change the existing fare for premium taxis so they don't become too expensive, said officials. "The Delhi government has always been committed to being empathetic to people driving autos and taxis in Delhi. We have seen that fuel prices in India have gone up in recent months which has impacted profits of drivers. The increased cost led them to further drive fewer kilometres which ultimately impacted the supply on road for citizens of Delhi travelling to offices or homes. The revised fares will help them support their families and will also provide convenience to passengers with increased availability of auto rickshaws and taxis in the city," said Gahlot.

Gahlot formed a committee in May to review fares

'Tere sar pe daal doon?': BJP MP Parvesh Verma yells at DJB official at Yamuna ghat

ABHINAYA HARIGOVIND NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

THE AAM Aadmi Party (AAP) has hit out at BJP West Delhi MP Parvesh Sahib Singh Verma after a video emerged of him speaking sternly with an official of the Delhi Jal Board (DJB), who is in charge of spraying a "defoamer" in the river ahead of Chhath Puja.

In the video shared by DJB vice-chairman Saurabh Bharadwaj on Twitter, Verma is seen pointing to a set of barrels near the Yamuna and talking to an official. "After eight years, you have remembered now that it (the defoamer) is approved? Yahan logon ko maar rahe ho tum, 8 saal mein tum isko saaf nahin kar paaye. You take a dip in it now (you are killing people, in 8 years you couldn't clean it)," Verma is heard telling the official. The official asks Verma why he is getting angry. "Aapko kaise lag raha hai ki log mar rahe hain isse? (Why do you think people

The official is also seen trying to show Verma the minutes of an NMCG meeting to indicate that it is approved, and says Verma can complain if he wishes to. He also points out that the area is not designated for Chhath Puja.

"Kar raha hai bakwaas yahan pe. Yahan pe dubki laga. Yahan pe log aayenge dubki lagane, tu laga ke dikha pehle. Tumhe saala 8 saal mein dhyaan nahi aaya, kal yahan pe log manayenge Chhath toh tum

You didn't think of this in eight years, now when people are coming to mark Chhath you are working here... shameless person)", Verma responds.

The official in the video is Sanjay Sharma, Director, Treatment and Quality Control, DJB. The incident took place in the afternoon at the Okhla barrage. Sharma said, near the area where the DJB is spraying a "defoamer" in the water to get rid of the foam that has been floating on the river. "He came there. was showing him the NMCG minutes, but he was not listening to me. It (the chemical being sprayed) is not poisonous," he said. Sharma is in-charge of the spraying of the defoamer which is expected to act on the foam. Spraying began earlier this week.

Verma, when contacted, said: "The DJB officials were spraying a chemical there. I asked them if they have an order. They said they have it, but they were not able to show it to me. I told them, they are spraying a chemical and tomorrow people will take a dip in the river. I told them not to do it, because it could lead to problems. If they wanted to do it, they should have done it earlier. Even after I said this, they continued spraying. They said the chemical is not dangerous, so I said I'll try it on you. If you cannot use it yourself... so many thousands of people will be there, what if it leads to skin diseases, who will be responsible? They should show that the chemical is not dangerous. If you are not showing that, why are you using it? I am a public representative, if something happens to people there, who will be responsible?"

Sharing the video on Twitter. Bharadwaj said: "The Delhi government is preparing for Chhath Puja and BJP politicians are stopping the work, they are misbehaving. The BJP wants that our Purvanchali brothers are troubled and that the festival is Bharadwaj also shared another video of what he said were people in the area talking to Verma, "The Purvanchali people have spoken out and driven the BJP netas away. Our Purvanchali brothers have said that the BJP doesn't do anything on its own and is now intimidating Delhi government officials, Bharadwaj tweeted.

Durga Prasad Dubey, the person seen talking to Verma in the video, said he was part of an NGO called the YSS Foundation (Yuva Social Samiti). "Politicians should speak properly. There were officials there and the neta was being disrespectful towards them. What sort of language was that," he said.

"Every Sunday, we (volunteers from the foundation) come to clean the Yamuna. Our clean up has been happening here for three days now (for Chhath). These people (the politicians) never come here, they are coming for the first time." Dubey said.

Over 170 passengers evacuated after fire in IndiGo aircraft at IGI Airport runway

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

AN INDIGO aircraft was grounded at Delhi's Indira Gandhi International Airport after sparks were noticed on the runway as the plane's engine reportedly caught fire.

Airport officials said the IndiGo flight was heading from Delhi to Bengaluru, and was grounded before takeoff.

Tanu Sharma, the Deputy Commissioner of Police (IGI Airport), said: "Today, at 22.08 hrs, Indira Gandhi International Airport's Control Room received a call from CISF Control Room regarding a fire problem in the engine of flight number 6E2131 going from Delhi to Bengaluru. research': HC on PIL against politicians holding govt posts

MALAVIKA PRASAD NEW DELHI OCTOBER 28

THE DELHI High Court Friday adjourned the hearing of a PIL seeking removal of persons holding "official positions in political parties while being public servants" at government posts. A division bench of Chief Justice Satish Chandra Sharma and Justice Subramonium Prasad asked the petitioner to "do some more research and homework" on the issue and listed the matter on January 17, 2023. "There are better issues... people are not getting jobs," the court said, asking the petitioner if there is any bar in law prohibiting politicians from holding government posts. Senior advocate Sanjoy Ghose, appearing for petitioner Sonali Tiwary, contended that public servants should follow the principle of neutrality. According to the plea, the petitioner moved the HC after getting to know that persons holding official posts in political parties are being appointed to government posts, and even after such appointments, they are continuing to engage in political activities, which is in direct contravention of the principle of neutrality and also interferes with performance of public duty of public servant. The plea refers to examples of various political leaders holding government posts as public servants. In the case of the BIP, the plea refers to the appointment of party spokesperson Sambit Patra as chairman of the India Tourism Department Corporation. The plea contends that Patra has grossly violated the principle of neutrality and holding of that post in itself should lead to initiation of an enquiry and termination of Sh Patra as the chairman, ITDC".

"A mere look at the Twitter profile of Sh. Patra would demonstrate that he is in gross and wilful violation of the principle of neutrality that is applicable to each... public servant who is getting his allowance from taxpayers' money. In his Twitter profile, Sh. Patra has himself stated he is the National Spokesperson of the BJP," the plea states. In the case of the AAP, the plea refers to the appointment of Jasmine Shah as vice-chairman of the Dialogue and Development Commission of Delhi. "He has evidently supported the AAP in various videos and criticised the BJP, which is against the idea of maintenance of political neutrality by public servants," the plea says.

It further refers to the appointment of BJP parliamentary board member Iqbal Singh Lalpura as chairperson of National Minorities Commission and Raiasthan Pradesh Congress Committee member Dr Chandrabhan Singh's appointment as vice-chairman of the 20-point programme implementation and coordination committee in the state.

The Centre, through the Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions; Delhi government; State of Rajasthan; Patra; Lalpura; Shah; and Singh are respondents in the PIL.

The plea contends that these persons, among others, have been actively involved in political activities while holding government posts and "such persons being public servants as defined in IPC and Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, have failed to perform the public duty leading to exploitation of public resources". The plea also sought for constitution of a committee for framing guidelines for appointment of persons holding official positions in political parties as public servants.

My fault is I became a minister: Jain in 'money laundering' case bail hearing

ANAND MOHAN J NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

AAP MINISTER Satyendar Jain Friday wrapped up his bail arguments before a Delhi court in connection with an alleged money laundering case against him, by submitting that his only fault was that he "became a minister and got into public life", otherwise "there would be no case".

Senior advocate N Hariharan. who appeared for Jain, argued before Special Judge Vikas Dhull at Rouse Avenue court. The judge will hear the Enforcement Directorate's arguments to the bail plea on November 5.

Hariharan began his arguments by submitting that Jain's first bail application was dismissed as the matter was at the stage of investigation and the complaint was not yet filed. However, he said, "this no longer stands for bail to be dismissed". He also apprised the court of the previous bail order which did not designate Jain as a flight risk or a risk to witnesses since their statements have been recorded.

"Element of a fair trial is coterminous with grant of bail. I am in prolonged incarceration, and it will not serve any purpose. Right of a fair trial gets affected with prolonged incarceration," Hariharan told the court.

He further told the court that his client was "neither a director nor a shareholder" in any of the companies under investigation. "There are four companies. Entire case is based on two wrong assumptions. It is based on notional value to shares. No offence can be on notional value. These values are subject to change," Hariharan told the court

He argued that this notional value was also attributed wrongly. "My (Jain's) fault is I became a minister and got into public life." he submitted.

Hariharan told the court that the ED's evidence "was lacking" to show that Jain was in possession of these shares. "It is not their case that I (Jain) or Poonam (Jain's wife) sold these shares. The shareholding remained the same. There was no transaction as far as these shares are concerned. How are they coming to these figures? They come to this through notional value... this cannot be done in the eyes of law," he argued.

The senior counsel submitted that Jain was granted bail in the disproportionate assets case investigated by the CBI and that he joined the investigation on a number of occasions and "despite all this, 5 years down the line, they (ED) chose to arrest him".

Hariharan argued that Jain was a minority shareholder and questioned if such a shareholder could control the companies under investigation. "As a minority shareholder, could he have exercised any control over these companies? What is the role of a shareholder? In fact (he) has only made investment. What is he entitled in return? Dividend if there is profit. Was I a director in these companies? 2014-17, I was nowhere in the company. Entire problem is if I had not joined politics, there would be no case...," Hariharan told the court.

Gangster death: Court says evidence enough to proceed against Tihar cops

ANAND MOHAN J

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

A DELHI court Friday said there was sufficient evidence to proceed against a former Deputy Superintendent and five other Tihar jail staffers for the death of a 29-year-old inmate, Ankit Gujjar, who was found dead inside the prison complex.

Metropolitan Magistrate Anjali Mahajan said the chargesheet and annexed documents "reveal that the allegations levelled against the accused persons and the material on record is prima-facie sufficient to proceed with the case".

Narender Kumar Meena, the then Deputy Superintendent. Central Jail number 3, was accused of harassing Gujjar, who had multiple criminal cases against him, for money. It has been alleged that when Gujjar was not able to meet the demands, the accused along with other jail staffers, Ram Avtar Meena, Dinesh Chhikara, Harfool Meena, Vinod Kumar Meena and Deepak Dabas, "brutally beat Ankit Gujjar with kicks and polycarbonate lathis". Guijar succumbed to his injuries on August 4, 2021, due to lack of proper medical attention.

The court has taken cognizance under IPC sections 304 (punishment for culpable homicide not amounting to murder), 323 (punishment for voluntarily causing hurt) and 24 (dishonestly).

The CBI, which is investigating this case, has told the court that "during investigation, seven polycarbonate lathis having possible traces of blood were recovered from Central Jail number 3". "As per FSL report, from two of the polycarbonate lathis, DNA profiles were generated, which were found matching with the mixed DNA profiles of the inmates Ankit Gujjar, Gurjeet and Gurpreet," the agency submitted. Inmates Gurpreet and Gurieet, who have been cited as witnesses, corroborated the prosecution's allegations. "There are inter alia witness statements of co-inmates of the deceased on record, which prima facie also corroborate the prosecution's version. The post-mortem report of the deceased mentions the cause of death being haemorrhage consequent upon cumulative effect of multiple blunt force injuries sustained to the body, and time of death... coincides with the alleged incident,"

Sanitation workers on strike for 10 days, garbage crisis in Gurgaon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE GURGAON, OCTOBER 28

SANITATION WORKERS in Haryana have been on strike for 10 days now, demanding regularisation of services and an end to the contractual employment system. This has led to garbage piling up at several locations across Gurgaon. Workers, who have been on strike since October 19, Friday said they plan to extend the strike indefinitely till their demands were met.

Municipal Corporation of Gurgaon (MCG) officials said over 7,000 sanitation workers, including contractual workers, employed with the civic body through outsourced agencies had stopped cleaning streets and residential areas, and were allegedly stopping other contractors and staff from collecting garbage, resulting in heaps of garbage piling up, especially in Old Gurgaon, Kanhai village, Dundahera, sectors 12, 14, 15, 30, 31 and 32, and Iharsa among other areas.

Naresh Kumar, MCG joint commissioner, Swachh Bharat Mission, said, "Workers on strike are obstructing contractors and other staff from picking up garbage... We've sought police protection, now one PCR van will accompany our vehicles while garbage is collected from homes...' Naresh Malkat, state secretary, Nagar Palika Karamchari Sangh, said a delegation of protesting workers was called to Hisar to meet government officials Friday to discuss demands but the meeting was inconclusive. "Our main demands are regularisation of services and an end to the contractual system. Workers face harassment from contractors. Some safai karamcharis have been working with civic bodies for decades, but their services have not been regularised. We are also opposing the government's plan to bring contractual workers under purview of Haryana Kaushal Rozgar Nigam, which would restrict workers from approaching courts to seek regularisation," he said.

He added that some miscreants were hindering civic agencies from collecting garbage, adding that protesters were not

ATTENDANCE CHECK

AFTER PRIME Minister Narendra Modi expressed his displeasure about poor attendance of party MPs in both Houses of Parliament during session, the BJP leadership gave a number of directives to them on the issue. But the BJP whips have often found it a tough task to get a decent presence of party MPs in the House. Now the party appears keen on watching how many party MPs are attending the standing committee meetings. Officials in both the secretariats have been asked to do random checking on the parliamentary panel meetings to see how many of the BJP MPs are actually participating in the meetings. With the winter session beginning in the third week of November, the whips will have the task to ensure the presence of their party colleagues inside the Houses.

CONGRESS MP Shashi Tharoor on Friday posted a tweet on women lawmakers outnumbering men in Parliaments of New Zealand, Sweden and Rwanda. "And yet our BJP government won't even bring the women's reservation Bill (which UPA got the Rajya Sabha to pass) to the Lok Sabha for debate!" he tweeted. Sensing an opportunity to needle the Congress, Trinamool's Derek O'Brien jumped in. "If a political party has the conviction, then one-third of its MPs can be women, even without the Women's Reservation Bill. Yes, let's work together to get the Bill passed. Meanwhile, over one-third of MPs from @AITCofficial are women. We walk the talk. You folks don't," he replied.

Fake document story: BJP IT cell chief says will file FIR, seek damages from The Wire

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

BIP IT cell chief Amit Malviva said Friday he was going to file an FIR against news portal The Wire and its editors for alleged forgery, defamation, criminal conspiracy and cheating and civil action" for damages. This was in connection with the portal's report, subsequently retracted, that Malviya used his special privileges at social media giant Meta to take down over 700 posts.

Despite a categorical denial from Meta that the report had cited fake documents, The Wire published follow-up stories and its retraction and apology did not mention him "despite tarnishing my image", Malviya said.

Malviya was referring to a series of stories The Wire published this month where it claimed Meta had given certain special privileges to Malviva through its XCheck program where he could take down any content on Meta that he thought was critical of the government or the BJP, while having the privilege to post anything without Instagram rules applying to him.

The Wire claimed that its reports were based on a document "sourced" from an alleged Meta insider. This was denied by Meta which called the document fake Following this The Wire published a series of articles defending the story citing what it called "internal emails" of Meta, which have all turned out to be fake. Since then, The Wire has retracted the story, distanced itself from one of the reporters Devesh Kumar — the second reporter on the story was Jahnavi Sen — and issued an apology to its readers admitting poor verification of "complex technical evidence" and "taken moral responsibility for the omission". Both Kumar and Sen declined to comment when contacted by The Indian Express. A questionnaire was sent to The Wire's Founding Editor Siddharth Varadarajan. No comment was received.

TATA-AIRBUS PROJECT GOES TO GUJARAT

Opp attacks Shinde govt for loss; deal done before we took over, says minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE MUMBAI, PUNE, OCTOBER 28

THE OPPOSITION on Friday cornered the Shinde-Fadnavis government over Maharashtra losing out the Tata-Airbus C-295 transport aircraft manufacturing project to Gujarat even as state Industries Minister Uday Samant said that the deal had been signed by the Centre in September 2021 when the Maha Vikas Aghadi (MVA) government was in power.

"A memorandum of understanding (MoU) to set up the aircraft unit in Gujarat was signed by the Centre in September 2021. The decisions to set up Vedanta-Foxconn project or the Tata-Airbus project in Gujarat were taken before our government came to power. The Opposition is creating misconceptions," Sawant said.

NCP's Lok Sabha MP Supriya Sule countered Sawant, saying: "We have been hearing contradictory statements from a minister (Industries Minister Uday Samant) on the project. Either he does not know the details or he is making misleading statements. Chief Minister Eknath Shinde should clear the air."

Thursday's announcement that the Rs 22,000-crore Tata-Airbus project will come up in Gujarat has set off a political war of words with the Opposition blaming the Shinde government for allowing yet another project to slip away from the state.

The CM must explain as to what went wrong. At a time when three major projects were coming to the state, something has gone wrong. And as a citizen, everyone

Leader of Opposition and NCP leader Ajit Pawar also launched an offensive on the Shinde-Fadnavis government, "It is learnt that the Tata-Airbus transport aircraft project will come up in Gujarat and Prime Minister Narendra Modi is going to lay its foundation stone. Maharashtra has lost a huge investment and employment opportunity," he said.

The Congress, too, slammed the state government asking whether it was working as an agent of Gujarat. "Maharashtra's industries are being sent to Gujarat to reduce the importance of Mumbai and the state. The Shinde-Fadnavis government has become an agent of Gujarat and sending projects

"The people of Maharashtra have to pay the price for partisan politics of the BJP. Why is it that all big projects, for which Maharashtra was a contender, have gone to Gujarat in a short span of three to four months?' former Industries Minister and Shiv Sena leader Subhash Desai said.

Maharashtra govt fears blowback over 'lost' project

SHUBHANGI KHAPRE MUMBAI, OCTOBER 28

FOUR MONTHS and four "lost" projects. While the BJP-Shinde Sena Maharashtra government is trying to put up a brave face, the announcement of yet another mega investment that was expected to come up in the state moving to Gujarat is weighing heavy on it. Worse, the hands of Chief Minister Eknath Shinde and his deputy, Devendra Fadnavis, are tied as the BIP is in power in both the states.

That leaves the Maharashtra government with no one to blame, and without an answer to the charge that the Centre is directing the investments to the neighbouring state ahead of elections there.

On Thursday, as news came of the Tata-Airbus transport aircraft project also going Gujarat's way - after the Vedanta-Foxconn and bulk drug park deals - the Opposition launched an offensive on the Shinde government.

The Defence Ministry announced the Tata-Airbus project worth Rs 22,000 crore on Thursday, to come up in Vadodara, under which a military plane will be produced in India for the first time by a private company, in a big boost to the domestic aerospace sector, Prime Minister Narendra Modi will lay the foundation stone on Sunday.

The workers of the BJP and Shinde Sena are worried that the first repercussions of Gujarat gaining at Maharashtra's expense will be felt by them in the coming civic polls, and would also haunt them in the 2024 Assembly and Lok Sabha elections.

Politics in Maharashtra has long centred on regional pride, with Guiaratis, who are seen to control businesses in the commercial hub of Mumbai, often painted as "outsiders".

Aminister in the Shinde faction said, "Everybody Maharashtra is losing out to Gujarat because of Assembly polls in Gujarat. But the question is how are we going to explain the same. What will we tell youths in our constituencies looking for jobs?... The sense that Maharashtra is getting secondary treatment in BJP rule will adversely affect our support base in our constituencies."

Insiders in the BJP admitted that they are counting on the $Centre\,making\,up\,to\,Maharashtra$ for the lost projects soon. "Damage control will be undertaken to wipe out the injustice to Maharashtra," a party leader said.

THE POLITICAL heat and dust is set to rise in Himachal Pradesh with BJP's star campaigners hitting the campaign trail on October 30 when the ruling party has planned simultaneous rallies in all 68 Assembly constituencies as part of its Vijay Sankalp Abhiyan.

As per party officials, at least five Union ministers, three chief ministers, and four state ministers will be among some 30 key leaders who primarily began following the decision to not give tickets to 11 MLAs and field several new faces.

All eyes will be fixed on the back to back rallies that BJP national president J P Nadda will be holding in Lahaul-Spiti, Kullu, and Manali. Kullu has emerged as point of internal conflict in BJP where erstwhile ruler Maheshwar Singh is yet to withdraw his nomination as an independent candidate. Maheshwar was denied a ticket at the last minute after his son filed nomination as an Independent candidate from Banjar, On Thursday, Maheshwar announced he did not want to take the party on, but added that "if my supporters still insist, only then will I contest as an Independent".

is even expected to campaign for Mahendrasinh, if the latter were to contest the elections. Congress sources say there is a good chance he will. "His former constituency of Bayad can be considered for Mahendrasinh's ticket. Other options include Dehgam, Abdasa or even Gandhinagar," said a source. Mahendrasinh, 58, who describes himself as a "farmer and a social worker" is the eldest of Shankersinh's three children. The family runs the Shankersinh Vaghela Bapu Charitable Trust that owns the Bapu Gujarat Knowledge Village, an educational campus in Gandhinagar, of which Shankersinh is the chairman and managing trustee, and Mahendrasinh a trustee.

In 2017, Ahmed Patel won by a whisker in a closely fought election, where, pitted against him was former Congress Assembly whip Balwantsinh Rajput, another of the 14 MLAs who followed Vaghela out of the Congress. Rajput, who is now in the BJP, remains connected to the Vaghelas, as his son is married to Mahendrasinh joined the BJP in July 2018, but quit in October the same year. Overshadowed by his veteran RSS-rooted father, who had split the state BJP in 1996 to launch his own party to become CM, Mahendrasinh contested his first Assembly poll in 2002, from Sami in Patan district, losing to the BJP. Congress was then fighting the elections under the leadership of Shankersinh, after his Rashtriya Janata Party (RJP) merged with it.

When in BJP, Mahendrasinh was hardly seen or heard, perhaps because he is known to be "soft-spoken" and to keep a low profile. But on Friday, he said, "I have neither gone to any BJP event." He added he was always with the Congress in his "mind".

THE ELECTION Commission on Friday sent a notice to Telangana Energy Minister G Jagadish Reddy for violating the model code of conduct by asking voters in the Munugode Assembly seat to support Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao if they wanted welfare schemes to continue, or support Prime Minister Narendra Modi if they did not. The EC asked Reddy to re-

The EC said it had received a complaint on Wednesday from BIP leader Kapilavai Dileep Kumar alleging that Reddy made a speech on Tuesday that all welfare schemes would be stopped if voters did not choose the TRS candidate for

A message from Twitter read that the tweet had violated its rules. The action had come after the National Commission for Protection of Child Rights issued a notice to Twitter India, asking the social media platform to remove the tweet which reveals the identity of rape victim.

In December 2021, Rahul had written to the platform's then CEO Parag Agrawal, claiming that his follower count on the platform has not increased since his account was temporarily suspended in August. And he alleged that Twitter is perhaps unwittingly complicit in "curbing free and fair speech" in India.

Gandhi, in a letter dated December 27, 2021, asked Twitter not to become a "pawn in the deguing that it has an "enormous responsibility to ensure that it does not actively help in the growth of authoritarianism in India". Asserting that the ideological battle between liberal democracy and authoritarianism across the world is being shaped on social media platforms, he had said: "This places a huge responsibility on those that are at the helm of companies such as Twitter... I want to bring your attention to what I believe is Twitter's unwitting complicity in curbing free and fair speech in India.'

"There is an ongoing assault on India's institutional framework and a complete capture of traditional mainstream media" which has been "discussed extensively both in India and abroad... Hence, social media platforms like Twitter have become an important channel to raise people's issues and hold the Government to account. Since August 2021, the average number of my new monthly Twitter followers has fallen to nearly zero. There is an inflection point after which my Twitter account seems to have been paralysed," the former Congress president had written.

Gandhi had also attached analysis by "social media experts." He had said it was during that time he had "raised the plight of a rape victim's family in Delhi, stood in solidarity with farmers and fought the government on many other human rights issues". "I have been reliably, albeit discreetly, informed by people at Twitter India that they are under immense pressure by the government to silence my voice. My account was even blocked for a few days for no legitimate reason. There were many other Twitter handles, including government ones, which had tweeted similar photos of the same people. None of these accounts were blocked. My account was singularly targeted," he had said.

Gujjar, Bakerwal leaders form joint panel, plan to resist 'dilution of ST status'

Srinagar: Several organisations representing the tribal Gujjar and Bakerwal communities in Kashmir have on Friday announced the formation of a Gujjar Bakerwal Joint Action Committee (GBIAC). The committee said that a "tribal bachao march" will be held across Jammu and Kashmir with the aim of spreading awareness regarding "the dilution of Scheduled Tribes status".

This comes after Union Home Minister Amit Shah said earlier this month that Paharis in Jammu and Kashmir would get reservations as a Scheduled Tribe on the lines of Guijars and Bakerwals.

Terming the extension of this reservation "a historic blunder", the committee said that if "upper castes" are granted the Scheduled Tribe status, it would defeat the purpose of reservation envisaged in Constitution.

advance toward the Second Centenary Goal. Over the past decade, China has experienced three major events of great immediate importance and profound historical significance for the cause of the Party and the people: We embraced the centenary of the CPC; we ushered in a new era of socialism with Chinese characteristics; and we eradicated future, and create a new form of human

Standing on the New Era, the central task of the CPC will be to lead the Chinese people of all ethnic groups in a concerted effort to realize the second centenary goal of building China into a great modern socialist country in all respects and to advance the rejuvenation of the Chinese nation on all fronts through a Chinese path to modernization.

Chinese-style modernization is the socialist modernization led by the CPC and contains elements that are common to the modernization processes of all countries, but it is more characterized by features that are unique to the Chinese context. It is the modernization of a huge population, the modernization of common prosperity for all, the modernization of material and cultural - ethical advancement, the modernization of harmony between humanity and nature, and the modernization of peaceful development.

Gangrape charge: chief secretary of Andamans for 8 hrs

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA PORT BLAIR OCTOBER 28

A SPECIAL Investigation Team (SIT) of the police on Friday questioned former chief secretary of Andaman and Nicobar Islands Jitendra Narain for more than eight hours here in connection with the alleged gangrape of a woman, an official said

The SIT was constituted to probe into allegations that a 21year-old woman in Andaman and Nicobar Islands was lured to the chief secretary's residence with the promise of a government job and then raped by top officials, including Narain and Labour Commissioner R L Rishi.

(On October 27, The Indian Express had reported that probing the allegations against Narain and Rishi, the SIT has found evidence and recorded key witness statements pointing to an alleged jobfor-sex racket. As part of this, more than 20 women are alleged to have been taken to Narain's residence in Port Blair during his yearlong tenure and some of them are said to have got jobs in lieu of being sexually exploited, investigators have been told.)

A police inspector and a hotel owner were also named in the FIR, Aberdeen police station in Port Blair on October 1, as accomplices in the crime. The police inspector was also questioned by the SIT on Friday.

Earlier in the day, Narain was brought to the Police Lines for questioning, an official said. He was taken inside the Police Lines through a rear door to avoid protesters. He left the premises using the same door after sunset.

There is a possibility that Narain, who arrived here following a Calcutta High Court order, will be questioned again on Saturday, according to a source.

A vacation bench of the Calcutta High Court comprising justices Bibek Chaudhuri and Prasenjit Biswas has granted interim protection against arrest to Narain till a date that will be fixed by the circuit bench in Port Blair on November 14, on its first date of sitting after the Durga Puia vacation.

The FIR, which was lodged following the woman's August 22 complaint to the DGP, was registered when Narain was posted as the chairman and managing director of the Delhi Financial Corporation. The government suspended him on October 17 with immediate effect.

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

LACK OF infrastructure development in Jammu and Kashmir for decades post-Independence was one of the reasons behind the rise of terrorism in the Union Territory, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh said Friday after unveiling 75 new projects including bridges, roads and helipads in border areas.

Singh dedicated the projects costing Rs 2,180 crore and spread across six border states and two Union Territories at a function held at eastern Ladakh's strategic Darbuk-Shyok-Daulat Beg Oldi (DS-DBO) road that provides connectivity to the India's northernmost outpost of Daulat Beg Oldi.

The highlight of the event was the onsite unveiling of 120-metre-long 'class-70 Shyok Setu' on the DS-DBO road at an altitude 14,000 feet and virtual inauguration of two helipads, one each in Hanle and Thakung, in eastern Ladakh, the defence ministry said.

The bridge will be of strategic importance as it will facilitate logistics movement of armed forces. Other projects inaugurated virtually by Singh included two helipads, one each in Hanle and Thakung, in eastern Ladakh, it said. These helipads will enhance the operational capabilities of the Indian Air Force in the region.

The 75 projects implemented by the Border Roads Organisation (BRO) included 45 bridges, 27 roads, two helipads and one 'Carbon Neutral Habitat'.

Twenty of the projects are in Jammu and Kashmir, 18 each in Ladakh and Arunachal Pradesh, apparent reference to Indian military's response to Chinese PLA's aggressive behaviour in eastern Ladakh. He termed the new 75 projects as a testament to that "resolve" and said that these bridges. roads and helipads will facilitate military and civil transport in farflung areas of the western, northern and north-eastern parts of the country, forming a part of the "de-will be connected with the rest of the country soon and "...BRO has a crucial role in achieving this objective".The BRO's first Carbon Neutral Habitat at a height of 19,000 feet for its personnel was also inaugurated at Hanle.

Singh also laid the foundation stone of Himank Air Despatch Complex being constructed in Chandigarh and a BRO Museum at Leh. With the onset of winter, once the passes close due to heavy snowfall, BRO extensively utilises air effort for movement of men. machinery and material to farflung areas. The existing air despatch sub-unit located at Chandigarh is being upgraded for providing comfort to transiting troops and to ensure efficient and uninterrupted delivery of essential equipment, the ministry said.

To honour sacrifices of its personnel and put on record achievements of BRO, a museum at Leh is being set up, the ministry said.

This museum building will also be constructed using 3D Printing Technology and on completion, will become the world's highest 3D Printed Building," it said.

KERALA GOLD SMUGGLING CASE

State trying to derail probe since role of CM's principal secy surfaced: ED in SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

THE ENFORCEMENT Directorate probing money laundering allegations in connection with the Kerala gold smuggling case has told the Supreme Court that the state machinery turned against it after the role of Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan's "Principal Secretary was detected".

In a rejoinder affidavit filed in the top court, the agency said that even though a letter was sent by the CM of Kerala to the PM" seeking probe when the scandal broke, but "when the role of his own then Principal Secretary was detected, the state machinery turned against it and registered false cases by influencing the accused and making efforts to derail the investigation and trial". It added that one of the key accused. who was then the Principal Secretary, is "continuing in a key high ranking position in the government of Kerala even today".

The ED has approached the SC seeking transfer of the trial in the case from Kerala to Karnataka stating that the "local police and state government machinery are trying to manipulate and influence the accused and witnesses".

Opposing the request, the state in an affidavit said the trial in the scheduled offence in connection with the scandal is pending trial in Kerala and the ED is seeking transfer of the money laundering case which is an offshoot of the scheduled offence "with ulterior of Kerala by raising baseless allegations and averments that fair trial is not possible in Kerala"

The state also contended that transferring the trial would cast aspersions on the independence of the judiciary. Countering this, the ED said that "attempts of the state of Kerala to pressurise, intimidate and influence the accused/witness are continuing".

The agency said that the state in its application seeking impleadment in the case had said that a statement made by accused Swapna Suresh before a magistrate's court under Section 164 "was enough to cause widespread riots in the State of Kerala". It added this makes it "evident...that the atmosphere in the state...is so charged in relation to this case that a free, fair, tranquil and independent trial free from external and extraneous influence would be al $most\,impossible", the\,ED\,added.$

The ED pointed out that the state police had registered two separate FIRs against Swapna Suresh... "these FIRs...have been registered as a counter-blast" to the statement made by the accused woman. Besides, the state had also constituted a commission to inquiry into the correctness of its probe under the PMLA.

"The constitution of the Commission of Inquiry is an instance of the continuous abuse of state machinery to impede prosecution. Such abuse in some form is continuing and hence the basis for seeking transfer continues to exist." the ED said

COIMBATORE CAR BLAST

It was a terror attack, state govt was not prompt in roping in NIA: TN Governor

ARUN JANARDHANAN

AMID THE ongoing war of words between the ruling DMK and the BJP state chief K Annamalai over the October 23 Coimbatore car blast probe handling, Tamil Nadu Governor R N Ravi on Friday appreciated the police efficacy but criticised the government for delay in roping in the National Investigation Agency (NIA)

Speaking at an event in Coimbatore, the Governor said the materials used in the blast and those recovered during the probe. including "IED-making chemicals and ingredients" suggest that the incident was a terror attack.

Ravi also praised the Tamil Nadu Police for their efficient probe after the blast, but said there was a delay on the part of the state government in handing over the case to the NIA. Stating that political parties should not be softpedalling on terror-related incidents and underlining the need for better coordination between all state and Central agencies, Ravi said "Coimbatore is a known place for hatching terror modules".

"Within hours of the attack it was clear that it was a terror attack. The materials used indicated a larger conspiracy. I credit the Tamil Nadu Police," he said, adding that they are the most efficient police force in the country. "But the question is when they cracked the case within hours, why did they take four days to bring in the NIA? Time is very important in terror attacks. They [terrorists lare enemies of humanity. The Tamil Nadu Police did an excellent job. But it is also an instrument... it cannot ask the NIA to come in... those who were supposed to take that call took four days to do that," Ravi said, recalling that Tamil Nadu police provided the best information about the Popular Front of India (PFI) when he was the deputy national security adviser. "Here, the law enforcement agency should be given a free hand. We cannot go soft on terrorism. Those who try to sabotage the progress of the country will not succeed. So, my appeal is not to go soft on them. We must be one, clear-headed, decisive, and tough in our words and actions (against terrorism)," he said. In response to Ravi's charges against the state government for delay in roping in the NIA, senior DMK leader and Industries Minister Thangam Thennarasu said each and every stage of the probe by the state police was being shared with NIA and Central intelligence agencies. Reminding that Jamesha Mubin (29), who was killed in the car blast, was guestioned by the NIA in 2019, Thennarasu said the state government did not know why he was let off. "We do not have details of that. The NIA officials may be knowing it better," he said.

Governor Ravi praised police efficacy in handling the case

Thennarasu also cited several examples of similar blasts and the time taken for the NIA to take over the probe—from a week to four months.

He said the Chief Minister MK Stalin was not only monitoring the probe but was also personally involved in measures taken to ensure a peaceful, safe and incidentfree Diwali in Coimbatore and other parts of the state.

TN Health Minister turns up as surprise guest, gifts couple govt jobs

ARUN JANARDHANAN CHENNAI, OCTOBER 28

Subramanian turned up as a surprise guest at the wedding ceremony of two inmates of the Institute of Mental Health (IMH) at a temple in Chennai on Friday and offered the newlyweds permanent government jobs as gift. The Indian Express on Wednesday reported about the wedding of IMH inmates Deepa and P Mahendran - first such event in the 228-year history of the institute. Besides Subramanian, another cabinet minister Sekar Babu, and former Union minister Dayanidhi Maran were among those who attended the wedding. Speaking at the wedding re-without an invitation. "As a politician, I get a lot of invitations. Even today, I came here after attending two weddings. But this is going to be one of the two most memorable weddings I ever attended," he said, referring to another wedding at a Narikkuravar hamlet near Chennai four months ago.

"I didn't receive an invitation here; neither the IMH director nor the bride or groom did invite me. However, I chose to come because I knew it was significant and remarkable," he said, while announcing the wedding gift for the couple - permanent government jobs as ward managers at the IMH. "They will get a salary wish to keep serving the institute and the inmates there," he said. Medical Education director

Narayana Babu, who also attended the event, said IMH always focuses on rehabilitation along with the treatment.

IMH Director Poorna Chandrika said relatives of Deepa and Mahendran also attended the ceremony. "There are many inmates like them who have no home to return to after they complete the treatment. So, Mahendran's uncle and another relative attending the wedding means a lot for the couple. After all, even a slight assurance from the family matters a lot in ordinary lives," she said.

"We did not plan it as a big event. But when ministers and senior officials turned up without even a protocol invitation, it had become an official event. We thank everyone," she said.

GOD AS CURRENCY

AAP may think divinity on rupee notes is a clever move to outsmart the BJP — but it's also too clever by half

T FIRST LOOK, and some would aver, at second look too, Arvind Kejriwal's latest intervention invokes the theatre of the absurd. The Delhi chief minister and AAP chief has, in a letter, requested Prime Minister Narendra Modi to include pictures of Hindu gods, Lakshmi and Ganesh, on currency notes, for the sake of the nation's economic prosperity. In his leap of faith in favour of divine intervention, Kejriwal looks like an actor who is letting his performance become his caricature. After all, the AAP's meteoric rise in successive elections in Delhi and more recently in Punjab has been on the back of its promise of change from a discredited status quo. It has loudly projected itself as a political alternative, a harbinger of change. But here it is now, wearing its religiosity on its sleeve like the BJP, speaking lines that might have been written by the BJP too. And yet, look again at the AAP's recent moves and you might also see an actor struggling to carve out space for itself on a narrowing stage. At a time when the dominant player has successfully set a trap for its Opposition — you are with "Hindus" or against them - Kejriwal's party is trying to weave its way around and up, without falling into it.

The BJP is not just winning successive elections at the Centre and in the states, its dominance also appears to draw upon and to confirm a shift of the centre of political gravity. The party's multi-pronged political pitch includes an assertion — that it alone is the voice of Hindutva. Many of the AAP's manoeuvres – from Kejriwal reciting the Hanuman Chalisa to his government's subsidy to pilgrims in Delhi, to his party's promise to sponsor free trips to Ayodhya in Gujarat — are attempts to challenge the BJP's monopoly on this count. That is, the AAP seems to be reclaiming religion, or at least challenging the BJP's sole proprietorship of it. It is doing so to win, of course. But in its best version, also to reconstitute public religiosity in ways that blunt the anti-minority edge lent to it by the BJP. This attempt enlivens an Opposition space that has seemed to be subdued and sagging under the weight of complacency and entitlement, and a lack of imagination in times of BJP dominance.

But the AAP's strategy, even in its best version, is fraught with risks. One, given that the space on a party's manifesto is not unlimited, its moves on religion and nationalism could crowd out other initiatives that have underscored its success so far — its perceived diligence on bijli-paani-padhai issues, and attention to health care. Two, invoking faith is a $slippery\, slope-there\, is\, always\, a\, danger\, of\, backsliding.\, And\, finally, as\, much\, as\, the\, AAP's$ moves enliven the non-BJP space, they also speak of a depletion of its possibilities — the dwindling of a challenge to the BJP that does not adopt the BJP's idiom, one that finds a political language of its own.

CLOSING THE GAP

BCCI's pay equity policy is an important first step. More measures are needed, on and off the cricket field

N THURSDAY, THE Board of Control for Cricket in India took a historic step towards reducing the gender pay gap in cricket. Under the "pay equity policy" centrally contracted players, men and women both, will now receive the same match fees. Women players who till now were paid Rs 1 lakh for a white-ball match and Rs 4 lakh for a Test match, will now be paid Rs 15 lakh for a Test, Rs 6 lakh for a one-dayer and Rs 3 lakh for a T20 international. While this is a significant move towards bridging the gender pay gap in the profession, it is only when women players start playing more matches across all formats internationally that equal match fee will actually lead to pay parity in the truest sense. The BCCI, whose mandate is to promote the game, must now push for more matches - only then will this move go beyond performative tokenism. In fact, it is the other announcement — of a women's IPL — that could translate to more far-reaching changes on the ground.

Unfortunately, the gender divide is not just limited to the cricket field. Women's labour force participation rate is considerably lower than that of men, and as studies have documented, there is a gender wage gap across occupations and industries. On this issue, India fares poorly when compared to other countries, even those at similar or lower levels of income. According to the World Economic Forum's Global Gender Gap report 2022, India ranked 135 out of 146 countries on the gender gap index, with the country faring poorly on economic participation and opportunity. Data presented in the report shows that there are few firms with majority female ownership and where women are employed as top managers. As per the International Labour Organisation's Global Wage Report 2018-19, the mean gender pay gap (based on hourly wages) in India was 34.5 per cent. This wage gap was the highest amongst the 73 countries with varying levels of per capita income examined in the report.

Indian governments have over the years taken steps to ensure wage parity, beginning with the Equal Remuneration Act. Yet gender wage gaps exist in both formal and informal labour market segments, and in this, societal prejudices play an important role. Given that gender-based discrimination is an important aspect of socio-economic inequalities, policy interventions must be guided by the urgency to reduce inequalities and expand opportunities for all, on and off the cricket field.

GOOD NEWS OR ELSE

Chinese officials are hectoring newlyweds to have babies. The party-state is intruding where families annoyingly barge in T'S AN OBSERVATION that's a joke that's a cliché: "Koi... good news?" Newlyweds across languages, cultures and geographies have been subjected to a version of this euphemism even before the honeymoon glow wears off. Now, as if the "nudgenudge wink-wink" pressure of the overbearing family wasn't bad enough, the paternal party-state in Xi Jinping's China has decided to take on the role. It is making calls to young couples, and strongly suggesting that they urgently reproduce.

Chinese social media has been replete with posts — they are often quickly taken down, though — of local government officials calling up women soon after their nuptials. Unlike the nosy in-law, though, the bureaucrat is direct: "Are you pregnant yet?" was reportedly the most common question. The pressure to reproduce seems to be a top-down phenomenon. At the recently concluded 20th Congress of the Chinese Communist Party, Xi declared that there would be a concerted effort by the state to boost birth rates. That, it is likely, explains the top-down obsession with babies.

The fact remains that China's one-child policy — in force from 1980 to 2015 — has had profound social and economic consequences. The set-up of the family, and the burden of care for the elderly threatens to overwhelm both individuals and the state's coffers. Now, in a bid to boost the young, working population, the state is promoting "masculine values" for men and exhorting the "traditional" responsibilities of women. In all this, no one seems to spare a thought for the ordinary Chinese couple. Their lives and choices seem to be in service to the ephemeral and changing goals of an ideological machine. Most people in India can attest to how intimately oppressive families can be. Imagine if the almighty state, too, tried to enter — and control — the most private

Don't rely on auctions alone

They have had the unintended effect of unsold spectrum and lost revenue. A new path is needed

Rajat Kathuria and Isha Suri

ON SEPTEMBER 22, the government released the draft Indian Telecommunication Bill, 2022 seeking to replace the colonial era Indian Telegraph Act, 1885. The draft bill compares spectrum to aatma: "In a way, spectrum is similar to aatma, which is ajar, amar as described in Shrimad Bhagwad Gita. Like aatma, spectrum too does not have any physical form, yet it is omnipresent." And yet there is one immutable difference in this material world. While the value of aatma is inestimable, spectrum has always had a banal price tag associated with it.

It is widely acknowledged that spectrum policy in India has had ups and downs, regretfully more downs than ups. It has for the most part failed to capitalise on the ubiquity of the electromagnetic spectrum to provide meaningful connectivity to all citizens. Despite the recognised failure, we boast of a billion plus mobile subscribers, 800 million internet users and host the second-largest telecommunications network in the world. We wonder what might have been achieved with a more reasonable and transparent spectrum policy.

How we got here is a depressing mix of operator and political greed that is best consigned to history. The intent of the draft bill is to correct past sins so that the benefits of spectrum and technology are better shared, and the quality of access improved for everybody. In other words, since effective access to spectrum has remained a significant barrier to facilitating meaningful connectivity for Indians, we critically examine the role envisaged for spectrum policy in the draft bill, especially with regard to bridging digital divides.

The draft bill rightly refers to the spectrum as having the characteristics of a public good. It is also an inexhaustible resource. But while spectrum per se is not depletable, there are technical limitations to its optimum utilisation at a given point in time. Consequently, it is viewed as a scarce natural resource and what's more, expensive auctions have made the spectrum dear and arguably exclusionary.

Since 2010, the government has consistently used auctions for spectrum allocation and in only one of the seven auctions held since then, the government was successful in selling 100 per cent of the available spectrum. One reason for this lukewarm recost of spectrum acquisition. According to one estimate, at 7.6 per cent of their aggregate revenue, spectrum cost in India is amongst the most expensive in the world. Since network operators incur a significantly higher cost for spectrum compared to other emerging markets, the ability to invest in network upgradation and infrastructure is severely impacted, resulting in uneven distribution of service and poor quality to boot. Due to the high reserve price, the most recent auction witnessed spectrum being sold at the "reserve price", effectively rendering the basis of an auction moot. If almost all spectrum was sold at its reserve price, and a significant amount goes unsold, it implies that the price was too high, to begin with. It also implies a loss of revenue for the government for spectrum unsold is spectrum squandered. And finally, it results in areas being underserved or unserved affecting quality and quantity.

sponse, barring the 2010 auction, is the high

It must be recognised that the spectrum needs to be combined with other infrastructure to enable service delivery. And one must bear in mind that the cost of deploying other infrastructure in remote areas is nearly twice as much, while revenue opportunities are far lower, damaging if not destroying the prospects of rural businesses. Plugging the digital divide, therefore, needs a fresh

Since licences and spectrum are typically assigned for service areas that are, for the most part, identified by state boundaries, the cost of spectrum in Lucknow is the same as for Dadri, for Bengaluru the same as for Ramanagara and so on. Since operators predominantly cater to urban markets, the spectrum in remote areas remains under- or in places un-utilised due to a lack of investment in allied infrastructure. The draft bill incorporates practical provisions on the spectrum such as use it, share it, or lose it – an awaited policy that, however, needs innovative support to be successful. The idea of "niche operators" providing services including to telecom operators and manufacturers. introduced in 2005, needs revival in this regard. If licensed operators are unable to utilise the assigned spectrum, the same could be given to local entrepreneurs who understand the needs of rural customers and are better placed to develop a more effective business case more quickly than the larger telcos. Active promotion of the idea of niche operators might just jolt operators out of their lethargy towards rural services. Alternatively, the government may want to explore innovative methods of spectrum access such as a non-competitive licensing framework for certain specific use cases. Canada, for instance, has initiated consultations on a non-competitive local licensing framework in the 3900-3980 MHz Band and portions of the 26, 28 and 38 GHz bands to inter alia facilitate broadband connectivity in rural areas.

The reset of the dated Indian Telegraph Act is opportune and the good news is that the draft bill recognises the dangers of addiction to an auction regime. The cost of "transparency" induced by auctions since 2010 has been unsold spectrum, lost revenue, and deferring of the rural digital ecosystem. It is perhaps better to supplement auctions by "administrative allocation, and any other manner as may be prescribed" as stated in the bill in the short-term and eventually do away with auctions altogether. During the transition, the government should build an ecosystem that inspires trust so that transparency in assignment can be secured at a reasonable price for operators with strict service obligations without the phantasm of auctions.

At the same time, there should be no unsold spectrum. Niche operators should be invoked to engender competition, and government could yet collect revenue for itself. The basis for these proposals is that telecom is no longer an end in itself. It exists for user industries much more than ever before. The spillover benefits are far greater than what the sector commands within. Thus, to state the obvious, the vision that is "Digital India" can never be realised if affordable broadband connectivity remains only within the reach of a few. Just like it is crass to try and price aatma, it is unwise for the government to use auctions for direct revenue generation.

I played only for love of the game. Fortunately, for women cricketers, that's changing

Shantha Rangaswamy

INMY 21-year-long international career spanning from 1973 to 1994, I never made a single penny. It has been a long fight, and I think October 27, 2022, will be remembered as a momentous day for Indian women's cricket. After all, this year, India's centrally-contracted women cricketers will finally earn the same match fees as their male counterparts for appearances in international matches. This is a watershed decision taken by the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI).

I always maintained that women's cricketers have a greater passion for the game than men. We played for the sheer love of the game because we never made money. We always depended on our families to support us. For us, it was never a profession.

As a former India captain, I am absolutely thrilled because we started playing cricket 50-60 years after England and Australia. And we are only the second country after New Zealand to have pay parity, which took this initiative in July.

This is just the first step. I feel a lot more areas are yet to be covered. We need to increase the match fees in domestic cricket so a larger section of women cricketers are remunerated fairly. Currently, pay parity benefits the elite 20-25 contracted players. In fact, at the BCCI apex council meeting held on October 27, I raised this issue. I am sure the board will take the necessary action in

Yes, we don't play much cricket compared to the men's team. It is also true that we don't play too many Test matches in women's cricket. As I understand it, the BCCI are in agreement with both Cricket Australia and England Cricket Board that whenever our team goes there or they come here, we'll have at least one Test match.

BCCI President Roger Binny and Secretary Jay Shah told me, "Shantha, let's do this in stages". They have to provide funds; they will have to find the budget. If the board does that, it would be a massive step.

It has been a remarkable few months for Indian women's cricket. We won silver at the Birmingham Commonwealth Games, we routed the English team in the ODIs. Then, the board announced the much-awaited Women's Indian Premier League (WIPL), which will take place next year.

In my opinion, the WIPL will benefit a larger pool of cricketers because at least 50 domestic players will play in that tournament. So, the benefits will accrue to more domestic cricketers and not only to those who play for India

As far as the BCCI's annual retainers for women players go, it is nothing in comparison to the male cricketers. Virat Kohli is taking home Rs 7 crore, while the likes of Harmanpreet Kaur and Smriti Mandhana get

The board has taken a positive step, and let's just appreciate it because it is the thought that counts — they want to take women's cricket to greater heights. All of us should join hands and appreciate the gesture.

Yes, we don't play much cricket compared to the men's team. It is also true that we don't play too many Test matches in women's cricket. As I understand it, the BCCI are in agreement with both Cricket Australia and England Cricket Board that whenever our team goes there or they come here, we'll have at least one Test match.

Before we talk about Test cricket, we must resume start our multi-day format matches in the domestic circuit.

I think we should re-introduce the longer format because that is where our players can hone their technical skills. In the shorter formats, you tend to develop some errors in your technique. I think we should encourage young women cricketers to play multi-day format, especially in the Under-19 age group.

The BCCI has taken some positive steps: It has restarted the inter-zonal for the seniors in both ODIs and T20Is. It started the U-15 segment, which would set the base for tomorrow's stars. With this increase in match fees, there will also be more competition. A 12-13vear-old kid will start thinking of the sport as a profession. There will be more cricket academies for girls in the country. Parents will not hesitate to let their daughters play cricket. Little things matter in the long term.

It has certainly been a long journey but I can say that this a new dawn in Indian women's cricket.

Baroda claimed the lives of five citizens, leaving 23 injured. The Army has been patrolling the riot-torn city. The gaiety of the last 10 days during the Navaratri Puja festival dampened as the city was put under indefinite curfew. According to information available, two buildings and three shops were set ablaze.

He was defending the emergency clamped by Jayewardene at the end of the polling.

The Niemann-Carlsen cheating controversy in chess has revealed how technology helps players game the system — and also catch those who do so

By Menaka Guruswamy

FROM THE COLD War onwards, the world of professional chess has been replete with intrigue and political symbolism. Far from two nerds hunched over a board with 64 squares, chess in the pandemic era is played online or in person at glamorous locations, including beaches, at tournaments with substantial prize money and with champions trained by human coaches and computer programmes. A few weeks ago, the chess world was taken by storm when the 19-year-old US Grandmaster Hans Moke Niemann sued his rival Magnus Carlsen for defamation asking for $100 million.

What was the alleged defamatory statement? The controversy arose when Niemann beat the five-time world chess champion Carlsen in September of this year at a major tournament in St Louis, United States. By doing so, he may be the catalyst for either the reform or ruin of professional chess. In any case, Carlsen withdrew from the tournament shortly after the loss and made a cryptic statement that seemed to allude to cheating by Niemann. Since then, Carlsen has spoken more elaborately on why he thinks Niemann cheated. He also refused to play him in subsequent tournaments. On October 7, 2022, the Wall Street Journal (WSJ) broke a long story about the cheating controversy that now includes Niemann, Carlsen, and Chess.com (the world's most popular online chess site with millions of players).

Carlsen and Niemann couldn't be more different in terms of personalities and the worlds they come from. The 31-year-old Carlsen, a Norwegian, is arguably a triumph of the Nordic school of social democracy. With a prodigious memory since he was little, he was introduced to chess at the age of five by his father and supported by a tightlyknit family. He became a Grandmaster when he was 13 years old. As a child, he was initially trained at the Norwegian College of Elite Sports by Norway's top player, the Grandmaster Simen Agdestein, and other prominent national players. He played in the junior sections of national tournaments and developed his game.

Polite, well-mannered, widely-read and an avid skier, Carlsen reminds me of Roger Federer. He lived in his parents' basement for many years even after he became the top-ranked player in the world. In 2013, Carlsen defeated Vishwanathan Anand to become the world chess champion. He has been the World Champion, the World Rapid Chess Champion and the World Blitz Chess Champion simultaneously twice – showing his command over all forms of the game.

Norway follows a model of social democracy that emphasises state-funded healthcare and a strong public education system in tandem with high taxation rates. This is different from American free-market capitalism, comprising expensive private health care, elite prep schools amid poorly-funded public education, and comparatively lower rates of taxation. Both countries illustrate two starkly different versions of democracy.

The 19-year-old Niemann is more like John McEnroe - temperamental and unpredictable. Born in San Francisco, Niemann has lived by himself in a small studio apartment in New York since the age of 13. He taught chess at elite prep schools to earn a living and fund the travel necessary to play competitive chess.

Niemann travelled to tournaments by himself from his early teens. He became a Grandmaster at the relatively late age of 18 and is ranked number 42 in the world. His story is one of a scrappy and determined young man who has fought his way into the elite and rarified world of professional chess with relatively little state support.

Allegations of cheating have long dogged professional chess. ESPN.com reminds us of the 1978 World Chess Championships, when the Russian Anatoly Karpov was playing Viktor Korchnoi for the title. Korchnoi, who had fled the Soviet Union in 1976, accused a Karpov teammate of trying to hypnotise him, and so wore sunglasses throughout.

For those who don't follow today's world of professional chess closely, let me set out the lay of the land. Chess is played in person and online. If anything, the pandemic further fuelled the growth of online games and competitions. The financials of chess have also changed. For instance, Carlsen has an app called Play Magnus which is valued at $83 million and is in the process of being bought by the most important playing arena in the world — Chess.com.

How does one cheat in chess? By using apps or software on a laptop or smartphone that analyse the game and suggest the best possible move. Typically in in-person games, cheats have been found hiding their smartphones in the toilet. Other techniques include different coloured cups being sent over by teammates and coaches - red. for instance, indicating one type of move with a piece. During the Cold War, cheating took the form of players from the same country entering into draws or wins or losses against each other to aid each other's progress. Today's blend of online chess and the presence of chess programmes on phones and computers make for ideal conditions to cheat. The Niemann-Carlsen cheating controversy is an example of what cheating may look like in today's chess world.

The WSJ reported that when Chess.com conducted an investigation they found that Niemann had likely cheated in more than 100 online games and when confronted in 2020, he admitted to this and hence his account was banned from the site. The report of the investigation conducted by Chess.com is available on the site and is a great read for the insights it provides into how to catch cheats and how the game has shape-shifted in the online era. The most important takeaway from the report: While machines are used to cheat, machines also catch cheaters.

What do investigators look for to discern patterns that suggest cheating? They may compare the moves made to enginerecommended moves. Additionally, they compare a player's past performance and known strength profile. Alternatively, they look at behavioural factors — for instance, browser behaviour.

We have come a long way from the days of kings and their advisors playing chess against each other, while the darbar looked on. For 1,500 years, since chess originated in India, the game has changed and endured. Human beings across continents have been fascinated by chess, and have embraced it for the skills it demands and the lessons it teaches that are applicable in life. Perhaps the biggest challenge to chess has come in this time of artificial intelligence, when a simple programme on a smartphone can not only beat the best player in the world, but also aid in cheating to ensure that the best are beaten. In due course, perhaps only machines will have the integrity to play an honest game.

Taking fight to BJP

Asking for pictures of Lakshmi and Ganesh on currency notes is part of a larger Kejriwal project. For AAP, it's a long haul

Neerja Chowdhury

ITWAS A poker-faced Arvind Kejriwal who asked for the pictures of Hindu deities, Lakshmi and Ganesh, to be put on Indian currency notes — as it might improve the country's economic well-being. For some, it was a tongue-in-cheek swipe at the government for its inability to improve the health of the economy — it now needs the help of the gods. For others, it was yet another reminder of Kejriwal's Hindu credentials, which he is not shy of flaunting. After all, he had invoked Hanuman as his talisman - and even visited the famous Hanuman temple in Delhi and recited the Hanuman Chalisa – just before the 2020 elections in Delhi, which the AAP won con-

The picture of Gandhi, he wrote in the letter he sent the PM, should be left "as it is" on one side of the currency notes, with Lakshmi and Ganesh adorning the other side – a combination of Gandhi and the Kejriwal had the BJP spokespersons tied in knots. Some of them were compelled to remind him that India is a secular country! Others described his demand as a "political stunt" — that he had the Gujarat elections in mind. Which, of course, he does. And so does the BJP, which is worried about the AAP's expanding footprint. Not to be outdone, Kejriwal was quick to point out that if Lakshmi and Ganesh could garner votes, all the more reason why the BJP should go in for having them on the notes.

Kejriwal has come a long way from the activist he once was, who was awarded the Magsaysay Award in 2006 for his work in the Right to Information movement and for empowering the poor to fight corruption. When he was not such a well-known figure, an official had reportedly asked him, "Kya irada hai? Politics mein aana hai kya?"

"Of course," Kejriwal had replied unabashedly.

From the Magsaysay Award, his journey led him to steering a movement to enact a Jan Lokpal Bill for public accountability, when scams were tumbling out of the UPA's cupboards, managing to get the respected Anna Hazare to be the face of the movement in 2011, and then parting company with him to form the Aam Aadmi Party in 2012. The ugly split in the party three weeks after a stupendous 67 (out of 70) seat victory in Delĥi in 2015 seemed suicidal. But Kejriwal knew what he was doing. He knew early on, for instance, that he couldn't hope to be in electoral politics with a senior colleague in the movement (Prashant Bhushan) calling for a referendum in Jammu and Kashmir.

Over the years, he has infused new political energy into the AAP and not relied on disgruntled politicians from established parties to join him. Above all, he has ensured that the line of command in the party is clearly understood and followed - that it is his writ that runs in the AAP.

AAP today is not a movement for change – it is like any other political party. And yet, barring the Asom Gana Parishad in Assam, it is the only party in independent India which has come out of a movement and transitioned successfully into a political party - with three wins in Delhi, the state of Punjab under its belt, it is now spreading its wings in Gujarat, and eying other states

Like Modi, Kejriwal knows that the Hindus have become "Hinduised". Secularism has become synonymous with being pro-minority. And anything pro-minority is seen as anti-Hindu today. The non-BJP parties have not found a way to get around this trap that the BJP has successfully set for them. Either they resort to temple hopping or avoid taking a position on contentious issues like the abrogation of Article 370. Either way, they end up looking like the "B" team of the BJP.

Kejriwal is positioning his party as a pro-Hindu entity without being anti-Muslim — at least so far. Liberals criticised him for not visiting protest sites like Shaheen Bagh or places where demonstrations were held against the discriminatory CAA. But many Muslims from Patna to Pune will tell you, quietly, that they understand what Kejriwal is doing - trying to get the better of the BIP.

Kejriwal is also demonstrating that Hinduism — and the use of Hindu symbols as a means of communication — is not the monopoly of the BJP. Hindutva is the centrepiece of Modi's BJP, and it is topped by nationalism, social welfarism, "labharthism", the empowerment of the OBCs in particular, the most backward amongst them which is likely to be a big issue in 2024 - all led by a strong and charismatic leader who has no family in tow. Kejriwal, too, is trying to give a distinct identity to his party: A pro-Hindu outfit, that is not seen as anti-Muslim, like the BJP, with a proven record in delivering cheap bijli and paani, government school reform and free medical care. A day after he mooted the idea of Lakshmi and Ganesh on currency notes, he went to a landfill in Delhi, taking the BJP to task for the mountains of uncleared garbage and promising a clean Delhi in five years, now that elections to the unified MCD are around the

At the end of the day, all politicians are $\,$ "nautankis", some better than others. Kejriwal is among the more skilled performers, with sharp political reflexes.

With the unstemmed decline of the Congress, he is eyeing an opportunity nationally. But with an opponent like the BJP, his task is not going to be easy. Even though he is a marathon runner, it is going to be a long haul. AAP is positioning itself as a replacement for the BJP. But how different will it be from the BJP? That is a question which remains unanswered.

The view from Samarkand

Central Asia has become a battleground for US and China

Anju Gupta

THE SAMARKAND DECLARATION, describing Central Asia as the "core" of the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO), also reflects on the challenges and aspirations common to South Asia. This includes stabilising Afghanistan. The US strategy too recognises that a "secure and stable" Central Asia would contribute "directly" to the US's counterterrorism efforts and a "secure and stable" Afghanistan should be a top priority for the region. Facing serious divisions within, the Chinaled SCO does not have an ostensible anti-US tilt. However, competition between the US and China around the Indo-Pacific has eclipsed the competition - panning across an arc of Central Asia, Afghanistan and Pakistan. This "arc" is also crucial to Chinese security interests.

In Afghanistan, the Taliban is battling multiple challenges to security and stability. The killing of al Qaeda (AQ) amir Ayman al Zawahiri in a US drone strike in Kabul has created fresh doubts about the Taliban's intentions as well as capacity to go after terror networks. With the Ukraine war continuing, Russia has fewer resources to spare for security situations across Central Asia. China does not seem "ready" to provide a security umbrella to Central Asia or Afghanistan. But it is closely coordinating moves with Pakistan across this arc and beyond, where China has ambitions of becoming the pre-eminent Asiatic power and use it to weaken competition from the US across the Indian Ocean region.

However, Pakistan's forces are facing direct attacks in tribal areas, including in Peshawar and the Swat Valley that had once come under the Tehreek e Taliban Pakistan (TTP). Recently, local TTP fighters of Gilgit-Baltistan held a minister and several others hostage to negotiate the release of their fighters. The Baloch Liberation Army too is taking army personnel hostage and negotiating the release of Baloch cadres. The Taliban-mediated talks between the TTP and the Pakistan army have also failed.

In June 2021, the UN Security Council report documented the presence of 8,000 to 10,000 foreign fighters in Afghanistan, mostly affiliated with the Taliban and hailing from the north Caucasus region of Russia, Pakistan and China's Xinjiang province. The report said such groups included hundreds of fighters of the East Turkistan Islamic Movement (ETIM) and Central Asian groups such as the Islamic Movement of Uzbekistan and Islamic Jihad Union. Historically, such groups had operated freely in the tribal belt of Pakistan until the army initiated operations against them. This crackdown started with raids on Lal Masjid in Islamabad in July 2007, the trigger for which was the abduction of seven Chinese staff from a Chinese massage parlour by a "vice and virtue" group of Jamia Hafsa seminary. Since then, Chinese interests in Pakistan have often been targeted by the "bad" Taliban as well as Baloch groups, both of which have upped the ante since the Taliban takeover of Afghanistan.

Pakistan "delivered" the Taliban to the US for the Doha talks. And the Taliban used the opportunity to reach out to the larger world, including Central Asia and China. As a result, the ETIM and Central Asian terror groups seem to be maintaining tactical silence in Afghanistan. The Doha Agreement signalled that the Taliban was all set to become a part of the government. Thus, wary of the departure of US troops from Afghanistan, China started engaging deeply with the Taliban, including receiving Mullah Baradar as a state guest in July 2021. However, China's direct nfluence in Afghanistan remains limited. Meanwhile, Pakistan has continued expanding its proxy game across the arc and beyond, while using diplomacy as the perfect smokescreen, China, in alliance with Pakistan, is trying to "reverse stretch" other states in the region with proxy violence and border engagements - the belligerence on Indian borders within two months of the signing of the US-Taliban agreement in February 2020 is an example. Moreover, the rising levels of proxy violence across Af-Pak and aggressive propaganda of "new age" proxies commanded by the Pakistan deep state, among them the al Qaeda and Islamic State Khorasan Province (ISKP), are serious threats. Recently, the ISKP unleashed propaganda that hard sell "extremism" as a viable ideology and promotes lone-wolf acts of terrorism. The joint China-Pakistan moves include consistent hardening of the LAC with India and putting a technical hold on UN designations of Pakistan-backed terror operatives, including the mastermind of the Mumbai attack, Sajid Mir. The recent docking of Chinese-built Pakistani frigate PNS Taimur at the Colombo port and China's spy ship Yuan Wang 5 at Hambantota port appears to be aimed at spreading their footprints in the Indian Ocean region.

US-China competition in the region has a nuclear dimension because of the presence of three nuclear weapon states. China started helping Pakistan develop its military and nuclear muscle mainly to offset threats arising from strong Indo-Soviet cooperation. Through the Cold War decades, China and Pakistan cooperated with the West and did not attract deep "scrutiny" of their nuclear weapon programmes. While it may take China a while to build nuclear parity with the US, it has already built Pakistan as an "allweather" nuclear state. The latest "bonhomie" between the US and Pakistan appears to be a "calibrated" US response to "engage with a dangerous" Pakistan as well as to challenge Chinese moves involving Pakistan. However, unlike the on-and-off US-Pakistan engagements, China-Pakistan cooperation spans the entire gamut of security and geopolitical areas and is sustained by the supremacy of the army in Pakistan.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

KHARGE IN CHARGE

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'A symbol is not enough' (IE, October 28). More than his Dalit identity, it's his staunch loyalty to the Gandhis which has catapulted Mallikarjun Kharge to the top party position in the Congress. Of course, the Gandhis must have seen his Dalit background as an added bonus. Still, like the writer says, the grand old party must not expect the Dalits to reembrace the Congress just because of this. Reaching out to the Dalit community and hitting the streets to support their cause needs to be done with great zeal and gusto if this electoral vote bank is to be won over by the Congress. Vijai Pant, Hempur

 $THIS\,REFERS\,TO\,the\,article, `A\,Symbol\,is$ not Enough' (IE, October 28). The Congress's legacy of the freedom movement and Nehruvian ideology do not allow for locating the appointment of Mallikarjun Kharge in a Dalit narrative. At the most, there might be a strong southern orientation, that too implicitly. From this perspective, it could just be a wishful thinking to see Kharge's office as a "symbolic gesture", as argued by the author. Congress has a greater agenda on the anvil, which is gradually redefining its role in national politics through a process of churning by way of Bharat Ĵodo Yatra.

PASSING THE BUCK

THIS REFERS TO the report, '75th anniversary of J&K accession: BJP blames Nehru for Kashmir 'blunders', Congress hits back' (IE, October 28). It is curious that the BJP, which has been ruling India for 8 years now, still feels the need to castigate one of the founding fathers of our republic on his real and concocted faults. It is extremely damaging to continually malign political ancestors for short-term political gains. It would do well to show some action on the ground instead of passing the buck.

Rahul Gaur, Gurgaon

CAUTION ON GM

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Green signal' (IE, October 28). Though it is a great scientific achievement to indigenously develop genetically modified mustard crop seeds, we should remain cautious of any adverse effects it may have on the ecology. The Genetic Engineering Appraisal Committee's recommendations to conduct more fielddemonstration studies to assess its performance and impact in the Indian context before using the same variety full-scale, should be heeded.

GROWING PAINS

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'The power of small' (IE, October 28). The biggest threat to nature comes from uncontrolled population growth. If the Indian carbon footprint per person is smaller today, it is because of the lack of material progress; not because of well-thought out cultural practices. As India starts improving its socio-economic conditions, its carbon footprint is going to assume frightening proportions. While the government is right in focusing on projects like Mission LiFE, there is an urgent and dire need to focus on population growth as well.

NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

BRITISH JOURNALIST Paul Mason's book opens with an uneasy prospect: If a group of Nazis from the 1930s were to time travel to contemporary times, what would they see?

From the storming of the US Capitol by right-wing followers of Donald Trump to the rise of the far-right Vox party in Spain with its diatribe against migrants, feminists and the Left, turns out the world they'd find wouldn't be all that unfamiliar to them.

"Fascism", Mason contends, "is back" - even though it now manifests in newer variations. "The core of fascism's belief today is clear: that majority ethnic groups have become the 'victims' of migration and multiculturalism; that the gains of feminism should be reversed: that democracy is dispensable; that science, universities and the media cannot be trusted; that nations have lost their way and need to become 'great' again: and that there will soon be a cataclysmic event which sets things right," he writes.

Mason goes about examining this premise through a detailed historical analysis of how fascism emerged in Germany and Italy in the wake of the economic crisis engendered by the Great Depression.

High inflation and mass unemployment gave legitimacy to the arguments of Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler as they worked their way up to Parliament, exploiting democratic structures such as elections and the absence of liberal intervention to explain or address the economic and political crisis. Once in power, these men subverted all democratic edifices.

Mason traces the contemporary rise of the global right to the economic crisis of 2008, which created a similar leadership vacuum and economic concerns in many nations worldwide. It also generated, he says, a distrust for the elites and for liberalism, which had failed to safeguard public interests. Rightwing ideologies proliferated over the last decade, amplified by social media and aided by the availability of easy, anonymised online platforms to spread conspiracy theories, violent threats, and neo-myths.

But history also provides a blueprint for containing fascism. In France, the 1936 elections were won by the Popular Front, a coalition of socialists and the left against broader Republican coalitions. In Spain, the left-wing Popular Front coalition won over the Spanish Confederation of the Autonomous Right.

Mason advocates something similar now - an alliance between centrist and left forces to defend democracy and "win the battle of ideas, and well in advance of its electoral breakthrough". A key element in this resistance, he says, would be the realisation of the centrality of the climate crisis and its bearing on politics.

An activist and a self-avowed Marxist, Mason's account is an unorthodox look at the rising tide of authoritarian politics through the lens of left-wing ideology and an examination not just of fascism's work but also of the failures of the left to counter it effectively - and what it needs to do to make amends.

How not to deal with China

The 20th Party Congress of the Chinese Communist Party has sealed Xi Jinping's status as probably the most powerful leader of China since Mao. Two eminent scholars of international relations weigh in on how to read the rise of Xi's China – for today and the future – from the perspectives of India and the US

Getting China right

What are the biggest misconceptions about China in international politics?

NYE: Different people have different misconceptions, but one that is widely shared is the view that China will become the dominant power in world politics by the centenary of Communist Party rule in 2049. This view is reinforced by China's impressive record of economic growth that has made it the second largest economy in the world.

But linear extrapolation from past events is always dangerous, and the trend line may change. China is in demographic decline. Its labour force peaked in 2015, and the population profile shows fewer productive younger people having to support older

While China has made impressive progress on some technologies that can replace labour, its total factor productivity (labour and capital) has been declining, and it is far from clear that tightening party and state control of the private sector will help solve this problem.

MATTOO: One of the biggest misconceptions about China is the belief that Beijing was 'socialised' into accepting the rules and the norms of a post-Cold War international system dominated by the West. There was also a myth, perpetuated by Sinologists for centuries, that Chinese strategic culture was inward-looking and not prone to expansionism. We are witnessing the end of these misconceptions.

 $Rather\,than\,behaving\,like$ └20™NATIONAL CONGRESSa status quo power, China is acting like any other rising power that seeks to challenge the prevailing order, through the use of force if necessary. China's belligerence is heightened by its repressive system of government and its to- Chinese revisionism, and the choices they talitarian leader, Xi Jinping, probably the make will also be a critical factor in the shapmost powerful since Mao. The Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping's "24-character strategy" of maintaining a low profile and biding time is now forgotten!

There is no evidence that China's strategic culture is moderating its offensive-realist policies across the region. China is deploying all the instruments propounded by the ancient Indian philosopher and political strategist Kautilya (with Chinese characteristics): saam, daam, dand, bhed (persuade or purchase or punish or exploit a weakness) to dominate its neighbourhood and beyond.

The Indo-Pacific

What dynamics will shape the future international politics in the Indo-

MATTOO: There will be an interplay of four factors that will shape the future of the Indo-Pacific.

First is the direction of China's rise over the next decade. On present evidence, China will be increasingly belligerent, willing to use its "wolf warrior diplomacy" to challenge the "rules-based order" put into place by the West and weaponise its multilateral presence. If, however, China's economy slows, as it has recently, and it faces increasing dissent, China could become more cautious and risk

Beijing's ambitions are to be the 'hegemonic' averse in its foreign policy. The latter is less

Second, much depends on how committed the United States is to the region, especially given its current weak leadership and its new focus on the European theatre in the wake of the war in Ukraine. If the promise of AUKUS and the Quad translates into reality, we may witness a stronger bulwark against Chinese designs Third, countries like India – rising in power, status and influence — facing the brunt of ing of the future of the region. Finally, unpredictable, high-impact Black Swan events could have an overarching impact on the region. A pandemic, environmental catastrophe or the use of a weapon of mass destruction could undermine traditional sources of power and security.

NYE: The rise of China has created a situation where most countries want to maintain economic access to its large market, but also do not want to be politically dominated by China. Thus, many countries want an American presence in the region for security purposes, but do not want to alienate China. Îndia will soon become the world's most populous country and is a growing economy. Japan, the third largest national economy, has a military alliance with the US.

In principle, this balance of power could be a formula for stability in the region but it could be disrupted by American withdrawal; a worsening of the India-China border conflict; a war over Taiwan; a North Korean nuclear event; or other low-probability but high-impact events.

Neighbours' options

Are balancing against or cooperating with China the only options that exist for China's neighbouring states? MATTOO: While the western study of international relations focuses on balancing, cooperating or hedging, non-western IR offers other more nuanced perspectives. This is particularly true of civilisational states like India THE EXPERTS whose thinking on war, AMITABH MATTOO is peace, order, justice and Professor at the School of morality is captured in many of its classical texts. For instance, Dharma is a key concept in Indian thinking on war and means action, not passivity - acting without material incentives, and without regard for the narrowly defined gains from that action. It means acting decisively while recognising that the fight to uphold Dharma will almost necessarily cause collateral damage both in terms of a strict adherence to principle, as well as in terms of violence.

What, then, does Dharma mean strategically? First, Dharma means upholding the larger righteous interest, the welfare of humanity, in both its mundane and its transcendental sense.

Finally, the fight for Dharma requires acting independently, without attachment, without fear and without external pressure. Dharma can only be sustained through the doctrine of strategic autonomy. It brings into harmony flexibility in diplomacy (even duplicity when needed) and purposeful violence when required. True statecraft and strategic autonomy become inseparable. bringing about a fusion of thought and action for the higher purposes of statecraft. In sum, Dharma offers a path beyond the choice of balancing or cooperation within a framework that combines national-interest, realpolitik and righteousness.

How should policymakers understand the future relationship between the United States and China?

NYE: As I have argued, ('How not to deal with a rising China: a US perspective', International Affairs: Sept 6,2022) policy-makers in both countries should avoid demonising each other and realise that the relationship is not like the Cold War. There is much more economic, social and ecological interdependence between the US and China than ever existed between the US and the Soviet Union. Instead, policy-makers should see the relationship as a "cooperarivalry" "competitive coexistence" with equal attention to both parts of the description.

As former Australian prime minister Kevin Rudd has argued, the objective for great power competition between China and the US is not defeat or total victory over an existential threat, but a "managed competition" (The Avoidable War: The Dangers of a Catastrophic Conflict between the US and Xi Jinping's China, Public Affairs, 2022).

If China changes for the better in the long term, that is simply an unexpected bonus for a strategy that aims for successful management of a great power relationship in a time of traditional as well as economic and ecological interdependence.

Use of mother tongue in foundational education, now and earlier

SOURAV ROY BARMAN NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

THE NEW National Curriculum Framework (NCF) for the foundational stages of education, launched by Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan last week, has recommended that mother tongue should be the primary medium of instruction in schools, both public and private, for children up to eight years of age.

The thrust on mother tongue as the medium of instruction, especially in the primary grades, has been a feature of education policies and curriculum frameworks over the years. Recommendations on English have, however, differed. This latest push for the use of mother tongue comes after repeated, unequivocal policy articulations in its favour at the highest levels of the Union government, including from Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Home Minister Amit Shah.

What has the new NCF recommended?

According to the NCF, evidence from research confirms the importance of teaching children in their mother tongue during the foundational years and beyond.

"Since children learn concepts most rapidly and deeply in their home language, the primary medium of instruction would optimally be the child's home language/ mother tongue/familiar language in the Foundational Stage," it states.

English, the NCF has observed, can be one of the second languages taught at that level.

What is the immediate, practical import of this recommendation?

At the national level, in schools affiliated to the CBSE or ICSE, English is the main medium of instruction from the primary classes itself. That has been the case despite efforts to get the boards to adopt the mother tongue or dominant regional languages at least for the primary grades. Neither of these boards has so far signalled any possible revision in the current arrangement. Most state boards, meanwhile, have their regional languages as the main mode of instruction. However, every state government also runs schools in which English is the medium of instruction. In fact, the Andhra Pradesh and Telangana governments have taken policy decisions to gradually get all schools to impart education only in English. This had triggered a debate, which could well revive now in the light of the new NCF.

What did previous education policies recommend?

The first education policy, which was based on the recommendations of a commission headed by the former chairman of the University Grants Commission (UGC), Dr D S Kothari, observed that regional languages were already in use as the medium of education at the primary and secondary stages, and steps should be taken to adopt the same at the university stage as well.

The recommendations did not contain any specific instruction on mother tongue, but underlined that "special emphasis should be laid on the study of English and other languages".

The second education policy, introduced in 1986, too was silent on the use of the mother tongue as the medium of instruction at the foundational stage. However, the 1992 Programme of Action, which was based on a review of the 1986 policy, said that at the pre-school level, the medium of communication should be mother tongue/ regional language.

The new National Education Policy (NEP), which was introduced in 2020, marked a departure from the past, as it made a clear case for mother tongue. "Wherever possible, the medium of instruction until at least Grade 5, but preferably till Grade 8 and beyond, will be the home language/ mother tongue/ local language/ regional language," the NEP said.

And what about the previous NCFs?

The NCFs are detailed guidelines based on which school syllabi undergo revisions. In the NCFs, the role of the mother tongue has been specified more clearly from the

The first NCF, which was published in 1975, said clearly that "so far as possible, primary education should be in the mother tongue", which was the child's "most natural medium of communication".

In the case of learners whose mother tongue was also the language of the region, the medium of instruction at the elementary and secondary stages should be the regional language, it said — and in cases where they were different, the mother tongue should be the medium in the first two years of primary education, and the regional language should then take over.

The NCF 2000 pronounced emphatically: "The medium of instruction, ideally, ought to be the mother tongue at all the stages of school education."

NCF 2005 said the language of interaction and communication in Early Childhood Care and Education (ECCE) would "normally be the child's 'first' language, or home language". It added, however, that in the light of socio-political realities, English has to be introduced early as a second language, either in Class I or at the preschool level.

New Delhi

What is the Constitutional position on this issue?

Under Article 350A of the Constitution, the government must try to ensure that children from linguistic minority groups are educated in their mother tongue.

The provision ("Facilities for instruction in mother-tongue at primary stage") reads: "It shall be the endeavour of every State and of every local authority within the State to provide adequate facilities for instruction in the mother-tongue at the primary stage of education to children belonging to linguistic minority groups; and the President may issue such directions to any State as he considers necessary or proper for securing the provision of such facilities." Article 351 says "It shall be the duty of the Union to promote the spread of the Hindi language, to develop it so that it may serve as a medium of expression for all the elements of the composite culture of India and to secure its enrichment by assimilating without interfering with its genius, the forms, style and expressions used in Hindustani and in the other languages...specified in the Eighth Schedule...'

A Bridge to Nowhere

RAM SETU

Director: Abhishek

Nassar, Satya Dev, Jacqueline Fernandez.

Pravesh Rana,

Cast: Akshay Kumar,

Nushrratt Bharuccha,

SHUBHRA GUPTA

MYTH, RELIGION, reality, belief: Ram Setu takes all these elements, gives them a good shake, letting them settle where they will, and presents yet another Akshay Kumar film strictly embedded in the times we live in. Dr Aryan Kulshrestha (Kumar) is an archaeologist who worships evidencebased science and has no time for anyone, including his dear spouse (Bharuccha), a professor of literature, who is arrayed on the side of vishwaas or aastha.

The film's consultant, Chandra Prakash Dwivedi, directed Kumar in the recent Prithviraj, another historical, which is in line with the 'Mera Bharat Always Mahaan' mission. In this one, the mythical waterway between India and Sri Lanka, re-named Adam's Bridge by the British who wanted to 'erase' India's history, is Ram Setu. The internationally renowned, globetrotting Aryan, who has been heartbroken by the destruction of the Bamyan Buddhas by the Taliban (he just happens to be onsite in Afghanistan when the mayhem takes place, see), is lured on board the Ram Setu project by a profiteering magnate (Nassar). Aryan has atheist, secular credentials, which includes, imagine, a Pakistani colleague, so who better than him (Aryan) to convince the unbelievers that Ram Setu, was in fact, 'constructed' during the 'period' of Lord Rama?

It's all very Amar Chitra Katha-cum-'Indiana Jones' without the story-telling skills. The screenplay wanders haphazardly over land, mountain and ocean, in order to fulfill its quest: finding the requisite 'proof, which includes, believe it or faint, the Sanjeevani booti. Not satisfied with setting up the conflict, which plays out in the Supreme Court on the one hand, and on the high seas, and on the picturesque island of Sri Lanka on the other, the plot gives us bad guys who want the destruction of the Setu, good guy AP(Dev) who turns up out of the blue to help Aryan and his colleagues, scientist Sandra Ribello (Fernandez) and a white person (Piccinato) who is swiftly dispensed with. As chief antagonist, Nassar frowns a lot, and his main man (Rana) chases everyone with a gun.

There are also references to the civil war in Sri Lanka, and Jaffna being a hot spot. Bodies fall out of helicopters at regular intervals. But all these mentions of current affairs are window dressing, merely. The intention of the film is laid out for everyone to see: the conversion of the fact-loving, science-minded Aryan into a believer whose sole job is to convince the court of the weight of that belief, which becomes the only truth. The emergence of Aryan, Jeniffer Piccinato a sacred stone on his shoulder, from the ocean, reminiscent of a remarkably similar scene filmed on Prabhas at the beginning of Bahubali, is designed to silence the naysayers. Ditto for when he walks, like another divine figure, on water. But the proceedings are not interested in drawing our attention to any diversity. Don't be silly.

> Actually, done better, this could have been a film that posits these opposing viewpoints, giving each the pulpit. But this is nothing but a pedestrian film, cobbled together in an even more pedestrian fashion, which is interested only in hammering home its message. It is also the kind of film in which a female scientist, having been dunked in seawater, and having emerged in a cave, gives off a very Raiders Of The Lost Ark feel. With her pink lipstick intact.

THE GOOD NURSE

Director: Tobias Lindholm Cast: Eddie Redmayne, Jessica Chastain Streaming on: Netflix

Bitter Pill

ALAKA SAHANI

FOR AMY (Jessica Chastain), a nurse struggling with the workload at the ICU of a New Jersey hospital, single-parenthood, and her heart condition, it's her new colleague Charles Cullen (Eddie Redmayne) who offers respite. She strikes up a friendship with Charles, who is caring and supportive. He shares her responsibilities at work and even helps Amy tackle her nine-year-old daughter's tantrums. This $dynamic\ \bar{b}etween\ them\ changes\ when\ some$ of their recovering patients die suddenly and inexplicably and Charles becomes a suspect. It turns out that such deaths occurred when he was employed at other hospitals.

Lead actors Chastain and Redmayne have already established a formidable individual track record of diving into demanding roles and essaying them with nuance and honesty. Their riveting performance in The Good Nurse, which is Danish director Tobias Lindholm's English-language debut, powers the narrative of this 123-minute-long feature, the latest addition to true crime stories streaming on Netflix. Since the friendship between Amy and Charles remains the film's focal point, these two brilliant actors seem to feed off each other's creative energy. Redmayne, especially, brings out the nuances of a man who is sweet enough to take care of his colleague's daughters, heartbroken to be away from his own daughters but discreetly overdoses his powerless patients for no apparent reason.

The film also constructs back stories of the patients who are brought in grievous conditions for treatment, Warm and friendly Amy establishes a connection with most of her patients including an elderly, newly married couple and a young mother. When these patients die while recovering, it creates a shock. But the shock does not transform into anger or fear.

Even though the film recounts the chilling story of a serial killer, who worked at different American hospitals as a nurse for 16 years and is suspected to have killed nearly 400 patients (he, however, admitted to 29 killings), it falls short of invoking the feeling of dread. After all, the prospect of a caregiver going rogue in an ICU, targeting a vulnerable patient is no less scary than being trapped in a haunted home with malevolent invisible forces. The film remains inadequate when it comes to highlighting the negligence of hospitals where Charles worked. Even though they suspected foul play, they never initiated any legal action against Charles.

The Good Nurse could have been the story of a faulty system that allows a serial killer to operate until local detectives come knocking on the hospital's door. When that happens, all that the hospitals do is cover their tracks and remain uncooperative. This story is also about understaffed hospitals and a nurse who is overworked and can't avail health benefits till she completes a year at work in spite of the threat of suffering a stroke looming large

The lead actors manage to keep the narrative engaging, which opts for a more humane portrayal of a serial killer, who is currently serving multiple life sentences.

film is a compelling watch for Cohen fans. The rejection of Various Positions, the album that held Halleluigh on Side B, by Columbia Records led to a quiet release in America under a non-descript label, Passport Records in 1985. The album failed to even be a blip on the charts. As the story goes, it was the other troubadour Bob Dylan, seven years Cohen's junior, who first covered Hallelujah. Famously enough, when Dylan asked Cohen how long he took to write his Hallelujah, Cohen lied and said two years because seven seemed a bit much to admit. Dylan said it took him 15 minutes to write his pieces. He was kidding, of course, Sloman points out in the film. While Dylan's version remained in his shows, it was John Cale's pared-down Hallelujah with a piano, which had the song noticed years later. But it was Jeff Buckley's version along a guitar in 1994 that was to "elevate the plateau of visibility for that song to the rest of the world in a more popular vein". The song was also covered by U2, Aretha Franklin, R.E.M., Trisha Yearwood, and Elton John, among others. From weddings to funerals to Presidential inaugurals, the documentary successfully captures the arc of the song that is "symbolist", as Issermann puts times touching the walls of the culture". The film also records the last few years of Cohen, when he began touring again, the highpoint of his career. He always closed with Hallelujah — the sublime ballad going way beyond the concept of god, "which is now its own person," as Carlile says in the film, which continues to live and thrive as a secular anthem, even years after Cohen's death in 2016 at 82.

it, "a bird that is flying in a room and some-

Ironically, Cohen never knew where it came from. "If I knew where songs came from, I'd go there more often," he'd say.

THE TITLE Gandhada Gudi, which means the shrine of sandalwood, holds a special place in Kannada pop culture, thanks to famed actor Dr Rajkumar's 1973 film of the same name. In the film, Rajkumar played the role of a forest officer, who puts the spotlight on fighting against poaching and conserving forest lands. More than 50 years later, his son Puneeth Rajkumar re-emphasises the same principles.

Gandhada Gudi is the last time we will see Puneeth Rajkumar on the big screen. The filming of this docu-feature began exactly a year before Puneeth's untimely death at 46 due to cardiac arrest.

During the pandemic Puneeth decided to spend time in the wilderness. The docudrama begins with Puneeth and filmmaker Amoghavarsha JS cruising deep into Nagarhole National Park in an open jeep. From sighting a tiger, a herd of elephants and a lone bear from a safe distance, to being just an arm's length from an 11-feet-long King Cobra, Puneeth's experience in the jungle spans the entire spectrum of the film. Geller and Goldfine quickly take us through Cohen's affluent and conservative Jewish upbringing in Montreal, being awed by the Torah, his passion for writing poetry and how he turned musician quite late, at 30, and brought out his first record, Songs of Leonard Cohen (Columbia Records) at 33. They put on display the witty, warm, intelligent, fun Cohen and quickly go over the tumultuous bits, not delving into much of the inner strife and its reasons that led to Hallelujah or shaped Cohen's life in general. The most candid statement about Cohen, in fact, comes from singer-songwriter Judy Collins, "I knew dangerous when I saw it," she says in the film.

The narrative is also steered by journalist Larry Sloman, and Cohen's long-time love interest and French photographer Dominique Issermann, about whom Cohen says in an interview: "I never knew love till I was 50". The line sticks. He'd met Isserman in Greece then.

There are musicians such as Brandi Carlile, Regina Spektar, Eric Church, Sharon Robinson and Rufus Wainright speaking about their respective relationship with the song, besides John Lissauer who arranged the original Hallelujah, after being ghosted for eight years by Cohen. Inflation target: Why is MPC holding a special meeting?

HITESHVYAS

MUMBAI, OCTOBER 28

THE RESERVE Bank of India (RBI) on Thursday said that it will hold an additional Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting on November 3,2022. This meeting has been called as the RBI has failed to maintain the consumer price index-based inflation target within the 2-6 per cent band for three consecutive quarters – January to September 2022.

What does Section 45ZN of the RBI Act say?

This is for the first time that an MPC meeting has been called under Section 45ZN since the adoption of an inflation-targeting monetary policy regime in 2016. This particular Section of the RBI Act says that in case the RBI fails to meet the inflation target, it has to write a report

The Regulation 7 of the RBI MPC and Monetary Policy Process Regulations, 2016 states that a separate meeting is required to be scheduled as part of the normal policy

However, MPC will be consulted and hence the RBI has scheduled the additional MPC meeting on November 3. Full report on www.indianexpress.com

SALES OF ENTRY-LEVEL PASSENGER CARS

People's ability to buy small cars has eroded: Bhargava

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

SALES OF entry-level passenger cars will continue to decline even during the next year as the ability of people to buy these cars has eroded, Maruti Suzuki chairman R C Bhargava said today.

This decline in sales even during the next year could be a signal towards delayed economic recovery in the rural and semi-urban areas post the pandemic divide between urban and rural has widened post the pandemic with many watchers terming the recovery in India as K-shaped.

"Everywhere hatchback is sold — whether its urban or rural areas — the ability of people to buy has eroded and therefore the growth of sale in hatchbacks is not happening. The hatchback sector is not going to grow but decline," Bhargava said in a media interaction after the announcement of the company's second quarter results. He added that the entry-level passenger car segment saw some traction in terms of sales during the second quarter on the back of festive season sales but added that it is limited and Bhargava does not expect hatchback growth to continue subsequent to this quarter or in the next year.

Maruti Suzuki chairman RC Bhargava said auto industry will grow by 8% next year. File

"The sale in hatchback has been declining for the past three years, hence, it may not be a new phenomenon. Inflation will make it worse because it is the people with limited income, who are hardest hit by inflation. In terms of inflation. India is not as bad as anywhere else and it is gradually coming under control," he further said. Sales of best-selling low-priced vehicles such as Maruti Suzuki's Alto, Swift, Celerio, and Dzire; and Hyundai's i 10 and i 20 (which cumulatively accounted for around 56 per cent of the lower-priced cars sold in fiscal 2019), have been on a decline for three fiscals now. As a result, there were only around 39 models of lowerpriced cars available in FY22 versus around 54 in fiscal 2016. Maruti is India's largest car maker and its sales are under stress due to decline in sales of entry-level cars - the company offers the largest number of car models in that segment.

While the sales of entry-level cars will be under stress, the automobile industry will grow by 8 per cent during the next year. This growth will be on the back of record sales many companies are set to achieve during the current fiscal. Numbers from industry lobby group Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (SIAM) for the first half of this fiscal show that the sales growth is led by sports utility vehicles (SUVs), which constitute a big chunk of passenger vehicles costing over Rs 10 lakh and above.

SOCIAL MEDIA PLATFORMS

Govt-appointed appellate panels to be set up in 3 months

ENSECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, OCTOBER 28

THE GOVERNMENT on Friday further tweaked the IT Rules for setting up of grievance appellate committees (GAC), which will look into complaints by users of social media firms like Twitter, Facebook and other such platforms. These committees will adjudicate complaints by users relating to blocking of content or accounts by the grievance redressal officers of the social media firms concerned. These grievance appellate committees will be set up within three months, according to a gazette notification on Friday.

The government had first talked about constituting GACs in June but had said that if the industry came up with a self-regulating mechanism, then it was willing to consider that instead. However. the industry's initiative for a selfregulating mechanism failed due to lack of unanimity amongst all the players. "The central government shall, by notification, establish one or more grievance appellate committees within three months from the date of commencement of the Information

Each appellate committee will consist of a chairperson and two whole-time members appointed by the Central government, of which one will be a member exofficio and two will be independent members. Any person aggrieved by a decision of the grievance officer can appeal to the grievance appellate committee within a period of thirty days from the date of receipt of communication from the grievance officer. Das: Need review of customer service, grievance mechanism

ENSECONOMIC BUREAU MUMBAI, OCTOBER 28

RESERVE BANK Governor Shaktikanta Das on Friday flagged concerns over mis-selling, lack of transparency and disproportionate service charges by various lendingentities and called for review of working of their customer service and grievance redress mechanism.

He also cautioned against the mushrooming of digital lending apps. "In a large and vibrant financial system like ours, some level of complaints is understandable. What is of concern is that still a large number of complaints pertain to traditional banking. This calls for serious review of the working of the customer service and grievance redress mechanism in the regulated entities," Das said while addressing the annual conference of RBI Ombudsmen in Jodhpur. The statement comes almost a month after the RBI asked Mahindra & Mahindra Financial Services to cease carrying out any repossession activity through outsourcing arrangements after reports of a 27-year old pregnant woman in Jharkhand being allegedly crushed to death under a tractor by an external loan recovery agent of the NBFC. REJECTS BAJWA OFFER CLAIM: 'SILENT FOR SAKE OF COUNTRY'

Will not accept thieves: Imran starts march to Islamabad demanding polls

Shehbaz govt warns any deviation from approved protest plans will be dealt with an 'iron hand'

SAJJAD HUSSAIN

LAHORE, ISLAMABAD, OCT 28

Imran Khan on Friday said he will remain "silent" as he does not want to "damage" the country and its institutions, a day after the ISI chief said the former PM made a "lucrative offer" to Pakistan Army chief General Qamar Javed Bajwa in return for backing his government during the political turmoil in March this year.

Addressing his party supporters at Lahore's famous Liberty Chowk after launching his protest march towards Islamabad demanding early elections, the Pakistan Tehreeke-Insaf(PTI) chief said his march is not for politics or personal interest but to gain real freedom and ensure that all decisions were made in Pakistan and not in London or Washington.

"My only aim is to free my nation and turn Pakistan into a free country," Khan, standing atop a container, said.

Khan rejected ISI chief Lt Gen Nadeem Ahmed Anjum's allegations in an unprecedented press conference on Thursday, saying it was one-sided and he only "talked about Imran Khan" and never uttered a word against the "thieves" in the government.

"DG ISI, listen carefully, the things I know, I am staying silent for my institutions and the country. I don't want to damage my country," the PTI chief said as the crowd cheered.

US Speaker Pelosi's husband in hospital after assault at home

Motive unclear; break-in comes less than 15 days before the midterm polls

BRENDANO'BRIEN & ANDY SULLIVAN OCTOBER 28

PAUL PELOSI, the husband of House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, was "violently assaulted" after a break-in at the couple's San Francisco home early on Friday, her office said in a statement.

"The assailant is in custody and the motivation for the attack is under investigation," the statement said. "Mr Pelosi was taken to the hospital, where he is receiving excellent medical care and is expected to make a full recovery.'

The Democratic speaker of the US House of Representatives, who is second in line to the presidency, was in Washington with her protective detail at the time of the assault, according to the US Capitol Police.

The circumstances of the attack were unclear, including how the intruder got into the home.

A San Francisco Police Department spokesperson and a spokesperson for Nancy Pelosi did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

The assault comes less than two weeks before the November 8 midterm elections, in which control of the House and the Senate is at stake.

As a Democratic leader in Washington and a longtime representative from one of America's most liberal cities, Pelosi is a frequent target for Republican criticism and is often featured in at-

Washington: The intruder who attacked Speaker Nancy Pelosi's husband, Paul, in their San Francisco home confronted him shouting, "Where is Nancy, where is Nancy?" according to a person briefed on the situation and granted anonymity to discuss it.

Paul, 82, suffered blunt force injuries to his head and body, according to two people who spoke to The AP on condition of anonymity.

The attack was not random; the assailant specifically targeted the home, the people said.

Israel set for Round 5 in Bibi's fight for survival

JERUSALEM, OCTOBER 28

ON NOVEMBER 1. Israel holds an unprecedented fifth election in less than four years with former PM Benjamin Netanyahu vying for a comeback. Caught in an election cycle since 2019, the same year in which Netanyahu was indicted for corruption on charges he denies, voters hope to break the deadlock between the most dominant politician of his generation and his many rivals.

parliamentary majority.

Why another poll? Lapid and his coalition partner Naftali Bennett ended Netanyahu's record 12-year consecutive reign in June 2021, by patching together an unlikely group of rightist, liberal and Arab parties which was fragile from the start. Less than one year into its rule, the coalition lost its razorthin majority to defections. Rather than wait for the opposition to vote them out, the government dissolved parliament, triggering an election.

Netanyahu has been touting his security and economic credentials. But with dim prospects of peace talks with the Palestinians restarting any time soon, and world powers' nuclear talks with Iran faltering - security and diplomacy have been largely swept aside. According to surveys, soaring living costs are a top concern, but unlikely to sway voters.

Alert as world's largest active volcano rumbles

ASSOCIATED PRESS HONOLULU, OCTOBER 28

HAWAII OFFICIALS are warning residents of the Big Island that the world's largest active volcano, Mauna Loa, is sending signals that it may erupt, Scientists say an eruption isn't imminent, but they are on alert because of a recent spike in earthquakes at the volcano's summit. Experts say it would take just a few hours for lava to reach homes closest to vents on the volcano, which last erupted Hawaii's civil defence agency is holding meetings across the island to educate residents about how to prepare for a possible emergency. They recommend having a go-bag with food, identifying a place to stay once they leave home and making a plan for reuniting with family members.

"Not to panic everybody, but they have to be aware of that you live on the slopes of Mauna Loa. There's a potential for some kind of lava disaster," said Talmadge Magno, the administrator for Hawaii County Civil Defence.

The volcano makes up 51% of the Hawaii Island landmass, so a large portion of the island has the potential to be affected by an eruption, Magno said.

Mauna Loa, rising 13,679 feet above sea level, is the much larger neighbor to Kilauea volcano, which erupted in a residential neighbor hood and destroyed 700 homes in 2018. Some of its slopes are much steeper than Kilauea's so when it erupts, its lava can flow much faster.

The Hawaiian Volcano Observatory, which is part of the US Geological Survey, said Mauna Loa has been in a state of "heightened unrest" since the middle of last month when the number of summit earthquakes jumped from 10 to 20 per day to 40 to 50 per day.

AMERICAN SINGER WHOSE FEET JOHN LENNON KISSED

'Man who made Elvis cry': Rock 'n' roll pioneer Jerry Lee Lewis dies at 87

REUTERS OCTOBER 28

AMERICAN ROCK pioneer Jerry Lee Lewis, who was torn between his Bible-thumping upbringing and his desire to make hell-raising rock 'n' roll with hits such as "Great Balls of Fire" and "Whole Lotta Shakin' Goin' On," has died at the age of 87. Lewis passed away at his home in Desoto County, Mississippi, with his wife, Judith, by his side, a statement from his publicist said. He had been ill in recent years and suffered a stroke in 2019.

Like Chuck Berry's guitar, Lewis' piano was essential in shaping rock 'n' roll in the mid-1950s. He was part of the dazzling Sun Records talent pool in Memphis, Tennessee, that included Elvis Presley, Johnny Cash, Carl Perkins and Roy Orbison. Lewis outlived them all.

He was one of the first performers inducted into the Rock 'n' Roll Hall of Fame in 1986 and was so influential that when John Lennon met him backstage at a show in Los Angeles, the Beatle dropped to his knees and kissed Lewis' feet.

Lewis filled his albums not only with ground-breaking rock but with gospel, country and rhythm and blues such as "Me and Bobby McGee" and "To Make Love Sweeter for You" as he endured a life often filled with alcohol, drugs and tragedy. His music was sometimes overshad $owed\,by\,scandals-including\,his$ marriage to his 13-year-old cousin Myra in 1957.

In his prime, he performed with daring, originality and a lewd wild-man stage demeanor that thrilled his young fans as much as it agitated their parents. Typically, Lewis would kick away his piano bench and bang the keyboard with his foot while his long wavy blond hair flopped in his face.

According to legend, Lewis was once so upset that Chuck Berry had been chosen to close a show over him that he finished his set with a move that was hard to top – setting the piano on fire and walking off.

"I'm a rompin', stompin', piano-playing son of a bitch," Lewis

Jerry's hell-raising hits include 'Great Balls of Fire'. AP

once told Time magazine in his Louisiana drawl. "A mean son of a bitch. But a great son of a bitch."

Lewis was born Sept. 29, 1935, in Ferriday, Louisiana, and grew up poor with two cousins also destined for fame – television evangelist Jimmy Swaggart and country singer Mickey Gilley.

He became interested in the piano at age 4 and by 10 was sneaking in to roadhouses to hear blues performers. He absorbed a variety of musical influences, especially the Jimmie Rodgers records that belonged to his father, a farmer who went to prison for bootlegging.

Lewis' family attended the Assembly of God church and his mother ensured he was thoroughly informed about the evils of liquor, honky-tonks and promiscuity. But Lewis was intent on experiencing them first hand and began playing piano in bars while still a teenager. His mother, upset by the idea of her son performing the devil's music, sent him to a Bible college in Texas. It turned out to be a brief stay, with Lewis reportedly being dismissed from the school for playing a boogie-woogie version of "My God Is Real" during an assembly. The incident showed the dichotomy that Lewis had to live with. "The man is tortured," Myra Lewis told People magazine. "Jerry Lee thinks that Jerry Lee is too wicked to be saved.'

As Lewis himself once put it, "I'm dragging the audience to hell with me.'

His career came to a halt during a 1958 tour of Britain. Journalists discovered Lewis was now married to Myra, the daughter of his bass player, who wrote "Jerry Lee Lewis: His Own Words", told the Atlanta Constitution Journal: "I don't think Jerry had to exaggerate his life one bit to make it interesting... "He really did make Elvis cry.

He really did turn over more Cadillacs than most people purchased in Mississippi." REUTERS

Sreejesh defies age to remain custodian of India's hopes

As Reid's team starts new season with a stunning 4-3 win vs NZ, veteran goalkeeper keen to use match time ahead of World Cup on home soil

TUSHAR BHADURI

OCTOBER 28

HAVING SPENT a large part of his life in the goalkeeper's cage, wearing the heavy armour, PR Sreejesh is no stranger to criticism. The veteran custodian understands that regardless of the number of vital match-saving, or even match-winning, interventions he makes, a handful of perceived mistakes will always be highlighted and talked about. And he has made peace with this occupational hazard.

Lest one has forgotten, it was his save off a German penalty corner, seemingly destined to be the equaliser, in the dying seconds of the third-place playoff that won India its first Olympic hockey medal in 41 vears at Tokyo 2021.

But it was the same Sreejesh who had to cop some flak for letting in a few soft goals in the 0-7 thrashing against Australia in the Commonwealth Games final earlier this year when it was the entire defensive set-up that caved in against the relentless onslaught.

"I have been a goalkeeper for more than 20 years now, and have gotten used to criticism. I now take it in my stride and try to learn from it, if I can," Sreejesh told The Indian Express.

Indian hockey had been on a bit of a high after the podium finish in Tokyo, but Australia still seems a tough nut to crack, especially in big games. The debacle in the gold-medal match in Birmingham wasn't the first such lopsided scoreline against them.

'We know that Australia are a very aggressive side and will take advantage of every little mistake we commit, and we made a few that day. But we must also remember that we played well during parts of that final," Sreejesh said.

Now well into his 35th year, there are hardly any signs of Sreejesh slowing down, be it fitness-wise or in his enthusiasm for the game. A lot of athletes would be delighted to sign off with an Olympic medal, but the Kerala stalwart is already eyeing newer horizons.

We won the bronze medal at the Olympics, but bronze ke upar silver hota hai, or silver ke upar gold hota hai (there's silver and gold above bronze)," he stressed, without hiding his ambition to possibly target Paris 2024. "There's a lot still to achieve.

That's why the next few months assume such significance for Sreejesh, and the Indian team in general. The team launched its FIH Pro League campaign in Bhubaneswar on Friday with a stunning 4-3 win over New Zealand. It was an error-strewn performance in the team's first outing since the loss to Australia in the CWG. But after being 3-1 down, the team showed courage to turn around the match in the final quarter to win 4-3.

India will take on New Zealand again on Saturday, and face Spain next weekend before embarking on a trip Down Under to face bête noire Australia.

All these games, Sreejesh said, are with just one target in mind: the World Cup, which will be hosted in India in January next year.

"The matches leading up to the World Cup will be used as preparation for the big event. We will try out various combinations and tactics in these games. We will be playing in front of our home crowds. Hence, we are determined to give our best and don't want to leave anything to chance," he said.

A World Cup medal alongside the Olympic bronze will look nice in the Sreejesh trophy

Ready for a fresh campaign

Despite advancing in years, there's no shortage of enthusiasm and motivation in Sreejesh when a new hockey season approaches, though he is realistic enough to understand that he needs to work harder now than when he was younger to stay in optimum shape. As of now, he has not thought about the finish line of his hockey career.

"When one is born, one doesn't know when one will die. In the same way, one doesn't realise how long one will play. The thrill, privilege and honour of putting on the India shirt is the biggest motivation for me to keep working hard," he said.

"I know that at my age, I need to take more care of my fitness, nutrition and other aspects to stay on top. How I prepare myself and train has also undergone a change as I have grown older. Recent technological innovations have also been used in this endeavour."

Now a senior statesman in the team, Sreejesh has seen more than one generation of players come into the side over the years. The team that climbed the podium at Tokyo was an amalgam of youth and experience. As a former skipper and an experienced player, he has a big role to play in the development of youngsters. "We have a talented bunch coming through. My job will be to share my experience to ensure they adjust to international hockey as quickly as possible," the goalkeeper says.

Abhishek is a young forward coming through while S Karthi and Sukhjeet Singh have the opportunity to put in impressive performances in the Pro League to throw their hats in the ring as far as World Cup spots are concerned. Midfielder Mohammed Raheel represented India at the FIH 5s tournament in Lausanne, where he was the highest goalscorer and Player of the Tournament. He got his first call-up to the national 11-a-side squad. And what about India's future in goal?

There has been some concern over Sreejesh's long-term successor once he hangs up his stick for good. There is still a gap in quality between him and the next best custodian in the country, but the man himself isn't too concerned.

"(Krishna Bahadur) Pathak has been in the squad for a long time now and has been making good progress. It's not advisable to throw youngsters in big matches before they are ready with sufficient experience. I am not going anywhere for the time being, but there's no reason to worry in the long term either,"

Of swivel serves and taking risks: Satwik-Chirag stun World No. 1

India's No. 1 doubles pairing stun top seeds in straight games to enter semifinal of French Open

SHIVANI NAIK OCTOBER 28

AT SOME point in the moments post leading 20-16 in the opening set, Chirag Shetty tried his swivel-serve. The top Indian doubles pairing of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty were playing Japan's World No 1 pair of Takuro Hoki and Yugo Kobayashi. Shetty's swivel serve aims to confound — he swings his serving shoulder along the ribcage axis and seeks to muddle the receiving of the serve by masking the exact moment and angle of release and attacks on the subsequent second shot with speed. Many mistake his trying-too-hard for nervous restlessness when it all goes ka-

On Friday, playing in their favourite tournament the French Open where they've had some memorable weekend foravs, Shetty once again brought the 20-16 advantage to a 20-20 game-on situation. But doubles is about bold badminton and risk-taking. Even as the Indians allowed the Japanese a toehold into the door, on this day, they showed the courage to fight on a higher gear post the 20-all stalemate.

Six frittered points later, they continued to serve boldly, Chirag defended like he had a wingspan of 9 feet and the pumped up pair grabbed the opener 23-21. Eventually the Indians swatted away the Japanese 23-21, 21-18 to make the semifinals. They play Choi Sol Gyu and Kim Won Ho

But back to the swivel serve. Satwik has his own stab at it — though its ability to deceive opponents is highly suspect. He tries anyway. So his torso doesn't swivel, only his forearms seesaw a bit comically. Then he returns to the normal stance and sends forth a decent if predictable serve, anyway. Chirag's meditative incisive seeping dive into adding serve variations where he spends hours experimenting is well known.

So there was a fault in that frenzy post 20-16, and also a super attacking iteration with the same action that yielded a point, as he salvaged his own error. Packing it all in, darts and warts and all, Chirag Shetty displayed true grit to bounce back from mistakes, which are inevitable in the perennially fast-forwarded world of men's doubles

In the second, the Indians trailed 13-9. 15-12 and 18-16. But in what has been champion determination of recent vintage, the Indian duo would go on a 5-point rampage and wrap up the match in 49 strutting minutes. Coach Mathias Boe stays on their case, and the body lan-

In the semis, the Indians run into the newly reunited Korean pairing of Choi Sol Gyu, 27, (world's quarterfinalist) and 23 year old Kim Won Ho, who made the Indonesia finals early this year. The Indians have never played this combination together, though the Koreans have reached World No 18 pretty quickly and cannot be treated as rank unknowns.

The French Open has seen the emergence of a new Chinese pairing, Liang Wei Keng and Wang Chang who ousted the world champions Aaron-Soh in Round 1 $whether \, our \, \hat{of} \, the \, Malaysians' \, exhaustion$ from playing back to back events, or their own bombastic breakthrough run.

For Satwik and Chirag, the mystery of the Korean game might pose an early challenge, though they have looked good to improvise and generally been high on confidence at a venue they dig. Still the Indians would be keen to set an early trend and grab the first honours against the usually fleet footed Koreans. 2022 has been a good year for the top Indian pair.

GROUP 1 SCENARIO

Ireland eye semifinal spot after washout

It is too close to call with four teams on three points; England vs Australia game also abandoned

Ireland players wait for the rain to stop in Melbourne.

RAHUL PANDEY OCTOBER 28

A WASHED-out day at the 2022 T20 $\,$ World Cup has left Ireland in third spot in Group 1 after they shared points with Afghanistan from their abandoned Super 12 match. With the subsequent England-Australia match also abandoned without a ball being bowled, four teams (Australia, England, Ireland and New Zealand) are currently level on three points, though the Kiwis have a game in hand as do Sri Lanka (on two points).

The Kiwis are still to face England and Ireland, Australia need to play Afghanistan and the Irish, while England are yet to take on Sri Lanka and New Zealand. Almost all of these matches can be considered must-win games, as the losers will probably be out of contention or at least, dependent on other results going their way or sweating on net run rate.

The probability of rain affecting Ireland's next two games (against Australia in Brisbane and against New Zealand in (Adelaide) is down to 20 percent. If Ireland win both games - a tough task - they will have seven points from five games. Their net run rate will also improve in such a case.

If the Kiwis beat Sri Lanka and England, Ireland will be confirmed as semifinalists. If Ireland beat Australia and lose to New Zealand, they will have to count on the Blackcaps winning all their remaining games, beating England and Sri Lanka by big margins to dent their net run rate, as well as Australia not beating Afghanistan and overtaking them in the NRR column. If the Irish lose to Australia and beat New Zealand, they will progress as long as the Blackcaps win their remaining games and none of the other teams finish on more than five points. It is likely to come down to net

EXPRESS IN PERTH

DEVENDRA PANDEY OCTOBER 28

A DAY after Zimbabwe stunned Pakistan, pushing them to the brink of an early elimination from the T20 World Cup, the team hasn't had much time to celebrate. They had to take the long flight from Perth to Brisbane – from the Western Australian coast to the eastern seaboard - to face Bangladesh. Sikandar Raza, whose three wickets helped Zimbabwe to the nail-biting victory, spoke to The Indian Express about the win, his performance, and his career in general. Excerpts

Has the win against Pakistan sunk in?

It hasn't. There has been a series of events which has been hard to sink in for the past few weeks. Nobody thought we would qualify (for the Super 12 stage). When we won in Hobart and qualified, then too it took time to sink in. Now we saw the beautiful Stadium in playing with the big boys, these moments are still hard to sink in. We are doing well and because of this, we are getting a chance to play at such venues. Nobody believed us but everyone in the team did their best.

Did you have time to celebrate?

Actually, we haven't even had time to rest. By the time we returned to the hotel, it was close to 1 am. We were departing early in the morning and by the time my packing was over, it was already 3 am. So I decided to say my morning prayers before catching some sleep. So, I managed to sleep for only an hour. Then I woke up, packed my bags and rushed to the airport. I did manage to speak to my family back home, but it was a very short conversation. There are plenty of unanswered messages in my inbox. My body and mind are tired, desperate for some rest.

what does this win mean for Zimbabwe?

The win has given us great satisfaction. It means a lot to me, my family, to Zimbabwe because of the goal we set. Basically, we wanted to qualify for the T20 World Cup and play with big boys, and then register a few surprises. It wasn't the fact that we won on Thursday but how we won that was important for us. How our attitude carried us through.

Pakistan were coasting before you got two wickets in consecutive balls...

There were around 80 for 3 at one stage but when we saw the scoreboard, they required more runs with fewer balls left. The run rate was more than 6.5 per over which means they were still behind the game. Later, the asking rate went to 7 and then over 7.5. So we all felt that if we got a few quick wickets, one never knows where this game will go. We wanted to minimise the boundaries. We wanted them to take chances. That's all we did, we created pressure.

What were you thinking?

I had bowled two overs and (skipper) Craig (Ervine) took me off, which was the right call. He came and asked me what I was thinking. I told him that it's time we should use spin. In case, our seamers weren't able to complete their quota despite the wicket suiting them, we needed to use four overs of our spin quota. When Craig asked me to bowl again, I made sure that I stuck to the plan of getting dot balls and giving only singles. I got hit for a six but I was still trying to get a dot ball, so that I could leave as many runs as possible for my teammates to defend.

What was the discussion during the

Everyone was asked their opinion. I was nal over. (Brad) Evans was asked what was going through his mind and he told us the areas he was targeting. We gave him the field

Will this win have an impact on Zimbabwe cricket? Will this drive the new generation to take up the game?

We are the flag-bearers of this country and have to make sure that the next generation back home takes up the sport. Families will be encouraged because it can give a decent life. The problem starts when one is playing cricket but not earning through it. Now if one sees Zimbabwe doing well, winning games, you see a lot of bonuses being announced. Things might change. I hope there are more kids taking up the sport and that will improve the standard of Zimbabwe cricket.

You were born in Pakistan and now helped Zimbabwe beat Pakistan...

Î respect all countries. I represent Zimbabwe and that is important to me.

You have had a great run of late, with both bat and ball...

A lot of hard work has gone in and I started to believe in winning matches for my team. I have changed my attitude and approach towards this game.

How much did Sunil Narine help you? I was part of the Caribbean Premier League. I used to ask him questions not just for the sake of asking, but to learn new things from him. He is very helpful, even now he takes time to watch my videos. He replied to my messages. He guided me. There were two other boys who helped me. Ravi Bopara helped me with the knuckleball and when I as changing my action, the person who stood by me was Imran Tahir.

Two years ago, there was a time when you felt your cricket career was over...

I was scared that cricket was over for me. There was a tumour threat, I got my biopsy done, and luckily there was no cancer. But I had to undergo multiple surgeries on my shoulder. God wanted me to see this day.

Reprieve for Neymar in fraud case

Barcelona: Spanish prosecutors on Friday dropped all fraud and corruption charges against Brazil forward Neymar and other defendants in a case over his transfer to Barcelona from Santos in 2013. Prosecutors had sought a two-year prison term for Neymar and the payment of a 10 million euros fine in the case brought by Brazilian investment firm DIS, which owned 40% of the rights to Neymar when he was at Santos. DIS argues that it lost out on its rightful cut from the transfer because the true value was understated. "There is not the slightest hint of crime," prosecutor Luis Garcia Canton told a Barcelona court after all defendants had testified, asking the judge for the "acquittal of all defendants". The prosecution had also sought a five-year jail term for former Barcelona president Sandro Rosell and an 8.4 millioneuro fine for Barcelona. REUTERS

Kochi: Mumbai City FC continued their unbeaten streak with a 2-0 victory over Kerala Blasters in an Indian Super League (ISL) match at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium here on Friday. First-half goals from Mehtab Singh and Jorge Diaz were enough to secure all three points for the Islanders. Kerala Blasters lost their third consecutive game after winning the ISL opener earlier this month. The hosts made two changes to the

No screen time ahead of game helps Suryakumar cut out the chatter

DEVENDRA PANDEY PERTH, OCTOBER 28

WHAT IS the one ritual that Suryakumar Yadav's wife Devisha follows before every game he plays? She takes his phone from him well in advance, so that her husband doesn't get distracted by chatter from the outside world. This ritual is part of the process Yadav follows to get into the sort of mindspace that helps him to blank out everything before he goes out to bat. At the moment, the world's leading T20I run-getter this year seems to be entering the proverbial rarefied batting zone for almost every match, wherein he transcends conditions, attacks and match situations, and is able to execute his audacious range of strokes Like he did on Thursday against Netherlands at the Sydney Cricket Ground. Coming in with India on a steady 84 for 2 after 12 overs, Suryakumar made light of a sluggish pitch to pulverise an unbeaten 51 off just 25 balls. Suryakumar easily outpaced Virat Kohli at the other end, with the former India captain scoring a solid 62 off 44. The tempo of the innings completely changed after Survakumar's arrival, with India taking a massive 95 off the last eight overs.

It's a treat to the eyes when Suryakumar's strokes sail into the sky and beyond the boundary. His nimble footwork and impeccable timing contribute in making him arguably the most lethal batsman currently.

The cricket world has started to acknowledge just how dangerous Yadav is – perhaps Survakumar Yadav's form has boosted India's batting might.

the biggest threat to any opposition. Netherlands pacer Paul van Meekeren was asked about bowling to Yadav.

"Over the last 12 months, if not longer, I've personally felt he was the biggest threat to bowl to. Just with his open stance, I just felt that the margin of error was a lot smaller compared to Kohli, maybe a bit more traditional. They're very good players in their own right, and Rohit (Sharma) played some unbelievable shots. When I was bowling, I felt the biggest pressure came when I was bowling to SKY. Obviously, if you miss a little bit, he punishes you. Same with other guys, but he did just a little bit more," van Meekeren said.

In the past few months, many have tried to dissect Yadav's shot selection. The Mumbai middle-order batsman's mind is absolutely clear while playing his strokes. And a lot of hard work has gone into reaching that state of mind, he says.

Training under pressure

The way he practises is different from a routine practice session. There is a lot of pressure that he puts on himself in the nets. "When I go back to Mumbai and do it, I try and put a lot of pressure on myself whenever I'm going for a few practice sessions or playing a match scenario or doing anything in the game. So, for example, if I am targeting a few balls, and I have to get N number of runs, if I get out, I just come out (of the nets). That day, I don't go in to bat again," Yadav revealed.

That discipline and mastery over his range has been reflected in his game in the middle as well. Contrary to how it may appear to those watching, he is not really trying anything out of the box, but instead using all the shots he already has in his kitty.

But how does he manage to get off to a quick start almost immediately. Batsmen usually take at least some time to start middling the ball. Yadav says that is how he has been practising in the last three-four years.

"The situation I go in to bat, there are always two scenarios in front of me - either the team has lost two early wickets or there are already good runs (on the board) and two wickets are down. If less runs are there, then I have to increase the tempo and if there are more runs, then I have to maintain that tempo. It's simple."

Post-match script: Malik's stock rises and Babar's batting approach picked on

AKRAM'S MIDDLE ORDER PICK

Former Pakistan captain Wasim Akram accussed skipper Babar Azam of being partial and selecting players that he likes. Stating that Babar needs to be smarter in terms of selection, Akram said that a player like Shoaib Malik deserved a spot in the Playing XI which lacks experience in the middle order.

"From past one year we know that the middle order is weak. Here is Shoaib Malik (sitting in the studio), if I am aiming to win the World Cup, I will take the best option available. If I'm the captain and to win the World Cup I have to make a donkey my father, I will do it. (Agar mujhe gadhe ko bhi baap bnana pade toh mai banaluga to win the World Cup)," said Wasim on the YouTube show on A Sports.

"Babar has to be more intelligent. This is not a gully cricket team that anybody comes into the team on the basis of preferences. I am just saying what I am hearing. If I was the selector, I would have kept Malik in the middle-order the very first day. It's Australia, it's not Sharjah, Dubai or Pakistan that there will be dead wickets," Akram concluded.

KEEP AFRIDI OUT OF BLAME GAME

Mohammad Amir, the former Pakistan pacer, has backed Shaheen Shah Afridi, who's gone wicketless so far in the T20 World Cup, saving that the fault lies with those who rushed back a fast bowler after a knee injury. "You say our bowling is world-class. But apart from Haris (Rauf) and Shadab (Khan),

World Cup are 0 and 4.

no one is bowling particularly well. Shaheen has just come back from injury. We cannot blame him, we should blame the ones who played him. Shaheen is not forcing them to play him at gunpoint," Amir said during a discussion with Salim Malik and Wahab Riaz on 24 News HD after Pakistan's one-run loss to Zimbabwe in Perth on Thursday.

Shaheen Shah Afridi was out for three months with a knee injury, and the couple of T20 World Cup warm-up games last week were his first bit of competitive cricket since

KOHLI RACES AHEAD

Virat Kohli versus Babar Azam is a neverending debate. With Kohli rediscovering form and Babar losing touch, the latter was at the receiving end. "Virat becomes a different player as he keeps on playing more deliveries. Once he has played 15-16 balls, his strike rate increases and he becomes more dangerous" said Misbah ul Haq on A Sports. "This is something that Babar needs to learn. After the first six overs, his strike rate comes down."

Agreeing with Malik, Waqar Younis said, "Virat is not afraid of using the bottom hand and going over the top. We love Babar but he does not often go over the top," said Younis. "He is a classic batsman and looks very elegant while batting but in T20 cricket you need to take the game to the bowler by going over the top."

Against India and Zimbabwe, he was not as quick as he usually is, and did not pick up a wicket across eight overs, which went for 63 runs. "A bowler falls behind if he does not bowl normally for even a week, and Shaheen is coming back from a knee injury on top of that. It is the most cruel injury for a pacer, it can be career threatening, you ask Brett Lee, Shoaib Akhtar, Umar Gul, Sohail Tanvir."

Wahab Riaz said, "It does not appear that Shaheen is fit, as he has always been a matchwinner for Pakistan in the past.'
