2001 Census will be basis, poll panel

bans new admin units from January 1

THE ELECTION Commission of India said Tuesday it has begun the process of delimitation of Assembly and Parliamentary constituencies in Assam. The process will be based on Census data from 2001. The last delimitation of constituencies in Assam was done in 1976 on the basis of the 1971 Census.

In 1971, Assam's population was 1.46 crore. In 2001, it increased to 2.66 crore and to 3.12 crore in 2011. The EC also issued a directive banning the creation of new administrative units in the state with effect from January 1 next limitation exercise in the state. Assam currently has 14 Lok Sabha, 126 Assembly constituencies.

DEMONETISATION CASE

2001 vs 2011: Opp concern

ASSEMBLY POLLS are not due in Assam until 2026. The state currently has 126 Assembly constituencies and sends 14 MPs to Lok Sabha. The state Opposition is questioning why the delimitation exercise is being done on the basis of the 2001 Census, and not the 2011 Census.

Cold Play at Kotla: Tamil Nadu cricketers get extra cover for Delhi winter - monkey caps & thermals getting officially colder than Dehradun, Dharamshala and Nainital, the stadium witnessed a rare sight: cricketers from Tamil Nadu sporting monkey caps in the field, apart from several layers of clothing, for their third-round away Ranji Trophy game against hosts Delhi.

From the time the visiting team landed here, the focus has not just been on the opposition. They arrived with an eye on the chill and were equipped to tackle it, especially given that the winter temperatures in Chennai don't go below the mid-twenties, even at night — it was 25-29 degrees Celsius Tuesday.

The two practice sessions they had before the game at the Feroz Shah Kotla started around noon. However, the 9.30 am start on Day 1 at the Kotla proved to be a bit too much for some players, especially seamer LVignesh, who bowled with his monkey Rathore, who was decorated with a Padma Shri in 2018, is currently the managing director of Gujarat Metro Rail Corporation Limited (GMRC), the special purpose vehicle for metro projects in the state.

The announcement of the two appointments was made by the Chief Minister's Office in a press statement Tuesday, indicating the thrust of the second term of the Patel government being on finance, economics, education and infrastructure.

As per the statement, the two new posts have been created in the CMO and its tenure will be till that of the Chief Minister or till further orders.

This is not the first time that advisors to the CM have been appointed. Earlier, water resources expert BN Navalawala has served as adviser to the CM during Modi's tenure, and retired Air Marshal RK Dhir has served as adviser on Defence and Aerospace during former CM Vijay Rupani's tenure.

completed. In May this year, finalising its order for Jammu and Kashmir, the Delimitation Commission recommended seven additional constituencies - six for Jammu and one for Kashmir - taking the total number of seats in the Union Territory to 90 from 83 earlier. Reacting to the announcement on the delimitation exercise in Assam, state Opposition leader and senior Congress leader Debabrata Saikia welcomed the delimitation process but said it was due for a long time and expressed concern on using the 2001 Census figures for the

"It was due long back. But there were some situations. All parties including the BJP met various social organisations, pressure groups also represented to the Central government to stop the delimitation till the NRC is final and the Disturbed Areas Act is here. Taking that plea, it was stopped. We are not clear whether NRC is accepted or not. Though the delimitation is needful, these situations have not been satisfied yet," Saikia said.

He said the 2011 Census figures are available and the 2021 Census process must also be accounted for to conduct the delimitation process.

"After 2011 and 2021, if we go by 2001, it will be an injustice to follow the 2001 Census figures. Before taking such a decision, the government should consider whether it will serve any meaningful purpose," he said.

AIUDF leader and MLA Aminul Islam too said he welcomed the delimitation move but raised questions on why it was being done with the 2001 Census figures instead of the 2011 and 2021 numbers.

"We welcome the process but in 2026 it will be held across the Islam also claimed several

On Tuesday, the Rayagada police allowed the Russian couple in the group to leave after recording their statements with the guide's help. When contacted, the guide litendra Singh told The Indian Express that they were in transit under police escort. Responding to another query, he said they will be in Odisha as long as the police want them to be. "All the four Russians were friends and came here for holidaying. I can't reveal more about them since the matter is under investigation," Singh said.

The Russian Embassy in Delhi said Tuesday that they "are aware of the tragic demise of two Russian citizens in Odisha" and confirmed that Antov was a Vladimir Region Legislative Assembly member. "The Consulate General of Russia in Kolkata is following the case in touch with local authorities. According to information available to the police, no criminal aspect is seen," the Embassy said in a statement.

Police sources said they were unaware of Pavel's profile at the time of his death. Once his credentials were known, senior police officers, including DIG (south western range) Rajesh Pandit and Rayagada SP Vivekananda Sharma, visited the hotel.

Hotel staff told The Indian Express that Pavel and Bidenov had checked into room No. 203 on the ground floor. Turov and Panasenko checked into room No. 303 on the first floor and later moved to room No. 208 on the ground floor, a staffer said. Singh, the guide, stayed in another room on the second floor,

Following the death of Bidenov, Antov was shifted to room No. 309 on the first floor. Around 7.25 pm on December 24, Antov was found lying in a pool of blood on the roof of a single-storey building adjacent to the main hotel building, the hotel staffer said

"We came to know about it after hearing a noise outside,' the staffer said.

The hotel's manager Kaushik Thakar told The Indian Express: "After one of the four died on December 22, the Russians did not go out anywhere (except to the cremation ground on December 24). They came to the hotel restaurant for food. Sometimes, they ordered food from their rooms

Following Antov's death, the website of the Legislative Assembly in Vladimir quoted the House's Speaker, Vladimir Kiselyov, as saying, "He was valued both for his professionalism and for his personal qualities -delicate, intelligent, respectful of everyone, a man of broad outlook and erudition, he won everyone over. i. Currency in circulation size of the overall economy (CIC) as percentage of GDP: This makes it inexplicable. "Further, as was a key metric cited to justify per the data available in the demonetisation. "The magnitude of cash in circulation is directly linked to the level of corruption," said PM Modi in his speech on November 8, 2016. "The ratio of CIC to GDP has been 11% or more in the last five financial years beginning from 2011-12 to 2015-16," the affidavit said. Quoting other reports, it noted that at 11.55%, India's Cash to GDP percentage ratio was much higher than that for the US(7.74%). What the affidavit didn't nention: CIC as a percentage of GDP jumped back to pre-demonetisation levels within three years. The RBI's Annual Report for 2019-20 states: "...the currency-GDP ratio increased to its pre-demonetisation level of 12.0 per cent in 2019-20 from 11.3 per cent a year ago..." This ratio rose further to 14.4 per cent in 2020-21 before declining to 13.7 per cent in 2021-22, according to RBI.

ii. Steep rise in the circulation of Rs 500 and Rs 1,000 notes: "Increase in circulation of bank notes of denominations Rs 500 and Rs 1,000 vis-a-vis that of Rs 50 and Rs 100 for preceding 5 years (as per RBI data) had shown a steep rise for the two highest denominations i.e., 76.38% for Rs 500 and 108.98% for Rs 1,000," the affidavit states, adding this steep rise compared with the rise in the Economic Survey for 2014-15 and 2015-16, the size of the economy has grown less than 30% from 2011-12 to 2015-16," it states. What the affidavit didn't mention: The RBI's Central Board flagged a flaw in this analysis of the government. "The growth rate of the economy mentioned is the real rate while the growth in currency in circulation is nominal. Adjusted for inflation, the difference may not be so stark. Hence this argument does not adequately support the recommendation (for demonetisation)," state the minutes of the RBI's central Board meeting held on November 8, 2016 at 5.30 p.m., just two and a half hours before the PM announced the demonetisation. iii. Quantum of fake currency: Fake currency notes in the system were the first of the "three specific mischiefs, which had a serious adverse impact on the Indian economy over the past year" according to the government affidavit.

What the affidavit doesn't mention: The RBI Central Board's response. "While any incidence of counterfeiting is a concern, Rs 400 crore as a percentage of the total quantum of currency in circulation (over Rs 17 lakh crore) is not very significant," stated the minutes of the RBI Central Board meeting.

What the affidavit doesn't mention: The RBI Central Board dismissed this claim. The alleged conversion case dates back to April 14 this year, when some Hindu organisations, including the Bajrang Dal, staged a protest outside a church run by the Evangelical Church of India (ECI), in Hariharganj area of Fatehpur, alleging that people were being lured with false promises to convert.

An FIR was registered the next day, on the basis of a complaint filed by a local VHP leader. Himanshu Dixit, in which 35 people, including a minor girl, were named while 20 more that their conversion had taken were unidentified. Of those named, 22 are employees of the Broadwell Christian Hospital, located near the church. Twenty-six of the accused, including the pastor of the church, Vijay Masih, 36, were arrested, and later released on bail. Police dropped the charges against the 16-year-old girl named in the FIR as no evidence was found against her.

But in politically crucial Uttar Pradesh, which the Yatra enters on January 3, those invited by Rahul include SP chief Akhilesh Yadav, BSP supremo Mayawati and RLD chief Jayant Chaudhary. However, most fellow Opposition leaders in the state have expressed their inability to join the march, citing prior engagements. On Monday, Akhilesh raised the crucial question at the heart of all such Opposition unity efforts. "We too believe in uniting India, we are in agreement on it. But the question is who will tackle the BIP?

While Akhilesh's response dodged a direct reply on whether he would be joining the Yatra, SP spokesperson Rajendra Chaudhary told The Indian Express it was "unlikely", and that the SP chief had "party programmes lined up". He also stressed that the party had not received any formal invite, a position taken by the BSP as well.

The RLD, an ally of the SP, also claimed its chief Chaudhary would be unable to make it due to "pre-decided engagements" of the party. Among other parties to have "You needed to be warm to bowl normally and when I took the field, I couldn't even feel my fingers and this despite me wearing a skinner, thermal wear. a T-shirt, the jersey, and the sweater. And at the other end we had Sandy (Sandeep Warrier) who was just bowling with his jersey," Vignesh said.

"Although I got two wickets, I couldn't even feel the ball in my hand. For instance, I had to use my shoulder more than I usually do and had to make a few adjustments, especially with regards to how I load up to the crease. If I didn't use my shoulder enough, I would have probably bowled more half-volleys," he said.

Even the in-form Delhi opener Shorey, who scored a patient half-century (66), said the conditions were challenging for the batsmen. "The conditions were good for bowlers. It was seaming a bit in the morning but as the day progressed, it got better," said Shorey, who put on 105 runs for the third wicket with Jonty Sidhu (57). It was a good toss for Tamil

Nadu skipper Baba Indrajith to win as he put Delhi into bat. In the morning, the ball was still doing a bit and Vignesh -- who swings the ball both ways -made the most of it.

Vignesh, with his woollen headgear on, bagged the prized wicket of Shorey, who got undone by a good outswinger. The mercury dipped further in the final session and bad light forced the umpires to declare the end of the day's play with Delhi tottering at 212 for six at stumps. Tamil Nadu, in their monkey

After visit to night shelter, Delhi L-G 'shunts' bureaucrat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

CS writes

to Sisodia,

seeks details

of files sent to

DAYS AFTER Deputy Chief Minister Manish Sisodia wrote a letter to L-G V K Saxena alleging that certain files on important policy decisions in the recent past have been directly forwarded to the L-G "sidelining" the minister in charge, Chief Secretary Naresh Kumar asked the office of the Deputy CM to provide "details of certain files and orders" sent to the L-G "bypassing his office".

The Deputy CM in his letter to Saxena Friday had accused the L-G of "interfering" in the government's day-to-day work. On the same day, Sisodia also issued an order to the CS, secretaries, principal secretaries, and heads of all the departments, saying, "It has been brought to my attention that certain files pertaining to important policy decisions have in the recent past been forwarded directly by you to the office of his excellence, the Hon'ble L-G, without routing the same/putting it up to me as the minister in charge of the department..."

In a response to the order, the CS on Monday wrote to the secretary to the Deputy CM to provide the details of "certain files" as well as "direct orders/directions/approvals to officers" referred to by Sisodia by January 2.

A copy of the letter was also sent to all the principal secretaries, secretaries, CEOs, MDs, directors, and commissioners to provide details of all such cases referred to by the Deputy CM (if not such as, then provided a nil report) to the office of the CS latest by January 2 for taking further necessary action in the matter.

In the order on Friday, Sisodia had said that the L-G is empowered under rule 19(5) of the TBR to call for papers pertaining to any proposal or matter in a department, but the secretary concerned is "obliged" to inform the minister-in-charge of the department while sending the papers to the L-G.

"Furthermore, it has been brought to my notice that the L-G has given direct orders/directions/approval to officers bypassing the council of ministers...," the letter read.

Sisodia also raised this matter last month and filed an affidavit in the Supreme Court, alleging that bureaucrats were skipping meetings, not taking calls, "disobeying orders of ministers" and treating the elected government with "indifference."

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27 DELHIL-GVK Saxena transferred the Delhi Urban Shelter Improvement Board (DUSIB) CEO on Monday evening after he found arrangements at the night shelters for the homeless near ISBT Kashmere Gate "inadequate and dirty". Saxena visited the Mandir on Friday evening. "In a strong message to the bureaucracy to either perform or perish, L-G V K Saxena late yesterday night transferred the DUSIB CEO K Mahesh, shunting him to UTCS as Special Director... further action is contemplated against Mahesh," a press release by Rai Niwas said.

During the visit, Saxena had found that "all the shelters at the location had a total capacity of only about 600 beds. Thousands were forced to sleep on the pavements in cold" and that "due to severe lack of toilet facilities attached to the night shelters, the occupants and others were forced to defecate in the open. mostly on the adjacent Yamuna bank". He also flagged the lack of facilities to bathe.

Mahesh did not respond to queries on his transfer.

There are 253 buildings, tents, and porta cabins being used as night shelters at present. The combined capacity of these is 18,537. On Monday night, only around 7,000 people slept in the shelters, of which, there are 19 porta cabins and nine tents in the ISBT and Hanuman Mandir.

The area is home to several beggars as well as the homeless, who either pull rickshaws or do odd jobs during the day. Several of them sleep near the temple.

According to DUSIB sources, getting people to use the night shelters is a challenge. "Concerted efforts have been made to get people to sleep in the shelters, but many of them prefer to stay near the temple, where visitors usually distribute blankets, food and money. Some people living on the streets in the area are addicted to drugs and we also have to be cognizant of the safety of the others in shelters.

side DUSIB," said a senior official. Officials pointed out that the shelters are built next to the Yamuna and building toilets or more shelters in the area is not possible since they do not own the land and the National Green Tribunal has banned construction activities on the floodplains.

ranted because he, as DUSIB CEO, had failed to set up toilets for residents of the Jailorwala Bagh slum in Ashok Vihar so that the "ambitious world-class nursery project - Vaishnavi" could start adjacent to it.

"The residents of the neighbouring slum cluster, in absence of toilets... are forced to defecate in the open on the nearby railway track or on the land, where the nursery is being developed," the press release added.

Officials, however, stated that

We cannot move people into shelters forcibly. This is a process built on trust and takes time, which is why NGOs have been appointed to run the shelters. Even then, in some cases, it is to be accepted that some people will not move to shelters and our duty becomes to keep them and the others safe. Apart from this, there are several agencies, such as the Delhi Police, DDA, Social Welfare Department and the MCD that are responsible for dealing with the situation, along-

CIVIL SERVICES

How to prepare for IAS/UPSC interview

GENERAL OVERVIEW

The UPSC interview lasts for about 30 minutes and carries 275 marks out of the total 2025. However, a candidate's score in Mains or Prelims doesn't play any part in determining the course of the interview but the marks of both the Mains and Personality Test are considered for the final UPSC ranking. Interview is not a test of knowledge (they have already tested it in Mains and Prelims) but your innate personality.

TRUE NATURE OF THE INTERVIEW

The ultimate objective of conducting an interview is to test whether a candidate is suitable for civil services and determines potential in administrative skills. The panel members will not try to test a candidate's knowledge but would rather try to observe the way they approach the question; they would try to assess his/her personality to determine his/her suitability in civil services. Never think that board members are meant for eliminating you or to demean you. You should have a positive mindset.

WHY DO CANDIDATES FEEL UNEASY ABOUT THE UPSC INTERVIEW?

There is no defined syllabus unlike Prelims and Mains exams. The interview panellists are drawn from diverse academic disciplines; they ask questions from their domain and that becomes challenging.

The preparation for the UPSC Interview should be comprehensive. Topics such as Optional Subject chosen for Mains, educational background, place of residence, a reason to become an IAS/IPS officer, content written in the Detailed Application Form (DAF) and current affairs are most likely to come up in discussion.

MASTERING THE DAF

Preparing the DAF is equivalent to getting half of the job done. The Interview panel generally tests a candidate on the content written in the DAF as it contains the detailed information about a candidate such as his/her birthplace, subjects in graduation, Optional Subject, details of the college, professional experience, the topics of interest, hobbies and so on. Hence, a candidate must think things through before preparing for DAF-based questions in the Interview.

The following are some tips:

(a) A candidate must have a detailed knowledge of the word mentioned in DAF. For example, in case of a candidate's name, he/she should know if he/she shares the name with any famous personality, the meaning of name/surname etc.

(b) Be aware of the personalities related to the sports or hobbies that the candidate wants to pursue. There is no need to do a Ph.D. in sports or hobbies but your interest must reflect your curiosity on the subject.

It is always advisable to have a hobby that reflects the traits of your personality. For instance, motivating others as a hobby reflects your personality.

PREPARING FOR OUESTIONS RE-LATED TO YOUR EDUCATIONAL BACK-

The candidate must be ready to answer details about the college/university where he had undertaken his graduation or masters. For instance, if the name of the college is Sri Ramakrishna Engineering College, a candidate can expect a question on Ramakrishna and his

DEGREE PURSUED BY CANDIDATE AND REASON FOR CHOOSING

UPSC expects the candidate to have adequate knowledge of his stream since he has devoted three to five years in mastering it. Hence refresh the important topics and concepts about your chosen stream. Check if there is any current news on it. For example, a candidate belonging to mechanical engineering must be aware of 4D printing that is often discussed in the news. The candidate needs to substantiate with an example how he/she will apply the degree in civil services. PREPARING FOR QUESTIONS

RELATED TO YOUR WORK EXPERIENCE

- (a) Sound knowledge of the organisation in which a candidate is/was working.
- (b) Key responsibility areas in that organisation.
- (c) Any application of his work experience
- in civil services. (d) Preparing for questions related to your reasons for choosing your civil service. WHY DOES A CANDIDATE WANT TO

- JOIN CIVIL SERVICE? ■ If already working, why does a candidate want to switch the job?
- How can the job expertise be useful in the field of civil service?

PREPARING FOR QUESTIONS RELATED TO YOUR OPTIONAL SUBJECT

- Reason for choosing Optional subject if the optional differs from the one candidate has studied in graduation.
- Concepts and topics of the Optional Subject need to be brushed up as the question can be asked from the same. For example, a candidate having economics optional can be asked about the present state of the crisis engulfing the

PREPARING FOR QUESTIONS RELATED TO YOUR PREFERENCE OF SERVICES

- The candidate needs to prepare on the following aspects and state the reason for giving preference to the order of services ---IAS>IRS>IPS Why a preference is given for a particular state?
- If a particular state is not allotted, how will a candidate adjust with the state that is linguistically and culturally different?

PREPARING FOR QUESTIONS RELATED TO YOUR HOBBIES

The candidate must be clear about the reason for pursuing a particular hobby. Have a good knowledge base about your chosen hobby. If part of an NGO or club, the candidate must elaborate on his role in a particular NGO/club.

Succeed with a sword-with-shield strategy

NTERVIEW, or, to be more precise, 'viewed interaction', is the foundational pillar to test one's personality. However, keep in mind that the interview in the Civil Services Examination is not a test of your individuality, rather, it tests your bureaucratic mindset and temperament.

A bureaucrat is one who serves as the link between the Government and the people, hence, it is expected of him to understand both the content and intent of policymaking and its implementation to devote himself to the service and welfare of the people. This understanding is to be supported by certain traits like intellectual integrity, communication skills, conceptual clarity, contemplative approach, leadership and motivational abilities and so on. In fact, these are the parameters on which the Board frames the guestions. It is, therefore, evident that the Board is not interested in knowing the vertical depth of your knowledge in various subjects, rather it intends to test your traits as mentioned above through questions spread horizontally. The obvious outcome of the Board's approach is reflected in the diversity of the questions. In this backdrop, it is pertinent to know the nature and sources of the questions and the corresponding traits enshrined in them.

The DAF is the primary source of the questions. In fact, the printed columns and the filled-in answers, both are equally important for questions to know the traits like honesty and integrity in the

The sources and nature of questions other than those asked from the DAF may be categorised as follows:

Questions on current developments: Awareness, whether you would be able to keep your eyes and ears open

Questions on your academics: To test your sincerity and sensitivity which you must have shown during your studies and it is, therefore, expected of you that you would carry on these in future too.

Questions on the optional subject: The relevance of the subject in the society, your conceptual clarity and understanding and above all your approach to strategic planning for success.

Questions on hobbies: Your understanding of yourself to show your leadership and motivational abilities. This is based on the concept that a leader is one who leads himself.

Ouestions on situations: Your decision-making and problem-solving approach and ability.

In order to explore your traits suitable for bureaucracy you need to adopt a twopronged approach comprising:

1. Forming a Safety Vault: Reading newspapers/books to collect information should be such that it would give you conceptual clarity. Every word mentioned in the DAF should be taken care of and you should explore the extent of questions from it. For example, "Category" mentioned in the DAF- if it says 'EWS' this may lead to framing of questions on its constitutional, legal, judicial, social, economic, political or ethical dimensions.

Framing a safety vault around you with this multidimensional approach will create a shield for you and you will boost the level of your confidence which will be reflected in your body language. This will be helpful in the sense that you then would not require unnecessarily focus on body movements and eye contact. Such body movements would automatically be commensurate with your conceptual clarity and expression.

2. Expressing your Traits: You need to be concise in your answer for which you need to be mentally agile and have a balance of mind. You should always focus on finding out the hidden trait behind the questions and your answer should be framed accordingly.

Now, it is high time and the right opportune to adopt the 'Sword-with-Shield' strategy to come out with glaring success in the personality test.

Spectrum of sword-with-shield strategy Step 1: Listen to the questions carefully. (Avoid, as far as possible, requesting the Board to repeat the questions. This will express your mental agility).

Step 2: Understand the trait hidden in the question as suggested above according to the nature of the questions. Step 3: Frame your answer in a concise manner.

(A bureaucrat should not be unnecessarily vocal.) Step 4: Express yourself with precision to show your contemplative ability and conceptual clarity.

Step 5: Do not tell lies or manipulate things. Be honest in answering to prove your authenticity. Step 6: Take a balanced approach with a positive mindset and attitude. Step 7: Remain free from all prejudices and be reformative. These steps would be fruitful once you appear in mock interviews. This will help you assess yourself to notice a continuous and sustained improvement so far as your bureaucratic personality is concerned.

Do not be fearful of debatable questions or issues or even of situation-based questions considering that your traits are more important than the actual content. Not answering a subject-specific question is not going to be detrimental. On the other hand, while answering a question on any debatable issue Step 6 of the strategy would make you confident and while handling a situation Step 7 would prove to be the key to the appropriate answer.

Hence, firstly, enlist your doubts of varied nature and work on clearing them. Secondly, find out the hidden trait in all probable questions and try to frame your answers accordingly. Thirdly, give more time to contemplation rather than collecting unwanted data and information, and finally, start thinking like a bureaucrat from today itself to sharpen your sword. Good Luck.

CIVIL SERVICES

An initiative by RED

NEXT IAS provides comprehensive and quality guidance for Civil Services Exam

T IS important to understand the qualities which UPSC is looking for in a candidate. In fact, many of us don't know that UPSC mentioned requisite personality parameters in the notification itself. Although notification language might not be descriptive enough to understand but based on the interpretation of notification and analysing the dynamic and diverse profile of a Civil servant, I would like to share my viewpoints on the requirements of a candidate for a personality test.

All the major requirements of the personality test can be summarised in the 7 C's that UPSC might look for in a civil servant:

Competency: The competency of a candidate is checked through knowledge, awareness & sincerity. A civil servant should have knowledge of subjects studied in graduation and the subjects studied during the Prelims and Main Exam stages. The candidate must be aware of things around him/her with respect to place(s) from where he/she belongs, has completed their education, & where he/she was employed. Candidate should be aware of national and international developments and related areas. Sincerity towards his/her job is very essential as an aspirant.

Confidence: In tough and challenging situations, a civil servant might be required to take quick and appropriate decisions, therefore a civil servant is expected to exhibit confidence, leadership skills and dynamism in his/her personality. Generally, civil servants are posted in leadership positions, irrespective of the service they join and their subordinates look up to them for quidance and leadership. These qualities should be apparent and visible from awards, achievements, positions held and responsibilities taken in college and employment, sports, NCC, extracurricular activities, hobbies, etc. filled in DAF. Dynamism and the urge to learn new things is an essential job requirements in civil services. A lack of knowledge should not make them complacent. They should be open to taking the training and learning new things.

Capability: The capability of a civil servant can be judged through decision-making and communication skills. At times civil servants might be forced to take quick decisions due to unforeseen situations such as the breakdown of law and order, and the occurrence of natural disasters such as earthquakes, storms, floods etc. Under such unforeseen situations, a Civil servant is required to exhibit the capability of not only taking a timely decision but to adopt a rational and balanced approach. Rational means the decision should be well thought out, it means having weighed all the possible aspects of an issue before coming to a final decision which should be aligned with constitutional

A civil servant is supposed to work on a neutral line under constitutional morality without the influence of any party or leader.

Commitment: In a civil servant commitment can be seen by his/her respect and dedication towards the constitution. Punctuality, honesty and integrity describe the commitment towards his/her duty or service to the nation.

Compassion: The less empowered a person is, the more they are dependent on the government. The rich or privileged can get the services that they want through one means or another but the poor actually require the help of the government. Officers posted at the leadership level are the face of the government therefore it is essential that such officers should feel the pain of the poor and should be willing to help them within the spirit of the law.

Consistency: The concept of consistency can be better defined as sincerity and optimism, which are essential qualities which should be used to deliver.

Consistency helps to overcome several barriers and optimism can bring positive changes and reforms in work culture, it can infuse enthusiasm in

Coordination: The concept of coordination and dialogue with common people and also support from senior & subordinate officers would be needed for arriving at an amicable settlement to a problem. Public acceptance & participation in governance is essential which is the beauty of good governance. At times coordination with the ruling party and Opposition party leaders becomes es-

Civil servants are required to deal with complex and difficult situations. To assign roles and responsibilities to subordinates, to set accountability, and to communicate precisely, clarity in thoughts must be part of the personality of a civil servant.

In UPSC Civil Services Exam, there are three stages:

Preliminary Stage: It is the qualifying stage. In the Prelims exam, there are two papers (Paper-1: GS) and (Paper-2: CSAT). Both papers are composed of MCQ-type objective questions.

Written Examination (Main Examination): Those students who are declared qualified in the Preliminary examination are required to appear in a descriptive answer type (subjective type) written examination. The total weightage of the written examination (for merit purposes) is 1,750

Personality Test: Those candidates who are declared qualified in the written examination are required to appear in the Interview (Personality Test) which is the third and final stage of CSE.

The weightage of the Personality Test is 275 marks. Marks of the written exam and Personality Test are added, thus total weightage of the Main Examination (Written Examination+Personality Test) is 2025 Marks. The duration of the UPSC Interview (Personality Test) is 25-35 minutes only and the range of marks obtained is 100-220, hence Personality Test is very important and can be proved as a game changer for many. The weightage of the Personality Test in total marks is approximately 13.5%.

Questions Asked in Personality Test The questions that are asked by UPSC panel members are very diverse. Answers to these questions require knowledge and understanding and hence thorough preparation of various fields and subjects is most needed. The important areas from which the questions are frequently asked can be classified into two major sections : (1) DAF-based areas and (2) Non-DAF areas.

Detailed Application Form contains various entries to be filled by the candidate, which describe the personality of the candidate. There are two DAFs filled by each candidate.

DAF-1 is filled in after the prelims exam result and DAF -2 is filled in after the main exam (written exam) result. DAF is the detailed biodata of a candidate and the following are the questions that might be asked based

(1) Personal profile-related questions

(2) Parental profile-related questions (3) Homeplace, home district and home state-

related questions (4) Educational profile-related questions

(5) Job profile-related questions (6) Service and cadre preference-related ques-

(7) Scholarship and achievements-related

(8) Sports, NCC, Leadership, and positions held in school and college-related questions

(9) Extracurricular activities, interests and hobbies-related questions. There are many other important areas from which questions might be asked in Personality Tests which are known as non-DAF questions, such as:

(1) General studies related to questions from various fields such as the Indian economy, Indian polity, environment and ecology, geography, international relations, social issues, constitutional provisions, etc.

(2) Current affairs of national and international importance

(3) Optional subject-related questions (4) Degree subjects-related questions

(5) Opinion-based questions

(6) Situation-based questions (7) Miscellaneous

BLISS POINT STUDIES

he UPSC CSE interview carries 275 marks out of the total 2,025, which is a hefty percentage and in fact, a game changer. Interview according to UPSC is described to be a test of a candidate's overall personality which includes analytical ability, logical decision making, intellectual integrity, and of course leadership skills. Understanding this, BLISS POINT STUDIES aims to provide you an opportunity to test and equip yourself before the Personality Test so that this stage can become a stepping stone to the higher rungs not perfection, but originality, the opening of new frontiers; once this is done, the conquered territory becomes common property. Here arrives the final frontier of UPSC CSE - The Interview (Personality Test).

Learn to crack the IAS Personality Test with Drishti IAS

With it comes a great deal of turbulence, uncertainty, and the need to be in a state of focus and unshakable clarity. Sometimes you flunk and lose clarity because of the gruelling attempts at UPSC and years of toil. Being so close to your dreams can make you feel what if you don't make it to the end. Sometimes a what-if is the only anchor that pulls down your sailing ship of dreams. To keep the ship of dreams sailing you need the same breeze, flow of water, and environment that keeps you going. This is the sinking feeling that aspirants go through at times in their UPSC

The UPSC Personality Test, also known as the Interview, is a crucial stage of the Civil Services Examination Process. It is the final step of the selection journey. The marks obtained here play a major role in the final rank of a candidate. Therefore, it is important for candidates to take the Personality Test very seriously and prepare thoroughly for it.

To prepare for the Personality Test, candidates should be well versed in current affairs and social and economic issues, able to think critically and express their thoughts clearly and concisely. In addition to having a strong foundation of

HE TRUE mark of genius is knowledge, it is also important for candidates to have good communication skills. This includes being able to articulate their thoughts and ideas clearly, listen actively and respond appropriately to questions.

It is natural to feel nervous, but it is important to remain calm and focused as a confident and composed personality are the key traits of a bureaucrat. This can be achieved through practice and preparation.

This is where Drishti IAS takes strides with you. Drishti IAS has come up with an Interview Guidance Program to help you keep your poise and go through the final stage of UPSC. Drishti IAS offers a comprehensive programme that will help candidates develop adequate skills and knowledge needed to excel in the Personality Test.

The features of the Drishti IAS Interview Guidance Programme include comprehensive discussions and corrective feedback from experienced and enriched Panel Members through mock interviews. The program stimulates the board experience, making the candidates more comfortable and confident during the actual Interview.

Through personalised sessions, candidates can develop the skills needed to participate in a healthy and productive dialogue, at the same time, identify their strengths and recognise the areas of improvement.

Drishti IAS Interview Guidance Programme adheres to the Kothari Committee's recommendations that list the qualities required in the personality of a civil servant viz. Clarity of expression; Grasp of narrative and argument; Reasoning ability; Appreciation of different points of view; Awareness and concern for socio-economic problems and the range and depth of interests and personal attributes relevant to interaction with people.

Drishti IAS's Interview Panel comprises retired bureaucrats, Delhi University Professors, and experts from different fields. Their accumulative experiences will acclimatise the candidates well for their final Interview through detailed evaluation and feedback.

These Mock Interviews are practice exercises where a candidate can rectify their mistakes and shortcomings and reinforce their personality. Candidates will learn to tackle the questions with logic and calmness and through the detailed feedback, they will learn to frame answers which are not too brisk or protracted. The program will help in inculcating a positive and optimistic outlook in the candidates required to run the bureaucratic framework of our country.

As you face this final frontier, Drishti IAS is here to guide and sail you through the process. We wish you the best of luck.

OU HAVE read enough about how to face the UPSC Board for Civil Services Personality test. You have been told:

- To dress(either in suit or in plain light colour full
- sleeve shirt on a dark pant; formal black/brown shoes ■ To greet the Board Good morning/ afternoon/ evening to ma'am first and the Chair and members
- To take a seat when asked to and wait till then
- To not laugh even when the Board cracks the finest of jokes but you may let them know very mildly that their sense of humour is extraordinary; you are not
- To not resort to humour yourself under any cir-
- cumstances;
- To never politicise your answer ■ Don't ever get negative about any item of discus-
- Don't begin the answer in the middle assuming that the Board will understand you anyhow
- Take the Board for curious, intelligent and wellmeaning college students and answer. Even when you scale up, the pre-supposition stands
- Don't try to hide behind facts. Get into healthy analysis without delay when the question expects you to. This is particularly so for social sciences
- Don't accept and drink water when you are offered the same unless it is absolutely essential.
- Don't ever assume that the Board does not have the finest of answers for the question they ask. It is 'big knowledge` for you, not for the Board. May be you have even better answer. Best of luck for its good delivery
- Board gives you very high respect and care. Reciprocate
- Board is ready to give you very good marks. Are you ready to take it? Seriously.
- The candidates that you meet on the day whose interviews are over may try to scare you. Its a competitive examination after all!
- Don't expect the Board to take the best of you. They will mark you for whatever you present of yourself. ■ English language matters but not in a literary sense. Everyone loves a well-communicated argument. ■ If you said that singing is your hobby/interest and when you are asked to sing, respond with a very good

■ Similarly, those of you who say that writing or reading poetry/short stories is one of your interests, you should be able to take the question as a great opportunity to excel. Go prepared.

■ When you are asked to state your strengths, don't be boastful. Similarly, when asked to state your weaknesses, take it as an opportunity to give your strength-indisquise.

All that you have been told is absolutely right. Follow them carefully. Lets get to issues that matter

To do authentic homework in preparation for the Interview, make a 360 degree coverage of your DAF. Every word that figures in it should be exhaustively rounded up with intelligent factual and analytical Q&As.

That takes you to your optional subject. If you left it long time back, do as much justice as you can to the fundamentals of it but don't allot it too much time, time being very precious.

If you are working, be ready to engage them positively on the nature of your work. If you are already a civil servant, one question that comes up invariably is: Why are you trying again? It is a near-mandatory question and you have your reasons. Be proud of your determination to scale heights of excellence and performance.

General Studies hs to be revised thoroughly. Think of challenged ethical case studies, social situations requiring well-thought out and morally right responses.

Brush up on Constitution of India, Indian economy etc. Follow at least two national newspapers and try to gain perspectives on major items. Economic Survey and Union Budget 2023-24 will be out on 31st January and 1st February. Get a grip on the major themes based on the interviews that the Finance Ministry officers give to the TV channels.

Let's take some topics and see how a conversation around them can build up. Central Bank Digital Currencies. Reserve Bank of India(RBI) began the pilots at the wholesale and retail levels recently. Why are they being launched? How does the e-rupee fit into the monetary policy? Can you compare it with the cryptos? What gains are expected? How does it coexist with the non-digital currency? And a whole lot of other questions. Try to find out. Either you know or you don't know. It does not matter at all if you don't know unless your optional is economics or commerce or your hobbies/interests indicate so.

What are the issues around Collegium? Should we have one for ECI? Why not CAG and UPSC too? How should the collegium be composed? Is the judicial collegium working well? Should we have reservation in the higher judiciary?

Let's turn our attention to cost of living crisis? Who is responsible for it: virus or Putin or both or someone else? What does it mean to say that the central bank is behind the curve? How is the American inflation impacting Indian economy? What is meant by de-dollarisation? Why is BRICS launching its own currency?

What are conversions? Why are they so controversial in India? What's your view on the Freedom of Religion Bills being passed by state legislatures? How can we establish if a conversion is voluntary or otherwise?

Having interacted with and guided tens of thousands of brilliant candidates going for the Civil Services Examination at every level,I can assure you that just in case you don't yet deserve very high marks, you are certainly very close to it. Best wishes.

Effective strategy to approach the UPSC CSE Personality Test

IVIL SERVANTS selected through the UPSC CSE go on to serve the country in ■ varied roles. Irrespective of the service, the selected candidates are bestowed with immense responsibility and commensurate powers to fulfil them.

The decisions taken by civil servants affect India's whole population not only in the country but also in the international arena. Therefore, it is crucial that the selected candidates not only possess strong academic skills but can also make the right decisions. While the Prelims and Mains Examinations test academic skills, the UPSC Selection Board assesses the personality traits and mental calibre of candidates for their suitability in Civil Services.

What is the Personality Test?

Through an experienced and objective panel of experts, the UPSC Selection Board judges a candidate's mental calibre, intellectual qualities, interest in current affairs, mental alertness, critical powers of assimilation, clear and logical exposition, the balance of judgment, variety and depth of interest, the ability for social cohesion and leadership, and intellectual and moral integrity.

Other important qualities include a patriotic attitude, compassion, emotional stability, courage, innovativeness, a vision for the future, and ideas and convection to achieve that.

Prepare your DAF

The first step towards effective preparation for the Personality Test is thorough preparation of the Detailed Application Form (DAF) — the single most important source of information about a candidate available before the Board

To prepare the DAF, we should start by asking a simple question expected on an entry made by us. Thereafter, the possible questions that may arise out of our answer should be noted down and their answers should be prepared as well. The guiding principle to preparing the DAF is to look for the interface between the information in DAF and administration.

For example, for someone who has been part of a sports team, a relevant question might be "How important is teamwork to achieve effective public service delivery?" or "Why is India not able to win many medals at the Olympics?"

Communicate smartly and to the point

The answer given by a candidate should be precise and address the core demand of the question and information, about which one is not sure or not prepared, should not be brought into the answer. This way, a candidate is also able to display effective communication skills and mental alertness.

The answer also needs to be comprehensive yet short. To achieve this, one can take a pause to structure the answer and provide only a few most important points in the answer. Here, one must avoid explaining these points unless

Show courage and resilience

Civil Servants encounter difficult and challenging circumstances on the daily basis. The Board may ask a difficult question whose answer is not known to the candidate. And then a simple question might be asked to assess whether the candidate was able to maintain calm and composure to deliver after a failure. Thus courage, emotional stability, and resilience are tested by the Board as well.

Candidates must be aware that the Personality Test is not a test of knowledge and even if they are not aware of certain answers, it does not reflect negatively on their performance.

Rather than considering it as a drawback, it can be taken as an opportunity to display the traits of honesty and integrity. Be honest and show a willingness to improve

One should not hesitate to accept if they are unaware of the answer and respectfully convey to the Board "Dear Ma'am/Sir, I am not aware of the answer to this question. I would go back and check on this".

Know your country

India is a vast country with great strength and huge socio-economic challenges. One should be aware of these and have effective strategies to deal with them. Our answers should consider the interests and issues affecting all the relevant stakeholders and resolution should be provided by bridging all these to-

It is also important that we are up to date with different debates taking place in society having our own standings on these matters.

Constitution as the leading light

When it becomes difficult to decide on which side of an issue one must lean on, the talisman is the Constitution of India. If our stand respects and reflects its principles, one would never be unsure of which path to take that is also right.

Appear for mock interviews

Mock interviews provide one an opportunity to put themselves in front of a Board and simulate the UPSC Board-like environment. By working on the suggestions and recommendations, one can identify areas of improvement and improve upon them.

Also, stage fear is reduced significantly when one appears in front of a Board by doing the best possible preparation one could do. It is well known that practice leads to perfection. To seek guidance for the Personality Test, you can reach us at the below-

Woman and son dead in Old Delhi roof collapse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

A 30-YEAR-OLD woman and her son(3) died while four other children of hers sustained injuries after the roof of their house, purportedly 100 years old, collapsed in Central Delhi's Chandni Mahal area on Tuesday. Officials said the roof collapsed due to subpar construction and maintenance.

The woman was sleeping inside the room with her children when the incident took place, and it was reported around 4.45 am Teams of Delhi Fire Services and police rushed to rescue victims. Shweta Chauhan, DCP (Central), said, "The building near Pahari Rajan Bazaar in the Jama Masjid area is said to be over 80 years old. Six people were trapped under debris. The woman, Ruksar, had come to her father's place to deliver the twins.'

The deceased child has been identified as Alia, and his siblings Abdul Rehman (5), Subhan (1), and seven-day-old twins Junaid and Judera survived the collapse. "Police immediately rushed to the spot and residents were evacuated. Ruksar was pulled EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE beaten and mistreated at the resout with her children. She and Alia were declared dead on arrival at the hospital. Junaid's condition is critical, but the rest are fine," added the DCP.

The family said they didn't expect the house to collapse as they have been living there for years. Afzal, the owner and Ruksar's father said, "We were sleeping outside when the roof collapsed...My daughter had come to Delhi for her delivery. We were very excited. I didn't know this would happen. We don't have enough money or we would have maintained the place." MCD officials in a statement said the three-storeyed building was constructed about 100 years ago. "The junior engineer concerned along with subordinate staff reached the site and found that the red-stone parchhatti at the property was supported by wooden planks damaged after a termite infestation...there was no collapse of property/building, but the parchhatti...it has been observed that inner portions of parchhatti were also in dilapidated condition and repair is to be carried out by owner/occupier. MCD has no role to play in the matter," said civic body officials.

mayor pick – Rekha Gupta's long journey

From ABVP to BJP's

GAYATHRIMANI

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

REKHA GUPTA (48), BJP's pick for the post of MCD mayor, has risen through the ranks since 1993 when she first became associated with the ABVP.

Though the AAP has won the MCD polls, the BJP doesn't intend to let them have a walkover when it comes to picking the mayor and deputy mayor of the civic body.

On Tuesday, the BJP named Gupta, a three-time councillor from Shalimar Bagh, and Kamal Bagadi from Ram Nagar ward for the posts of mayor and deputy mayor respectively. Both filed their nominations at the civic

The mayoral elections are scheduled on January 6, while scrutiny of nominations will be held on Wednesday.

Gupta was born in Haryana's Jind but grew up in North Delhi. She started her political career with BJP's student unit, the ABVP, in 1993 and became general secretary and president of the Delhi University Students' Union (DUSU) in 1996-1997. She joined the BJP in 2002 as general secretary of the party's youth wing and went on to become a member of the national executive and general secretary of the Delhi BIP.

Gupta said that if she wins, her priorities as mayor would be to "speed up work" and "make Delhi clean and green".

"Delhi is the national capital and people from across the country visit the city. I will work with the councillors to develop the roads, make it garbage-free, dhalao-free, and pollution-free," she Asked why this was not done when the BJP was in power in the MCD for 15 years, she said, Several schemes and steps were taken for cleanliness and making the city garbage free... All these were successful and gathered pace in recent years. Installation of more dustbins and 500 compactors has led to reduced visibility of garbage on the roads and landfill sites. Speedy work is required and I will focus on expediting developmental works and making MCD corruption-free."

Asked if she sees tough competition since the AAP has the majority in the house, Gupta said, "In politics, there is always competition and it is the public who elects you. But here, it is an indirect election and there is no anti-defection law. People elected me for the third consecutive time... If you give MCD and responsibility of the entire Delhi to an inexperienced person, will they run it? Even the councillors would want to see an experienced person as mayor and not an inexperienced, new face. It might not be a cakewalk, but I don't see a competition here."

She also targeted the AAP for nominating two candidates for the post of mayor: "This clearly shows they are afraid of me because I am a three-time councillor and have more experience... So, the party itself is confused and di-

Woman booked after video emerges of her and help from Noida society

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

GAUTAM BUDDH Nagar police Tuesday said they have booked a resident of Cleo County society in Noida's sector 121 for allegedly confining her 20-yearold domestic help.

The FIR was filed after a video emerged purportedly showing the woman pulling the domestic help out of an elevator as the latter tries to resist her.

The woman, when contacted, claimed she was taking the domestic help back home after she caught her trying to escape with stolen iewellery.

In an earlier complaint to the district magistrate's office dated September 20, the help's father had claimed that they had taken a Rs 50,000 loan from the woman for another daughter's wedding. In return, they signed an agreement that the help would work round the clock at their residence till October-end, and out of her Rs 13,000 salary, Rs 3,000 would be deducted per month.

However, the father alleged, his daughter was not paid, and also not allowed to meet her family.

Her uncle alleged she was

The girl's mother claimed that she had made her escape by tying together chunnis to come down from the fourth-floor apartment and had told guards whom she ran into to call either her parents or the police. She and her family then reached the police station. Her employer denied the allegations and claimed the girl's mother had tutored her to make these statements to extract money from her. The help's family also alleged they had filed complaints to the district magistrate, the DCP, and the office of the Commissioner of Police in September, but no action was taken at the time.

When contacted, DCP Central) Ram Badan Singh said he was not posted as DCP (Central) at the time, while ADCP (Central) Saad Miya Khan said police were not aware of prior complaints, and had registered the FIR on Monday based on a complaint from the victim's father under IPC sections 323 (causing hurt), 344 (confinement), and 504 (intentional insult likely to breach peace).

Bajrang Dal, VHP write to admin over namaz

Gurgaon: Four days after a group of Bajrang Dal members disrupted namaz at an open ground in Gurgaon's sector 69. allegedly asking people who had gathered for weekly prayers to leave and not to pray in open spaces, members of Bajrang Dal and Vishva Hindu Parishad in Gurgaon Tuesday submitted a memorandum to the district administration authorities, demanding that the practice of namaz in the open be stopped immediately as there was "a fear of heightened communal tension" and "possibility of conflict" in society due to it, among other issues.

The memorandum said, '...there is a complete ban on offering namaz in the open. Despite this, namaz is being offered in the open in Gurgaon... Due to this, there is always a possibility of conflict in the society. Offering namaz in open is not legal... and it causes inconvenience to common citizen." ENS

He further said the availability of medical oxygen at Lok Navak hospital has increased manifold as compared to last time. Five PSA plants have also been installed, he said.

He said the preparation of the hospital is of such a level that "within 5 minutes of the patient's arrival, he will be taken to the designated place where he needs treatment and the required procedure will start immediately". According to state health department officials, real-time data on the availability of beds, oxygen cylinders and ventilators will be made available for the public on a Delhi government portal from Tuesday

The officials added that testing is also likely to be ramped up soon. At present, around 2,500 to 3,000 tests are being conducted daily in the city. The drill also took place in other government-run facilities such as RML, GTB and Rajiv Gandhi Super Speciality hospital.

According to GTB medical director Dr Subhash Giri, who also has the additional charge as the director of Rajiv Gandhi Super Speciality Hospital, the oxygen supply, production, storage and vaporisation process was inspected in both hospitals Tuesday. "PSA plants were checked for capacity and oxygen storage and end-line availability was also inspected on whether the patient is getting oxygen in the pipeline or not," he said.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI DECEMBER 27

HEADING HOME after Christmas celebrations, a 13-year-old girl was allegedly sexually assaulted by a man who posed as a policeman in Southwest Delhi, police said Tuesday, adding that the accused was arrested a day after the incident.

The incident took place on Sunday when the minor and her friends were visiting a church and were playing outside.

Police said the accused approached and scolded them. According to police, he allegedly took them to a park where he threatened them, and later, he asked others to leave. The accused allegedly took the girl to an isolated spot and sexually assaulted her, said police.

Police have booked him under sections of unnatural sex, rape, and the POCSO Act.

A senior police officer said "The accused lives in the same locality, but the girl didn't know him. He posed as a police officer and targeted the minor who was playing outside with her friends. We arrested him early Tuesday."

Police have booked the accused under sections of unnatural sex, rape, and the POCSO Act

In the complaint, the girl and her family alleged that the accused was carrying a stick with which he threatened the chil-"Around 8 pm, they all decided to go home and were on their way when he targeted them. He took her to the park and raped her. Her friends informed us that something wrong was going on. We were looking for her and found her near the park. She was sobbing...she told us that a policeman raped and assaulted her. He threatened her. We were shocked and later found that the accused had lied to trap the children," the mother said.

The parents approached police and said the girl was taken to the hospital for a medical examination.

Police said the accused works at a private firm and lives with his wife.

PROGRAMME TO BE CONDUCTED IN 15 SCHOOLS

For school students in Delhi, lessons in CPR, with some help from AIIMS

ANKITA UPADHYAY

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

"I NEVER knew about cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) through which we can save people's lives. Today, all of us have learnt something really important and I hope I can be of help to anyone in need," said 15-year-old Ashish after taking CPR training

AIIMS started providing CPR training to school students on Monday, and it will be conducting the programme in at least 15 schools in Delhi in the coming days. A team from the AIIMS emergency medicine department visited the Sarvodaya Vidvalava A-2 in Paschim Vihar.

Around 300 students from class 8, gathered in the main hall where CPR training mannequins were placed on blue mattresses. Students, in a group of 10, sat around the mannequins and learnt how to revive a heart with hard and fast chest compressions. "We were taught that if we find a person collapsing on the pulse, and if there is no breathing, we will then give them CPR and ask the first available person to call on 112, which is the emergency number, and continue to press the middle of the chest at a speed of 100-120 compressions per minute till emergency services arrive," said Kanishka, a stu-

"We have seen that many people collapse due to sudden cardiac arrests at home...malls and markets etc. People, in general, don't know how to give CPR. and we decided it will be ideal to start this training in Delhi with students," said Dr Aggrawal, while attending the event.

According to Dr Sanjeev Bhoi, professor and head of the WHO collaborating centre at AIIMS Delhi, ICMR has granted funding for this project after evaluation. "Two years back we wrote to ICMR, which evaluated our proposal and gave us a grant. It has also told us that after it tests this module, it will replicate it in schools across the country. Once this is done, we will also request the ICMR to pitch to the government to inculcate the CPR training in school syllabus," he added. He said that teachers were also given CPR training.

BJP calls Gandhi family 'most corrupt'; Congress says Vadra a victim of fraud

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

THE BJP and Congress got into a war of words on Tuesday after the ruling party dubbed the Gandhi family as the "most corrupt family in Indian politics", citing the Rajasthan High Court's rejection of Robert Vadra's plea to quash a money laundering probe against him.

The Congress accused BJP of "peddling lies" to victimise Vadra and target its leadership. The party said the Narendra Modi government has lost its sense of balance, as it is rattled by the success of Bharat Jodo Yatra.

BJP spokesperson Gaurav Bhatia said Rahul Gandhi and Sonia Gandhi should break their "silence" on corruption and money-laundering allegations against Vadra when the Congress was in power in Haryana and Rajasthan, as well as at

The HC had last week rejected a petition seeking quashing of an ED probe into purchase of land in Bikaner by a company (Skylight Hospitality), linked to Vadra and his mother, through alleged shady means. "This is a 'kattar paapi parivaar' (extremely immoral family). Its only work has been to do corruption and grabbing land to hand over to Vadra," Bhatia alleged.

He also rejected Congress's claim of witch hunt against Vadra, claiming that it

Centre, Manipur insurgent group sign peace pact

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 28

THE CENTRE on Tuesday signed a peace agreement with a Manipur insurgent group, which agreed to give up violence and join the democratic process

The tripartite agreement was signed by the Centre, Manipur government and the Zeliangrong United Front (ZUF) rebel group, which mostly operated in Manipur. "Fulfilling the vision of Prime Minister Narendra Modi of an insurgency-free and prosperous Northeast and under the guidance of Union Home Minister Amit Shah, the Government of India and the government of Manipur entered into a cessation of operation agreement in New Delhi with ZUF that had been active for more than a decade," the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) said.

"This will be a significant boost to the peace process in Manipur. The agreement was signed by officials of the home ministry and the government of Manipur and representatives of the ZUF in presence of Chief Minister N Biren Singh," the MHA added.

CONGRESS LEADER Rahul Gandhi turning out for public events without any woollens, even as north India reels under a cold wave, has been the talk of the town. While the Bharat Jodo Yatra is currently on a break, on Tuesday pictures went viral showing Rahul, clad in a black T-shirt, at a Delhi mall with his niece. Responding to questions in this regard during the day, the Congress challenged Prime Minister Narendra Modi to attempt a march like the Bharat Jodo Yatra — "even if for

ADDRESS TO IPS PROBATIONERS

Demonstrate through action your integrity, impartiality: Murmu

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA HYDERABAD, DECEMBER 27

POLICE OFFICERS should keep in mind and demonstrate through action, the five fundamental attributes of integrity, impartiality, courage, competence and sensitivity, President Droupadi Murmu said on Tuesday.

Murmu, who addressed the probationers of the 74th batch of the Indian Police Service at the Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel National Police Academy here, said the police force is the most visible organ of the government. When the police force commands trust of the people, it enhances the image of the government, she said.

"The police will command respect and trust only when the entire force under you, to the last constable, displays alertness, sensitivity and honesty," she said.

She told the IPS probationers that as leaders of their force, they have to demonstrate through action, the attributes of integrity, impartiality, courage, competence and sensitivity. When the country is celebrating 'Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsay,' the nation acknowledges the contribution of our police force in sustaining and strengthening the world's largest democracy, she said.

 $Observing\,that\,the\,burden\,of$ colonial past and feudal habits still affects many aspects of behaviour and governance in our country, she said, that is why, liberation from the mindset of slavery, for those who still retain it, has been identified as one of the national priorities.

"Let us always remember the fact that the colonial powers developed policing systems based on consent and participation of citizens in their own countries. But they promoted policing based on fear among citizens in colonies like India," she said.

The responsibility of prevention and detection of crime, and upholding the Rule of Law, is becoming more complex. Dealing with terrorism, insurgency, militancy, ideology-driven violent extremism, communal violence, large networks of organised crime and other threats to internal security requires high levels of motivation, skills and perseverance, she said. Cyber crimes and issues related to social media pose novel challenges and technology-driven policing is needed to combat hitech crimes, she said.

Bihar to start caste census exercise from Jan 7

Data to be collected through mobile app, not to be shared during compilation stage

SANTOSH SINGH PATNA, DECEMBER 27

PREPARING TO begin the caste survey exercise from January 7, the Bihar government plans to compile data on each family digitally through a mobile application as part of the eight-level survey — from the panchayat to the district level.

The mobile app will have a set of questions in a format, mentioning place, caste, number of people in a family, their profession, and annual income, among others. The government expects to complete the process in two or three months, according to officials.

A government official told The Indian Express, "The General

Bihar CM Nitish Kumar

Administration Department has issued a circular, stating that it would entirely be up to a district magistrate to select census workers from among teachers, Anganwadi workers, MGNREGA or Jeevika workers.

According to the official, once census workers are chosen.

Keeping caste issue

WITH THE Centre having

categorically turned down the demand for a caste census, and the Bihar unit of BIF reluctant to be seen opposing it, Nitish Kumar's decision to start the survey can be seen as a way to throw the saffron party off guard, forcing it to take a stand. The move will also keep the caste and reservation issues on the front burner as key state polls, followed by General Election in 2024, draw up.

"they would be given training on how to make entry of caste survey in the mobile app".

During the first phase of the caste survey, scheduled to begin Ianuary 7, houses would be numbered and caste details will be sought. The second phase, likely to begin in mid-February, will involve compiling the economic status of people. All composite information would be compiled in the app after scrutiny by senior officers, it was informed. The government has been avoiding publicity of the caste census process given the sensitive nature of the exercise. Census workers would be advised against sharing any data of their area with outsiders, officials said.

The process of caste survey monitoring will involve the additional district magistrate (DM)/ district welfare officer/ district statistics officer at the top, with nal monitoring authority. The next level will comprise the subdivisional officer followed by the circle officer, block development officer, municipal commissioner/ chief executive officer. Panchayati Raj Institutions

the DM concerned being the fi-will be kept completely out of the process, it is learnt. The government, however, will refer to panchavat-level data on beneficiaries of some government welfare schemes. A senior government official said, "All BDOs have been asked to submit details of caste and residential certificates

Bengaluru civic body blacklists Chilume group

Bengaluru: BBMP chief commissioner Tushar Giri Nath and the district electoral officer. Bengaluru, has blacklisted Chilume group in connection with the alleged voter data fraud and manipulation of voters' list ahead of state elections 2023.

According to a press release, the group will be restricted from participating or undertaking any sort of activities with the BBMP.

The government had on November 17 ordered a probe into the alleged collection of voter data by fraud, impersonation and breach of trust by Chilume Group after the Congress accused the BJP of being at the centre of efforts to collect data and manipulate voters' lists ahead of the state poll, ENS

Maharashtra passes resolution for inclusion of Marathi-speaking areas

ALOK DESHPANDE& VALLABHOZARKAR NAGPUR. DECEMBER 27

BOTH HOUSES of the state legislature on Tuesday unanimously passed a resolution to support a legal battle to ensure that every inch of land in Karnataka, where the Marathi-speaking population resides, becomes a part of Maharashtra.

This comes days after the Karnataka Assembly passed a resolution declaring that not an inch of land will be given to Maharashtra from the disputed area on its border with the state.

The resolution, moved by Chief Minister Eknath Shinde in the Assembly and the Council condemned the Karnataka government's "anti-Marathi" stand. The resolution asserted that every inch of 865 villages, along with Belagavi, Karwar, Bidar, Nipani and Bhalki – where Marathi-speaking population stays in Karnataka will be a part of Maharashtra.

The case pending before the Supreme Court will be fought legally with a firm resolve and absolute strength," the resolution said, adding that the state stands resolutely with the Marathispeaking people of Karnataka.

It said the central government should urge the Karnataka government to implement the decision taken in a meeting with the Union Home Minister Amit Shah (over the border dispute issue). The resolution added when the chief ministers of the two states had met Shah, it was decided that till the Supreme Court gives its judgment in the matter, it should be ensured that the issue does not flare up any further. However, the Karnataka government took a contrary stand by passing its resolution in the state Assembly, it said.

The resolution further said that the Centre should give directives to the Karnataka government to guarantee the safety of the Marathi people in the border areas.

Shiv Sena (UBT) chief Uddhav Thackeray had on Monday demanded that the disputed area be declared a UT till the SC gives its verdict. However. it did not figure in the resolution.

Maharashtra ex-CM Uddhav Thackeray with party MP Sanjay Raut at Vidhan Bhavan in Nagpur on Tuesday. Backing the resolution on Marathi-speaking villages in Karnataka, Thackeray said: "We will support every measure that is in Maharashtra's interest." PTI

Bommai: Maharashtra House move worthless

AKRAM M

BELAGAVI, DECEMBER 27 HOURS AFTER both Houses of Maharashtra legislature passed a resolution to "legally pursue" inclusion of 865 Karnataka villages with Marathi-speaking population, Karnataka Chief Minister Basayarai Bommai on Tuesday called it "worthless", as the matter is being heard by the Supreme Court.

Stating that Maharashtra's resolution is "detrimental to the interests" of India's federal structure, Bommai said, "We condemn it."

"There is a difference between the resolution passed by us and (that by) Maharashtra,' Bommai said. "Our resolution said we will not cede parts of Karnataka, whereas their resolutions staked claims to parts of Karnataka."

"When the case (of border dispute) is being heard by the Supreme Court, such resolutions are worthless," he maintained. "We are confident that we will get justice in the Supreme Court, as our stand is constitutional." The Karnataka government,

Minister Basavarai Bommai Bommai asserted, is also ready to protect the interests of Kannadaspeaking people living in Maharashtra. He said boundaries drawn under the State Reorganisation Act, 1956, are final. Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah and state

Congress chief D K Shivakumar also condemned Maharashtra's move. Siddaramaiah said, "They (Maharashtra legislators) have no legal or moral right to pass such a resolution. The recommendation of the Mahajan report is final on the border row." Shivakumar told the media,

Minister slams Uddhav demand: Make Mumbai. not Belagavi, UT

KIRAN PARASHAR BELAGAVI, DECEMBER 27

A DAY after Maharashtra councillor and Shiv Sena (UBT) chief legislative council that Belagavi should be declared a Union Territory, Karnataka Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy hit back on Tuesday. He said Maharashtra's capital Mumbai, in fact, qualifies to be a UT. considering its cosmopolitan population and contribution of people from other states in the city's growth and development.

Madhuswamy said, "Around 20% Kannada- and Konkanispeaking people reside in Mumbai. Mumbai was never a part of Maharashtra before its (the state's) formation. Such being the case, Mumbai, not Belagavi, qualifies to be a Union Territory."

On Thackeray's demand, he said, "Who are they to demand? The borders fixed by state reorganisation Act are final. As far as Karnataka is concerned, there is no dispute. It's a closed chapter."

CM says no polls till reservation for OBCs

ASAD REHMAN & LALMANI VERMA

LUCKNOW, DECEMBER 27 ALLAHABAD HIGH Court on Tuesday ordered the holding of the urban local body polls in Uttar Pradesh at the earliest but without any reservation for the Other Backward Classes (OBCs). Hours later, CM Yogi Adityanath said the elections will be held only after giving OBC reservation. Sources said the government will file an appeal in Supreme Court against the High Court's order. Chief Minister Adityanath, in a statement, said his government would constitute a survey commission to ensure that the benefits of reservation are provided to the OBCs on the basis of the "triple test"

Earlier in the day, the Lucknow Bench of the Allahabad High Court said that until the "triple test/conditions" as mandated by the Supreme Court is completed in all respects by the state government, no reservation for the Backward Class of citizens shall be provided in the urban local body polls.

...since the term of municipalities has either ended or shall be coming to an end by January 1, 2023, and the process of completion of triple test/conditions being arduous is likely to take considerable time, it is directed that the State Government/State Election Commission shall notify the elections immediately," the Bench of Justices Devendra Kumar Upadhyaya and Saurabh Lavania said in their order

As mandated by the Supreme Court, the "triple test" requires the state to: 1. Set up a commission to conduct a rigorous empirical inquiry into the nature and implications of the backwardness qualocal bodies, within the state; 2. Specify the proportion of reservation required to be provisioned local body-wise in light of recommendations of the commission. so as not to fall foul of overbreadth; 3. In any case such reservation shall not exceed an aggregate of 50 per cent of the total seats reserved in favour of SCs/STs/OBCs taken together.

"While notifying the elections, the seats and offices of chairpersons, except those to be reserved for SC and ST, shall be notified as for general/open category," the High Court said in its order after hearing a bunch of PILs alleging that the entire exercise of reservation of seats in the municipalities is being carried out by the state government in "complete defiance" of the mandate of the Supreme Court in the Suresh Mahajan vs State of Madhya Pradesh case. The petitioners submitted that the Supreme Court clearly mandated the states and UT and their respective Election Commissions that until the "triple test" is completed in all respects by the state government, no reservation for OBCs can be provided.

Directing officials to "imr diately notify" the elections, the the High Court said: "We understand that collection and collation of materials by the dedicated Commission is a humongous and time-taking task. However, the formation of elected municipal bodies through election cannot be delayed for the reason of constitutional mandate contained in Article 243-U of the Constitution of India [which mandates that election to constitute a municipality shall be completed before the expiry of its term]. Thus, to fortify the democratic character of governance of society, it is essential that the elections are held at the earliest which cannot wait.'

The court also said that the election notification shall include reservation for women in terms of the constitutional provisions". -WITH ENS, NEW DELHI

PM to visit Bengal on Dec 30 for Ganga meet; flag off Vande Bharat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE KOLKATA DECEMBER 27

PRIME MINISTER Narendra Modi will on Friday flag off West Bengal's first Vande Bharat Express from the Howrah station and attend the second National Ganga Council (Namami Gange conservation project) meeting in Kolkata.

CM Mamata Banerjee is also scheduled to attend the meeting. This will be Modi's second visit to West Bengal since the 2021 Assembly polls. Despite his extensive election campaign, the BIP lost to the TMC that came to power for the third straight term. Besides launching the Vande Bharat Express, the PM will flag off the truncated Joka-Taratala Metro line, the city's third Metro line. Thereafter, Modi will arrive at the INS Netaji Subhas, the Indian Navy's Bengal area base headquarters to attend the meeting on the Namami Gange project.

After attending the meeting, Modi will leave for the national capital without holding any political programme in the city.

"PM Narendra Modi will flag off the Vande Bharat Express, connecting Howrah to New Jalpaiguri, in North Bengal, on December 30. This was a long-pending demand of people. The connectivity will improve business prospects and mobility, particularly for people of North Bengal," said Amit Malviya, RIP co-observer for Bengal.

TMC spokesman Kunal Ghosh said, "We have learnt it is strictly an official visit. The CM too is scheduled to attend the meeting."

SANTOSH SINGH PATNA DECEMBER 27

BIHAR CM Nitish Kumar has allowed his deputy Tejashwi Prasad Yadav to attend National Ganga Council meeting in Kolkata on December 30 and the RJD has taken it as a big opportunity for the young leader to showcase his leadership quality at the meeting, which will be presided over by PM Narendra Modi.

This is the first time Bihar Deputy CM would represent the state at a meeting of the central government. Nitish has skipped at least half a dozen meetings of the central government since July, including the most recent zonal council meet chaired by Home Minister Amit Shah.

The opportunity for Tejashwi to represent the state assumes significance in the wake of Nitish's statement in Nalanda on December 13 that Tejashwi would lead the Mahagathbandhan $(Grand\,Alliance)\, \bar{poll}\, campaign\, in$ 2025. The RJD has been indirectly pressuring Nitish to pass on the CM chair to Tejashwi, preferably before 2025 elections.

Though allowing Tejashwi to represent the state in the Ganga meet could be a deft political move by Nitish to keep RJD in good humour, ally RJD still takes it as a big opportunity for Tejashwi, who would get a chance to interact with the PM and the chief ministers of several states.

RJD state president Jagdanand Singh had recently told The Indian Express that Nitish should leave "smaller things (CM post) for bigger prize (PM post)". RJD national spokesperson Subodh Kumar told The Indian

Express: "Whatever be the reason for the CM allowing his deputy to attend the meet, it only shows the growing stature of our leader, who had successfully pitched development theme in the 2020 polls. We were just sniffing distance from power. In a caste-ridden state, Tejashwi ji talked about jobs and progress. Whatever opportunity he has been getting now is all because of what he deserves. The sun is rising from the East."

For Tejashwi, the meet is also a chance to speak well with facts. He had faltered in his speech during July Vidhan Sabha function that was attended by the PM. A JD (U) leader, however, said: "There could be two reasons for Nitish deciding to skip the meet — he wants Tejashwi to grow and also wants to avoid eye contact with the PM for not taking him in loop before snapping ties with the BJP."

Intranasal Covid vaccine: Rs 800 for private, Rs 325 for govt orders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI DECEMBER 27

DAYS AFTER the Government included Bharat Biotech's intranasal vaccine Incovacc as a booster option in its Covid immunisation programme, the company announced that doses will be available from the fourth week of January, 2023. The doses will be priced at Rs 800 each in the private market and Rs 325 for large government orders, according to a company statement.

Meanwhile, hospitals across the country carried out mock drills Tuesday to check their preparedness in Covid management.

Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya, who witnessed the drill at Safdarjung hospital in Delhi, said "clinical readiness at hospitals is crucial". "The government as well as private hospitals are undertaking mock drills today. State Health Ministers are reviewing the drills in their respective states," he said.

Incovacc, which has been added to the vaccine management portal CoWIN, will be available as a mix-and-match, or heterologous, booster dose. People who have received the first two doses of Covaxin or Covishield will be eligible to get Incovacc.

'We have achieved the goals we set for ourselves. We have developed two Covid vaccines from two different platforms with two different delivery systems. The vectored intranasal delivery platform gives us the capability for rapid product development, scale-up, easy and painless immunization during public health emergencies and pandemics," Bharat Biotech's Krishna Ella said in a statement.

India has continued to report a decline in Covid cases, with 157 new cases reported over the last 24 hours. Over 220 crore vaccine doses have been administered under the immunisation programme, which started in January 2021. Over 90 per cent of the population have received the first and second doses. However, only about 27 per cent have received the precaution dose so far, with the coverage being slightly higher at about 40 per cent for those above the age of 60 years.

RITU SHARMA AHMEDABAD, DECEMBER 27

GOVERNMENT HEALTH authorities in Ahmedabad are staring at a Covid vaccine shortage primarily due to a surge in demand for booster shots. The demand for the vaccines is unlikely to be met before January 1 as it has shot up by nearly 17 times in less than a week, officials said.

However, Gujarat Health Minister Rushikesh Patel, who participated in a mock drill held Tuesday at Gandhinagar Civil Hospital to check the Covid-19 preparedness, ruled out any vaccine shortage and stated that more than 12 lakh doses of vaccines have been requested from the central government.

The CBI on Tuesday approached a vacation bench seeking another extension to make effective the bail order to Deshmukh.

Court allows Dhoot, Kochhars access to home food, medicines, beds in CBI custody

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE MUMBAI, DECEMBER 27

A SPECIAL court on Tuesday permitted ICICI Bank's former MD and CEO Chanda Kochhar, her husband Deepak, and Videocon Group Chairman Venugopal Dhoot access to home food, medicines and other items including chair, bed and mattress in CBI custody. The three were remanded to CBI's custody for three days on Monday.

The Kochhar couple was arrested on Friday by the CBI in connection with the Videocon loan case, while Dhoot was arrested on Monday. The three of them were produced before the court on Monday and the CBI sought their custody for three days, stating that they have to be confronted.

Kochhar's lawyer, Kushal Mor, told the court that the couple, both aged 61, were senior citizens, and they were made to sleep on the floor in the Mumbai Police lockup at night. He told the court that it was very cold and their health would be impacted.

The lawyer had submitted that since the CBI has its own lock-up, they should instead be kept in it instead of them being sent to the police lock-up at night. The court had directed the lawyers of the accused to file their pleas in this regard.

On Tuesday, the court heard the pleas, which also requested home food and medicines prescribed by doctors of the accused. A plea was also moved for a special bed, chair, pillow, mattress, towel, blanket and bed-

sheet by the accused which was permitted.

The court also allowed Chanda Kochhar to meet her family members and lawyers to collect instructions. The court also allowed Deepak Kochhar to take assistance of his lawyer for one hour in private till the interrogation was over. On Dhoot's plea, the court also allowed him to be accompanied by an attendant to help him have his insulin, as and when required in custody.

The three will be produced before the court again on Wednesday

The CBI has alleged that ICICI Bank had sanctioned credit of Rs 3,250 crore to the companies of the Videocon Group promoted by Dhoot in violation of the Banking Regulation Act, RBI guidelines, and credit policy of the bank.

Meanwhile, Chanda Kochhar and Deepak Kochhar on Tuesday approached the Bombay High Court, calling their arrest by the CBI illegal. The high court, however, refused to grant an urgent hearing and directed the Kochhars to mention the matter before the regular bench once it resumes after vacation.

Stalin: Devotion to culture doesn't make Tamils conservative

ARUN JANARDHANAN CHENNAI, DECEMBER 27

TAMILS may be deeply devoted to their past and cultural heritage, but that doesn't make them conservative, said Chief Minister M K Stalin on Tuesday.

Speaking at the 81st Indian History Congress, which was held at the Madras Christian College in Chennai, Stalin emphasised the need to distinguish between secular history and socalled history created from myths and imaginative tales "as it is crucial to understand our historically proven past".

Referring to recent archaeological discoveries that show evidence of advanced civilizations and urban life existed in the region at least 2.600 years ago. Stalin said it may be most appropriate to "rewrite" the history of the Indian subcontinent from Tamil Nadu. The Indian History Congress, being held in Chennai for the first time in 26 years, has significance because Tamil Nadu is a "land of resistance and rationality", said Stalin, and added that some political parties are on a mission to "communalise and distort history"

According to Stalin, there might not be any conventional advantages of studying history. "What benefits does studying history provide? Do you land in well-paying jobs? Many people have these worries. But it's important to keep in mind that knowing your own past is more important than those more obvious advantages," he said. The major threat India is currently facing, Stalin said, is rewriting history.

The Chief Minister said that a society that values knowledge will not accept attempts to turn myths into history.

There are an estimated 1.85 lakh professionals employed in the AVCG sector in India at present, and for the market to sustain its growth, another 20 lakh trained individuals are required by 2030.

In its report, the task force has highlighted the industry's growth potential, particularly by showcasing India's "culture and heritage across geographies", along with the challenges. It seeks to achieve that by a combination of promoting the sector at the global stage, along with developing school and college curriculum to address the problem of manpower deficit.

ZELENSKYY CALLING

There is no meeting ground yet, but amid Russia-Ukraine posturing, a realisation that war cannot go on

HE OVER 10-MONTH-LONG Russia-Ukraine war seems nowhere close to an end. It is significant, though, that the two sides want to be seen as making an effort to bring it to a close with declarations that they are ready for talks. However, it is obvious there is no meeting ground yet. Russian President Vladimir Putin has said he wants dialogue with Ukraine, but its western allies are holding it back. Ukraine says Putin is diverting attention from his real intentions to usurp its territory. But amid the posturing, the realisation is sinking in that the war cannot continue forever. This was also obvious in the 10-point "peace formula" invoked by Ukrainian president Volodymyr Zelenskyy in a phone call with Prime Minister Narendra Modi – India's G20 presidency may have provided the immediate context for Ukraine to seek India's support for the formula first laid out at the Bali summit of the G20 in November. It includes, among other things, troop withdrawal from Ukrainian territory and Russian reaffirmation of Ukrainian sovereignty, war reparations paid by Moscow, and a special tribunal to try Putin and others for the invasion of Ukraine. Zelenskyy, who said he would "now count on India's participation" in the implementation of this plan, called a week after his visit to the US, where the Biden Administration announced it would pump $1.84 bn more, including a Patriot missile battery system, into Ukraine's war efforts. PM Modi's cautiously worded response "strongly reiterated his call for an immediate cessation of hostilities", asking that both sides "revert to dialogue and diplomacy", and also conveying "India's support for any peace efforts".

Zelenskyy's appeal to Modi may also be based on the expectation that Delhi is willing to play a role after the PM's remark to Putin in September that this is "not the era for war". This was seized upon in the west as an expression of India's frustration that an old friend had put it in a tight spot. Significantly, the India-Russia annual summit, the most important event in the bilateral calendar, has not taken place. It is usually held in the closing weeks of the year, and would have entailed PM Modi travelling to the Russian capital.

While Delhi may want to play a role in ending the conflict in keeping with its aspiration to speak on behalf of the global south, where the economic brunt of the conflict is being most acutely felt, its wary engagement with both Moscow and Kiev suggests that it is uncertain about how it can do so. This is just as well. Delhi has much to worry about in terms of conflicts on its own borders that need the attention of the government. Of course, when Russia and Ukraine are genuinely ready to negotiate, India, as an important member of the international community, is bound to contribute to multilateral efforts to ensure a positive outcome.

RINSE & REPEAT

Despite PM's anguish over her Godse remark, Pragya Singh Thakur keeps pushing the line of hate — and getting away with it

HE COMMENTS MADE by Pragya Singh Thakur, BJP MP from Bhopal, in Shivamogga, Karnataka, on the need for Hindus to keep their knives sharp, are no aberration. Thakur has done this before — and she's got away with it. She has spoken in ways that could be seen as inflammatory, and were certainly unseemly, she has retracted her remarks, her party has distanced itself from them, rinse and repeat. At Shivamogga, apart from exhorting the Hindu community to take up arms, she held forth on the spectre of "love jihad" that haunts their daughters. Earlier, after her candidature was declared from the Bhopal seat for the 2019 Lok Sabha election, she bragged that Hemant Karkare, Maharashtra ATS chief who was killed in the 26/11 attack, $died\ because\ of\ her\ "curse"-Karkare\ was\ leading\ the\ probe\ in\ the\ 2008\ Malegaon\ blasts$ case in which Thakur is an accused. She kicked up a national furore when she described Mahatma Gandhi's assassin, Nathuram Godse, as a "desh bhakt". This time, as in the case of her comments on Karkare, the BJP distanced itself from her, but also did more than that. Prime Minister Narendra Modi expressed anguish: "It's a different matter that she has apologised, I will not be able to forgive her from my heart". And Amit Shah, then party chief, spoke of disciplinary action. Yet, except her removal from a parliamentary committee, for Thakur, there have been no real penalties to pay.

Thakur's unchecked vitriol has also drawn the attention of the Election Commission. The MP Police registered an FIR against her on the EC's directions in 2019, for violating the poll code — after she boasted about climbing atop the Babri Masjid in 1992 to demolish it. But both the poll monitor's rebuke and the half-hearted reprimand of her own party seem to have been of little avail. The problem is basically political: The BJP needs to draw the red line for its MP and it has evidently not done so. It has certainly not sent Thakur the firm message it delivered to Nupur Sharma, whose remarks on the Prophet led to her suspension from the party.

Is the BJP, in effect, saying that it won't act against its loose-tongued members until the furore they kick up goes international? In the case of Thakur, her apparent impunity goes back to the fact that she got the BJP ticket in 2019 despite being an accused, out on bail, in a terror case, charged under the stringent UAPA. Her candidature, then, was seen as a BJP riposte to the Congress's allegations of "Hindu terror". But the party should recognise that, now, Thakur is no longer a symbol it can wield — she is a burden that is weighing it down.

PROJECT ICARUS

Solar geo-engineering is a response to the pressing climate crisis. But the solution may be simpler, and nearer home

HY DO THE hard work of overhauling an unhealthy lifestyle if one can simply pop a diet pill or, if you can afford it, get liposuction? With each year that passes, as nations, people and companies fail to implement the most obvious solution to the climate crisis — consume less, burn less and waste less — silver bullets, however unrealistic, start to look more and more attractive. Take the recent decision by the US government to research the possibilities in the controversial idea of solar geoengineering, so far seen only in science fiction works such as the Neal Stephenson novel Terminal Shock. The plan involves shooting reflective particles into the stratosphere to deflect the rays of the sun and help bring down terrestrial temperatures.

The last time such a thing happened was in 1991, when the eruption of Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines brought about a "volcanic winter", with global temperatures cooling by about 0.4 degree Celsius. That at least one government is seriously considering something that, so far, was done by volcanoes is perhaps the clearest illustration of the desperate times the planet is in. It can only be hoped that the inevitable knock-on effects of tampering with the earth's system are seriously considered. These, as history shows, are likely to be considerable: The 1815 eruption of Mount Tambora in Indonesia led to the "year without summer" in Europe, worldwide harvest failures and food riots.

Perhaps it is possible for human intervention to stave off the disaster that, right now, seems inevitable. On the other hand, believing in such a possibility betrays a hubris of the kind that led to Icarus's fall. The fantasy of a planet-saving technological intervention is, no doubt, comforting, but the best solution may be to go on a consumption diet.

The suitable officer

For policies to be better implemented in manufacturing sector, IAS officers must be better equipped

R C Bhargava

THE MAKE IN India and Ease of Doing Business policies were framed because Prime Minister Narendra Modi correctly believed that the problems of poverty and unemployment could only be solved by the rapid growth of the manufacturing sector. This could not happen unless India changed from being a difficult country in which to manufacture and do business, to an attractive destination for manufacturing investment. A multitude of important and badly-needed reforms were implemented in pursuance of these policies. Despite these efforts, manufacturing has till now not shown any significant increase in its growth. Investments in the sector remain inadequate. Even taking into account Covid and global events, it is apparent that while policy intentions were excellent, their implementation has not yielded the intended results. Clearly, our implementation capabilities need to be more effective.

The development of strategies and plans for implementation and their execution is done by individuals. Repeated failures in this area point to the necessity of identifying the root causes for why existing personnel charged with policy execution have been failing. The reasons could be inadequate knowledge and skills, lack of motivation, environmental constraints or weak supervision and monitoring. While the political leadership lays down the vision, the responsibilities for translating these into ground realities are that of IAS officers. Most of the senior posts in the secretariats and districts are held by officers from the IAS. They are responsible for ensuring that subordinate civil servants are adequately trained and skilled, motivated and guided to deliver good outcomes. They create the framework of rules that constitute the environment for implementation. Therefore, if policies are to be more effectively implemented, IAS officers need to be better equipped.

The recruitment system for the higher civil services ensures high-quality entrants. However, that does not automatically mean good results when posted in jobs that require specialised knowledge and experience. They need to be properly equipped to work in the manufacturing sector. Achieving global levels of cost and quality competitiveness in the sector requires that officers working in areas relevant to policy-making in the central and state governments understand how laws, regulations and procedures impact the competitiveness of industry. They should specifically be aware of the various ways in which these add to or reduce the costs of manufacturing. They need to appreciate the importance of demand creation for enabling industry to achieve economies of scale and how the stability of policies is required for companies to make long-term investments. The importance of profits and the generation of internal resources for growth has to be understood. This is only possible if the concerned civil servants in the ministries have good domain knowledge of the manufacturing sector and appreciate that government and entrepreneurs have to work jointly and trust each other.

So, how to equip IAS officers to become much more effective in dealing with the manufacturing sector as well as other areas of development? We need to reform our system of human resource development and bring it in line with the best global practices. I suggest that a wing be created in the Department of Personnel & Training, and its counterparts in the states. This should be manned by professionals in human resource development whose function would be to select officers on the basis of aptitude from the IAS and other services, and train them to frame and implement policies relating to manufacturing and industrial development.

Can IAS officers do this work? When I was inducted into Maruti, I had no knowledge or experience in management, manufacturing or the car industry. I did have the benefit of having O Suzuki and others as teachers, and a long uninterrupted stay in the company. My example shows that IAS officers can deliver results if they are motivated, trained and allowed to work in the area of their expertise.

While policies are largely made in Delhi, much of the implementation is done in states. Effective implementation has become complex because of our past history of only trusting the public sector and distrusting the private sector. Many of the laws and procedures were based on the suspicion of private-sector industrialists. Equally, the system of checks and balances, inherited from the British, is based on a distrust of civil servants and leads to implementers preferring procedures and correct paperwork over producing results. Civil servants are generally not private sector "friendly" when dealing with issues that have financial implications. This results in long delays, higher costs and loss of competitiveness.

So, how to equip IAS officers to become much more effective in dealing with the manufacturing sector as well as other areas of development? We need to reform our system of human resource development and bring it in line with the best global practices. I suggest that a wing be created in the Department of Personnel & Training, and its counterparts in the states. This should be manned by professionals in human resource development whose function would be to select officers on the basis of aptitude from the IAS and other services, and train them to frame and implement policies relating to manufacturing and industrial development.

The selection of officers could be made after they have completed around 10 years of service. Thereafter, selected officers would need to be trained and given postings that would enable them to gain more knowledge and experience. This could include secondment to selected private companies so that the officers could get actual working experience. They would then be better able to understand the finer points of competing in the marketplace. With trust now being placed on the private sector, it should be possible to select companies in different areas of manufacturing for this purpose without undue concern about officers being "corrupted". Officers so trained should not be moved to other unrelated areas of work. Periodic evaluations could be made, again by professionals, to identify those capable of moving to the highest levels for making policies and strategies. The wing of the DOPT that will be entrusted with the task of making such selections, imparting skills and managing the career growth of officers should report directly to the Prime Minister. That would insulate it from pressures

One reason why attempts to skill officers have not worked in the past has been issues related to promotions and postings. That has prevented the right man from being posted in the right job and the widespread perception that the IAS has failed in the area of economic development. This problem has to be resolved in the larger interest of nation-building. A system that exists in Japan, and was implemented in Maruti, was to de-link salary scales from job responsibilities. The most suitable person for a job is selected and his pay did not change upon assuming higher responsibilities, though his designation changed. Annual increases in pay scales and movement from one scale to another followed a different system. I am sure other ways of resolving this problem could be found. At this point, the priority has to be the acceleration of manufacturing growth and better implementation of other development plans.

THE GREEN IN OUR WEAVES

At 100, India can be a world leader in the sustainable production of cotton textiles

Uzramma

LOOKING BACK AT my 30-plus years working with Indian handlooms, I see both positive and negative trends. What is certain is that the craft world has changed, not in the slow-paced gradual way of changes in the past, but much faster than before.

The weavers of India have supplied the markets of the world with cotton cloth since at least the first century of the Common Era. In pre-industrial times, the many varieties of Indian cotton cloth — bafta, mulmul, mashru, jamdani, moree, percale, nainsukh, chintz, etc — were the source of India's fabled wealth. Until colonial times, the yarn for handloom weaving in India had been spun by hand. With the invention of spinning machinery in Britain and the import of machine-spun cotton yarn, this occupation vanished.

ton yarn, this occupation vanished. Since India was a British colony, the latter dictated its economic policies. Machine-woven cotton fabrics began to be imported, while raw cotton was shipped out to supply British industry. But there was a problem: Though Indian varieties of cotton produced the finest fabrics the world has yet seen, the famous Dhaka muslins, they were unsuited to the newly invented textile machinery, while American cotton varieties that have a longer, stronger staple, were more suited to machine processing. The machines needed a uniform kind of cotton, so the hundreds of varieties of Indian cotton which had been bred over centuriesnow had to become uniform. Diversity,

Fossil fuels are running out and as they deplete, earlier notions of efficiency will change, and low-energy manufacturing processes will gain in value. At the same time, markets are becoming saturated with look-alike products of factory-style mass production, and there are more and more customers for the individualised products that dispersed production can offer.

until then valued, became a handicap. By 1947, mass production was well established, and India's own spinning and weaving mills took over the role of Lancashire. American cotton varieties and their hybrids gradually replaced native ones, so now, native varieties grow only in a few pockets.

What did this mean for Indian cotton farmers? Cotton in India is grown largely by small farmers, and the new practices have changed the nature of farm practices from sustainable, family-based agriculture to intensive commercial farming with severe and tragic consequences. Seeds come from large multinationals, rather than the farmer's own stock, and are expensive. While the desi varieties were rain-fed, the American varieties need irrigation, which increases humidity. Humidity encourages pests and fungi. A cocktail of chemicals — fertiliser, pesticide and fungicide— is used which adds to the cost of cultivation, but does not guarantee a good harvest. The farmer runs up huge debts hoping for a good crop, but India's weather is variable, groundwater is fast depleting. If the crop fails, the risks are entirely the farmer's. The distress of the cotton farmer has even led to suicides. The introduction of genetically-modified seeds has led to more severe problems.

Just as energy from fossil fuels ushered in the era of mass production in the 19th century, it will be clean, renewable energy that will take the small-scale environmental Indian industries to the top of the heap in the 21st century. As fossil fuels deplete, earlier notions of efficiency will change, and low-energy manufacturing processes will gain value. At the same time, markets are becoming saturated with look-alike products from factory-style mass production, and there are more customers for the individualised products dispersed production can offer. Small-batch handwoven fabrics will become desirable in the changing markets.

It is in this context that the malkha process has pioneered yarn spinning suited to the small scale of handloom production, using the different cotton varieties grown in various regions of India to provide an alternative to the mass production of cotton yarn. Malkha has also added natural dyeing of yarn to make its fabrics even more sustainable.

The world is looking for "green" industries. Over the next 25 years, as independent India turns 100, handloom weaving located close to cotton fields can make it a world leader in sustainable production. The handloom industry, particularly if it can use yarn made from cotton fresh from the field, might just have the last laugh over mass production after all.

DU STRIKE

DELHI UNIVERSITY TEACHERS are determined to continue the strike and fight "tooth and nail" for their demands following a deadlock in their talks with the University Grants Commission (UGC). Members of the Delhi University Teachers Association (DUTA) accused Union Education Minister Sheila Kaul and Vice-Chancellor Gurbax Singh of falsely proclaiming that most of the DUTA demands had been met and hence, the strike be called off. S K Batra, DUTA vice president, said than none of the teachers' demands regarding promotions or housing had "even remotely" been met.

OIL FOR CHRISTMAS

SUBSTANTIAL QUANTITIES OF oil and gas have been found in the new offshore well in the Godavari-Krishna basin 70 km south of Kakinada. Describing this as a "Christmas gift" to the nation, P Shiv Shankar, Union minister for Energy and Petroleum, told a news conference that this new off-shore well "is very promising." Oil and gas were found at a depth of 2,000 metres.

Janata Party Merger

THE LOK DAL (K) has decided "in principle" to merge with the Janata Party and an an-

$Imran\ vs\ Madan\ Lal$

MADAN LAL'S UNBEATEN 52 and his 83-run eighth wicket stand with Dilip Vengsarkar (79) delayed the inevitable for 75 minutes before "missile king" Imran Khan struck again and India were routed by an innings and 85 runs on the fourth day of the second Test at the National Stadium in Karachi. India's defeat was a foregone conclusion. But Madan Lal, who hit a six and 10 fours, showed that he deserved to bat up the order.

The fullest Cup? Not really

Messi is great, but not the greatest ever. Qatar 2022 was a good World Cup, but not the best-ever

Sandeep Dwivedi

PRESUMING THAT MORE than a week is time enough for the immediacy bias to get dialled down, and also for sake of objectivity, it is prudent to revisit the FIFA World Cup final, Before the words written and spoken in the Messiinduced delirium pass off as the only truth and get etched in history books, it's wise to add a dash of nuance to the narrative. This allimportant rewrite should start by shortening Qatar 2022's most used word. "Greatest" needs to be made "Great" urgently.

In the past one-and-half-months, the stunning goals, the magical skills and ceaseless feel-good storylines had combined to form a dizzying sequence of footballing virtuosity. It's a heady mix that forces the human mind to lose its sense of perspective. Not surprisingly, everything in and around those marvellous stadiums of this slick World Cup, we have been told, was either the Greatest or the Best-ever. The Best-ever World Cup, the Greatest final, the Best-ever fairytale and at the end of it all, the Greatest Of All Time hold-

A forensic audit of emotions is a necessary precaution in this era of exaggeration, where hype is the plinth on which sporting ecosystems are built. More so since embedded opinion-makers dressed as journalists and rent-a-tweet influencers were state guests at Qatar. They took turns to be the well-paid brick-layers that built a wall to hide the flaws of sporting superheroes or some "coin-operated launderettes" shipped in for

While Qatar scaled it up, embellishment of sporting events and achievements has been a millennial trait. Social media lends its all-encompassing network to amplify unsubstantiated prophecies and sweeping statements made in the heat of the moment. Of late, "good goals" have been labelled "great goals" and an average "smart move" has become "stroke of genius". In this age of misinformation, even the all-important Qatar proclamation that Messi is the greatest-ever needs scrutiny.

To rate individuals as "best-ever across generations", that too in team sports, is both unscientific and juvenile. In football, a sport that values passing and is played in a crowded field, it's unwise to quantify the efforts of one player. By virtue of his two Player of the Tournament Awards at the World Cup, Messi fans got bragging rights over Cristiano Ronaldo's army. These accolades, and the World Cup title, justified his status as the best player of his generation. But is he a GOAT? The old hands, those who didn't quite discover football in this century, would say that Messi isn't even the unquestionable best ever

There is a reason Diego Maradona's giant crowd-covering portraits on fabric were part of the grand Buenos Aires homecoming party. Even a year after his death, mothers in Argentina read his story to kids at bedtime. The boy from the slums, a ball juggler who regaled crowds at half-time of local league games, showed early signs of superstardom. At his first club in the little league, the coach took him to a doctor to add muscle to his legs. When he finished the treatment, the child prodigy, as he described, was "a racing colt". A natural dribbler with lightning speed, that was Maradona.

His most famous celebrated goal, not the Hand of God one, happens to be his second strike against England in the 1986 World Cup. In the words of the boss of football writing, Brian Glanville, it was a goal that was "so unusual, almost romantic, that it might have been scored by some schoolboy hero, or some remote Corinthian, from the days when dribbling was in vogue. It hardly belonged to so apparently a rational and rationalised an era as ours, as to a period in football when the dribbler seemed as extinct as the ptero-

It's a goal for the ages. The No.10 gets the ball inside his own half, on the right wing. With a quick turn, he gets rid of three England players. While moving towards the penalty area, he is confronted by a defender. His feints on the right, make the defender believe that he might run on the line and centre the ball. It would be foolish to think that Maradona was planning an assist.

By the time he realised that Maradona had sold him a dummy, the legend with the powerful legs, was cantering towards the goal. Valdano, his trusted teammate, had been by his left for most of his magical run. He could have passed but Maradona sells another lemon, this time he cons the goalkeeper and

Years later Valdona would recall the goal: "At first, I went along out of a sense of responsibility but I then realised I was just one more spectator. It was his goal and had nothing to do with the team. It was Diego's personal ad-

At this World Cup, Messi got the ball around the real estate where Maradona got in 1986. Back then it was the guarter-final, this time Argentina was playing the semis against Croatia. Messi had to deal with the tournament's most dreaded defender - the young energetic masked man Josko Gvardiol.

Messi got the ball just ahead of the halfline. He did the famous "stop and start" routine, twisted and turned too. But Gvardiol was at his ankle all the time, Maradona was faster and loved to take the opposition head-on. Messi's skills are subtle. He takes small steps. keeps the ball tied to his shoelaces and strikes when his rivals least expect. Unlike Maradona against England, Messi goes on the outside, runs along the goal line to pass the ball to Julian Alvarez, who scores. Unlike Valdona against England, Alvarez was needed. He was-

This isn't a Maradona vs Messi debate, it's a comparison to show that football throws up endless possibilities. Where Messi opted for a good assist when faced with a stubborn defender, Maradona had the audacity to pull off a great goal by taking on the entire England

Bringing up the Maradona goal is just to show that what Messi did has been done before, with more style and jaw-dropping brilliance. Does this mean it's Maradona who's the GOAT and not Messi? Not really, long before Maradona, there was Pele.

At 17, he scored his first World Cup goal. If someone replicated what he did today, he would have trended on Twitter for a month and got names like GOD and GOAT. Pele would go on to score 1,000-plus goals after that, many of the same quality.

Before that 1958 debut strike, Pele had got the ball with his back to the goal and a big burly Swedish defender glued to him. He swirled to his right while jumping to trap the ball on his chest. He used his shoulder to drop it to his feet. The routine was so quick that his marker got shaken off. As he is about to pull the trigger, another back moves in with a desperate lunge and a raised leg exposing

Lesser players would have attempted a hurried shot, missed the target or slumped to the ground to claim a penalty. Pele flipped the ball over the head of the defender, ran around and volleyed it back to the net. So, does that make Pele the GOAT? Not really. Greatness or Greatest-ness can't be owned, it's just that the baton gets passed on from generation to another.

Similarly, the Qatar final, a contest that was brazenly one-sided for 80 minutes, too can't be the best-ever by everyone. Ask those chanting "Two World Wars and One World Cup" when England beat Germany at home in the 1966 final. Morocco too can't be the best-ever fairytale. Ask the South Koreans who followed the World Cup of 2002. Messi too can't be the best-ever. Those who don't agree should read Glanville or search for Pele's goals on YouTube

Without a doubt, Qatar did pull off an incident-free and exciting event but the Arabian Nights puffery of "never seen before angels in boots kicking ball in football paradise' needs to be called out.

Once upon a time in Goa

The place where Inspector Zende arrested Charles Shobhrai has lost its innocence to a ghoulish modernity

Vikram Patel

INSPECTOR MADHUKAR ZENDE is as well known to those who lived in Goa in 1986 as the infamous Charles Sobhraj, back in the news for being released from a Nepalese prison after serving decades incarcerated for his horrible crimes. That was the year the Mandovi Bridge crashed into the river, moments before I was about to cross it on my moped on the way to work at Goa Medical College. It was also the year when Zende captured Sobhraj, ghoulishly nick-named the "Bikini Killer", fabled for his debonair charms which seduced beautiful women, but also as the most notorious mass-murderer of those times, killing many of those beautiful women.

Zende, then a sub-inspector in the Mumbai police, stumbled upon his prey as he dined with his team in the O Coqueiro restaurant. In the inimitable inspector's own words, he recognised the "brash fellow" by peering closely at a fellow diner he deemed suspicious because he wore a sun hat at night. He calmly walked up to him and, confirming he was within spitting distance of his quarry, arrested him. Then, having forgotten to bring handcuffs, they tied his hands with a rope (kindly supplied by the restaurant staff) and bundled him into a police van for the long journey to Mumbai. But, as Sobhraj was a "black-belt and would try to escape", Zende ordered two of his constables to "sit on him". Yes, you read right: The cops sat on Sobhraj to prevent him from escaping during the gruelling, overnight ride from Goa to Mumbai.

I wondered how our police might have dealt with such a dilemma in more recent times. Modernity has changed how things are done in India because we have become so much more sophisticated. The modern solution to preventing an escape isn't sitting on the prisoner, but may well be eliminating him in an encounter! Sobhraj would probably try to steal a pistol from his captors and start running and shooting simultaneously, and our courageous police would gun him down. Matter closed, no need for the frivolities of the judicial system and, of course, no chance he would ever be released from prison alive. Summary justice and, everyone would be

I was reminded of the many such encounters that occur freely across our land, over 600 in the past five years and counting, some with the most utterly incredulous accounts such as the killing of four undertrials in December 2019 by the Telangana police who alleged they had to open fire in self-defence as the four men began pelting them with stones, or the killing of eight undertrials who apparently escaped from the Bhopal Central Jail and were subsequently all shot dead, many in the head or back, by the police in October 2016. That the former group was charged with rape and the latter was associated with a banned Islamic group, was enough for sections of our country to celebrate the police's actions.

At the risk of being called an out-oftouch romantic, I admit I miss the likes of Zende, improvising as best as he could, without resorting to an eye-for-an-eye form of justice, to strictly follow the law. I am left wondering if Zende was living in an age that we might want to hold onto. An age of innocence, when many of us believed in old-fashioned things like the right of every individual to justice, even when accused of heinous crimes. Perhaps I am simply being nostalgic, as I do also miss so many other things that have changed since that fateful year. Back then, there was only one bridge over the Mandovi but now there are three, presumably to serve as insurance against the collapse of two bridges, which isn't surprising as the first bridge fell down after just 15 years. The merging of three bridges on either side of the river has created the most chaotic intersection in the world. Back then, the Goa Medical College was housed in an elegant colonial-era building on the banks of the Mandovi in the heart of the city of Panjim, but it is now housed in a tasteless industrial complex several miles from the capital. Back then, O Coqueiro was the most renowned eatery in north Goa, famed for its blend of Portuguese and Goan cuisine in the leafy neighbourhood of Porvorim, which is now engulfed in construction and rendered much of the place, like many others in Goa, unrecognisable and ugly. Back then, "development" meant planning for the people who lived in the villages and towns of the state, with a focus on low-impact tourism, fishing and agriculture. Now, large parts of Goa have been gouged raw by miners, tourism has metastasised into monstrous casino ships blighting the view from the Panjim promenade, and villages are being depopulated as the natives seize their opportunity to become Portuguese citizens, replaced by hordes of the wealthy from across the country who want a slice of Goa, at whatever ludicrous price.

Sorry if I come across as a sourpuss or a dreamer complaining about "progress", but the loss of innocence, in Goa at least, cannot be denied. How else can one explain one of our former chief ministers, a well known "frog" for being a prolific "party hopper" who, despite having taken a solemn oath before the last elections to the gods of three religions, decided to hop anyway because, in his words, "I went back to God. I told God. these are the circumstances and asked what I should do. God said you take whatever decision you want, I am behind you". I guess some might argue that this is a remarkable example of innocence, but a harder look will get you to see what is hiding in plain sight: Modernity in India has become synonymous with greed and dishonesty.

This poisonous brand of modernity seems to have ruptured my beautiful Goa, once famous for its aromatic syncretic cuisine, its evocative domestic architecture, the small-time crooks who were almost comical in their naïveté, the glistening paddy fields and pristine villages bordering mangrove-fringed backwaters and thickly forested hills teeming with waterfalls, backpacking tourists who lived in village homes and frequented beach shacks, and diverse communities who, despite their differences, lived together in harmony. Goa's age of innocence is forever gone.

Whether what has replaced it is better, only time will tell. For me, though, having someone sit on my back to stop me from escaping will always be preferable to being shot in the back.

When Urdu has become 'Muslim', what chance does a child's prayer have?

GROWING UP IN the '80s, school assemblies were not merely congregations one rushed to and was invariably late for. In the residential school I attended in Dehradun, they were different things on different days. Some days, there were songs and prayers so slow that they lulled you into lethargy rather than set you marching to a new day. And then there were days when our music teacher and accomplished vocalist, Mr Deshpande, led the assembly with his sonorous voice and sparkling repertoire. It had room for everything from Kabir's introspective "Moko kahan tu dhunde re bande main toh tere paas mein" and "Haman hain ishq mastana" to Muhammad Igbal's "Aa ghariyat ke parde" from his "Naya Shivala" to the poem that has caused the principal of a government school and a shiksha mitra to be booked in Bareilly on a complaint by the VHP of hurting religious sentiments after the video of children singing it in a school assembly went viral.

"Lab pe aati hai dua ban ke tamanna meri", written by Iqbal in 1902 — also known as "Bachche ki Dua" - has been sung routinely in schools in India and Pakistan. Generations have recited it in school assemblies, remembered it long after one's school days were over and hummed it years later alone or with school friends. The tune and the lines linger on, sometimes half-forgotten. sometimes fully-remembered. The use of one of the prayer's stanzas, picturised on school children in Pakistan in "Ae watan, watan mere, aabad rahe tu", a warm ode by Gulzar to one's country, one's roots, from the 2018 spy thriller Raazi, only reiterated what one always knew: It does well as a child's heart-felt prayer for light and cheer, one that upholds universal values.

Said to be inspired by an English poem, "A Child's Prayer" by Matilda B Edwards, "Bachche ki Dua", expresses sentiments that no one can take, or should take, objection to. It talks about a child's wish for a life like a candle (shama), that banishes darkness from the world (door duniya ka mere dum se andhera ho jaye) and brings light to all corners (har jagah mere chamakne se ujala ho jaye). It talks about protecting the poor (garibon ki himayat karna) and loving the weak (dard mandon se zaifon se mohabbat karna).

So, it is presumably the use of "Allah" in the line "Mere Allah burai se bachana mujhko" (God save me from all wrong doing) that has led to the uproar of hurt sentiments. No one seems to have nurtured such hurt till 2019. when the headmaster of a government school in Pilibhit was suspended following a complaint by VHP workers that students were being made to recite a prayer usually said in madrasas. Before this, no one who had sung it had thought of it as a religious prayer. Children who followed faiths other than Islam neither paused nor stopped at the word "Allah"; everyone sang along, praying to God, asking him to keep us on the right path (nek jo raah ho us raah pe chalana mujhko). But in times when Urdu, the language, has become Muslim and the colour orange Hindu, what chance does a line like that have in an orange-lit India?

Quoted extensively, Iqbal, like his poemin-the-middle-of-a storm, has evoked much mistrust in India after Independence. An advocate for a homeland for Muslims, who was later anointed the national poet of Pakistan (he died before Pakistan was created), he left behind an exhaustive body of work that straddled the East and the West, modernity and tradition, and weaved together political and philosophical strands. He was also the poet who wrote lyrically on Lord Ram, calling him "Imam-e-Hind" and on Guru Nanak, whom he called "Mard-e-kamil" (a complete man). But perhaps, it is from another of Iqbal's songs written for children, that New India can take an old lesson. Written in 1904, "Saare jahan se accha" continues to enjoy an uninterrupted run as India's unofficial anthem, sung gustily in schools at Independence Day and marched to by the Indian army. The "Taranae-Hindi" (anthem of India) is dotted with images that evoke an unchanged India with the Himalayas as its sentinel and the Ganga. on whose banks once descended a caravan. It also holds a message that's a cliche and, like all cliches, repeats a truth: "Mazhab nahin sikhata aapas mein bair rakhna/ Hindi hain ham vatan hai Hindostan hamara" (Religion doesn't promote enmity/ We are all Indians and India is ours). Let's hope no one objects to that someday.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NEPAL AND INDIA

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'The new Kathmandu' (IE, December 27). Nepal is in a state of political uncertainty due to the fractured verdict of the elections that resulted in a hung parliament. Pushpa Kamal Dahal's turnabout was shocking as he parted ways with Sher Bahadur Deuba, despite being in a prepoll alliance with him. This is concerning for India because Dahal's ally, KPOli, is considered pro-China and our bilateral ties with Nepal turned sour during Oli's tenure. PM Modi has met ex-PM Deuba but refuses to meet with Dahal, which may prove dangerous for India. We should be engaging with the whole spectrum of Nepal's political parties.

New In The New Year

China, West, G20: Opportunities & concerns

As India hosts the G20 summit, 2023 is the year when politics and economics will intertwine with diplomacy. A belligerent Beijing remains a concern, and there are elections to watch out for in crucial neighbouring countries, including Pakistan. New Delhi has to strike a balance between old ties and new alliances

Shubhajit Roy

AFTER A tumultuous year in global geopolitics - with the Russia-Ukraine war and China's belligerence at India's doorstep -India is entering 2023 with challenges and opportunities staring at it on the diplomatic and military fronts.

With the war in Europe coming after two brutal years of the pandemic, 2022 is being compared with disruptive periods in the past – 1962 (India-China war, Cuban missile crisis), 1979 (Iranian revolution, invasion of Afghanistan, siege of Mecca), 1989 (fall of Berlin Wall), 1991 (Collapse of the Soviet Union, Economic reforms in India, Gulf War I), 2001 (9/11 terror attack, fall of Taliban, war on terror), 2008 (global financial crisis, 26/11 Mumbai terror attack). With a highly infectious COVID-19 variant spreading across China, a level of uncertainty has again gripped the world. And an economic downturn looms large on the horizon

As India hosts the G20 summit this year, Delhi looks to shape conversations on issues confronting the world: post-Covid economic recovery to health structures to deal with future pandemics to challenges to global norms to protection of the environment. In two years at the UN Security Council as a non-permanent member, it sought to project India's views and contribute to the global conversations.

An evaluation of trends and events shows that six hard realities face India in 2023.

Six hard realities

Russia-Ukraine war: The Russian invasion of Ukraine on February 24 has upended the global order in place since World War II, impacted the world's food and energy security, and is pushing the global economy towards a recession. The nuclear rhetoric from Russian leaders has caused anxiety, while the strategic embrace of Russia and China is an-

China's aggression: The Ukraine war has also made the world sit up and look at China's aggression in the Indo-Pacific. US House Speaker Nancy Pelosi's visit to Taiwan and Beijing's response has drawn attention to China's moves.

Closer home, India is facing that aggression on its border, with a skirmish in Arunachal Pradesh after the 2020 Galwan clashes that killed 20 Indian soldiers.

That Beijing is belligerent can be so its recent activities in the South China Sea, where it has been observed to carry out construction on an island.

Ties with the West being tested: Thanks to an aggressive Russia, India's ties with the West are going through a stress test. New Delhi's diplomatic tightrope walk has often been seen by its partners in Washington and Europe as opportunistic, with Delhi seen as following its interests and not being guided LOOKING AHEAD

JANUARY: Egypt President Abdel Fattah El-Sisi is the R Day guest

MARCH: Xi Jinping formally begins his third term in office, becoming the first Chinese leader to do so since Mao Zedong; ■G20 foreign ministers' meeting

AUGUST: End of Pakistan National Assembly's term, elections will be held within 60 days

SEPTEMBER: India hosts the 18th G20 Summit in New Delhi ■ Elections in Maldives

NOVEMBER: UN Climate Change Conference (COP 28) in Dubai; ■ General elections in Bangladesh come close, with Sheikh Hasina facing her biggest test yet by "shared values". European partners, which import more energy than India, have scoffed at India's buying of cheap oil from sanctions-hit Russia.

While Washington has been understanding, the absence of a full-time US ambassador – even after almost two years of the Biden administration - is perceived to have impacted communication. While some have seen it as a downgrade in ties, insiders in both India and Washington blame systemic challenges for a fulltime ambassador not being appointed.

aliban engagement begins: Less than a year after Taliban's recapturing of Afghanistan, India reopened its operations in the Indian embassy in Kabul – albeit limited – in June.

This was not sudden, and Delhi had begun the process of re-en- country negotiate an economic debt relief gaging by sending humanitarian aid in the package from the International Monetary form of food grains, vaccines, and essential Fund. With China as a rival in Sri Lanka, Delhi

While India has made its red lines clear on the menace of extremism and rights of minorities and women, signalling long-term commitment to Afghanistan's future, it has made a commitment of USD 80 million over and above its USD 3 billion commitment in the last two decades — for improving the lives of Afghans. This means Delhi is finally looking at the Taliban as a political actor, although it is influenced and even controlled by Pakistan's military establishment.

Pakistan turmoil: Pakistan saw the Imran Khan-led PTI government ousted and the Shehbaz Sharif-led coalition of PML-N and Bhutto-Zardari's PPP form the government in May. The rhetoric against India has lowered a bit, but there has been no headway in bilateral ties

Towards the end of the year, Pakistan got a new Army chief — former Intelligence chief

Gen Asim Munir – which, many say, is the real transition of power in the country where the military-intelligence establishment has a complete veto on foreign and defence issues. Neighbourhood in crisis: The Sri Lankan economic and political crisis was a major challenge in the neighbourhood. India opened its purse strings and gave humanitarian aid fuel, medicines, more than any other country in such a short period of time. Delhi is also helping the island wants a government that understands India's security and strategic interests.

Engagement with Myanmar has continued in low-key visits and assistance to the military junta regime in Yangon and Delhi has sought to not isolate the regime in Nay Pyi Taw, unlike the western partners. The key impact has been the influx of refugees from Myanmar to the north-eastern states through the porous borders and concern about non-state actors fomenting trouble in the north-east.

Six challenges and opportunities for 2023

Dealing with China: The December 9 Arunachal clashes have shown that Beijing is challenging the status quo, not just in eastern Ladakh but in other sectors along the 3,500-km border with India.

"What is clear is that Beijing's decisions must have been made at the highest levels for political and strategic, not just tactical, what are prophetic words. There is clarity in the strategic establishment in New Delhi that China is the biggest adversary – unlike in the past where some gave them the benefit of doubt.

With President Xi getting a third term and emerging as China's most powerful leader since Mao Zedong, the road ahead has become more challenging.

Despite a direct conversation between Prime Minister Narendra West's approach towards Russia after the war Modi and Xi— their first since the border has brought Moscow much closer to China.

guided by a thinking that one has to stand up to the bully, but that has come at a cost, with soldiers braving the harsh winter in eastern Ladakh for the third year in a row.

As China sees itself as a superpower and whose time has come, more clashes and competing interests with India are likely, which will have to be resolved through nego-

Engaging with Russia: The border standoff with China has shown Russia's importance in India's strategic calculus.

Russia has been a reliable supplier of defence equipment for the past seven decades, and despite diversification to the US, France and Israel among others, Moscow still dominates the field. That has been complicated by the Russia-Ukraine war, where the reliability of Russian equipment is being questioned and the supply chain is under strain. For Delhi, with a belligerent Beijing next door, this has been the biggest worry. What concerns Delhi is that Moscow's ties with China influences some of its decisions. In the post Cold War-era, economic relations have formed the "new strategic basis" for Sino-Russian relations. China is Russia's biggest trading partner and the largest Asian investor in Russia. China sees Russia as a powerhouse of raw material and a growing market for its consumer goods. The standoff – there has been no breakthrough. Delhi's effort will be to engage with both India's strategic response has been Russia and the West, and put its strategic defence and national security interests first. G20 as a global stage: The hosting of the G20 summit will be one of the biggest portrayals of India's rise at the global stage months ahead of the General Elections in 2024.

> New Delhi, which has already positioned itself as the "voice of the Global South" – a reference to the developing and the less-developed countries — will seek to put its priorities on the global forum.

In this context, it will also seek to bring Russian and Western interlocutors and leaders together and end the conflict in Europe, so that all the leaders, including Putin, Biden, and Xi attend the September summit in Delhi. If it manages to do so, it will claim a diplomatic win, which will go down well with its domestic constituency.

Ties with the West: With India buying cheap oil and not joining the West against Russia, Delhi will have to work to assuage the concerns of European and American partners. In fact, the G20 preparations will give some opportunity to do that.

Challenge in the neighbourhood: While Sri Lanka will continue to demand India's humanitarian, financial and political attention in the new year, New Delhi will also be part of political conversation in Maldives. The Maldives is going to polls in September, and an "India Out" campaign is likely to fire up the political debate. Delhi will be watching closely as political parties try to project India as the bully and a big brother.

Bangladesh also goes into election mode in 2023, with polls scheduled for January 2024 after an iron-fist reign of Sheikh Hasina. India will be looking at her prospects after a long and uninterrupted political journey that has brought security in India's eastern states. Nepal witnessed a dramatic turn of events, with rebel-turned-politician Pushpa Kamal Dahal 'Prachanda' becoming the Prime Minister and former PM K P Oli - a known India-baiter in recent years - holding the keys to the government. This will pose significant challenge for Delhi, which has seen Beijing's influence grow in Kathmandu in recent years. Pakistan's crucial year: Elections in Pakistan are scheduled for later in 2023. This will again be a contest to watch out for, with Imran Khan holding massive rallies on one hand, and Sharif-Bhutto-Zardari going into the elections with some degree of military support on the other. The new civilian government and the Army chief will shape their attitude towards India. In India, with Lok Sabha polls due in 2024, how the Pakistan puzzle is raked up and managed might hold the key to the next steps in the relationship.

As India hosts the G20 summit, 2023 is the year when politics and economics will intertwine with diplomacy. Much will depend on how India navigates the polarised world and makes its mark in setting the global agenda – as it works towards its goal to become a permanent member of the UN Security Council.

Former Indian Foreign Secretary Vijay Gokhale aptly sums up India's challenges in a new book, Strategic challenges: India in 2030, where he says, "Our domestic efforts will need to be bolstered by smart partnerships with others. While building new friends, we need to keep old partners like Russia by our side, engage all countries including China, and resolve outstanding matters with our smaller neighbours which have hobbled foreign policy for decades. All of this to ensure that we are better placed to deal with the real challenges of this uncertain decade."

The year that bid au revoir to hyperglobalisation

HARISH DAMODARAN NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

IN 1910. British journalist Norman Angell published a book titled The Great Illusion, which argued that war in the modern era was an "economic impossibility". The sheer extent of financial and commercial interdependence between countries made conflict as futile for the conqueror as the conquered. By 1913, The Great Illusion had sold over a million copies and been translated into 22 languages.

Angell was proved wrong. On July 28, 1914, World War I broke out, ending only on November 11, 1918. It also ended the first "golden age" of globalisation between 1870 and 1914, when world trade in goods surged from 9% to 16% of GDP. This was a period of internationalisation of economic and social life when, as the Cambridge economist John Maynard Keynes put it, "the inhabitant of London could order by telephone, sipping his morning tea in bed, the various products of the whole earth, in such quantity as he might see fit, and reasonably expect their early delivery upon his doorstep".

By the time War War II began in September 1939, the share of merchandise trade in global GDP had collapsed to 5.5%. It recovered gradually thereafter to reach the pre-World War-I levels only towards the late-1970s.

In December 1996, yet another journalist, Thomas L Friedman, wrote in The New York Times that "no two countries that both have a McDonald's have ever fought a war against each other". He propounded this "thesis" just when the world had entered a new era of what Arvind Subramanian — who became Chief Economic Adviser in India - termed "hyperglobalisation". Between 1990 and 2008, global trade in goods soared from 15.3% to 25.2% of world GDP. Inclusive of trade in services, the increase was from 18.8% to 31.7%.

That era formally ended in 2022, which has seen not one, but two wars. Both have upended the assumption of "doux commerce" encapsulated in the sayings of the French philosopher Montesquieu that "commerce is a cure for the most destructive prejudices' and "peace is the natural effect of trade".

The first war was Russia's invasion of Ukraine. The second is an economic war — a geopolitical confrontation between two su-

In early-October, the US restricted exports of high-end semiconductor chips, and the equipment to make them, to China. Further, it pressured the Netherlands, Japan and other countries to bar their chip gear manufacturers from supplying to China. By erecting a "silicon fence" around China, the US is seeking to cut off Beijing's access to advanced semiconductors and the technology to produce these chips, which pack transistors at widths of 3-14 nanometer (nm or one-billionth of a meter; the smaller the distance between transistors, the more such devices can fit in a given space and the higher the processing speeds). Till recently, not many had imagined that Russia would forcibly occupy Ukraine. Both had McDonald's, after all. Under former President Donald Trump, the US imposed tariffs on Chinese imports and blocked telecom equipment giant Huawei from obtaining American components and technology. But those pale in comparison to the current sweeping semiconductor export curbs.

In a hyperglobalised world, not only were wars passé, but economies broadly followed the principles laid down by the late-18th/early-19th century economists Adam Smith and David Ricardo. Smith put it straight in his Wealth of Nations: "If a foreign country can supply us with a commodity cheaper than we ourselves can make it, better buy it of them with some part of the produce of our own industry, employed in a way in which we have some advantage" Ricardo went one step ahead. Countries, he said, could produce even things in which they had no "absolute advantage". What mattered was "comparative advantage".

He illustrated this with an example of two and Japan (8.2% to 4.3%).

countries producing two goods. Suppose it took 100 hours to make one unit of cloth and 120 hours for one unit of wine in England, whereas Portugal required 90 hours for the former and 80 hours for the latter. Clearly, Portugal enjoyed absolute advantage producing both goods. Ricardo argued it still made sense for England to simply manufacture cloth and for Portugal to specialise in wine. It would result in 2.2 units of cloth and 2.125 units of wine being produced over 220 hours and 170 hours in England and Portugal respectively. The two were better off, then, producing one good and importing the other.

Belief in comparative advantage is what propelled the second golden age - of "hyperglobalisation" – after 1990. It confirmed to Ricardo's principle of each country devoting its resources "to such employments as are most beneficial to each". Hyperglobalisation's chief protagonist, however, was China, emerging as the 'world's factory" and a "mega-trader": Subramanian, in a 2013 paper coauthored Martin Kessler Hyperglobalisation of Trade and its Future"), estimated China's share in world merchandise trade to have risen from 1.8% in 1990 to 11.1% in 2012. This, even as that of others fell: Germany (12% to 7.6%), the US (11.3% to 8.4%)

The entire system of free trade was founded upon trust and comparative advantage trumping geopolitics. Doux commerce - the idea that trade makes people less prone to violence or irrational behaviour — led to Russia supplying close to 40% of the European Union's total natural gas consumpfactory in China's Zhengzhou (operated by a Taiwanese contract manufacturer Foxconn), Taiwanese companies producing 65% of the world's semiconductors, India grabbing a 30% share of the global IT services market, and Bangladesh exporting readymade garments valued at almost $43 billion last year.

tion in 2021, Apple having its biggest iPhone

That world — "happy age", as Keynes would have called it - came to an end in

The signs were there. Global trade peaked in 2008, just before the financial crisis. By 2020, world merchandise trade had dipped to 20.8% of GDP, and to 26.9% for both goods and services. But it had never come to a situation where Russia would actually wage war and prompt countermeasures by the West.

While such curbs are meant to penalise and deter aggressors, whom they are hurting more is an open question. How much more is Europe paying for liquefied natural gas imported from the US and Qatar vis-àvis Russia?

The greatest collateral damage is to the global trading order. From production based on comparative advantage and grains, it's each nation for itself now. India is granting incentives amounting to happen overnight. And it's unlikely to in 2023.

30-50% of project cost for semiconductor units manufacturing less-sophisticated 28-65 nm range chips. Five years ago, it may not have considered this worth taxpayer money.

MeitY becomes nodal ministry for online gaming

ENSECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

THE MINISTRY of Electronics and IT (MeitY) will soon publish rules for online gaming platforms and start public consultation on the regulations, Minister of State for Electronics and IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar said Tuesday. According to an official gazette on Monday, MeitY is now the nodal ministry regulating online gaming.

In a tweet, Chandrasekhar said that the government is "committed to fully encouraging technology innovation but also to ensure that no illegal content or services are pos-

Earlier this month, Chandrasekhar had told Parliament that the government was aware of the possible risk and challenges of online gaming, including the risk of "violence abetting video games, addiction to it, and consequential financial loss."

The online gaming industry has been for a long asking for central-level law to regulate the sector. In May, MeitY set up an inter-ministerial task force to propose rules for regulating online gaming.

In October, the task force recommended the creation of a central regulatory body for the sector, clearly defining what games of skill and chance are and bringing online gaming under the purview of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, among other things.

The online gaming industry has welcomed the ministry's appointment as the nodal agency.

The appointment of MeitY as the central regulatory authority will provide clarity and certainty to investors, industry and consumers," said Joy Bhattacharjya, director general, Federation of Indian Fantasy Sports (FIFS).

'The decision is in line with the government's initiative to push for the growth of the animation, visual effects, gaming and comics (AVGC) sector and making India a global hub for online gaming. We are sure that the online gaming industry will grow responsibly under MeitY in creating a wellregulatory balanced framework," he added.

As per a report by VC firm Seguoia and management consulting company BCG, the revenue of the Indian mobile gaming industry is expected to exceed $1.5 billion in 2022 and is estimated to reach $5 billion in 2025. The industry grew at a CAGR of 38 per cent between 2017-2020, compared to 8 per cent in China and 10 per cent in the US. It is expected to grow at a CAGR of 15 per cent to reach Rs 153 billion in revenue by 2024.

India's percentage of new paying users (NPUs) in gaming has been the fastest growing in the world for two consecutive years, at 40 per cent in 2020 and 50 per cent in 2021. According to a report by EY and FICCI, transactionbased games' revenues grew 26 per cent in India, with the number of paying gamers increasing by 17 per cent from 80 million in 2020 to 95 mil-

Maharashtra, Gujarat, TN, Delhi & Karnataka make up 73% of mop up

AANCHAL MAGAZINE

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

Rising industrial hubs, IT sectors and improved compliance helped Telangana, Chhattisgarh, Karnataka, Rajasthan and Gujarat record the highest growth rate in net direct tax collections in the financial year 2021-22 as against the pre-Covid period of 2019-20, government data showed.

The northeastern states of Nagaland, Mizoram, and Manipur also witnessed an increase in tax collections, while Sikkim and Meghalaya posted a decline during the same period. Even as overall net direct tax collections took a hit by contracting over 9 per cent in 2020-21 after the Covid-19 pandemic, the states/union territories of Karnataka, Telangana, Rajasthan, Nagaland, Dadra and Nagar Haveli bucked the trend by posting an increase in the direct tax mop up, indicating a pickup in economic activity in those re-

RBI asks banks to closely monitor slippages in restructured assets

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

THE RESERVE Bank of India Tuesday said the global headwinds in the current financial year pose new threats to the banking sector and asked banks to keep a close watch on slippages in restructured assets.

In a report - Trend and Progress of Banking in India 2021-22 - RBI said that banks must ensure due diligence and robust credit appraisal to limit credit risk.

It said that the uncertainties characterising fast-changing macroeconomic scenarios amidst formidable global headwinds during 2022-23 could pose new challenges to the banking sector.

"If downside risks materialise, asset quality could be affected. Hence, slippages in restructured assets need to be monitored closely. Timely resolution of stressed assets is essential to prevent asset value depletion," the report released Tuesday said.

In response to COVID-19, the RBI announced two restructuring schemes. The first -Resolution Framework 1.0, was announced in August 2020, and

BANKS FACE A HIGHLY UNCERTAIN OUTLOOK

■The Reserve Bank of India said going ahead banks face a highly uncertain outlook due to the possibility of continuing geopolitical tensions, tighter monetary and liquidity conditions and potential adverse spillover effects on profitability and asset quality

the second - Resolution Frameworks 2.0, in May 2021.

The report said the number of accounts restructured by private sector banks (PVBs) through both resolution frameworks 1.0 as well as 2.0 grew multi-fold, albeit on a low base. In contrast, public sector banks (PSBs) had restructured fewer accounts under resolution framework 1.0, but they picked up steam in resolution framework 2.0.

The differential behaviour of PSBs vis-à-vis PVBs may be reflective of the former's legacy of stress in large borrowal accounts. PSBs restructured around 10 lakh accounts in 2021-22 compared to 3 lakh accounts in 2020structured close to 45 lakh Finance Ministry has said. accounts in 2021-22 as against 2 lakh accounts in 2020-21, the report showed.

The RBI further said the gross non-performing assets (GNPA) ratio of scheduled commercial banks (SCBs) has been declining sequentially to reach 5 per cent in end-September 2022 from 5.8 per cent in 2021-22.

'This decrease was led by lower slippages as well as reduction in outstanding GNPAs through recoveries, upgradations and write-offs," the report said. The net NPAs eased to 1.7 per cent in 2021-22 from 2.4 per cent in 2020-21 in the previous financial year.

In 2021-22, the reduction in NPAs was mainly contributed by written-off loans in the case of PSBs, while the upgradation of loans was the primary driver for asset quality improvement for PVBs. Large borrowal accounts, i.e., accounts with a total exposure of Rs 5 crore and above, comprised 47.8 per cent of total advances in 2021-22, down from 48.4 per cent in 2020-21. Their share in total NPAs declined during the year to 63.4 per cent from 66.4 per cent in 2020-21.

Vignesh and Warrier keep Delhi in check

PRATYUSH RAJ

NEW DELHI, DECEMBER 27

ON A cold Tuesday at the Kotla, Tamil Nadu seamers L Vignesh and Sandeep Warrier proved too hot to handle for the hosts as the duo shared six wickets between them to leave Delhi tottering at 212/6 at stumps on Day 1. The match was stopped for 5-7 minutes after just one over was bowled. Delhi openers Anuj Rawat and Dhruv Shorey spoke to the umpires right after the first over and umpires took them off the field due to bad light. The weather demons returned in the third session and the bad light forced the umpires to stop the day's play.

The only bright spot for Delhi was the 105-run third wicket stand between Dhruv Shorey (66) and Jonty Sidhu (57). The duo revived Delhi after Vignesh removed opener Anuj Rawat and captain Yash Dhull in the space of six balls.

Tamil Nadu skipper Baba Indrajith won the toss and rightly put Delhi into bat in cold and grey conditions. In the morning, the ball was still doing a bit and Vignesh - who swings the ball both ways -- made the most of it. Opener Rawat played a loose shot and Vijay Shankar grabbed a good low catch at gully. In the same over, Vignesh removed Delhi skipper Dhull, who departed without troubling the scorers. Dhull would feel hard done by as he didn't seem to have edged it.

In the post lunch session, with pitch flattening out, TN once again went back to their short-ball tactic. It is a ploy they have been using this season with considerable success and crucial to it is Warrier. The Kerala import bowled his heart out and was rewarded immediately. Jonty Sidhu, while ducking a bouncer didn't get his bat down in time and Jagadeesan took a good catch behind the wicket. Vaibhav Rawal looked uncomfortable from the start and he was caught and bowled by Warrier after getting into a tan-

"We've been executing the short ball tactics in the last few matches as well. It was not from both ends but only from one end. From one end we're trying to bowl full and from other, we're trying to pick wickets with the short balls," said Warrier after the match.

Vignesh revealed it was skipper Indrajith's idea to keep attacking at all cost.

"Before the season began, Indrajith told the bowling unit about the plan to keep attacking at all costs. And once that belief is there, it is all about executing it at the right time. We have different style of bowlers... if my strength is bowling full to get the swing, Sandy is good at delivering short balls," Vignesh added.

Brief scores: Delhi 212/6 in 76 overs (Dhruv Shorey 66, Jonty Sidhu 57; Sandeep Warrier 3/59, LVignesh 3/42) vs Tamil Nadu.

RANJI TROPHY

Mumbai gets a new Khan

Sarfaraz's 17-year-old brother Musheer, makes Ranji debut vs Saurashtra

DEVENDRA PANDEY

EARLY THIS year, Mumbai batsman Sarfaraz Khan had requested the team manager to give him an extra cap which he will keep with him and present it to his younger brother Musheer, whenever he makes his Ranji Trophy debut.

The day finally arrived on Tuesday, when elder brother Sarfaraz gave the Mumbai cap kept in his bag to his 17-yearold younger brother Musheer who made his Ranji debut against Saurashtra at the MCA-BKC ground. With Musheer's entry, after a long time the Mumbai dressing room is witnessing a set of brothers in the same team.

Musheer has been knocking on Mumbai's senior team door for the past two years and the word floating around is, he is better than his elder brother Sarfaraz. If everything goes right, he might lead the India Under-19 side in the coming days ahead of the World Cup next year.

Musheer was picked in the Mumbai Ranji squad last season too but didn't get an opportunity to play. The senior selection committee decided to retain his place this season too and Musheer got the chance to don the Mumbai cap after off-spinner Tanush Kotian injured his finger on the morning of the match.

An elated Musheer, later in the day, recalled how he felt while receiving the cap. "I waited for this for a long time and never thought that the day would arrive soon. All my life I have gone listening to my father and brother about the Ranji Trophy. When I received the cap, I was just speechless,"

Ever since he turned 15, the teenager has been scoring consistently in Mumbai's local cricket. Playing in A Division, he had scored centuries and last month, in the BCCI Under-25 tournament, scored 172 off 133 deliveries against Jammu & Kashmir.

With Musheer riding high on confidence, the selectors picked him again in the Ranji Trophy squad. Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) senior selection committee chairman Salil Ankola said Musheer's performance on a consistent basis has been impressive.

"He was part of the squad during the last Ranji Trophy season as well. He has been performing consistently and we felt it was time we try him in a bigger league. The wicket favours his style of play, he is a street smart cricketer and we can see that Mumbai's khadoos thing in him. He won't give his wicket away and more than that he is a fantabulous fielder and a team man. He will be there, I feel he has a great future

Saurashtra's captain Arpit Vasavada scored 75 on Day One. PTI ahead of him," Ankola said.

The youngster was nervous like any cricketer playing his first big game. While Mumbai coach Amol Muzumdar advised Musheer to enjoy the moment and not let the nerves affect him, captain Ajinkya

Rahane and Suryakumar Yadav told him to keep it simple when he came on to bowl. Apart from being an opener, Musheer also bowls left-arm spin. He bowled five overs on Day 1 without any success.

Vasavada shines

Saurashtra captain Arpit Vasavada patiently constructed 75 on a turning track enabling his side post 289 against Mumbai on Day One of the Ranji Trophy game. The left-handed batsman got the support of veteran batsman Sheldon Jackon as they added 54 runs for the fourth wicket after Saurashtra were 73 for 3 at one stage.

Post lunch, Mumbai bowlers picked up wickets at regular intervals. However, allrounder Prerak Mankad (27), Parth Bhut (25) and Dharmendrasinh Jadeja (24) ensured Saurashtra didn't bundle out cheaply and ensured they had a decent total to bowl at. Left-arm spinner Shams Mulani continued his good form at home and finished with four-wicket haul.

In reply, openers Prithvi Shaw and Yashasvi Jaiswal departed early to leave Mumbai in a spot of bother at 6/2. However, Rahane and Yadav ensured Mumbai didn't lose any more wickets as they ended the dav at 36/2.

Brief scores: Saurashtra 289 all out (A Vasavada 75, Sheldon Jackson 47; S Mulani 4-109) vs Mumbai 36/2 (Surya Kumar Yadav 18 not out, A Rahane 12 not out).

DAY1ROUNDUP

Djokovic back in Aus ahead of Open

Adelaide: Novak Djokovic has arrived in Australia nearly a year after he was deported from the country, the Sydney Morning Herald reported on Tuesday, ahead of his bid for a 10th men's singles title at next month's Australian Open. Djokovic landed in Adelaide where he is due to play in the Adelaide International, the report said. The 35-year-old was deported on the eve of this year's tournament in Melbourne after he arrived in the country without being vaccinated against COVID-19. In November, the Australian government granted the Serbian a visa to travel to the Grand Slam event, saying it had decided to revoke the decision to cancel Djokovic's visa after considering all relevant factors. Saina named for selection trials

New Delhi: Two-time Commonwealth Games champion Saina Nehwal has been named for next month's selection trials of Asian Mixed Team Championships, to be held in Dubai from February 14 to 19. The senior selection committee had a virtual meeting on December 25 to finalise the trials for picking the team for the Asian event. Based on their superior world rankings, the committee decided to give direct entry to singles players Lakshya Sen, HS Prannoy, PV Sindhu and men's doubles pair of Satwiksairaj Ranikreddy and Chirag Shetty. The rest of the 14-member team will be picked in the selection trials, scheduled to be held in Delhi on January 2 and 3. PTI

Manu emerges from the shadows

ANDREW AMSAN

MANU DP VIVIDLY remembers the day his initiation into the sport of javelin happened about six years ago. His school's physical education teacher placed a bamboo spear, a discus, and a shotput ball in front of him and pointed his finger towards the javelin. The then 16-year-old had no clue about the sport. Call it discipline, respect or just plain fear, the budding volleyball player decided to pursue javelin wholeheartedly from that moment onwards. "Sir asked me, so I did it," he puts it sim-

"When I made my first throw and saw the spear flying, I knew this is exactly what I wanted to do. I cannot explain the feeling you get when the javelin leaves your arm and takes flight," the 22-year-old says with excitement evident in his tone.

It is, perhaps, a mixture of passion and discipline that has helped Manu climb the ladders rapidly to become one of the best upand-coming throwers in the country. Ending 2021 with a personal best throw of 76m, Manu has taken a giant leap in 2022 - his breakthrough year. He has ended the season with 84.35m - the second-best attempt by an Indian this year just behind reigning Olympic champion Neeraj Chopra (89.94m). He breached the 80m mark in at least five out of the nine competitions he took part in in 2022 and finished on the podium eight times proving his consistency. This year also marked his first international meet, the $Birming ham \, Common wealth \, Games, where \,$ he finished a respectable fifth with a best attempt of 82.28m.

But, by his own admission, behind his remarkable rise and consistency is a strict coach who has worked with several top Indian throwers like Annu Rani and Neeraj Chopra. Kashinath Naik, a 2010 CWG bronze medallist himself, isn't an easy coach to please. Known for his gruelling drills, strict curbs on phone usage, and no holidays policy, only the toughest survive under him.

"When Manu had arrived here (Army Sports Institute, Pune) he was in the 65m range but I took him because he had good height, explosiveness and good body coordination. Technique is something that can be worked on but to find someone with inherent qualities of a good thrower is tough,' Kashinath tells The Indian Express.

Coach Kashinath receives at least half a dozen videos from young throwers across the country requesting him for a trial at the Army Institute but time and other resources do not permit it. "I only call people who I find potential in." As per the norm, the ASI doesn't recruit throwers below the 70m mark, but on Kashinath's insistence, an exception was

"My commander asked me why do I want to recruit a 65m range athlete but I asked them to give me some time. I sent him practice videos even before he arrived for the trials here and made some tweaks to his throw," says Kashinath.

Even before the official trial happened, Kashinath found a major flaw in his technique - the angle of release. The optimum angle for release in javelin throwing is believed to be between 33 to 37 degrees but The man on a path to follow Neeraj Chopra javelin success used bamboo sticks to train his range and forged his core working on his family's field

WHY 2023 COULD BE MANU DP'S YEAR

It is, perhaps, a mixture of passion and discipline that has helped Manu climb the ladders rapidly to become one of the best up-and-coming throwers in the country. and finished on the podium eight times.

Manu's release angle was close to 40m which meant his throws went higher rather than further. "Woh aasman ko chu raha tha (He was touching the skies), jokes coach Kashinath. Just a minor tweak to his angle resulted in an extra 3-4 metres in the ne today," he says. final Army trial that earned him a place in the institute and eventually the post of a Manu is very pleased with the facilities at the ASI and after his CWG appearance he has also been included in the TOPS scheme. The only challenge he faces at the ASI is language. "Nobody speaks Kannada here but that is good, I have picked up Hindi. No one in my family speaks Hindi," he says.

Things would have been very different had Manu not made it to ASI. It was his final vear of college and his family needed him back in their village in the Hassan district of Karnataka to work in the fields and support them. "I am not kidding, even if one more year had progressed without getting proper guidance, I would have quit the sport and gone back. My future would have been working in the fields. Nobody would have known

Makeshift development

Those were testing times for young Manu who was desperately seeking a coach or mentor to help him progress to the next level. His school physical education did his part but there wasn't a specialised throwing coach. At college, he had to make do with the sprints coach who could offer him little guidance. The Southern belt, unlike the Haryana-Punjab region, isn't a hotbed for throwing talent. Even if there are a handful who show potential, finding a throws coach is a big task.

"Throughout my school and college, I practised on my own. My school gave me three periods every day to practice and I would train alone. I did not have the resources to get a professional javelin so I used bamboo initially. Uss se bahut maar khaya hai (I have been whipped by it on so many occasions)," he says. It is important to clarify here that when Manu talks about being whipped, he is referring to the bruises the tail end of the bamboo spear causes on the shoulder while throwing.

"Bamboo javelins have this tendency to bend at the point of release and whip you on the back, neck and shoulders. I still have bruises that I can show you," he says.

Manu still couldn't afford a javelin, and bamboo was literally becoming a pain in the neck for the teenager. One day, while working in the family fields, an idea struck him. He was using a spear-like iron rod to dig holes for saplings. "I thought why not use it as javelin for training," he says. However, while a standard javelin, designed keeping in mind the principles of aerodynamics, weighs around 800g, the solid digging device weighs nothing less than eight kilograms.

Manu had a logic. Although it may be debatable, it served him well. "The idea was simple, If I can throw a rod that weighs, so much it would be easier for me to throw javelins. I used to make at least 50 throws a day with the rod during my school days," he says. It was also a funny sight, he recalls, as most athletes would return their training equipment to the sports store room while Manu had to return his implement to the school gardener.

Manu firmly believes the natural talent that coach Kashinath spotted in him was due to the countless hours he slogged with the rod and his work in the fields. "The explosiveness and power in my back is definitely a result of working in the fields. You have to stand for hours in the sun and dig the soil. It was back-breaking work but it strengthened my core muscles and that is why I can take heavy load during training even now," says

Both Manu and coach Kashinath, however, knew raw talent and power would not be enough to compete at the next level. So, Kashinath's focus was on systematic training with a lot of focus on diet and rest. "Manu is very dedicated and disciplined. There are some kids who give their 60-70 per cent during training but he gives it everything every time. He stays away from the phone, follows our meal plans, and has never asked for a holiday since joining in 2019," he says. Manu's diet and training have been tweaked a little in the last couple of weeks with a focus on adding more muscle mass.

"We are focussing on the Asian Games and targeting throws in the 88m region. His technique has improved fairly but he needs more muscles to pull off those big throws," says coach Kashinath. The biggest learning for young Manu is learning to believe in him-

"I think confidence was one weak area we addressed this season. During the Federation Cup in April, he had a series of bad throws at the start and almost gave up. But I told him the competition is not over until you make your last throw. He hit close to 80m in the final attempt and won silver. That changed his out-

Warner slams defiant double-ton

REUTERS DECEMBER 27

SHORT OF runs and under pressure, David Warner entered the Boxing Day test against South Africa warning the doubters not to underestimate the fight of a "housing commission boy" with back against the wall. On Tuesday, on day two of his 100th test, the veteran Australia opener retired on 200 in cramped-up exhaustion after tormenting the Proteas in a Melbourne Cricket Ground furnace, quashing all debate about his place in the side.

On the way to his third double-century in 254 balls, Warner posted his 25th hundred, and first in nearly three years, while becoming Australia's eighth player to notch 8.000 runs in tests

The 36-year-old left-hander also joined England's Joe Root in a two-man club of players to score a double in their 100th test.

Though watchful in the nineties, Warner sealed his first hundred on Tuesday with typical aggression, pulling South Africa spearhead Kagiso Rabada to the fine leg fence to draw the crowd to their feet.

Five years on from a century against India in his 100th ODI, Warner ripped off his helmet and made his trademark leap into the steaming Melbourne air.

ily and fans around the ground.

Hours later, struggling in 37 degrees Celsius (99F) heat, Warner hit four off Lungi Ngidi to reach his second hundred.

Facing South Africa for the first test series since 'Sandpaper-gate', Warner managed only three runs in the Brisbane opener, raising questions about his future in test whites. All that was swept aside as he battled through cramps and a bruised hand from an Anrich Nortje ball to savour one of his finest days in cricket. Not unlike his career. it was an innings of endurance and daring with one moment of poor judgement. Trying to poach a run from an overthrow before lunch he ran out batting partner Marnus Labuschagne for 14.

Australia were 386 for three at stumps, with a big lead of 197 runs in reply to South Africa's first-innings 189.

The son of working class parents raised in government housing in Sydney, Warner now wants for little as a global star, barring another chance to win the Ashes in England next year.

Team mate Steve Smith, who scored 85 in a 239-run partnership with Warner on day two, said the opener might have more to give to Australian cricket. "He's obviously doing pretty well,"

Smith told reporters. "Fingers crossed he can keep playing well and he can play for as long as he likes. Warner's wife and staunchest defender Candice wept happy tears in the crowd but was hardly surprised by his return to form. "You'd think by now writing David off is probably the wrong thing to do," she said.

"He thrives on that."

lead fightback against Pakistan

Karachi: DEVON CONWAY and Tom Latham forged an unbroken opening partnership of 165 to lead New Zealand's robust reply to Pakistan's first-innings 438 in the opening test in Karachi on Tuesday

Conway was batting on 82 having completed 1,000 test runs in 19 innings, the fastest by a New Zealand batsman. Latham was on 78 with New Zealand, who scored at three-anda-half runs an over, still 273 behind. After Pakistan resumed on 317-5 on day two, home captain Babar Azam fell in the first over but the lower order resisted strongly, led by Agha Salman's maiden test hundred.

Babar could not add to his overnight score of 161 and was caught behind off the bowling of Tim Southee but the collapse New Zealand wanted did not materialise. Batting with the tailenders, Agha cleverly rotated strike and brought up his hundred with back-to-back fours off Ish Sodhi. Agha was the last Pakistan wicket to fall, trapped lbw by Southee (3-69) after trying to hit the bowler over midwicket. Agha's defiant 103 included 17 fours. Conway and Latham denied Pakistan an early breakthrough and shared a century stand. REUTERS

Conway, Latham Pant not included in squad for Sri Lanka ODIs, T20s

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE DECEMBER 27

IN A CLEAR indication of where the team is heading, the senior national selection committee in its final meeting to pick the squad for India limited-overs series against Sri Lanka have named Hardik Pandya as vice-captain for the ODIs as he continues to lead in T20Is.

Similarly, Sanju Samson has been dropped from the ODI squad, but has been included in the T20s, meaning he is unlikely to be in the scheme of things for the World Cup next year. KL Rahul and Ishan Kishan have been named as wicketkeepers for the ODIs.

Interestingly, there is no place for Rishabh Pant in both the squads. The press release issued by the BCCI didn't clarify if Pant was injured, rested or dropped. The Delhi wicketkeeper in fact missed the ODIs against Bangladesh after the BCCI decided to rest him ahead of the two-match Test series. The other notable omission is that of pacer Bhuvneshwar Kumar.

While experienced players Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli and Rahul didn't find a space in the T20I squad, they all have been included for the ODI series that begins on January 10. Allrounder Ravindra Jadeja, who underwent a knee-surgery, along with pacer Jasprit Bumrah, who missed the T20 World Cup with back injury, have not been included in both the squads.

Despite eye-catching T20 numbers Mumbai's Prithvi Shaw failed to make the cut as the selectors went with Ruturaj Gaikwad as one of the three openers alongside Kishan and Shubman Gill, India's failure to make most of the powerplay overs has been a cause of concern and Shaw, despite having an incredible T20 strike-rate of 151.67 has been over-looked once again.

make it much easier for them to return home.

Travel platform Ctrip's data showed that within half an hour of the news, searches for popular cross-border destinations had increased 10-fold, Macau, Hong Kong, Japan, Thailand and South Korea were the most sought-after, Ctrip said. Data from Trip.com showed outbound flights bookings were up 254% early on Tuesday from the day before.

Zero-Covid measures in place since early 2020 - from shuttered borders to frequent lockdowns last month fuelled the Chinese mainland's biggest show of public discontent since President Xi subsequent abrupt U-turn on the curbs, which have battered the $17-trillion economy, the world's second-largest, means the virus is now spreading largely unchecked across the country.

Nevertheless, Chinese authorities are determined to dismantle the last vestiges of their zero-Covid policies. The lifting of travel restrictions is positive for the economy, but strong caveats apply. Japan PM Fumio Kishida said his country would require a negative Covid test for travellers from mainland China. The government would also limit flights to China, he said.

"International travel ... will likely surge, yet it may take many more months before volumes return to the pre-pandemic level," said Dan Wang, chief economist at Hang Seng Bank China.

Lavrov reaffirms warning to Kyiv: Demilitarise or Russia will do it

ASSOCIATED PRESS KYIV, DECEMBER 27

RUSSIAN FOREIGN Minister Sergey Lavrov on Tuesday warned that Ukraine must meet Moscow's demand for "demilitarisation" and "denazification," as well as the removal of the military threat to Russia, otherwise "the Russian army (will) solve the issue."

Sergey Lavrov also accused the West of fueling the war in Ukraine to weaken Russia, and said that it depends on Kyiv and Washington how long the conflict will last.

"As for the duration of the conflict, the ball is on the side of the (Kyiv) regime and Washington that stands behind its back," Lavrov told the state Tass news agency. "They may stop senseless resistance at any moment."

Lavrov's comments come a day after Ukraine's Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba told the AP in an interview that his government wants a summit to end the war but that he doesn't anticipate Russia taking part.

Kuleba said Ukraine wants a "peace" summit within two months with UN Secretary-General António Guterres acting as mediator. But he also said that Russia must face a war crimes tribunal before before his country directly talks with Moscow.

Ukraine has said in the past that it wouldn't negotiate with Russia before the full withdrawal of its troops, while Moscow insists its military gains and the 2014 annexation of the Crimea Peninsula cannot be ignored.

Meanwhile, fierce fighting continued on Tuesday in the Russia-claimed Donetsk and

Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov. File

Luhansk regions that recently have been the scene of the most ntense clashes

Ukraine's Deputy Defense Minister Hanna Maliar said that Russian forces are trying to encircle the city of Bakhmut in the Donetsk region, but without success. Heavy battles are also underway around the city of Kreminna in the Luhansk region, Luhansk governor Serhiy Haidai said.

In the partially occupied southern Kherson region, Russian forces shelled Ukrainian-held areas 40 times on Monday, wounding one person, Ukrainian authorities said. The city of Kherson itself which Ukraine retook last month in a major win - was targeted 11 times, said regional administrator Yaroslav Yanushevich.

Lavrov did not specify how the Russian army will achieve its goals of demilitarising and denazifying Ukraine — which was Russia's stated goal when the invasion started in February. The reference to "denazification" comes from Russia's allegations that the Ukrainian government is heavily influenced by radical nationalist and neo-Nazi groups. The claim is derided by Ukraine and the West.

South Korea Army sorry for failing to bring down North drones

HYUNG-JINKIM SEOUL, DECEMBER 27

SOUTH KOREA'S president on Tuesday called for stronger air defences and high-tech stealth drones while the military apologised for failing to shoot down North Korean drones that crossed the border for the first South Korea's military scrambled warplanes and attack helicopters on Monday, but they failed to bring down any of the North Korean drones that flew back home or disappeared from South Korean radars. It raised serious questions about South Korea's air defence network at a time when tensions remain high over North Korea's torrid run of missile tests this year.

On Tuesday, the military again launched fighter jets and attack helicopters after spotting suspicious flight paths at a frontline area. A local county office sent emergency text messages notifying residents of a new batch of North Korean drones. But the military later said it was a flock of birds.

"We have a plan to create a military drone unit tasked with monitoring key military facilities in North Korea. But we'll advance the establishment of the drone unit as soon as possible because of yesterday's incident," President Yoon Suk Yeol said during a regular Cabinet Council meeting. "We'll also introduce state-of-the art stealth drones and bolster our surveillance capability.'

He said that South Korea's military needs more intensive readiness and exercises to cope with threats posed by North Korean drones

Lt. Gen. Kang Shin Chul, chief director of operation at the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in a televised statement the military feels sorry because of its failure to shoot down the North Korean drones and for causing big pub-

Kang acknowledged South Korea lacks capacities to detect and strike small surveillance drones with a wingspan of less than 3 meters (9.8 feet) though it has assets to spot and bring down bigger combat drones. Kang said South Korea will establish drone units with various capacities and aggressively deploy military assets to shoot down enemy drones.

PALESTINIANS SEEK PRISONERS' BODIES

Palestinians clash with Israeli forces during a protest against what organisers say is Israel's policy of not returning the bodies of dead prisoners, near Qalandia in occuiped West Bank on Tuesday. Israel often withholds the remains of Palestinians killed while allegedly carrying out attacks; it says the policy serves as a deterrent for future attacks and leverage for prisoner exchanges. Rights groups have condemned the policy as collective punishment on grieving families. Reuters

As Serbia ups troop alert at border, Serbs in Kosovo put up roadblocks

DUSAN STOJANOVIC BELGRADE, DECEMBER 27

SERBS ON Tuesday erected more roadblocks in northern Kosovo and defied international demands to remove those placed earlier, a day after Serbia put its troops near the border on a high level of combat readiness.

The new barriers, made of laden trucks, were put up overnight in Mitrovica, a northern Kosovo town divided between Kosovo Serbs and ethnic Albanians, who represent the majority in Kosovo as a whole.

It is the first time since the recent crisis started that Serbs have blocked streets in one of the main towns. Until now, barricades had been set on roads leading to the Kosovo-Serbia border.

President Serbian Aleksandar Vucic said he ordered the army's highest state of alert to "protect our people (in Kosovo) and preserve Serbia."

He claimed that Pristina is preparing to "attack" Kosovo Serbs in the north of the country and remove by force several of the roadblocks that Serbs started putting up 18 days ago to protest the arrest of a former Kosovo Serb policemen.

Kosovo officials have accused Vucic of using his state media to stir trouble and trigger incidents that would act as a pretext for an armed intervention in the former Serbian province.

Any Serbian armed intervention in Kosovo would likely result in a clash with NATO forces and would mean a major escalation of tensions in the Balkans, which are still reeling from the breakup of Yugoslavia in the 1990s. AP

More Rohingya refugees reach Indonesia after weeks at sea

20 DIED, SAYS U.N.

Pidie (Indonesia): A second group in two days of weak and exhausted Rohingya Muslims landed on a beach in Indonesia's northernmost province of Aceh on Monday after weeks at sea, officials said.

At least 185 men, women and children disembarked from a rickety wooden boat on Ujong Pie beach at Muara Tiga, a coastal village in Aceh's Pidie district. said local police chief Fauzi.

He said officials were trying to identify the refugees to determine if they were from the group of 190 Rohingya who were reported by UN to be drifting in a small boat in the Andaman Sea for a month.

The UNHCR on Friday urged countries to rescue the refugees, saying reports indicated they were in dire condition "with reports of up to 20 people dying during the journey".

On Friday, another group of 58 Rohingya – all men – arrived in Ladong village in Aceh Besar district.

minister Kenya Akiba tendered his resignation to Prime Minister Fumio Kishida on Tuesday, becoming the fourth minister to leave the cabinet appointed by Kishida in August.

Three other ministers have quit in close succession due to scandals, some involving funding and ties with the Unification Church.

The ruling Liberal Democratic Party's close links with the religious group were revealed after the killing of former premier Shinzo Abe, and have been cited by public opinion poll respondents as a reason behind Kishida's low approval ratings.

"I take my responsibility very seriously as the one who appoints (ministers)," Kishida said to reporters after confirming that Akiba had quit. "By rising to my political responsibilities, I hope to be fulfilling my duties as prime minister," he said.

Opposition parties have accused Akiba of involvement in election law violations and of ties with the Unification Church, although Akiba has denied any wrongdoing. "There was not a single thing that I did that breached the law," Akiba said to reporters gathered at the prime minister's office after he submitted his resignation to Kishida.

Speculation has mounted that Kishida plans to overhaul his cabinet by early next month to boost his sagging popularity, with the Sankei newspaper reporting on Friday that some ruling party members have floated Jan. 10 as a possible date.

More Than 1,000 Cases Of Femicide Last Year, Second Only To Brazil

In Mexico, frightening problem, no solution — women dying at alarming pace

FABIOLA SÁNCHEZ & FERNANDA PESCE ECATEPEC, MEXICO, DEC 27

ON A November afternoon, Mónica Citlalli Díaz left home in a sprawling suburb of Mexico's capital and headed to the school where she'd been teaching English for years. It seemed an ordinary day, but on this one, she never arrived at work.

Her absence was an immediate red flag for family and colleagues. Díaz loved her work and was diligent about showing up. Friends and relatives, aware of the alarming frequency with which women disappear here, papered their city of Ecatepec with flyers featuring her photo. After four days without any sign of Díaz, 30, they blocked the busy street in front of her school for three hours to demand action from authorities. Two days after the protest, her body was found in the brush alongside a highway.

Women in Mexico state, which wraps around Mexico City on three sides, were already dying at a frightening pace. From January to November, there were 131 femicides – cases of women killed because of their gender. Díaz was the ninth apparent femicide during an 11day spate of killings in and around Mexico City from late October to early November.

The country saw more than 1,000 femicides last year -- second only to Brazil in Latin America — and on average, 10 women or girls are killed daily in Mexico. Mexican officials have recognised the femicide rate and violence against women in general as a major problem for decades, yet little progress is evident in national data.

Experts and advocates say the rampant killings and history of femicide in Mexico can be attributed to deep-rooted cultural machismo, systemic gender inequality and latent domestic violence, as well as a justice system riddled with problems - police officers who won't take reports about missing women, clumsy or nonexistent investigations, prosecutors and judges who revictimize women.

With so many cases of femicide, most get little attention. But the recent run of killings, paired with the protests from Díaz's family, put pressure on authorities and garnered headlines across the country.

Three days after Díaz disap-Supreme Court President Arturo Zaldívar called for a national protocol for handling femicides and said all homicides of women should be investigated as such. The next day, in response to a question at his daily press conference, President Andrés Manuel López Obrador said he agreed — a nationally televised endorsement from the man who sets the country's daily agenda.

Some states have tried to address the problem by creating prosecutor's offices for gender crimes. The federal government has declared more than two dozen gender violence alerts since 2015 at the request of civil society groups. In Mexico state, an alert was declared in 2015 -five years after it was requested -and it still stands.

Despite the efforts in Mexico state and other jurisdictions, last year there were more than double the number of femicides in ing to federal data. Some of that increase could be attributed to better record-keeping -- not all Mexican states had codified femicide as a crime until 2017 -- but the death toll has risen each year.

the country than in 2015, accord-

María de la Luz Estrada, coordinator of Mexico's National Citizen Femicide Observatory, put blame on mistakes in investigations, ranging from improper preservation of crime scenes to corruption among local and state police, who in some cases collude with criminals.

"The problem is in the total breakdown of the collapsed justice system," Estrada said. AP
