SC upholds PMLA, says presuming innocence can be reversed by law

Centre told court earlier: Innocent until guilty not a constitutional right

ANANTHAKRISHNANG NEW DELHI, JULY 27

UNDERLINING THAT "the principle of innocence of the accused/offender is regarded as a human right" but "that presumption can be interdicted by a law made by the Parliament/Legislature", the Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the constitutional validity of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. 2002. as amended from time to time including those dealing with the powers of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) regarding arrest, search, attachment and seizure in money laun-

MAKING CLEAR that the State has a compelling interest in imposing stringent bail conditions for economic offences, the Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, including its stringent bail conditions that impose a reverse burden of proof on the accused.

...by any stretch of imagination, it cannot be said that there is no compelling State interest in providing stringent conditions of bail for the offence of moneylaundering," the Court said.

In upholding the reverse burden of proof condition for grant of bail, the Court also overruled its own order of November 2017 that had declared the bail criteria unconstitutional

In Nikesh Tarachand Shah vs Union of India (2017), the twoiudge bench of Justices Rohinton Nariman and Sanjay Kishan

Kaul, had declared the 'twin test' of bail under PMLA as unconstitutional since it was manifestly arbitrary. "We must not forget

Govt job rush: In 8 yrs, 22 crore applied, only 7.22 lakh were selected

HARIKISHAN SHARMA

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE RUSH for government jobs continued unabated over the last eight years but less than 1 per cent of applications received were selected. Of the 22.05 crore applications received from 2014-15 to 2021-22, only 7.22 lakh or 0.33 per cent, were recommended for appointment in different Central government departments, the government informed the Lok Sabha on Wednesday.

In a written reply, Jitendra Singh, Minister of State in the Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions and Minister of State in the Prime Minister's Office, informed the Lok Sabha that the maximum number of candidates — 1.47 lakh - recommended for appointment was in 2019-20, the year before the full outbreak of the Covid-19 pandemic. The year, which also saw elections to the Lok Sabha, accounted for a little more than 20 per cent of the total 7.22 lakh selected during the eight years. The broad trend suggests that the number of candidates selected for government jobs has been declining since 2014-15, with 2019-20 being the only exception. In 2014-15, 1.30 lakh candidates were recommended for appointment but the number dropped continuously in the following years — 1.11 lakh in 2015-16; 1.01 lakh in 2016-17; 76,147 in 2017-18; 38,100 in 2018-19, 78,555 in 2020-21 and 38,850 in 2021-22.

FOLLOWING THE recent spate of safety-related incidents reported on its planes, the Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) on Wednesday ordered SpiceJet to operate only 50 per cent of its flights for the next eight weeks to ensure that the airline sustains its "efforts for safe and reliable air transport service".

In a statement, the airline said it had already "rescheduled its operations" due to the "lear travel season", and there would be "no flight cancellations".

The aviation safety regulator, in its interim order, said SpiceJet will be subjected to "enhanced surveillance" during this period, and any increase over the 50 per cent cap will be "subject to the airline demonstrating to the satisfaction of DGCA" that it has "sufficient technical support and financial resources to safely and efficiently undertake such increased capacity". The Court also said an Enforcement Case Information Report (ECIR) cannot be equated with an FIR, that supplying an ECIR in every case to the person concerned is not mandatory and "it is enough if ED, at the time of arrest, discloses the grounds of

Ruling on a batch of 242 petitions that raised questions on different provisions of the PMLA including Section 3 which defines what constitutes money laundering, a three-judge bench of Justices A M Khanwilkar, Dinesh Maheshwari and CT Ravikumar, while upholding the provisions, left the guestion whether some of the amendments could have been brought by way of Finance Acts, to a seven-judge bench which is already seized of a similar question in the matter of some other legislations.

The bench refused to accept the contention that the procedure followed by the ED in registering an ECIR is opaque, arbitrary and violative of the constitutional rights of an accused and that the procedure followed under PMLA is draconian since it violates the basic tenets of the criminal justice system and the rights enshrined in Part III of the Constitution of India, in particular Articles 14, 20

Rejecting the argument of the petitioners that it will amount to money laundering only if the proceeds of crime are projected as untainted property, the bench said, "Section 3 of the 2002 Act has a wider reach and captures every process and activity, direct or indirect, in dealing with the proceeds of crime and is not limited to the happening of the final act of integration of tainted property in the formal economy."

It said that "from the bare language of Section 3 of the 2002 Act, it is amply clear that the offence of money laundering is an independent offence regarding the process or activity connected with the proceeds of crime which had been derived or obtained as a result of criminal activity relating to or in relation to a scheduled offence. The process or activity can be in any form -- be it one of concealment, possession, acquisition, use of proceeds of crime as much as projecting it as untainted property or claiming it to be so. Thus, involvement in any one of such processes or activity connected with the proceeds of crime would constitute offence of money laun-

The ruling, however, made it clear that the offence under Section 3 "is dependent on illegal gain of property as a result of criminal activity relating to a scheduled offence" and as such, "the Authorities under the 2002 Act cannot prosecute any person on notional basis or on the assumption that a scheduled offence has been committed, unless it is so registered with the jurisdictional police and/or pending enquiry/trial including by way of criminal complaint before the competent forum".

It said "if the person is finally discharged/acquitted of the scheduled offence or the criminal case against him is quashed by the Court of competent jurisdiction, there can be no offence of money laundering against him or any one claiming such property being the property linked to stated scheduled offence through him".

The bench upheld the ED's power under Section 5 of the Act to order provisional attachment of any proceeds of crime, saying "it provides for a balancing arrangement to secure the interests of the person as also ensures that the proceeds of crime remain available to be dealt with in the manner provided by the 2002 Act". There are enough procedural safeguards, it said, to protect the interests of the person concerned. It approved the validity of Section 24 which puts the onus on the accused to prove that the proceeds of crime are untainted property. The judgment said this has reasonable nexus with the purposes and objects sought to be achieved by the 2002 Act and cannot be regarded as manifestly arbitrary or unconstitutional".

It rejected the argument that ED authorities are police officers and, hence, a statement recorded by them under Section 50 of the Act would be hit by Article 20(3) of the Constitution which says no person accused of an offence shall be compelled to be a witness against himself.

It said "the purposes and objects of the 2002 Act for which it has been enacted, is not limited to punishment for offence of money laundering, but also to provide measures for prevention of money laundering. It is also to provide for attachment of proceeds of crime, which are likely to be concealed, transferred or dealt with in any manner which may result in frustrating any proceeding relating to confiscation of such proceeds under the 2002 Act. This Act is also to compel the banking companies, financial institutions and intermediaries to maintain records of the transactions, to furnish information of such transactions within the prescribed time in terms of Chapter IV of the 2002 Act. Considering the above, it is unfathomable as to how the authorities referred to in" the Act "can be described as police officers".

The judgment upheld the twin conditions for bail in Section 45 of the Act. These were struck down by the Supreme Court in 2017 but revived by Parliament by way of an amendment. Ratifying this, the bench said "it was open to the Parliament to cure the defect noted by this Court so as to revive the same provision in the existing form".

The bench held that in view of the special mechanism envisaged by the 2002 Act, an ECIR cannot be equated with an FIR under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The ECIR is an internal document of the ED and the fact that FIR in respect of scheduled offence has not been recorded does not come in the way of ED authorities to commence inquiry/investigation for initiating "civil action" of "provisional attachment" of property being proceeds of crime, it said.

It held that Section 63, providing for punishment regarding false information or failure to give information, does not suffer from any vice of arbitrariness.

SC overrides

Before application of a section which makes drastic inroads into the fundamental right of personal liberty guaranteed by Article 21 of the Constitution of India, we must be doubly sure that such provision furthers a compelling State interest for tackling serious crime. Absent any such compelling State interest, the indiscriminate application of the provisions of Section 45 will certainly violate Article 21 of the Constitution. Provisions akin to Section 45 have only been upheld on the ground that there is a compelling State interest in tackling crimes of an extremely heinous nature," the bench had said. It had said that stringent bail conditions can be imposed in exceptional circumstances such as anti-terrorism laws, but cannot be manifestly arbitrary.

The ruling by Justices A M Khanwilkar, Dinesh Maheshwari and C T Ravikumar -- Justice Khanwilkar will retire on July 29-- states that "declaration by the Parliament itself is testimony of compelling necessity to have stringent regime (enactment) for prevention and control of the menace of money-laundering".

It also expounded the theory of "soft state" which the Court said is used to "describe a nation which is not capable of preventing the offence of money laundering". The Court relied on Article 39 of the Constitution, part of the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandates the State to prevent concentration of wealth, to uphold the stringent bail conditions under PMLA. "In view of the gravity of the fallout of money laundering activities having transnational impact, a special procedural law for prevention and regulation, including to prosecute the person involved, has been enacted, grouping the offenders involved in the process or activity connected with the proceeds of crime as a separate class from ordinary criminals. The offence of moneylaundering has been regarded as an aggravated form of crime "world over". It is, therefore, a separate class of offence requiring effective and stringent measures to combat the menace of money laundering," the Court held.

IIT-Delhi. Power mentioned the Capitol Building attack by rioters on January 6 last year, following the defeat of former US President Donald Trump. "... The headwinds against democratic rule are strong the world over. Within the United States and India, there are forces who seek to sow division, who seek to pit ethnicities and religions against one another, who wish to bend laws, abuse institutions and wield violence against those who stand in their way: we saw this, of course, on January 6 in the United States last year... How the United States and India rise to meet these injustices, how fiercely we protect our hard-won pluralism, how insistently we defend our democracy and individual rights will determine not just our own trajectory, but that of the world that we inhabit." she said.

"To be clear, now and in the years ahead, the US sees India not just as a leader in the Indo-Pacific but a leader throughout the world," Power said. "Together, we can offer the emerging countries, the emerging economies of the future a new development model, one rooted not in debt traps and dependence but in economic trade and integration, one that supports and celebrates individual and national agency, and one that aspires to see all countries move beyond the need for assistance," she said, in an apparent reference to China's policy.

Elaborating, Power said, "A model predicated on engaging with a country's citizens and civil society, just as willingly as it does with its government. A model that treats others as equals and collaborates on solutions without preconceptions or stereotypes. A model that recognises that democracy, inclusivity and pluralism offer the surest path to sustainable progress, where dignity is not reserved for the few but endowed to us all. A model that is rooted in cooperation, not smallminded but big-hearted. A model that, at its core, believes that we are all one family.

Power said that India, with its talent, resources and technological expertise, can contribute massively to the development trajectory of many countries. "But ultimately, what has positioned India as a future development leader has not been its assets but its values... It has been India's multi-ethnic, multi-party democracy that has allowed it to withstand the challenges it has faced and come out ahead stronger and more resilient. It has been its support for free expression over decades that has allowed injustices to come to light. It has been its tolerance for diversity and dissent that has allowed reforms to take hold and institutions to progress. India's trajectory has been so strong because - not in spite of - its democracy," she said.

Power also lauded India's help to Sri Lanka, and contrasted it with China. She mentioned how India wrote off debts of poor countries like Ghana, Mozambique, Tanzania, Uganda and Zambia in 2003. "Perhaps nowhere is India's commitment to those in peril more on display than right now in Sri Lanka... India has reacted really swiftly with an absolutely critical set of measures... And it has supplied $3.5 billion in lines of credit to the government of Sri Lanka," she said

"Contrast this with the People's Republic of China which has been an increasingly eager creditor of the Sri Lankan government since the mid-2000s. Indeed over the past two decades, China became one of Sri Lanka's biggest creditors, offering often opaque loan deals at higher interest rates than other lenders and financing a raft of headline-grabbing infrastructure projects with often questionable practical use for Sri Lankans, including a massive port that generated little income and was barely used by ships, and an equally massive airport, dubbed the emptiest in the world because it attracted so few passengers, and the country's tallest tower that was built as a tourist attraction, yet has never, unfortunately opened to the public," Power said.

and the reply to the showcause notice submitted by SpiceJet, for the continued sustenance of safe and reliable transport service, the number of departures of Spicelet is hereby restricted to 50 per cent of the number of departures approved under summer schedule 2022 for a period of eight weeks," the DGCA said in its order.

As per the approved summer schedule for 2022, which is effective till October 29, SpiceJet was to operate 4,192 departures every week. The DGCA order means that it cannot operate more than 2,096 flights per week for the next eight weeks.

"We are in receipt of the DGCA order and will act as per directions of the regulator. Due to the current lean travel season, SpiceJet, like other airlines, had already rescheduled its flight operations.

Centre had on June 14 this year announced it would recruit 10 lakh people in "mission mode" over the next 18 months. The announcement was made by the Prime Minister's Office after PM Narendra Modi "reviewed the status of Human Resources in all departments and ministries.'

The information provided by Singh also shows that a total number of 22.05 crore applications were received since 2014. The maximum applications (5.09 crore) were received in 2018-19, and the least - 1.80 crore - in 2020-21.

An analysis of the data shows that against an annual average of 2.75 crore applications received over the eight years, 90,288 candidates were selected on an average every year. The proportion of candidates selected from the number of applications received during the eight years was in the range of

The other schemes listed by Singh include the Prime Minister Street Vendor's AtmaNirbhar Nidhi launched on June 1, 2020, to facilitate collateral free working capital loan to street vendors to restart their businesses, the AtmaNirbhar Bharat Rojgar Yojana (ABRY) launched on October 1, 2020, to incentivise employers for creation of new jobs and restoration of jobs lost during the Covid-19 pandemic. As on July 13 this year, there were 59.54 lakh ABRY beneficiaries, he said.

Hence, there will be absolutely no impact on our flight operations. We want to reassure our passengers and travel partners that our flights will operate as per schedule in the coming days and weeks. There will be no flight cancellation as a consequence of this order," a SpiceJet spokesperson said.

"DGCA's observation that SpiceJet is taking measures for arresting the trend of incidents is very encouraging and we will continue to work under the close guidance of the regulator," the spokesperson said. According to industry executives, SpiceJet has not been operating at full capacity over the last few months.

On July 6, the DGCA had issued a showcause notice to SpiceJet following the rising number of air safety incidents witnessed by the low-cost airline. The aviation safety regulator, in its notice, mentioned that the various incidents, since April 1 this year, had been reviewed, and it was found that "poor internal safety oversight" and "inadequate maintenance actions" had resulted in degradation of safety margins.

In its showcause notice, the DGCA also flagged the airline's financial condition that has led to shortage of spare parts."...financial assessment carried out by DGCA in September 2021 has also revealed that airline is operating on cash & carry and suppliers/approved vendors are not being paid on regular basis leading to shortage of spares...," it said.

In its order on Wednesday, the DGCA noted that while SpiceJet has been taking measures to check the incidents, the airline needs to sustain its efforts for safe and reliable service. Between July 9 and July 13, the regulator conducted 53 spot checks of 48 SpiceJet aircraft but did not find any major violations of safety guidelines, it said. A day before the DGCA issued its showcause notice, three SpiceJet aircraft reported safetyrelated incidents, including a freighter aircraft, which was heading to Chongqing in China but had to return to Kolkata as the pilots realised after take-off that its weather radar was not working. The same day, the airline's Delhi-Dubai flight was diverted to Karachi due to a malfunctioning fuel indicator and its Kandla-Mumbai flight reported priority landing in Mumbai after cracks developed on its windshield.

BJP youth leader on Tuesday. Police sources said a preliminary probe has revealed that the attackers came on two motorcycles with Kerala registration plates and hacked Praveen's head and neck before fleeing. In a complaint filed by an employee of Praveen's shop, Akshaya Fresh Chicken Farm, the BJYM worker was about to leave for his residence on his two-wheeler when the attack occurred. Praveen had stepped back inside his shop to take the raincoat he had forgotten when he was hacked, the complaint stated. Praveen tried to escape but cola house painter, identified as Masud, who succumbed to injuries two days later. According to police officers, eight persons, identified as Sudhir, Sunil Kelanje, Abhilash Bellare, Iim Raniith. Shiyaprasad. Bhaskar. Ranjith and Sadashiva from Kelanje village, were arrested. Sudhir and Masud were neighbours and the accused were allegedly associated with pro-Hindutva outfits. "No solid connection has emerged between the murdered BJP youth leader and the Masud murder that occurred last week but since the earlier murder was communal in nature, the two murders are suspected to be linked," police sources said.

The police are also investigating whether Praveen's killing is linked to a Facebook post on June 29, in which he wrote about a "poor tailor" being beheaded and threats to Prime Minister Narendra Modi by the killers. He was referring to the killing of Kanhaiyalal, a tailor in Raiasthan's Udaipur, for his comments in support of BJP's Nupur Sharma over her remarks on the Prophet.

In his post, Prayeen critic Congress leaders and posted. "Where are you when a poor tailor was beheaded for supporting the nationalist sentiment, and they say their next target is Prime Minister Narendra Modi. Where are you...This death has taken place in a state which is ruled by Congress, Don't you show mercy for a poor tailor's life..."

Police sources said the manner in which Praveen was killed resembled the modus operandi employed by activists of the radical Popular Front of India (PFI) in targeted killings of pro-Hindutva activists in the Dakshina Kannada region and other parts of Karnataka in recent years.

On Tuesday night, the police imposed prohibitory orders in Puttur, Sulya, Kadaba and Belthangady. An incident of stone pelting at a government bus was reported in the district.

On Wednesday, Karnataka BJP president and MP Nalin Kumar Kateel, state minister V Sunil Kumar and RSS leader Kalladka Prabhakar Bhat were heckled by a mob when they came to Bellare to pay their last respects.

The workers were angered that the leaders arrived only a day later, and accused them and the BIP state government of failing to protect Hindu activists, Several BJYM workers also submitted their resignations to mark their protest against the government.

Earlier, the workers ignored appeals from Praveen's family to not carry out a procession and allow them to complete the final rites. The police resorted to a lathi charge to disperse the mob.

Chess Olympiad and be a part of the chess celebration is a reason in itself," said

Indeed, from Napier Bridge to Guindy, from Adyar to Tambaram, the chess buzz has never enveloped Chennai as it has now. The grand old International Master Manuel Aaron, who began the city's first chess club in 1972 at the Soviet Centre for Culture Studies, where Anand polished his game, feels his life is fulfilled. "I have never seen the city celebrating chess as passionately as they have now. I feel very fortunate that I could in some way contribute to the game's following and popularity in the city. The popularity of the game will soar even further," he said.

This is perhaps the impact that the state government had envisaged when they began an aggressive push for the Olympiad -- to stretch the game to the deep reaches of the city, those locales where chess is barely played, leave alone followed. The locality around the Napier Bridge that connects Fort St George and Marina Beach is not where you find children playing chess in every house. It's not where you want to find your children, either. Not too long ago, driving at night along the bridge was considered dangerous, replete with stories of snatchers, pickpockets and even ghosts of British soldiers.

Painting the bridge like a chess board is a metaphor, too. It is undisputed that Chennai has been churning out Grandmasters more frequently than any other city in the country -- 24 out of 73, apart from seven Women Grandmasters, 34 International Masters, 10,000odd registered players -- with a throbbing chess culture and history. But the game really is not as mainstream as it is hyped up to be. It is this gulf between the mass and the niche that the Chess Olympiad seeks to bridge.

Every pillar and post reminds you of the Olympiad. The faces of DMK luminaries, from the ruling party's founder C N Anna Durai to former CM M Karunanidhi and now Stalin to the emerging Udhayanidhi Maran have been embossed onto a chess board. In every speech Stalin makes, there is a chess analogy or reference. "Every one in the city is a king or a queen," he said in a function. He has invited a clutch of ministers from neighbouring states, and the buzz is that there might even be an alliance between him and his Telangana counterpart K Chandrashekar Rao. The only unhappy faces, so far, are in the city's BJP unit, which has been demanding that photos of Prime Minister Narendra Modi be added to the hoardings. Chess is no stranger to politics, after the numerous proxy wars on the board in the Cold War Era.

Besides, there are special buses painted black and white, with a beaming mascot Thambi (younger brother in Tamil), that ply between Mahabalipuram and the Chennai Mofussil Bus Terminus. The venue of the Olympiad -- Mahabalipuram -- is 60 km from the heart of the city, along the sprawling East Coast Road, but it's a distance, officials hope, the chess fever can reduce.

Thambi peers down from most buses and metro trains, as well as the entrances of important government offices -- the horseman clad in a white veshti (dhoti) and sattai (shirt), the fold of the veshti embroidered black and white, with folded hands. Thambi memes have already rolled out on the web -- there is a section dedicated to him on Chennai Chess 2022 titled "Thambivin Sodhanaikal' (Thambi's Tests) with a voiceover from the popular Tamil comedy veteran Vadivelu.

This edition of the Olympiad, from July 28 to August 10, is the first the country will host. India are seeded second in the open segment, fielding six teams, three each in men and women's sections, totalling 30 members with Anand not in action but guiding the players from outside. The top seed USA and third-placed Norway, helmed by Carlsen, pose a tough challenge. But the gold that India shared with Russia in the last edition has infused a sense of optimism that they will win the Olympiad at home.

So much so that about 300 km from Chennai, in Thirupoovanur, a 14th-Century Shiva temple has gathered sudden attention because it's called "Sathuranga Vallabhanathar", literally translated as "King of Chess". The story goes that the temple was built at the location where Shiva beat the daughter of the local king in a game of chess ("sathurangam" in Tamil) to marry her, an avatar of Parvathi. Add divinity to the mix, and this Olympiad has the makings of a wholesome blockbuster, a mass entertainer. Or as the Chennaities call it: "Mass-u!"

Partha aide the city linked to Mukherjee.

According to ED sources, the amount recovered from Club Town Heights, an apartment complex in the Belgharia locality, could be more as the counting is still on. "We have recovered a huge amount of money from one of the flats in a housing complex. We have brought three note-counting machines to get the exact amount. Besides cash, gold bars, jewellery and other documents have also been recovered," said an ED official.

Sources said ED officers had to break into two flats linked to Mukherjee in Belgharia as the keys could not be found. The searches were based on information provided by Mukheriee who was arrested along with the Minister on July 23, a day after the first batch of cash was seized. Directed by the Calcutta High Court, CBI is probing alleged irregularities in the recruitment of Group C and D staff as well as teachers in government-sponsored and aided schools when Chatterjee was the Education Minister. The ED is tracking the money trail in the case.

Earlier in the day, Chatterjee and Mukherjee were taken to ESI Hospital in Kolkata for a medical check-up. Speaking to reporters, Chatterjee dismissed questions on his resignation. 'What is the reason?" he asked.

The ED is also questioning former president of West Bengal Primary Education Board, Manik Bhattacharya, in the case.

Reacting to the latest recovery, BJP national vice-president Dilip Ghosh said: "They have looted money and denied jobs to genuine candidates. The culprits must be punished. The state minister should be immediately removed." TMC state general secretary Kunal Ghosh said the party will not defend anyone who is found guilty.

The burning of paddy stubble to clear the fields after the harvest is one of the factors contributing to pollution in the NCR in winter. According to the System of Air Quality and Weather Forecasting and Research (SAFAR), the share of stubble burning to PM2.5 levels

Moosewala murder probe reveals how Bishnoi gang network extends all the way to Pakistan

INVESTIGATION INTO the murder of Punjabi singer Sidhu Moosewala has shed light on the extensive crime network of the prime accused, jailed gangster Lawrence Bishnoi, that extends all the way to Pakistan, police

Those involved in the probe say that the absconding terrorist Harvinder Rinda, learnt to be based across the border, had earlier hired Bishnoi's men to eliminate a senior leader of Shiv Sena, a plan that was shelved due to heavy security. Bishnoi and Rinda had met while they were housed together in a Punjab jail.

The joint probe involving police in Maharashtra, Mohali and ment of Bishnoi's men in the murder of builder Sanjay Biyani in Nanded on April 5 this year, an RPG attack on the state police intelligence headquarters in Mohali on May 10, and the murder of gangster Rana Kandowalia in Amritsar on August 3 last year.

On May 13, the then Punjab DGP, Viresh Kumar Bhawra, said the RPG attack on the intelligence wing headquarters was jointly carried out by an "axis of Babbar Khalsa International (BKI) and gangsters with the backing of Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI)". Bhawra said this while announcing the arrest of six persons in connection with the case. He identified the key conspirator as Lakhbir Singh Landa, who hails from Tarn Taran district and has been in Canada since 2017. He said Landa was an associate of Rinda, who was close to BKI chief Wadhawa Singh and the ISI.

Sources told The Indian Express that Rinda, a resident of Nanded in Maharashtra, was lodged in a jail in Punjab in 2016-17, where he met Bishnoi and the two became close friends. "After coming out of jail, he evaded ar-

Investigation has so far revealed that they were asked by Rinda to demand extortion money from a prominent builder, Saniav Bivani, but he refused and they decided to eliminate him. Biyani, 53, was shot multiple times outside his Nanded bungalow on April 5 by two bike-borne assailants using two firearms from point blank range.

that they received similar inputs regarding two attackers. "We've sent our team to Punjab to get more details about them," he said.

"After killing Biyani, both the attackers were asked by Rinda to eliminate a senior party leader of Shiv Sena, but despite conducting a recce, they failed to execute the plan. They were then asked by him to carry out a rocket-propelled grenade (RPG) attack on the state police intelligence headquarters in Mohali," police sources said.

In connection with RPG attack, police have already arrested Jagdeep Kang, who the DGP said was the "local contact" of the module and had accompanied Charat during the recce. The others arrested are Kanwar Bath, Baljit Kaur, Anantdeep Singh Sonu, Baljinder Singh Rambo

Quoting a speech of Dr BR Ambedkar from the Constituent Assembly debates, the court said it hopes that the Chief Minister will uphold the trust reposed in him "that forms the foundation of a representative democracy while appointing persons to lead the people". Ambedkar had said, ... however good a Constitution may be, it is sure to turn out bad because those who are called to work it, happen to be a bad lot. The petition filed by Dr Nand Kishore Garg, a former BJP MLA, earlier this month alleged that Jain continues to enjoy the perks and privileges of a minister despite being in custody in a case alleging serious financial irregularities. The plea had also prayed for the issuance of guidelines for res-

Rejecting Garg's prayers, the division bench in the order said the Supreme Court in 2014 refrained from framing any guidelines on the issue and held that it was not for the court to issue any directions to the Prime Minister or Chief Minister.

"The Supreme Court further noted that deeming a person against whom allegations of criminality have been alleged as a criminal, and thereby, robbing them of their appointment, would go against the basic principle of criminal jurisprudence, i.e. a person is deemed to be innocent until proven guilty," the bench said. The court also said the breach of the oath does not entail an automatic termination of the tenure, but requires an independent order by the appointing authority. "A High Court under Article 226 is not competent to issue such orders terminating the appointment of a Minister of the State," it said.

Holding the prayer for extending the Central Civil Services rules to ministers without any basis, the bench said that they explicitly exclude a minister. "A minister cannot be said to be a government servant as well. as the appointing authority of the ministers, i.e. the governor of the state, does not fall under Clause 2a of the CCS (CCA) Rules, 1965. Therefore, Rule 10 of the 1965 Rules, which stipulates that being arrested for a period of 48 hours or more entails suspension of the government servant, would not apply to a Minister," reads the rul-

ANONNA DUTT NEW DELHI, JULY 27

WITH SURVEILLANCE teams in the city on alert after detection of the first case of monkeypox, another suspect with fever and rashes has been admitted to the isolation ward for the disease at the nodal Lok Nayak hospital. Doctors from the hospital, however, said it is unlikely that the person has the infection.

Act that gives L-G an edge new flashpoint between him, Speaker

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, JULY 27

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR Vinai Kumar Saxena Wednesday asked Delhi Legislative Assembly Speaker Ram Niwas Goel to amend rules for the conduct of business and procedure of the House under the GNCTD (Amendment) Act. 2021. According to Raj Niwas officials, the L-G has conveyed that even after 14 months of the GNCTD (Amendment) Act. 2021 coming into effect, the Delhi Assembly has kept necessary amendments pending in its 'Rules of Procedure and Conduct of Business', and asked Goel for "Constitutional compliance".

The GNCTD Act, 2021, which was approved by the central government last year, gives an upper hand to the L-G over the elected government. As per the legislation, the "government" in Delhi means the "L-G"

Goel told The Indian Express, "I received this letter four days ago in the evening from the L-G and also asked my advisor to study it but I don't understand what was the hurry to leak it to the media. Both of us hold a constitutional post. Why are you making a mockery of your post and insulting the Constitution."

In another statement, the Speaker's office said, "The amendment to the GNCTD Act made by Parliament has been challenged by the Delhi government on the grounds that it violates Article 239AA. This amendment has made the committee system of the Assembly nonfunctional. The amendment prohibits the Assembly and its committees from making an inquiry into administrative decisions. Then what will the committees look into, the affairs of the United Nations? Committees of legislature look into administrative decisions and ask the government to fix responsibility of individual officers if found guilty by the committees."

The L-G, in his message to the Speaker, said the Assembly and its committees make rules to enable itself to consider matters of day-to-day administration of the capital or conduct of inquires related to administrative decisions.

More liquor shops could shut in city

GAYATHRI MANI

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

FOLLOWING THE closure of 170 retail liquor shops, five zones are likely to surrender their licences leading to the shutting of 108 shops as the Excise department has not informed zonal retail licencees of the extension of the new liquor policy.

According to sources, about five L-7V vend zonal licencees, including Universal Distributors and Path2Way HR solutions Limited, have submitted applications to the Excise department that they want to surrender licences of their zones after completion of the current extension period, that is, July 31, 2022.

"Usually, retail zonal licencees get an ultimatum of 10 days or at least a week prior to extension of policy, and licencees who wish to continue to run their shops should get their licence renewed before the given date based on pro-rata fees. However, this time, with only three days before expiration of licencee period, there is no clarity on future policy or whether the current policy will be extended," said a zonal licencee on condition of anonymity.

Attributing the state of limbo to losses incurred by uncertainty, a vendor said, "Moreover, many retail vends couldn't open due to non-conforming zones and still there is no clarity... Shops that are running are getting targeted and being closed by the MCD."

Universal Distributors, in its application, said: "....Our license was extended for two months till uly 31, 2022, and the Delhi Excise Policy for the year 2021-22, has not received any intimation regarding further extension of the policy till now... we request you to refund our security amount..."

Path2ways Meanwhile, which has about 23 liquor shops, also submitted its application for surrender of zone and payment of licence fees for July: "...We shall surrender the zone 12 awarded to our company on completion of extension period (31 July 2022)."

Sources said the excise department has acknowledged the application and issued receipts to these two companies. Sources said that if government extends the policy for two more months and issues circulars to vendors to get licences, zonal licencees who currently want to surrender may renew licences. However. 108 more retail shops across five zones will shut if these zonal licencees surrender their licences from August 1, and only 360 shops will be left in the city, which could force consumers to go to Gurgaon, said sources. The Delhi government, whose target was to collect Rs 9,000 crore under the policy, will face revenue manner of doubt that the same is a complete knock-off, of the plaintiffs' 'Cadbury Gems'," reads the verdict. The court also noted that these products are sold not only in bigger packs, but also in smaller pillow packs, due to which the mark may not even be fully visible. "The smallest selling unit of the plaintiffs' product, that is, the pillow pack, is even available for Re 1 to Rs 5. Hence, the product's get-up, layout, as also, the colour combination of the packaging plays a significant role at the point of purchase," it said, adding that there is an immense likelihood of confusion, particularly considering class of consumers that the product is targeted at is children.

Neeraj Food Products has been irregular in its appearance in the case and has contributed to the delay in the suit pending since 2005, the court said further. An interim injunction had been operating in the case since May 2007. Though the Cadbury Gems' manufacturers had alleged contempt of court orders initially, no submission regarding the continuous availability of 'James Bond' in the market was made at the time of final arguments.

"Accordingly, the relief sought in respect of delivery up and for recall of the defendant's products are not granted at this stage. However, if the plaintiff finds any infringing products in the market, they are free to seek execution of the decree, seeking delivery up, at that stage," said Justice Singh. While awarding costs of Rs

15,86,928, which includes damages of Rs 10 lakh, in favour of Mondelez India Foods, court ordered Neeraj Food Products to pay the same within three months. "Failing which, plaintiffs shall be permitted to seek execution of the decree or avail of its remedies, in accordance with law," it added.

But as he began, the Chair told Sarangi that he should give prior notice to speak. The MP said he had given notice, but the Chair said the translator was not present and he should wait. Asked why they did not join the others, the TMC leaders gave different reasons. "We cannot stand with the Congress, as they fought against our party", said one senior leader; "we cannot protest against the ED action [questioning of Sonia Gandhi] when we have raised the pricerise issue," responded another. But the confusion among MPs who came late to join the protests was amusing. After reaching the spot, each one looked at both sides, confused about which one they should join. # SC's PMLA verdict clear, govt has no role in determining cases: Rijiju

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA NEW DELHI, JULY 27

LAW MINISTER Kiren Rijiju said on Wednesday that the Supreme Court judgment upholding several provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) has cleared all doubts raised by "various quarters" and asserted that the government has "no role in determining any case".

The judgment has made it amply clear that agencies do not do anything which is illegal and unconstitutional, the minister

The actions by probe agencies are truly in the spirit of the government's intention to check corruption and punish the corrupt, he said.

"The action taken by anticorruption agencies, the ED in this case, is very much as per the Sharma said laws like PMLA are being weaponised to target and humiliate people, which should not happen.

The Congress continued its street protests and several of its MPs, including Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge and Congress leader in Lok Sabha Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, were once again detained by the police as they came out of Parliament building in a procession, protesting against the questioning of Sonia. MAULSHREE SETH LUCKNOW, JULY 27

IN A rare move, the entire council of ministers of the UP government, including Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, and Deputy Chief Ministers Keshav Prasad Maurya and Brajesh Pathak, met Governor Anandiben Patel at Raj Bhavan late Thursday evening.

While neither the state government nor the Raj Bhavan shared the details of the "unofficial" meeting, sources said the ministers briefed Patel about their work, visits and future plans for their departments.

In the meeting that stretched for about four hours, starting at 4 pm, sources said that Governor Patel individually spoke with every minister.

The meeting assumes significance as recently some of the ministers, including Deputy Chief Minister Braiesh Pathak, raised questions on transfer of officials. Minister of State for Ial Shakti Dinesh Khatik had even offered to resign, alleging that officers of his departments were not listening to him because he was a Dalit.

While the meeting was held at Raj Bhavan, sources in the Government said the initiative was taken by Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath, who wanted his Council of Ministers to be introduced to the Governor.

"It was certainly a rare occasion, but not the first one. We remember that something like this was organised in 2019. However, this time, the meeting was more interactive and each minister must have got about four minutes to speak about their work," said a minister. "It is kind of starting a new tradition, where the focus was on new members.'

Keeping the Earth healthy through conservation

BSERVED EVERY year on July 28, the World Conservation Day is celebrated internationally to increase awareness about the best practices needed to protect our natural resources. The Earth is supplied with a limited amount of resources that we all rely upon, like water, air, soil and trees. The World Nature Conservation movement is a great opportunity to celebrate the progress we've made and determine to take action wherever needed. It's time to remind ourselves that we need to give back to Nature instead of just using resources without thinking about conservation. There is need to replenish and recycle the resources we consume from Nature.

Our forests, rivers, oceans and soils provide us with the food we eat, the air we breathe, the water we irrigate. We also rely on them for numerous other goods and services. We depend on them for our health, happiness and prosperity. We have a cycle of biodiversity, which needs proper conservation.

The population explosion remains one of the major reasons why natural resources are getting depleted at a very fast rate. Technological advancement and luxurious lifestyles have led to several environmental problems like global warming, ozone layer depletion, and river water pollution and deforestation, which threaten the planet's future.

Conservation helps in promoting biodiversity for a healthy and functional ecosystem. We humans will also benefit from protecting Nature because a lot of medicines are derived from the chemicals produced by animals and plants. There is need to promote afforestation. The conservation of natural habitats enriches our planet and keeps Nature's balance. Conservation is the care and protection of these resources so that they can last for future generations. Conservation seeks the sustainable use of Nature by humans, with reference to activities such as logging and mining, while preservation means protecting Nature from human use.

Humans, animals, marine creatures and the environment all need to be protected and conserved for the planet's future well being. An example of conservation is a programme to try to preserve wetlands. An example of conservation is a programme to try and save old buildings. An example of conservation is an attempt to minimise the amount of electricity you use

So there is need to save Nature if we want to save life, as the two are interconnected and need each other. If we hurt or destroy the environment, surely we will be ruined. Create awareness among family members, and try and practise a sustainable lifestyle to protect and conserve Nature.

Conservation is the protection of things found in Nature. It requires the sensible use of all of earth's natural resources — water, soil, minerals, wildlife, and forests. People who care about conservation try to preserve natural resources so they will still be around for use by future generations. Go green. Help create a healthy environment. Save the earth.

From The Gallery

FROM THE CHAIR RAJYA SABHA

'Don't provoke me to that extent... I have to read the names (of those who have given notices under Rule 267). You don't have the patience to even listen to that.'

VENKAIAH NAIDU, Chairman, to AAP member Sanjay Singh, who was trying to bring up the Gujarat hooch deaths.

5 QUESTIONS

NCP MEMBER FROM LAKSHADWEFF MOHAMMED FAIZAL PP RAISED THE ISSUE OF DEATHS IN THE ISLANDS DUE TO THE UNAVAILABILITY OF AIR AMBULANCES. HE SPOKE TO SOURAY ROY BARMAN ON THE ISSUE:

You said the issue is very alarming. Yes, this is concerning because there is a lack of specialist doctors. Patients have to be taken to places like Kochi as critical ones cannot be kept under observation for too long. There is no night landing facility either. The last helicopter has to take off by 3.30 pm.

Has this been an issue in the past? It has become a bigger issue in the last few months. Last month itself, there were five deaths attributable to the lack of air ambulances and the poor state of health services. In Lakshadweep, there is an agreement between the administration and Pawan Hans in which it is clearly spelt out that the first priority should be given to patients.

Can you elaborate?

See, in one case priority was given to a VIP who was also flying out of the islands over a patient, who died. In another case, a pregnant woman was to be air-lifted to Kavaratti from another island which did not have proper medical facilities. But that could not be done on time due to bad weather. The baby could not be saved by the time she was brought to the capital of the Union Territory.

Are you saying the situation has worsened of late?

 $Yes. \, Previously, around \, 30 \, specialist$ doctors were serving around five hospitals in Kavaratti, Agatti, Andrott Minicoy and Amini, Specialist doctors of paediatrics, surgery, orthopaedics among others were available round the clock even in the far-off islands under a PPP arrangement. But the present administration has brought changes which have weakened the  $system\ and\ those\ doctors\ are\ not$ available anymore.

What is your demand?

The Home Ministry should conduct a proper inquiry to find out whether the priority is really adhered to.

Price-rise debate likely soon; Opp refuses to express regret

Venkaiah seeks apology in meeting; Piyush Goyal, Pralhad Joshi meet Opp leaders

MANOJCG

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE GOVERNMENT Wednesday signaled that it is ready for a discussion on the issue of pricerise next week even as 20 MPs suspended from the Upper House began a 50-hour relay dharna in front of the Gandhi statue in Parliament

The first signs of the stalemate easing came at an informal meeting Leader of the House in Rajya Sabha Piyush Goyal and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi had with some Opposition leaders.

The Congress was not present in this meeting since its leaders and MPs were detained by police as they stepped out of Parliament building to protest the ED questioning party chief Sonia Gandhi in the National Herald case.

But the tussle over suspension of 20 Raiva Sabha MPs — 19 on Tuesday and AAP's Sanjay Singh on Wednesday – continued, as Chairman M Venkaiah Naidu insisted that the suspension will be revoked only if the MPs expressed regret, a suggestion the opposition parties rejected. The MPs thereafter began a 50hour dharna at the Gandhi statue at 11 am. It will continue until 1 pm Friday.

Trinamool Congress leader in Rajya Sabha Derek O'Brien said the Opposition leaders made it clear in the meeting with Goyal and Joshi that the government should, in fact, express regret for not allowing a discussion on price-rise. "No question of the Opposition expressing regret for standing up for people's issues," he said

Since the Rajya Sabha members have been suspended only for the remaining part of this week, sources in Opposition said the tension could ease and Parliament resume normal functioning next week if the government fixes a date for the discussion on Monday itself.

"The government has in principle agreed for a discussion next week but the suspension  $of MPs \, will \, not \, be \, revoked. \, So \, we \, will \, continue$ our protests on Thursday and Friday," a senior Opposition leader told The Indian Express. The House is unlikely to function this week. If the situation does not worsen in the next two days - if there are no more suspensions, and if the government fixes a date for discussion on Monday - normalcy will return next week."

The issue of revocation of the suspension came up later at a formal meeting convened by Chairman Naidu in his chamber. Opposition leaders urged Naidu to revoke the suspension but the Chairman said "expression of regret" for their "misconduct" is a precondition.

The Opposition was represented by Leader of Opposition Mallikarjun Kharge and his party colleague K C Venugopal, Ram Gopal Yadav (SP), Derek O'Brien (TMC), Tiruchi Siva (DMK), Sanjay Raut (Shiv Sena), Elamaram Kareem (CPI-M), Binoy Viswam (CPI), Suresh Reddy (TRS) and Vaiko (MDMK). The government side had Goyal, Joshi and MoS, Parliamentary Affairs, V Muraleedharan.

The meeting saw both sides sticking to their positions. While the ministers said the government had expressed its readiness in the House for a discussion once Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman returns, Opposition leaders said a discussion can be held even in her absence.

Sources said Goyal and Joshi later met some opposition leaders separately, during which the government side expressed willingness to hold a discussion next week in both Houses.

On suspension of MPs, Naidu urged the opposition parties to "understand the agony" that the Chair goes through before naming the "erring" members. He made it clear that revocation of suspension could be considered if only the "erring" members realised the "gravity" of their "misconduct" in the House and ex-

Naidu also told them that 63 Lok Sabha MPs were suspended in 1989, and 25 in 2015 for persistent violation of rules of the House and indulging in disruptions.

Will consider revoking 4 Cong MPs' suspension if no protests at Well: Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE UNION government Wednesday said it will consider revoking the suspension of four Congress Lok Sabha MPs if the Opposition "guarantees" that its members will not enter the well of the House and show placards.

Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi said the government was also ready to hold a debate on price rise as Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman had returned to work after recovering from Covid-19.

"The government has been ready for a discussion from day one. We are ready today as well. If they (Opposition) are ready, so are we. But will they guarantee that they will not troop into the well, holding up placards? Placards are even put up on the face of the Speaker," Joshi said in Lok Sabha.

On Monday, Congress MPs Manickam Tagore, Ramya Haridas, TN Prathapan and S Jothimani were suspended for the rest of the session for protesting and carrying placards

As the House assembled at 2 pm, NCP MP Supriya Sule, DMK's A Raja and Trinamool Congress's Sudip Bandopadhyay demanded from the Opposition benches that the suspension of the Congress members be with-

"We are willing to cooperate. We are requesting the government to bring them (suspended Congress MPs) back. We will not go to the Well," Sule said. Bandopadhyay said the House will run smoothly if the members are brought back. "Let the issue be sorted out as soon as possible and let the debate start,"

Raja said the government should not go by its numerical strength alone. "Coming to the Well, democratically protesting with placards is not unknown to this House," Raja

Meanwhile, Joshi also tweeted that the suspended MPs should express regret.

"We are always ready for a positive discussion in the parliament, but the Congress keeps disturbing the house. We are even ready to call back the suspended members, but the opposition should ensure that they do not disturb the house again," he tweeted.

TMC, AAP skip Opp meet to decide RS floor strategy

MANOJCG

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE TRINAMOOL Congress (TMC) and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) on Wednesday skipped a meeting of opposition parties, called by the Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge, to decide the floor strategy in the House in the wake of suspension of a large number of MPs - now 20 from of the Upper House and four from Lok Sabha.

The TMC members also did not join a protest held by members of the Congress and some of the opposition parties in front of the Gandhi statue in Parliament House. Holding placards and shouting slogans, the Trinamool MPs held a separate protest, signalling division in the Opposition camp and indicating that the parties are unable to draw up a common strategy. The meeting called by Kharge was attended by leaders of DMK, RJD, NCP, CPI(M), CPI, Shiv Sena, RLD, MDMK, IUML, RSP, and National Conference. Kharge had told The Indian Express on Tuesday that he had invited leaders of TMC and AAP to the meeting. Sources in the Opposition, however, said the parties are together in forcing the government to hold a discussion on rise in prices and hike in GST rates of essential commodities. "Our tactics may differ...whether we sit together or not, we protest together or not...we are united in forcing the government into holding a discussion," one leader said.

As stalemate continues, govt sits pretty: Does not hurt us, affects image of Opp

LIZ MATHEW NEW DELHI, JULY 27

WITH THE government and the Opposition refusing to budge from their positions, the ongoing Monsoon session is headed for a washout without any major business being transacted. Yet, sources in the government have indicated that the current stalemate "does not hurt" the treasury benches much as they do not have any crucial Bills pending and the pandemonium could, in fact, end up further damaging the image of the Opposition. Amid uproarious scenes, slogan-shouting, placard-waving and repeated adjournments, neither of the two Houses of Parliament has seen any serious debate or discussion since the Monsoon session began on July 18.

Though there are indications that there could be a discussion next week, following an informal meeting that Leader of the House in Rajya Sabha Piyush Goyal and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Pralhad Joshi had with some of the Opposition leaders, the suspension of the MPs could be a sticking point.

While the Opposition has been disrupting the proceedings demanding a discussion on the newly introduced GST rates on pre-packaged food items, inflation and the government's alleged use of investigative agencies against its leaders, the ruling party, while maintaining that it is ready to discuss any issue, hasn't spelled out a date for the debate. With 20 Opposition MPs being suspended for the week for disrupting proceedings, protests in the Rajya Sabha have become shriller.

TMC MPs eat their lunch on a Parliament lawn Wednesday. Opposition MPs suspended from RS have begun a 50-hour relay protest inside the complex. PTI

BJP sources, however, said the treasury benches are not agitated about the stalemate. "There is no urgent legislation pending. There are no crucial Bills listed either," said a BJP leader. Asked if the government would reach out to the Opposition to break the stalemate, a top leader of the party said, "There is no need.

Things are going in the right direction."

Another senior leader said: "The ongoing stalemate is affecting the already dented image of the Opposition. The government has clarified that it would discuss any issue. It does not bother us much."

The BJP leaders recalled that the previous Monsoon session too had seen a few Bills being passed in the din, without any discussion.

ards to block the Chair. But this is a new trend Opposition has started — they block the chair, the PM and every minister. We cannot allow this to continue," said a senior party leader.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, MPs of the Congress, DMK, Left parties and the NCP disrupted Lok Sabha proceedings asking for the suspension of the four Congress MPs — Manickam Tagore, S Jothimani, Ramya Haridas and TN Prathapan — to be revoked.

The division in the Opposition was stark Wednesday as they held a protest demonstration in front of the Gandhi statue on the premises of Parliament. While MPs of the Congress, DMK and TRS, among others, demonstrated right in front of the Gandhi statue, the TMC MPs held a separate one on a nearby lawn. Inside Lok Sabha. too, the TMC MPs initially did not join the Opposition MPs who were sloganeering in the well of the House. Later, TMC women members, along with leader Saugata Roy, joined the others in the well but shouted slogans separately for a while.

With both Houses witnessing repeated adjournments on Wednesday too, the BJP stepped up its offensive. Describing Congress protests as an "attempt to hide the truth", BJP national president J P Nadda on Wednesday said "the party thinks that one family (the Gandhis) is above the law".

Inside Lok Sabha, Speaker Om Birla cautioned Opposition MPs that the "House is meant for discussion, not for sloganeering or displaying placards."

Lok Sabha passes Bill to create statutory framework for anti-doping watchdog

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE LOK Sabha Wednesday passed a Bill that seeks to create a statutory framework for the National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA), Piloted by the Union Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports, the National Anti-Doping Bill, 2021, was first introduced in Lok Sabha in December. It was then scrutinised by a standing committee comprising members of both Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha.

The Bill was passed after an over 3.5-hour discussion. While it received support from most parties, some voiced concerns with certain parts of the proposed legislation.

TMC member Saugata Roy said the proposed National Anti-Doping Board, which the Bill envisages, may end up becoming "top heavy". Roy also proposed that Sports Minister Anurag Thakur hold a meeting with the heads of sports federations to send a stern message to athletes to not indulge in doping.

BJD MP Bhartruhari Mahtab expressed his concern over the Bill empowering NADA officials to "act on their belief to suspect any athlete". "This creates an unreasonable, arbitrary authority in the hands of agency members to enter athletes' premises, seize any equipment, device or substance," Mahtab said. He also pointed out that the Bill lacks any provision on protection of personal data of athletes who will undergo tests.

TRS MP Bheemrao Baswanthrao Patil said the Bill may not ensure the NADA's complete independence from the government. "If more autonomy is granted to the watchdog, the Bill will be more effective," he said.

BJP MP Rajyavardhan Singh Rathore said while blaming sportspersons who are detected with having taken performance enhancing drugs, one should keep in mind that athletes can also be framed by rivals. He also proposed perils of doping be incorporated in school curriculum.

In his response, Thakur assured the members that the government is serious about the aspect of data privacy and will abide by protocol followed globally. He also said that all efforts will be made to prevent misuse of power vested on officials. "This is not to harass anyone politically," Thakur said.

The Bill gives effect to the UNESCO international convention against doping in sport.

In six months of 2022, orders to block Twitter content, handles past 2019 figure

SOUMYARENDRA BARAK NEW DELHI, JULY 27

CONTENT AND account blocking orders issued to Twitter by the Centre in the first six months of 2022 have exceeded the number of such orders issued to the social media platform in the entirety of 2019. According to data shared by Minister of State for Electronics and IT Rajeev Chandrashekhar with the Lok Sabha on Wednesday, 1,122 blocking orders were issued to Twitter until June 2022, compared to 1,041 such orders in the whole of 2019.

In 2021, Twitter was issued 2,851 blocking orders under Section 69(A) of the Information Technology Act, 2000, the highest for any year, data shared by Chandrashekhar revealed. This coincides with the microblogging platform blocking more than 250 accounts in relation to sharing "provocative" tweets over the then ongoing farmers' protests and the company receiving orders from the government to take down some tweets critical of the government's handling of Covid-19.

Notably, 2021 was also the vear when a team of Delhi Police's Special Cell had knocked on the doors of Twitter India's Delhi and Gurgaon offices to ostensibly serve the social media platform a notice after the platform flagged some posts by ruling party leaders alleging a Congress plot to malign the Prime Minister and the Central government as "manipu-

IIIT-Surat students protest move to incomplete campus

KAMAAL SAIYED SURAT, JULY 27

FOR THE new academic year beginning August 8, the Indian Institute of Information Technology (IIIT) in Surat is set to move into its own 28-acre campus, which is still under construction and has temporary metal structures for classrooms.

This has drawn criticism from students, who want the institute, one of "national importance", to continue functioning from its temporary home at Sardar Vallabhbhai National Institute of Technology (SVNIT) in Surat until construction is complete.

IIIT-Surat has been operating out of SVNIT, its mentor institution, since June 2017. But its memorandum of understanding (MoU) with SVNIT for using its campus ends on July 31.

Students are now posting pictures on social media of the waterlogged construction site at Kholvad village in Kamrej taluka of Surat district.

IIIT-Surat principal, J S Bhat, told The Indian Express that what the students call tin sheds are "imported engineering material" approved by the government.

He said the CPWD is constructing the temporary structures - classrooms, labs, a washroom and a canteen — on 1.75 acres at a cost of Rs 9 crore. following rain delay, the work is now expected to be completed by August 10. Bhat said.

A fifth-semester student of Electronics and Communication at IIIT-Surat, requesting anonymity, however, said, "Construction is in progress and it will be difficult for us to focus on studies. Besides, our accommodation is 12 km away." The hostel, it is learnt, is in a government school at Valthan village.

The student added: "We have created a Twitter page putting up our issues. We wish that till our new building is constructed with all facilities, we should be shifted to another campus of NIT." Principal Bhat said: "In 2020, land was allotted to IIIT-Surat by Gujarat government. Due to the pandemic and lockdown, construction was delayed. Once we get our new premises, a concrete structure, ready in about two years, we will shift students there. The old premises will be used for research, training and other activities."

IIIT Surat offers B.Tech degrees in Electronic and Communication Engineering and Computer Science Engineering.

The first batch of 96 students of both engineering fields passed out in 2021 and the second batch with 115 students will graduate

Money stuck in bank, Kerala woman dies of lack of treatment

SHAJU PHILIP

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM,

A 70-YEAR-OLD investor with a cooperative bank in Kerala's Thrissur district, where a Rs 300crore scam was detected in July 2021, died on Wednesday after the bank allegedly failed to return her life savings of Rs 28 lakh.

Philomina Devassy, who came from Irinjalakuda in the district, died of lack of specialised treatment, her husband, Devassy, said.

According to her family, Philomina had deposited her savings at Karuvannur Cooperative Bank, controlled by CPI(M) functionaries. An estimated Rs 300 crore was allegedly siphoned by bank staff, and the scam involved local CPI(M) functionaries.

Philomina, who retired from state health department as a nurse, and Devassy, who worked for a private firm in Mumbai, were among approximately 12,000 depositors at the bank. At least two investors have until now ended their lives, as their entire deposit was lost in the scam, according to police. Philomina was undergoing treatment for various ailments at government medical college Thrissur for a month, Devassy said. "We wanted to shift her to another (better) hospital. For the last two weeks, I had repeatedly approached the bank to return at least a part of the deposit but officials refused."

"If they had given me even a few lakh rupees, my wife could have received better treatment,' he added

On Wednesday, angry local residents marched to the bank's head office with the body and held a sit-in. The protest was called off after district revenue officials assured that the family will get Rs 2 lakh as interim relief and steps would be taken to ensure they get the rest of their deposit back

The scam had rocked state CPI(M), which took pride in Kerala's robust cooperative movement, mostly controlled by Opposition leader V D Satheesan said, "It shows there is no guarantee for deposits in cooperative banks in the state. We had suggested that a consortium be formed to help the depositors but nothing has materialised."

Mithun claims 38 Trinamool MLAs in touch with BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE KOLKATA. JULY 27

BOLLYWOOD ACTOR and BIP leader Mithun Chakraborty on Wednesday claimed that 38 Trinamool Congress (TMC) MLAs are in touch with the BIP and 21 of them "in direct contact" with him. Addressing a news conference at a BJP office, Chakraborty said, "Let me give you some breaking news. Be ready for it. At this moment, 38 TMC MLAs are in touch with us. Among them, 21 are in direct contact with me. Now I leave this to you for your consideration."

Chakraborty's remarks came against the backdrop of the collapse of Uddhav Thackeray-led Maha Vikas Aghadi government comprising the Shiv Sena, NCP and Congress in Maharashtra last Chakraborty was in the city to hold a meeting with a section of BJP MLAs. He pointed out that BJP is in power in 18 states now and claimed the party's flag would fly high in a few other states soon. "The BJP will not stop its fight in West Bengal. If free and fair polls are held in the state today, the party will form the next government here," claimed Mithun.

Mithun Chakraborty

Reacting to the recent arrest of Partha Chatterjee in connection with the SSC recruitment scam, Chakraborty said, "If there is no evidence against someone, that person can go to sleep peacefully. But if there is evidence, no one can spare that person..'

In the 2021 state Assembly elections, the TMC won 213 seats while the BJP bagged 77 seats. At present, TMC has 216 MLAs in the 294-member West Bengal Assembly. The Opposition BJP has 75 legislators.

Reacting to Mithun's claims, TMC MP Santanu Sen said, "He [Mithun] was admitted to hospital for some time. Maybe that has had a psychological impact. No one in his right mind will make such claims because the party itself does not know how many MLAs it has right now. So many have defected to the TMC and if the doors are kept open, more BJP legislators will join our party."

Police: Gang war between school students behind bomb attacks

MANISH SAHU PRAYAGRAJ, JULY 27

A SERIES of at least six mysterious crude bomb blasts in different areas of UP's Prayagraj over the past three months is the result of an alleged turf war between two gangs of students from reputed schools in the city, a senior police officer in the district told The Indian Express.

The students, mostly minor boys aged between 15 and 17 "from well-off families", were allegedly engaged in "criminal activities" over the past year for two gangs called Immortals and Tanday, the officer said. The police cracked the case with the help of surveillance and CCTV footage,

"Eleven of these students were caught on Tuesday. They have confessed to their involvement in six cases in the past three months. In all the six incidents, the students were involved in physical assault and hurling bombs at their opponents before escaping from the spot on two-wheelers. They covered their faces with scarves during the crime," said a senior

According to the district police, initial investigations have revealed that the gang members allegedly extorted money from other students and also made money by sharing passwords of online games similar to PUBG.

According to the police, they initially suspected the involvement of criminal gangs in the series of bomb attacks. "It took us around two months to crack the case. During the probe, we learnt that these 11 students were members of two groups -- Immortals and its rival Tandav. Immortals has around 40 members while Tandav has 100. There are other student groups active in the district called Jaguar, Maya and Lawrence. These student groups attack each other to claim supremacy. But it cannot be ruled out they may be involved in other criminal activities as well," said the senior officer.

The district police now suspect that around 200 students of fourfive schools and colleges are currently members of such gangs.

"Prime facie, the probe shows that these students hurl bombs at their opponents outside school to create terror. During the attack, one member prepares a video of the bombs being hurled. The video is shared on social media with other members. Sometimes, they share clips with other students to influence them," said the officer.

LAND-FOR-JOB SCAM

CBI arrests Lalu's ex-aide Bhola Yadav

DEEPTIMANTIWARY NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE CBI on Wednesday arrested Bhola Yadav, former OSD to Lalu Prasad when the latter was the railway minister, along with a railway employee in connection with the 'land-for-job' scam. The case pertains to allegations that Lalu and his family took land in lieu of jobs in the Indian Railways.

The CBI raided the residence of Bhola Yadav at Mitra Mandal Colony, Patna, and three other places in Patna and Darbhanga. Bhola, a former MLA from Darbhanga, held immense clout in Lalu's RJD and continues to be loyal to the family. The arrested railway employee has been identified as Hridayanand Choudhary.

According to CBI, the fresh case is based on allegations that when Lalu was the railway minister in UPA government (2005-09), he allegedly took land plots as bribe from some people who were recruited as substitutes (Group D posts) in the railways. The CBI had in May booked Lalu and his family members in this connection and searched their premises.

"During the investigation, it was found that Bhola Yadav managed land transfers by the family members of substitutes to the family members of Lalu. The said accused [Bhola] had acquired some properties during the said period," said a CBI spokesperson.

The agency has alleged that as many as 12 people from Patna were appointed in Group D posts in the railways and family members of Lalu got seven plots of land in the city and elsewhere for a pittance. All these plots belonged to the families of those 12 people. According to the CBI, Lalu's family acquired over 1 lakh square feet of land for Rs 26 lakh when the then circle rate put Land's cumulative value at over Rs 4.39 cr. As many as 16 people have been named as accused, including Lalu, his wife Rabri Devi, daughters Misa Bharti and Hema Yadav.

Former deputy CM Sushil Kumar Modi said: "Documents show that Bhola Yadav has been a witness on papers for over 40 land transactions to Lalu's kin. RID leaders Kanti Singh and Raghunath Jha are some of leaders who had also transferred their property to Lalu's family. Hridayanand had transferred 7.6 decimal land to Lalu's daughter.'

RJD spokesperson Mrityunjay Tiwari, however, called the raids a 'political vendetta". "We are not getting cowed down by all this. We are still the single largest party of Bihar despite all smearing campaign against us," he said.

PM's remarks on 'revdi culture' should be heeded by those promising imprudent, unsustainable subsidies

WAR BY OTHER MEANS

There are no winners when food and fuel supplies are weaponised, trade and financial flows disrupted

AST FRIDAY SAW a glimmer of hope with Russia signing an agreement brokered by the United Nations and Turkey for resumption of Ukrainian grain exports through Black Sea ports. Wheat futures prices at Chicago closed 5.9 per cent lower that day. But promise turned into disappointment the very next day, when Russia launched a missile attack at Odesa, housing one of the three Ukrainian ports through which the movement of cargo vessels is to happen. Wheat prices have since rebounded to their pre-deal levels. While the UN is still optimistic that the first ships carrying Ukrainian grain will set sail "within a few days", the risk of Russian attacks could deter insurance companies, vessel owners, buyers and sellers. Russian claims of its missiles hitting exclusively military facilities and not targeting the grain terminal at Odesa port obviously carry little credibility.

But uncertainty surrounds the fate of not only the unblocking of the Black Sea trade routes — which, by enabling Ukraine to ship out some 20 million tonnes of last year's cereals and oilseeds harvest, can potentially ease a global food crisis. The missile strikes over the weekend have been followed by the Russian energy giant Gazprom announcing a cut in natural gas flows via Nord Stream 1, the major sub-sea pipeline connecting Europe, to just a fifth of its capacity from Wednesday. This "weaponisation" of food and fuel supplies by Russia has dangerous implications, just as the economic sanctions imposed by the West against the Vladimir Putin administration have larger consequences. There are no winners in such "wars by other means" that disrupt normal trade and financial flows.

The only consolation, if at all, would be from the economic blockades and sanctions not working fully. For all its hostile actions, Russia will find it difficult to obstruct a UNbacked deal guaranteeing safe passage for Ukraine's exports through the Black Sea to Turkey's Bosporus Strait and on to world markets. The world, particularly China and India, has also figured out ways to import and pay for oil, coal and fertilisers from Russia. Global prices of corn, wheat and palm oil, too, are 30-50 per cent below their highs in March-April. At the end of the day, it is only economic reality — and expectation of better sense prevailing — that holds out hope. The prospect of Europe facing peak winter gas shortages (15 per cent reduction in consumption is not an easy goal to achieve) and Russia not finding alternative markets should, sooner than later, make dialogue and diplomacy the only way forward. The current levels of oil and food prices are simply unsustainable, just as the world cannot afford a choice between inflation and recession.

BIG CAT TOLL

Centre's lion plan continues to ignore urgent imperative of relocating the animal out of Gir. A rethink is in order

N AUGUST 2020, the Centre launched a lion conservation programme along the lines of Project Tiger. Two months into its operation, the project identified six sites — two in Madhya Pradesh, three in Rajasthan and one in Gujarat — to relocate substantial numbers of Asiatic Lions from their current habitat in Gujarat's Gir National Park. These protected areas were in addition to Kuno Wildlife Sanctuary in MP which was earmarked as an alternative home for the animals in 1995. But the government's 25-year roadmap for Project Lion makes no mention of relocation. As reported by this paper, the plan to be launched on August 10 only focuses on "assisted natural dispersal" of the animal across Saurashtra and "potentially" to Rajasthan by 2047.

The Asiatic Lion once roamed the forests of north, central and eastern India. But since the early 20th century, its range has shrunk to the Gir forest. Protected area status for the forest since the 1960s resulted in reviving the species from the brink of extinction. But for nearly 30 years now, conservation experts have been arguing that lion numbers have exceeded Gir's carrying capacity — the animal is often spotted in villages and farms. They also argue that concentration of the species in one park makes it vulnerable to infectious diseases, such as the canine distemper outbreak that killed 1,000 African lions in Tanzania's Serengeti National Park in the early 1990s. But the Gujarat government has stubbornly resisted the move to relocate a pride of the animal to Kuno, often on grounds completely unrelated to conservation — in 2013, for instance, it described the animals "as family members who cannot be parted with". That year, the Supreme Court minced no words in rejecting the state's appeal. "The cardinal issue is not whether the Asian lion is a family member, but the preservation of an endangered species," it said and directed Gujarat to relocate the lions in six months. But Gujarat continued to drag its feet over the matter, even as canine distemper outbreaks have taken a regular toll of Gir's lion population since 2018.

The conservation story has acquired another unscientific twist in the last two weeks. Kuno is making plans to welcome cheetahs from Namibia. The argument of the MP conservation authorities that the introduction of the top predator will improve the park's health is well taken. But as an analysis by this paper showed, Kuno's cheetah population will not be viable even in 40 years. Experts believe the Gir lions would have been far more effective in the role assigned to the cheetahs. Conservation authorities need to do some rethinking on big cats.

RANVEER SINGH, UNCLAD

People have the right to feel offended. But surely the state has more important things to do

HEN ACTOR RANVEER Singh's nude pictures from a photoshoot for an international magazine appeared online last week, they were widely shared with exclamations and eyerolls. The actor is not the first male celebrity in India to appear before the camera in the buff: Almost as soon as the photos of Singh's unclad body began to be shared, images from similar photoshoots in the past — of Jackie Shroff, Milind Soman, Anil Kapoor, Aditya Panscholi — were dug up. And then the predictable happened.

Offence was taken at the sight of Singh's bare body, and two individuals — a lawyer and a person running an NGO — complaints with Mumbai police. Based on the latter's statement, the cops registered an FIR against the actor. This, too, has happened earlier: Shilpa Shetty found herself in court because at a 2007 event Richard Gere kissed her and the complainant felt that "she did not protest". A case was registered against Soman in 2020 for sharing a photo of himself running in the nude on a beach in Goa. Twenty-five years before that, obscenity charges were slapped on Soman and fellow model Madhu Sapre for posing for an advertisement wearing only sneakers — it took 14 years for the duo to be acquitted.

But the special and growing problem, today, is this: Someone somewhere is always offended by something others might find perfectly innocuous and it seems that nearly every instance of hurt sentiment is given a political hearing, and with the weaponisation of a loosely worded law, becomes a legal case. Do the might of the state and the majesty of the law need to come down heavily on every such "outrage", or is it possible that a little more wisdom and discernment is showed? With the ambit of "offences" only growing bigger and wider — including a whole range of "misdeeds", from nudity to scenes from decades-old films — it is up to the state and its instruments to ensure that one individual's right to be offended does not impinge on others' freedoms.

N K Singh

IN A RECENT address, the prime minister shared his anguish on what he called the "revdi" or the freebies culture. This comes immediately on the back of widespread concerns among domain economists, including a recent report of the RBI on states' finances. The report highlighted the perilous condition of states' finances and enhanced debt stress on account of these flawed policies.

Earlier, speaking at the annual day lecture of the Delhi School of Economics on April 19, I had mentioned that these freebies are "something that is given to you without having to pay for them, especially as a way of attracting your support for or interest in something." Is it ironic that much earlier, Albert Einstein had said, "sometimes one pays most for the things one gets for nothing." What Einstein said is embedded with deeper meaning.

The PM's anguish emanates from the serious consequences of this malaise. Nothing undercuts more irresponsibly India's abiding international and national commitments than the perils of this reckless populism. Consider the following:

First and foremost, is the issue of upsetting India's quest for sustainable development. The initiatives undertaken at COP21 in Paris, the International Solar Alliance and subsequently at the COP26 in Glasgow represent India's national consensus to forge a path of growth geared towards intergenerational equity and to exponentially increase development. Our ability to adhere to this commitment inter alia is predicated on two other commitments.

To begin with, an increase in the percentage of renewable energy in our energy consumption. While subsidies are being promised in one form or the other by way of free electricity, the deteriorating health of state distribution companies seriously undercuts their financial viability. Isn't it somewhat ironic that while free power sometimes becomes universal, then optional, then a halfway house through surcharges, these promises are only valid till incumbents face fiscal constraints and are forced to withdraw benefits? The Delhi government's decision to make the electricity subsidy optional was largely due to rising costs. In Punjab, as pointed out by the RBI, the

Isn't it somewhat ironic that while free power sometimes becomes universal, then optional, then a halfway house through surcharges, these promises are only valid till incumbents face fiscal constraints and are forced to withdraw benefits. The Delhi government's decision to make electricity subsidy optional was largely due to rising costs. In Punjab, for instance, as pointed out by the RBI, the free power promised undercuts its ability to move to a more sustainable pattern of growth. Lowering the price to some consumers, offset through overcharging industrial and commercial contracts, reduces competitiveness, ushers slower growth both in incomes and employment.

free power promised undercuts its ability to move to a more sustainable pattern of growth. Lowering the price for some consumers, offset through overcharging industrial and commercial contracts, reduces competitiveness, ushers slower growth both in incomes and employment.

Equally, the inability of discoms to actively encourage solar power is stymied by their financial condition and the inability to evolve tariff structures. India's inability to meet an orderly and socially-cohesive transition to an era of non-fossil fuel energy critically depends on the health of state electricity boards, which is undercut by the freebie culture. Regulatory capture, a fixation on unrealistic tariffs and cross-subsidy in energy utilisation prevent a credible coal plan, which is central to our energy planning. Therefore, it is not how cheap the freebies are, but how expensive they are for the economy, life quality and social cohesion in the long run.

Second, the Modi government seeks to address the challenge of inequity by ensuring access to a wide range of basic facilities. These include banking, electricity, housing, insurance, water and clean cooking fuel, to mention a few. Removing this inequity to access helps boost the productivity of our population.

Third, the issue of access. Benefits under various welfare schemes such as PM Awas Yojana, Swachh Bharat Mission and Jal Jeevan Mission have eliminated the biggest barrier for citizens — the exorbitant upfront cost of access. Moreover, they are leading to irreversible empowerment and self-reliance. For instance, a house built under the PM Awas Yojana is a lifelong asset for the beneficiary household that cannot be taken back by any government.

Fourth is the use of technology in direct transfer benefits. Identification of beneficiaries through the SECC and prioritisation based on deprivation criteria has enabled the government to assist those who need it the most. Governments that end up taking the shortcut of universal subsidies or freebies often end up ignoring the poor and transferring public resources to the affluent. In Delhi, innumerable households from the lower strata continue to remain dependent on expensive tankers for water due to a lack of water connections and the Delhi Jal Board's limited supply. The free water policy has no value for these households.

Fifth is the issue of expenditure prioritisation being distorted away from growth-enhancing items, leading to intergenerational inequity. The science and economics of intergenerational debt swap are at best in a nascent phase. This is true also of changes in governments between states and nations. Illustratively, one state cannot pass on its debts to another state, nor can a nation pass on its debts to another nation. Investors, both domestic and foreign, and credit rating agencies look to macro stability in terms of sustainable levels of debt and fiscal deficit. One of the biggest achievements of the Modi government is that after years of fiscal profligacy, we returned to the path of fiscal rectitude in 2014. Ironically, it seems the last time such an effort was made was also by an NDA government, which enacted the first FRBM Act on August 26, 2003, while this government only

Sixth is the debilitating effect of freebies on the future of manufacturing and employment. Freebies lower the quality and competitiveness of the manufacturing sector by detracting from efficient and competitive infrastructure. They stymie growth and, therefore, gainful employment because there is no substitute for growth if we wish to increase employment.

re-emphasised the need to address this issue.

The PM's recent remarks about the perils of freebie culture should serve as a timely reminder to those promising fiscally imprudent and unsustainable subsidies. His opposition to this culture should not be misconstrued as an objection to extending state support to citizens, especially the lower strata. Rather, PM Modi has demonstrated a successful model of welfare provisioning and governance that provides balanced development without creating avoidable fiscal constraints. It was Aristotle who said, "the worst form of inequality is to try to make unequal things equal." The freebie culture is not a road to prosperity, but a quick passport to fiscal disaster.

DEVI IS MIGHTY

She will not be belittled by a controversial depiction in a film poster or comment

KESAVA MENON

THERE IS A story about a Samuthiri (Zamorin) of Calicut that has some bearing on the recent debate on the depiction of Maa Kali on a film poster. In the mid-18th century, the then Samuthiri after praying at the Varakkal Bhagawati temple was given a slice of fish and a sip of toddy, which was the prasadam at that time. As he partook of the blessed gift he saw that the Eralapad, the heir apparent, had thrown away his portion. The Samuthiri told his younger brother: "Our dynasty will be ruined during your rule".

Years passed and the Eralapad of the story became the Samuthiri. It was during his reign that Haider Ali of Mysore invaded Calicut, the first to do so in the four or five hundred years since the city was founded. (Given the lopsided nature of history teaching in India, not many would know that the overlords of Malabar fought off the Portuguese for a century and the Dutch for another. Many would also not know that when the Mysore forces entered his city, the Samuthiri blew up a powder magazine with his own hands, destroying himself and most of his palace).

It must first be noted that the Samuthiris were mostly vegetarian, especially when they rose to the sthanams (the first five positions in the dynasty). That did not prevent one from accepting the prasadam, while the other rejected it. In imbibing fish and toddy, the ruler sought divine blessings for his realm and his family. The one who rejected the prasadam seemed to have prioritised his own moksha.

In Good Faith

For all the legislativelyimposed bans of a century or more, animal sacrifices are still undertaken in many parts of the country. In some temples, vegetables and coconut milk are used as symbolic substitutes. In other places, the blood rituals are conducted on sites close to but outside the perimeter of the temple. There might even be a few shrines which form blind spots for the civil authorities, where the ritual is performed openly. Why?

There might not be a single doctrine in the Hindu belief systems that treats the Eralapad of the story as nobler than the Samuthiri.

The purpose of narrating this story is to reiterate what every Hindu knows about their faith or way of life. There is no single path and no single conceptualisation of what divinity is. In certain parts of the country, the Devi might be conceptualised as a soft, benign figure who sits demurely on her tiger. In other parts, especially much of the dehat, she is either a fiery warrior or a stern, demanding matriarch. Sacrifice is her due.

For all the legislatively-imposed bans of a century or more, animal sacrifices are still undertaken in many parts of the country. In some temples, vegetables and coconut milk are used as symbolic substitutes. In other places, the blood rituals are conducted on sites close to but outside the perimeter of the temple. There might even be a few shrines which form blind spots for the civil authorities, where the ritual is performed openly. Why? The bali, especially during Dussehra, is an integral part of the traditions of most regiments of the Indian army. If chickens and goats can be cut for the dining table, why not for the altar?

Anthropologists should be able to explain why alcohol has been a traditional part of these forms of worship. Intoxicants were probably an intrinsic part of the earliest fertility rites and the connection seems to have carried on into the Shakteya system. After all, the Devi is the provider of all the bounty in the world and there is a need to exalt and celebrate her fecundity. Mood elevation by using the products of that bounty is one way of doing so.

A good half of the Hindu community in the country would be on the same wavelength as the TMC's Mahua Moitra up to this point. What about the further contention that the depiction of a "smoking Devi" should be given the same treatment? First of all, there is the reality that tobacco confers no benefit, not even mood elevation, and causes only harm. Should inspiring figures, deities included, be shown as indulging in this habit? That weed-ingesting sadhus are endemic to places of worship is not an adequate counter. The main ingredient in their chillums is not tobacco and marijuana is said to have some medicinal use.

From this perspective, the idea of Devi with a cigarette seems a silly, gimmicky, distortion. Personally, I find it offensive. But certainly not offensive enough to want to hurt the person responsible or agitate for her arrest or silencing. On the other hand, I cannot buy into the argument that this is a depiction appropriate to an age of liberation. Perhaps the pull of tradition is too strong. Then again, so is the strength of a devotion that says the Devi is too mighty to be belittled by needless controversy.

Draft law recognises potential of e-commerce in pharmaceutical sector. But more needs to be done to ensure that medical products are safe, effective and conform to prescribed quality standards

Shailaja Chandra

A DRAFT LAW to replace the 1940 Drugs and Cosmetics Act with a Drugs, Medical Devices and Cosmetics Bill 2022 was uploaded by the Union health ministry in early July, seeking public comments and objections, within 45 days. The primary objective of any drug law is to ensure that the medical products sold in a country are safe, effective and conform to prescribed quality standards. This article addresses how the new law could help consumers but what more is required.

The first major feature in the new Bill that affects consumers relates to e-commerce. The regulatory cover will come when the rules are notified but the inclusion of a provision in the Bill is reassuring. Presently, online sales of medicines account for a fraction of the total pharma sales in India but are forecast to grow exponentially. The traditional retail chemist sector has been the mainstay for the population but has generally been unorganised. The sale of substandard, even counterfeit, drugs — particularly in smaller towns and villages – remains widespread.

There are several pros and cons concerning online sales. Like all online shopping, the consumer gets the advantage of discounts and the comfort of shopping from home. During Covid, e-pharmacy platforms were promoted by government digital platforms, so the experience of regulating the sector is available. In normal times, e-commerce can surmount three uniquely Indian disadvantages The first relates to climatic conditions, which require medicines to be stored at below 30 degrees Celsius and 70 per cent relative humidity - unattainable in most of India. It can mandate establishing a back-end brick and mortar store for drug supply having good storage conditions. This is what happens in all countries the world over that allow e-commerce. It can encrypt all transactions otherwise impossible to track.

The second advantage of e-commerce could be fulfilling a legal requirement - pro-

tal illness — which is fraught with dangerous

reported to have over 7,00,000 pharmacists, this anachronism must be discarded.

In fairness, it was sought to be corrected in December 2016 by deleting the above clauses from the Drugs Rules and a draft was even gazetted in 2016 on the recommendations of the health ministry's Drugs Consultative Committee headed by the Drugs Controller General (India) and subsequently by the Drugs Technical Advisory Committee headed by the Director General of Health Services. But after seven years, the eligibility criteria continue to allow a matriculate or an ordinary graduate (albeit with a few years experience,) to get a licence as a wholesaler or stockist. It is essential to introduce a binding and enabling provision to only licence qualified pharmacists and put the safety of millions of citizens before the self-preservation of a few thousand wholesalers and stockists.

And that brings me to the consumer side of the sale of drugs, particularly in small pharmacies. My research and field study — "Unqualified Medical Practitioners in India", published by Shiv Nadar University in 2017 describes how easily prescription drugs can be purchased from a medical shop where a proxy licencee provides legal cover in absentia to the shop owner. That he himself possesses zero knowledge about pharmaceuticals has not bothered any state regulator. This must be stopped. Unless digitisation of procurement, inventory control and accountability for dispensing drugs gets encrypted into a digital trail, random raids and inspections will serve no purpose.

The debate should not be between ecommerce and retail sale. It should be between being compliant and non-compliant.

The defining issue of our time

WHAT THE OTHERS SAY

We need to wake up to the loss of biodiversity, embrace conservation of ecosystems and resources for the sake of the planet's future better hygiene."

M Venkaiah Naidu

AGLOBAL biodiversity crisis stares us squarely in the face. Biodiversity, globally, finds itself under an ever-increasing all-round threat as man's relentless predatory exploitation of natural resources continues unchecked. Driven by wasteful, unbounded greed, man's plunder of land and marine resources has led to a situation where about 25 per cent of species face the threat of extinction.

The World Nature Conservation Day, celebrated on July 28, seeks to highlight the need to work for a healthy planet by preserving our environment and protecting our natural resources. The time to address the factors that cause biodiversity loss is now. If mankind has to survive, we have to recognise the role protection and conservation play in attempting to maintain the pristine nature of biodiverse ecosystems.

Conservation is our only hope for the future of the planet, as also for that of succeeding generations, because it also contributes to sustainable livelihoods, climate change mitigation, food and water security and reduces the threat of natural disasters. The idea of conservation encompasses various facets of nature including flora and fauna, energy resources, soil, water and air. In this context, it is essential to underscore the critical nature of protected areas and other effective areabased conservation measures as key drivers of biodiversity conservation.

Conservation and ecological balance form the cornerstone of the cosmic vision of Indian civilisation. The Vedas, Upanishads, itihasas and puranas teach us the worship of the divine in the elements - in rivers, mountains, lakes, animals, birds, flora, as also stars and planets. Our scriptures are replete with references to the manifestation of prana or shakti in all forms of matter. This is seen in our daily practices – be it the worship of fire, water and air as agni, jal and vayu, the sun as Surva deva, earth as Bhu devi, the Himalayas as the abode of the gods and rishis, the Ganga, Yamuna and all other rivers, the Tulasi plant and peepul tree, the cow as gau mata, the elephant as associated with Vinayaka -- bowing to mother nature is an expression of our gratitude to her for her bountiful blessings. The Prithvi Sukta in Atharva Veda serves to remind us of our relationship with nature: mata bhumih putroham prithiyah (The earth is my mother and I am her son).

With the passage of time, we have begun to forget some of the essential lessons our ancestors taught us about nature being a lifegiver and not a hostile force to be conquered. The mindless exploitation and destruction of our natural resources has only unleashed nature's fury in the form of disasters like floods, landslides and earthquakes upon us. As a nation, we only have to go back to our roots and strive proactively in order to achieve the targets of the post-2020 of the UN's Global Biodiversity Framework (GBF) and realise the 2050 vision of "living in harmony with nature". Climate change has often been referred to as the defining issue of our time which has brought about irreversible changes in ecosystems. Caused by human actions, climate change has brought us close to the Lakshman Rekha of ecological balance, which we cannot afford to cross. It, therefore, calls for decisive action on many facets relating to energy, industry, land, transport and urban planning. Sudden changes in weather patterns causing heat waves, ocean warming, diminishing amounts of snow and ice, melting glaciers, forest fires and floods - an ever-increasing range of resultant factors threaten livelihoods and food production worldwide. Global climate efforts to build partnerships to make the transition to lowemission economies and meet the goals and targets set by Kyoto Protocol and the Paris Agreement have to be intensified if the human race has to survive.

Statistics put the loss of the earth's original forest cover at as high as 45 per cent over the last 8,000 years, most of it alarmingly enough, during the past century. Apart from climate change, the conversion of forests to agricultural land, overgrazing, poor forest management, invasive infrastructure development including the ill-planned expansion of urban settlements, mining and oil exploitation, anthropogenic forest fires and pollution, have impacted forest biological diversity. The Food and Agriculture Organisation recently estimated that about 13 million hectares of the world's forests are lost due to deforestation each year. Aggressive measures for conservation of forest biodiversity alone can help save one of the most biologically rich terrestrial systems providing balance and harmony to the ecosystem. The saying, vruksho rakshati rakshitah (protect trees and they will protect you), should be our guiding mantra.

As a member of the High Ambition Coalition for Nature and People initiated at the "One Planet Summit" in Paris in January 2021, India is committed to work proactively to protect at least 30 per cent of our lands, waters and oceans, and adhere to its commitment of 30x30 by 2030. The recent launch of the 75-day-long awareness campaign, "Swachh Sagar, Surakshit Sagar", covering 75 beaches across the country, is a reflection of India's commitment to the cause of conservation and clean-up. The government has banned the manufacture, import, stocking, distribution, sale and use of identified single-use plastic items with low utility and high littering potential from July 1,2022.

Programme (UNEP), the World Economic Forum (WEF) and the Economics for Land Degradation Initiative have rightly urged the G-20 nations to step up to their roles as powerful leaders against climate change. Globally, the mainstreaming of conservation and the need to address and achieve climate targets and sustainable development outcomes should be integrated into national policies and decision-making frameworks at the local levels. Only then can we hope to reverse, to some extent, the harm we have caused to mother nature.

Why a change in the culture of institutions that support sport is critical

Rajat Kathuria

AS THE strong Indian contingent for the Commonwealth Games (CWG) serially lands, sport by sport, player by player, in the UK, they carry the immense expectations of a medal-starved nation. The expectations are not misplaced because Indian sport is beginning to come of age. Competition in the CWG is limited and that augments hope. However, we still have a long way to go to becoming an Olympic powerhouse that China has turned out to be. Even in the Commonwealth (CW), while India is good, its performance is a pale shadow of China's in the Olympics. What is unmistakable, though, is that economic growth in the case of China was strongly correlated with their sports performance. If we were to draw a parallel between India's economic growth and performance, as one of the fastest growing economies in the CW, if not the world, one could expect that we might crown ourselves in glory soon enough.

Sports have become commercial and that has enabled us to reap rewards. One could safely argue that our sporting accomplishments have grown quicker and medals have come at a faster clip than the rate at which the institutional setup for sport has evolved. Institutions evolve glacially, so the above statement does not pass the Samuelsonian test of being true and non-obvious. Even if true and obvious, is the institutional stasis recognised? Did we recognise and act during the period when rapid economic growth of over 9 per cent during 2004-09 outstripped institutional change? That period laid bare the weakness of institutions that were unable to keep pace with a rapidly growing economy. Institutions that govern the market in India are still evolving but at least now there is an acknowledgement that they need to become much more friendly and facilitate the efficient functioning of greater focus on medical devices, which in-

The draft law also proposes according a

For sports, the national agencies still operate in the 20th-century mode with the associated mindset of lifetime employment in the federations, run like fiefdoms. Judicial intervention in several cases involving national federations has brought this aspect to the fore. Courts have appointed a Committee of Administrators (CoA) to run several federations temporarily including football, hockey, badminton, table tennis to name a few. A CoA ran the cricket body for six years before handing it over to an elected board. Cricket was the first target because the sport had become profoundly commercial and its governance is dismal. The name of the institution

Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) - betrayed how it "controlled" the sport. Unbeknownst to the board, the rapid commercialisation of cricket meant that it came under the scrutiny of stakeholders and became a victim of success. What led to its downfall? For a start, while it raked in big bucks, it short-changed spectators. Spectators were provided little comfort in stadiums, packed like sardines on uncomfortable cemented blocks and with no refreshments worth the name, while patronage was dished out through the selection and nomination of teams and managers respectively at national and state levels. It was, in short, an unfettered exercise of monopoly power.

While the BCCI came under scrutiny, it was not an exception. Other sports federations oversaw intrigue and dished out patronage. Who can forget an IPS officer running hockey as somebody would run a jail and treat players as if they needed to be brought to heel? Who can forget Dhanraj Pillai being dropped at the peak of his career because he refused to pay obeisance to the mighty federation? Several other deserving players fell by the wayside without ever being able to secure justice against mountain-

There are several sports in India that are subject to the same monopolistic attitude and conduct of federations that tend to be run by bureaucrats rather than by people who know the game. The modus operandi is straightforward. Federations offer the lure of selection for coaches, managers and players, sometimes deservedly and often undeservedly to keep resistance at bay, while keeping others guessing in whose direction the next crumb will fall. This patronage system has worked well for the federations but not for players. Is it a surprise, then, that we are globally recognised in very few sports? While that is now changing, the culture of managing sports needs to change as well. Whatever glory has been acquired by Indian sportspersons has not been due to the federations but despite them.

The government routinely spends a lot of money on training people abroad and hiring foreign coaches. Thus, teams and individuals spend time training and acclimatising in Europe, Japan, Korea, and the United States to name a few destinations for extended stints. While the exposure of players to tournaments abroad is a very good idea, India could also weigh the benefits of becoming a training hub for sportspersons from different parts of the world. For example, in cricket we can, with a little effort, become the soughtafter destination for training global talent. I imagine we can develop such facilities in chess, shooting, badminton and hockey to start with. This will have a salutary effect on sports in general and the people engaged in the specific sport in particular.

Commercialisation has certainly been a success factor, but a change in the culture of institutions that support sport is critical to move to the next level. The metamorphosis of cricket and of the institution governing cricket demonstrates the possibilities. Former sportspersons can take charge of guiding, mentoring and even running federations if not completely, then at least on an equal footing with the bureaucrats. Bureaucrats are essential to administration in India, but for the nuances of sports governance, is it not best to involve the experts extensively?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SILENCED OPPOSITION

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, Throwing the book' (IE, July 27). The 'brook no criticism' approach of the ruling regime was, once again, on display with the summary suspension of 23 Opposition members of Parliament. While disrupting the House repeatedly runs against the statute book, it is more a norm than the exception. It does not reflect well on our democratic principles that the Opposition voice has been silenced right at the beginning of the Monsoon Session. India's democracy, of late, seems to be acquiring authoritarian tendencies, thanks to the hubris of the BJP riding on the overwhelming mandate given to it by the people.

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Throwing the book' (IE, July 27). Suspension of four Lok Sabha Opposition MPs for the entire Monsoon Session and, the following day, suspension of 19 Rajya Sabha Opposition MPs for a week demonstrates blatant partisanship and highhandedness by those presiding over both the Houses. They have failed utterly in their duty to be impartial and, instead, chose to please the ruling establishment. The presiding officers must remind themselves that they are supposed to ensure Opposition MPs get to air their opinion on the floor of the

New friendships

THIS REFERS TO the editorial, 'Area of darkness' (IE, July 27). The executions in Myanmar signal the military rulers' defiance of appeals by the international community not to carry out the death sentences and free political prisoners arrested since the February 2021 coup. If India really wants to offset Chinese influence in Myanmar, it needs to take this opportunity to forge new friendships. For India, stability - not the military – should be the focus in Myanmar. As a regional power with an Act East Policy in place, India must not be found missing from the action.

Trust issues

THIS REFERS TO the article, 'Coarse and coarser' (IE, July 27). Presenting a narrative on hearsay and circulating it as the final verdict is misleading, especially when the accused is the former Vice-President of India. The current regime won't be perpetually in office. This not only brings the level of politics to a dismal low but also harms the nation and citizenry in unimaginable ways. The legitimacy of the very state comes under question. Apart from deepening the abyss of mistrust between two communities, it raises a question too: If we can't trust our Vice-President, who can we

TWO BSF MEN KILLED IN CONGO

Back home in Rajasthan, kin say proud of peacekeepers' sacrifice

HAMZAKHAN JAIPUR, JULY 27

FRIENDS AND relatives of the two Indian peacekeepers killed in the Democratic Republic of Congo on Tuesday hailed the sacrifice of the BSF personnel from Rajasthan.

Shishupal Singh and Sanwala Ram Vishnoi - deployed as part of a UN mission at Butembo, Congo, since June 2, 2022 – were among five killed during an anti-UN protest in the eastern city of Goma near strife-torn country's border with Uganda. While Shishupal hailed from Sikar, Vishnoi belonged to Barmer.

Talking to The Indian Express, Shishupal's friend Satyaveer Singh said: "We heard that there was airlifting following the attack. There were some Moroccan women colleagues, and he asked them to go while he stayed back."

Satyaveer said that Shishupal, around 50, had spent roughly "27-28 years in the BSF" and that his two brothers were also in the Border Security Force. Shishupal is survived by wife, Kamla, a son pursuing graduation in Jaipur and a daughter doing MBBS.

ICMR invites pharma firms for Kerala to exclude developing monkeypox shot

ANONNA DUTT

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE INDIAN Council of Medical Research (ICMR) on Wednesday called for experienced pharmaceutical companies and research organisations to "collaborate on royalty basis" for developing monkeypox vaccine and diagnostic kits. This comes on a day when its Pune-based National Institute of Virology (NIV) announced that it has successfully isolated the virus from the patient's sample, meaning the researchers can grow it [virus] further in the laboratory.

The 'expression of interest' issued by ICMR states that NIV has achieved "bulk propagation of the virus stock". The document states that ICMR will reserve the intellectual property rights and commercialisation rights for monkeypox virus isolates, and the protocols for purification, propagation, and characterisation.

The expression of interest document states that ICMR's agreement with companies will be non-exclusive (meaning, the research institute will be free to share the technology with more than one company) with the condition of royalty of not less than 5% on the net sales of the end product. It also states that the research body will not only help in developing diagnostic kits but also validate them.

"In the event of default in payment of royalty as above, interest @12% per annum on the royalty due shall be charged for the first six months. If default persists for more than six months, interest at similar rate will be charged on the accrued interest also from the due dates of payments till realisation/recovery of such amounts by the ICMR," the document states.

This is a similar contract that the research institute entered with for sharing the isolates of SARS-CoV-2 virus with Bharat Biotech for developing Covaxin, 33.9 crore doses of which have been administered as part of the Covid-19 vaccination drive.

Isolating the virus is the first step towards developing drug, diagnostics, and vaccines for any new infection. "The monkeypox virus is isolated from the clinical specimen of a patient by the ICMR - National Institute of Virology Pune @ICMRDELHI," the institute said in a tweet. The lab was also the first in the country to isolate the SARS-CoV-2 virus in March 2020 soon after Covid-19 cases started increasing in the country.

Unlike Covid-19, however, monkeypox is not a completely unknown infection in humans. In fact, the first human case of the viral infection was reported in 1970 in Congo. "The thing is that we already know almost everything about monkeypox. We know which cell lines have to be used to grow the virus. We already have drugs and vaccines which were developed for smallpox - that can be used for monkeypox as well," said a senior virologist, on condition of anonymity.

However, India did not have any viral isolate for monkeypox. "Without a viral culture, we cannot develop a vaccine, molecular testing kits, or immunological testing assays. And we cannot validate them. We should be self-sufficient if needed," said Dr Pragya Yadav, senior scientist

human settlements from eco-sensitive zone of forests

SHAJU PHILIP THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, JULY 27

THE KERALA Cabinet on Wednesday decided to rectify a 2019 decision of the LDF government in the state to exclude residential and agricultural areas as well as government, semi-government and public institutions from 1-km eco-sensitive zones (ESZ). This is meant to avoid human settlements from the purview of ESZ of protected forest tracts.

Taking into account the objections received against a Central government draft notification, the Cabinet decided to approve the Forest Department's proposal to exclude such areas, agricultural land, and various public institutions from ESZ, according to a release from the Chief Minister's Office. The state Forest and Wildlife Department's proposal has been forwarded to the Centre, it added.

In 2019, the then LDF government had decided to recommend that 1 km of area around boundaries of protected forests, including human settlements, as ESZs.

However, following a Supreme Court verdict on June 3 to establish 1-km ESZs around all protected areas, wildlife sanctuaries and national parks, Kerala has seen widespread protests in hilly regions of the state.

Decision set to help LDF

THE CABINET'S decision to exempt human settlements from the purview of ESZ is expected to help the CPI(M)-led government save face in the backdrop of the Opposition's allegation that the state government is not sincere in its approach to protect the interest of farmers.

Opposition Congress and the Catholic Church have led the protests in which the LDF, in particular the CPI(M), has drawn flak for its 2019 decision. The issue also came to limelight after some activists of SFI, the CPI(M)'s students' wing, vandalised Congress MP Rahul Gandhi's office in Wayanad, alleging that he had not intervened in the issue. The state government then convened a meeting to address the situation emerging out of the apex court's June 3 verdict.

As part of steps to allay fears of people, the state government has also decided to submit a modification petition in SC and approach Central Empowered Committee to get exemptions on the verdict.

REPORT ON POLL DEFEAT

Panel doesn't recommend change in SAD leadership

NAVJEEVAN GOPAL

CHANDIGARH, JULY 27 THE SHIROMANI Akali Dal Wednesday said a panel formed to analyse the reasons for the party's defeat in the 2022 Punjab Assembly polls did not recommend any change in its top leadership and authorised party chief Sukhbir Singh Badal to "take ac-committee's recommendations". Badal had set up a 13-member committee, headed by party secretary general Balwinder Singh Bhunder, to look into the reasons that led to Akali Dal being relegated to just three seats in the 117-member a sub-committee, led by Igbal Singh

tion on the implementation of the Jhundan, to speed up the process. The SAD core committee, presided by Badal, applauded and accepted the Jhundan panel's report and thanked its members for their "thorough painstaking and honest feedback" from the party workers and the people at large. The core committee also gave Badal "full powers to rejig the party structure" in line with the Ihundan-panel recommendations.

The decision came even as senior leader and former MP Prem Singh Chandumajra questioned the move by the SAD core committee of bypassing the Bhunder committee, of which he too was part. Chandumajra said the Jhundan panel report should have been ideally submitted before Bhunder committee, before being discussed in the party's core committee. "Ideally, the sub-committee report should have been deliberated in parent committee of 13-members led by Balwinder Bhunder before it was presented in the party's core committee," said Chandumajra. He did not attend core committee meeting.

SECTOR WATCH GEOSPATIAL TECHNOLOGY

Local partners roped in, Google launches Street View for India

NANDAGOPAL RAJAN NEW DELHI, JULY 27

A DECADE after it was prevented from capturing data for its Street View services, Google has launched its 360degree interactive panorama feature for 10 Indian cities, with data from local partners Tech Mahindra and Mumbaibased Genesis International.

This has been made possible by the new National Geospatial Policy, 2021, which lets local companies collect this kind of data and license it to others, making India the first country where Street View has been enabled primarily by partners.

Called Project Gullify, Street View will be initially launched for 10 Indian cities and rolled out to 50 by the year's end, mapping over 7,00,000 km in two years.

Miriam Karthika Daniel, VP of Google Maps Experiences, told indianex*press.com* that the partners have "fundamental geospatial technologies and experience, as well as logistics experience" and the "ability to scale across a lot of areas simultaneously".

She explained that the launch has been made possible by the clarity the new geospatial policy brought in. "First of all, it requires that local entities be the ones that collect all the data. So the partners are the ones that are collecting and owning the data. They have to collect it at a certain level of fidelity depending on the type of camera. Even the camera configurations are done by our partners," Daniel added.

The policy, she said, even cites areas where they can be collect data and those where they can't, like government. defence and military areas. "So, our partners know exactly where they can go and collect (data), which is a majority of India." Full report on

4TH STRAIGHT RISE; 'HIGHLY ATTENTIVE' TO INFLATION RISKS

Fed hikes rates by 75 bps, flags 'softening indicators'

REUTERS

WASHINGTON, JULY 27

THE US Federal Reserve raised its benchmark overnight interest rate by three-quarters of a percentage point on Wednesday in an effort to cool the most intense breakout of inflation since the 1980s, with "ongoing increases" in borrowing costs still ahead despite evidence of a slowing economy.

"Inflation remains elevated, reflecting supply and demand imbalances related to the pandemic, higher food and energy prices, and broader price pressures," the ratesetting Federal Open Market Committee said as it lifted the policy rate to a range of between 2.25 per cent and 2.5 per cent in a unanimous vote. The FOMC added that it remains "highly attentive" to inflation risks.

With the most recent data showing consumer prices rising at more than a 9 per cent annual rate, investors expect the US central bank to raise the policy rate by at least half a percentage point at its September meeting.

But while jobs gains have remained "robust," officials noted in the new policy statement that "recent indicators of spending and production have softened," a nod to the fact that the aggressive rate

RATES UP 225 BPS THIS YEAR

COMING ON top of a 75-basis-point hike last month and smaller moves in May and March, the Fed has raised its policy rate by a total of 225 bps this year as it battles a 1980s-level breakout of inflation with 1980s-style policy.

hikes they have put in place since March are beginning to bite.

Coming on top of a 75-basispoint hike last month and smaller moves in May and March, the Fed has raised its policy rate by a total of 225 basis points this year as it battles a 1980s-level breakout of inflation with 1980s-style monetary policy. The rate also matches the high point of the central bank's previous tightening cycle from late 2015 to late 2018, a level reached this time in the span of just four months.

US yields were little changed by the announcement, with the yield on the 10-year note down 2 basis points on the day and the yield on the 2-year note unchanged. US stocks extended gains after the decision, with S&P 500 up 1.6 per cent and the Nasdaq up 2.8 per cent intra-day.

FPI outflow a concern

INDIA HAS already witnessed substantial FPI outflow due to recent rate hikes by the US Fed. The fresh 75-bp rise, now, is likely to further hit investor sentiment. With every rise in policy rates in the US, the difference between interest rates of two countries narrows, thus making nations such as India less attractive for currency carry trade. Higher returns in the US debt markets could also trigger churn in emerging market equities, tempering foreign investor outlook. Also, a high rate signal by the Fed to douse record inflation in the US would likely weigh on the country's growth prospects, which could kindle fears of a recession and, in turn, be negative news for global growth.

₹1.64 L cr revival package for BSNL gets Cabinet nod

To get ₹43,964 cr as cash and ₹1.2L cr as non-cash component over 4 years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE UNION Cabinet on Wednesday cleared a Rs 1.64-lakh crore package for revival of stateowned telecom service provider Bharat Sanchar Nigam Ltd (BSNL), with the focus on fresh capital for upgrading the lossmaking company's network and allocating spectrum for it to offer 4G services, de-stressing its balance sheet and augmenting its fiber network.

The four-year revival strategy follows a 2019 booster, when the government had announced a Rs 70.000-crore package mainly to cover a voluntary retirement scheme for BSNL employees.

Of the total revival package announced Wednesday, Rs 43.964 crore will be a cash component, while the remaining Rs 1.2 lakh crore of non-cash component will be spread over four years. The Centre will make administrative allocation of spectrum BSNL needs to offer 4G services. The allocation of spectrum in 900/1,800 MHz band at the cost of Rs 44,993 crore would be through equity infusion.

"The 2019 relief package gave BSNL a lifeline. Before that, it was making operational losses, which wasn't sustainable. The package helped BSNL in becoming operational profitable. With the latest relief package, we expect BSNL to become net profitable in the next three-four years," Minister of Communications Ashwini Vaishnaw told reporters.

To meet the projected capital expenditure (capex) for the next four years, the Centre will fund capex of Rs 22,471 crore for developing 4G technology stack, while providing Rs 13,789 crore to BSNL as viability gap funding for commercially unviable rural wireline operations done between FY15 and FY20, he added.

Further, to enhance the operator's wireline offering, the Telecom Department has proposed the merger of Bharat Broadband Nigam Ltd (BBNL) with BSNL. BBNL is the nodal agency for executing the BharatNet project. The infrastructure created under BharatNet will continue to be a national asset, accessible on a non-discriminatory basis to all the telecom service providers.

To de-stress the balance sheet, Rs 33,404 crore statutory dues will be converted into equity. The Centre will also provide sovereign guarantee for raising money to repay current loans.

TELLING NUMBERS

Who's representing India at CWG, and from which state

NAMIT KUMAR

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

A TOTAL of 215 athletes will represent India in 15 disciplines at the Commonwealth Games (CWG), which begin on Thursday in Birmingham. The Indian contingent is represented by almost every state and Union Territory, among which Haryana with 39 athletes has the highest representation — much like at the Tokyo Olympics last year. Haryana is followed by Punjab (26), Tamil Nadu (17), and Delhi and Maharashtra (14 each).

Who's from Haryana

Over the years, Haryana has produced some of India's top athletes across events such as boxing, track & field, wrestling, and cycling. In the current contingent, the state is well represented by both men and women. According to the list of athletes compiled by the Sports Authority of India (SAI), 19 of the 39 athletes from Haryana are women.

The women's hockey team, which narrowly missed out on an Olympic medal last year, has contributed a lot to that. Eight women in the squad of 18 are from Haryana. The state also has several boxers and wrestlers, many of whom, including Vinesh Phogat, Sakshi Malik and Jaismine Lamboriya, are seen as strong contenders for a medal.

Geography of sport

India's medal prospects come in a wide range of sports, each of which enjoys popularity in a different region. Contact sports such as judo, wrestling, and boxing have heavy representation from the northern states of Delhi and Haryana. Racquet sports such as badminton, squash and table tennis, in which India has had recent success, are well represented in the southern states of Tamil Nadu, Telangana, and Kerala.

The country's wrestling contingent is expected to bring in plenty of medals, and each of the 12 wrestlers come from either Haryana or Delhi, the list released by SAI shows. Six of India's 12 boxers. too, are from Harvana. On the other hand, badminton stars PV Sindhu and Kidambi Srikanth come from Telangana, and at least seven squash players and five table tennis players come from Tamil Nadu.

population in India, and a fraction of the resources boasted by states such as Haryana and Tamil Nadu. Yet the state is sending as many as seven athletes to Birmingham. Of these, three are from the Lawn Bowls contingent, and all the other four are seen as medal

Boxer Lovlina Borgohain, fresh off a bronze in Tokyo, is one of the big favourites for a medal, and so is 59-kg weightlifter Popy Hazarika, while Shiva Thapa could be a dark horse in boxing. Hima Das, meanwhile, may not have many big recent international results under her belt, but she is the 400m national record holder and one of India's biggest track stars

Andaman cyclists

Andaman & Nicobar Islands, with an estimated population of just over 4 lakh, has done remarkably well in cycling, featuring India's best ever performance at the Asian Track Championships in New Delhi last month. The Union Territory may have a medal hopeful in Esow Alben, the first Indian cyclist to reach the top 10 of the world rankings. However, he will have to punch several notches above his weight to finish on the podium.

Esow finished fifth in the keirin event and eighth in the sprint event in Delhi last month. He has a teammate from Andaman & Nicobar in David Beckham — a cyclist, not the footballer.

Lion's future, cheetah's past

The jury is still out on the project's merit but Kuno, where the arrival of Asiatic lions is long pending, awaits the first batch of African cheetahs in August. What are the project plans, and why does it divide opinion?

JAY MAZOOMDAAR

NEW DELHI, JULY 27

THE DEALS have been inked. Starting in August, four male and four female African cheetahs will be imported from Namibia, and another 12 from South Africa, for soft release in a compartmentalised enclosure ready at Kuno National Park in Madhya Pradesh to establish the cheetah into its "historical range". However, as underlined by the Supreme Court, introduction, and not reintroduction, would be the right term for the project since African cheetahs could not have ever roamed Kuno.

Phased releases

Once cheetahs arrive in Kuno, the plan is to keep male coalitions (groups) and individual females in separate but adjoining compartments "so that they are able to know each other" before release. The enclosure will be stocked with natural prey to ensure that the animals get accustomed to hunting Indian prev species before their release.

Radio-collared male coalitions will be released first after 1-2 months. The presence of females in the enclosure, the project's Action Plan says, will ensure that the males do not wander too far away "after their exploration instinct is satiated".

In the next phase, the radio-collared females will be released, 1-4 weeks after the males, depending on how the males settle down in the new environment. If any animal tends to get into an undesirable environment, it will be brought back.

Target milestones

If all goes well, the population should reach its limit of 21 within Kuno in about 15 years. During this period, a few other smaller cheetah reserves will be created in Rajasthan and elsewhere in MP. For at least five years and up to 10 years, fresh supply of cheetahs will continue from Africa.

The hard boundaries of Kuno National Park abutting human habitation will be secured through proper fencing, if needed, at least during the initial years. Once the greater Kuno landscape is secured and restored, the largest population is projected to go up to 36 cheetahs în 30-40 years.

Is that enough?

Not really. The project's Population Viability Analysis has shown "high probability of longterm cheetah persistence" within populations that exceed 50 individuals, or when smaller populations are managed as a (inter-connected) meta-population.

Even the largest projected population falls short of that viability threshold, and there is not much natural connectivity to speak of for cheetahs to travel from one habitat to another.

The solution is to borrow the South African model that periodically translocates individual animals from one fenced-off reserve to another for maintaining genetic diversity.

So, what's the problem

Creating and maintaining a few small "island populations" is not quite the same as the popular idea of bringing back the cheetah that once roamed free in the Indian wild. The biggest challenge facing conservation in India is how to maintain habitat connectivity that keeps meta-populations self-sufficient (genetically viable) to perform their ecological roles.

On the other hand, the model of establishing populations that will depend on human intervention for survival effectively reduces protected areas to glorified open zoos. The cheetah model, worry experts, may pave the way for wider acceptance of such compromises.

The cheetah project also promises to benefit endangered grassland species, such as the endangered Indian wolf and the near-extinct proach of conservation, multiple species in a forest(tiger reserve, for instance) are protected in the name of a flagship species (ie tiger). There has been no justification, though, as to why one must introduce an exotic replacement for an extinct species to save indigenous species. Wolves, for example, are the keystone great Indian bustard (GIB). In the umbrella-ap-

some of which are planned to be shifted to Kuno National Park. Valmik Thapar/'Land of the Cheetah species in Nauradehi and would have to compete with cheetahs. The majestic GIB is a potential prey for the cheetah. In fact, the project excluded Jaisalmer's Desert National Park because "putting the cheetah in with the bustard cannot be contemplated at all, because of the threat to this most gravely endangered bird". And yet, it recommended erstwhile GIB habitats for the cheetah, in effect denying the bird any chance of habitat recovery.

Ultimately, any experiment to build any wild population, experts note, is fraught with uncertainties and must have compelling conservation imperatives, such as building a backup stock of Asiatic lions, long isolated in Gir national park where epidemics or natural calamities may send them the cheetah way.

Not lion vs cheetah

A number of conservationists are riled by the research records that "SARS-CoV-2-positive environmental samples, including cages, carts, and freezers, were associated with activities concentrated in the southwest corner of the market" — the same section where live

what they term "wilful contempt of the Supreme Court" that in April 2013 set a sixmonth deadline for shifting lions to Kuno. In fact, a contempt case was dismissed in 2018 after the government assured the Supreme Court that its order would be followed. Many blame the Gujarat government for stubbornly refusing to share lions even after its review and curative petitions were dismissed by the SC.

Instead, Kuno is getting cheetahs ostensibly to serve a host of grassland ecosystem services, all of which could be served by lions, an apex species. In fact, the cheetah project is open to introduction of lions to Kuno after the cheetah population settles down. But the government's draft 25-year plan for Project Lion focuses on assisted natural dispersal with no scope for relocation outside Gujarat.

Yet, it is not about the competing interests of two wild species but India's misplaced conservation priorities. The critics of the cheetah project concede that introducing even an exotic subspecies of the long extinct Asiatic cheetah in India evokes powerful nostalgia. But. they caution, India's conservation priority should be saving what can still be saved. The longing to relive the cheetah's past should not jeopardise the lion's future.

2 studies reinforce Covid's Wuhan market origin

SOHINIGHOSH

AHMEDABAD, JULY 27

TWO COMPANION papers published in Science magazine on July 26 indicate that the Covid-19 pandemic "most likely began with at least two separate zoonotic transmissions starting in November 2019", and that SARS-CoV-2 emerged via the live wildlife trade in China, with the Huanan Seafood Wholesale Market in Wuhan being the likely early epicentre.

The two studies were first released online on February 26 this year but were since awaiting peer review. One paper, 'The Huanan Seafood Wholesale Market in Wuhan was the early epicentre of the COVID-19 pandemic' (Worobey et al), mapped geo locations of 155 of the initial 174 cases, and found that the clustering in December around the Huanan market contrasts with the pattern of widely dispersed cases across Wuhan by early January through mid-February 2020 – indicating that the cases flowed outward from the market.

The second paper, The molecular epidemiology of multiple zoonotic origins of SARS-CoV-2' (Pekar et al), through simulations of SARS-CoV-2-like epidemics combined with genomic data, concludes that "as with other coronaviruses, SARS-CoV-2's emergence likely resulted from multiple zoonotic events" (spread of germs from animals to humans).

Related findings

The molecular epidemiology paper argues that the paradox of genomic diversity in the early days (before February 2020) is best explained by rejecting a single-introduction origin of the pandemic from one lineage, and instead considering that "at least two separate zoonotic transmissions, in which lineage A and B progenitor viruses were both circulating in non-human mammals prior to their introduction into humans" occurred.

The companion paper on the Huanan market epicentre notes that "plausible intermediate wildlife hosts of SARS-CoV-2 progenitor viruses, including red foxes, hog badgers and common raccoon dogs, were sold live at the... market up until at least November of 2019". Through spatial analyses within the market, multiple failed introductions of SARS-CoV-2", which means the virus could have been in circulation in the human population without being noticed.

NEW RESEARCH

The market epicentre paper records that the centre point of the 11 lineage B cases was 1.95 km from the market, and the two A lineage cases for which information location was available were both reportedly residing nearby. It deduces that it is likely that "during the early likely in mid-November 2019, and the introduction of lineage A occurred within days to weeks of this event." Also, "there were likely epidemic lineage A was, like lineage B, disseminating outward from the...market into the surrounding neighbourhoods."

Unanswered questions The Huanan market paper acknowledges that a crucial question that remains unanswered is the events upstream of the market prior to transmission from the market. The exact circumstances at the market too remain obscure, and direct evidence of an intermediate infected animal at the market or at a location connected with the supply chain, is missing.

The authors acknowledge that precise latitude and longitude coordinates of all cases were not available, with many cases missing the date of onset of symptoms as well. Of the 174 cases in Hubei province in December 2019, geolocations of 155 could be reliably extracted. One of the papers hypothesizes that the possible source of introduction of lineage B was a seafood vendor at the market, even though there is no published genomic data from the sample of this patient. The assumption is based on the fact that an environmental sample from the stall this vendor operated was detected with lineage B.

Kerala Church: old lobbies and new row over the way Mass is offered

SHAJU PHILIP

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM, JULY 27

THE SYRO-MALABAR Catholic Church, Kerala's most prominent church, is witnessing an unprecedented controversy over the Vatican's directive to follow a uniform procedure for offering Mass. The Vatican has asked Ernakulam Archbishop Antony Kariyil to step down as he had failed to follow the directive, which all other dioceses under the Church have been doing since the end of last year.

The Mass & procedures

The Church Synod in 1999 introduced a uniform procedure: The clergy would offer the initial part of the Mass facing the faithful, and the rest facing the altar and inner sanctum. The celebrant would turn to the faithful at the end of the Mass to give a final blessing. Until then, various dioceses had followed different procedures. Some bishops would offer the entire session of the Mass facing the faithful, some other dioceses would offer the entire Mass facing the inner sanctum, and some others would follow a mix of both.

The lack of uniformity came to prominence during the pandemic. When all churches were shut down as part of Covid-19 protocols, various dioceses started livestreaming of Mass, which showed the different ways Mass was being offered within the same Church.

The Vatican took notice of the prevailing different liturgical practices in various dioceses, and urged the Syro-Malabar Synod to go for a uniform procedure. Accordingly, Syro-Malabar Catholic Church Head Archbishop George Alencherry issued a directive last year, paving the way for a uniform procedure for Mass from November 28, 2021 in all dioceses in Kerala

Ernakulam Archbishop Antony Kariyil, asked by the Vatican to step down and elsewhere.

Ernakulam church defiance

In the archdiocese of Ernakulam, which is virtually the seat of the Syro-Malabar Church, priests were opposed to the new method. They used to offer Mass facing the faithful throughout the ritual. Bishop Kariyil stood by their wishes.

There is another controversy. Even before the Mass row, most priests and a section of the laity were opposed to Alencherry because of a land deal, allegedly involving Rs 90 crore, in which he is facing a criminal case.

Rituals & lobbies

For over a century, the Church has witnessed disputes over rituals, including the Mass. While one section wanted the Syrian Eastern tradition of liturgy to be followed, another section wanted the rituals customised for Indians.

By the 1980s, these two lobbies had rallied behind two archdioceses. One lobby, under the archdiocese of Changanassery, argued for a conservative, Eastern Syrian liturgy, and subsequent Chaldeanization of the Kerala Church. The other lobby, under the Archdiocese of Ernakulam, took a more liberal approach. Bishops in the Church became part of one of these lobbies or the

Even as the dispute continued, the Syro-Malabar Church was declared an autonomous Church under Rome in 1992. The Church Synod in 1999 decided to implement a uniform method of offering Mass, but that decision could not be implemented due to the stiff resistance from a section of bishops and priests. They continued as a lobby under the archdiocese of Ernakulam.

Power play

Over the last two decades, the Syro-Malabar Church has undergone major changes. The lobby of bishops under Ernakulam archdiocese, which argued against conservative liturgical practices, weakened. In 2011, Alancherry was democratically elected the Church Head for the first time, voted in by a majority among 44 bishops. Alencherry belongs to the lobby under the archdiocese of Changanassery. Since then, several new bishops were appointed and new dioceses too were carved out, the bishops in which owed allegiance to Alencherry.

History of dispute

One of the Eastern Catholic Churches under Rome, the Syro-Malabar Church claims its legacy as being from evangelist St Thomas in the first century AD. Until the arrival of the Europeans, they were under Chaldean Church in the Persian region.

After European forces started missionary work in the Indian subcontinent, the Catholic Church here came under the influence of Latin Rite or Western Liturgical practices. Towards the end of the 19th century, Rome allowed partial restoration of the autonomy of the Syro-Malabar Church and local priests were made bishops, instead of Europeans. That led to the emergence of different views about the identity of the Church, as well as the liturgy.

England will enjoy Euros final, says Williamson

England's Alessia Russo celebrates scoring their third goal.

London: England are one win away from a first major trophy and Leah Williamson knows the job is far from done but the captain hopes the team can inspire the home crowd to not only get behind them but also enjoy the moment.

Hosts England thrashed Sweden, the highest-ranked team in Europe, 4-0 on Tuesday to reach the final. Sarina Wiegman's side have been in red-hot form, scoring 20 goals in the tournament and conceding only once in five games. "I know I have a job to do, but who says I can't enjoy those moments and the team can't enjoy those moments? That's what I hope, that we are giving off that vibe," Williamson told reporters on Wednesday. "It's genuine and the crowd can enjoy that with us. I hope that the crowd at Wembley is going to have as good a time as we are going to have because I promise you, we

Neymar transfer trial date set Anti-doping bill gets approved

Barcelona: Brazil forward Neymar will stand trial in Spain a month before the World Cup for alleged irregularities involving his transfer to Barcelona in 2013. Neymar's parents, former Barcelona president Sandro Rosell and both the club and Brazilian team Santos are also set to go on trial after a complaint brought by Brazilian investment group DIS regarding the amount of the player's transfer. The trial is scheduled to start on Oct. 17, nearly a month before the World Cup opens on Nov. 21 in Qatar. Neymar and his father, who is also his agent, face corruption charges and a prison sentence of up to two years, which would not likely carry any prison time. They also face a fine of 10 million euros ($10.1 million). Rosell faces five years in prison for fraud and corruption charges, plus a fine of 10 million euros ($10.1 mil-

New Delhi: Lok Sabha on Wednesday passed a bill which seeks to provide a statutory framework for the functioning of the National Anti-Doping Agency and the National Dope Testing Laboratory. The National Anti-Doping Bill was passed by a voice vote along with certain official amendments moved by the government. Responding to debate on the bill, Sports and Youth Affairs Minister Anurag Thakur said it will promote sports and protect the interest of sportspersons. He said it will also help enhance dope testing facilities in the country. The bill is intended to provide a "statutory framework for the operation of the National Anti-Doping Agency (NADA), the National Dope Testing Laboratory (NDTL) and other dope testing laboratories, and for the creation of a National Board for Anti-Doping in Sports to strengthen anti-doping activities in sport".

Standing still and delivering: Gill sharpens his ODI game

Reducing shuffle has helped Test opener make an impact in ODIs

ABHISHEK PUROHIT JULY 27

HEADING INTO the West Indies tour, Shubman Gill had played all of three ODIs spread across two years, the last of them coming in 2020. He's since gone on to establish himself as one of India's most promising Test batsmen; he also enjoyed his most productive Indian Premier League season yet earlier this year, for Gujarat

But he'd not exactly been among the foremost prospects for the 50-over national side, and but for the absence of so many regulars, would likely have missed this trip to the Caribbean. At the end of the threematch contest, though, with three solid scores, he has forced himself into the discussion about the future make-up of the Indian ODI team.

With competitors Ishan Kishan and Ruturaj Gaikwad in the same squad, Gill didn't squander his chances. He did give away his starts in the first two ODIs, but importantly, showed signs of adapting in the third game on Wednesday; he looked intent on playing a longer innings until the rain arrived halfway into the Indian innings.

In the first ODI Gill had displayed his potential in this format. In largely benign conditions at the Queen's Park Oval in Trinidad, he tore into an inaccurate West Indies bowling attack in the powerplay, making them pay almost every time they erred in line.

Ahead of IPL 2022, Gill had told this paper that he had made a conscious effort to cut down on the trigger shuffle in his stance when the ball wasn't doing much, which is often the case in white-ball cricket.

'That (reducing the shuffle) was one adjustment I made after talking to our batting coach. I felt I should restrict my initial movement a bit. (If) the ball doesn't swing much, the lesser the movement in your body, the better it will be for you," Gill had said.

The 22-year old anyway likes to stay beside the line of the ball, and that was apparent in the freedom with which he played the square punches and cuts in the series opener. He had raced to 64 off just 53 deliveries, when that momentary lapse in concentration happened.

He turned the ball to square leg, and started jogging for a single. He took his eyes off the ball for an instant and the advancing Nicholas Pooran seized on the opening. By the time Gill belatedly tried to hurry towards the non-striker's end, the direct hit Shubman Gill has forced himself into the discussion about the future make-up of the Indian ODI team with his performances in West Indies.

New to the format

He was slightly more circumspect in the second match as India were chasing 312, but began to take some risks against the slower bowlers. He swept Akeal Hosein for four as soon as he came on. However, a couple of overs later, he tried an uncharacteristic scoop over the wicketkeeper off the medium pace of Kyle Mayers, and only popped the ball back to the bowler. It is a shot he hardly plays even in T20.

Gill is new to the format at this level and it felt as if he was trying too hard at times to make the most of the field restrictions and the following few overs. He's said that run-scoring has become harder in this series as the ball has got older, so going big at the start wasn't without sense.

But it did seem to get to him on occasion if a boundary didn't come for a bit; he'd shake his head in visible disappointment if he timed the ball to a fielder in the inner ring, something he's been known to do earlier in T20.

But in the final game, there was more discipline in his approach. Unless the ball was angled into the pads or really wide outside off, he didn't go for the boundary. In fact, he hit only three fours in reaching his fifty, which took 60 balls.

Gill didn't let the leg-spinner Hayden Walsh settle though. He took a look at him for a couple of balls, and as soon as he saw some flight, Gill stepped out to launch Walsh onto the roof beyond long-on.

After the rain interruption, which stretched for two and a half hours, Gill brought out the destructive side of his game with the match cut to 40 overs a side. Out came the slog, the big sweep, and the shortarm pull, which he has of late attempted to intentionally play in the air in white-ball to maximise his chances of a boundary. It is only one series, of course, but at the very least, Gill has made a convincing case to be given more of them in this format.

Pakistan battle to save Test as Lanka set record target

ASSOCIATED PRESS

GALLE, JULY 27

SRI LANKA set Pakistan a record target of 508 and then restricted them to 89-1 to keep alive their hopes of a series-levelling victory in the second test on Wednesday.

The hosts declared their second innings on 360-8 but were robbed of precious time as only six overs could be played in the final session before bad light stopped play.

Opener Imam-ul-Haq was batting on 46 at stumps with Pakistan 419 runs behind the improbable target. The onus would be on Pakistan skipper Babar Azam, batting on 26, to help his team bat out the final three sessions for a draw that would also secure a 1-0 series victory for the tourists.

West Indies own the record for the highest successful fourth innings chase in tests having overwhelmed a target of 418 in a 2003 test in Antigua. Earlier, Dhananjaya de Silva smashed 109, his ninth test hundred, to help Sri Lanka consolidate their position at the Galle International Stadium. Home captain Dimuth Karunaratne (61) braved lower back pain to combine in a 126-run stand with de Silva after Sri Lanka resumed on 176-5.

After the barren first hour, Nauman Ali struck when Abdullah Shafique took a sharp, reflex catch at short leg to remove Karunaratne, who became the sixth Sri Lankan batter to score 6000 test runs. De Silva brought up his hundred with a boundary off Mohammad Nawaz and got good support from tailender Ramesh Mendis who remained not out on 45. Sri Lanka declared immediately after de Silva ran himself out. Shafique and Imam began well for Pakistan before Prabath Jayasuriya snapped the 42-run opening stand. Shafique charged out against the spinner but could not connect well sending the ball to mid-off where Dunith Wellalage ran sideways while eyes on the ball to take a tumbling catch.

BRIEF SCORES: Sri Lanka 378 and 176/5 in 50 overs (Dhananjaya de Silva 109, Dimuth Karunaratne 61; Naseem Shah 2/44) lead Pakistan 231 and 89/1(Imamul-Haq 47 batting, Babar Azam batting 26; Prabath Jayasuriya 1/46) by 418 runs.

The onus would be on Pakistan skipper Babar Azam, batting on 26, to help his team bat out the final three sessions for a draw that would also secure a 1-0 series victory for the tourists.

Manpreet, Sindhu named flagbearers

PV Sindhu and hockey team captain Manpreet Singh were named flagbearers of the Indian contingent for Thursday's opening ceremony. Olympic champion Neeraj Chopra, also the defending champion in the Commonwealth Games having won the gold in Gold Coast four years ago, was expected to be the flagbearer. But a groin injury following his silver medal at the World Championships forced him to pullout and the Indian Olympic Association picked Sindhu and Manpreet to be the flagbearers. The organisers have decided that each nation must name two flagbearers, one male and one female.

Anas included in 4x400m relay team

National record holder quarter-miler Mohammed Anas Yahiya has been included in India's 4x400m relay team in place of an injured athlete, the national federation said. Anas, who was not named in the initial squad of 37 announced last month by the Athletics Federation of India (AFI), replaced Rajesh Ramesh in the relay team for the Games which begin on Thursday. Anas was a part of the Indian 4x400m relay quartet that failed to qualify for the finals of the recent World Championships in Eugene, USA after finishing 12th overall in the heat races.

Delhi HC clears judoka's participation

In a big boost to India's judo contingent, the Delhi High Court cleared Jasleen Singh of all misconduct charges, paving the way for his participation at the Commonwealth Games. The High Court has given a decision in favor of Jasleen and he will now travel to Birmingham," IOA secretary general Rajeev Mehta said. Jasleen, a gold medallist at the Commonwealth Championships two years ago, was dropped after he was allegedly involved in a brawl during a training camp in Spain. He, however, was later given a clean chit by his accusers, a group of Spanish women.

Nat'l coach, doctor move out of village

Indian women's boxing team head coach Bhaskar Bhatt has moved out of his room at the Games Village to accommodate Olympic bronze medallist Lovlina Borgohain's personal coach Sandhya Gurung. Bhatt has checked into a designated Games hotel nearby. It was a voluntary move by the national team head coach, who ensured that team's only Olympic medallist pugilist is in good mental frame with her coach around with her.

From asylum seeker to England's medal hope

Gym owner with Indian roots, Gyan Singh Cheema, helped Cyrille Tchatchet live a sporting dream in adopted country

EXPRESS IN BIRMINGHAM

SHIVANI NAIK

CYRILLE TCHATCHET never got sullen in his usually week-long silences after disagreements with Gyan Singh Cheema, the weightlifting coach, who had taken him in and offered to help with his chosen sport at Birmingham. Stoic, yes. "He always dressed sharp, was strong-minded and spoke his opinions, and if we debated, he would be quiet for a week, then return and say 'maybe, ok, let's give it a try. He never forgot to be a proud sportsman who deeply loves weightlifting, no matter how dire his situation," Cheema recalls of the curious boy who walked into his Warley weightlifting club at Smethwick near Bromwich, one evening.

Dire would only begin to describe this unique situation, and Cheema, himself an immigrant to Birmingham in the 80s, stresses he himself wouldn't have been able to stay so poised through the tumult.

As a 19-year-old, Tchatchet came to the Glasgow Commonwealth Games representing Cameroon. And never returned home. He slept under a bridge for a while, often contemplated suicide, he has said in the past, and was coaxed to call the suicide helpline by some samaritans in the region. The police came after his call, his suicide urges were curbed, and the police custody kickstarted his asylum case though it would take a further two years for him to be legally allowed to stay in the country. Tchatchet would also eventually pursue studies to become a mental health nurse.

Cheema says he knows of many from the developing world choosing to disappear in western countries under the pretext of sport. living the uncertain life of a refugee before processing asylum formalities. And forgetting sport along the way. Tchatchet didn't forget.

He wound up from Glasgow to Birmingham after some rough times with the authorities who tried to deport him several times."But he knew the pathway and his rights in the UK. He stayed patient. What surprised me was he didn't quit sport."

Eight years on, Cyrille Tchatchet will represent England at the Commonwealth Games in Birmingham. And might well be fighting for bronze in the 96 kg category, against India's Vikas Thakur, a lifter Cheema has been mentoring on competition techniques for the last few days here. Tchatchet wants it more badly, Cheema, a former Asian Games medallist settled in Birmingham, warns with a guffaw, adding he's split because "heart is with India. But my boys them both.'

Tchatchet's journey to donning England colours, was iron-hearted in ways that make mere pulling of a very heavy bar over the head seem fairly ordinary. "Accommodation for refugees wasn't great. Just a little room, don't know how good the food was and if he even ate everyday. Plenty of times, we would accompany him to the railway station, and all the lads would have fish and chips with him, knowing he hadn't eaten," Cheema recalls.

The teen had walked in after being told at Birmingham University where he was registered, that Warley was the best gymnasium for serious lifters, around. He had found good legal aid and a helpful lady solicitor who guided him well. "Can you imagine, finding yourself fighting for right to live in a country, and achieving in sport? It takes a strong heart," Cheema says of the 4 year Tchatchet spent at his facility.

When he graduated to Middlesex University, Cheema would help find him a place to live in London using his network of lifters, though it was the least he could do for a young man in whom he saw potential. "You could see he wanted to do sport. Dedicated, technically strong. But he kept lifting best in each class and won the British U23s. They didn't give him the title though, but took it away after the ceremony, since he didn't have a passport. It hurt him, but he stayed on the straight path.

"Another lifter from Cameroon had also stayed on. He chose short-cuts and got married to a local lass, but faced many problems. And he never managed to stay on in sport after early competitions in Derby. Cyrille stayed," he says. The deportation threats made life difficult for him, but he found a steady totem at the Warley club. "Sport kept him going, kept him occupied and competition and winning gave him a pathway though sporting authorities didn't really help him initially.'

Always self-assured, clear about the manner in which he would seek citizenship, Tchatchet confidently pursued sport, putting all his screw-eyed focus into literally lifting the heavy weight of existence. He kept trying to bring his mother here, but failed attempts wouldn't bog him down. "He would talk about his problems and as ethnic minority odds were stacked against him, but his shoulders never dropped," Cheema recalls, as a pair of uncles from France were the only family he met for two years.

The tunnel with the proverbial light, would pass through neon signs of takeaways he couldn't always afford in his refugees allowance. Debates on technique with Cheema, a veteran of the sport, got interesting. "I like young athletes with strong opinions. Cyrille was never a 'yes sir' man. If he didn't agree, he'd tell me 'you are distracting me, man' and then be quiet for a week before realising and returning. He was quite educated and intelligent. Excellent attitude," Cheema says. Tchatchet's short pulls as he was very fast under the bar would often snap a shoulder twitch or cause knee injuries, and Cheema would keep drilling on about extending the arms more. "Those disagreements on sport told me he cared about his sport."

"To me, helping a star shine through the darkness was most satisfying. We sportspeople love it when we guide winners." At Cheema's private training room at Council leisure centre, the old doyen would hand him the keys to practice any time of the day. "We remove all obstacles for elite athletes. He showed he wanted to be elite." Cheema though advised him on basics like a father figure. "Get your graduation, find a job, I'd tell him. I told him he has to get through this struggle, it's not going to be easy."

Tchatchet would inch closer to the passport by 2020, and the International Weightlifting Federation would induct him in the Refugee team for Tokyo Olympics, with his University and Team GB federation taking over his training. "We moved apart, but I can say he did his best lifting improvements under me," Cheema says. "Now he's a big name."

Cheema, who rues never winning an Ariuna, and has been helping Indian lifting teams since 2014 CWG preps offering his base to acclimatise, says just thinking back to Tchatchet's struggle tires him. "I'm an old man now and Indians winning gives me joy. But this boy should be hailed. In that situation, anyone would think-earning bread to eat and a place to live. Sport would be the last thing on anyone's mind. Not Cyrille Tchatchet. Boy stayed.'

To get into rhythm, Harmanpreet swings a golf club at nets session

SHIVANI NAIK

HARMANPREET KAUR was timing the ball sweetly at the Mosley Cricket training ground, two days before the Commonwealth Games kicked off with the first women's T20 competition. But it was in her warm-up that the Indian captain made her intentions clear.

There was no net bowler or throwdown specialist around. In fact, there wasn't even a bat in sight. Instead, a long golf driver, bent at the edge and gleaming silver, caught streaks of the Solihull sunlight, well before Edgbaston's crackling opener pitting a fearless India shrugging their shoulders in a 'so what' manner against world champions Australia.

Later in the net cage, Harmanpreet swapped the driver for a bat, and hit them far and nicely chunky, looking ready for the big battle ahead. "She uses the golf swing simulation for hip-shoulder dissociation. It's her own unique thing," explained Team India physio Anand Date. "Harman has a natural swing, and it helps her get into rhythm."

A dozen-odd nice drives, arms freed and shoulders unlocked with the hip and shoulders getting into proper six-hitting motion, Harman proceeded to the nets.

The 171 in the 2017 World Cup semifinal is a thing of the ancient past, though the Australians might not forget that 50-over blitz in a hurry. India start as firm underdogs against the domineering Aussies, but the team has carefully tossed the pressure on their opponents by casually hinting that they don't exactly quake in their boots at the prospect of the opener. Smriti Mandhana on departure and later Yastika Bhatia on arrival shrugged away the reputation differential. It's T20, and the Aussies better respect the inherent unpredictability, they suggested.

You know, you never know.

The Indian team gave the first peek into Indian CWG jerseys - the BCCI logo missing on this rare occasion.

Camped at a hotel with just the beach volleyball teams for company, it's the closest they'll experience a 'Games village' as accommodation is fragmented across the West Midlands for the Birmingham Games. The team flew in from Bengaluru and were upgraded to first class, one of few perks of being cricketers. Not all sports could afford that.

But otherwise, they have been left to themselves. The opening ceremony is a no- 10.30 am. And the team is enjoying the rare go with the Indians playing the next day at instance of sharing rooms with fixed slots allotted. Some of the support staff, never trimmed for international tours, was checked into a hotel at their own cost, and the young team is in a good mind space hoping to hit Edgbaston with a bang.

A day before the Indians, the Barbados team was at Mosley - equally chattery and hitting long. But blasting music, more laidback before the women open their campaign. South Africa are arriving without two top names, and Australia are rusty. England as hosts are all primed, but it's the Indians who will bring in the crowds - especially in the second pool game against Pakistan, with the local communities jointly excited to watch that faceoff.

Yastika enjoying new role

Yastika was told on match-eve during India's recent tour of Sri Lanka that she would keep wickets. She had a faint whiff of it, but was simply glad that an extra batter could be accommodated if she strapped on the big gloves, and now an extra bowler can walk into the team with her taking on the additional mantle.

"Since childhood, I've loved to keep wickets. I love the feel of the big gloves in the hands," she says, adding that she continues sending videos to Kiran More, who's helping her log in rapid improvements.

She's undergone some serious mental strengthening work under Mugdha Bavare, who also works with Shreyas Iyer. "I wasn't happy after the last tour but there were continuous matches. So, I began working on the mental aspect besides recovery, fitness and running techniques." Yastika has put in work into her running technique, though she is some way from haring about like Smriti. "I feel lighter on the field now and match focus is high," she says joking that she's also a "free girl" now, having wrapped up her graduation.

Keeping wickets has also helped her get a wider lens affixed on the game. And like her idol MS Dhoni, she wants to bring astuteness in her game reading and aggression in her batting. But otherwise, it's a lot of keeping the atmosphere light and playing pranks on Shafali Verma. "Bohot dinon ke baad roommates ko jhelna ho raha hai (We are getting roommates after a long time). So we are enjoying," she laughs.

Commonwealth Games might not be the World Cups cricket prizes traditionally, but the CWG medal holds the potential to push women's cricket into the next orbit.

PML-QLEADER Chaudhry Parvez Elahi was sworn in as chief minister of Punjab by Pakistan President early Wednesday morning, in a boost to ousted premier Imran Khan whose party approached a top court seeking dismissal of Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's government. Elahi, the 76-year-old leader backed by Khan's Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) party, was sworn in at the directions of the Supreme Court which dealt a big blow to Prime Minister Sharif-led coalition by removing his son as the executive head of the country's politically crucial province.

Russia cuts gas flow to Germany again

THE NEW YORK TIMES KYIV JIJI Y27

EXPLOSIONS LIT up the sky over the southern city of Kherson overnight, and as dawn broke on Wednesday it was clear that Ukrainian long-range missiles had again found their target: a bridge that is critical in the Russian effort to resupply the forces charged with holding the port city.

At the same time, dozens of Russian missiles struck targets across the southern regions of Odesa and Mykolaiv, hitting port and transport infrastructure, two leisure centres, houses, a parking lot and two restaurants, according to Ukraine's southern military command.

The Russian Ministry of Defence said its forces struck Ukrainian military strongholds, killing scores of soldiers, and other key Ukrainian infrastructure. The claims could not be verified. But it was clear that both armies were trying to limit their opponents' logistical operations. Meanwhile, Gazprom, the Russian energy giant, on Wednesday followed through with its announcement earlier this week that it would further

US Senate passes $280 bn industrial policy Bill

THE NEW YORK TIMES WASHINGTON, JULY 27

THE SENATE on Wednesday passed an expansive $280 billion bill aimed at building up US's manufacturing and technological edge to counter China, embracing in an overwhelming bipartisan vote the most significant government intervention in industrial policy in decades.

The legislation reflected a remarkable and rare consensus in an otherwise polarised Congress in favour of forging a long-term strategy to address the nation's intensifying geopolitical rivalry with Beijing, centered around investing federal money into cutting-edge technologies and innovations to bolster the nation's industrial, technological and military strength. It passed on a lopsided bipartisan vote of 64 to 33, with 17 Republicans voting in support.

"No country's government – even a strong country like ours can afford to sit on the sidelines," Senator Chuck Schumer, Democrat of New York and the majority leader who helped to spearhead the measure, said in an interview. "I think it's a sea change that will stay." The legislation will next be considered by the House, where it is expected to pass with some Republican support. President Biden, who has backed the package for over a year, could sign it into law as early as this week.

Trailing in PM race, Sunak pitches energy bill tax cuts

REUTERS LONDON, JULY 27

RISHI SUNAK, trailing in the race to become Britain's next prime minister, pledged on Wednesday to temporarily scrap taxes on energy bills paid by households as part of a "winter plan" to ease the cost-of-living crisis. The year-long hiatus on paying value-added tax (VAT) on energy bills would save the average household 160 pounds ($193), former finance minister Sunak said.

The pledge marks a change of tack for Sunak, who has repeatedly emphasised the need to restore discipline to Britain's public finances. Some economists warned the plans would benefit the better-off more than poor households. "This temporary

Thai businesses cash in on cannabis, from milk tea to toothpaste

CHAYUT SETBOONSARNG & JUARAWEE KITTISILPA BANGKOK, JULY 27

THAI BUSINESSES are cashing in with cannabis-infused products like toothpaste, tea, soaps and snacks after the government legalised the plant and its extract this year, generating a wave of interest in the drug.

"It gives me a deep and comfortable sleep," said Pakpoom Charoenbunna, 32, who buys a cannabis-infused drink from his regular milk-tea vendor Thailand became the first Southeast Asian country to legalise marijuana in 2018 for medical use and research.

Last month, Thailand decriminalised the entire plant. Dropping cannabis from its narcotics list has led to an explosion of recreational use. Officially, commercial products approved by the food and drug regulator can contain cannabidiol (CBD), a chemical in cannabis that does not make users high.

But the regulator limits the content of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) - the active ingredient that gets users high - in any cannabis product to just 0.2%. Thailand has a long history of medicine to relieve aches and pains. Innovators are now comusing cannabis in traditional ing up with new ideas.

Surawut Samphant, owner of the Channherb cannabis shop, has created a toothpaste. "One of its ingredients is cannabis sativa seed oil, which contains CBD," he said.

Surawat said the toothpaste helped with gum care and one satisfied customer said it worked for him. "I have receding gums and sometimes they get infected," said Nikom Rianthong who has been using the toothpaste for two months

"It solved my problems," he said, adding he won't be going back to other brands. The owner of the Kanomsiam dessert shop, Kreephet Hanpongpipat, has long sold pandan-leaf flavoured dishes, but a year ago incorporated cannabis leaf to draw in new customers. Kreephet said his customers say the cannabisinfused desserts help them get a good sleep. Health minister Anutin

Charnvirakul, the main driver behind the legalisation of cannabis for medical purposes, estimates the industry could be worth over $3 billion within five years. "I want to see people getting rich out of doing these products in a positive way," he told

"My policy on cannabis is poses and healthcare. That's all. We can't encourage the use of cannabis in other ways." Producers of THC-rich mari-only focusing on medical purjuana have taken advantage of the push to promote medical marijuana and stalls selling pot have sprung up around the country. Anutin said that there were public health laws that can prevent recreational use while a cannabis bill is being deliberated in Parliament, Kreephet said there needed to be more public education on the benefits and dangers of cannabis so it can be used safely.
